²⁶ When they had sung the hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. ²⁷ And Jesus said to them, “You will all become deserters; for it is written,

‘I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered.’

²⁸ But after I am raised up, I will go before you to Galilee.” ²⁹ Peter said to him, “Even though all become deserters, I will not.” ³⁰ Jesus said to him, “Truly I tell you, this day, this very night, before the cock crows twice, you will deny me three times.” ³¹ But he said vehemently, “Even though I must die with you, I will not deny you.” And all of them said the same.

³² They went to a place called Gethsemane; and he said to his disciples, “Sit here while I pray.” ³³ He took with him Peter and James and John, and began to be distressed and agitated. ³⁴ And he said to them, “I am deeply grieved, even to death; remain here, and keep awake.” ³⁵ And going a little farther, he threw himself on the ground and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him. ³⁶ He said, “Abba,^b Father, for you all things are possible; remove this cup from me; yet, not what I want, but what you want.” ³⁷ He came and found them sleeping; and he said to Peter, “Simon, are you asleep? Could you not keep awake one hour? ³⁸ Keep awake and pray that you may not come into the time of trial;^c the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.” ³⁹ And again he went away and prayed, saying the same words. ⁴⁰ And once more he came and found them sleeping, for their eyes were very heavy; and they did not know what to say to him. ⁴¹ He came a third time and said to them, “Are you still sleeping and taking your rest? Enough! The hour has come; the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. ⁴² Get up, let us be going. See, my betrayer is at hand.”

⁴³ Immediately, while he was still speaking, Judas, one of the twelve, arrived; and with him there was a crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests, the scribes, and the elders. ⁴⁴ Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “The one I will kiss is the man; arrest him and lead him away under

^a Other ancient authorities add new

^b Aramaic for Father

^c Or into temptation

as a judgment saying against Judas. See 8.31; 1 Cor 15.3–4. 22–25: Early Christians celebrated a communal meal commemorating Jesus’s death; see 1 Cor 11.23–26. 22: My body, the metaphor refers to both Jesus’s own flesh and the “body” of his followers (see 1 Cor 12.12–27; Rom 12.4). 24: Blood of the covenant, which sealed the people’s relationship with God (see Ex 24.6–8; Jer 31.31–34). The phrase “for many” echoes 10.45; for a death atoning for sins of the people, see 2 Macc 7.37–38; 4 Macc 6:28–29. 25: That day, See 13.32.

14.26–52: Jesus on the Mount of Olives. 14.26–31: Jesus predicts his disciples’ desertion (Mt 26.31–35; Lk 22.31–34; Jn 13.36–38). 27: See Zech 13.7. Shepherd . . . sheep, see 6.34n.; 14.50. 28: Galilee, see 1.9n. Mark’s community may have had ties to Galilee. Jesus promises to lead his disciples back to Galilee; see 16.7.

14.32–42: Jesus grapples with his destiny (Mt 26.36–46; Lk 22.39–46). 33: Peter and James and John, see 5.37n. Distressed and agitated, Jesus experiences visceral emotions as he faces death. 34: Keep awake, cf. 13.33n. 35–36: Jesus prays to be delivered from the outcome he predicted (see 8.31; 9.31; 10.33–34) but then submits to God’s will (see 3.35). Abba, Aramaic word for “father.” All things are possible, see 9.22–23; 10.27. 38: Spirit and flesh constituted two oppositional aspects of humans, or contrasts God’s spirit with human weakness (1 QH 7.24–25; 12.29–30. 41: Hour has come, see 13.32. Jesus’s death signals the dawn of God’s kingdom (see 1.14).

14.43–52: Religious officials detain Jesus (Mt 26.47–56; Lk 22.47–53; Jn 18.3–12). Ironically, Judas betrays Jesus with a gesture of friendship (see v. 17n.), while Jesus responds calmly to his violent opponents. 43: Swords and clubs, the crowd, whose enthusiastic support raised the concern of officials (cf. 11.18,32; 12.12,37), now takes guard.”⁴⁵ So when he came, he went up to him at once and said, “Rabbi!” and kissed him.⁴⁶ Then they laid hands on him and arrested him.⁴⁷ But one of those who stood near drew his sword and struck the slave of the high priest, cutting off his ear.⁴⁸ Then Jesus said to them, “Have you come out with swords and clubs to arrest me as though I were a bandit?⁴⁹ Day after day I was with you in the temple teaching, and you did not arrest me. But let the scriptures be fulfilled.”⁵⁰ All of them deserted him and fled.

⁵¹ A certain young man was following him, wearing nothing but a linen cloth. They caught hold of him,⁵² but he left the linen cloth and ran off naked.

⁵³ They took Jesus to the high priest; and all the chief priests, the elders, and the scribes were assembled.⁵⁴ Peter had followed him at a distance, right into the courtyard of the high priest; and he was sitting with the guards, warming himself at the fire.⁵⁵ Now the chief priests and the whole council were looking for testimony against Jesus to put him to death; but they found none.⁵⁶ For many gave false testimony against him, and their testimony did not agree.⁵⁷ Some stood up and gave false testimony against him, saying,⁵⁸ “We heard him say, ‘I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and in three days I will build another, not made with hands.’”⁵⁹ But even on this point their testimony did not agree.⁶⁰ Then the high priest stood up before them and asked Jesus, “Have you no answer? What is it that they testify against you?”⁶¹ But he was silent and did not answer. Again the high priest asked him, “Are you the Messiah,^a the Son of the Blessed One?”

⁶² Jesus said, “I am; and

‘you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of the Power,’ and ‘coming with the clouds of heaven.’”

⁶³ Then the high priest tore his clothes and said, “Why do we still need witnesses?⁶⁴ You have heard his blasphemy! What is your decision?” All of them condemned him as deserving death.⁶⁵ Some began to spit on him, to blindfold him, and to strike him, saying to him, “Prophecy!” The guards also took him over and beat him.

⁶⁶ While Peter was below in the courtyard, one of the servant-girls of the high priest came by.⁶⁷ When she saw Peter warming himself, she stared at him and said, “You also were with Jesus, the man from Nazareth.”

⁶⁸ But he denied it, saying, “I do not know or understand what you are talking about.” And he went out into the forecourt.^b Then the cock crowed.^c⁶⁹ And the servant-girl, on seeing him, began again to say to the bystanders, “This man is one of them.”⁷⁰ But again he denied it. Then after a little while the bystanders again said to Peter, “Certainly you are one of them; for you are a Galilean.”⁷¹ But he began to curse, and he swore an oath, “I

^a Or the Christ

^b Or gateway

^c Other ancient authorities lack Then the cock crowed

up arms against Jesus. Chief priests, the scribes, and the elders, see 8.31n. 45: Rabbi, see 9.5n. 47: Slave of the high priest, Caiaphas was high priest from 18 to 36 ce. 48: Bandit, a term also used for armed insurgents. 50: See Jesus’s prediction (14.27). 51–52: Some early interpreters connected this mysterious naked young man with the angel in the empty tomb (16.5). Others think the young man was the author’s way of reading himself into the story.

14.53–65: Jesus’s interrogation by Jewish authorities (Mt 26.57–68; cf. Lk 22.54–71; Jn 18.15–24). 53: High priest, see 14.47n. Chief priests, the elders, and the scribes, see 8.31n. 14.56: False testimony, two corroborating witnesses were required to bring a charge (Num 35.30; Deut 19.15; cf. Mt 18.16). 14.58: See 11.15–16; 13.1–2. 14.61: Jesus’s silence in the face of false accusations fits scriptural patterns, e.g., in Ps 38.12–14 and Isa 53.7. 14.61: Blessed One, a circumlocution for God. 14.62: I am, see 6.50n. As the Christ, Jesus combines Dan 7.13 with Ps 110.1 to signal the messianic power shift. See 13.26n. 14.64: Blasphemy, incurs the death penalty in biblical law (Lev 24.16). It is not clear how Jesus has profaned God’s name. 14.65: Prophecy!, a taunt indicating Jesus’s reputation as a prophet. His treatment echoes Isa 53.3–5, where God’s servant suffers abuse and scorn.

14.66–72: Peter’s threefold denial (Mt 26.69–75; Lk 22.54–62; Jn 18.15–18). 14.66: Servant-girls of the high priest, the plot expands to include members of Caiaphas’s household (see 14.47,53). 14.68: Do not know or understand, an ironic reply, since the disciples frequently misunderstand Jesus’s messianic purposes (see 4.13; 6.52;

do not know this man you are talking about.”⁷² At that moment the cock crowed for the second time. Then Peter remembered that Jesus had said to him, “Before the cock crows twice, you will deny me three times.” And he broke down and wept.

15 As soon as it was morning, the chief priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole council. They bound Jesus, led him away, and handed him over to Pilate.² Pilate asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” He answered him, “You say so.”³ Then the chief priests accused him of many things.⁴ Pilate asked him again, “Have you no answer? See how many charges they bring against you.”⁵ But Jesus made no further reply, so that Pilate was amazed.

⁶ Now at the festival he used to release a prisoner for them, anyone for whom they asked.⁷ Now a man called Barabbas was in prison with the rebels who had committed murder during the insurrection.⁸ So the crowd came and began to ask Pilate to do for them according to his custom.⁹ Then he answered them, “Do you want me to release for you the King of the Jews?”¹⁰ For he realized that it was out of jealousy that the chief priests had handed him over.¹¹ But the chief priests stirred up the crowd to have him release Barabbas for them instead.¹² Pilate spoke to them again, “Then what do you wish me to do^a with the man you call^b the King of the Jews?”¹³ They shouted back, “Crucify him!”¹⁴ Pilate asked them, “Why, what evil has he done?” But they shouted all the more, “Crucify him!”¹⁵ So Pilate, wishing to satisfy the crowd, released Barabbas for them; and after flogging Jesus, he handed him over to be crucified.

¹⁶ Then the soldiers led him into the courtyard of the palace (that is, the governor’s headquarters^c); and they called together the whole cohort.¹⁷ And they clothed him in a purple cloak; and after twisting some thorns into a crown, they put it on him.¹⁸ And they began saluting him, “Hail, King of the Jews!”¹⁹ They struck his head with a reed, spat upon him, and knelt down in homage to him.²⁰ After mocking him, they stripped him of the purple cloak and put his own clothes on him. Then they led him out to crucify him.

²¹ They compelled a passer-by, who was coming in from the country, to carry his cross; it was Simon of Cyrene, the father of Alexander and Rufus.²² Then they brought

^a Other ancient authorities read what should I do

^b Other ancient authorities lack the man you call

^c Gk the praetorium

8.17, 21; 9.32). See also 14.71. 14.72: See 14.30. Peter’s response typifies human emotion throughout the passion story (cf. 14.33–34; 15.34).

15.1–15: Jesus’s interrogation by Roman authorities (Mt 27.1–2,11–23; Lk 23.1–5,13–25; Jn 18.28–40). 15.1: Morning, the first in a series of temporal markers (see vv. 25,33,42). Chief priests . . . council, Jewish authorities, led by the “chief priests” (see vv.3,10,11,31), decide Jesus’s culpability but lack the power to act on it. Pilate, Roman prefect of Judea (26–36 CE). See Acts 3.13–14; 13.28. 15.2: King of the Jews, an ironic accusation that Jesus neither confirms nor denies. See 15.9,12,18,26. 15.5: No further reply, Jesus does not respond directly to Pilate’s inquiry (cf. 14.61; 15.2). 15.6: The release of a prisoner during Passover is unattested elsewhere. 15.7: Barabbas, identified with the insurrection but not named outside the Gospels. Both the NT (Lk 13.1; Acts 5.36–37) and Josephus mention uprisings against the Roman occupation. 15.10: In Mark’s telling, Pilate sees Jesus as less menacing than Barabbas and concludes that accusations against him stem from jealousy. Cf. Mt 27.18–25; Lk 23.4–16; Jn 19.1–16. 15.13–15: Ironically, the crowd that had been enthralled with Jesus’s teaching (11.18) now clamors for his execution. Like the Jewish leaders, Pilate aims to satisfy them. This depiction of Pilate as a crowd-pleaser does not fit with contemporary reports about his brutal tactics.

15.16–41: Jesus’s torture and execution (Mt 27.27–56; Lk 23.26–49; Jn 19.16b–37). 15.16: Governor’s headquarters . . . cohort, Mark notes both the Roman torture and its public setting, since a cohort included several hundred soldiers. 15.17: Purple robe . . . crown, mocking symbols of Jesus’s reputedly royal status; see 10.34. 15.19: Struck . . . spat, details that echo Isa 50.6; cf. 10.34. Knelt down in homage, ironic physical posture of worship. Cf. 1.40. 15.21: Carry his cross, the crossbar, not the entire cross; cf. 8.34. Simon of Cyrene, a pilgrim from North Africa whose part in the story suggests the wide-reaching impact of Jesus’s mission. Alexander and Rufus, otherwise unknown figures who may have been familiar to Mark’s audience. 15.22: Golgotha . . . skull, located outside the Jesus^a to the place called Golgotha (which means the place of a skull).²³ And they offered him wine mixed with myrrh; but he did not take it.²⁴ And they crucified him, and divided his clothes among them, casting lots to decide what each should take.

²⁵ It was nine o'clock in the morning when they crucified him.²⁶ The inscription of the charge against him read, "The King of the Jews."²⁷ And with him they crucified two bandits, one on his right and one on his left.^b ²⁹ Those who passed by derided^c him, shaking their heads and saying, "Aha! You who would destroy the temple and build it in three days,³⁰ save yourself, and come down from the cross!"³¹ In the same way the chief priests, along with the scribes, were also mocking him among themselves and saying, "He saved others; he cannot save himself.³² Let the Messiah,^d the King of Israel, come down from the cross now, so that we may see and believe." Those who were crucified with him also taunted him.

³³ When it was noon, darkness came over the whole land^e until three in the afternoon.³⁴ At three o'clock Jesus cried out with a loud voice, "Eloi, Eloi, lema sabachthani?" which means, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"^f ³⁵ When some of the bystanders heard it, they said, "Listen, he is calling for Elijah."³⁶ And someone ran, filled a sponge

with sour wine, put it on a stick, and gave it to him to drink, saying, "Wait, let us see whether Elijah will come to take him down."³⁷ Then Jesus gave a loud cry and breathed his last.³⁸ And the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom.³⁹ Now when the centurion, who stood facing him, saw that in this way he^g breathed his last, he said, "Truly this man was God's Son!"^h

⁴⁰ There were also women looking on from a distance; among them were Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the younger and of Joses, and Salome.⁴¹ These used to follow him and provided for him when he was in Galilee; and there were many other women who had come up with him to Jerusalem.

⁴² When evening had come, and since it was the day of Preparation, that is, the day before the sabbath,⁴³ Joseph of Arimathea, a

^a Gk him

^b Other ancient authorities add verse 28, And the scripture was fulfilled that says, "And he was counted among the lawless."

^c Or blasphemed

^d Or the Christ

^e Or earth

^f Other ancient authorities read made me a reproach

^g Other ancient authorities add cried out and

^h Or a son of God

city. Mark again translates the Aramaic name for the Gospel's audience; see 3.17n. 15.23: Wine . . . myrrh, a pain-relieving tonic. 15.24: Divided his clothes, casting lots, details found in Ps 22.18; see also 15.29n., 34n. 15.25: Nine o'clock, see 15.1n. 15.26: "The King of the Jews," scholars accept the historical likelihood of this detail, since Roman officials often made a deliberate example of those who posed a threat to Caesar. See also 15.2, 9, 18. 15.27: Cf. 14.48. 15.29: Shaking their heads, see Ps 22.7. Destroy the temple, see 14.58n. 15.30–32: Since Jewish tradition associated the "Christ" with triumph, not defeat, both the crowd and religious authorities take Jesus's death as proof that he is not the Messiah, the king of Israel. Save yourself, cf. 8.35; 11.9. For Mark, Jesus's refusal to save himself ironically saves others. Chief priests . . . scribes, see 8.31n. See and believe, for Mark, authentic faith often precedes clear sight (see 8.11–12; cf. 16.17–18). 15.33: Noon, see 15.1n. Darkness, cosmic disturbance associated with the disruption of the earthly scheme. Cf. 13.24–25. 15.34: Three o'clock, see 15.1n. Jesus's last words invoke Ps 22.1, both to express his sense of abandonment (see 14.32–42) and, more subtly, to anticipate the time when all nations will worship God (see Ps 22.27). 15.35: Elijah, see 1.6n.; 9.11–13. 15.36: Sour wine, see Ps 69.21. 15.38: In the Temple, a curtain set apart the Holy of Holies—the traditional site of God's presence (see Ex 26.31–37)—from the surrounding space. Torn, see 1.10n. With Jesus's death, the chasm between heaven and earth has been bridged. 15.39: Centurion, see 3.8; 5.20. In Mark, the first human to call Jesus God's Son is a Gentile Roman soldier (cf. 1.11n.; 9.7). Breathed his last, lit., "exhaled." 15.40: From a distance, see 14.54. Mary Magdalene, see v. 47; 16.1. Mary . . . Joses, possibly Jesus's mother (6.3). Salome, cf. Mt 27.56. 15.41: Mark notes that Jesus's band of followers included women (cf. Lk 8.1–3).

15.42–47: Jesus's burial in Joseph's tomb (Mt 27.57–61; Lk 23.50–56; Jn 19.38–42). 15.42: Evening, see 15.1n. According to Jewish law, burial had to be completed prior to sunset on the sabbath. 15.43: Joseph of Arimathea, respected member of the council, who was also himself waiting expectantly for the kingdom of God, went boldly to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus.⁴⁴ Then Pilate wondered if he were already dead; and summoning the centurion, he asked him whether he had been dead for some time.⁴⁵ When he learned from the centurion that he was dead, he granted the body to Joseph.⁴⁶ Then Joseph^a bought a linen cloth, and taking down the body,^b wrapped it in the linen cloth, and laid it in a tomb that had been hewn out of the rock. He then rolled a stone against the door of the tomb.⁴⁷ Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joseph saw where the body^b was laid.

16 When the sabbath was over, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome bought spices, so that they might go and anoint him.² And very early on the first day of the week, when the sun had risen, they went to the tomb.³ They had been saying to one another, “Who will roll away the stone for us from the entrance to the tomb?”⁴ When they looked up, they saw that the stone, which was very large, had already been rolled back.⁵ As they entered the tomb, they saw a young man, dressed in a white robe, sitting on the right side; and they were alarmed.⁶ But he said to them, “Do not be alarmed; you are looking for Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has been raised; he is not here. Look, there is the place they laid him.⁷ But go, tell his disciples and Peter that he is going ahead of you to Galilee; there you will see him, just as he told you.”⁸ So they went out and fled from the tomb, for terror and amazement had seized them; and they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid.^c

THE SHORTER ENDING OF MARK

[[And all that had been commanded them they told briefly to those around Peter. And afterward Jesus himself sent out through them, from east to west, the sacred and imperishable proclamation of eternal salvation.^d]]

^a Gk he

^b Gk it

^c Some of the most ancient authorities bring the book to a close at the end of verse 8. One authority concludes the book with the shorter ending; others include the shorter ending and then continue with verses 9–20. In most authorities verses 9–20 follow immediately after verse 8, though in some of these authorities the passage is marked as being doubtful.

^d Other ancient authorities add Amen

a prominent member of the council whose request for Jesus’s body entails both political and religious risk. It is unclear if Joseph thought that Jesus’s death related to God’s kingdom; on burial as an act of piety, see Tob 1.16–18. 15.46: Tombs for wealthy families were sometimes cut out of small caves and sealed by a large stone.

16.1–20: Epilogue: Jesus’s resurrection and appearance

16.1–8: Women discover an empty tomb (Mt 28.1–10; Lk 24.1–12; Jn 20.1–10). This is the earliest existing ending to Mark (see 16.9–20n.). 1: The named women correspond to 15.40. Salome appears only in Mark (cf. Mt 28.1; Jn 20.1). Anoint him, see 14.8. Besides fulfilling burial obligations, the language reinforces Jesus’s messianic status. 3: Roll away the stone, a hewn circular stone that covered the tomb’s entrance (see 15.46n.). 5: Though Mark does not call the young man an angel, his clothing suggests this identity (see 9.3n.; cf. Mt 28.2; Lk 24.4). 5–6: The women’s “alarm” grows out of their unmet expectations (9.15; 14.33), even though Jesus had predicted this outcome (8.31; 9.31; 10.34). 7: Disciples and Peter, ancient tradition links Mark’s Gospel to Peter (see Introduction; 1.16–18; 14.50,66–72). Ahead of you to Galilee, see 14.28n. Cf. Mt 28.16–20; Lk 24.50–53. 8: Terror and amazement, see 4.40n. This verse leaves readers hanging and the command to “tell his disciples” (v. 7) unfulfilled. Interpreters explain the Gospel’s abrupt ending differently: some think the story is deliberately unresolved, so that the audience must carry forward the Gospel’s message of a risen Christ; others believe the story’s original ending had been lost.

The shorter ending: Two different endings appear in ancient manuscripts. The first dates to the fourth century CE at the earliest, occurs in only one known manuscript, and uses language foreign to Mark (e.g., sacred and imperishable proclamation).

THE LONGER ENDING OF MARK

⁹ [Now after he rose early on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom he had cast out seven demons. ¹⁰ She went out and told those who had been with him, while they were mourning and weeping. ¹¹ But when they heard that he was alive and had been seen by her, they would not believe it.

¹² After this he appeared in another form to two of them, as they were walking into the country. ¹³ And they went back and told the rest, but they did not believe them.

¹⁴ Later he appeared to the eleven themselves as they were sitting at the table; and he upbraided them for their lack of faith and stubbornness, because they had not believed those who saw him after he had risen.^a ¹⁵ And he said to them, “Go into all the world and proclaim the good news^b to the whole creation. ¹⁶ The one who believes and is baptized will be saved; but the one who does not believe will be condemned. ¹⁷ And these signs will accompany those who believe: by using my name they will cast out demons; they will speak in new tongues;^c ¹⁸ they will pick up snakes in their hands,^c and if they drink any deadly thing, it will not hurt them; they will lay their hands on the sick, and they will recover.”

¹⁹ So then the Lord Jesus, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God. ²⁰ And they went out and proclaimed the good news everywhere, while the Lord worked with them and confirmed the message by the signs that accompanied it.^d]]

^a Other ancient authorities add, in whole or in part, And they excused themselves, saying, “This age of lawlessness and unbelief is under Satan, who does not allow the truth and power of God to prevail over the unclean things of the spirits. Therefore reveal your righteousness now”—thus they spoke to Christ. And Christ replied to them, “The term of years of Satan’s power has been fulfilled, but other terrible things draw near. And for those who have sinned I was handed over to death, that they may return to the truth and sin no more, that they may inherit the spiritual and imperishable glory of righteousness that is in heaven.”

^b Or gospel

^c Other ancient authorities lack in their hands

^d Other ancient authorities add Amen

16.9–20: The longer ending. This ending was probably added sometime in the mid-second century CE to bring Mark’s ending into conformity with postresurrection accounts found in Matthew, Luke, and John. 9: A summary of 16.1–8. Seven demons, see Lk 8.2. 11: See Lk 24.9–11,22–25; Jn 20.19–29. 12–13: See Lk 24.13–35. 14: Sitting at table, see Lk 24.41–42. Lack of faith and stubbornness, recurrent themes in Mark (see 6.6; 9.24; 3.5; 6.52; 8.17; 10.5). 15: See Mt 28.19; cf. Lk 24.47; Jn 20.21. 16: See Titus 3.5; 1 Pet 3.21; Jn 3.18. 17–18: A positive view of signs fits John’s Gospel (see Jn 2.23; 4.48; 6.30) but not the Synoptic accounts (cf. 8.11–12; 13.22; and parallels). 17: Cast out demons, see 3.15; 6.7; 9.38–39. Speak in new tongues, see Acts 2.4–11; 1 Cor 14.2–33. 18: Pick up snakes, Lk 10.19 implies protection from snakes, though handling snakes does not appear elsewhere in the NT. Cf. Acts 28.3–6. Drink any deadly thing, unparalleled in the NT. Lay their hands . . . recover, see 6.13; Acts 3.1–10; 5.12–16; Jas 5.14–15. 19: Taken up, see Lk 24.51; Acts 1.2,11,22. Right hand of God, see 10.37; 14.62. See also Acts 2.33–34; Rom 8.34; Eph 1.20. 20: The proclamation of the message (lit., “word”) is consistent with Mark’s Gospel (see 1.14; 3.14; 4.3; 6.12; 13.10; 16.15). With them, see 3.14. Confirmed the message by the signs, see 16.17–18n.; also Acts 4.30; Rom 15.19; Heb 2.3–4.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO LUKE

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

The Third Gospel, traditionally called the Gospel according to Luke, is a unique literary and theological contribution to the story of Jesus Christ. By the late second century, the author of the Gospel and its sequel, the Acts of the Apostles, was identified as Luke, a physician who was a traveling companion and co-worker with Paul (Philem 1.24; Col 4.14). At times Luke is further described as a Syrian from Antioch, but practically nothing else is remembered of the writer of the Third Gospel. Scholarly analysis of the Gospel and Acts raises questions about the attribution of these writings to the Luke who was Paul's associate. The strongest argument for identifying Luke the physician as the author of the Gospel and Acts is the obscurity of this figure in the New Testament. Yet, even defenders of the traditional identification recognize difficulties with that connection. Though Luke's familiarity with Judaism is extensive, he seems to have more book-knowledge than practical experience of its particular rituals and beliefs. Similarly, when Luke provides details about Palestinian locations and practices, they exhibit a tendency toward setting the story in an urban environment rather than the predominantly nonurban village culture that Jesus would have known. Above all, Luke never mentions in Acts that Paul wrote letters and only seldom does he use theological themes from the letters of the apostle.

SOURCES

Luke's Gospel employs other earlier writings, especially the Gospel of Mark. That Luke knew and used additional materials, both oral and written, in composing this Gospel is certain, if not demonstrable. In fact, Luke shares a body of material (probably in written form) with the Gospel of Matthew that comprises approximately one-fifth of the overall narrative. Scholars designate this common material as "Q" (German "Quelle," "source"). Whether Luke had additional written sources for episodes and teaching found only in his Gospel—such as the account of Jesus's birth, childhood, certain parables, and materials unique to Luke's account of Jesus's passion and resurrection—is debated, though possible. Luke's concern with acknowledging and using sources is clear from his prologue (1.1–4). (See Introduction to the Gospels, pp. 1379–82.)

DATE AND PLACE OF COMPOSITION

The time and place of the writing of this Gospel are uncertain. Tradition associates Luke's account with both Antioch and Rome (where Acts ends), but no firm tradition specifies a precise time and place of composition. Any major urban center in the Greek-speaking areas of the Roman Empire would be a suitable location for such a document. As for its date, all one can say with certainty is that Luke wrote this account after Mark composed his Gospel; around 85 CE is plausible.

STYLE, CONTENTS, AND STRUCTURE

Luke employs different literary styles. The initial four verses are a single sentence that forms a highly stylized introductory statement typical of ancient historical writings. This formal and refined language was familiar to well-educated Greek-speakers in the first century CE. After this preface, the narrative shifts into a style of Greek reminiscent of the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Jewish scriptures. This Semitic-influenced form of Greek permeates the stories about the birth of Jesus. The style shifts into a more commonly used form of first-century Greek (called "koinē") for the remainder of the Gospel. In the story, the language varies to suit the locale and characters involved. Luke's appreciation of stylistic variation in narrative communication is apparent from this technique. One could say that the Gospel communicates the universal significance of its story of God's salvation in and through Jesus Christ in the variety of styles used to tell that story. Readers from different religious, ethnic, and social backgrounds would find a stylistic point of entry into the story of Jesus Christ.

Luke tells the same basic story as the other Gospels: Jesus appears, ministers in Galilee, and moves to Judea and Jerusalem where hostility leads to his suffering, death, and resurrection. Yet, Luke's account has a narrative logic and content that distinguish it from other Gospels. The advent of Jesus among Jews, who observed ancestral traditions, highlights the continuity of Jesus's story with that of Israel and presents it as the fulfillment of his people's hopes. Luke underscores God's compassion as Jesus reaches out to the marginal members of society. Women, the less-than-pious, tax collectors, the poor, the sick, the oppressed, and even prominent Pharisees interact with Jesus. As summarized in Acts, "Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good . . . for God was with him" (Acts 10.38). Jesus's coming and his ministry are the result of God's anointing Jesus with the Holy Spirit. The same spirit of God active in the history of Israel is present in the infancy stories with which the Gospel begins, and reappears in Acts as the church spreads the message of salvation to the world.

Luke has structured the narrative carefully. A prologue (1.1–4) prepares readers for the significance of the story. The infancy and childhood of Jesus is told in a series of scenes that alternate with an account of the origins of John the Baptist so that readers understand the role of both these figures in God's plan of salvation to all humanity (1.5–2.52). Jesus prepares for his ministry through an encounter with John and testing by the devil (3.1–4.13); Jesus ministers in Galilee, provoking controversy, calling disciples, preaching, working miracles, teaching, commissioning ministry by his followers, and showing compassion for the people (4.14–9.50). Jesus and his followers journey to Jerusalem with Jesus providing instruction along the way (9.51–19.27). This section contains such famous parables as the prodigal son and the rich man and Lazarus. Jesus enters Jerusalem, where he starts teaching in the Temple area (19.28–21.38). The gospel concludes with Jesus's Last Supper, crucifixion, and burial (22.1–23.56), and Jesus's empty tomb is found before he appears to the disciples and ascends to heaven (24.1–53).

INTERPRETATION

Initial incidents in the story anticipate later developments in the narrative. Readers will find signals that provoke questions that can be answered only by reading the whole Gospel. In the wake of Luke's presentation of the person and work of Jesus Christ, another dimension of the story communicates Jesus's teaching about what it means to be his follower. Discipleship is closely tied to the primary theme of Jesus's significance. For Luke, one is not a disciple alone, but only in belonging to the people of God who live as citizens of God's kingdom as made known in Jesus Christ.

Luke's account shows Jesus to be "the Lord," God's son who is the universal savior of humanity. Jesus inaugurates a mission to all humankind as the kingdom of God draws near to the ordinary lives of people in Jesus. Luke's version of Jesus's story presents Jesus's coming as the fulfillment of God's promises of salvation. This event inaugurated the final stage of God's dealings with humanity in anticipation of "the day of the Lord." Jesus himself and, in turn, his disciples call people to a new relationship to God and to other human beings.

Marion L. Soards

1 Since many have undertaken to set down an orderly account of the events that have been fulfilled among us,² just as they were handed on to us by those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and servants of the word,³ I too decided, after investigating everything carefully from the very first,^a to write an orderly account for you, most excellent Theophilus,⁴ so that you may know the truth concerning the things about which you have been instructed.

⁵In the days of King Herod of Judea, there was a priest named Zechariah, who belonged to the priestly order of Abijah. His wife was a descendant of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth.⁶ Both of them were righteous before God, living blamelessly according to all the commandments and regulations of the Lord.⁷ But they had no children, because Elizabeth was barren, and both were getting on in years.

⁸Once when he was serving as priest before God and his section was on duty,⁹ he was chosen by lot, according to the custom of the priesthood, to enter the sanctuary of the Lord and offer incense.¹⁰ Now at the time of the incense offering, the whole assembly of the people was praying outside.¹¹ Then there appeared to him an angel of the Lord, standing at the right side of the altar of incense.¹² When Zechariah saw him, he was terrified; and fear overwhelmed him.¹³ But the angel said to him, “Do not be afraid, Zechariah, for your prayer has been heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you will name him John.¹⁴ You will have joy and gladness, and many will rejoice at his birth,¹⁵ for he will be great in the sight of the Lord. He must never drink wine or strong drink; even before his birth he will be filled with the Holy Spirit.¹⁶ He will turn many of the people of Israel to the Lord their God.¹⁷ With the spirit and power of Elijah he will go before him, to turn the hearts of parents to their children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the righteous, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.”¹⁸ Zechariah said to the angel, “How will I know that this is so? For I am an old man, and my wife is getting on in years.”¹⁹ The angel replied, “I am Gabriel. I stand in the presence of God, and I have been sent to speak to you and to bring you this good news.²⁰ But now, because you did not believe my words, which will be fulfilled in their time, you will become mute, unable to speak, until the day these things occur.”

^a Or for a long time

1.1–4: The prologue (Mt 1.1; Mk 1.1). See Acts 1.1–2. John 20.30–31; 21.25 show similar awareness of sources used by the Gospel writers. This prologue resembles the openings of many Greek histories. Accordingly, Luke, acknowledges sources and explains the purpose of his own work. 3: Theophilus, which means “friend of God,” may designate any ideal Christian. Or, it may be a specific prominent individual, since most excellent is typically used for persons of high status; he might have been the author’s patron, who would have the work copied and distributed.

1.5–2.52: The infancy and childhood of Jesus.

1.5–25: The annunciation of the birth of John the Baptist. 5: In the days of King Herod of Judea (ruled 37–4 BCE) probably 7–6 BCE (see Mt 2.1,15). The priestly order of Abijah was the eighth of twenty-four divisions of priests (1 Chr 24.10) who served in the Jerusalem Temple twice annually. As a descendant of Aaron, Israel’s first high priest, Elizabeth was also from a priestly family. 5–7: The mention of Elizabeth, the righteousness of the couple, their childlessness, and advanced age all anticipate the appearance of the angel. The description echoes the Hebrew Bible (Gen 15.3; 16.1; 25.2; 29.31; Judg 13.2–3; 1 Sam 1.2). 6: The words translated righteous and regulations share the same stem in Greek (“dikai-”), emphasizing “righteousness” more than “rules.” Commandments and regulations are synonyms. 9: Lots were a sacred means of discerning God’s will. The privilege of offering the incense (see Ex 30.7–8) was normally granted only once in a lifetime. 12: Speechlessness indicates that Zechariah’s vision was more than a psychological experience. 13: The name John (Heb “Y[eh]oh[anan]”) means “The Lord has shown favor.” 15: John is described as a Nazirite; see Num 6.1–4; Judg 13.4–5; 1 Sam 1.11. 16–17: The language echoes Mal 4.5–6. 17: He will go before him, that is, he will be the forerunner of the messiah (Mal 3.1–4; Mt 11.14); on Elijah, see 1 Kings 17–19; 21. 19–20: The angel’s sign invokes a punitive measure, unlike the treatment of Mary (1.34–38). 19: Gabriel is one of two angels named in the Hebrew Bible (Dan 8.16; 9.21). I stand

²¹ Meanwhile the people were waiting for Zechariah, and wondered at his delay in the sanctuary. ²² When he did come out, he could not speak to them, and they realized that he had seen a vision in the sanctuary. He kept motioning to them and remained unable to speak. ²³ When his time of service was ended, he went to his home.

²⁴ After those days his wife Elizabeth conceived, and for five months she remained in seclusion. She said, ²⁵ “This is what the Lord has done for me when he looked favorably on me and took away the disgrace I have endured among my people.”

²⁶ In the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent by God to a town in Galilee called Nazareth, ²⁷ to a virgin engaged to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David. The virgin’s name was Mary. ²⁸ And he came to her and said, “Greetings, favored one! The Lord is with you.”^a ²⁹ But she was much perplexed by his words and pondered what sort of greeting this might be. ³⁰ The angel said to her, “Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. ³¹ And now, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you will name him Jesus. ³² He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High, and the Lord God will give to him the throne of his ancestor David. ³³ He will reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there will be no end.” ³⁴ Mary said to the angel, “How can this be, since I am a virgin?”^b ³⁵ The angel said to her, “The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you; therefore the child to be born^c will be holy; he will be called Son of God. ³⁶ And now, your relative Elizabeth in her old age has also conceived a son; and this is the sixth month for her who was said to be barren. ³⁷ For nothing will be impossible with God.” ³⁸ Then Mary said, “Here am I, the servant of the Lord; let it be with me according to your word.” Then the angel departed from her.

³⁹ In those days Mary set out and went with haste to a Judean town in the hill country, ⁴⁰ where she entered the house of Zechariah and greeted Elizabeth. ⁴¹ When Elizabeth heard Mary’s greeting, the child leaped in her womb. And Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit ⁴² and exclaimed with a loud cry, “Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb. ⁴³ And why has this happened to me, that the mother of my Lord comes to me? ⁴⁴ For as soon as I heard the sound of your greeting, the child in my womb leaped for joy. ⁴⁵ And blessed is she who believed that there would be^d a fulfillment of what was spoken to her by the Lord.”

⁴⁶ And Mary^e said,

“My soul magnifies the Lord,

⁴⁷ and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior,

⁴⁸ for he has looked with favor on the lowliness of his servant.

^a Other ancient authorities add Blessed are you among women

^b Gk I do not know a man

^c Other ancient authorities add of you

^d Or believed, for there will be

^e Other ancient authorities read Elizabeth suggests urgency and authority (2.9; Acts 7.56–57). 24: In seclusion: no reason is given. 25: Sterility was a sign of divine disfavor and therefore a disgrace (see Gen 16.2; 25.21; 30.23; 1 Sam 1.1–8; Jer 22.30).

1.26–38: The annunciation of Jesus’s birth. 26: In the sixth month, after the conception of John. Nazareth, a small village in southern Galilee; cf. Jn 1.46. 27: Emphasizes Mary’s status as a virgin (see v. 34). Mary, Gk “Mariam,” from Heb “Miryam” (= English “Miriam”) 31: Jesus, Gk “Iesous,” from Heb “Yeshua,” a variant spelling of “Yehoshua” (= English “Joshua”), meaning “The Lord has saved” (see Mt 1.21). 32: Son of the Most High implies both divinity (see Sir 4.10) and royal authority (see 2 Sam 7.13–16; cf. Lk 2.35,76; 6.35; 8.28; Acts 7.48; 16.17). 32–33: Jesus will fulfill the expectation that David’s heir will reign eternally; see 2 Sam 7.12–17. 35: The first occurrence of the title Son of God shows his relationship to the Most High. 36: Elizabeth . . . conceived, the angel offers Mary corroboration, on which she acts (v. 39).

1.39–56: Mary and Elizabeth. 41: Elizabeth’s being filled with the Holy Spirit may also acknowledge the power of the Holy Spirit at work in the unborn John in her womb. 43: Prior to his birth Jesus is designated Lord. 44: Joy indicates the positive relationship of John the Baptist and Jesus. 46–55: The first of four canticles or hymns in the infancy narrative. This one is called the “Magnificat” from its first word in the Latin translation; compare the

Surely, from now on all generations will call me blessed; 49 for the Mighty One has done great things for me,
 and holy is his name.
 50 His mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation.
 51 He has shown strength with his arm; he has scattered the proud in the thoughts of their hearts.
 52 He has brought down the powerful from their thrones, and lifted up the lowly; 53 he has filled the hungry with good things, and sent the rich away empty.
 54 He has helped his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy, 55 according to the promise he made to our ancestors, to Abraham and to his descendants forever.”
 56 And Mary remained with her about three months and then returned to her home.
 57 Now the time came for Elizabeth to give birth, and she bore a son. 58 Her neighbors and relatives heard that the Lord had shown his great mercy to her, and they rejoiced with her.
 59 On the eighth day they came to circumcise the child, and they were going to name him Zechariah after his father. 60 But his mother said, “No; he is to be called John.”
 61 They said to her, “None of your relatives has this name.” 62 Then they began motioning to his father to find out what name he wanted to give him. 63 He asked for a writing tablet and wrote, “His name is John.” And all of them were amazed. 64 Immediately his mouth was opened and his tongue freed, and he began to speak, praising God. 65 Fear came over all their neighbors, and all these things were talked about throughout the entire hill country of Judea. 66 All who heard them pondered them and said, “What then will this child become?” For, indeed, the hand of the Lord was with him.

67 Then his father Zechariah was filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke this prophecy:

68 “Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has looked favorably on his people and redeemed them.

69 He has raised up a mighty savior^a for us in the house of his servant David,

70 as he spoke through the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,

71 that we would be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us.

72 Thus he has shown the mercy promised to our ancestors, and has remembered his holy covenant,

 73 the oath that he swore to our ancestor

Abraham, to grant us⁷⁴ that we, being rescued from the hands of our enemies, might serve him without fear,⁷⁵ in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

76 And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High; for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,

77 to give knowledge of salvation to his people by the forgiveness of their sins.

^a Gk a horn of salvation

prayer of Hannah in 1 Sam 2.1–10, echoed in these verses. Its themes point to prominent themes in the ministry of Jesus. 55: Gen 17.7; 18.18; 22.17; Mic 7.20.

1.57–80: The birth and naming of John. 58: Here the Lord refers to God. 59: Gen 17.12; Lev 12.3; Lk 2.21. 62: Zechariah’s deafness complements his obvious speechlessness. 65: Fear (rendered “awe” in 5.26) designates humble, reverent recognition of the limits of human understanding and power before God (2.9; 7.16; Acts 2.43,46–47; 5.5,11; 19.17). 66: Anticipates the appearance of the adult John, 3.1–18. The final clause states Luke’s retrospective assessment of John 67–79: The second hymn, called the “Benedictus.” 67: Zechariah’s words are designated prophecy. Both David and Abraham are remembered in their special relationships to God. 69: A mighty savior, lit., “a horn of salvation,” uses a biblical metaphor for power (Pss 18.2; 75.4–5; 89.17; 112.9; 148.14) and here refers to one who will bring salvation; see Pss 92.10; 132.17. The first occurrence in the Gospel of salvation, which comprises God’s rescue of humanity from evil and the restoration of the right relationship between God and human beings. 76: See 3.4. 80: Cf. 2.52. Approximately thirty years (see 3.23). In the wilderness, see 3.4.

⁷⁸ By the tender mercy of our God, the dawn from on high will break
upon^a us,

⁷⁹ to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.”

⁸⁰ The child grew and became strong in spirit, and he was in the wilderness until the day he appeared publicly to Israel.

2 In those days a decree went out from Emperor Augustus that all the world should be registered.² This was the first registration and was taken while Quirinius was governor of Syria.³ All went to their own towns to be registered.⁴ Joseph also went from the town of Nazareth in Galilee to Judea, to the city of David called Bethlehem, because he was descended from the house and family of David.⁵ He went to be registered with Mary, to whom he was engaged and who was expecting a child.⁶ While they were there, the time came for her to deliver her child.⁷ And she gave birth to her firstborn son and wrapped him in bands of cloth, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn.

⁸ In that region there were shepherds living in the fields, keeping watch over their flock by night.⁹ Then an angel of the Lord stood before them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terrified.¹⁰ But the angel said to them, “Do not be afraid; for see—I am bringing you good news of great joy for all the people:¹¹ to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is the Messiah,^b the Lord.¹² This will be a sign for you: you will find a child wrapped in bands of cloth and lying in a manger.”

¹³ And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host,^c praising God and saying,

¹⁴ “Glory to God in the highest heaven, and on earth peace among those whom he favors!”^d

¹⁵ When the angels had left them and gone into heaven, the shepherds said to one another, “Let us go now to Bethlehem and see this thing that has taken place, which the Lord has made known to us.”

¹⁶ So they went with haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the child lying in the manger.¹⁷ When they saw this, they made known what had been told them about this child;¹⁸ and all who heard it were amazed at what the shepherds told them.¹⁹ But Mary treasured all these words and pondered them in her heart.²⁰ The shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all they had heard and seen, as it had been told them.

^a Other ancient authorities read has broken upon

^b Or the Christ

^c Gk army

^d Other ancient authorities read peace, goodwill among people

2.1–7: The birth of Jesus (Mt 1.18–25). 1: Censuses of Roman citizens occurred in 28 BCE, 8 BCE, and 14 CE; but this enrollment under Caesar Augustus is not attested elsewhere. Caesar Augustus (Octavian) ruled 27 BCE–14 CE. His rule marked a time of peace, the “pax Augusta,” for which people celebrated him as lord and savior of the world. 2: Quirinius was legate or commissioner of Augustus in a war against bandits in Cilicia. According to the Roman historian Tacitus (Annals 3.48), he was a military governor of Syria from 6 to 9 CE, dates inconsistent with 1.5. City of David called Bethlehem, see 1 Sam 16.12; Mic 5.2. 5: “Engaged,” more lit., “betrothed,” which involved vows, witnesses, and certain payments. 7: Firstborn son indicates nothing about Mary’s subsequent childbearing; the word is a technical term referring to the child upon which God laid full claim (Num 3.11–13). Bands of cloth were normally used to swaddle or wrap infants. Manger, a feeding trough for animals.

2.8–20: Annunciation to shepherds and their visit (cf. Mt 2.1–12). 8: That the shepherds were living in the fields indicates nothing about the season of Jesus’s birth. 10: For all the people, an expression of Luke’s concern with the universal character of salvation. 11: Jesus is identified by three primary titles of Christian belief, Savior, Messiah, and Lord (see Mt 1.21; 16.16; Jn 4.42; Acts 2.36; 5.31; Phil 2.11). The designation of the newborn Jesus as Lord is striking (see 1.43), for that word in Greek (“kyrios”) is the term used throughout the LXX to translate the tetragrammaton, God’s holy name (Heb “YHWH”). 14: The third hymn. 19: See 1.66; 2.51.

²¹ After eight days had passed, it was time to circumcise the child; and he was called Jesus, the name given by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

²² When the time came for their purification according to the law of Moses, they brought him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord ²³ (as it is written in the law of the Lord, “Every firstborn male shall be designated as holy to the Lord”), ²⁴ and they offered a sacrifice according to what is stated in the law of the Lord, “a pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons.”

²⁵ Now there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon;^a this man was righteous and devout, looking forward to the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit rested on him. ²⁶ It had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord’s Messiah.^b ²⁷ Guided by the Spirit, Simeon^c came into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him what was customary under the law, ²⁸ Simeon^d took him in his arms and praised God, saying,

²⁹ “Master, now you are dismissing your servant^e in peace, according to your word;

³⁰ for my eyes have seen your salvation,

³¹ which you have prepared in the presence of all peoples,

³² a light for revelation to the Gentiles and for glory to your people Israel.”

³³ And the child’s father and mother were amazed at what was being said about him.

³⁴ Then Simeon^a blessed them and said to his mother Mary, “This child is destined for the falling and the rising of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be opposed ³⁵ so that the inner thoughts of many will be revealed—and a sword will pierce your own soul too.”

³⁶ There was also a prophet, Anna^f the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher. She was of a great age, having lived with her husband seven years after her marriage, ³⁷ then as a widow to the age of eighty-four. She never left the temple but worshiped there with fasting and prayer night and day. ³⁸ At that moment she came, and began to praise God and to speak about the child^g to all who were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem.

³⁹ When they had finished everything required by the law of the Lord, they returned to Galilee, to their own town of Nazareth.

⁴⁰ The child grew and became strong, filled with wisdom; and the favor of God was upon him.

⁴¹ Now every year his parents went to Jerusalem for the festival of the Passover. ⁴² And when he was twelve years old, they went up as usual for the festival. ⁴³ When the festival was ended and they started to return, the boy Jesus stayed behind in Jerusalem, but his parents

^a Gk Symeon

^b Or the Lord’s Christ

^c Gk In the Spirit, he

^d Gk he

^e Gk slave

^f Gk Hanna

^g Gk him

2.21–38: Jesus’s circumcision and presentation. 21: See 1.59n.; 1.31. 22–24: Ex 13.2,12,15; Lev 5.11; 12.8. The phrase their purification likely refers to the parents, though there was no purification rite for the father. Luke uses this ritual to illustrate the piety and religious observance of Mary and Joseph. 25–38: Simeon and Anna, not otherwise known, acclaim Jesus as savior and redeemer. 25–28: Simeon is the fifth person filled with the Holy Spirit (earlier: John, Mary, Elizabeth, and Zechariah). This anticipates the coming of the Spirit at Pentecost in Acts 2.1–4. 29–35: The fourth hymn, whose opening words in Latin are “Nunc dimittis.” Simeon’s song and words to Mary recognize Jesus as the Christ and foretell conflict and agony. 30–31: See 3.6. 32: See Isa 49.6; 46.13; Acts 2.21; 10.34–35; 22.21. 33: Luke calls Joseph the father of Jesus (notwithstanding 1.34–35), since he was Mary’s husband and Jesus’s legal father (cf. Mt 13.55; Lk 2.48; 3.23). 36–38: Asher was Jacob’s eighth son, by Zilpah (Gen 30; 35). Anna is called a prophet, and in the early church she would have been an ideal widow (see 1 Cor 7.8–9).

2.39–40: Jesus’s childhood in Nazareth (Mt 2.22–23). 39–40: These verses echo 1.80 and show Jesus excelling John.

2.41–52: Young Jesus in the Temple. This story of Jesus’s boyhood is unique to Luke among the canonical Gospels, though later legendary writings also show interest in this unknown period of Jesus’s life. 41: Ex 23.15;

did not know it.⁴⁴ Assuming that he was in the group of travelers, they went a day's journey. Then they started to look for him among their relatives and friends.⁴⁵ When they did not find him, they returned to Jerusalem to search for him.⁴⁶ After three days they found him in the temple, sitting among the teachers, listening to them and asking them questions.⁴⁷ And all who heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers.⁴⁸ When his parents^a saw him they were astonished; and his mother said to him, "Child, why have you treated us like this? Look, your father and I have been searching for you in great anxiety."⁴⁹ He said to them, "Why were you searching for me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?"^b⁵⁰ But they did not understand what he said to them.⁵¹ Then he went down with them and came to Nazareth, and was obedient to them. His mother treasured all these things in her heart.

⁵² And Jesus increased in wisdom and in years,^c and in divine and human favor.

3 In the fifteenth year of the reign of Emperor Tiberius, when Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea, and Herod was ruler^d of Galilee, and his brother Philip ruler^d of the region of Ituraea and Trachonitis, and Lysanias ruler^d of Abilene,² during the high priesthood of Annas and Caiaphas, the word of God came to John son of Zechariah in the wilderness.³ He went into all the region around the Jordan, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins,⁴ as it is written in the book of the words of the prophet Isaiah,

"The voice of one crying out in the wilderness:

'Prepare the way of the Lord,
make his paths straight.

⁵ Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be made low,

and the crooked shall be made straight,
and the rough ways made smooth;

⁶ and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.'

⁷ John said to the crowds that came out to be baptized by him, "You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath of God? ⁸ Bear fruits worthy of repentance. Do not begin to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our ancestor'; for I tell you, God is able from these stones to raise up children to Abraham. ⁹ Even now the ax is lying at the

^a Gk they

^b Or be about my Father's interests?

^c Or in stature

^d Gk tetrarch

Deut 16.1–8. 46–47: Illustrates Jesus's wisdom mentioned in 2.40 and anticipates 20.1–8. 48: Mary's reprimand of Jesus seems out of place in the overall account. 49: My Father's house recognizes the relationship between Jesus and God and contrasts with Mary's reference to Joseph as "your father" (v. 48). 50: Mary and Joseph show a remarkable lack of comprehension. 51: See 2.19. 52: 1 Sam 2.26; Lk 1.80; 2.40.

3.1–4.13: Jesus's preparation for ministry (Mt 3.1–4.11; Mk 1.2–13).

3.1–6: The appearance of John the Baptist (Mt 3.1–6; Mk 1.2–6). 1: Tiberius Caesar ruled 14–37 CE. Depending on the manner of reckoning years, sometime between 26 and 29 CE. Pontius Pilate, a Roman governor (technically a "prefect"), held authority in Judea, Samaria, and Idumea 26–36 CE; see 23.1, etc. The remainder of the kingdom of Herod the Great (see 1.5n.) had been divided between his sons Herod Antipas who ruled Galilee and Perea (23.6–7) and Philip (see map on p. 1444). Another son, Herod Archelaus, had ruled Judea from 4 BCE, but he was banished for incompetence and replaced by a Roman official in 6 CE (see Mt 2.22). Lysanias was a Roman tetrarch of Abilene ca. 25–30 CE. 2: Annas was high priest 6–15 CE when the Romans deposed him. He was succeeded by relatives; initially by his son, Eleazar; then by his son-in-law Caiaphas (18–36 CE), followed by four more sons. Even when out of office, Annas's authority was recognized by the population. 3: A summary of John's ministry. Proclamation led to a baptism of repentance, a symbolic act of cleansing to indicate realignment with the will of God in forgiveness of the one baptized. 4–6: Isa 40.3–5. 6: All flesh refers to all humanity and emphasizes that God's salvation was universal; see 2.30–32n.; Acts 2.17.

3.7–9: John's call to repentance (Mt 3.7–10). Along with vv. 16–17 these verses recall language of wrath and threat, all indications of the apocalyptic nature of John's proclamation (see Joel 2.1–17; Am 2.4–5; Mic 1.1–7; Zeph 1.14–18; Mal 4.1–6). 8: The assertion to have Abraham as . . . ancestor was a claim to privileged standing with God through birth (see Jn 8.33,39; Rom 2.28–29). 9: Fire, a symbol of judgment (see 3.16; 16.24).

root of the trees; every tree therefore that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire.”

¹⁰ And the crowds asked him, “What then should we do?” ¹¹ In reply he said to them, “Whoever has two coats must share with anyone who has none; and whoever has food must do likewise.” ¹² Even tax collectors came to be baptized, and they asked him, “Teacher, what should we do?” ¹³ He said to them, “Collect no more than the amount prescribed for you.” ¹⁴ Soldiers also asked him, “And we, what should we do?” He said to them, “Do not extort money from anyone by threats or false accusation, and be satisfied with your wages.”

¹⁵ As the people were filled with expectation, and all were questioning in their hearts concerning John, whether he might be the Messiah,^a ¹⁶ John answered all of them by saying, “I baptize you with water; but one who is more powerful than I is coming; I am not worthy to untie the thong of his sandals. He will baptize you with^b the Holy Spirit and fire. ¹⁷ His winnowing fork is in his hand, to clear his threshing floor and to gather the wheat into his granary; but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire.”

¹⁸ So, with many other exhortations, he proclaimed the good news to the people.

¹⁹ But Herod the ruler,^c who had been rebuked by him because of Herodias, his brother’s wife, and because of all the evil things that Herod had done,²⁰ added to them all by shutting up John in prison.

²¹ Now when all the people were baptized, and when Jesus also had been baptized and was praying, the heaven was opened,²² and the Holy Spirit descended upon him in bodily form like a dove. And a voice came from heaven, “You are my Son, the Beloved;^d with you I am well pleased.”^e

²³ Jesus was about thirty years old when he began his work. He was the son (as was thought) of Joseph son of Heli,²⁴ son of Matthat, son of Levi, son of Melchi, son of Jannai, son of Joseph,²⁵ son of Mattathias, son of Amos, son of Nahum, son of Esli, son of Naggai,²⁶ son of Maath, son of Mattathias, son of Semein, son of Josech, son of Joda,²⁷ son of Joanan, son of Rhesa, son of Zerubbabel, son

^a Or the Christ

^b Or in

^c Gk tetrarch

^d Or my beloved Son

^e Other ancient authorities read You are my Son, today I have begotten you

3.10–14: John’s directions to the crowd. 10: The cry “What then should we do?” will be repeated in Acts 2.37. 11: Two coats, lit., “two tunics,” usually undergarments. Sharing possessions is a theme of Luke-Acts; see 4.18; 6.30; 10.7,25–37; Acts 2.42–47; 4.32–37.

3.15–18: John’s heralding of the messiah (Mt 3.11–12; Mk 1.7–8). 16: He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire, a prophecy fulfilled at Pentecost (Acts 2.1–4). 17: Winnowing fork, a tool used in threshing grain. 18: John’s judgmental message about the coming of the Messiah is good news: 4.17–21.

3.19–20: John’s imprisonment by Herod. Herod Antipas had divorced the daughter of the Nabatean king to marry his niece, Herodias, who was married to Antipas’s brother, Herod Philip. Luke mentions John’s imprisonment before Jesus’s baptism; cf. Mt 14.3–4; Mk 6.17–18.

3.21–22: The baptism of Jesus (Mt 3.13–17; Mk 1.9–11). 21: Prayer is a prominent theme in Luke’s portrait of Jesus (5.16; 6.12; 9.18,28; 11.1; 22.32,41–46). 22: See Ps 2.7; Isa 42.1. The voice from heaven returns at the Transfiguration (9.35). Here the voice addresses Jesus, alone, since you is singular in form. The descent of the Holy Spirit like a dove anticipates the more dramatic coming of the Spirit “like the rush of a violent wind” and “tongues, as of fire” at Pentecost (Acts 2.1–4).

3.23–38: The genealogy of Jesus (Mt 1.1–17). Luke traces Jesus’s lineage back to Adam (Gen 5.1); linking Jesus’s line with God’s original creation shows Jesus’s humanity and establishes his credentials as the universal savior. 23–38: The genealogy traced through the line of Joseph includes David (v. 31) and Abraham (v. 34). 23–27: The persons from Heli to Zerubbabel are otherwise unknown. For the rest of the genealogy cf. Gen 5.3–32; 11.10–26; Ruth 4.18–22; 1 Chr 1.1–4,24–28; 2.1–15. 23: About thirty years old, a round figure. Many scholars put Jesus’s birth at 6 BCE and his death at ca. 30 CE. If these dates are correct, Jesus began his ministry at about thirty-six years of age.

of Shealtiel,^a son of Neri,²⁸ son of Melchi, son of Addi, son of Cosam, son of Elmadam, son of Er,²⁹ son of Joshua, son of Eliezer, son of Jorim, son of Matthat, son of Levi,³⁰ son of Simeon, son of Judah, son of Joseph, son of Jonam, son of Eliakim,³¹ son of Melea, son of Menna, son of Mattatha, son of Nathan, son of David,³² son of Jesse, son of Obed, son of Boaz, son of Sala,^b son of Nahshon,³³ son of Amminadab, son of Admin, son of Arni,^c son of Hezron, son of Perez, son of Judah,³⁴ son of Jacob, son of Isaac, son of Abraham, son of Terah, son of Nahor,³⁵ son of Serug, son of Reu, son of Peleg, son of Eber, son of Shelah,³⁶ son of Cainan, son of Arphaxad, son of Shem, son of Noah, son of Lamech,³⁷ son of Methuselah, son of Enoch, son of Jared, son of Mahalaleel, son of Cainan,³⁸ son of Enos, son of Seth, son of Adam, son of God.

4 Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit in the wilderness,² where for forty days he was tempted by the devil. He ate nothing at all during those days, and when they were over, he was famished.³ The devil said to him, “If you are the Son of God, command this stone to become a loaf of bread.”⁴ Jesus answered him, “It is written, ‘One does not live by bread alone.’”

⁵ Then the devil^d led him up and showed him in an instant all the kingdoms of the world.⁶ And the devil^d said to him, “To you I will give their glory and all this authority; for it has been given over to me, and I give it to anyone I please.⁷ If you, then, will worship me, it will all be yours.”⁸ Jesus answered him, “It is written, ‘Worship the Lord your God, and serve only him.’”

⁹ Then the devil^d took him to Jerusalem, and placed him on the pinnacle of the temple, saying to him, “If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down from here,¹⁰ for it is written,

‘He will command his angels concerning you,
to protect you,’

¹¹ and

‘On their hands they will bear you up, so that you will not dash your foot against a stone.’”

¹² Jesus answered him, “It is said, ‘Do not put the Lord your God to the test.’”¹³ When the devil had finished every test, he departed from him until an opportune time.

¹⁴ Then Jesus, filled with the power of the Spirit, returned to Galilee, and a report about him spread through all the surrounding country.¹⁵ He began to teach in their synagogues and was praised by everyone.

¹⁶ When he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, he went to the synagogue on the sabbath day, as was his custom. He stood up to read,¹⁷ and the scroll of the prophet Isaiah was given to him. He unrolled

^a Gk Salathiel

^b Other ancient authorities read Salmon

^c Other ancient authorities read Amminadab, son of Aram; others vary widely

^d Gk he

4.1–13: The temptation of Jesus (Mt 4.1–11; Mk 1.12–13). 1: Note the activity of the (Holy) Spirit. Mark’s verb “drove [him] out” (Mk 1.12–13) describing the Spirit’s action becomes led in Luke’s gentler phrasing. The order of the temptations differs from Matthew’s, but the tests are the same. 2: Mention of forty days as the stay in the “wilderness” recalls Israel’s forty years in the wilderness (Deut 8.2; see also Deut 9.9; 1 Kings 19.8). 3,9: Jesus’s identity as Son of God is called into question. 4: Deut 8.3. 8: Deut 6.13; 10.20. 10–11: Ps 91.11–12. 12: Deut 6.16. 13: Until an opportune time, see 22.3,28,53.

4.14–9.50: Jesus’s ministry in Galilee (Mt 4.12–18.35; Mk 1.14–9.50).

4.14–15: The beginning of the Galilean ministry (Mt 4.12–17; Mk 1.14–15). 14: Luke mentions Jesus’s fame repeatedly, see v. 37; 5.15; 7.17. Jesus begins his ministry filled with the power of the Holy Spirit. 15: Synagogues, local places of Jewish worship and instruction, were not directly linked with each other nor associated with the Jerusalem Temple; see 4.44.

4.16–30: Jesus in Nazareth (Mt 13.53–58; Mk 6.1–6). Luke has transposed this incident to make it the frontispiece of Jesus’s ministry. The parallel in Mark 6.1–6 follows earlier appearances in Galilee; statements in Luke’s version seem awkward because Jesus has not yet engaged in the activity to which he refers (v. 23). The details of synagogue worship are the earliest accounts of them. 17: The scroll of . . . Isaiah was given to Jesus by the atten- the scroll and found the place where it was written:

¹⁸ “The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me
to bring good news to the poor.
He has sent me to proclaim release to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to let the oppressed go free,

¹⁹ to proclaim the year of the Lord’s favor.”

²⁰ And he rolled up the scroll, gave it back to the attendant, and sat down. The eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed on him. ²¹ Then he began to say to them, “Today this scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing.” ²² All spoke well of him and were amazed at the gracious words that came from his mouth. They said, “Is not this Joseph’s son?” ²³ He said to them, “Doubtless you will quote to me this proverb, ‘Doctor, cure yourself!’ And you will say, ‘Do here also in your hometown the things that we have heard you did at Capernaum.’” ²⁴ And he said, “Truly I tell you, no prophet is accepted in the prophet’s hometown. ²⁵ But the truth is, there were many widows in Israel in the time of Elijah, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, and there was a severe famine over all the land; ²⁶ yet Elijah was sent to none of them except to a widow at Zarephath in Sidon. ²⁷ There were also many lepers^a in Israel in the time of the prophet Elisha, and none of them was cleansed except Naaman the Syrian.” ²⁸ When they heard this, all in the synagogue were filled with rage.

²⁹ They got up, drove him out of the town, and led him to the brow of the hill on which their town was built, so that they might hurl him off the cliff. ³⁰ But he passed through the midst of them and went on his way.

³¹ He went down to Capernaum, a city in Galilee, and was teaching them on the sabbath. ³² They were astounded at his teaching, because he spoke with authority. ³³ In the synagogue there was a man who had the spirit of an unclean demon, and he cried out with a loud voice, ³⁴ “Let us alone! What have you to do with us, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are, the Holy One of God.” ³⁵ But Jesus rebuked him, saying, “Be silent, and come out of him!” When the demon had thrown him down before them, he came out of him without having done him any harm. ³⁶ They were all amazed and kept saying to one another, “What kind of utterance is this? For with authority and power he commands the unclean spirits, and out they come!” ³⁷ And a report about him began to reach every place in the region.

³⁸ After leaving the synagogue he entered Simon’s house. Now Simon’s mother-in-law was suffering from a high fever, and they asked him about her. ³⁹ Then he stood over dant (v. 20). Scrolls were kept in a special place and were then handed to readers. 18–19: Isa 61.1; 58.6; 61.2. 22: The initial reaction to Jesus was positive. 24–27: Traditions about the prophets (1 Kings 17.8–16; 2 Kings 5.1–14) illustrate that foreigners sometimes received God’s aid when Israel did not. 28: Hostility comes in response to Jesus’s references to Gentiles (vv. 24–27), not to his messianic claims (v. 21). 30: This enigmatic departure may symbolically anticipate the resurrection; see 24.6–7.

^a The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

4.31–37: Jesus in the synagogue at Capernaum (Mt 4.13; 7.28–29; Mk 1.21–28). Demons were imagined as non-material beings, hostile to human welfare and rebellious against God. The Gospels reflect a general sense of helplessness before demonic activity. Jesus is one who can deliver persons from demonic oppression and from Satan himself (see 13.16). 31: This incident was referred to in 4.23. It is the first of five sabbath healings or exorcisms (4.31,38; 6.6; 13.10; 14.1). Capernaum was on the northwest coast of the Lake of Gennesaret (the Sea of Galilee), about 20 mi (32 km) from Nazareth. 32: Jesus produced astonishment; 2.48; 9.43. Luke does not repeat Mark’s comment about scribes (see Mk 1.22). 34–36: The demon recognized Jesus’s identity, whereas the people were simply amazed; see 4.41. 34: The demon in the man who was possessed speaks in the plural, us, but then changes to the singular, I. 36: The people’s remarks do not distinguish between Jesus’s teaching and exorcism (cf. v. 32).

4.38–39: The healing of Simon Peter’s mother-in-law (Mt 8.14–15; Mk 1.29–31). Another “sabbath healing” (see 4.31n.). Simon Peter is more fully introduced in 5.1–11; 6.13–14. 38–39: Simon, a Greek name meaning “flat-nosed,” is used as an alternative for the Hebrew “Simeon,” which means “(God) has heard” (see Gen 29.33) 39: The Greek verb meaning to rebuke occurs repeatedly. Those rebuked by Jesus form a striking lot: demons (4.35,41), a fever (4.39), nature (8.24), and the disciples (9.21,55).

her and rebuked the fever, and it left her. Immediately she got up and began to serve them.

⁴⁰As the sun was setting, all those who had any who were sick with various kinds of diseases brought them to him; and he laid his hands on each of them and cured them. ⁴¹Demons also came out of many, shouting, “You are the Son of God!” But he rebuked them and would not allow them to speak, because they knew that he was the Messiah.^a ⁴²At daybreak he departed and went into a deserted place. And the crowds were looking for him; and when they reached him, they wanted to prevent him from leaving them.

⁴³But he said to them, “I must proclaim the good news of the kingdom of God to the other cities also; for I was sent for this purpose.”

⁴⁴So he continued proclaiming the message in the synagogues of Judea.^b

5 Once while Jesus^c was standing beside the lake of Gennesaret, and the crowd was pressing in on him to hear the word of God, ²he saw two boats there at the shore of the lake; the fishermen had gone out of them and were washing their nets. ³He got into one of the boats, the one belonging to Simon, and asked him to put out a little way from the shore. Then he sat down and taught the crowds from the boat. ⁴When he had finished speaking, he said to Simon, “Put out into the deep water and let down your nets for a catch.” ⁵Simon answered, “Master, we have worked all night long but have caught nothing. Yet if you say so, I will let down the nets.” ⁶When they had done this, they caught so many fish that their nets were beginning to break. ⁷So they signaled their partners in the other boat to come and help them. And they came and filled both boats, so that they began to sink. ⁸But when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus’ knees, saying, “Go away from me, Lord, for I am a sinful man!” ⁹For he and all who were with him were amazed at the catch of fish that they had taken; ¹⁰and so also were James and John, sons of Zebedee, who were partners with Simon. Then Jesus said to Simon, “Do not be afraid; from now on you will be catching people.” ¹¹When they had brought their boats to shore, they left everything and followed him.

¹²Once, when he was in one of the cities, there was a man covered with leprosy.^d When he saw Jesus, he bowed with his face to the ground and begged him, “Lord, if you choose, you can make me clean.” ¹³Then Jesus^c stretched out his hand, touched him, and said, “I do choose. Be made clean.” Immediately the leprosy^d left him. ¹⁴And he ordered him to tell no one. “Go,” he said, “and show yourself to the priest, and, as Moses commanded, make an offering for your cleansing, for a testimony to them.” ¹⁵But now more than ever the word about Jesus^e spread abroad; many crowds would gather to hear

^a Or the Christ

^b Other ancient authorities read Galilee

^c Gk he

^d The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^e Gk him

4.40–41: Healing and exorcisms at sunset (Mt 8.16–17; Mk 1.32–34). With the sabbath ending at sundown, people began to present their maladies to Jesus. 41: The recognition by the demons of Jesus as Son of God is coupled with the narrator’s reminder that Jesus was the Messiah.

4.42–44: Departure and further preaching in Galilee (Mt 4.23; Mk 1.35–39). 43: Jesus says that he was sent for the purpose of proclaiming the kingdom of God. Readers infer God behind Jesus’s activity. 44: Outside the Fourth Gospel this is the only reference to an early Judean ministry (implied in Mt 23.37 and Lk 13.34). Here Luke uses Judea to refer to the Palestinian region as the land of the Jews.

5.1–11: The great catch of fish (Mt 13.1–3a; 4.18–22; Mk 4.1–2; 1.16–20); cf. Jn 21.4–7. 1: Lake of Gennesaret, Sea of Galilee. Jesus’s message as the word of God is a complementary description to “the good news of the kingdom of God” (see 4.43). 4: Master as a title for Jesus frequently replaces “Rabbi” and “Teacher” in Mark’s account. 8: Simon Peter anticipates 6.14 where Jesus nicknames Simon “Peter.” 8: Peter reacts to Jesus’s authority by confessing his sinfulness and addressing Jesus as Lord.

5.12–16: The healing of a man with leprosy (Mt 8.1–4; Mk 1.40–45). Biblical descriptions of leprosy (Lev 13–14) indicate that the term was a generic reference to skin ailments from psoriasis to true leprosy. 14: Jesus’s touching this man countered the assumption that such contact rendered a person unclean. The healing demonhim and to be cured of their diseases. ¹⁶ But he would withdraw to deserted places and pray.

¹⁷ One day, while he was teaching, Pharisees and teachers of the law were sitting near by (they had come from every village of Galilee and Judea and from Jerusalem); and the power of the Lord was with him to heal.^a ¹⁸ Just then some men came, carrying a paralyzed man on a bed. They were trying to bring him in and lay him before Jesus;^b ¹⁹ but finding no way to bring him in because of the crowd, they went up on the roof and let him down with his bed through the tiles into the middle of the crowd^c in front of Jesus. ²⁰ When he saw their faith, he said, “Friend,^d your sins are forgiven you.” ²¹ Then the scribes and the Pharisees began to question, “Who is this who is speaking blasphemies? Who can forgive sins but God alone?” ²² When Jesus perceived their questionings, he answered them, “Why do you raise such questions in your hearts? ²³ Which is easier, to say, ‘Your sins are forgiven you,’ or to say, ‘Stand up and walk’? ²⁴ But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—he said to the one who was paralyzed—“I say to you, stand up and take your bed and go to your home.” ²⁵ Immediately he stood up before them, took what he had been lying on, and went to his home, glorifying God. ²⁶ Amazement seized all of them, and they glorified God and were filled with awe, saying, “We have seen strange things today.”

²⁷ After this he went out and saw a tax collector named Levi, sitting at the tax booth; and he said to him, “Follow me.” ²⁸ And he got up, left everything, and followed him.

²⁹ Then Levi gave a great banquet for him in his house; and there was a large crowd of tax collectors and others sitting at the table^e with them. ³⁰ The Pharisees and their scribes were complaining to his disciples, saying, “Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?” ³¹ Jesus answered, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick; ³² I have come to call not the righteous but sinners to repentance.”

³³ Then they said to him, “John’s disciples, like the disciples of the Pharisees, frequently fast and pray, but your disciples eat and drink.” ³⁴ Jesus said to them, “You cannot make wedding guests fast while the bridegroom is with them, can you? ³⁵ The days will

^a Other ancient authorities read was present to heal them

^b Gk him

^c Gk into the midst

^d Gk Man

^e Gk reclining

strates the power of God overcoming both disease and ritual impurity. 16: Luke refers to Jesus’s prayer seven times; see 3.21; 5.16; 6.12; 9.18,28–29; 11.1; 22.41–45.

5.17–26: Healing and forgiveness of sins (Mt 9.1–8; Mk 2.1–12). 17: The Pharisees were a religious movement (a sect within Judaism) that was devoted to exacting observance of the law of Moses. They concerned themselves with both the written law and its interpretation preserved in oral tradition. The law is the law of Moses or the Torah. 19: Through the tiles is Luke’s adjustment of Mark’s story to present a tiled roof rather than the mud-plaster roof through which people “dug” a hole (Mk 2.4). 20: The connection between forgiveness and healing reflects a belief that sickness resulted from sin (see Ex 34.7; Jn 9.2). The configuration of these factors is striking: while the faith belongs to the men carrying their friend, the paralyzed man’s sins are recognized and then forgiven. 21: Scribes, the group called “teachers of the law” at 5.17, were Jewish specialists in the law of Moses. Luke also refers to them as “lawyers” (e.g., 7.30). 21: Blasphemy was a capital offense; see Lev 24.14–16. 24: Son of Man, Jesus’s self-designation can be understood either to refer to Jesus as a human being (see, e.g., Ps 8.4; Ezek 2.1) or to identify Jesus with the apocalyptic figure of Dan 7.13–14, understood to be the coming messiah and deputy of God.

5.27–32: The call of Levi (Mt 9.9–13; Mk 2.13–17). 27: Tax collectors who worked for the Romans were generally despised by the population. Levi is identified by some as Matthew (6.15; cf. Mt 10.3). 32: A central theme in Luke, repentance occurs three times in Mark, seven in Matthew, but fourteen times in Luke’s Gospel and eleven more in Acts.

5.33–39: Debate about fasting (Mt 9.14–17; Mk 2.18–22). 34–35: Jesus refers to himself as the bridegroom and to days when the bridegroom will be taken away from them as the time after his death and resurrection.

come when the bridegroom will be taken away from them, and then they will fast in those days.”³⁶ He also told them a parable: “No one tears a piece from a new garment and sews it on an old garment; otherwise the new will be torn, and the piece from the new will not match the old.”³⁷ And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; otherwise the new wine will burst the skins and will be spilled, and the skins will be destroyed.³⁸ But new wine must be put into fresh wineskins.³⁹ And no one after drinking old wine desires new wine, but says, ‘The old is good.’”^a

6 One sabbath^b while Jesus^c was going through the grainfields, his disciples plucked some heads of grain, rubbed them in their hands, and ate them.² But some of the Pharisees said, “Why are you doing what is not lawful^d on the sabbath?”³ Jesus answered, “Have you not read what David did when he and his companions were hungry?⁴ He entered the house of God and took and ate the bread of the Presence, which it is not lawful for any but the priests to eat, and gave some to his companions?”⁵ Then he said to them, “The Son of Man is lord of the sabbath.”

⁶ On another sabbath he entered the synagogue and taught, and there was a man there whose right hand was withered.⁷ The scribes and the Pharisees watched him to see whether he would cure on the sabbath, so that they might find an accusation against him.⁸ Even though he knew what they were thinking, he said to the man who had the withered hand, “Come and stand here.” He got up and stood there.⁹ Then Jesus said to them, “I ask you, is it lawful to do good or to do harm on the sabbath, to save life or to destroy it?”¹⁰ After looking around at all of them, he said to him, “Stretch out your hand.” He did so, and his hand was restored.¹¹ But they were filled with fury and discussed with one another what they might do to Jesus.

¹² Now during those days he went out to the mountain to pray; and he spent the night in prayer to God.¹³ And when day came, he called his disciples and chose twelve of them, whom he also named apostles:¹⁴ Simon, whom he named Peter, and his brother Andrew, and James, and John, and Philip, and Bartholomew,¹⁵ and Matthew, and Thomas, and James son of Alphaeus, and Simon, who was called the Zealot,¹⁶ and Judas son of James, and Judas Iscariot, who became a traitor.

¹⁷ He came down with them and stood on a level place, with a great crowd of his disciples and a great multitude of people from all Judea, Jerusalem, and the coast of

^a Other ancient authorities read better; others lack verse 39

^b Other ancient authorities read On the second first sabbath

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities add to do

36: Parable, memorable word-pictures or stories that communicated the essence of Jesus’s message concerning God. 39: Found only in Luke, this saying is obscure. It may be ironic, indicating that contentment with the old prevents openness to the new.

6.1–11: Eating and healing on the sabbath (Mt 12.1–14; Mk 2.23–3.6). 2: Harvesting violated the sabbath rest (Ex 34.21). Lawful means “permissible”; in this context permissible according to the law of Moses. 3: 1 Sam 21.1–6. 4: Lev 24.5–9. 5: See 5.24n. 6: See 4.31n. The right hand was favored (Gen 48.13–22). 9: Jesus implies that to refuse to do good is to do evil. 11: The Gk word “anoia” translated “fury” ordinarily means “lack of understanding.”

6.12–16: Jesus’s selection of the twelve (Mt 10.1–4; Mk 3.13–19a). Other lists of the twelve occur at Mt 10.2–4; Mk 3.16–19; Acts 1.13; while there is variation, Peter is always first and Judas Iscariot last. 13: “The twelve” (8.1; Acts 6.2; etc.) are a recognized group in early Christianity. Luke designates the twelve as apostles in a way that equates the two titles. “Apostle” (from the Gk verb “apostellein,” “to send”) designates a person commissioned to preach the gospel, essentially as a missionary. The number twelve has eschatological significance (see 22.30 and cf. 9.17). 14: The name “Peter” is a nickname, meaning “rock” (cf. Mt 16.13). 15: Zealots were revolutionaries in the Jewish rebellion against Rome 66–70 CE, but whether this Simon was a zealot rebel is debatable since the Zealot party did not exist during Jesus’s lifetime. 16: Iscariot probably means “the man from Kerioth” (see Josh 15.25); if so, then this Judas was the only Judean among the twelve.

6.17–49: The Sermon on the Plain (Mt 5–7).

Tyre and Sidon.¹⁸ They had come to hear him and to be healed of their diseases; and those who were troubled with unclean spirits were cured.¹⁹ And all in the crowd were trying to touch him, for power came out from him and healed all of them.

²⁰ Then he looked up at his disciples and said:

“Blessed are you who are poor, for yours is the kingdom of God.

²¹ “Blessed are you who are hungry now,
for you will be filled.

“Blessed are you who weep now,
for you will laugh.

²² “Blessed are you when people hate you, and when they exclude you, revile you, and defame you^a on account of the Son of Man.

²³ Rejoice in that day and leap for joy, for surely your reward is great in heaven; for that is what their ancestors did to the prophets.

²⁴ “But woe to you who are rich,
for you have received your consolation.

²⁵ “Woe to you who are full now,
for you will be hungry.

“Woe to you who are laughing now,
for you will mourn and weep.

²⁶ “Woe to you when all speak well of you, for that is what their ancestors did to the false prophets.

²⁷ “But I say to you that listen, Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, ²⁸ bless those who curse you, pray for those who abuse you. ²⁹ If anyone strikes you on the cheek, offer the other also; and from anyone who takes away your coat do not withhold even your shirt. ³⁰ Give to everyone who begs from you; and if anyone takes away your goods, do not ask for them again. ³¹ Do to others as you would have them do to you.

³² “If you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them. ³³ If you do good to those who do good to you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners do the same. ³⁴ If you lend to those from whom you hope to receive, what credit is that to you? Even sinners lend to sinners, to receive as much again.

³⁵ But love your enemies, do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return.^b Your reward will be great, and you will be children of the Most High; for he is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked. ³⁶ Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful.

³⁷ “Do not judge, and you will not be judged; do not condemn, and you will not be condemned. Forgive, and you will be forgiven; ³⁸ give, and it will be given to you. A good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, will be put into your lap; for the measure you give will be the measure you get back.”

³⁹ He also told them a parable: “Can a blind person guide a blind person? Will not both fall into a pit? ⁴⁰ A disciple is not above the teacher, but everyone who is fully qualified will be like the teacher. ⁴¹ Why do you see the speck in your neighbor’s^c eye, but do not notice the log in your own eye? ⁴² Or how

^a Gk cast out your name as evil

^b Other ancient authorities read despairing of no one

^c Gk brother’s

6.17–19: The occasion of the preaching (Mt 4.24–5.2; Mk 3.7–13a). 17: Level place; cf. Mt 5.1. 18: Unclean spirits designates “spirits” opposed to God. “Clean” and “unclean” were religious terms, not sanitary conditions, and were categories of “holiness” or “sanctity.” 19: Luke emphasizes both the throngs from many locales pressing on Jesus and Jesus’s miraculous power.

6.20–23: The beatitudes (Mt 5.3–12). The focus is on economic and social conditions, not spiritual states. Some detect hyperbolic dimensions in these verses.

6.24–26: The woes. A point-by-point antithesis to the blessings in vv. 20–23. Again, Jesus’s statements refer to actual circumstances. The earthly status of those addressed will be reversed in the divinely determined future. Cf. Mt 23.13–33.

6.27–36: The love of enemies (Mt 5.38–48; 7.12). Jesus demands love and forbids retaliation. 28: Jesus exemplifies this love on the cross in Luke 23.34. 31: Luke’s version of the “Golden Rule”; cf. Mt 7.12. 34–35: For Israelite laws concerning loans, see Ex 22.25; Lev 25.36–37; Deut 23.19–20. 35: The word translated as wicked also means “useless” or “worthless.” 36: Cf. Mt 5.48; God’s actions and character provide the standard.

6.37–42: On judging others (Mt 7.1–5; 12.36–37; 15.14; Mk 4.24–25). 41–42: The form of this teaching is hyperbole.

can you say to your neighbor,^a ‘Friend,^a let me take out the speck in your eye,’ when you yourself do not see the log in your own eye? You hypocrite, first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your neighbor’s^b eye.

⁴³“No good tree bears bad fruit, nor again does a bad tree bear good fruit; ⁴⁴for each tree is known by its own fruit. Figs are not gathered from thorns, nor are grapes picked from a bramble bush. ⁴⁵The good person out of the good treasure of the heart produces good, and the evil person out of evil treasure produces evil; for it is out of the abundance of the heart that the mouth speaks.

⁴⁶“Why do you call me ‘Lord, Lord,’ and do not do what I tell you? ⁴⁷I will show you what someone is like who comes to me, hears my words, and acts on them. ⁴⁸That one is like a man building a house, who dug deeply and laid the foundation on rock; when a flood arose, the river burst against that house but could not shake it, because it had been well built. ^c⁴⁹But the one who hears and does not act is like a man who built a house on the ground without a foundation. When the river burst against it, immediately it fell, and great was the ruin of that house.”

7 After Jesus^d had finished all his sayings in the hearing of the people, he entered Capernaum. ²A centurion there had a slave whom he valued highly, and who was ill and close to death. ³When he heard about Jesus, he sent some Jewish elders to him, asking him to come and heal his slave. ⁴When they came to Jesus, they appealed to him earnestly, saying, “He is worthy of having you do this for him, ⁵for he loves our people, and it is he who built our synagogue for us.” ⁶And Jesus went with them, but when he was not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to say to him, “Lord, do not trouble yourself, for I am not worthy to have you come under my roof; ⁷therefore I did not presume to come to you. But only speak the word, and let my servant be healed. ⁸For I also am a man set under authority, with soldiers under me; and I say to one, ‘Go,’ and he goes, and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes, and to my slave, ‘Do this,’ and the slave does it.” ⁹When Jesus heard this he was amazed at him, and turning to the crowd that followed him, he said, “I tell you, not even in Israel have I found such faith.” ¹⁰When those who had been sent returned to the house, they found the slave in good health.

¹¹Soon afterwards^e he went to a town called Nain, and his disciples and a large crowd went with him. ¹²As he approached the gate of the town, a man who had died was being carried out. He was his mother’s only son, and she was a widow; and with her was a large crowd from the town. ¹³When the Lord saw her, he had compassion for her and said to her, “Do not weep.” ¹⁴Then he came forward and touched the bier, and the bearers

^a Gk brother

^b Gk brother’s

^c Other ancient authorities read founded upon the rock

^d Gk he

^e Other ancient authorities read Next day

6.43–45: The sources of good and evil (Mt 7:15–20; 12:33–35). Cf. Jas 3:11–12. 45: Heart, for the ancients the heart was an individual’s mental and spiritual center.

6.46–49: The wise and the foolish builders (Mt 7:21–27). Cf. Jas 1:22–25. 46: Perhaps a post-resurrection saying.

7:1–10: The centurion’s slave (Mt 8:5–13). This story parallels Peter’s conversion of the Gentile centurion Cornelius, who also was generous to the Jews; see Acts 10:1–2. 2: Centurion, an officer in charge of 100 soldiers. This particular centurion was either an employee of Herod Antipas, part of the Roman police force, or an official attached to the customs service. 3: Elders, leaders in the Jewish community. 4–6: The story includes a play on the word worthy. 6: According to Acts 10:28, the house of a Gentile was considered unclean, so that entering it defiled a Jew (see also m. Oholot 18.7). Lord in its use here is more likely respectful than theological. 9: Though Luke lacks the climactic utterance of Mt 8:13, his intent is the same: Jesus accepts a Gentile’s faith (4:27; 5:32).

7:11–17: The widow’s son at Nain. Cf. 1 Kings 17:17–24; 2 Kings 4:32–37; see Lk 4:25–26. 11: Nain, about 23 mi (37 km) southwest of Capernaum. 12: Cemeteries were located outside a city. With the death of her only son, the widow is utterly destitute. 14–16: The similarity of Jesus’s action to that of Elijah in raising the only son of stood still. And he said, “Young man, I say to you, rise!”¹⁵ The dead man sat up and began to speak, and Jesus^a gave him to his mother.¹⁶ Fear seized all of them; and they glorified God, saying, “A great prophet has risen among us!” and “God has looked favorably on his people!”¹⁷ This word about him spread throughout Judea and all the surrounding country.

¹⁸The disciples of John reported all these things to him. So John summoned two of his disciples¹⁹ and sent them to the Lord to ask, “Are you the one who is to come, or are we to wait for another?”²⁰ When the men had come to him, they said, “John the Baptist has sent us to you to ask, ‘Are you the one who is to come, or are we to wait for another?’”²¹ Jesus^b had just then cured many people of diseases, plagues, and evil spirits, and had given sight to many who were blind.²² And he answered them, “Go and tell John what you have seen and heard: the blind receive their sight, the lame walk, the lepers^c are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, the poor have good news brought to them.²³ And blessed is anyone who takes no offense at me.”

²⁴When John’s messengers had gone, Jesus^a began to speak to the crowds about John:^d “What did you go out into the wilderness to look at? A reed shaken by the wind?²⁵ What then did you go out to see? Someone^e dressed in soft robes? Look, those who put on fine clothing and live in luxury are in royal palaces.²⁶ What then did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet.²⁷ This is the one about whom it is written, who will prepare your way before you.’

‘See, I am sending my messenger ahead of you,

²⁸I tell you, among those born of women no one is greater than John; yet the least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.”²⁹ (And all the people who heard this, including the tax collectors, acknowledged the justice of God,^f because they had been baptized with John’s baptism.³⁰ But by refusing to be baptized by him, the Pharisees and the lawyers rejected God’s purpose for themselves.)

³¹“To what then will I compare the people of this generation, and what are they like?

³²They are like children sitting in the marketplace and calling to one another,

‘We played the flute for you, and you did not dance;

we wailed, and you did not weep.’

³³For John the Baptist has come eating no bread and drinking no wine, and you say, ‘He has a demon’; ³⁴the Son of Man has come eating and drinking, and you say, ‘Look, a glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!’³⁵ Nevertheless, wisdom is vindicated by all her children.”

³⁶One of the Pharisees asked Jesus^d to eat with him, and he went into the Pharisee’s house and took his place at the table.³⁷ And a woman in the city, who was a sinner, having

^a Gk he

^b Gk He

^c The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^d Gk him

^e Or Why then did you go out? To see someone

^f Or praised God

a widow of Zarephath (1 Kings 17) elicits a reaction. 17: This reference to Judea anticipates Jesus’s journey to Jerusalem (9.51–19.27) and his last days there (19.28–24.53). See also 4.44n.

7:18–35: Jesus and John the Baptist (Mt 11.2–19). 18: John the Baptist was imprisoned (see 2.9) at Machaerus, east of the Dead Sea. 19: Lord, Luke’s title for Jesus. The one who is to come, the Messiah. 22: This verse contains phrases from Isa 29.18; 42.18; 26.19; see also Isa 35.5–6; 61.1; Lk 4.18–19. 24–30: Jesus’s statements indicate that John is Jesus’s precursor, the messenger of Mal 3.1, identified in Mal 4.5 as Elijah. John is an Elijah-like figure, not Elijah reincarnated. 25: An ironic statement since John is in a royal jail. 27: Ex 23.20; Mal 3.1. 28: A pivotal point arises with the ministries of John and Jesus. 30: The Pharisees and the lawyers are specific individuals, not everyone in their class. 33: Demon possession explains unconventional behavior or inappropriate attitudes. 35: Personification of “Wisdom” (cf., e.g., Prov 9.1; Wis 6.12) refers to God and God’s purposes; thus, Wisdom’s children are those who do God’s will.

7:36–50: Simon the Pharisee, Jesus, and the woman with the ointment (Mt 26.6–13; Mk 14.3–9; Jn 12.1–8). 36: A positive encounter between Jesus and a Pharisee; cf. 11.37; 14.1. 37–38: Luke loosens his reserved style to learned that he was eating in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster jar of ointment.³⁸ She stood behind him at his feet, weeping, and began to bathe his feet with her tears and to dry them with her hair. Then she continued kissing his feet and anointing them with the ointment.³⁹ Now when the Pharisee who had invited him saw it, he said to himself, "If this man were a prophet, he would have known who and what kind of woman this is who is touching him—that she is a sinner."⁴⁰ Jesus spoke up and said to him, "Simon, I have something to say to you." "Teacher," he replied, "speak."⁴¹ "A certain creditor had two debtors; one owed five hundred denarii,^a and the other fifty.⁴² When they could not pay, he canceled the debts for both of them. Now which of them will love him more?"⁴³ Simon answered, "I suppose the one for whom he canceled the greater debt." And Jesus^b said to him, "You have judged rightly."⁴⁴ Then turning toward the woman, he said to Simon, "Do you see this woman? I entered your house; you gave me no water for my feet, but she has bathed my feet with her tears and dried them with her hair.⁴⁵ You gave me no kiss, but from the time I came in she has not stopped kissing my feet.⁴⁶ You did not anoint my head with oil, but she has anointed my feet with ointment.⁴⁷ Therefore, I tell you, her sins, which were many, have been forgiven; hence she has shown great love. But the one to whom little is forgiven, loves little."⁴⁸ Then he said to her, "Your sins are forgiven."⁴⁹ But those who were at the table with him began to say among themselves, "Who is this who even forgives sins?"⁵⁰ And he said to the woman, "Your faith has saved you; go in peace."

8 Soon afterwards he went on through cities and villages, proclaiming and bringing the good news of the kingdom of God. The twelve were with him,² as well as some women who had been cured of evil spirits and infirmities: Mary, called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone out,³ and Joanna, the wife of Herod's steward Chuza, and Susanna, and many others, who provided for them^c out of their resources.

⁴ When a great crowd gathered and people from town after town came to him, he said in a parable:⁵ "A sower went out to sow his seed; and as he sowed, some fell on the path and was trampled on, and the birds of the air ate it up.⁶ Some fell on the rock; and as it grew up, it withered for lack of moisture.⁷ Some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew with it and choked it.⁸ Some fell into good soil, and when it grew, it produced a hundred-fold." As he said this, he called out, "Let anyone with ears to hear listen!"

^a The denarius was the usual day's wage for a laborer

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities read him

describe the woman's outlandish behavior. 37: Houses were open to intrusion of this kind (cf. Mk 1.33; 2.2). The story gives no indication of the nature of the woman's sins. 38: Jesus reclined at the banquet table, stretching out his feet on a couch. Why the woman anointed Jesus's feet rather than his head is unclear. 40: Simon the Pharisee's name occurs for the first time; the woman remains anonymous; Jesus himself is called Teacher for the first time. 44–46: Jesus's explanation of the woman's actions implicitly reprimands his host. 47–48: Hence she has shown great love, her love proving that her many sins had been forgiven. Cf. 5.20. 49: Whether this question is hostile is not apparent. 50: Cf. 8.48; 17.19; 18.42. The story combines ideas of faith, salvation, forgiveness, and peace.

8.1–3: Jesus's tour and the ministering women. These verses illustrate the itinerant character of Jesus's ministry. His message is "the good news of the kingdom of God"; cf. 4.43. His entourage included an unusual combination of male and female followers. The twelve are recognized as in 4.43, and they are mentioned first, indicating their significance. Given ancient attitudes toward women, the inclusion of Galilean women is remarkable. Many of those mentioned here later follow Jesus to Jerusalem and witness his passion and resurrection; see 23.49. 2: Mary, called Magdalene, apparently from Magdala (Taricheae) on the western coast of the Lake of Gennesaret (the Sea of Galilee). She is not the woman in 7.36–50. 3: Herod's steward was probably a domestic administrator. Others, i.e., other women.

8.4–8: Parable of the sower (Mt 13.1–9; Mk 4.1–9). The parable invites allegorical interpretation, which follows in 8.11–15. 4: Parable up to this point has referred to similitudes and proverbs; here it means an exemplary narrative.

⁹Then his disciples asked him what this parable meant. ¹⁰He said, “To you it has been given to know the secrets^a of the kingdom of God; but to others I speak^b in parables, so that

‘looking they may not perceive,
and listening they may not understand.’

¹¹“Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God. ¹²The ones on the path are those who have heard; then the devil comes and takes away the word from their hearts, so that they may not believe and be saved.

¹³The ones on the rock are those who, when they hear the word, receive it with joy. But these have no root; they believe only for a while and in a time of testing fall away. ¹⁴As for what fell among the thorns, these are the ones who hear; but as they go on their way, they are choked by the cares and riches and pleasures of life, and their fruit does not mature. ¹⁵But as for that in the good soil, these are the ones who, when they hear the word, hold it fast in an honest and good heart, and bear fruit with patient endurance.

¹⁶“No one after lighting a lamp hides it under a jar, or puts it under a bed, but puts it on a lampstand, so that those who enter may see the light. ¹⁷For nothing is hidden that will not be disclosed, nor is anything secret that will not become known and come to light.

¹⁸Then pay attention to how you listen; for to those who have, more will be given; and from those who do not have, even what they seem to have will be taken away.”

¹⁹Then his mother and his brothers came to him, but they could not reach him because of the crowd. ²⁰And he was told, “Your mother and your brothers are standing outside, wanting to see you.” ²¹But he said to them, “My mother and my brothers are those who hear the word of God and do it.”

²²One day he got into a boat with his disciples, and he said to them, “Let us go across to the other side of the lake.” So they put out, ²³and while they were sailing he fell asleep. A windstorm swept down on the lake, and the boat was filling with water, and they were in danger. ²⁴They went to him and woke him up, shouting, “Master, Master, we are perishing!” And he woke up and rebuked the wind and the raging waves; they ceased, and there was a calm. ²⁵He said to them, “Where is your faith?” They were afraid and amazed, and said to one another, “Who then is this, that he commands even the winds and the water, and they obey him?”

²⁶Then they arrived at the country of the Gerasenes,^c which is opposite Galilee. ²⁷As

^a Or mysteries

^b Gk lacks I speak

^c Other ancient authorities read Gadarenes; others, Gergesenes

8.9–10: Jesus’s explanation of parables (Mt 13.10–17; Mk 4.1–10). 10: Paraphrase of Isa 6.9–10. See Mk 4.11; Mt 13.11; Jer 5.21; Ezek 12.2. The statement implies that parables created obscurity while actually revealing a message.

8.11–15: Interpretation of the parable of the sower (Mt 13.18–23; Mk 4.13–20). The words “devil,” “saved,” and “time of testing” are typical in apocalyptic writings. 11: As in 5.1 “the word of God” refers to the basic message of believers, rooted in Jesus’s ministry, and ultimately God’s own word (5.1; 8.11,21; 11.28; and fourteen times in Acts). 15: The words honest and good, spoken of the heart (cf. Mk 7.21–23), echo the classical Greek description of the true gentleman. Heart, see 6.45n.

8.16–18: On purposeful action and on obedient listening (Mt 5.15; 10.26; 13.12; Mk 4.21–25).

8.19–21: Jesus’s true relatives (Mt 12.46–50; Mk 3.31–35). 19: Brothers, four names are given in Mk 6.3, which also mentions sisters. The early church provided several explanations, usually that they were sons of Joseph by a previous marriage, or that they were cousins, or that they were the natural children of Joseph and Mary. 21: Luke softens Mark’s version of Jesus’s reply, not repeating items such as Mk 3.20–21,33, so that the natural family of Jesus is not rejected as Jesus highlights the importance of obedience to God as the criterion for intimacy among Jesus’s followers.

8.22–25: Winds and water obey (Mt 8.23–27; Mk 4.35–41). Power over the elements is a divine capacity celebrated in the Psalms (e.g., 107.28–30). 24–25: Calling Jesus “Master,” the disciples are amazed at his authority.

8.26–39: The Gerasene man possessed by demons (Mt 8.28–34; Mk 5.1–20). 26: Gerasenes, the city of Gerasa (modern Jerash) was in central Transjordan; its population was largely non-Jewish. Matthew 8.28 has Gadara, he stepped out on land, a man of the city who had demons met him. For a long time he had worn^a no clothes, and he did not live in a house but in the tombs.²⁸ When he saw Jesus, he fell down before him and shouted at the top of his voice, “What have you to do with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torment me”—²⁹ for Jesus^b had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. (For many times it had seized him; he was kept under guard and bound with chains and shackles, but he would break the bonds and be driven by the demon into the wilds.)³⁰ Jesus then asked him, “What is your name?” He said, “Legion”; for many demons had entered him.³¹ They begged him not to order them to go back into the abyss.

³² Now there on the hillside a large herd of swine was feeding; and the demons^c begged Jesus^d to let them enter these. So he gave them permission.³³ Then the demons came out of the man and entered the swine, and the herd rushed down the steep bank into the lake and was drowned.

³⁴ When the swineherds saw what had happened, they ran off and told it in the city and in the country.³⁵ Then people came out to see what had happened, and when they came to Jesus, they found the man from whom the demons had gone sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed and in his right mind. And they were afraid.³⁶ Those who had seen it told them how the one who had been possessed by demons had been healed.³⁷ Then all the people of the surrounding country of the Gerasenes^e asked Jesus^d to leave them; for they were seized with great fear. So he got into the boat and returned.³⁸ The man from whom the demons had gone begged that he might be with him; but Jesus^b sent him away, saying,³⁹ “Return to your home, and declare how much God has done for you.” So he went away, proclaiming throughout the city how much Jesus had done for him.

⁴⁰ Now when Jesus returned, the crowd welcomed him, for they were all waiting for him.⁴¹ Just then there came a man named Jairus, a leader of the synagogue. He fell at Jesus’ feet and begged him to come to his house,⁴² for he had an only daughter, about twelve years old, who was dying.

As he went, the crowds pressed in on him.⁴³ Now there was a woman who had been suffering from hemorrhages for twelve years; and though she had spent all she had on physicians,^f no one could cure her.⁴⁴ She came up behind him and touched the fringe of his clothes, and immediately her hemorrhage stopped.⁴⁵ Then Jesus asked, “Who touched me?” When all denied it, Peter^g said, “Master, the crowds surround you and press in on you.”⁴⁶ But Jesus said, “Someone touched me; for I noticed that power had ^a Other ancient authorities read a man of the city who had had demons for a long time met him. He wore

^b Gk he

^c Gk they

^d Gk him

^e Other ancient authorities read Gadarenes; others, Gergesenes

^f Other ancient authorities lack and though she had spent all she had on physicians

^g Other ancient authorities add and those who were with him southeast of the Lake of Gennesaret (the Sea of Galilee), a setting that better fits the narrative (see map on p. 1503). 28: The man possessed by demons recognized Jesus’s true identity. 30: Asking for the name of the demon reflects the ancient idea that knowing the name of a supernatural power gave one control over it (see, e.g., Gen 32.29). Legion, a division of the Roman army, about five thousand troops; the name suggests a horde of demons (see 11.24–26). 31: Abyss, a place of confinement for demonic forces which are ultimately under God’s control (Rev 9.1–11; 11.7; 17.8; 20.1–3). The words attribute judicial authority to Jesus (Mt 7.21–23; 11.20–24). 32: Swine, Jews were prohibited from eating pork (Lev 11.7; Deut 14.8), but the pigs were raised by Gentiles in this and other regions. 35: The restored man assumes the posture of an ideal disciple; cf. Acts 22.3. 39: Contrast Jesus’s instructions to “declare how much God has done for you” with the man’s action of “proclaiming throughout the city how much Jesus has done for him.”

8.40–56: Jairus’s daughter and the hemorrhaging woman (Mt 9.18–26; Mk 5.21–43). 41: Leader of the synagogue, one responsible for overseeing the worship and life of the congregation. 42: Parallel elements incorporate the two stories into a larger whole—e.g., “daughter” (vv. 42,48,49) and “twelve years” (vv. 42,43). 43: Cf. Lev 15.25– gone out from me.”⁴⁷ When the woman saw that she could not remain hidden, she came trembling; and falling down before him, she declared in the presence of all the people why she had touched him, and how she had been immediately healed.⁴⁸ He said to her, “Daughter, your faith has made you well; go in peace.”

⁴⁹ While he was still speaking, someone came from the leader’s house to say, “Your daughter is dead; do not trouble the teacher any longer.”⁵⁰ When Jesus heard this, he replied, “Do not fear. Only believe, and she will be saved.”⁵¹ When he came to the house, he did not allow anyone to enter with him, except Peter, John, and James, and the child’s father and mother.⁵² They were all weeping and wailing for her; but he said, “Do not weep; for she is not dead but sleeping.”⁵³ And they laughed at him, knowing that she was dead.⁵⁴ But he took her by the hand and called out, “Child, get up!”⁵⁵ Her spirit returned, and she got up at once. Then he directed them to give her something to eat.⁵⁶ Her parents were astounded; but he ordered them to tell no one what had happened.

9 Then Jesus^a called the twelve together and gave them power and authority over all demons and to cure diseases,² and he sent them out to proclaim the kingdom of God and to heal.³ He said to them, “Take nothing for your journey, no staff, nor bag, nor bread, nor money—not even an extra tunic.⁴ Whatever house you enter, stay there, and leave from there.⁵ Wherever they do not welcome you, as you are leaving that town shake the dust off your feet as a testimony against them.”⁶ They departed and went through the villages, bringing the good news and curing diseases everywhere.

⁷ Now Herod the ruler^b heard about all that had taken place, and he was perplexed, because it was said by some that John had been raised from the dead,⁸ by some that Elijah had appeared, and by others that one of the ancient prophets had arisen.⁹ Herod said, “John I beheaded; but who is this about whom I hear such things?” And he tried to see him.

¹⁰ On their return the apostles told Jesus^c all they had done. He took them with him and withdrew privately to a city called Bethsaida.¹¹ When the crowds found out about it, they followed him; and he welcomed them, and spoke to them about the kingdom of God, and healed those who needed to be cured.

¹² The day was drawing to a close, and the twelve came to him and said, “Send the crowd away, so that they may go into the surrounding villages and countryside, to lodge and get provisions; for we are here in a deserted place.”¹³ But he said to them, “You give them something to eat.” They said, “We have no more than five loaves and two fish—unless we are to go and buy food for all these

^a Gk he

^b Gk tetrarch

^c Gk him

30. The cause of the hemorrhaging is not specified. 48: Has made you well, lit., “has saved you” (cf. 7.50). Both the woman and the girl (v. 50) are “saved.” 49: While engaged in healing, Jesus is nevertheless called teacher. 51: Peter, John, and James receive special recognition twice (8.51; 9.28). 55: Cf. 1 Kings 17.22.

9.1–6: Commissioning the twelve (Mt 10.1–14; Mk 6.6b–13). Sharing power with the disciples indicates their extension of Jesus’s ministry as confirmed by their authority over demons and diseases. 2: The twelve proclaim the kingdom of God. 3–4: These instructions contrast with the practices of Cynic philosophers (see Mk 6.8n.). 3: The command to take nothing for [the] journey forces the twelve to rely completely on God. 5: The act of shaking off dust was a graphic demonstration of renouncing further responsibility for those who did not welcome them; cf. 10.10–12.

9.7–9: Herod’s curiosity about Jesus (Mt 14.1–2; Mk 6.14–16). Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great, is called Herod the ruler, lit., “Herod the tetrarch”; see 3.1n. Cf. 9.18–19. 9: John I beheaded, see Mk 6.17–29. Tried to see him, cf. 23.7–9.

9.10–11: The apostles return and the crowds follow Jesus (Mt 14.12–14; Mk 6.30–34). 10: Bethsaida, located just north of the Lake of Gennesaret (the Sea of Galilee).

9.12–17: Feeding of the five thousand (Mt 14.15–21; Mk 6.35–44; Jn 6.5–14). The only miracle found in all four people.”¹⁴ For there were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, “Make them sit down in groups of about fifty each.”

¹⁵ They did so and made them all sit down.

¹⁶ And taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven, and blessed and broke them, and gave them to the disciples to set before the crowd. ¹⁷ And all ate and were filled. What was left over was gathered up, twelve baskets of broken pieces.

¹⁸ Once when Jesus^a was praying alone, with only the disciples near him, he asked them, “Who do the crowds say that I am?”

¹⁹ They answered, “John the Baptist; but others, Elijah; and still others, that one of the ancient prophets has arisen.” ²⁰ He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?” Peter answered, “The Messiah^b of God.”

²¹ He sternly ordered and commanded them not to tell anyone, ²² saying, “The Son of Man must undergo great suffering, and be rejected by the elders, chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised.”

²³ Then he said to them all, “If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross daily and follow me. ²⁴ For those who want to save their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake will save it. ²⁵ What does it profit them if they gain the whole world, but lose or forfeit themselves? ²⁶ Those who are ashamed of me and of my words, of them the Son of Man will be ashamed when he comes in his glory and the glory of the Father and of the holy angels. ²⁷ But truly I tell you, there are some standing here who will not taste death before they see the kingdom of God.”

²⁸ Now about eight days after these sayings Jesus^a took with him Peter and John and James, and went up on the mountain to pray.

²⁹ And while he was praying, the appearance of his face changed, and his clothes became dazzling white. ³⁰ Suddenly they saw two men, Moses and Elijah, talking to him.

³¹ They appeared in glory and were speaking of his departure, which he was about to accomplish at Jerusalem. ³² Now Peter and his companions were weighed down with sleep; but since they had stayed awake,^c they saw his glory and the two men who stood with him. ³³ Just as they were leaving him, Peter said to Jesus, “Master, it is good for us to be here; let us make three dwellings,^d one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah”—not

^a Gk he

^b Or The Christ

^c Or but when they were fully awake

^d Or tents

Gospels. 14: Five thousand men, not counting any women and children. 16: The language anticipates the account of the Last Supper in 22.17–20.

9.18–20: Peter’s confession (Mt 16.13–19; Mk 8.27–29). 19: The answers to Jesus’s question illustrate the variety of expectations (some messianic) among Jews of Jesus’s day. The Messiah of God, lit., “God’s anointed one,” a title that typically named a royal Davidic leader who would reconstitute the former political glory of Israel.

9.21–22: Jesus’s command to silence and first prediction of his death (Mt 16.20–21; Mk 8.30–31). Jesus’s forceful direction to silence probably reflects a desire to prevent misunderstandings of his “messianic” work. Luke’s version of this prediction does not have Peter attempt to redirect Jesus’s commitments, so that Peter’s confession (9.20) retains more force in this version than in Mark’s account, where Jesus rebukes him (Mk 8.32–33). 22: Luke’s phrase, to be raised, modifies Mark’s “to rise” (cf. Mk 8.31). The passive focuses on God as agent.

9.23–27: The requirements of discipleship (Mt 16.24–28; Mk 8.34–9.1). 23: Take up their cross daily and follow me, the Greek is in the singular (lit., “anyone . . . his”), so that the challenge is intensely personal. The qualifier daily highlights the ongoing character of discipleship. 26: Jesus’s words anticipate the day of divine judgment. 27: Jesus’s enigmatic statement perhaps refers to the time after the resurrection.

9.28–36: The Transfiguration (Mt 17.1–9; Mk 9.2–10). This account points to an intense religious experience. Unnatural brilliance is associated with mystical experiences elsewhere (Ex 34.29–35; Acts 9.3). 28: About eight days, indicates the passage of a week; in the early church “the eighth day” designated both the Lord’s day and the day of Jesus’s resurrection, the first day of a new creation. 30: Moses and Elijah, paragons of the faith of Israel: Moses the lawgiver and Elijah the great prophet. 31: Departure, lit., “exodus,” referring to Jesus’s death, resurrection, and ascension. 32: The disciples’ sleepiness suggests that this event transpired at night (cf. 22.45). 33: Peter’s proposal concerning three dwellings seeks to preserve the experience. Though Peter acknowledged knowing what he said.³⁴ While he was saying this, a cloud came and overshadowed them; and they were terrified as they entered the cloud.³⁵ Then from the cloud came a voice that said, “This is my Son, my Chosen;^a listen to him!”³⁶ When the voice had spoken, Jesus was found alone. And they kept silent and in those days told no one any of the things they had seen.

³⁷ On the next day, when they had come down from the mountain, a great crowd met him.³⁸ Just then a man from the crowd shouted, “Teacher, I beg you to look at my son; he is my only child.³⁹ Suddenly a spirit seizes him, and all at once he^b shrieks. It convulses him until he foams at the mouth; it mauls him and will scarcely leave him.⁴⁰ I begged your disciples to cast it out, but they could not.”⁴¹ Jesus answered, “You faithless and perverse generation, how much longer must I be with you and bear with you? Bring your son here.”⁴² While he was coming, the demon dashed him to the ground in convulsions. But Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, healed the boy, and gave him back to his father.⁴³ And all were astounded at the greatness of God.

While everyone was amazed at all that he was doing, he said to his disciples,⁴⁴ “Let these words sink into your ears: The Son of Man is going to be betrayed into human hands.”⁴⁵ But they did not understand this saying; its meaning was concealed from them, so that they could not perceive it. And they were afraid to ask him about this saying.

⁴⁶ An argument arose among them as to which one of them was the greatest.⁴⁷ But Jesus, aware of their inner thoughts, took a little child and put it by his side,⁴⁸ and said to them, “Whoever welcomes this child in my name welcomes me, and whoever welcomes me welcomes the one who sent me; for the least among all of you is the greatest.”

⁴⁹ John answered, “Master, we saw someone casting out demons in your name, and we tried to stop him, because he does not follow with us.”⁵⁰ But Jesus said to him, “Do not stop him; for whoever is not against you is for you.”

⁵¹ When the days drew near for him to be taken up, he set his face to go to Jerusalem.

⁵² And he sent messengers ahead of him. On their way they entered a village of the Samaritans to make ready for him;⁵³ but they did not receive him, because his face was

^a Other ancient authorities read my Beloved

^b Or it

Jesus’s authority as Master, his desire for three dwellings could assume that Jesus and Moses and Elijah were equals. 34: The cloud is reminiscent of Israel’s Exodus experience of God; see Ex 13.21–22. 35: The voice of God (see 3.22), and the command, listen to him, focus the attention and obedience of the disciples on Jesus above all others.

9.37–43a: Jesus heals an afflicted boy (Mt 17.14–21; Mk 9.14–29). Some scholars conclude that the description refers to epilepsy, but any diagnosis is speculative.

9.43b–45: A second prediction (Mt 17.22–23; Mk 9.30–32). Cf. 9.22; 18.31–33. 44: A much-abbreviated form of Mark’s second prediction (Mk 9.31). See 9.22; 18.31–34; 17.25. 45: The comment indicates that the Messiah’s death was not part of the disciples’ Jewish faith, and that spiritual truth must be revealed (see 24.16).

9.46–48: True greatness (Mt 18.1–5; Mk 9.33–37). An acted parable rejecting self-centered ambition. 47: Receiving the little child requires generosity without expectation of gain. 48: The final clause anticipates later teaching about authority among disciples (18.15–17; 22.24–27).

9.49–50: The unknown exorcist (Mk 9.38–41). Jesus repudiates intolerance, though the statement in 11.23, indicates the necessity of aligning actions with Jesus’s values and work.

9.51–19.27: Jesus’s journey to Jerusalem with his followers (Mt 19.1–20.34; Mk 10.1–52). Most of this section, which reports the ministry of Jesus in Samaria and Judea, is unique to Luke.

9.51: Jesus’s resolve to go to Jerusalem (Mt 19.1–2; Mk 10.1). To be taken up, refers to the ascension, but also designates the suffering, death, and resurrection that led to it. He set his face to go to Jerusalem, states Jesus’s resolve using a Semitic idiom (see Isa 50.7).

9.52–56: Samaritans’ rejection of Jesus. 52–53: The Samaritans refused to help pilgrims going to worship at what they regarded as the wrong sanctuary (cf. Jn 4.20). 52: Samaritan is a geographical designation used also for inhabitants of Samaria, originally the capital of the Northern Kingdom of Israel that fell to the Assyrians in set toward Jerusalem. ⁵⁴ When his disciples James and John saw it, they said, “Lord, do you want us to command fire to come down from heaven and consume them?”^a ⁵⁵ But he turned and rebuked them. ⁵⁶ Then^b they went on to another village.

⁵⁷ As they were going along the road, someone said to him, “I will follow you wherever you go.” ⁵⁸ And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head.” ⁵⁹ To another he said, “Follow me.” But he said, “Lord, first let me go and bury my father.” ⁶⁰ But Jesus^c said to him, “Let the dead bury their own dead; but as for you, go and proclaim the kingdom of God.” ⁶¹ Another said, “I will follow you, Lord; but let me first say farewell to those at my home.” ⁶² Jesus said to him, “No one who puts a hand to the plow and looks back is fit for the kingdom of God.”

10 After this the Lord appointed seventy^d others and sent them on ahead of him in pairs to every town and place where he himself intended to go. ² He said to them, “The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; therefore ask the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest. ³ Go on your way. See, I am sending you out like lambs into the midst of wolves. ⁴ Carry no purse, no bag, no sandals; and greet no one on the road. ⁵ Whatever house you enter, first say, ‘Peace to this house!’

⁶ And if anyone is there who shares in peace, your peace will rest on that person; but if not, it will return to you. ⁷ Remain in the same house, eating and drinking whatever they provide, for the laborer deserves to be paid. Do not move about from house to house. ⁸ Whenever you enter a town and its people welcome you, eat what is set before you; ⁹ cure the sick who are there, and say to them, ‘The kingdom of God has come near to you.’^e ¹⁰ But whenever you enter a town and they do not welcome you, go out into its streets and say, ¹¹ ‘Even the dust of your town that clings to our feet, we wipe off in protest against you. Yet know this: the kingdom of God has come near.’^f ¹² I tell you, on that day it will be more tolerable for Sodom than for that town.

¹³ “Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the deeds of power done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. ¹⁴ But at the judgment it will

^a Other ancient authorities add as Elijah did

^b Other ancient authorities read rebuked them, and said, “You do not know what spirit you are of, ⁵⁶for the Son of Man has not come to destroy the lives of human beings but to save them.” Then

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities read seventy-two

^e Or is at hand for you

^f Or is at hand

722 BCE. Samaritan became a term for persons living between Judea and Galilee who were regarded as a distinct ethnic and religious group. Tensions had existed between Samaritans and Jews since the return of the Jews from exile in Babylon in 538 BCE; see Ezra 4–6. 54: Echoes 2 Kings 1.10–12 in which Elijah called down fire from heaven on hostile troops. See 9.3–5 for Jesus’s instructions for dealing with rejection.

9.57–62: The demands of following Jesus (Mt 8.18–22). Luke presents a collection of sayings emphasizing the necessity of complete commitment of Jesus’s followers. 59: From the statement that follows (v. 60), the man’s father was not yet dead; rather, the man used this responsibility to defer commitment to discipleship. 60: Let the dead bury their own dead, suggests that the spiritually dead should be left to bury the physically dead. 61: See 1 Kings 19.20.

10.1–12: The mission of the seventy (Mt 9.37–38; 10.7–16). 1: 9.1–5, 51–52; Mk 6.7–11. Some manuscripts read “seventy-two,” the number of nations in LXX of Gen 10, rather than seventy. 2: An eschatological saying emphasizing the urgency of the moment (also Mk 4.29; Mt 9.37–38; Jn 4.35). 4: Greet no one, which might cause delay, underscoring the urgency of the mission. 5–6: Peace is the translation of the Heb greeting “Shalom”; cf. 1 Sam 25.6. 7–11: These directions shift from the villages of Jesus’s ministry to the urban settings of Acts. 7: Deut 24.15. 9–11: The emphasis on the kingdom of God distinguishes these instructions from those at 9.3–5. 10–11: Cf. 9.5n. 12: Gen 19.24–28.

10.13–15: Woes to unrepentant cities (Mt 11.20–24). 13: Chorazin, a town 2 mi (3 km) north of Capernaum. Tyre and Sidon were Gentile cities on the Mediterranean coast north of Galilee. Sackcloth and ashes recalls Nin-be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon than for you.¹⁵ And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven?

No, you will be brought down to Hades.

¹⁶ “Whoever listens to you listens to me, and whoever rejects you rejects me, and whoever rejects me rejects the one who sent me.”

¹⁷ The seventy^a returned with joy, saying, “Lord, in your name even the demons submit to us!”¹⁸ He said to them, “I watched Satan fall from heaven like a flash of lightning.¹⁹ See, I have given you authority to tread on snakes and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing will hurt you.²⁰ Nevertheless, do not rejoice at this, that the spirits submit to you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven.”

²¹ At that same hour Jesus^b rejoiced in the Holy Spirit^c and said, “I thank^d you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and the intelligent and have revealed them to infants; yes, Father, for such was your gracious will.^e ²² All things have been handed over to me by my Father; and no one knows who the Son is except the Father, or who the Father is except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.”

²³ Then turning to the disciples, Jesus^b said to them privately, “Blessed are the eyes that see what you see!²⁴ For I tell you that many prophets and kings desired to see what you see, but did not see it, and to hear what you hear, but did not hear it.”

²⁵ Just then a lawyer stood up to test Jesus.^f “Teacher,” he said, “what must I do to inherit eternal life?”²⁶ He said to him, “What is written in the law? What do you read there?”²⁷ He answered, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself.”²⁸ And he said to him, “You have given the right answer; do this, and you will live.”

²⁹ But wanting to justify himself, he asked Jesus, “And who is my neighbor?”³⁰ Jesus replied, “A man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell into the hands of robbers, who stripped him, beat him, and went away, leaving him half dead.³¹ Now by chance a priest was going down that road; and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.³² So likewise a Levite, when he came to the place and saw him, passed by on the other side.

³³ But a Samaritan while traveling came near him; and when he saw him, he was moved

^a Other ancient authorities read seventy-two

^b Gk he

^c Other authorities read in the spirit

^d Or praise

^e Or for so it was well-pleasing in your sight

^f Gk him

evah's repentance in Jon 3. 15: Echoes Isa 14.13–15 (see v. 18). Hades, equivalent to Heb “Sheol,” the abode of the dead.

10.16: Jesus's interpretation of the mission (Mt 10.40).

10.17–20: Return of the seventy (Mt 11.25–27). 17: Even the demons submit to us, unlike the twelve (9.1), the seventy were not promised this power. 18: Satan fall from heaven, the victory of the seventy over demons pre-figures Satan's ultimate defeat; cf. Isa 14.15; Jn 12.31; Rev 12.7–12. 19: See Ps 91.13; Mk 16.17–18. 20: Exorcism in itself is not proof of God's kingdom (11.19). Written in heaven, Dan 12.1; Ps 69.28; Ex 32.32.

10.21–22: Jesus's thanksgiving to God (Mt 11.25–27). 21: In the Holy Spirit, which Jesus possessed from conception, readers first hear the content of Jesus's prayer. 22: Cf. Jn 3.35; 10.14–15; 13.1; 17.25.

10.23–24: Jesus's blessing of the disciples (Mt 13.16–17).

10.25–28: A lawyer's question (Mt 22.34–40; Mk 12.28–34; cf. Lk 18.9–14). 25: Lawyer, an expert in the law of Moses, synonymous with “scribe.” To test indicates hostility, yet he addresses Jesus as Teacher. For eternal life (also 10.25; 18.18,30) as a question in Jewish literature, see Dan 12.2; 4 Macc 15.3. 27: Deut 6.5; Lev 19.18.

10.29–37: Parable of the Good Samaritan. 29: Justify himself, to show that he was righteous before God. Jesus's answer expands Lev 19.18. 30: Down from Jerusalem to Jericho, about 18 mi (30 km) with a drop in elevation from 2,500 ft (760 m) above to 820 ft (250 m) below sea level on a road known for brigands. 31–32: The priest was probably returning from service in the Temple, as was the Levite, who was entrusted with minor duties in the Temple and its rituals. 33: A Samaritan (see 9.52n.), a foreigner not expected to show sympathy to Jews; with pity.³⁴ He went to him and bandaged his wounds, having poured oil and wine on them. Then he put him on his own animal, brought him to an inn, and took care of him.³⁵ The next day he took out two denarii,^a gave them to the innkeeper, and said, “Take care of him; and when I come back, I will repay you whatever more you spend.”³⁶ Which of these three, do you think, was a neighbor to the man who fell into the hands of the robbers?”³⁷ He said, “The one who showed him mercy.” Jesus said to him, “Go and do likewise.”

³⁸ Now as they went on their way, he entered a certain village, where a woman named Martha welcomed him into her home.³⁹ She had a sister named Mary, who sat at the Lord’s feet and listened to what he was saying.⁴⁰ But Martha was distracted by her many tasks; so she came to him and asked, “Lord, do you not care that my sister has left me to do all the work by myself? Tell her then to help me.”⁴¹ But the Lord answered her, “Martha, Martha, you are worried and distracted by many things;⁴² there is need of only one thing.^b Mary has chosen the better part, which will not be taken away from her.”

11 He was praying in a certain place, and after he had finished, one of his disciples said to him, “Lord, teach us to pray, as John taught his disciples.”² He said to them, “When you pray, say:

Father,^c hallowed be your name.

Your kingdom come.^d

³ Give us each day our daily bread.^e

⁴ And forgive us our sins,

for we ourselves forgive everyone indebted to us.

And do not bring us to the time of trial.”^f

⁵ And he said to them, “Suppose one of you has a friend, and you go to him at midnight and say to him, ‘Friend, lend me three loaves of bread; ⁶ for a friend of mine has arrived, and I have nothing to set before him.’ ⁷ And he answers from within, ‘Do not bother me; the door has already been locked, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot get up and give you anything.’ ⁸ I tell you, even though he will not get up and give him anything because he is his friend, at least because of his persistence he will get up and give him whatever he needs.

⁹ “So I say to you, Ask, and it will be given you; search, and you will find; knock, and the door will be opened for you. ¹⁰ For everyone who asks receives, and everyone who searches finds, and for everyone who

^a The denarius was the usual day’s wage for a laborer

^b Other ancient authorities read few things are necessary, or only one

^c Other ancient authorities read Our Father in heaven

^d A few ancient authorities read Your Holy Spirit come upon us and cleanse us. Other ancient authorities add Your will be done, on earth as in heaven

^e Or our bread for tomorrow

^f Or us into temptation. Other ancient authorities add but rescue us from the evil one (or from evil)

pity is deep compassion, 34: The oil served as a salve (see Isa 1.6) and the wine as an antiseptic. 36: Redefines neighbor in terms of how one acts toward those in need.

10.38–42: Martha and Mary. This story affirms the importance of listening to Jesus and gives further details about women among Jesus’s followers. Jn 11.1 has a Martha and Mary, sisters of Lazarus, in Bethany, just east of Jerusalem, but Luke’s apparently separate tradition does not mention Lazarus and Jesus has not yet reached Bethany (see 19.29). Luke’s emphasis is on the singular importance of discipleship: Mary sat at Jesus’s feet (see 8.35; Acts 22.3). 41: Distracted, lit., “cause trouble.”

11.1–4: The Lord’s Prayer. This prayer appears in a longer and more liturgical form in Mt 6.9–13. The petitions have an eschatological cast, yet the concerns specified relate to daily life. 4: Time of trial, Rev 3.10; see also Lk 22.40, 46.

11.5–8: Teaching about spiritual persistence (Mt 7.7–11). Cf. Lk 18.1–5. 5–8: This parable encourages persistence in prayer. 8: Persistence, lit., “lack of propriety” or “shamelessness.”

11.9–13: A parabolic admonition and assurance concerning prayer (Mt 7.7–11). 9–13: The promise of the Holy Spirit focuses the substance of prayer petitions. Verses 9–10 and vv. 11–13 may have been independent sayings. Verses 9–10 are proverbial, while vv. 11–13 are sayings that argue from lesser to greater.

knocks, the door will be opened. ¹¹ Is there anyone among you who, if your child asks for^a a fish, will give a snake instead of a fish? ¹² Or if the child asks for an egg, will give a scorpion? ¹³ If you then, who are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will the heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit^b to those who ask him!”

¹⁴ Now he was casting out a demon that was mute; when the demon had gone out, the one who had been mute spoke, and the crowds were amazed. ¹⁵ But some of them said, “He casts out demons by Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons.” ¹⁶ Others, to test him, kept demanding from him a sign from heaven. ¹⁷ But he knew what they were thinking and said to them, “Every kingdom divided against itself becomes a desert, and house falls on house. ¹⁸ If Satan also is divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand? —for you say that I cast out the demons by Beelzebul. ¹⁹ Now if I cast out the demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your exorcists^c cast them out? Therefore they will be your judges. ²⁰ But if it is by the finger of God that I cast out the demons, then the kingdom of God has come to you. ²¹ When a strong man, fully armed, guards his castle, his property is safe. ²² But when one stronger than he attacks him and overpowers him, he takes away his armor in which he trusted and divides his plunder. ²³ Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters.

²⁴ “When the unclean spirit has gone out of a person, it wanders through waterless regions looking for a resting place, but not finding any, it says, ‘I will return to my house from which I came.’ ²⁵ When it comes, it finds it swept and put in order. ²⁶ Then it goes and brings seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they enter and live there; and the last state of that person is worse than the first.”

²⁷ While he was saying this, a woman in the crowd raised her voice and said to him, “Blessed is the womb that bore you and the breasts that nursed you!” ²⁸ But he said, “Blessed rather are those who hear the word of God and obey it!”

²⁹ When the crowds were increasing, he began to say, “This generation is an evil generation; it asks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah. ³⁰ For just as Jonah became a sign to the people of Nineveh, so the Son of Man will be to this generation. ³¹ The queen of the South will rise at the judgment with the people of this generation and condemn them, because she came from the ends of the earth to listen to the wisdom of Solomon, and see, something greater than Solomon is here! ³² The people of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented at the proclamation of Jonah, and see, something greater than Jonah is here!

^a Other ancient authorities add bread, will give a stone; or if your child asks for

^b Other ancient authorities read the Father give the Holy Spirit from heaven

^c Gk sons

11.14–23: The Beelzebul controversy (Mt 12.22–30; Mk 3.22–27). 15: Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons, Satan (see v. 18); originally a title of the Canaanite god Baal (see 2 Kings 1.2). 16: The request for a sign, which Luke refers to as a test, comes almost immediately after Jesus exorcises a person who was mute. 20: Cf. Ex 8.19. Finger stands for God’s power. The kingdom of God has come to you, lit., “upon you.” This reflects Jesus’s understanding of his ministry; its plain sense recognizes the actual presence of the kingdom of God. 21–22: Jesus casts himself as the one stronger than he. 23: Cf. 9.50. The demands of discipleship do not allow compromises, just as neutrality is not an option in the struggle between Jesus and Beelzebul.

11.24–26: The return of unclean spirits (Mt 12.43–45). Cf. 8.30.

11.27–28: True blessedness. Cf. 8.21.

11.29–32: The sign of Jonah (Mt 12.38–42; 16.4; Mk 8.11–12). 29: The sign of Jonah here may refer to Jonah’s punishment for resisting God’s plan (Jon 1–2) or to his successful preaching to the Gentiles at Nineveh (v. 32; Jon 3); in Mt 12.40 Jonah’s being in the belly of the whale for three days foreshadows Jesus’s resurrection on the third day after his death. 31: 1 Kings 10.1–10; 2 Chr 9.1–9.

³³“No one after lighting a lamp puts it in a cellar,^a but on the lampstand so that those who enter may see the light. ³⁴Your eye is the lamp of your body. If your eye is healthy, your whole body is full of light; but if it is not healthy, your body is full of darkness. ³⁵Therefore consider whether the light in you is not darkness. ³⁶If then your whole body is full of light, with no part of it in darkness, it will be as full of light as when a lamp gives you light with its rays.”

³⁷While he was speaking, a Pharisee invited him to dine with him; so he went in and took his place at the table. ³⁸The Pharisee was amazed to see that he did not first wash before dinner. ³⁹Then the Lord said to him, “Now you Pharisees clean the outside of the cup and of the dish, but inside you are full of greed and wickedness. ⁴⁰You fools! Did not the one who made the outside make the inside also? ⁴¹So give for alms those things that are within; and see, everything will be clean for you.

⁴²“But woe to you Pharisees! For you tithe the mint and rue and herbs of all kinds, and neglect justice and the love of God; it is these you ought to have practiced, without neglecting the others. ⁴³Woe to you Pharisees! For you love to have the seat of honor in the synagogues and to be greeted with respect in the marketplaces. ⁴⁴Woe to you! For you are like unmarked graves, and people walk over them without realizing it.”

⁴⁵One of the lawyers answered him, “Teacher, when you say these things, you insult us too.” ⁴⁶And he said, “Woe also to you lawyers! For you load people with burdens hard to bear, and you yourselves do not lift a finger to ease them. ⁴⁷Woe to you! For you build the tombs of the prophets whom your ancestors killed. ⁴⁸So you are witnesses and approve of the deeds of your ancestors; for they killed them, and you build their tombs. ⁴⁹Therefore also the Wisdom of God said, ‘I will send them prophets and apostles, some of whom they will kill and persecute,’⁵⁰ so that this generation may be charged with the blood of all the prophets shed since the foundation of the world,⁵¹ from the blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah, who perished between the altar and the sanctuary. Yes, I tell you, it will be charged against this generation. ⁵²Woe to you lawyers! For you have taken away the key of knowledge; you did not enter yourselves, and you hindered those who were entering.”

⁵³When he went outside, the scribes and the Pharisees began to be very hostile toward him and to cross-examine him about many things,⁵⁴ lying in wait for him, to catch him in something he might say.

12 Meanwhile, when the crowd gathered by the thousands, so that they trampled on one another, he began to speak first to his disciples, “Beware of the yeast of the Pharisees, that is, their hypocrisy. ²Nothing is covered up that will not be uncovered, and nothing secret that will not become known. ³Therefore whatever you have said in the dark will be heard in the light, and what you have whispered behind closed doors will be proclaimed from the housetops.

⁴“I tell you, my friends, do not fear those who kill the body, and after that can do nothing more. ⁵But I will warn you whom to

^a Other ancient authorities add or under the bushel basket

11.33–36: Light and sight (Mt 5.15; 6.22–23; Mk 4.21). 33: Cf. 8.16. 34–36: One theory held that the eye produced fire or light, which made sight possible.

11.37–54: Sayings against Pharisees and lawyers (Mt 15.1–9; Mk 7.1–9; Mt 23.1–36, in different order). 37: Cf. 7.36n.; 14.1. 38: Wash before dinner, ceremonial washing (see Mk 7.1–5). 39–41: Mt 23.25–26. As God’s creation, the inner life is equal in importance to the outer (v. 40); it even exercises a cleansing or corrupting power over the outer (v. 41; Mk 7.23). 41: Alms, charitable gifts for the poor. 42: Tithe, see Deut 14.22–29. Mint and rue, herbs of little value. Cf. 10.27. 44: Graves were marked (Mt 23.27) to prevent defilement through accidental contact (Num 19.16). 47: Tombs of the prophets, honoring the outer memorial without inner repentance. 49: The Wisdom of God said, introducing a quotation without an identifiable source; cf. Jer 7.25–26. 51: Abel is the first person murdered in the Bible (Gen 4.8), and Zechariah is murdered in 2 Chr 24.20–22. 52: Cf. Mt 23.13. 54: Cf. 6.11; 19.47–48; 20.19–20; 22.2.

12.1: The yeast of the Pharisees (Mt 16.5–6; Mk 8.14–15). 1: Luke’s statement about the crowd is unparalleled. Leaven/yeast was often a symbol of corruption; cf. 1 Cor 5.6–8.

12.2–9: Promise of disclosure and calls to fearless confession (Mt 10.26–33). 5: Him who . . . has authority fear: fear him who, after he has killed, has authority^a to cast into hell.^b Yes, I tell you, fear him! ⁶ Are not five sparrows sold for two pennies? Yet not one of them is forgotten in God's sight. ⁷ But even the hairs of your head are all counted. Do not be afraid; you are of more value than many sparrows.

⁸ "And I tell you, everyone who acknowledges me before others, the Son of Man also will acknowledge before the angels of God; ⁹ but whoever denies me before others will be denied before the angels of God. ¹⁰ And everyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven; but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven. ¹¹ When they bring you before the synagogues, the rulers, and the authorities, do not worry about how^c you are to defend yourselves or what you are to say; ¹² for the Holy Spirit will teach you at that very hour what you ought to say."

¹³ Someone in the crowd said to him, "Teacher, tell my brother to divide the family inheritance with me." ¹⁴ But he said to him, "Friend, who set me to be a judge or arbitrator over you?" ¹⁵ And he said to them, "Take care! Be on your guard against all kinds of greed; for one's life does not consist in the abundance of possessions." ¹⁶ Then he told them a parable: "The land of a rich man produced abundantly. ¹⁷ And he thought to himself, 'What should I do, for I have no place to store my crops?' ¹⁸ Then he said, 'I will do this: I will pull down my barns and build larger ones, and there I will store all my grain and my goods. ¹⁹ And I will say to my soul, Soul, you have ample goods laid up for many years; relax, eat, drink, be merry.' ²⁰ But God said to him, 'You fool! This very night your life is being demanded of you. And the things you have prepared, whose will they be?' ²¹ So it is with those who store up treasures for themselves but are not rich toward God."

²² He said to his disciples, "Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat, or about your body, what you will wear. ²³ For life is more than food, and the body more than clothing. ²⁴ Consider the ravens: they neither sow nor reap, they have neither storehouse nor barn, and yet God feeds them. Of how much more value are you than the birds! ²⁵ And can any of you by worrying add a single hour to your span of life?^d ²⁶ If then you are not able to do so small a thing as that, why do you worry about the rest? ²⁷ Consider the lilies, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin;^e yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not clothed like one of these. ²⁸ But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which is alive today and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, how much more will he clothe you—you of little faith! ²⁹ And do not keep striving for what you are to eat and what you are to drink, and do not keep worrying. ³⁰ For it is the nations of the world

^a Or power

^b Gk Gehenna

^c Other ancient authorities add or what

^d Or add a cubit to your stature

^e Other ancient authorities read Consider the lilies; they neither spin nor weave to cast into hell, God alone. Hell is "Gehenna," not Hades as in 10.5; Gehenna was a deep ravine to the south of Jerusalem, alleged site of human sacrifice (2 Kings 23.10), which came to symbolize eternal punishment. 6: The penny (Gk "assarion") was one-sixteenth of a denarius (see 12.59n.). 8–9: The Son of Man executes eschatological justice. Cf. 9.26; Mk 8.38.

12.10: Blaspheming the Holy Spirit (Mt 12.31–32; Mk 3.28–30). Blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is attributing the work of God's Spirit to the forces of evil.

12.11–12: Aid from the Holy Spirit: a look to the disciples' future (Mt 10.19–20; Mk 13.11).

12.13–15: Warning against greed. 13: According to Deut 21.17, the oldest son received double the younger's share.

12.16–21: Parable of the rich fool. 19: Relax, eat, drink, be merry, see Eccl 8.15. Similar maxims in Tob 7.10; 1 En. 97.8–9; Euripides; Meander. 20: Cf. Jer 17.11; Lk 12.33–34. The Greek reads, "Fool! In this night your soul they demand from you." "They" may be a circumlocution for God, but more likely it is "the things" that now own the man.

12.22–32: Anxiety concerning life (Mt 6.25–34). 24: Ravens, as scavengers are unclean birds in the Hebrew Bible (Lev 11.15; Deut 14.14; cf. Job 38.41). 27: Lilies, probably not the white lily (Lilium candidum) but anemone or that strive after all these things, and your Father knows that you need them.³¹ Instead, strive for his^a kingdom, and these things will be given to you as well.

³² “Do not be afraid, little flock, for it is your Father’s good pleasure to give you the kingdom.³³ Sell your possessions, and give alms. Make purses for yourselves that do not wear out, an unfailing treasure in heaven, where no thief comes near and no moth destroys.³⁴ For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

³⁵ “Be dressed for action and have your lamps lit;³⁶ be like those who are waiting for their master to return from the wedding banquet, so that they may open the door for him as soon as he comes and knocks.³⁷ Blessed are those slaves whom the master finds alert when he comes; truly I tell you, he will fasten his belt and have them sit down to eat, and he will come and serve them.³⁸ If he comes during the middle of the night, or near dawn, and finds them so, blessed are those slaves.

³⁹ “But know this: if the owner of the house had known at what hour the thief was coming, he^b would not have let his house be broken into.⁴⁰ You also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an unexpected hour.”

⁴¹ Peter said, “Lord, are you telling this parable for us or for everyone?”⁴² And the Lord said, “Who then is the faithful and prudent manager whom his master will put in charge of his slaves, to give them their allowance of food at the proper time?

⁴³ Blessed is that slave whom his master will find at work when he arrives.⁴⁴ Truly I tell you, he will put that one in charge of all his possessions.⁴⁵ But if that slave says to himself, ‘My master is delayed in coming,’ and if he begins to beat the other slaves, men and women, and to eat and drink and get drunk,⁴⁶ the master of that slave will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour that he does not know, and will cut him in pieces,^c and put him with the unfaithful.⁴⁷ That slave who knew what his master wanted, but did not prepare himself or do what was wanted, will receive a severe beating.⁴⁸ But the one who did not know and did what deserved a beating will receive a light beating. From everyone to whom much has been given, much will be required; and from the one to whom much has been entrusted, even more will be demanded.

⁴⁹ “I came to bring fire to the earth, and how I wish it were already kindled!⁵⁰ I have a baptism with which to be baptized, and what stress I am under until it is completed!⁵¹ Do you think that I have come to bring peace to the earth? No, I tell you, but rather division!

⁵² From now on five in one household will be divided, three against two and two against three;⁵³ they will be divided:

father against son
and son against father, mother against daughter and daughter against mother, mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law and daughter-in-law against mother-in-law.”

^a Other ancient authorities read God’s

^b Other ancient authorities add would have watched and

^c Or cut him off

another wildflower. Their Gk name, “krinon,” resembles the word for “to judge” (“krinō”), a theme in Lk 12. 32: Flock refers to the Messiah’s people (Ezek 34.23).

12.33–34: Treasure in heaven (Mt 6.19–21). Cf. Mk 10.21; Lk 18.22; Acts 2.45; 4.32–35.

12.35–48: Sayings on watchfulness and faithfulness (Mt 24.42–51). 35: Dressed for action, lit., “your loins girded”; see Ex 12.11. 36: Master is “Lord” in Greek. 37: The marriage feast served as an analogy for the messianic banquet (13.29; 14.15; 22.16), . For a master serving the servants, see 17.7–8; cf. Jn 13.3–16; Lk 22.27. 40: Son of Man indicates the eschatological nature of this material. Cf. Mk 13.35; 1 Thess 5.2. 42–47: Master is “Lord” in Greek. 46: Cut him in pieces is figurative language, 47–48: These verses deal with responsibility, reward, and retribution. 48: 8.18; 19.26.

12.49–53: The controversial character of Jesus’s mission (Mt 10.34–36). 49: Fire, a symbol of judgment (Mt 3.11; 7.19; Mk 9.48; Lk 3.16). 50: Baptism, Jesus’s death. 51–53: These verses are among Jesus’s so-called hard sayings. 53: See Mic 7.6.

⁵⁴ He also said to the crowds, “When you see a cloud rising in the west, you immediately say, ‘It is going to rain’; and so it happens. ⁵⁵ And when you see the south wind blowing, you say, ‘There will be scorching heat’; and it happens. ⁵⁶ You hypocrites! You know how to interpret the appearance of earth and sky, but why do you not know how to interpret the present time?”

⁵⁷ “And why do you not judge for yourselves what is right? ⁵⁸ Thus, when you go with your accuser before a magistrate, on the way make an effort to settle the case,^a or you may be dragged before the judge, and the judge hand you over to the officer, and the officer throw you in prison. ⁵⁹ I tell you, you will never get out until you have paid the very last penny.”

13 At that very time there were some present who told him about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. ² He asked them, “Do you think that because these Galileans suffered in this way they were worse sinners than all other Galileans? ³ No, I tell you; but unless you repent, you will all perish as they did. ⁴ Or those eighteen who were killed when the tower of Siloam fell on them—do you think that they were worse offenders than all the others living in Jerusalem? ⁵ No, I tell you; but unless you repent, you will all perish just as they did.”

⁶ Then he told this parable: “A man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came looking for fruit on it and found none. ⁷ So he said to the gardener, ‘See here! For three years I have come looking for fruit on this fig tree, and still I find none. Cut it down! Why should it be wasting the soil?’ ⁸ He replied, ‘Sir, let it alone for one more year, until I dig around it and put manure on it. ⁹ If it bears fruit next year, well and good; but if not, you can cut it down.’”

¹⁰ Now he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath. ¹¹ And just then there appeared a woman with a spirit that had crippled her for eighteen years. She was bent over and was quite unable to stand up straight. ¹² When Jesus saw her, he called her over and said, “Woman, you are set free from your ailment.” ¹³ When he laid his hands on her, immediately she stood up straight and began praising God. ¹⁴ But the leader of the synagogue, indignant because Jesus had cured on the sabbath, kept saying to the crowd, “There are six days on which work ought to be done; come on those days and be cured, and not on the sabbath day.” ¹⁵ But the Lord answered him and said, “You hypocrites! Does not each of you on the sabbath untie his ox or his donkey from the manger, and lead it away to give it water? ¹⁶ And ought not this woman, a daughter of Abraham whom Satan bound for eighteen long years, be set free from this bondage on the sabbath day?” ¹⁷ When he said this, all his opponents were put to shame; and the entire crowd was rejoicing at all the wonderful things that he was doing.

^a Gk settle with him

12.54–56: Interpreting the times (Mt 16.2–3). Winds from the west blew off the Mediterranean, those from the south off the desert; both are signs of crisis.

12.57–59: Settling with an accuser (Mt 5.25–26). 59: Penny, Greek “lepton,” the smallest coin in circulation. There were two lepta to a quadrans (“penny” in Mt 5.26; Mk 12.42), and one hundred twenty-eight to a denarius, the daily wage in Mt 20.2.

13.1–9: Parable of the unfruitful fig tree (cf. Mt 21.18–19; Mk 11.12–14). 1: Pilate (see 3.1n.) had ordered the killing of some Galileans while they were sacrificing. Pilate’s belligerent treatment of Jews is attested in Josephus, Ant. 18.3.1–2 and J.W. 2.9.2–4. 2: The reports raised questions about the belief that painful experiences reflected God’s judgments (see 5.20n.). 4: Siloam, in the southeast corner of Jerusalem (Isa 8.6; Neh 3.15; Jn 9.7). 6–9: An oddly placed parable about judgment deferred. 7: See 3.9.

13.10–17: Healing of a woman who was crippled on the sabbath. A similar sabbath healing follows in 14.1–6; see 4.31n.; cf. 8.43–48. 14: Ex 20.9–10. Lev 23.3; Deut 5.13–14. 15: Jesus’s speaks to hypocrites, not the synagogue leader alone. Jesus uses the law against the leader’s interpretation of the law. 16: Jesus relates the woman’s physical disorder to the work of Satan. Enslavement language graphically depicts the human predicament. Such afflictions conflict with God’s purpose of salvation (4.18).

¹⁸ He said therefore, “What is the kingdom of God like? And to what should I compare it? ¹⁹ It is like a mustard seed that someone took and sowed in the garden; it grew and became a tree, and the birds of the air made nests in its branches.”

²⁰ And again he said, “To what should I compare the kingdom of God? ²¹ It is like yeast that a woman took and mixed in with^a three measures of flour until all of it was leavened.”

²² Jesus^b went through one town and village after another, teaching as he made his way to Jerusalem. ²³ Someone asked him, “Lord, will only a few be saved?” He said to them, ²⁴ “Strive to enter through the narrow door; for many, I tell you, will try to enter and will not be able. ²⁵ When once the owner of the house has got up and shut the door, and you begin to stand outside and to knock at the door, saying, ‘Lord, open to us,’ then in reply he will say to you, ‘I do not know where you come from.’ ²⁶ Then you will begin to say, ‘We ate and drank with you, and you taught in our streets.’ ²⁷ But he will say, ‘I do not know where you come from; go away from me, all you evildoers!’ ²⁸ There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrown out. ²⁹ Then people will come from east and west, from north and south, and will eat in the kingdom of God. ³⁰ Indeed, some are last who will be first, and some are first who will be last.”

³¹ At that very hour some Pharisees came and said to him, “Get away from here, for Herod wants to kill you.” ³² He said to them, “Go and tell that fox for me,^c ‘Listen, I am casting out demons and performing cures today and tomorrow, and on the third day I finish my work. ³³ Yet today, tomorrow, and the next day I must be on my way, because it is impossible for a prophet to be killed outside of Jerusalem.’ ³⁴ Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the city that kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to it! How often have I desired to gather your children together as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and you were not willing! ³⁵ See, your house is left to you. And I tell you, you will not see me until the time comes when^d you say, ‘Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord.’”

14 On one occasion when Jesus^e was going to the house of a leader of the Pharisees to eat a meal on the sabbath, they were watching him closely. ² Just then, in front of him, there was a man who had dropsy. ³ And Jesus asked the lawyers and Pharisees, “Is it lawful to cure people on the sabbath, or not?” ⁴ But they were silent. So Jesus^e took him and healed him, and sent him away. ⁵ Then he said to them, “If one of

^a Gk hid in

^b Gk He

^c Gk lacks for me

^d Other ancient authorities lack the time comes when

^e Gk he

13.18–19: Parable of the mustard seed (Mt 13.31–32; Mk 4.30–32). 19: Became a tree, an exaggeration. The last phrase reflects Ps 104.12; Dan 4.12,21.

13.20–21: Parable of the yeast (Mt 13.33). The future grandeur of the kingdom contrasts with the seemingly insignificant start in the ministry of Jesus. 21: Three measures, ca. 63 dry quarts (69 L).

13.22–30: The necessity of discipline for salvation (Mt 7.13–14,22–23; 8.11–12; 19.30; 20.16; Mk 10.31). 24: Cf. Mt 7.13. 25–27: The narrow door of v. 24 becomes permanently closed. 27: Cf. Ps 6.8. 28–29: The eschatological gathering of all peoples may refer to the Christian mission. 29: Ps 107.3.

13.31–33: Report and reply concerning Herod. 31: Not all Pharisees were hostile to Jesus. Herod Antipas, see 3.1n. 32: Fox, paired with the “hen” in v. 34. 33: It is impossible . . ., bitter irony that leads to the ensuing laments (see 13.34–35; 19.41–42).

13.34–35: Jesus’s lament over Jerusalem (Mt 23.37–39). Cf. 19.41–44. 34: See 11.47–51. 35: House, the Temple; see Jer 22.5. Blessed . . ., Ps 118.26; see Lk 19.37–38.

14.1–6: Healing of a man with dropsy on the sabbath. Paired with Jesus’s healing of the woman who was crippled (13.1–16), 1: Cf. 7.36n.; 11.37. They are Pharisees. 2: Dropsy, swelling from abnormal fluid retention. 3–6: Jesus questions what is lawful, repeatedly leaving opponents speechless (6.6–11; 13.10–17). 5: The variant reading (see note a, on the next page) makes this verse conform to 13.15. Cf. Ex 23.5; Deut 22.4.

you has a child^a or an ox that has fallen into a well, will you not immediately pull it out on a sabbath day?"⁶ And they could not reply to this.

⁷When he noticed how the guests chose the places of honor, he told them a parable. ⁸"When you are invited by someone to a wedding banquet, do not sit down at the place of honor, in case someone more distinguished than you has been invited by your host; ⁹and the host who invited both of you may come and say to you, 'Give this person your place,' and then in disgrace you would start to take the lowest place. ¹⁰But when you are invited, go and sit down at the lowest place, so that when your host comes, he may say to you, 'Friend, move up higher'; then you will be honored in the presence of all who sit at the table with you. ¹¹For all who exalt themselves will be humbled, and those who humble themselves will be exalted."

¹²He said also to the one who had invited him, "When you give a luncheon or a dinner, do not invite your friends or your brothers or your relatives or rich neighbors, in case they may invite you in return, and you would be repaid. ¹³But when you give a banquet, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, and the blind. ¹⁴And you will be blessed, because they cannot repay you, for you will be repaid at the resurrection of the righteous."

¹⁵One of the dinner guests, on hearing this, said to him, "Blessed is anyone who will eat bread in the kingdom of God!" ¹⁶Then Jesus^b said to him, "Someone gave a great dinner and invited many. ¹⁷At the time for the dinner he sent his slave to say to those who had been invited, 'Come; for everything is ready now.' ¹⁸But they all alike began to make excuses. The first said to him, 'I have bought a piece of land, and I must go out and see it; please accept my regrets.' ¹⁹Another said, 'I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I am going to try them out; please accept my regrets.'

²⁰Another said, 'I have just been married, and therefore I cannot come.' ²¹So the slave returned and reported this to his master. Then the owner of the house became angry and said to his slave, 'Go out at once into the streets and lanes of the town and bring in the poor, the crippled, the blind, and the lame.'

²²And the slave said, 'Sir, what you ordered has been done, and there is still room.'

²³Then the master said to the slave, 'Go out into the roads and lanes, and compel people to come in, so that my house may be filled.'

²⁴For I tell you,^c none of those who were invited will taste my dinner."

²⁵Now large crowds were traveling with him; and he turned and said to them, ²⁶"Whoever comes to me and does not hate father and mother, wife and children, brothers and sisters, yes, and even life itself, cannot be my disciple. ²⁷Whoever does not carry the cross and follow me cannot be my disciple. ²⁸For which of you, intending to build a tower, does not first sit down and estimate the cost, to see whether he has enough to complete it? ²⁹Otherwise, when he has laid a foundation and is not able to finish, all who see it will begin to ridicule him, ³⁰saying, 'This fellow began to build and was not able to finish.' ³¹Or what king, going out to wage war against another king, will not sit down first and consider whether he is able with ten thousand to oppose the one who comes

^a Other ancient authorities read a donkey

^b Gk he

^c The Greek word for you here is plural

14.7–14: Parable on humility. Parable refers to a hypothetical situation, the wedding banquet, rather than directly criticizing the guests' behavior. Cultural concerns of honor and shame are in the background of this story. 8: Prov 25.6–7. 11: See 13.30; 18.14; Mt 18.4; 23.12. 12–14: Contrasts social conventions of hospitality and repayment with God's concern for the plight of the poor; cf. 1.53; 6.24–25.

14.15–24: Parable of the great dinner (Mt 22.1–14). 15: The guest likely considers himself one of those who will share in the kingdom banquet (see 12.37n.). 16–23: This parable warns against assuming that one will be included without heeding Jesus's teaching. 18–20: Cf. Deut 20.5–8. 24: You is plural here, whereas the master was speaking to only one servant ("you" singular). Thus, Jesus addresses the guests directly (v. 24) as a reply to the guest in v. 15.

14.25–33: The costs of discipleship (Mt 10.37–38). 26: Hate is hyperbole for rejection of any ties that might take priority over commitment to Jesus (cf. 1QS 1.10). Contrast Mt 10.37. 27: See Mk 8.34; Lk 9.23. 31–32: Possibly against him with twenty thousand? ³²If he cannot, then, while the other is still far away, he sends a delegation and asks for the terms of peace. ³³So therefore, none of you can become my disciple if you do not give up all your possessions.

³⁴“Salt is good; but if salt has lost its taste, how can its saltiness be restored?^a ³⁵It is fit neither for the soil nor for the manure pile; they throw it away. Let anyone with ears to hear listen!”

15 Now all the tax collectors and sinners were coming near to listen to him.

²And the Pharisees and the scribes were grumbling and saying, “This fellow welcomes sinners and eats with them.”

³So he told them this parable: ⁴“Which one of you, having a hundred sheep and losing one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness and go after the one that is lost until he finds it? ⁵When he has found it, he lays it on his shoulders and rejoices. ⁶And when he comes home, he calls together his friends and neighbors, saying to them, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep that was lost.’ ⁷Just so, I tell you, there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents than over ninety-nine righteous persons who need no repentance.

⁸“Or what woman having ten silver coins,^b if she loses one of them, does not light a lamp, sweep the house, and search carefully until she finds it? ⁹When she has found it, she calls together her friends and neighbors, saying, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found the coin that I had lost.’ ¹⁰Just so, I tell you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner who repents.”

¹¹Then Jesus^c said, “There was a man who had two sons. ¹²The younger of them said to his father, ‘Father, give me the share of the property that will belong to me.’ So he divided his property between them. ¹³A few days later the younger son gathered all he had and traveled to a distant country, and there he squandered his property in dissolute living. ¹⁴When he had spent everything, a severe famine took place throughout that country, and he began to be in need. ¹⁵So he went and hired himself out to one of the citizens of that country, who sent him to his fields to feed the pigs. ¹⁶He would gladly have filled himself with^d the pods that the pigs were eating; and no one gave him anything. ¹⁷But when he came to himself he said, ‘How many of my father’s hired hands have bread enough and to spare, but here I am dying of hunger! ¹⁸I will get up and go to my father, and I will say to him, ‘Father, I have sinned against heaven and before you; ¹⁹I am no longer worthy to be called your son; treat me like one of your hired hands.’” ²⁰So he set off and went to his father. But while he was still far off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion; he ran and put his arms around him and kissed him. ²¹Then the son said to him, ‘Father, I have sinned against heaven and before you; I am no longer worthy to be called your son.’^e ²²But the father said to his slaves, ‘Quickly, bring out a robe—the best one—and put it on him; put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. ²³And get ^a Or how can it be used for seasoning?

^b Gk drachmas, each worth about a day’s wage for a laborer

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities read filled his stomach with

^e Other ancient authorities add Treat me like one of your hired servants

alludes to a contemporary event. ³³: See 12.33; 18.22.

14.34–35: Saying about salt (Mt 5.13; Mk 9.49–50). Impurities might have caused ancient salt to lose its properties.

15.1–7: Parable of the lost sheep (Mt 18.12–14). 1–2: God is shepherd, both of Israel (e.g., Pss 78.52; 80.1; 100.3) and of the individual (Ps 23); for lost sheep, see Ps 119.176; Jer 50.6; Ezek 34.15–16. 6: Joy at finding the lost links all three parables in ch 15. 7: Applies the parable to those who criticized Jesus’s association with sinners (vv. 1–2).

15.8–10: Parable of the lost coin. 8: The coins are Greek drachmas; see note b. 10: See v. 7n.

15.11–32: Parable of the lost prodigal son. 12: On inheritance, see 12.13n. 15: Pigs, see 8.32n. 22–24: His place as son is freely restored, though his inheritance is gone; see v. 31. 22: Robe, a festal garment; ring, symbol of authority; sandals, slaves went barefooted. Cf. Gen 41.42; Zech 3.4. 23: Fatted calf, a luxury; see 1 Sam 28.24; Am 6.4.

the fatted calf and kill it, and let us eat and celebrate;²⁴ for this son of mine was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found!' And they began to celebrate.

²⁵ "Now his elder son was in the field; and when he came and approached the house, he heard music and dancing. ²⁶ He called one of the slaves and asked what was going on. ²⁷ He replied, 'Your brother has come, and your father has killed the fatted calf, because he has got him back safe and sound.' ²⁸ Then he became angry and refused to go in. His father came out and began to plead with him. ²⁹ But he answered his father, 'Listen! For all these years I have been working like a slave for you, and I have never disobeyed your command; yet you have never given me even a young goat so that I might celebrate with my friends. ³⁰ But when this son of yours came back, who has devoured your property with prostitutes, you killed the fatted calf for him!' ³¹ Then the father^a said to him, 'Son, you are always with me, and all that is mine is yours. ³² But we had to celebrate and rejoice, because this brother of yours was dead and has come to life; he was lost and has been found.'

16 Then Jesus^a said to the disciples, "There was a rich man who had a manager, and charges were brought to him that this man was squandering his property. ² So he summoned him and said to him, 'What is this that I hear about you? Give me an accounting of your management, because you cannot be my manager any longer.' ³ Then the manager said to himself, 'What will I do, now that my master is taking the position away from me? I am not strong enough to dig, and I am ashamed to beg. ⁴ I have decided what to do so that, when I am dismissed as manager, people may welcome me into their homes.'

⁵ So, summoning his master's debtors one by one, he asked the first, 'How much do you owe my master?' ⁶ He answered, 'A hundred jugs of olive oil.' He said to him, 'Take your bill, sit down quickly, and make it fifty.' ⁷ Then he asked another, 'And how much do you owe?' He replied, 'A hundred containers of wheat.' He said to him, 'Take your bill and make it eighty.' ⁸ And his master commended the dishonest manager because he had acted shrewdly; for the children of this age are more shrewd in dealing with their own generation than are the children of light. ⁹ And I tell you, make friends for yourselves by means of dishonest wealth^b so that when it is gone, they may welcome you into the eternal homes.^c

¹⁰ "Whoever is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much; and whoever is dishonest in a very little is dishonest also in much. ¹¹ If then you have not been faithful with the dishonest wealth,^b who will entrust to you the true riches? ¹² And if you have not been faithful with what belongs to another, who will give you what is your own? ¹³ No slave can serve two masters; for a slave will either hate the one and love the other, or be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and wealth."^b

¹⁴ The Pharisees, who were lovers of money, heard all this, and they ridiculed him. ¹⁵ So he said to them, "You are those who justify yourselves in the sight of others; but God knows your hearts; for what is prized by human beings is an abomination in the sight of God.

¹⁶ "The law and the prophets were in effect until John came; since then the good news of

^a Gk he

^b Gk mammon

^c Gk tents

25–32: Rivalry between brothers is a common biblical theme (see Gen 4.2–8; 25.27–34; 27.1–36; 37.1–4). 25–30: The elder son's attitude resembles that of the Pharisees and scribes in vv. 1–2.

16.1–9: Parable of the dishonest manager. This enigmatic story ends at v. 8, with Jesus's exposition in v. 9. The steward was dishonest in his squandering his master's goods. His solution may not have been dishonest behavior if the manager was eliminating his own commission from the debtors' bills. He shrewdly uses material goods to win their gratitude. 8: His master, lit., "the lord"; perhaps a reference by Luke to Jesus rather than to the master in the parable. Children of light, those who are spiritually enlightened; see Jn 12.36; Eph 5.8; 1 Thess 5.5. 9: Wealth, lit., "mammon," the Greek transliteration of a Semitic word for "money," perhaps originally meaning "that in which one trusts."

16.10–18: A series of sayings. 10–12: The sayings take the form of "from lesser to greater." 11,13: Wealth, see v. 9n. 13: See Mt 6.24; cf. Deut 6.13. 14–15: Greed was not a vice typical of Pharisees. 16–17: Sayings concerning the kingdom of God is proclaimed, and everyone tries to enter it by force.^a ¹⁷ But it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away, than for one stroke of a letter in the law to be dropped.

¹⁸ “Anyone who divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery, and whoever marries a woman divorced from her husband commits adultery.

¹⁹ “There was a rich man who was dressed in purple and fine linen and who feasted sumptuously every day. ²⁰ And at his gate lay a poor man named Lazarus, covered with sores, ²¹ who longed to satisfy his hunger with what fell from the rich man’s table; even the dogs would come and lick his sores. ²² The poor man died and was carried away by the angels to be with Abraham.^b The rich man also died and was buried. ²³ In Hades, where he was being tormented, he looked up and saw Abraham far away with Lazarus by his side.^c ²⁴ He called out, ‘Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue; for I am in agony in these flames.’ ²⁵ But Abraham said, ‘Child, remember that during your lifetime you received your good things, and Lazarus in like manner evil things; but now he is comforted here, and you are in agony. ²⁶ Besides all this, between you and us a great chasm has been fixed, so that those who might want to pass from here to you cannot do so, and no one can cross from there to us.’ ²⁷ He said, ‘Then, father, I beg you to send him to my father’s house— ²⁸ for I have five brothers—that he may warn them, so that they will not also come into this place of torment.’ ²⁹ Abraham replied, ‘They have Moses and the prophets; they should listen to them.’ ³⁰ He said, ‘No, father Abraham; but if someone goes to them from the dead, they will repent.’ ³¹ He said to him, ‘If they do not listen to Moses and the prophets, neither will they be convinced even if someone rises from the dead.’”

17 Jesus^d said to his disciples, “Occasions for stumbling are bound to come, but woe to anyone by whom they come! ² It would be better for you if a millstone were hung around your neck and you were thrown into the sea than for you to cause one of these little ones to stumble. ³ Be on your guard! If another disciple^e sins, you must rebuke the offender, and if there is repentance, you must forgive. ⁴ And if the same person sins against you seven times a day, and turns back to you seven times and says, ‘I repent,’ you must forgive.”

⁵ The apostles said to the Lord, “Increase our faith!” ⁶ The Lord replied, “If you had faith the size of a^f mustard seed, you could say to this mulberry tree, ‘Be uprooted and planted in the sea,’ and it would obey you.

^a Or everyone is strongly urged to enter it

^b Gk to Abraham’s bosom

^c Gk in his bosom

^d Gk He

^e Gk your brother

^f Gk faith as a grain of the law (Mt 11.12–13; 5.18; cf. Lk 21.33). 16: The law and the prophets, the first two parts of what became the three divisions of the Hebrew Bible, the Torah or “law” of Moses, and the prophets (the books of Joshua through 2 Kings and Isaiah through Malachi; see the Prologue to Sirach; 2 Macc 15.9; Lk 16.29; 24.27,44). 18: See Mt 19.9; Mk 10.11–12; 1 Cor 7.10–11. Probably condemns a divorce that occurred to facilitate remarriage. Herod Antipas had done exactly that; see 3.19–20n.

16.19–31: Parable of the rich man and Lazarus. The story illustrates vv. 10–15. 19: The rich man, often called “Dives,” Latin for “rich man.” Purple, very expensive cloth dyed with the liquid from the murex (shellfish), associated with royalty. 20: Not the Lazarus of Jn 11.1–44. 21–22: Lazarus’s character is irrelevant to the fatal deficiency in the life of the rich man. 22: With Abraham, lit., “Abraham’s bosom,” a blessed condition in the afterlife; see 13.28–29. 23: Hades, see 10.15n. By his side, lit., “in his bosom. 29: Moses and the prophets, see v. 16n. 31: Rises from the dead, referring to Jesus’s resurrection (see 9.22).

17.1–2: The peril of causing temptation (Mt 18.6–7; Mk 9.42). The words you and your are literally him, his, he; Jesus speaks here impersonally of a generic figure, not to someone addressed as you. 2: Millstone, stone (used in pairs) to grind grain, often made of basalt and ca. 12–18 in (30–40 cm) in diameter and 2–4 in (5–10 cm) thick. Little ones may refer to disciples or to any vulnerable person.

17.3–4: Sayings concerning forgiveness (Mt 18.15,21–22).

17.5–6: Saying concerning faith (Mt 17.19–21). 6: The size of a mustard seed, see Mk 4.31.

The geography of the Gospel of Luke

⁷“Who among you would say to your slave who has just come in from plowing or tending sheep in the field, ‘Come here at once and take your place at the table’? ⁸Would you not rather say to him, ‘Prepare supper for me, put on your apron and serve me while I eat and drink; later you may eat and drink’? ⁹Do you thank the slave for doing what was commanded? ¹⁰So you also, when you have done all that you were ordered to do, say, ‘We are worthless slaves; we have done only what we ought to have done!’”

¹¹On the way to Jerusalem Jesus^a was going through the region between Samaria and Galilee. ¹²As he entered a village, ten lepers^b approached him. Keeping their distance, ¹³they called out, saying, “Jesus, Master, have mercy on us!” ¹⁴When he saw them, he said to them, “Go and show yourselves to the priests.” And as they went, they were made clean. ¹⁵Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, praising God with a loud voice. ¹⁶He prostrated himself at Jesus^c feet and thanked him. And he was a Samaritan. ¹⁷Then Jesus asked, “Were not ten made clean? But the other nine, where are they? ¹⁸Was none of them found to return and give praise to God except this foreigner?” ¹⁹Then he said to him, “Get up and go on your way; your faith has made you well.”

²⁰Once Jesus^a was asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God was coming, and he answered, “The kingdom of God is not coming with things that can be observed; ²¹nor will they say, ‘Look, here it is!’ or ‘There it is!’ For, in fact, the kingdom of God is among^d you.”

²²Then he said to the disciples, “The days are coming when you will long to see one of the days of the Son of Man, and you will not see it. ²³They will say to you, ‘Look there!’ or ‘Look here!’ Do not go, do not set off in pursuit. ²⁴For as the lightning flashes and lights up the sky from one side to the other, so will the Son of Man be in his day.^e ²⁵But first he must endure much suffering and be rejected by this generation. ²⁶Just as it was in the days of Noah, so too it will be in the days of the Son of Man. ²⁷They were eating and drinking, and marrying and being given in marriage, until the day Noah entered the ark, and the flood came and destroyed all of them. ²⁸Likewise, just as it was in the days of Lot: they were eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building, ²⁹but on the day that Lot left Sodom, it rained fire and sulfur from heaven and destroyed all of them ³⁰—it will be like that on the day that the Son of Man is revealed. ³¹On that day, anyone on the housetop who has belongings in the house must not come down to take them away; and likewise anyone in the field must not turn back. ³²Remember Lot’s wife. ³³Those who try to make their life secure will lose it, but those who lose their life will keep it. ³⁴I tell you, on that night there will be two in one bed; one will be taken and the other left. ³⁵There will be two women grinding meal together; one will be taken and the other left.”^f ³⁷Then they asked him, “Where,

^a Gk he

^b The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^c Gk his

^d Or within

^e Other ancient authorities lack in his day

^f Other ancient authorities add verse 36, “Two will be in the field; one will be taken and the other left.”

17.7–10: The obligation to obedience. Cf. 12.35–38.

17.11–19: The cleansing of ten men who had leprosy. (See 5.12–16n.) 12: Lev 13.45–46. 13: The only time Jesus is called Master by anyone not a disciple. 14: Priests, Lev 13.2–3; 14.2–32. 16: Samaritan, see 9.52n. 17: The other nine were presumably Jews. 18: The word translated foreigner means “another race”; see 7.9n. 19: Cf. 7.50; 8.48; 18.42. Made you well, lit., “saved you.”

17.20–21: The coming of the kingdom of God. 20: Cf. 19.11; 21.7; Acts 1.6. 21: Jesus shifted the emphasis from future expectation to the presence of the kingdom in his ministry; see 11.20.

17.22–37: The day of the Son of Man (Mt 24.17–18, 23, 26–28, 37–41; Mk 13.14–16, 19–23). 22: The mention of the Son of Man gives an eschatological hue to this saying while still using “son of man” as Jesus’s self-reference. 24: The coming will be without precursory signs. 25: See 9.22. 26–27: Gen 6.5–8; 7.6–24. 28–30: Gen 18.16–19. 28. 31: On the housetop, a flat roof reached by an exterior staircase. 32: Gen 19.26. 33: See 9.24. [36]: Some manuscripts incorporate Mt 24.20 (see note f). 37: A proverb used to respond to the question repeats Jesus’s refusal to answer (v. 23).

Lord?” He said to them, “Where the corpse is, there the vultures will gather.”

18 Then Jesus^a told them a parable about their need to pray always and not to lose heart. ² He said, “In a certain city there was a judge who neither feared God nor had respect for people. ³ In that city there was a widow who kept coming to him and saying, ‘Grant me justice against my opponent.’ ⁴ For a while he refused; but later he said to himself, ‘Though I have no fear of God and no respect for anyone, ⁵ yet because this widow keeps bothering me, I will grant her justice, so that she may not wear me out by continually coming.’”^b ⁶ And the Lord said, “Listen to what the unjust judge says. ⁷ And will not God grant justice to his chosen ones who cry to him day and night? Will he delay long in helping them? ⁸ I tell you, he will quickly grant justice to them. And yet, when the Son of Man comes, will he find faith on earth?”

⁹ He also told this parable to some who trusted in themselves that they were righteous and regarded others with contempt: ¹⁰ “Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. ¹¹ The Pharisee, standing by himself, was praying thus, ‘God, I thank you that I am not like other people: thieves, rogues, adulterers, or even like this tax collector. ¹² I fast twice a week; I give a tenth of all my income.’ ¹³ But the tax collector, standing far off, would not even look up to heaven, but was beating his breast and saying, ‘God, be merciful to me, a sinner!’ ¹⁴ I tell you, this man went down to his home justified rather than the other; for all who exalt themselves will be humbled, but all who humble themselves will be exalted.”

¹⁵ People were bringing even infants to him that he might touch them; and when the disciples saw it, they sternly ordered them not to do it. ¹⁶ But Jesus called for them and said, “Let the little children come to me, and do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of God belongs. ¹⁷ Truly I tell you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God as a little child will never enter it.”

¹⁸ A certain ruler asked him, “Good Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?” ¹⁹ Jesus said to him, “Why do you call me good? No one is good but God alone. ²⁰ You know the commandments: ‘You shall not commit adultery; You shall not murder; You shall not steal; You shall not bear false witness; Honor your father and mother.’” ²¹ He replied, “I have kept all these since my youth.” ²² When Jesus heard this, he said to him, “There is still one thing lacking. Sell all that you own and distribute the money^c to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.” ²³ But when he heard this, he became sad; for he was very rich. ²⁴ Jesus looked at him and said, “How hard it is for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God! ²⁵ Indeed, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for someone who is rich to enter the kingdom of God.”

^a Gk he

^b Or so that she may not finally come and slap me in the face

^c Gk lacks the money

18.1–8: Parable of the unjust judge and the persistent widow. 1: Pray always, for Luke’s audience in view of the delayed parousia. 3: Cf. Deut 27.19. 5: Keeps bothering me, lit., “gives me a black eye,” an image from boxing. 8: Comes, from heaven, in judgment (see Dan 7.13–14).

18.9–14: Parable of the Pharisee and the tax collector. 9: Righteous, that is, acceptable to God because of their observance of the law. 10: Tax collector, see 5.27n. 11: I thank you, a standard introduction to prayers of thanksgiving (Jdt 8.25; 1 QH 2.20) 12: Twice a week, Mondays and Thursdays (b. Ta’an. 12a), not required in the Torah. A tenth, a tithe (Lev 27.30–33). 13: Cf. Ps 51.1. 14: Rather than, lit., “beyond that one,” a comparative that does not exclude the Pharisee. See 14.11n.

18.15–17: Jesus and the little children (Mt 19.13–15; Mk 10.13–16). Contrasts humility with the self-righteousness and self-satisfaction of the previous and following stories.

18.18–30: The rich ruler, wealth, and salvation (Mt 19.16–30; Mk 10.17–31). 18: Good Teacher, Jesus insists that goodness belongs to God alone. See 10.25. 20: The order of the commandments follows the LXX; see Ex 20.12–16; Deut 5.16–20. 22: Treasure in heaven, see 12.33–34. See 14.33. 23: The ruler does not “go off” as in ²⁶ Those who heard it said, “Then who can be saved?” ²⁷ He replied, “What is impossible for mortals is possible for God.”

²⁸ Then Peter said, “Look, we have left our homes and followed you.” ²⁹ And he said to them, “Truly I tell you, there is no one who has left house or wife or brothers or parents or children, for the sake of the kingdom of God, ³⁰ who will not get back very much more in this age, and in the age to come eternal life.”

³¹ Then he took the twelve aside and said to them, “See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that is written about the Son of Man by the prophets will be accomplished. ³² For he will be handed over to the Gentiles; and he will be mocked and insulted and spat upon. ³³ After they have flogged him, they will kill him, and on the third day he will rise again.” ³⁴ But they understood nothing about all these things; in fact, what he said was hidden from them, and they did not grasp what was said.

³⁵ As he approached Jericho, a blind man was sitting by the roadside begging. ³⁶ When he heard a crowd going by, he asked what was happening. ³⁷ They told him, “Jesus of Nazareth^a is passing by.” ³⁸ Then he shouted, “Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!” ³⁹ Those who were in front sternly ordered him to be quiet; but he shouted even more loudly, “Son of David, have mercy on me!”

⁴⁰ Jesus stood still and ordered the man to be brought to him; and when he came near, he asked him, ⁴¹ “What do you want me to do for you?” He said, “Lord, let me see again.”

⁴² Jesus said to him, “Receive your sight; your faith has saved you.” ⁴³ Immediately he regained his sight and followed him, glorifying God; and all the people, when they saw it, praised God.

19 He entered Jericho and was passing through it. ² A man was there named Zacchaeus; he was a chief tax collector and was rich. ³ He was trying to see who Jesus was, but on account of the crowd he could not, because he was short in stature. ⁴ So he ran ahead and climbed a sycamore tree to see him, because he was going to pass that way. ⁵ When Jesus came to the place, he looked up and said to him, “Zacchaeus, hurry and come down; for I must stay at your house today.” ⁶ So he hurried down and was happy to welcome him. ⁷ All who saw it began to grumble and said, “He has gone to be the guest of one who is a sinner.” ⁸ Zacchaeus stood there and said to the Lord, “Look, half of my possessions, Lord, I will give to the poor; and if I have defrauded anyone of anything, I will pay back four times as much.” ⁹ Then Jesus said to him, “Today salvation has come to this house, because he too is a son of Abraham. ¹⁰ For the Son of Man came to seek out and to save the lost.”

¹¹ As they were listening to this, he went on to tell a parable, because he was near Jeru-

^a Gk the Nazorean

Mk and Mt. 26: Who can be saved? Cf. 13.23. 27: Note the slightly different wording in Mk 10.27 (par Mt 19.26); cf. Gen 18.14; Job 42.2; Jer 32.17; Lk 1.37. 28: 5.1–11. 30: In this age, and in the age to come, apocalyptic language contrasting the present evil age and God’s kingdom.

18.31–34: Jesus’s third prediction of his death (Mt 20.17–19; Mk 10.32–34). Cf. 9.22,44–45; 17.25. The details outline events in chs 22–24. 31: Everything that is written . . . by the prophets, such as Ps 22; Isa 53; Zech 13.7.

18.35–43: Healing of a man who was blind (Mt 20.29–34; Mk 10.46–52). 38–41: The man calls Jesus Son of David, and then Lord. 38: Son of David, identifying Jesus with royal messianic expectations. See 1.27,32; 2.4. 42–43: Cf. Mk 10.52. 42: See 17.19n.

19.1–10: Zacchaeus’s salvation. 1: Jericho, northwest of the Dead Sea, was an important customs center. 2: As chief tax collector Zacchaeus had contracted with Roman authorities to collect revenues (lit., “tolls”). People despised toll-collectors for enabling Roman domination (v. 7). 7: 5.29–30; 15.1–2. 8: Zacchaeus’s response contrasts with that of the ruler in 18.23. I will give, a vow demonstrating repentance. Four times as much, the amount exceeds the requirements of the law, a payment of principal plus twenty percent (Lev 6.5; Num 5.6–7). 9: Salvation, has come in Jesus’s presence and evinces itself in Zacchaeus’s transformation. 10: A summary of Jesus’s ministry in the entire Gospel.

19.11–27: Parable of the ten pounds (Mt 25.14–30; Mk 13.34). Verses 12–15, 27 may allude to the journey of Archelaus to Rome in 4 BCE to assure his succession to Herod’s throne; his mission was opposed by a delegation salem, and because they supposed that the kingdom of God was to appear immediately. ¹² So he said, “A nobleman went to a distant country to get royal power for himself and then return. ¹³ He summoned ten of his slaves, and gave them ten pounds,^a and said to them, ‘Do business with these until I come back.’ ¹⁴ But the citizens of his country hated him and sent a delegation after him, saying, ‘We do not want this man to rule over us.’ ¹⁵ When he returned, having received royal power, he ordered these slaves, to whom he had given the money, to be summoned so that he might find out what they had gained by trading. ¹⁶ The first came forward and said, ‘Lord, your pound has made ten more pounds.’ ¹⁷ He said to him, ‘Well done, good slave! Because you have been trustworthy in a very small thing, take charge of ten cities.’ ¹⁸ Then the second came, saying, ‘Lord, your pound has made five pounds.’ ¹⁹ He said to him, ‘And you, rule over five cities.’ ²⁰ Then the other came, saying, ‘Lord, here is your pound. I wrapped it up in a piece of cloth, ²¹ for I was afraid of you, because you are a harsh man; you take what you did not deposit, and reap what you did not sow.’ ²² He said to him, ‘I will judge you by your own words, you wicked slave! You knew, did you, that I was a harsh man, taking what I did not deposit and reaping what I did not sow? ²³ Why then did you not put my money into the bank? Then when I returned, I could have collected it with interest.’ ²⁴ He said to the bystanders, ‘Take the pound from him and give it to the one who has ten pounds.’ ²⁵ (And they said to him, ‘Lord, he has ten pounds!’) ²⁶ ‘I tell you, to all those who have, more will be given; but from those who have nothing, even what they have will be taken away. ²⁷ But as for these enemies of mine who did not want me to be king over them—bring them here and slaughter them in my presence.’”

²⁸ After he had said this, he went on ahead, going up to Jerusalem.

²⁹ When he had come near Bethphage and Bethany, at the place called the Mount of Olives, he sent two of the disciples, ³⁰ saying, “Go into the village ahead of you, and as you enter it you will find tied there a colt that has never been ridden. Untie it and bring it here.

³¹ If anyone asks you, ‘Why are you untying it?’ just say this, ‘The Lord needs it.’” ³² So those who were sent departed and found it as he had told them. ³³ As they were untying the colt, its owners asked them, “Why are you untying the colt?” ³⁴ They said, “The Lord needs it.” ³⁵ Then they brought it to Jesus; and after throwing their cloaks on the colt, they set Jesus on it.

³⁶ As he rode along, people kept spreading their cloaks on the road. ³⁷ As he was now approaching the path down from the Mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to praise God joyfully with a loud voice for all the deeds of power that they had seen, ³⁸ saying,

“Blessed is the king who comes in the name of the Lord!
Peace in heaven,
and glory in the highest heaven!”

³⁹ Some of the Pharisees in the crowd said to him, “Teacher, order your disciples to stop.”

⁴⁰ He answered, “I tell you, if these were silent, the stones would shout out.”

⁴¹ As he came near and saw the city, he wept over it, ⁴² saying, “If you, even you, had only recognized on this day the things that make for peace! But now they are hidden from your eyes. ⁴³ Indeed, the days will come of leaders from Judea (Josephus, Ant. 17.9.4; 17.10). These verses concern authority, opposition, and judgment; vv. 13,15b–26 concern responsible use of that with which one has been entrusted. 11: 9.51; 13.22; 17.11; 18.31. 13: Ten pounds, lit., “ten minas,” golden coins each of which equaled a hundred drachmas (see 15.8n.). 17: 16.10. 26: See 8.18.

^a The mina, rendered here by pound, was about three months’ wages for a laborer

19.28–21.38: Jesus’s ministry in Jerusalem (Mt 21–24; Mk 11–13).

19.28–40: The entry into Jerusalem (Mt 21.1–9; Mk 11.1–10; Jn 12.12–18). 29: Bethphage and Bethany, villages just east of Jerusalem. 30: Zech. 9.9. 31: The Lord could mean either God or Jesus. 32: See 22.13. 36: Cf. 2 Kings 9.13. 35–38: See Zech 9.9. 38: Blessed . . . in the name of the Lord, Ps 118.26; see Lk 13.35. Peace in heaven, see 2.14. Jesus as king, will be used in the charges against him (23.2). 39–40: See Hab 2.11.

19.41–44: Weeping over Jerusalem. See 13.33–34; cf. 23.27–31. These verses may reflect on Jerusalem’s destruction in 70 CE. 42–44: You and your are singular forms, addressing Jerusalem. 43: Cf. 21.20–24; 21.6; Isa 29.3;

upon you, when your enemies will set up ramparts around you and surround you, and hem you in on every side. ⁴⁴They will crush you to the ground, you and your children within you, and they will not leave within you one stone upon another; because you did not recognize the time of your visitation from God.”^a

⁴⁵Then he entered the temple and began to drive out those who were selling things there; ⁴⁶and he said, “It is written, ‘My house shall be a house of prayer; but you have made it a den of robbers.’”

⁴⁷Every day he was teaching in the temple. The chief priests, the scribes, and the leaders of the people kept looking for a way to kill him; ⁴⁸but they did not find anything they could do, for all the people were spellbound by what they heard.

20 One day, as he was teaching the people in the temple and telling the good news, the chief priests and the scribes came with the elders ² and said to him, “Tell us, by what authority are you doing these things? Who is it who gave you this authority?” ³ He answered them, “I will also ask you a question, and you tell me: ⁴Did the baptism of John come from heaven, or was it of human origin?” ⁵ They discussed it with one another, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say, ‘Why did you not believe him?’ ⁶ But if we say, ‘Of human origin,’ all the people will stone us; for they are convinced that John was a prophet.” ⁷ So they answered that they did not know where it came from. ⁸ Then Jesus said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I am doing these things.”

⁹ He began to tell the people this parable: “A man planted a vineyard, and leased it to

tenants, and went to another country for a long time. ¹⁰ When the season came, he sent a slave to the tenants in order that they might give him his share of the produce of the vineyard; but the tenants beat him and sent him away empty-handed. ¹¹ Next he sent another slave; that one also they beat and insulted and sent away empty-handed. ¹² And he sent still a third; this one also they wounded and threw out. ¹³ Then the owner of the vineyard said, ‘What shall I do? I will send my beloved son; perhaps they will respect him.’ ¹⁴ But when the tenants saw him, they discussed it among themselves and said, ‘This is the heir; let us kill him so that the inheritance may be ours.’ ¹⁵ So they threw him out of the vineyard and killed him. What then will the owner of the vineyard do to them? ¹⁶ He will come and destroy those tenants and give the vineyard to others.” When they heard this, they said, “Heaven forbid!” ¹⁷ But he looked at them and said, “What then does this text mean:

‘The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone?’^b

¹⁸ Everyone who falls on that stone will be broken to pieces; and it will crush anyone on whom it falls.” ¹⁹ When the scribes and chief priests realized that he had told this parable against them, they wanted to lay hands on him at that very hour, but they feared the people.

²⁰ So they watched him and sent spies who pretended to be honest, in order to trap him by what he said, so as to hand him over to the jurisdiction and authority of the governor. ²¹ So they asked him, “Teacher, we know that you

^a Gk lacks from God

^b Or keystone

Jer 6.6; Ezek 4.2. Your enemies, the Roman army. Ramparts, part of the siegeworks of an attacking army. 44: Ps 137.9; Hos 10.14; 13.16. Children, the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

19.45–46: Cleansing of the Temple (Mt 21.12–13; Mk 11.15–17; Jn 2.13–17). A display of authority in the Temple, that acts out Mal 3.1–2. 45–46: This incident may have provoked Jewish authorities to hand Jesus over to the Romans for execution. 45: Selling the prescribed offerings, as in 2.24; Lev 1.14. 46: Isa 56.7; Jer 7.11.

19.47–48: The religious leaders’ hostility toward Jesus (Mk 11.18–19).

20.1–8: Questioning Jesus’s authority (Mt 21.23–27; Mk 11.27–33; Jn 2.18–22). 3–4: Jesus employs a rhetorical technique of undermining an opponent’s authority (cf. Mk 10.3) 4: The baptism of John, 3.3–21.

20.9–19: Parable of the vineyard and tenants (Mt 21.33–46; Mk 12.1–12). 9: Isa 5.1–7. 13: Beloved (see 3.22) identifies the son with Jesus. 15: Murdering the son outside the vineyard reflects Jesus’s crucifixion outside Jerusalem; see Jn 19.17; Heb 13.12; cf. Acts 7.52–53. 17: Ps 118.22; see Isa 28.16; Acts 4.11. 18: Isa 8.14–15. 19: Cf. 19.47. 20.20–26: Paying taxes to the emperor (Mt 22.15–22; Mk 12.13–17). 20: Honest, lit., “correct according to are right in what you say and teach, and you show deference to no one, but teach the way of God in accordance with truth.²² Is it lawful for us to pay taxes to the emperor, or not?”²³ But he perceived their craftiness and said to them,²⁴ “Show me a denarius. Whose head and whose title does it bear?” They said, “The emperor’s.”²⁵ He said to them, “Then give to the emperor the things that are the emperor’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”²⁶ And they were not able in the presence of the people to trap him by what he said; and being amazed by his answer, they became silent.

²⁷ Some Sadducees, those who say there is no resurrection, came to him²⁸ and asked him a question, “Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man’s brother dies, leaving a wife but no children, the man^a shall marry the widow and raise up children for his brother.²⁹ Now there were seven brothers; the first married, and died childless;³⁰ then the second³¹ and the third married her, and so in the same way all seven died childless.³² Finally the woman also died.³³ In the resurrection, therefore, whose wife will the woman be? For the seven had married her.”

³⁴ Jesus said to them, “Those who belong to this age marry and are given in marriage;³⁵ but those who are considered worthy of a place in that age and in the resurrection from the dead neither marry nor are given in marriage.³⁶ Indeed they cannot die anymore, because they are like angels and are children of God, being children of the resurrection.

³⁷ And the fact that the dead are raised Moses himself showed, in the story about the bush, where he speaks of the Lord as the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.³⁸ Now he is God not of the dead, but of the living; for to him all of them are alive.”³⁹ Then some of the scribes answered, “Teacher, you have spoken well.”⁴⁰ For they no longer dared to ask him another question.

⁴¹ Then he said to them, “How can they say that the Messiah^b is David’s son?”⁴² For David himself says in the book of Psalms,

“The Lord said to my Lord,

“Sit at my right hand,

⁴³ until I make your enemies your footstool.”

⁴⁴ David thus calls him Lord; so how can he be his son?”

⁴⁵ In the hearing of all the people he said to the^c disciples,⁴⁶ “Beware of the scribes, who like to walk around in long robes, and love to be greeted with respect in the marketplaces, and to have the best seats in the synagogues and places of honor at banquets.⁴⁷ They devour widows’ houses and for the sake of appearance say long prayers. They will receive the greater condemnation.”

21 He looked up and saw rich people putting their gifts into the treasury;² he also saw a poor widow put in two small

^a Gk his brother

^b Or the Christ

^c Other ancient authorities read his

the law,” i.e., “righteous” (also used of false pretense in Mt 23.28). 22–25: A falsified version of this incident lies behind the charge against Jesus before Pilate in 23.2. 24: Denarius, a silver coin with the emperor’s image and inscription “Tiberius Caesar, son of the divine Augustus.” Coins minted for Judea did not employ such images.

20.27–40: Question concerning resurrection (Mt 22.23–33; Mk 12.18–27). 27: Sadducees, a party of wealthy Judean elite that included some high priests and whose interpretations of Torah differed from those of the Pharisees (cf. Acts 4.1–2; Josephus, Ant. 18.17). 27: Sadducees rejected ideas of resurrection and afterlife not found in the Torah (Acts 23.8; Josephus, J.W. 2.164) 28: See Deut 25.5–10; Gen 38.8. 34–36: Bodily resurrection does not replicate the conditions of mortal human life. 37: Ex 3.6. Jesus refutes the Sadducees by citing scripture traditionally believed to have been written by Moses. 39: Some scribes, like some Pharisees (see 7.36n.) are not hostile to Jesus.

20.41–44: A question about David’s son (Mt 22.41–46; Mk 12.35–37a). 42–43: Ps 110.1. The first mentioned Lord is God, and the second is the Messiah. 44: David was traditionally viewed as author of the Psalms. Ps 110 is frequently cited in the NT; see, e.g., Acts 2.34–35; 1 Cor 15.25; Heb 1.13.

20.45–47: Warning concerning the scribes (Mt 23.1–36; Mk 12.37b–40). 46: See 11.43. 47: The practice referred to as devouring widow’s houses is unknown.

21.1–4: The widow’s offering (Mk 12.41–44). 1: The treasury refers to one of thirteen receptacles shaped like inverted trumpets in the Temple’s “court of the women” 2: The copper coin (Gk “lepton”) was of little monetary value (see 12.59n.)

copper coins.³ He said, “Truly I tell you, this poor widow has put in more than all of them;⁴ for all of them have contributed out of their abundance, but she out of her poverty has put in all she had to live on.”

⁵ When some were speaking about the temple, how it was adorned with beautiful stones and gifts dedicated to God, he said,⁶ “As for these things that you see, the days will come when not one stone will be left upon another; all will be thrown down.”

⁷ They asked him, “Teacher, when will this be, and what will be the sign that this is about to take place?”⁸ And he said, “Beware that you are not led astray; for many will come in my name and say, ‘I am he!’^a and, ‘The time is near!’^b Do not go after them.

⁹ “When you hear of wars and insurrections, do not be terrified; for these things must take place first, but the end will not follow immediately.”¹⁰ Then he said to them, “Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom;¹¹ there will be great earthquakes, and in various places famines and plagues; and there will be dreadful portents and great signs from heaven.

¹² “But before all this occurs, they will arrest you and persecute you; they will hand you over to synagogues and prisons, and you will be brought before kings and governors because of my name.¹³ This will give you an opportunity to testify.¹⁴ So make up your minds not to prepare your defense in advance;¹⁵ for I will give you words^c and a wisdom that none of your opponents will be able to withstand or contradict.¹⁶ You will be betrayed even by parents and brothers, by relatives and friends; and they will put some of you to death.¹⁷ You will be hated by all because of my name.¹⁸ But not a hair of your head will perish.¹⁹ By your endurance you will gain your souls.

²⁰ “When you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then know that its desolation has come near.^d²¹ Then those in Judea must flee to the mountains, and those inside the city must leave it, and those out in the country must not enter it;²² for these are days of vengeance, as a fulfillment of all that is written.²³ Woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing infants in those days! For there will be great distress on the earth and wrath against this people;²⁴ they will fall by the edge of the sword and be taken away as captives among all nations; and Jerusalem will be trampled on by the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.

²⁵ “There will be signs in the sun, the moon, and the stars, and on the earth distress among nations confused by the roaring of the sea and the waves.²⁶ People will faint from fear and foreboding of what is coming upon the world, for the powers of the heavens will be shaken.²⁷ Then they will see ‘the Son of Man coming in a cloud’ with power and great glory.²⁸ Now when these things begin to take place, stand up and raise your heads, because your redemption is drawing near.”

^a Gk I am

^b Or at hand

^c Gk a mouth

^d Or is at hand

21.5–6: Foretelling the destruction of the Temple (Mt 24.1–2; Mk 13.1–2). Luke’s version of the eschatological discourse in Mk 13 extends the time span between Jesus’s day and the end time. 6: See 19.44n.

21.7–11: Sayings about end-time signs (Mt 24.3–8; Mk 13.3–8). 7: 17.20; Acts 1.6. 10: See 2 Chr 15.6; Isa 19.2.

21.12–19: Foretelling the persecution of the disciples (Mt 24.9–14; Mk 13.9–13). 14–15: 12.11–12. Anticipates the theme of divine assistance in Acts (e.g., 5.19–20; 12.6–11; 16.25–34). 18: See 12.7; Acts 27.34; 1 Sam 14.45.

21.20–24: The desolation of Jerusalem (Mt 24.15–22; Mk 13.14–20). See 19.41–44n. 20–22: 19.41–44; 23.28–31; 17.31. 22: Cf. Isa 63.4; Jer 5.29; Hos 9.7. 24: Isa 63.18; Dan 8.13. The times of the Gentiles may imply a divinely imposed limit on Roman dominance, or the extension of salvation to all nations (20.16).

21.25–28: The coming of the Son of Man (Mt 24.29–31; Mk 13.24–27). 25–27: See Joel 3.3–4; Isa 24.19 (LXX); Pss 65.7; 46.3; 89.9; Wis 5.22; Jon 1.15. 25: Isa 13.10; Joel 2.10; Zeph 1.15. 26: Cf. Isa 34.4. The powers of the heavens, the celestial bodies (v. 25). 27: See Dan 7.13–14.

²⁹ Then he told them a parable: “Look at the fig tree and all the trees; ³⁰ as soon as they sprout leaves you can see for yourselves and know that summer is already near. ³¹ So also, when you see these things taking place, you know that the kingdom of God is near. ³² Truly I tell you, this generation will not pass away until all things have taken place. ³³ Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

³⁴ “Be on guard so that your hearts are not weighed down with dissipation and drunkenness and the worries of this life, and that day does not catch you unexpectedly, ³⁵ like a trap. For it will come upon all who live on the face of the whole earth. ³⁶ Be alert at all times, praying that you may have the strength to escape all these things that will take place, and to stand before the Son of Man.”

³⁷ Every day he was teaching in the temple, and at night he would go out and spend the night on the Mount of Olives, as it was called. ³⁸ And all the people would get up early in the morning to listen to him in the temple.

22 Now the festival of Unleavened Bread, which is called the Passover, was near. ² The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put Jesus^a to death, for they were afraid of the people.

³ Then Satan entered into Judas called Iscariot, who was one of the twelve; ⁴ he went away and conferred with the chief priests and officers of the temple police about how he might betray him to them. ⁵ They were greatly pleased and agreed to give him money. ⁶ So he consented and began to look for an opportunity to betray him to them when no crowd was present.

⁷ Then came the day of Unleavened Bread, on which the Passover lamb had to be sacrificed. ⁸ So Jesus^b sent Peter and John, saying, “Go and prepare the Passover meal for us that we may eat it.” ⁹ They asked him, “Where do you want us to make preparations for it?” ¹⁰ “Listen,” he said to them, “when you have entered the city, a man carrying a jar of water will meet you; follow him into the house he enters ¹¹ and say to the owner of the house, ‘The teacher asks you, ‘Where is the guest room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?’” ¹² He will show you a large room upstairs, already furnished. Make preparations for us there.” ¹³ So they went and found everything as he had told them; and they prepared the Passover meal.

¹⁴ When the hour came, he took his place at the table, and the apostles with him. ¹⁵ He said to them, “I have eagerly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer; ¹⁶ for I tell you, I will not eat it^c until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God.” ¹⁷ Then he took a cup, and after giving thanks he said, “Take this and divide it among yourselves; ¹⁸ for

^a Gk him

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities read never eat it again

21.29–33: The lesson of the fig tree (Mt 24.32–36; Mk 13.28–32). 32: Cf. 9.27. 33: 16.17.

21.34–36: Admonition to alertness (cf. Mt 24.43–51; 25.13; Mk 13.33–37). 34–36: 12.35–48. 34: 8.14; 12.22; 1 Thess 5.6–7. 36: 2 Cor 5.10.

21.37–38: Summary concerning Jesus’s ministry in Jerusalem. 37: Mount of Olives, key locale in the passion narrative (22.39, 47–53). 38: Jn 8.1–11 appears after this verse in some manuscripts; see Jn 8.11, note b.

22.1–23.56: The Last Supper and Jesus’s trials, death, and burial: The passion narrative (Mt 26–27; Mk 14–15; Jn 13–19).

22.1–6: The deadly conspiracy against Jesus. 1–2: Mt 26.2–5; Mk 14.1–2; Jn 11.47–53. 3–6: Mt 26.14–16; Mk 14.10–11; Jn 13.2. 3: The entry of Satan into Judas (see 6.16n.) reintroduces the theme from 4.13. On Judas as one of the twelve, see 6.16; 22.47. 4: Chief priests . . . , see 19.47n. 5: Mk 14.11.

22.7–13: Preparations for the Passover (Mt 26.17–19; Mk 14.12–16; Jn 13.1). 7: Passover eve; see Ex 12.18–20; Deut 16.5–8. 10: A man carrying a jar of water, which was women’s work, would be easily noticeable. 12: The large room upstairs was on the second floor, served by an outside staircase; such rooms could be rented to pilgrims.

22.14–20: The Last Supper (Mt 26.26–29; Mk 14.22–25; cf. Jn 6.51–58). 14: The hour, of the meal, after sunset. 16: This meal anticipates the meal celebrating God’s kingdom (12.37n.; 13.28–29; 14.15; 22.28–30). 17: Several prayers over the cup of wine might be offered during the meal (see v. 20). Luke’s order of events suggests

I tell you that from now on I will not drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God comes.”¹⁹ Then he took a loaf of bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it and gave it to them, saying, “This is my body, which is given for you. Do this in remembrance of me.”²⁰ And he did the same with the cup after supper, saying, “This cup that is poured out for you is the new covenant in my blood.”^{a 21} But see, the one who betrays me is with me, and his hand is on the table.²² For the Son of Man is going as it has been determined, but woe to that one by whom he is betrayed!”²³ Then they began to ask one another which one of them it could be who would do this.

²⁴ A dispute also arose among them as to which one of them was to be regarded as the greatest.²⁵ But he said to them, “The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them; and those in authority over them are called benefactors.²⁶ But not so with you; rather the greatest among you must become like the youngest, and the leader like one who serves.²⁷ For who is greater, the one who is at the table or the one who serves? Is it not the one at the table? But I am among you as one who serves.

²⁸ “You are those who have stood by me in my trials;²⁹ and I confer on you, just as my Father has conferred on me, a kingdom,³⁰ so that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and you will sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

³¹ “Simon, Simon, listen! Satan has demanded^b to sift all of you like wheat,³² but I have prayed for you that your own faith may not fail; and you, when once you have turned back, strengthen your brothers.”³³ And he said to him, “Lord, I am ready to go with you to prison and to death!”³⁴ Jesus^c said, “I tell you, Peter, the cock will not crow this day, until you have denied three times that you know me.”

³⁵ He said to them, “When I sent you out without a purse, bag, or sandals, did you lack anything?” They said, “No, not a thing.”³⁶ He said to them, “But now, the one who has a purse must take it, and likewise a bag. And the one who has no sword must sell his cloak and buy one.³⁷ For I tell you, this scripture must be fulfilled in me, ‘And he was counted among the lawless’; and indeed what is written about me is being fulfilled.”³⁸ They said, “Lord, look, here are two swords.” He replied, “It is enough.”

³⁹ He came out and went, as was his custom, to the Mount of Olives; and the disciples followed him.⁴⁰ When he reached the place, he said to them, “Pray that you may not come into the time of trial.”^{d 41} Then he withdrew from them about a stone’s throw, knelt down, and prayed,⁴² “Father, if you are willing, remove this cup from me; yet, not my will but yours be done.”⁴³ Then an angel from heaven

^a Other ancient authorities lack, in whole or in part, verses 19b-20 (which is given . . . in my blood)

^b Or has obtained permission

^c Gk He

^d Or into temptation

variation among early Christians in the way they observed the “Lord’s supper.” Including a cup before the bread, as well as the usual cup afterward, is unique. Jesus transformed a Jewish ritual meal (Passover) into one that associates participants with his death and victory. 19: The action is commemorative; cf. Deut 16.3; 1 Cor 11.23–26.

22.21–23: The foretelling of the betrayal (Mt 26.21–25; Mk 14.18–21; Jn 13.21–30). 21: Ps 41.9; Jn 13.21–30. 22: Has been determined, the theological passive indicates that all the events which follow belong to God’s plan of salvation.

22.24–30: True discipleship (Mt 20.24–28; Mk 10.41–45). This section and the two that follow (21.31–34, 35–38) form a brief farewell discourse delivered by Jesus. 24: Jn 13.3–16. 25: Benefactors, a title often used for gods, kings, and Roman emperors. 27: See 12.37n. 30: Mt 19.28; Ps 122.4–5.

22.31–34: The foretelling of Peter’s denial (Mt 26.30–35; Mk 14.26–31; Jn 13.36–38). 31: Satan has demanded, cf. Job 1.6–12. 32: You in the singular (contrast v. 31). 34: See vv. 54–62.

22.35–38: Sayings about the coming crisis. 35: See 10.4; cf. 9.3. 36: Contrast the lack of provisions during Jesus’s ministry, 9.3; 10.4. 37: Isa 53.12. 38: Against armed resistance; see vv. 49–50.

22.39–46: Jesus’s prayer on the Mount of Olives (Mt 26.36–46; Mk 14.32–42; Jn 18.1–2). 40: Time of trial, see 11.4n.; 22.40. 42: Cup, that which is allotted by God, whether blessing (Pss 16.5; 116.13) or judgment (Isa 51.17;

appeared to him and gave him strength. ⁴⁴ In his anguish he prayed more earnestly, and his sweat became like great drops of blood falling down on the ground.]]^a ⁴⁵ When he got up from prayer, he came to the disciples and found them sleeping because of grief, ⁴⁶ and he said to them, “Why are you sleeping? Get up and pray that you may not come into the time of trial.”^b

⁴⁷ While he was still speaking, suddenly a crowd came, and the one called Judas, one of the twelve, was leading them. He approached Jesus to kiss him; ⁴⁸ but Jesus said to him, “Judas, is it with a kiss that you are betraying the Son of Man?” ⁴⁹ When those who were around him saw what was coming, they asked, “Lord, should we strike with the sword?” ⁵⁰ Then one of them struck the slave of the high priest and cut off his right ear. ⁵¹ But Jesus said, “No more of this!” And he touched his ear and healed him. ⁵² Then Jesus said to the chief priests, the officers of the temple police, and the elders who had come for him, “Have you come out with swords and clubs as if I were a bandit? ⁵³ When I was with you day after day in the temple, you did not lay hands on me. But this is your hour, and the power of darkness!”

⁵⁴ Then they seized him and led him away, bringing him into the high priest’s house. But Peter was following at a distance. ⁵⁵ When they had kindled a fire in the middle of the courtyard and sat down together, Peter sat among them. ⁵⁶ Then a servant-girl, seeing him in the firelight, stared at him and said, “This man also was with him.” ⁵⁷ But he denied it, saying, “Woman, I do not know him.”

⁵⁸ A little later someone else, on seeing him, said, “You also are one of them.” But Peter said, “Man, I am not!” ⁵⁹ Then about an hour later still another kept insisting, “Surely this man also was with him; for he is a Galilean.” ⁶⁰ But Peter said, “Man, I do not know what you are talking about!” At that moment, while he was still speaking, the cock crowed. ⁶¹ The Lord turned and looked at Peter. Then Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said to him, “Before the cock crows today, you will deny me three times.” ⁶² And he went out and wept bitterly.

⁶³ Now the men who were holding Jesus began to mock him and beat him; ⁶⁴ they also blindfolded him and kept asking him, “Prophecy! Who is it that struck you?” ⁶⁵ They kept heaping many other insults on him.

⁶⁶ When day came, the assembly of the elders of the people, both chief priests and scribes, gathered together, and they brought him to their council. ⁶⁷ They said, “If you are the Messiah,^c tell us.” He replied, “If I tell you, you will not believe; ⁶⁸ and if I question you, you will not answer. ⁶⁹ But from now on the Son of Man will be seated at the right hand of the power of God.” ⁷⁰ All of them asked, “Are you, then, the Son of God?” He said to them, “You say that I am.” ⁷¹ Then they said, “What further testimony do we need? We have heard it ourselves from his own lips!”

^a Other ancient authorities lack verses 43 and 44

^b Or into temptation

^c Or the Christ

Lam 4.21). 43–44: Important early manuscripts lack these verses, which were known in the second century (Justin Martyr, Dial. 103.8).

22.47–53: The betrayal and arrest of Jesus (Mt 26.47–56; Mk 14.43–52; Jn 18.2–12). 52: Cf. Isa 53.12; Luke substitutes temple police for “scribes” (Mk 14.43), justifying the armed response in v. 49. The word translated bandit can also mean “insurrectionist.” 53: Power of darkness, the eschatological upsurge of evil; see 4.13; 22.3.

22.54–62: Peter’s denials (Mt 26.69–75; Mk 14.66–72; Jn 18.12–18,25–27). 59: A Galilean, according to Mt 26.73 because of Peter’s accent. 60–61: Jesus’s prophecy is fulfilled (see 22.34). Jesus’s turning to face Peter is a detail found only in Luke.

22.63–65: The mockery of Jesus (Mt 26.67–68; 27.27–31a; Mk 14.65; 15.16–20a; Jn 18.22–24). Here Jesus is mocked by guards before any formal proceedings against him rather than as one already condemned as in the other Gospels.

22.66–71: Jesus before the council (Mt 27.1; 26.59–65; Mk 15.1; 14.55–63; Jn 18.13–14,19–23). 66: Council, Gk “synedrion,” Sanhedrin. 67: If you are the Messiah, tell us, becomes an element of the charges before Pilate in 23.2. 69: Cf. Mk 14.61–62; see Ps 110.1; Dan 7.13. Jesus claims divine vindication and even a share in divine rule. 71: From what follows in 23.1–2, it seems here that Jesus’s adversaries conclude that he is guilty of sedition.

23 Then the assembly rose as a body and brought Jesus^a before Pilate.² They began to accuse him, saying, “We found this man perverting our nation, forbidding us to pay taxes to the emperor, and saying that he himself is the Messiah, a king.”^b ³Then Pilate asked him, “Are you the king of the Jews?” He answered, “You say so.”⁴ Then Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowds, “I find no basis for an accusation against this man.”⁵ But they were insistent and said, “He stirs up the people by teaching throughout all Judea, from Galilee where he began even to this place.”

⁶When Pilate heard this, he asked whether the man was a Galilean.⁷ And when he learned that he was under Herod’s jurisdiction, he sent him off to Herod, who was himself in Jerusalem at that time.⁸ When Herod saw Jesus, he was very glad, for he had been wanting to see him for a long time, because he had heard about him and was hoping to see him perform some sign.⁹ He questioned him at some length, but Jesus^c gave him no answer.¹⁰ The chief priests and the scribes stood by, vehemently accusing him.¹¹ Even Herod with his soldiers treated him with contempt and mocked him; then he put an elegant robe on him, and sent him back to Pilate.¹² That same day Herod and Pilate became friends with each other; before this they had been enemies.

¹³Pilate then called together the chief priests, the leaders, and the people,¹⁴ and said to them, “You brought me this man as one who was perverting the people; and here I have examined him in your presence and have not found this man guilty of any of your charges against him.¹⁵ Neither has Herod, for he sent him back to us. Indeed, he has done nothing to deserve death.¹⁶ I will therefore have him flogged and release him.”^d ¹⁸Then they all shouted out together, “Away with this fellow! Release Barabbas for us!”¹⁹ (This was a man who had been put in prison for an insurrection that had taken place in the city, and for murder.)²⁰ Pilate, wanting to release Jesus, addressed them again;²¹ but they kept shouting, “Crucify, crucify him!”²² A third time he said to them, “Why, what evil has he done? I have found in him no ground for the sentence of death; I will therefore have him flogged and then release him.”²³ But they kept urgently demanding with loud shouts that he should be crucified; and their voices prevailed.²⁴ So Pilate gave his verdict that their demand should be granted.²⁵ He released the man they asked for, the one who had been put in prison for insurrection and murder, and he handed Jesus over as they wished.

²⁶As they led him away, they seized a man, Simon of Cyrene, who was coming from the country, and they laid the cross on him, and made him carry it behind Jesus.²⁷ A great

^a Gk him

^b Or is an anointed king

^c Gk he

^d Here, or after verse 19, other ancient authorities add verse 17, Now he was obliged to release someone for them at the festival

23.1–5: Jesus before Pilate (Mt 27.1–14; Mk 15.1–5; Jn 18.28–38). 1: Pilate, see 3.1n. 2–3: Mention of king draws Pilate’s attention. 2: Cf. 19.38; 20.25; see Acts 24.5. The charge is phrased to sound like treason. 3: You say so, cf. 22.70. Jesus cannot deny that he is “Son of God” and “messiah/king,” but he is not guilty as charged. 4: 23.14,22,41; Jn 19.4,6; Acts 13.28. Pilate refused to take religious ideas in a political sense. Here, and later, Pilate sought to free Jesus but then yielded to pressures. 5: Teaching, specifically the perverting of v. 2.

23.6–12: Jesus before Herod. An episode found only in Luke. Herod Antipas (see 3.1n.) had arrested (3.19–20) and beheaded (9.9) John the Baptist. 8: Luke describes Herod Antipas as more curious than hostile toward Jesus; see 9.9; Acts 4.27–28. 9: No answer, cf. Mt 27.12; Mk 15.5. 11: Elegant robe, an expression of scorn; cf. Jn 19.2–3. 12: An enmity not recorded elsewhere.

23.13–16 [17]: Pilate’s declaration of Jesus’s innocence. 14: Vv. 4,22,41. 15: Pilate interprets Herod Antipas’s actions as evidence of innocence. 16: Cf. Jn 19.12–14. [17]: See Mk 15.6n.

23.18–25: The sentencing of Jesus to death (Mt 27.15–26; Mk 15.6–15; Jn 18.39–40; 19.16; see Acts 3.13–14). 18: The Barabbas incident is recounted in greater detail in the other Gospels. 24: Luke’s depiction of Pilate is that of a failure of Roman justice.

23.26–31: On the way to the cross (Mt 27.31b–32; Mk 15.20b–21; Jn 19.17a). 26: The main actors are the Roman soldiers (v. 36), despite the ambiguous they. Cyrene, in Libya. The cross, i.e., the horizontal crossbeam. 27:

number of the people followed him, and among them were women who were beating their breasts and wailing for him.²⁸ But Jesus turned to them and said, “Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for me, but weep for yourselves and for your children.²⁹ For the days are surely coming when they will say, ‘Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bore, and the breasts that never nursed.’³⁰ Then they will begin to say to the mountains, ‘Fall on us’; and to the hills, ‘Cover us.’³¹ For if they do this when the wood is green, what will happen when it is dry?”

³² Two others also, who were criminals, were led away to be put to death with him.³³ When they came to the place that is called The Skull, they crucified Jesus^a there with the criminals, one on his right and one on his left. [³⁴ Then Jesus said, “Father, forgive them; for they do not know what they are doing.”] ^b And they cast lots to divide his clothing.³⁵ And the people stood by, watching; but the leaders scoffed at him, saying, “He saved others; let him save himself if he is the Messiah^c of God, his chosen one!”³⁶ The soldiers also mocked him, coming up and offering him sour wine,³⁷ and saying, “If you are the King of the Jews, save yourself!”³⁸ There was also an inscription over him,^d “This is the King of the Jews.”

³⁹ One of the criminals who were hanged there kept deriding^e him and saying, “Are you not the Messiah?^c Save yourself and us!”

⁴⁰ But the other rebuked him, saying, “Do you not fear God, since you are under the same sentence of condemnation?”⁴¹ And we indeed have been condemned justly, for we are getting what we deserve for our deeds, but this man has done nothing wrong.”

⁴² Then he said, “Jesus, remember me when you come into^f your kingdom.”⁴³ He replied, “Truly I tell you, today you will be with me in Paradise.”

⁴⁴ It was now about noon, and darkness came over the whole land^g until three in the afternoon,⁴⁵ while the sun’s light failed;^h and the curtain of the temple was torn in two.⁴⁶ Then Jesus, crying with a loud voice, said, “Father, into your hands I commend my spirit.” Having said this, he breathed his last.⁴⁷ When the centurion saw what had taken place, he praised God and said, “Certainly

^a Gk him

^b Other ancient authorities lack the sentence Then Jesus . . . what they are doing

^c Or the Christ

^d Other ancient authorities add written in Greek and Latin and Hebrew (that is, Aramaic)

^e Or blaspheming

^f Other ancient authorities read in

^g Or earth

^h Or the sun was eclipsed. Other ancient authorities read the sun was darkened

Here beating their breasts indicates mourning, not repentance (cf. 18.3; 23.48). 28–32: 21.23–24; 19.41–44. 30: See Hos 10.8. 31: Cf. Prov 11.31. This proverb may mean either that if the innocent Jesus meets such a fate, then a worse fate awaits the guilty Jerusalem, or that if such takes place with Jesus present and active, what will happen when he is no longer present?

23.32: Two criminals with Jesus. The Gk word for criminals (lit., “evildoers”) gives no indication of the nature of the crime(s) committed.

23.33–38: The scene of the crucifixion (Mt 27.33–43; Mk 15.22–32a; Jn 19.17b–27). 33: The Skull, its Aramaic name, Golgotha, occurs in the other Gospels. 34: See textual note a; cf. Acts 7.60. See Ps 22.18. 35: Luke distinguishes the people (who were watching) from the leaders (who were scoffing). 36: See Ps 69.20–21. Sour wine was cheap, ordinary wine. 37–38: The charge, the King of the Jews, was at the center of the events connected with the execution of Jesus.

23.39–43: The exchange between Jesus and the two criminals (Mt 27.44; Mk 15.32b). 41: Repeated recognition of Jesus’s innocence (see vv. 4.14,22). 42: The criminal’s appeal may be based on the charge against Jesus (vv. 2.3,38); Jesus promises more than he asked, intimating that God’s kingly power is a present reality, not merely a future one. 43: Paradise, originally a term for the garden of Eden (Gen 2.8–10), was used for the place of the righteous dead prior to the resurrection; cf. 16.22.

23.44–48: The death of Jesus (Mt 27.45–54; Mk 15.33–39; Jn 19.28–30). 45: The sun’s light failed, the translation is uncertain; see Am 8.9; Joel 2.31. The curtain (see Ex 26.31–35) was torn at or immediately after Jesus’s death in Mk 15.38. 46: Ps 31.5. 47: The centurion (see 7.2n.) declares Jesus to be “righteous” rather than merely this man was innocent.”^a ⁴⁸ And when all the crowds who had gathered there for this spectacle saw what had taken place, they returned home, beating their breasts. ⁴⁹ But all his acquaintances, including the women who had followed him from Galilee, stood at a distance, watching these things.

⁵⁰ Now there was a good and righteous man named Joseph, who, though a member of the council, ⁵¹ had not agreed to their plan and action. He came from the Jewish town of Arimathea, and he was waiting expectantly for the kingdom of God. ⁵² This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. ⁵³ Then he took it down, wrapped it in a linen cloth, and laid it in a rock-hewn tomb where no one had ever been laid. ⁵⁴ It was the day of Preparation, and the sabbath was beginning.^b ⁵⁵ The women who had come with him from Galilee followed, and they saw the tomb and how his body was laid. ⁵⁶ Then they returned, and prepared spices and ointments.

On the sabbath they rested according to the commandment.

24 But on the first day of the week, at early dawn, they came to the tomb, taking the spices that they had prepared. ² They found the stone rolled away from the tomb, ³ but when they went in, they did not find the body.^c ⁴ While they were perplexed about this, suddenly two men in dazzling clothes stood beside them. ⁵ The women^d were terrified and bowed their faces to the ground, but the men^e said to them, “Why do you look for the living among the dead? He is not here, but has risen.”^f ⁶ Remember how he told you, while he was still in Galilee, ⁷ that the Son of Man must be handed over to sinners, and be crucified, and on the third day rise again.” ⁸ Then they remembered his words, ⁹ and returning from the tomb, they told all this to the eleven and to all the rest. ¹⁰ Now it was Mary Magdalene, Joanna, Mary the mother of James, and the other women with them who told this to the apostles. ¹¹ But these words seemed to them an idle tale, and they did not believe them. ¹² But Peter got up and ran to the tomb; stooping and looking in, he saw the linen cloths by themselves; then he went home, amazed at what had happened.^g

¹³ Now on that same day two of them were going to a village called Emmaus, about seven miles^h from Jerusalem, ¹⁴ and talking with each other about all these things that had happened. ¹⁵ While they were talking and discussing, Jesus himself came near and

^a Or righteous

^b Gk was dawning

^c Other ancient authorities add of the Lord Jesus

^d Gk They

^e Gk but they

^f Other ancient authorities lack He is not here, but has risen

^g Other ancient authorities lack verse 12

^h Gk sixty stadia; other ancient authorities read a hundred sixty stadia

innocent; see Acts 3:14; 22:14. 48: The cause of this popular agitation is not clear (Zech 12:10), though compare 18:13–14.

23:49: Jesus’s acquaintances at the crucifixion (Mt 27:55–56; Mk 15:40–41; Jn 19:25–27). See 23:55; cf. 8:1–3; 24:10; Ps 38:11. All can indicate a large number of persons; cf. 3:21.

23:50–54: The burial of Jesus (Mt 27:57–60; Mk 15:42–46; Jn 19:38–42). 50: The council, see 22:66n. 51: Joseph’s expectation would have inclined him toward Jesus sympathetically. 54: The sabbath began at sundown. Luke, with Gentile readers in mind, indicates the urgency of the burial in Jewish custom (see Ex 12:16; 20:10).

23:55–56: Women at the burial (Mt 27:61; Mk 15:47–16:1). 55: Cf. 24:10. 56: Spices and ointments were applied to the corpse; see Mk 16:1; Jn 19:40.

24:1–53: The empty tomb and the resurrection (Mt 28:1–10,16–20; Mk 16:1–8; Jn 20–21).

24:1–12: The women at the tomb (Mt 28:1–8; Mk 16:1–8; Jn 20:1–13). 2: The stone is not an issue in Luke’s account; cf. Mt 28:2; Mk 16:3–4. 4: The two men wear clothing that identifies them as angels (see v. 23), as do their sudden appearance and supernatural knowledge (vv. 5–7). 6: 9:22; 13:32–33. You here suggests that Jesus’s disciples as a group often included others in addition to the “Twelve.” 10: 8:1–3; Jn 19:25; 20:2. 12: This verse, though appearing in many ancient manuscripts, may be an addition to the original text of Luke based on Jn 20:3–10; see 24:24.

24:13–35: The Emmaus incident. 13: Seven miles, lit., “sixty stadia”; a stadium was approximately 600 ft went with them,¹⁶ but their eyes were kept from recognizing him.¹⁷ And he said to them, “What are you discussing with each other while you walk along?” They stood still, looking sad.^a ¹⁸ Then one of them, whose name was Cleopas, answered him, “Are you the only stranger in Jerusalem who does not know the things that have taken place there in these days?” ¹⁹ He asked them, “What things?” They replied, “The things about Jesus of Nazareth,^b who was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people,²⁰ and how our chief priests and leaders handed him over to be condemned to death and crucified him.²¹ But we had hoped that he was the one to redeem Israel.^c Yes, and besides all this, it is now the third day since these things took place.²² Moreover, some women of our group astounded us. They were at the tomb early this morning,²³ and when they did not find his body there, they came back and told us that they had indeed seen a vision of angels who said that he was alive.²⁴ Some of those who were with us went to the tomb and found it just as the women had said; but they did not see him.” ²⁵ Then he said to them, “Oh, how foolish you are, and how slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have declared!²⁶ Was it not necessary that the Messiah^d should suffer these things and then enter into his glory?” ²⁷ Then beginning with Moses and all the prophets, he interpreted to them the things about himself in all the scriptures.

²⁸ As they came near the village to which they were going, he walked ahead as if he were going on.²⁹ But they urged him strongly, saying, “Stay with us, because it is almost evening and the day is now nearly over.” So he went in to stay with them.³⁰ When he was at the table with them, he took bread, blessed and broke it, and gave it to them.³¹ Then their eyes were opened, and they recognized him; and he vanished from their sight.³² They said to each other, “Were not our hearts burning within us^e while he was talking to us on the road, while he was opening the scriptures to us?” ³³ That same hour they got up and returned to Jerusalem; and they found the eleven and their companions gathered together.³⁴ They were saying, “The Lord has risen indeed, and he has appeared to Simon!” ³⁵ Then they told what had happened on the road, and how he had been made known to them in the breaking of the bread.

³⁶ While they were talking about this, Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, “Peace be with you.”^f ³⁷ They were startled and terrified, and thought that they were seeing a ghost.³⁸ He said to them, “Why are you frightened, and why do doubts arise in your hearts?” ³⁹ Look at my hands and my feet; see that it is I myself. Touch me and see; for a ghost does not have flesh and bones as you see that I have.” ⁴⁰ And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet.^g ⁴¹ While in their joy they were disbelieving and still wondering, he said to them, “Have you anything here to eat?” ⁴² They gave him a piece of broiled fish,⁴³ and he took it and ate in their presence.

^a Other ancient authorities read walk along, looking sad?

^b Other ancient authorities read Jesus the Nazorean

^c Or to set Israel free

^d Or the Christ

^e Other ancient authorities lack within us

^f Other ancient authorities lack and said to them, “Peace be with you.”

^g Other ancient authorities lack verse 40

(180 m). The location of Emmaus is uncertain. 16: Inability to recognize Jesus is typical of initial reactions in resurrection stories (cf. 24.37). 18: Cleopas is otherwise unknown. 19: 7.16; 13.33; Acts 3.22; 10.38. 20: Early Christian memory faults the chief priests and leaders for their having handed him over to the Romans. 22–24: See vv. 1–12. 26: Necessary in God’s plan (see 7.30; Acts 2.23; 13.36; 20.27). 27: Moses . . . the prophets, see 16.16n.; 24.44; Acts 28.23. 30: Took, blessed, and broke, echo the actions of Jesus at the Last Supper (22.19) and the multiplication of the loaves (9.16). 31: The comings and goings of the risen Jesus are not explained (see 24.31,36,51). 34: 1 Cor 15.5. Peter’s experience is not described. 35: Breaking of the bread, see Acts 2.42; 20.7; 1 Cor 10.16.

24.36–43: Jesus’s appearance to his disciples (Jn 20.19–23). See 1 Cor 15.5. Their experience of Jesus, affirmed in v. 36, is tentatively interpreted in v. 37 as an encounter with the dead, but this explanation is rejected in v. 39. 38–41: Doubts and disbelief are features of other NT resurrection stories; cf. Mt 28.17; Jn 20.25. 39–40: Cf. Jn 20.25,27. 42: Broiled fish, cf. Jn 21.9–13.

⁴⁴ Then he said to them, “These are my words that I spoke to you while I was still with you—that everything written about me in the law of Moses, the prophets, and the psalms must be fulfilled.” ⁴⁵ Then he opened their minds to understand the scriptures, ⁴⁶ and he said to them, “Thus it is written, that the Messiah^a is to suffer and to rise from the dead on the third day, ⁴⁷ and that repentance and forgiveness of sins is to be proclaimed in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. ⁴⁸ You are witnesses^b of these things. ⁴⁹ And see, I am sending upon you what my Father promised; so stay here in the city until you have been clothed with power from on high.”

⁵⁰ Then he led them out as far as Bethany, and, lifting up his hands, he blessed them. ⁵¹ While he was blessing them, he withdrew from them and was carried up into heaven.^c ⁵² And they worshiped him, and^d returned to Jerusalem with great joy; ⁵³ and they were continually in the temple blessing God.^e

^a Or the Christ

^b Or nations. Beginning from Jerusalem ⁴⁸*you are witnesses*

^c Other ancient authorities lack and was carried up into heaven

^d Other ancient authorities lack worshiped him, and

^e Other ancient authorities add Amen

24.44–53: Jesus’s final words and withdrawal into heaven (cf. the longer ending of Mark: Mk 16.15,19). 44: Vv. 26–27; Acts 28.23. see 16.16n. The Psalms were important in early Christian interpretation of Jesus’s mission, esp. in messianic reflection. 46: Hos 6.2; cf. 1 Cor 15.3–4. 47: Acts 1.4–8; 5.31; 10.43; 13.38; 26.18. 48: Acts 1.8. 49: Power from on high, the words allude to the energy of the Spirit of God referred to in Joel 2.28–32 (cf. Acts 2.1–21). The new age has begun, but its power is not yet fully realized. 50: Bethany, see 19.29n. 51: Acts 1.9–11. 52–53: Acts 1.12–14; 2.46–47.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO JOHN

AUTHORSHIP, PROVENANCE, AND DATE OF COMPOSITION

The Gospel of John relates the story of Jesus as one in which the Word made flesh is sent into the world “from above” to bring life to those who believe in him (1.1–18). The narrative world of the Gospel involves sharp contrasts—above and below, light and dark, spirit and flesh, not of this world/of this world, children of God and children of the devil. It is a world that God loves (3.16), but one that will hate his Son and those who come to believe in him (15.18–25). The Gospel soars with language of love and bites with sharp words of opposition between Jesus and his opponents. Even after centuries of study, readers are still discovering nuances in the symbolic language of this complex Gospel.

Like the other Gospels, this one never names an author. Since at least the late second century CE, tradition has attributed the authorship of the Gospel to Jesus’s disciple, John the son of Zebedee, who purportedly wrote the Gospel in Ephesus. Doubts about the accuracy of this tradition have existed since antiquity. Eusebius mentions a different figure, John “the Elder,” living in Ephesus (Hist. eccl. 3.39.3). The conclusion to the Gospel (21.24) points to the memories of the “disciple whom Jesus loved” as a source of its traditions. But the narrative never identifies this figure, although if the “other disciple” in 18.16 is a reference to this same disciple, it may suggest that he is from Jerusalem rather than Galilee. Today most scholars think that Johannine traditions stem from an unidentified follower of Jesus, not one of the twelve disciples. This anonymous disciple developed a group of followers, a “Johannine school,” who were responsible for writing down his witness. This figure was idealized in the community, as the model believer who is called the “beloved disciple” in the Gospel narrative (19.25–27).

Dating the Gospel is complicated by theories that the Gospel was composed in several stages. Scholars generally date the final form of the Gospel to around 90–100 CE. A small papyrus fragment known as P52 (Rylands Library Papyrus 3.457), which contains verses from Jn 18, was initially dated at around 130 CE, which would mean that the Gospel must have been written by the end of the first century. More recently that date has been moved to later in the second century. Furthermore, references to John begin to proliferate in Christian writers only in the second half of the second century. The Gospel was likely written sometime in the late first century or early second century CE. But some scholars continue to argue for an earlier first-century date, at least for an earlier form of the Gospel.

Ephesus continues to be the lead contender for the author’s location. Not only does tradition situate it there, but another writing associated with the Johannine corpus, the book of Revelation, is directed toward an audience in Asia Minor (Rev 1.4). Other suggestions include Palestine (especially for those looking for an early provenance) and Alexandria (because the Gospel was popular with Gnostic thinkers living in Egypt).

LITERARY HISTORY

Scholars confront three main puzzles in trying to discern the stages of composition in the Gospel of John. First, what is the relationship between this Gospel and the Synoptic Gospels? Second, apart from the Synoptic Gospels as potential sources, are there other discernible sources behind the Gospel? Third, was the Gospel composed in several stages at different points in the life of a particular “Johannine” community?

For much of the twentieth century, the distinctiveness of the Gospel led scholars to argue that the author did not know any of the Synoptic Gospels but employed an independent source of oral and written traditions which had some overlap with “Synoptic-like” traditions, especially Mark and Luke. More recently, scholars have argued that the evangelist knew one or more of the Synoptic Gospels, but chose to present the story of Jesus in a different form. The Gospel employs elements of the dramatic form to focus attention on the identity of Jesus as God’s Son, “the one coming into the world” (1.9; 11.27). Thus the author departs from the narrative form of the other Gospels which depict Jesus as God’s anointed Messiah who announces the coming kingdom of God.

Apart from the author’s knowledge of written Gospels, the author may also have incorporated a source designated by scholars as the “signs source” (or sēmeia, Gk for “signs”). The Gospel uses the term “signs” for miracles performed by Jesus, and two of them, which are numbered, frame an early section of the narrative (2.11; 4.54). Different assessments of signs appear in the narrative: sometimes they are regarded positively as the basis of faith (2.11; 2.23); at other times seeking signs draws criticism (4.48). Such differences could result from the incorporation of a distinct signs source.

Many scholars think that the Gospel was written in stages, over several decades. In 21.20–23, for instance, we find confusion regarding the death of the Beloved Disciple prior to the second coming of Jesus. That clarification suggests that ch 21 stems from a revision of the Gospel at a later period in the life of the community. Similarly, chs 15–17 may belong to that addition, given the apparent break in the narrative at 14.31. The Johannine letters, which share vocabulary and images related to the Gospel, point to further crisis which split the community, although whether this crisis occurred before or after the writing of the Gospel is debated. Some interpreters reject the entire construct of a “Johannine community,” since no external evidence exists for such a community in Ephesus. Moreover, what appear to be awkward textual breaks can be explained as literary devices that were common to Greek drama (see 14.31n.).

STRUCTURE AND LITERARY STYLE

The narrative divides into two main sections. Chapters 1–12 describe Jesus’s time in the world during which he performs signs to disclose the true nature of his identity to those who believe. At 13.1, Jesus tells his disciples that his time to return to the Father has come, beginning the second part of Gospel. The remaining chapters include Jesus’s farewell meal with the disciples where he prepares them for his departure (13–17), followed by the passion and resurrection narrative (18–20), and an epilogue (21). In addition to relating Jesus’s signs, the first part describes increasing conflict between Jesus and his opponents, culminating in the final plan to put Jesus to death (11.53). This decision comes following the raising of Lazarus, which itself points ahead to Jesus’s death and resurrection. So also does Mary’s anointing of Jesus in Bethany, which anticipates his burial (12.7–8). Thus, chs 11–12 provide the transition from the first half of the Gospel, focusing on Jesus coming into the world and his ministry, to the second part, focused on his glorification and ascent to the Father.

The Gospel contains many distinctive traditions and literary features. For example, the narrative presents Jesus in extended dialogues with other characters along with lengthy discourses about his identity and purpose. Often these exchanges lead to misunderstanding on the part of his conversation partners. See, for example, the scenes with Nicodemus, (3.1–21) and the Samaritan Woman (4.1–42), where Jesus uses words with double meanings that create confusion. Likewise, Jesus’s discourses employ symbolic imagery to describe Jesus’s identity. That language leads to questions and protests from listeners. Another literary device is the use of “I am” statements. The Johannine Jesus uses the phrase to define himself by way of objects from everyday life such as bread (6.35), light (8.12), door (10.7), good shepherd (10.11), and true vine (15.1). In some cases, the phrase is used more abstractly. Jesus instructs his listener that he is the resurrection (11.25), the way, the truth, and the life (14.6). All of these statements point to the life-giving qualities of the divine savior. In several cases the phrase is used without a direct object (8.28,58), echoing the “I am” theophany of Exodus, where God reveals his name using the first-person form of the verb to be (Ex 3.14). This focus on the identity of Jesus appears also in the Gospel’s distinctive description of Jesus’s wondrous acts as “signs.” In the Synoptic tradition, Jesus’s miracles point to the in-breaking of the kingdom of God. In this Gospel, the signs reveal Jesus’s glory and bring people to belief in him.

Irony also appears regularly as a literary device, where characters unknowingly convey theological truths about Jesus. Two prime examples are Caiaphas’s declaration about Jesus’s death for “the people” (11.49–52), and Pilate’s question “What is truth?” as he stands before Jesus who has proclaimed himself as the truth (18.38).

HISTORICAL CONTEXT AND INTERPRETATION

As early as Clement of Alexandria’s statement that “John wrote a spiritual gospel” (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 6.14.7) readers have tended to assume that the Gospel is less historical than the Synoptic Gospels. While assessing the historicity of any Gospel tradition is always complicated, at least some details in John may be closer to the historical context of Jesus than those in the Synoptic accounts. For example, John’s narrative has Jesus engaged in a ministry of at least three years compared to the single year in the other Gospels. In John, Jesus attends multiple festivals in Jerusalem, including three annual Passover festivals (2.13; 6.4; 11.55). An active ministry of several years makes more sense in providing time necessary to gather followers and attract the negative attention of Roman leaders. The Gospel of John is also the only one that directly addresses the historical reality of living under Roman occupation (11.48). Other differences in chronology are more difficult to assess. For instance, the Gospel does not have Jesus sharing a Passover meal with the disciples as in the Synoptic Gospels; instead, Jesus's last meal is on the day before Passover. Theological motivations can explain both versions of the timing. In the Gospel of John, Jesus is the Lamb of God crucified on the day before Passover, the same day that the Passover lambs are slaughtered. In the Synoptic Gospels, the Last Supper is a Passover meal that is transformed into a Eucharistic meal.

Determining the historical circumstances in which the Gospel was written poses other difficult questions. From a Christian perspective, the Gospel of John offers a rich tapestry of symbolic language that presents Jesus as the image and revelation of God in the world. One who knows Jesus, knows God (1.18; 14.9), and one who follows the commandment of Jesus to love others in the community will abide in God's love and have complete joy (15.10). Believers have been granted eternal life and promised a place with the Father and the Son (3.16; 8.51; 14.1–3). But all of this positive imagery is accompanied by its opposite. One who does not believe has already been condemned (3.18). One who does not abide in Jesus “is thrown away like a branch” to wither and burn (15.6). If believers have eternal life, sinners (those who do not believe) will die in their sins (8.24).

This starkly drawn picture may seem clear enough until one confronts the fact that the Gospel regularly labels these nonbelievers as hoi Ioudaioi, “the Jews.” Indeed, a major challenge of understanding the historical context of the Gospel is how to make sense of a narrative that features Jesus in close connection with Jewish traditions and rituals (shown through regular references to the ancestral figures of Abraham, Jacob, and Moses, as well as frequent attendance at Jewish festivals), and also in heated conflict with a group called “the Jews.” Historically, Jesus and all of his disciples were Jewish, so it seems puzzling to hear John's Jesus declare that unbelieving children of Abraham are offspring of the devil (8.39–44). Scholars debate even how to translate the phrase hoi Ioudaioi, since it clearly cannot refer to all Jewish people. Because the Gospel also contrasts a positive response to Jesus in the rural region of Galilee with the increasing hostility of Judeans in Jerusalem, some favor “the Judeans” as the translation of hoi Ioudaioi. Especially given the legacy of violent anti-Semitism in Western history, the problem of translation is a serious one.

One theory about the historical context of the Gospel popular in the late twentieth century explained the hostile use of “the Jews” as the reaction to a formal expulsion of Christ-believers from Jewish synagogues. The theory rested on the Gospel's use of the Gk term aposynagogos (lit., “out from the synagogue”). It appears three times in the Gospel (9.22; 12.42; 16.2), but nowhere else in ancient Greek literature. In recent years, the notion of a formal expulsion from the synagogue as the historical background for the Gospel has been disproven, since it assumed that a benediction from a later period in Jewish liturgy represented a curse against Jesus's followers. The synagogue expulsion theory also fails to account for evidence from the Gospel narrative. For example, 12.11 refers to voluntary departure from the synagogue rather than expulsion. In some places, “the Jews” is used in neutral ways, as in references to the festival of the Jews that Jesus attends (5.1), or the Jews who gather with Mary and Martha to comfort them (11.19). Indeed, one should also note that Mary and Martha, clearly intimate associates with Jesus, are still associating with the Jews—they have not been “put out of the synagogue.” In other places, the expression “the Jews” is a variation on the negative group opposed to Jesus, “unbelievers” or even “the world.” Generally, when Gospel writers refer to “the Jews” in antagonistic ways, they have religious authorities in mind.

Consequently, some scholars think that references to being driven out of the synagogue may be included in the Gospel to prevent Jesus-believers who had left the synagogue from returning to it again (see 1 Jn 2.19). In this sense, a more accurate description of the circumstances reflected by the rhetoric of the Gospel would see the heated rhetoric flowing both ways. That is, the followers of Jesus may have opted out of the local synagogue in anger over bitter disagreements about the identity of Jesus. These references to being “put out” may reveal little more than the frustrations, anger and pain between otherwise closely interrelated groups. One purpose of the Gospel may have been to reassure and shore up the belief of the community, in light of these tense circumstances (see 20.31, note b).

Colleen Conway

1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. ²He was in the beginning with God. ³All things came into being through him, and without him not one thing came into being. What has come into being ⁴in him was life,^a and the life was the light of all people. ⁵The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not overcome it.

⁶There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. ⁷He came as a witness to testify to the light, so that all might believe through him. ⁸He himself was not the light, but he came to testify to the light. ⁹The true light, which enlightens everyone, was coming into the world.^b

¹⁰He was in the world, and the world came into being through him; yet the world did not know him. ¹¹He came to what was his own,^c and his own people did not accept him. ¹²But to all who received him, who believed in his name, he gave power to become children of God, ¹³who were born, not of blood or of the will of the flesh or of the will of man, but of God.

¹⁴And the Word became flesh and lived among us, and we have seen his glory, the glory as of a father's only son,^d full of grace and truth. ¹⁵(John testified to him and cried out, "This was he of whom I said, 'He who comes after me ranks ahead of me because he was before me.'") ¹⁶From his fullness we have all received, grace upon grace. ¹⁷The law indeed was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. ¹⁸No one has ever seen God. It is God the only Son,^e who is close to the Father's heart,^f who has made him known.

^a Or ³through him. And without him not one thing came into being that has come into being. ⁴In him was life

^b Or He was the true light that enlightens everyone coming into the world

^c Or to his own home

^d Or the Father's only Son

^e Other ancient authorities read It is an only Son, God, or It is the only Son

^f Gk bosom

1–12: Jesus in the world.

1.1–18: The prologue introduces the major themes of the Gospel: the identity of Jesus as an eternal and pre-existent divine agent sent into the world by God, his rejection by many of his own people, and his acceptance by some, who thereby can become children of God. 1: In the beginning (Gen 1.1) affirms the primordial aspect of the Word (Gk logos). Logos is multivalent. In Jewish tradition logos represents God's Wisdom, a creative agent that eternally coexisted with God (Prov 8.27–30; Ps 33.6; Wis 9.1; Sir 43.26). By the first century, God's Wisdom was often equated with Torah. First-century CE Stoic philosophy used logos to reference the ordering, rational principle of the cosmos. 2–4: The Gk pronouns translated he and him could also be rendered it, referring to the logos. 3: Was with God . . . was God, poetic expression of the relationship between the divine logos and God. It anticipates language of unity with distinction that will describe the relationship between the Father and the Son in the Gospel (5.19,30; 10.30; 14.9). 4–5: Light and life point forward to Jesus's self-definition in the Gospel (8.18; 11.25). In Genesis, the light shined in the primordial darkness. Here the language suggests a combative struggle between light and dark forces, where light prevails. 6–8: Introduction of John, who is not referred to as "the Baptist" in this Gospel. His role is to witness to Jesus (see 1.35–36). Here and elsewhere in the Gospel, the insistence that John is not the Messiah suggests a historic rivalry between followers of John and Jesus (see 1.20,30; 3.22–30; 4.1). 9: True light, cf. Wis 7.26,29. "True" suggests an authentic identity that surpasses earlier expressions of Wisdom (see also 6.32; 15.1). Which enlightens everyone, perhaps alluding to Isa 49.6, but in any case suggesting that the gift of light is available for all. 10–11: Both the world and his own either did not recognize or rejected the light. His own may be all of humanity or the Jewish people. 12–13: The prior statement is immediately qualified. There are some who accepted, believed and were given the opportunity for relationship with God, which was not dependent on human birth or particular bloodlines. 14: Lived, lit., "pitched a tent," like God's Wisdom (Sir 24.8), or God's presence in the desert tabernacle (Ex 40.34). In the wilderness only Moses was permitted to see God's glory, at which point God announces his grace and mercy (Ex 33.18–19). Jesus conveys the glory of God, along with God's grace and truth. Flesh and glory will be major themes in the Gospel (3.5–7; 6.51–58,63; 13.31–32; 17.1–5). 15: Concerns about John's priority over Jesus are answered by John (see 1.6–8n.). 17: Recognition of Moses's role as lawgiver, alongside the place of Jesus as the revealer. 18: Close to the father's heart (lit., "toward the breast"), connoting Jesus's intimate and abiding relationship with God; cf. 13.23.

¹⁹ This is the testimony given by John when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, “Who are you?” ²⁰ He confessed and did not deny it, but confessed, “I am not the Messiah.”^a ²¹ And they asked him, “What then? Are you Elijah?” He said, “I am not.” “Are you the prophet?” He answered, “No.” ²² Then they said to him, “Who are you? Let us have an answer for those who sent us. What do you say about yourself?” ²³ He said, as the prophet Isaiah said.

“I am the voice of one crying out in the wilderness, ‘Make straight the way of the Lord,’”

²⁴ Now they had been sent from the Pharisees. ²⁵ They asked him, “Why then are you baptizing if you are neither the Messiah,^a nor Elijah, nor the prophet?” ²⁶ John answered them, “I baptize with water. Among you stands one whom you do not know, ²⁷ the one who is coming after me; I am not worthy to untie the thong of his sandal.” ²⁸ This took place in Bethany across the Jordan where John was baptizing.

²⁹ The next day he saw Jesus coming toward him and declared, “Here is the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!” ³⁰ This is he of whom I said, ‘After me comes a man who ranks ahead of me because he was before me.’ ³¹ I myself did not know him; but I came baptizing with water for this reason, that he might be revealed to Israel.” ³² And John testified, “I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it remained on him. ³³ I myself did not know him, but the one who sent me to baptize with water said to me,

‘He on whom you see the Spirit descend and remain is the one who baptizes with the Holy Spirit.’ ³⁴ And I myself have seen and have testified that this is the Son of God.”^b

³⁵ The next day John again was standing with two of his disciples, ³⁶ and as he watched Jesus walk by, he exclaimed, “Look, here is the Lamb of God!” ³⁷ The two disciples heard him say this, and they followed Jesus. ³⁸ When Jesus turned and saw them following, he said to them, “What are you looking for?” They said to him, “Rabbi” (which translated means Teacher), “where are you staying?” ³⁹ He said to them, “Come and see.” They came and saw where he was staying, and they remained with him that day. It was about four o’clock in the afternoon. ⁴⁰ One of the two who heard John speak and followed him was Andrew, Simon Peter’s brother. ⁴¹ He first found his brother Simon and said to him, “We have found the Messiah” (which is translated Anointed^c). ⁴² He brought Simon^d to Jesus, who looked at him and said, “You are Simon son of John. You are to be called Cephas” (which is translated Peter^e).

⁴³ The next day Jesus decided to go to Galilee. He found Philip and said to him, “Follow me.” ⁴⁴ Now Philip was from Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter. ⁴⁵ Philip found

^a Or the Christ

^b Other ancient authorities read is God’s chosen one

^c Or Christ

^d Gk him

^e From the word for rock in Aramaic (kepha) and Greek (petra), respectively

1.19–35: John’s witness of Jesus and the gathering of disciples. On John, cf. Mt 3.1–17; Mk 1.2–11; Lk 3.1–22. 19: The Jews sent priests and Levites, all three designations represent religious authorities affiliated with the Jerusalem Temple. 20: A negative “confession” that addresses confusion over potentially competing movements (see 1.6–8n.). 21: Reflects a tradition about Elijah’s return before the day of judgment (2 Kings 2.11; Mal 4.5). 23: Reinterpretation of Isa 40.3 to refer to the coming Messiah. 27: Untie . . . his sandal, typically a slave’s duty. 28: Bethany across the Jordan, uncertain location, but different from the Bethany in Judea (11.1,18). 29: Lamb of God alludes to the Passover lamb, a symbol of liberation and God’s saving acts (Ex 12; cf. Jn 19.36n.). Here the designation is the first of a list of titles and descriptions applied to Jesus in this opening chapter (1.36,38,41,49,51). 29: Was before me, alludes to Jesus as the incarnate preexistent Word described in the prologue. 31: In the Synoptic Gospels, John baptizes for the forgiveness of sins (Mt 3.6; Mk 1.4; Lk 3.3). Here, it is for the revelation of Jesus. 32: The actual baptism of Jesus is not described. 35–37: Lamb of God, see 1.29n. Only in this Gospel do Jesus’s first two disciples come from among John’s followers. 40: One of the two unnamed disciples with John is now identified, but the other remains anonymous. Perhaps this is the first glimpse in the narrative of the disciple whom Jesus loved (see 13.23; 19.26; 20.2; 21.7,20). 42: Cephas, see note d. 44: Bethsaida, a city on the northeastern shore of the Sea of Galilee. 45–46: Witnessing to others about Jesus establishes a pattern for the rest of the Nathanael and said to him, “We have found him about whom Moses in the law and also the prophets wrote, Jesus son of Joseph from Nazareth.”⁴⁶ Nathanael said to him, “Can anything good come out of Nazareth?” Philip said to him, “Come and see.”⁴⁷ When Jesus saw Nathanael coming toward him, he said of him, “Here is truly an Israelite in whom there is no deceit!”⁴⁸ Nathanael asked him, “Where did you get to know me?” Jesus answered, “I saw you under the fig tree before Philip called you.”⁴⁹ Nathanael replied, “Rabbi, you are the Son of God! You are the King of Israel!”⁵⁰ Jesus answered, “Do you believe because I told you that I saw you under the fig tree? You will see greater things than these.”⁵¹ And he said to him, “Very truly, I tell you,^a you will see heaven opened and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man.”

2 On the third day there was a wedding in Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there.² Jesus and his disciples had also been invited to the wedding.³ When the wine gave out, the mother of Jesus said to him, “They have no wine.”⁴ And Jesus said to her, “Woman, what concern is that to you and to me? My hour has not yet come.”⁵ His mother said to the servants, “Do whatever he tells you.”⁶ Now standing there were six stone water jars for the Jewish rites of purification, each holding twenty or thirty gallons.⁷ Jesus said to them, “Fill the jars with water.” And they filled them up to the brim.⁸ He said to them, “Now draw some out, and take it to the chief steward.” So they took it.⁹ When the steward tasted the water that had become wine, and did not know where it came from (though the servants who had drawn the water knew), the steward called the bridegroom¹⁰ and said to him, “Everyone serves the good wine first, and then the inferior wine after the guests have become drunk. But you have kept the good wine until now.”¹¹ Jesus did this, the first of his signs, in Cana of Galilee, and revealed his glory; and his disciples believed in him.

¹² After this he went down to Capernaum with his mother, his brothers, and his disciples; and they remained there a few days.

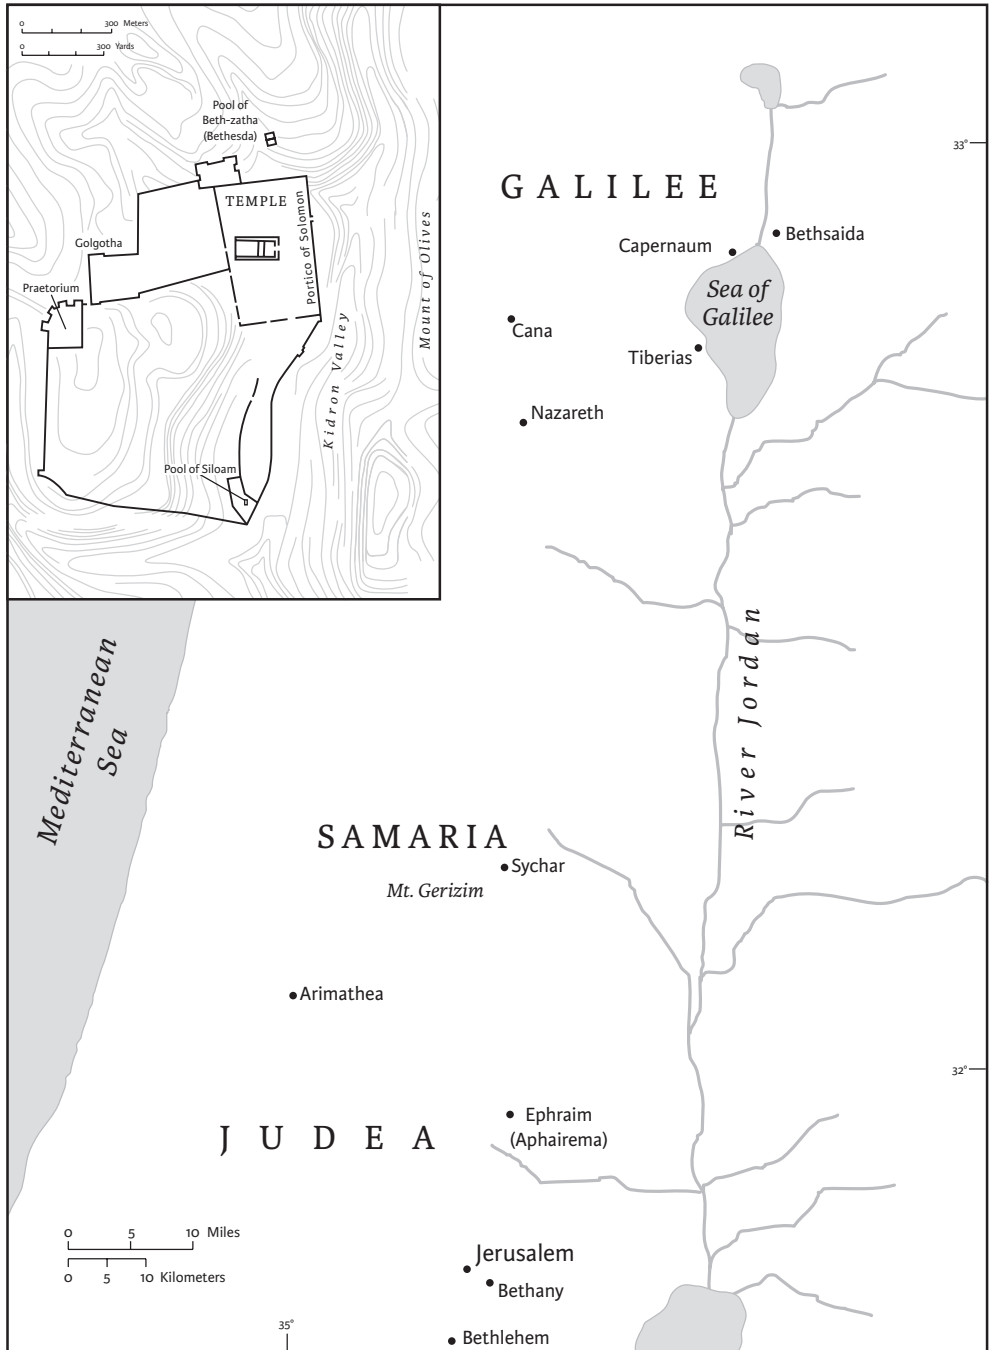

¹³ The Passover of the Jews was near, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.¹⁴ In the temple he found people selling cattle, sheep, and doves, and the money changers seated at their tables.¹⁵ Making a whip of cords, he drove all of them out of the temple, both the sheep and the cattle. He also poured out the coins of the money changers and overturned their tables.¹⁶ He told those who were selling the doves, “Take these things out of here! Stop making narrative (4.29; 20.18). This Gospel does not have a birth story, but the tradition of Jesus’s parentage is familiar to the audience; see 6.42. Nazareth, a small village in southern Galilee. 47–51: Praise of Nathaniel as an Israelite with no deceit perhaps refers to Jacob (who was deceitful), given the allusion to Jacob’s vision that follows (Gen 28.12). Son of Man, after the series of titles attributed to Jesus, he refers to himself with this designation. While the phrase can simply mean a mortal as in Ezekiel (e.g., 2.1), here it connotes an eschatological figure sent by God (see Dan 7.13–14; Mk 13.26; 14.62 and par.; cf. 1 En. 71.14).

^a Both instances of the Greek word for you in this verse are plural

2.1–12: Wedding at Cana. 1: On the third day, temporal reference is unclear, perhaps symbolic rather than literal (see 1.29,35,43 that add up to four days). Jesus’s promise of “greater things” (1.50) is soon fulfilled. Cana, a small town in central Galilee, about 8 mi (14 km) north of Nazareth. The mother of Jesus is never referred to by name in John. 4: An unusual way of addressing one’s mother, woman links the mother of Jesus to other women in the Gospel; see 4.21; 20.15. What concern . . . a literal translation of a Hebrew expression that typically signals a refusal (Judg 11.12; 2 Kings 3.13; 2 Chr 35.21). Jesus refers repeatedly to his hour, the time of his death, and also of his glorification (7.30; 8.20; 12.23; 13.1; 17.1). 5: Jesus’s mother anticipates Jesus’s actions. 6: The large amount of water signals the extravagance of the sign that follows. 11: The author relates Jesus’s signs which point to his identity. The disciples witness the glory of Jesus, recalling the words of the prologue (1.14). 12: Capernaum, a city on the northwestern shore of the Sea of Galilee.

2.13–22: Jesus and the Jerusalem Temple. Cf. Mt 21.12–13; Mk 11.15–18; Lk 19.45–46. In the Synoptic Gospels, Jesus’s actions in the Temple occur at the beginning of the passion narrative and precipitate his death; here the episode occurs early in Jesus’s ministry. 13: The first of three annual Passover festivals that Jesus attends (6.4; 11.55). 14–16: Selling animals for sacrifices in the Temple was common practice. Money changers, Roman my Father's house a marketplace!"¹⁷ His disciples remembered that it was written, "Zeal for your house will consume me."¹⁸ The Jews then said to him, "What sign can you show us for doing this?"¹⁹ Jesus answered them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up."²⁰ The Jews then said, "This temple has been under construction for forty-six years, and will you raise it up in three days?"²¹ But he was speaking of the temple of his body.²² After he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this; and they believed the scripture and the word that Jesus had spoken.

The geography of the Gospel of John.

²³ When he was in Jerusalem during the Passover festival, many believed in his name because they saw the signs that he was doing.²⁴ But Jesus on his part would not entrust himself to them, because he knew all people²⁵ and needed no one to testify about anyone; for he himself knew what was in everyone.

3 Now there was a Pharisee named Nicodemus, a leader of the Jews.² He came to Jesus^a by night and said to him, "Rabbi, we know that you are a teacher who has come from God; for no one can do these signs that you do apart from the presence of God."³ Jesus answered him, "Very truly, I tell you, no one can see the kingdom of God without being born from above."^b ⁴ Nicodemus said to him, "How can anyone be born after having grown old? Can one enter a second time into the mother's womb and be born?"⁵ Jesus answered, "Very truly, I tell you, no one can enter the kingdom of God without being born of water and Spirit.⁶ What is born of the flesh is flesh, and what is born of the Spirit is spirit."^c ⁷ Do not be astonished that I said to you, 'You must be born from above.'^e ⁸ The wind^c blows where it chooses, and you hear the sound of it, but you do not know where it comes from or where it goes. So it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit."⁹ Nicodemus said to him, "How can these things be?"¹⁰ Jesus answered him, "Are you a teacher of Israel, and yet you do not understand these things?"

¹¹ "Very truly, I tell you, we speak of what we know and testify to what we have seen; yet you^f do not receive our testimony.¹² If I have told you about earthly things and you do not believe, how can you believe if I tell you about heavenly things?¹³ No one has ascended into heaven except the one who descended from heaven, the Son of Man.⁹ ¹⁴ And just as Moses lifted up the serpent in

^a Gk him

^b Or born anew

^c The same Greek word means both wind and spirit

^d The Greek word for you here is plural

^e Or anew

^f The Greek word for you here and in verse 12 is plural

⁹ Other ancient authorities add who is in heaven

currency needed to be exchanged for Jewish coinage to pay the Temple tax. Jesus critiques the practice itself, rather than corruption as in the Synoptic versions (cf. Mk 11.17 and par.). Only this Gospel describes Jesus wielding a whip of cords as the supervisor of the market in an ancient city would have done. 17: Memories of the tradition are shaped by scripture and Jesus's death (Ps 69.9). 18: The demand for a sign is a hostile challenge to Jesus's authority. 19: Symbolic prediction of Jesus's death and resurrection. 20: Jesus's comment is misunderstood, a regular occurrence in the Gospel. 22: Jesus's words have a place alongside scripture in the disciples' memory. 20: Herod the Great began a major expansion to the Temple complex in 20 BCE, making it the largest sacred space in the Roman world. 22: The Temple was already destroyed at the time the Gospel was written. Jesus's words suggest that he is the replacement for the Temple.

3.1–21: Jesus speaks with Nicodemus. 1–2: The introduction emphasizes the authoritative status of Nicodemus. A Pharisee, during Jesus's lifetime, this group may have had some popular appeal as people devoted to maintaining obedience to God. They did not, however, have any political power. After the destruction of the Temple in 70 CE, the Pharisees emerged as a dominant group within Judaism with more political power. In this Gospel, they typically represent opposition to Jesus, and the author uses the term interchangeably with "the Jews" (cf. 8.13,33; 9.13–23; see Introduction). Coming by night is symbolically associated with darkness (1.5; 8.12; 12.35,46; 20.1). 3–4: The Gk word anōthen has a double meaning, which leads to confusion; see note b. 5–9: Jesus again uses wordplay (see note c) to describe the status of the believer, leading again to confusion on the part of Nicodemus. 10: The question is sarcastic, undercutting Nicodemus's authority. 13: Son of Man, see 2.51n. 14: Looking at a bronze serpent saved the Israelites from death in the wilderness (Num 21.8–9). Lifted up is a

the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up,¹⁵ that whoever believes in him may have eternal life.^a ¹⁶ “For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him may not perish but may have eternal life.

¹⁷ “Indeed, God did not send the Son into the world to condemn the world, but in order that the world might be saved through him.

¹⁸ Those who believe in him are not condemned; but those who do not believe are condemned already, because they have not believed in the name of the only Son of God.

¹⁹ And this is the judgment, that the light has come into the world, and people loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil.²⁰ For all who do evil hate the light and do not come to the light, so that their deeds may not be exposed.²¹ But those who do what is true come to the light, so that it may be clearly seen that their deeds have been done in God.”^a

²² After this Jesus and his disciples went into the Judean countryside, and he spent some time there with them and baptized.

²³ John also was baptizing at Aenon near Salim because water was abundant there; and people kept coming and were being baptized²⁴—John, of course, had not yet been thrown into prison.

²⁵ Now a discussion about purification arose between John’s disciples and a Jew.^b

²⁶ They came to John and said to him, “Rabbi, the one who was with you across the Jordan, to whom you testified, here he is baptizing, and all are going to him.”²⁷ John answered, “No one can receive anything except what has been given from heaven.²⁸ You yourselves are my witnesses that I said, ‘I am not the Messiah,^c but I have been sent ahead of him.’²⁹ He who has the bride is the bridegroom. The friend of the bridegroom, who stands and hears him, rejoices greatly at the bridegroom’s voice. For this reason my joy has been fulfilled.³⁰ He must increase, but I must decrease.”^d

³¹ The one who comes from above is above all; the one who is of the earth belongs to the earth and speaks about earthly things. The one who comes from heaven is above all.³² He testifies to what he has seen and heard, yet no one accepts his testimony.³³ Whoever has accepted his testimony has certified^e this, that God is true.³⁴ He whom God has sent speaks the words of God, for he gives the Spirit without measure.³⁵ The Father loves the Son and has placed all things in his hands.³⁶ Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life; whoever disobeys the Son will not see life, but must endure God’s wrath.

4 Now when Jesus^f learned that the Pharisees had heard, “Jesus is making and baptizing more disciples than John”²—although it was not Jesus himself but his disciples who baptized—³ he left Judea and started back to Galilee.⁴ But he had

^a Some interpreters hold that the quotation concludes with verse 15

^b Other ancient authorities read the Jews

^c Or the Christ

^d Some interpreters hold that the quotation continues through verse 36

^e Gk set a seal to

^f Other ancient authorities read the Lord

reference to Jesus’s crucifixion which is also his glorification (see 8.28; 12.32–34). 16–17: The Son acts as God’s agent of salvation. 18–20: Self-condemnation through lack of belief. Light . . . into the world, see 1.9.

3.22–36: John’s testimony continues. 23: The precise locations in Transjordan of Aenon and Salim are uncertain. 24: See Mk 6.14–29. 25: Purification refers to ritual cleansing. 27–28: John rejects the idea of a competing movement with Jesus. See 1.20. 29: Bride, marriage metaphors are frequently used for the relationship between God and God’s people (Isa 54.5–8; 62.4–5; Jer. 2.2; Hos 2.16–20; 2 Cor 11.2; Eph 5.25–30; Rev 19.6–8; 21.9–10). Jesus is the bridegroom whose presence brings joy (see 15.11; 16.22; 17.13). 31–35: Jesus is the heavenly agent sent by God, John is the earthly witness. 36: Central claims of the Gospel regarding belief and unbelief in Jesus. Eternal life is granted in the present to the believer. God’s wrath, typically associated with the day of judgment.

4.1–42: Jesus speaks with the Samaritan Woman. 4: Samaria was located between Judea to the south and Galilee to the north. Samaritans and Jews differed over religious practices, although both groups considered to go through Samaria.⁵ So he came to a Samaritan city called Sychar, near the plot of ground that Jacob had given to his son Joseph.⁶ Jacob's well was there, and Jesus, tired out by his journey, was sitting by the well. It was about noon.

⁷ A Samaritan woman came to draw water, and Jesus said to her, "Give me a drink."⁸ (His disciples had gone to the city to buy food.)⁹ The Samaritan woman said to him, "How is it that you, a Jew, ask a drink of me, a woman of Samaria?" (Jews do not share things in common with Samaritans.)¹⁰ Jesus answered her, "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is that is saying to you, 'Give me a drink,' you would have asked him, and he would have given you living water."¹¹ The woman said to him, "Sir, you have no bucket, and the well is deep. Where do you get that living water?"¹² Are you greater than our ancestor Jacob, who gave us the well, and with his sons and his flocks drank from it?"¹³ Jesus said to her, "Everyone who drinks of this water will be thirsty again,¹⁴ but those who drink of the water that I will give them will never be thirsty. The water that I will give will become in them a spring of water gushing up to eternal life."¹⁵ The woman said to him, "Sir, give me this water, so that I may never be thirsty or have to keep coming here to draw water."

¹⁶ Jesus said to her, "Go, call your husband, and come back."¹⁷ The woman answered him, "I have no husband." Jesus said to her, "You are right in saying, 'I have no husband';¹⁸ for you have had five husbands, and the one you have now is not your husband. What you have said is true!"¹⁹ The woman said to him, "Sir, I see that you are a prophet.²⁰ Our ancestors worshiped on this mountain, but you^b say that the place where people must worship is in Jerusalem."²¹ Jesus said to her, "Woman, believe me, the hour is coming when you will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem.²² You worship what you do not know; we worship what we know, for salvation is from the Jews.²³ But the hour is coming, and is now here, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth, for the Father seeks such as these to worship him.²⁴ God is spirit, and those who worship him must worship in spirit and truth."²⁵ The woman said to him, "I know that Messiah is coming" (who is called Christ). "When he comes, he will proclaim all things to us."²⁶ Jesus said to her, "I am he,^c the one who is speaking to you."

²⁷ Just then his disciples came. They were astonished that he was speaking with a woman, but no one said, "What do you want?" or, "Why are you speaking with her?"²⁸ Then the woman left her water jar and went back to the city. She said to the people,²⁹ "Come and see a man who told me everything I have ever done! He cannot be the Messiah,^d can he?"³⁰ They left the city and were on their way to him.

^a Other ancient authorities lack this sentence

^b The Greek word for you here and in verses 21 and 22 is plural

^c Gk I am

^d Or the Christ

the Torah as scripture. 5–6: Jacob's well is not mentioned in the Hebrew Bible but is traditionally located near ancient Shechem, where Jacob purchased land (Gen 33.19; see also Josh 24.32). 6–7: Meeting women at a well is a common scriptural motif (Gen 24.10–27; 29.1–12; Ex 2.16–21). Noon contrasts with Nicodemus's night meeting (3.2). 7–8: Explanation of Jewish/Samaritan relationships suggests a Gentile readership. 10: Living water refers literally to flowing water and figuratively to the life-giving power of Jesus. 11: Like Nicodemus, the woman misunderstands by adopting a literal meaning of living water (flowing water) rather than Jesus's figurative use 13: Jesus suggests that his gift surpasses that of Jacob. 16–18: Ancient Mediterranean women did not have control over marriage arrangements. The reason for multiple husbands is unexplained, but does not necessarily imply promiscuity. 19–20: The woman recognizes Jesus's insight and raises a theological question. This mountain is Mount Gerizim, once the location of the Samaritan temple. 21–22: Jesus reorients worship away from both Temple traditions, though still maintains the privileged place of his own Jewish tradition. 23: Hour is coming . . . here. The distinction between future and present reality is collapsed with the presence of Jesus (cf. 5.25). 26: I am (see note c) implying a theophany as in Ex 3.14; Isa 41.4; 43.10; 46.4. This is the first announcement by Jesus himself of his identity as Messiah. 29: Not a full confession of faith, but an effective witness because the people go to Jesus. 27: Men did not typically speak with women in public. 29: Come and see, the woman invites

³¹ Meanwhile the disciples were urging him, “Rabbi, eat something.” ³² But he said to them, “I have food to eat that you do not know about.” ³³ So the disciples said to one another, “Surely no one has brought him something to eat?” ³⁴ Jesus said to them, “My food is to do the will of him who sent me and to complete his work. ³⁵ Do you not say, ‘Four months more, then comes the harvest’? But I tell you, look around you, and see how the fields are ripe for harvesting. ³⁶ The reaper is already receiving^a wages and is gathering fruit for eternal life, so that sower and reaper may rejoice together. ³⁷ For here the saying holds true, ‘One sows and another reaps.’ ³⁸ I sent you to reap that for which you did not labor. Others have labored, and you have entered into their labor.”

³⁹ Many Samaritans from that city believed in him because of the woman’s testimony, “He told me everything I have ever done.” ⁴⁰ So when the Samaritans came to him, they asked him to stay with them; and he stayed there two days. ⁴¹ And many more believed because of his word. ⁴² They said to the woman, “It is no longer because of what you said that we believe, for we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this is truly the Savior of the world.”

⁴³ When the two days were over, he went from that place to Galilee ⁴⁴ (for Jesus himself had testified that a prophet has no honor in the prophet’s own country). ⁴⁵ When he came to Galilee, the Galileans welcomed him, since they had seen all that he had done in Jerusalem at the festival; for they too had gone to the festival.

⁴⁶ Then he came again to Cana in Galilee where he had changed the water into wine. Now there was a royal official whose son lay ill in Capernaum. ⁴⁷ When he heard that Jesus had come from Judea to Galilee, he went and begged him to come down and heal his son, for he was at the point of death. ⁴⁸ Then Jesus said to him, “Unless you^b see signs and wonders you will not believe.” ⁴⁹ The official said to him, “Sir, come down before my little boy dies.” ⁵⁰ Jesus said to him, “Go; your son will live.” The man believed the word that Jesus spoke to him and started on his way. ⁵¹ As he was going down, his slaves met him and told him that his child was alive. ⁵² So he asked them the hour when he began to recover, and they said to him, “Yesterday at one in the afternoon the fever left him.” ⁵³ The father realized that this was the hour when Jesus had said to him, “Your son will live.” So he himself believed, along with his whole household. ⁵⁴ Now this was the second sign that Jesus did after coming from Judea to Galilee.

5 After this there was a festival of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.

² Now in Jerusalem by the Sheep Gate there is a pool, called in Hebrew^c Beth-zatha,^d which has five porticoes. ³ In these lay many invalids—blind, lame, and paralyzed.^e ⁵ One

^a Or ³⁵ . . . the fields are already ripe for harvesting.

³⁶ The reaper is receiving

^b Both instances of the Greek word for you in this verse are plural

^c That is, Aramaic

^d Other ancient authorities read Bethesda, others Bethsaida

^e Other ancient authorities add, wholly or in part, waiting for the stirring of the water; for an angel of the Lord went down at certain seasons into the pool, and stirred up the water; whoever stepped in first after the stirring of the water was made well from whatever disease that person had.

her townsfolk to witness using the same words as Philip to gather disciples (1.46). 31–33: Another example of confusion between literal and figurative language. This time the disciples misunderstand Jesus (see 3.3–19; 4.13–15). 35, 37: The proverbial sayings are not found elsewhere. 38: Others may include the Samaritan woman. 39: The woman’s testimony instills belief. 42: Savior of the world, the belief of the Samaritans signals Jesus’s saving significance beyond the Jewish people.

4.43–54: Travels and a second sign in Cana of Galilee. 44: See Mt 13.57; Mk 6.4; Lk 4.24. 45: Jesus is welcomed in the region of Galilee, in contrast to the hostility he will experience from “the Jews” when in Judea. 46–54: Jesus performs a long-distance healing of a royal official’s son. This second sign results in belief as did the first sign in Cana (2.11). See the similar healing of a Roman centurion’s son in Mt 8.5–13; Lk 7.1–20.

5.1–18: Sabbath controversy in Jerusalem. This story parallels the healing and resulting controversy in 9.1–14. 2: A pool with five porticoes has been excavated north of the Temple Mount in Jerusalem. 5–6: References man was there who had been ill for thirty-eight years. ⁶ When Jesus saw him lying there and knew that he had been there a long time, he said to him, “Do you want to be made well?” ⁷ The sick man answered him, “Sir, I have no one to put me into the pool when the water is stirred up; and while I am making my way, someone else steps down ahead of me.” ⁸ Jesus said to him, “Stand up, take your mat and walk.” ⁹ At once the man was made well, and he took up his mat and began to walk.

Now that day was a sabbath. ¹⁰ So the Jews said to the man who had been cured, “It is the sabbath; it is not lawful for you to carry your mat.” ¹¹ But he answered them, “The man who made me well said to me, ‘Take up your mat and walk.’” ¹² They asked him, “Who is the man who said to you, ‘Take it up and walk?’” ¹³ Now the man who had been healed did not know who it was, for Jesus had disappeared in^a the crowd that was there. ¹⁴ Later Jesus found him in the temple and said to him, “See, you have been made well! Do not sin any more, so that nothing worse happens to you.” ¹⁵ The man went away and told the Jews that it was Jesus who had made him well. ¹⁶ Therefore the Jews started persecuting Jesus, because he was doing such things on the sabbath. ¹⁷ But Jesus answered them, “My Father is still working, and I also am working.” ¹⁸ For this reason the Jews were seeking all the more to kill him, because he was not only breaking the sabbath, but was also calling God his own Father, thereby making himself equal to God.

¹⁹ Jesus said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, the Son can do nothing on his own, but only what he sees the Father doing; for whatever the Father^b does, the Son does likewise.

²⁰ The Father loves the Son and shows him

all that he himself is doing; and he will show him greater works than these, so that you will be astonished. ²¹ Indeed, just as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, so also the Son gives life to whomever he wishes. ²² The Father judges no one but has given all judgment to the Son, ²³ so that all may honor the Son just as they honor the Father. Anyone who does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent him. ²⁴ Very truly, I tell you, anyone who hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life, and does not come under judgment, but has passed from death to life.

²⁵ “Very truly, I tell you, the hour is coming, and is now here, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear will live. ²⁶ For just as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted the Son also to have life in himself; ²⁷ and he has given him authority to execute judgment, because he is the Son of Man. ²⁸ Do not be astonished at this; for the hour is coming when all who are in their graves will hear his voice ²⁹ and will come out—those who have done good, to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil, to the resurrection of condemnation.

³⁰ “I can do nothing on my own. As I hear, I judge; and my judgment is just, because I seek to do not my own will but the will of him who sent me.

³¹ “If I testify about myself, my testimony is not true. ³² There is another who testifies on my behalf, and I know that his testimony to me is true. ³³ You sent messengers to John, and he testified to the truth. ³⁴ Not that I accept such human testimony, but I say these to the length of illness emphasize the severity of the illness and make the healing more impressive. 9b. Now that day was the Sabbath turns the successful healing story into a controversy story. 10–13: The accusation of Sabbath violation shifts from the man to Jesus. 14: Though illness was typically thought to be punishment for sin, it is unclear whether this is Jesus’s intention. The statement may foreshadow the man’s response to the healing. 15–16: The man functions as an informant, increasing the opposition against Jesus. (Cf. the response of the healed man in 9.24–34.) 17–18: Jesus’s defense results in an additional charge of blasphemy.

^a Or had left because of

^b Gk that one

5:19–47 Jesus defends himself against accusations. 19–20: God grants Jesus authority; Jesus does not claim it himself. 21: Jesus’s power over death will be demonstrated in 11.38–44. 25–29: Son of Man, see 1.51n. The eschatological age is already present in the person of Jesus, who has been given authority to judge by God. This is a rare reference to doing good or evil in the Gospel, where the typical measure is one of belief vs. unbelief in Jesus. 31–38: Jesus’s defense continues with the calling of witnesses that can testify on his behalf: John, the things so that you may be saved.³⁵ He was a burning and shining lamp, and you were willing to rejoice for a while in his light.³⁶ But I have a testimony greater than John's. The works that the Father has given me to complete, the very works that I am doing, testify on my behalf that the Father has sent me.³⁷ And the Father who sent me has himself testified on my behalf. You have never heard his voice or seen his form,³⁸ and you do not have his word abiding in you, because you do not believe him whom he has sent.

³⁹ "You search the scriptures because you think that in them you have eternal life; and it is they that testify on my behalf.⁴⁰ Yet you refuse to come to me to have life.⁴¹ I do not accept glory from human beings.⁴² But I know that you do not have the love of God in^a you.⁴³ I have come in my Father's name, and you do not accept me; if another comes in his own name, you will accept him.⁴⁴ How can you believe when you accept glory from one another and do not seek the glory that comes from the one who alone is God?⁴⁵ Do not think that I will accuse you before the Father; your accuser is Moses, on whom you have set your hope.⁴⁶ If you believed Moses, you would believe me, for he wrote about me.⁴⁷ But if you do not believe what he wrote, how will you believe what I say?"

6 After this Jesus went to the other side of the Sea of Galilee, also called the Sea of Tiberias.^b ² A large crowd kept following him, because they saw the signs that he was doing for the sick. ³ Jesus went up the mountain and sat down there with his disciples. ⁴ Now the Passover, the festival of the Jews, was near. ⁵ When he looked up and saw a large crowd coming toward him, Jesus said to Philip, "Where are we to buy bread for these people to eat?" ⁶ He said this to test him, for he himself knew what he was going to do. ⁷ Philip answered him, "Six months' wages^c would not buy enough bread for each of them to get a little."⁸ One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, said to him, ⁹ "There is a boy here who has five barley loaves and two fish. But what are they among so many people?" ¹⁰ Jesus said, "Make the people sit down."

Now there was a great deal of grass in the place; so they^d sat down, about five thousand in all. ¹¹ Then Jesus took the loaves, and when he had given thanks, he distributed them to those who were seated; so also the fish, as much as they wanted. ¹² When they were satisfied, he told his disciples, "Gather up the fragments left over, so that nothing may be lost."¹³ So they gathered them up, and from the fragments of the five barley loaves, left by those who had eaten, they filled twelve baskets. ¹⁴ When the people saw the sign that he had done, they began to say, "This is indeed the prophet who is to come into the world."

¹⁵ When Jesus realized that they were about to come and take him by force to make him king, he withdrew again to the mountain by himself.

^a Or among

^b Gk of Galilee of Tiberias

^c Gk Two hundred denarii; the denarius was the usual day's wage for a laborer works that Jesus does, and the Father. 39–47: Scripture also serves as a witness to Jesus. Moses was traditionally considered to be the author of the Torah.

^d Gk the men

6.1–15: Another sign: feeding the five thousand. The only miracle story found in all four Gospels; see Mt 14.13–21; Mk 6.32–44; Lk 9.10–17. In this Gospel, the sign leads to conflict and division. 1: To the other side . . . Sea of Tiberias. The reference to this sea crossing is puzzling given Jesus's location in Jerusalem in the preceding narrative. Such geographical disparities likely did not concern the ancient author or audience. The alternative name for the Sea of Galilee comes from the city of Tiberias located on its southwest shore. Named in honor of the emperor, the city was established as the capital of the region in 24 CE, thus calling attention to the Roman imperial rule of the area. 2: Going up the mountain alludes to the Moses tradition (Ex 19.3; etc.), continuing the theme of the relationship between Jesus and Moses that begins in 5.45–46, and setting the stage for the discourse to follow. 4: Passover of the Jews, the second Passover festival mentioned in the narrative; see 2.13. 6: Unlike Moses, Jesus knows how he will supply food (cf. Num 11.13). 14–15: In first-century Judaism, Moses was regarded as both prophet and king. Deut 18.15–22 relates an expectation that God will raise up a prophet like Moses.

¹⁶ When evening came, his disciples went down to the sea, ¹⁷ got into a boat, and started across the sea to Capernaum. It was now dark, and Jesus had not yet come to them. ¹⁸ The sea became rough because a strong wind was blowing. ¹⁹ When they had rowed about three or four miles,^a they saw Jesus walking on the sea and coming near the boat, and they were terrified. ²⁰ But he said to them, “It is I,^b do not be afraid.” ²¹ Then they wanted to take him into the boat, and immediately the boat reached the land toward which they were going.

²² The next day the crowd that had stayed on the other side of the sea saw that there had been only one boat there. They also saw that Jesus had not got into the boat with his disciples, but that his disciples had gone away alone. ²³ Then some boats from Tiberias came near the place where they had eaten the bread after the Lord had given thanks.^c ²⁴ So when the crowd saw that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they themselves got into the boats and went to Capernaum looking for Jesus.

²⁵ When they found him on the other side of the sea, they said to him, “Rabbi, when did you come here?” ²⁶ Jesus answered them, “Very truly, I tell you, you are looking for me, not because you saw signs, but because you ate your fill of the loaves.” ²⁷ Do not work for the food that perishes, but for the food that endures for eternal life, which the Son of Man will give you. For it is on him that God the Father has set his seal.” ²⁸ Then they said to him, “What must we do to perform the works of God?” ²⁹ Jesus answered them, “This is the work of God, that you believe in him whom he has sent.” ³⁰ So they said to him, “What sign are you going to give us then, so that we may see it and believe you? What work are you performing?” ³¹ Our ancestors ate the manna in the wilderness; as it is written, ‘He gave them bread from heaven to eat.’” ³² Then Jesus said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, it was not Moses who gave you the bread from heaven, but it is my Father who gives you the true bread from heaven. ³³ For the bread of God is that which^d comes down from heaven and gives life to the world.” ³⁴ They said to him, “Sir, give us this bread always.”

³⁵ Jesus said to them, “I am the bread of life. Whoever comes to me will never be hungry, and whoever believes in me will never be thirsty. ³⁶ But I said to you that you have seen me and yet do not believe. ³⁷ Everything that the Father gives me will come to me, and anyone who comes to me I will never drive away; ³⁸ for I have come down from heaven, not to do my own will, but the will of him who sent me. ³⁹ And this is the will of him who sent me, that I should lose nothing of all that he has given me, but raise it up on the last day. ⁴⁰ This is indeed the will of my Father, that all who see the Son and believe in him may have eternal life; and I will raise them up on the last day.”

⁴¹ Then the Jews began to complain about him because he said, “I am the bread that came down from heaven.” ⁴² They were saying, “Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? How

^a Gk about twenty-five or thirty stadia

^b Gk I am

^c Other ancient authorities lack after the Lord had given thanks

^d Or he who

6.16–21: Jesus walks on the sea. Cf. Mt 14.22–27; Mk 6.45–51). 20: It is I, lit., “I am,” words of divine revelation; see 4.26n.

6.22–40: Jesus, the bread from heaven. 24: Capernaum, see 1.21n. 26: Their concern is for material benefits. 27: Food that endures, see 4.32–34. Son of Man, see 1.51n. 28–29: Belief in Jesus as God’s divine agent is always central in John (see 5.24; 9.35–35; 11.25–27). Cf. Mt 25.31–46. 30: Give us this bread, characteristic misunderstanding of Jesus’s words, see 4.15,33. 31–32: He gave them bread from heaven, see Ex 16.4–5; Ps 78.24. 35: Recalls similar language about God’s Wisdom and surpasses it (see Prov 9.5; Sir 24.21). 39–40: Lose nothing, see 17.12; 18.9. On the last day, the Gospel includes references to a traditional Jewish understanding of resurrection on the last day (see 5.28–29; 28 11.24), and a “realized eschatology” where the resurrection is present in the person of Jesus (5.25; 11.25–26).

6.41–71: Complaints and dissension. 41: As the response to Jesus becomes more hostile, his interlocutors are referred to as the Jews. Echoes of the Exodus narrative continue as the Jews complain; see Ex 16.2; Num 11.1.

can he now say, 'I have come down from heaven?'" ⁴³ Jesus answered them, "Do not complain among yourselves. ⁴⁴ No one can come to me unless drawn by the Father who sent me; and I will raise that person up on the last day. ⁴⁵ It is written in the prophets, 'And they shall all be taught by God.' Everyone who has heard and learned from the Father comes to me. ⁴⁶ Not that anyone has seen the Father except the one who is from God; he has seen the Father. ⁴⁷ Very truly, I tell you, whoever believes has eternal life. ⁴⁸ I am the bread of life. ⁴⁹ Your ancestors ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died. ⁵⁰ This is the bread that comes down from heaven, so that one may eat of it and not die. ⁵¹ I am the living bread that came down from heaven. Whoever eats of this bread will live forever; and the bread that I will give for the life of the world is my flesh."

⁵² The Jews then disputed among themselves, saying, "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?" ⁵³ So Jesus said to them, "Very truly, I tell you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. ⁵⁴ Those who eat my flesh and drink my blood have eternal life, and I will raise them up on the last day; ⁵⁵ for my flesh is true food and my blood is true drink. ⁵⁶ Those who eat my flesh and drink my blood abide in me, and I in them. ⁵⁷ Just as the living Father sent me, and I live because of the Father, so whoever eats me will live because of me. ⁵⁸ This is the bread that came down from heaven, not like that which your ancestors ate, and they died. But the one who eats this bread will live forever." ⁵⁹ He said these things while he was teaching in the synagogue at Capernaum.

⁶⁰ When many of his disciples heard it, they said, "This teaching is difficult; who can accept it?" ⁶¹ But Jesus, being aware that his disciples were complaining about it, said to them, "Does this offend you? ⁶² Then what if you were to see the Son of Man ascending to where he was before? ⁶³ It is the spirit that gives life; the flesh is useless. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit and life. ⁶⁴ But among you there are some who do not believe." For Jesus knew from the first who were the ones that did not believe, and who was the one that would betray him. ⁶⁵ And he said, "For this reason I have told you that no one can come to me unless it is granted by the Father."

⁶⁶ Because of this many of his disciples turned back and no longer went about with him. ⁶⁷ So Jesus asked the twelve, "Do you also wish to go away?" ⁶⁸ Simon Peter answered him, "Lord, to whom can we go? You have the words of eternal life. ⁶⁹ We have come to believe and know that you are the Holy One of God." ⁷⁰ Jesus answered them, "Did I not choose you, the twelve? Yet one of you is a devil." ⁷¹ He was speaking of Judas son of Simon Iscariot,^b for he, though one of the twelve, was going to betray him.

7 After this Jesus went about in Galilee. He did not wish^c to go about in Judea because the Jews were looking for an opportunity to kill him. ² Now the Jewish festival of Booths^d was near. ³ So his brothers said to him, "Leave here and go to Judea so that your disciples also may see the works you are

^a Other ancient authorities read the Christ, the Son of the living God

^b Other ancient authorities read Judas Iscariot son of Simon; others, Judas son of Simon from Karyot (Kerioth)

^c Other ancient authorities read was not at liberty

^d Or Tabernacles

45: Isa 54.13. 46: See 1.18. 48–50: Jesus establishes his superiority to Moses. 51–58: A much debated passage that may have allusions to the Eucharist; see 13.21–30n. Others read it in the context of ancient Greek hero cults that feature language about the consumption of a god. 60: Difficult, that is, offensive. Jewish dietary laws forbid the consumption of blood (Lev 17.3; Deut 12.16,23–25). 64, 71: Betray him, see 13.2,11.

7.1–13 Jesus's clandestine return to Jerusalem. 1: The Jews, the religious authorities had already plotted Jesus's death. See 5.18. 2: Festival of Booths, also called Tabernacles, a seven-day fall festival giving thanks for the harvest and commemorating the Exodus from Egypt (Lev 23.39–43; Deut 16.13–15). One of the three pilgrimage festivals to the Temple, it featured water libations as well as lighting of great lights (m. Sukkah 5.2–3). 3–5: Not even . . . his brothers believed. Mk 3.21,32–35 relates a similar tradition of tension between Jesus and his doing;⁴ for no one who wants^a to be widely known acts in secret. If you do these things, show yourself to the world.”⁵ (For not even his brothers believed in him.)⁶ Jesus said to them, “My time has not yet come, but your time is always here.⁷ The world cannot hate you, but it hates me because I testify against it that its works are evil.⁸ Go to the festival yourselves. I am not^b going to this festival, for my time has not yet fully come.”⁹ After saying this, he remained in Galilee.

¹⁰ But after his brothers had gone to the festival, then he also went, not publicly but as it were^c in secret. ¹¹ The Jews were looking for him at the festival and saying, “Where is he?” ¹² And there was considerable complaining about him among the crowds. While some were saying, “He is a good man,” others were saying, “No, he is deceiving the crowd.”¹³ Yet no one would speak openly about him for fear of the Jews.

¹⁴ About the middle of the festival Jesus went up into the temple and began to teach. ¹⁵ The Jews were astonished at it, saying, “How does this man have such learning,^d when he has never been taught?” ¹⁶ Then Jesus answered them, “My teaching is not mine but his who sent me. ¹⁷ Anyone who resolves to do the will of God will know whether the teaching is from God or whether I am speaking on my own. ¹⁸ Those who speak on their own seek their own glory; but the one who seeks the glory of him who sent him is true, and there is nothing false in him.

¹⁹ “Did not Moses give you the law? Yet none of you keeps the law. Why are you looking for an opportunity to kill me?” ²⁰ The crowd answered, “You have a demon! Who is trying to kill you?” ²¹ Jesus answered them, “I performed one work, and all of you are astonished. ²² Moses gave you circumcision (it is, of course, not from Moses, but from the patriarchs), and you circumcise a man on the sabbath.”²³ If a man receives circumcision on the sabbath in order that the law of Moses may not be broken, are you angry with me because I healed a man’s whole body on the sabbath?²⁴ Do not judge by appearances, but judge with right judgment.”

²⁵ Now some of the people of Jerusalem were saying, “Is not this the man whom they are trying to kill?”²⁶ And here he is, speaking openly, but they say nothing to him! Can it be that the authorities really know that this is the Messiah?^e ²⁷ Yet we know where this man is from; but when the Messiah^e comes, no one will know where he is from.” ²⁸ Then Jesus cried out as he was teaching in the temple, “You know me, and you know where I am from. I have not come on my own. But the one who sent me is true, and you do not know him. ²⁹ I know him, because I am from him, and he sent me.” ³⁰ Then they tried to arrest him, but no one laid hands on him, because his hour had not yet come. ³¹ Yet many in the crowd believed in him and were saying, “When the Messiah^e comes, will he do more signs than this man has done?”^f ³² The Pharisees heard the crowd muttering such things about him, and the chief priests and Pharisees sent temple police to arrest him. ³³ Jesus then said, “I will be with you a little while longer, and then I am going to him who sent me. ³⁴ You will search for me, but you will not find me; and where I am, you cannot come.” ³⁵ The Jews said to one another, “Where does this man intend to go that

^a Other ancient authorities read wants it

^b Other ancient authorities add yet

^c Other ancient authorities lack as it were

^d Or this man know his letters

^e Or the Christ

^f Other ancient authorities read is doing

family. 6–9: Jesus’s time, cf. “my hour” in 2.4; 7.30; 8.20; 13.1. 10–13: The crowd illustrates the division caused by Jesus’s presence (1.10–13). Some of the crowd is hostile to Jesus, and some defend him. (See 6.22–34; 7.40–44).

7.14–52: Teaching and opposition in Jerusalem. 15: The question is motivated by suspicion, not admiration. 16–18: Jesus defends himself by establishing the source of his knowledge—it is from God. 19: It is Jesus’s turn to accuse. 20: Demon, meaning that Jesus is possessed, an ancient explanation for mental illness (see Mk 3.21–22). 22: Moses gave you circumcision, see Gen 17.9–14; Moses was believed to be the author of the Torah. 23–24: Healed . . . on the Sabbath, 5.1–9. 25–27: A tradition about the mysterious origins of the Messiah (2 Esd 13.26; 1 En. 48.6), cf. 7.40–42. 28: The comment is sarcastic given the repeated statements of uncertainty about Jesus’s origins (8.14; 9.29; 19.9). 30: Jesus’s preordained hour of death and glorification cannot be altered. 33–36: Jesus’s enig-we will not find him? Does he intend to go to the Dispersion among the Greeks and teach the Greeks?³⁶ What does he mean by saying, ‘You will search for me and you will not find me’ and ‘Where I am, you cannot come?’”

³⁷ On the last day of the festival, the great day, while Jesus was standing there, he cried out, “Let anyone who is thirsty come to me,³⁸ and let the one who believes in me drink. As^a the scripture has said, ‘Out of the believer’s heart^b shall flow rivers of living water.’”³⁹ Now he said this about the Spirit, which believers in him were to receive; for as yet there was no Spirit,^c because Jesus was not yet glorified.

⁴⁰ When they heard these words, some in the crowd said, “This is really the prophet.”⁴¹ Others said, “This is the Messiah.”^d But some asked, “Surely the Messiah^d does not come from Galilee, does he?”⁴² Has not the scripture said that the Messiah^d is descended from David and comes from Bethlehem, the village where David lived?”⁴³ So there was a division in the crowd because of him.⁴⁴ Some of them wanted to arrest him, but no one laid hands on him.

⁴⁵ Then the temple police went back to the chief priests and Pharisees, who asked them, “Why did you not arrest him?”⁴⁶ The police answered, “Never has anyone spoken like this!”⁴⁷ Then the Pharisees replied, “Surely you have not been deceived too, have you?”⁴⁸ Has any one of the authorities or of the Pharisees believed in him?⁴⁹ But this crowd, which does not know the law—they are accursed.”⁵⁰ Nicodemus, who had gone to Jesus^e before, and who was one of them, asked,⁵¹ “Our law does not judge people without first giving them a hearing to find out what they are doing, does it?”⁵² They replied, “Surely you are not also from Galilee, are you? Search and you will see that no prophet is to arise from Galilee.”

8 [⁵³ Then each of them went home,¹ while Jesus went to the Mount of Olives.² Early in the morning he came again to the temple. All the people came to him and he sat down and began to teach them.³ The scribes and the Pharisees brought a woman who had been caught in adultery; and making her stand before all of them,⁴ they said to him, “Teacher, this woman was caught in the very act of committing adultery.⁵ Now in the law Moses commanded us to stone such women. Now what do you say?”⁶ They said this to test him, so that they might have some charge to bring against him. Jesus bent down and wrote with his finger on the ground.⁷ When they kept on questioning him, he straightened up and said to them, “Let anyone among you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her.”⁸ And once again he bent down and wrote on the ground.^f⁹ When they heard

^a Or come to me and drink.³⁸ The one who believes in me, as

^b Gk out of his belly

^c Other ancient authorities read for as yet the Spirit (others, Holy Spirit) had not been given

^d Or the Christ

^e Gk him

^f Other ancient authorities add the sins of each of them

matic language typically produces divided opinions in his audience. The Gospel’s typical irony has characters speak truth without knowing it, since Jesus’s death will draw the Greeks to him (12.20,32). “The Greeks” may mean either Gentiles or Greek-speaking Jews in the Diaspora (the Dispersion). 37–39: According to rabbinic tradition, the festival’s rituals included a water libation ceremony in which water was brought from the pool of Siloam and poured on the altar (m. Sukkah 4.9–10). Jesus transfers the water imagery to the spiritual benefits of belief in him. 38: Not an exact quote of scripture, but see Prov 18.4; Isa 44.3; 58.11. 40–42: Traditionally, the Messiah was to be a Davidic descendent (2 Sam 7.12–12; Pss 89.3–4; 132.11–12) from Bethlehem in Judea (Micah 5.2; see 1.46); but see vv. 25–27n. 50–51: Nicodemus, see 3.1–10. Nicodemus’s relationship to Jesus is ambiguous, neither fully supportive nor hostile (see also 19.39). 52: The tension between Galilee and Judea reflects rural/urban tensions. See 4.45n.

8.1–11: Jesus refuses to condemn. This story is not part of the major manuscript tradition for the Gospel, and is likely a later addition. 3: Scribes, another group of Jewish religious authorities, are mentioned only here in John. 6–8: The significant point may be not what Jesus was writing but that he was writing; literacy in the ancient world granted status. Writing with his finger may be an allusion to Ex 31.18; cf. 32.15–16.

it, they went away, one by one, beginning with the elders; and Jesus was left alone with the woman standing before him. ¹⁰ Jesus straightened up and said to her, “Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?” ¹¹ She said, “No one, sir.”^a And Jesus said, “Neither do I condemn you. Go your way, and from now on do not sin again.”^b

¹² Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, “I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness but will have the light of life.” ¹³ Then the Pharisees said to him, “You are testifying on your own behalf; your testimony is not valid.” ¹⁴ Jesus answered, “Even if I testify on my own behalf, my testimony is valid because I know where I have come from and where I am going, but you do not know where I come from or where I am going. ¹⁵ You judge by human standards;^c I judge no one. ¹⁶ Yet even if I do judge, my judgment is valid; for it is not I alone who judge, but I and the Father^d who sent me. ¹⁷ In your law it is written that the testimony of two witnesses is valid. ¹⁸ I testify on my own behalf, and the Father who sent me testifies on my behalf.” ¹⁹ Then they said to him, “Where is your Father?” Jesus answered, “You know neither me nor my Father. If you knew me, you would know my Father also.” ²⁰ He spoke these words while he was teaching in the treasury of the temple, but no one arrested him, because his hour had not yet come.

²¹ Again he said to them, “I am going away, and you will search for me, but you will die in your sin. Where I am going, you cannot come.” ²² Then the Jews said, “Is he going to kill himself? Is that what he means by saying, ‘Where I am going, you cannot come?’” ²³ He said to them, “You are from below, I am from above; you are of this world, I am not of this world. ²⁴ I told you that you would die in your sins, for you will die in your sins unless you believe that I am he.”^e ²⁵ They said to him, “Who are you?” Jesus said to them, “Why do I speak to you at all?”^f ²⁶ I have much to say about you and much to condemn; but the one who sent me is true, and I declare to the world what I have heard from him.” ²⁷ They did not understand that he was speaking to them about the Father. ²⁸ So Jesus said, “When you have lifted up the Son of Man, then you will realize that I am he,^e and that I do nothing on my own, but I speak these things as the Father instructed me. ²⁹ And the one who sent me is with me; he has not left me alone, for I always do what is pleasing to him.” ³⁰ As he was saying these things, many believed in him.

³¹ Then Jesus said to the Jews who had believed in him, “If you continue in my word, you are truly my disciples; ³² and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free.” ³³ They answered him, “We are descendants of Abraham and have never been slaves to anyone. What do you mean by saying, ‘You will be made free?’”

³⁴ Jesus answered them, “Very truly, I tell you, everyone who commits sin is a slave to sin. ³⁵ The slave does not have a permanent place in the household; the son has a place

^a Or Lord

^b The most ancient authorities lack 7.53–8.11; other authorities add the passage here or after 7.36 or after 21.25 or after Luke 21.38, with variations of text; some mark the passage as doubtful.

^c Gk according to the flesh

^d Other ancient authorities read he

^e Gk I am

^f Or What I have told you from the beginning

8.12–20: Jesus’s defense continues. 12: Light of the world. See 1.9. 13: The rest of the chapter employs linguistic patterns of juridical argument. The Pharisees challenge the legal validity of Jesus’s defense. 17–18: In your law, Deut 19.15 requires two or three witnesses. Jesus names two: his Father and himself. 20: Jesus’s hour determines when he will lay down his life (see 10.18).

21–30: Jesus predicts his death. 22–25: Typical pattern of misunderstanding. The question of Jesus’s origins, destination and identity are key themes in the Gospel. 28: Lifted up, see 3.14n. I am he, lit., “I am”; Jesus’s death and glorification will reveal his divine identity (see 4.26n; 18.5–6). 28–30: Here the claim to speak only what the Father has taught him leads some of the Jews to believe.

8.31–59: Contest over claims on ancient authority: Jesus and Abraham. 31–32: In spite of the note that some believed, Jesus’s conditional comment suggests that the hostility has not abated. 33: Never been slaves, cf. the

there forever. ³⁶ So if the Son makes you free, you will be free indeed. ³⁷ I know that you are descendants of Abraham; yet you look for an opportunity to kill me, because there is no place in you for my word. ³⁸ I declare what I have seen in the Father's presence; as for you, you should do what you have heard from the Father."^a ³⁹ They answered him, "Abraham is our father." Jesus said to them, "If you were Abraham's children, you would be doing^b what Abraham did, ⁴⁰ but now you are trying to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. This is not what Abraham did. ⁴¹ You are indeed doing what your father does." They said to him, "We are not illegitimate children; we have one father, God himself." ⁴² Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and now I am here. I did not come on my own, but he sent me. ⁴³ Why do you not understand what I say? It is because you cannot accept my word. ⁴⁴ You are from your father the devil, and you choose to do your father's desires. He was a murderer from the beginning and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks according to his own nature, for he is a liar and the father of lies. ⁴⁵ But because I tell the truth, you do not believe me. ⁴⁶ Which of you convicts me of sin? If I tell the truth, why do you not believe me? ⁴⁷ Whoever is from God hears the words of God. The reason you do not hear them is that you are not from God."

⁴⁸ The Jews answered him, "Are we not right in saying that you are a Samaritan and have a demon?" ⁴⁹ Jesus answered, "I do not have a demon; but I honor my Father, and you dishonor me. ⁵⁰ Yet I do not seek my own glory; there is one who seeks it and he is the judge. ⁵¹ Very truly, I tell you, whoever keeps my word will never see death." ⁵² The Jews said to him, "Now we know that you have a demon. Abraham died, and so did the prophets; yet you say, 'Whoever keeps my word will never taste death.' ⁵³ Are you greater than our father Abraham, who died? The prophets also died. Who do you claim to be?" ⁵⁴ Jesus answered, "If I glorify myself, my glory is nothing. It is my Father who glorifies me, he of whom you say, 'He is our God,' ⁵⁵ though you do not know him. But I know him; if I would say that I do not know him, I would be a liar like you. But I do know him and I keep his word. ⁵⁶ Your ancestor Abraham rejoiced that he would see my day; he saw it and was glad." ⁵⁷ Then the Jews said to him, "You are not yet fifty years old, and have you seen Abraham?"^c ⁵⁸ Jesus said to them, "Very truly, I tell you, before Abraham was, I am." ⁵⁹ So they picked up stones to throw at him, but Jesus hid himself and went out of the temple.

9 As he walked along, he saw a man blind from birth. ² His disciples asked him, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" ³ Jesus answered, "Neither this man nor his parents sinned; he was born blind so that God's works might be revealed in him. ⁴ We^d must work the works of him who sent me^e while it is day; night is coming when no one can work. ⁵ As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world." ⁶ When he had said this, he spat on the ground and made mud with the saliva and spread the mud on the man's eyes, ⁷ saying to him, "Go, wash in the pool of Siloam" (which means Sent). Then he went and washed and came back able to

^a Other ancient authorities read you do what you have heard from your father

^b Other ancient authorities read If you are Abraham's children, then do

^c Other ancient authorities read has Abraham seen you?

^d Other ancient authorities read I

^e Other ancient authorities read us

frequent calls to remember the history of slavery in Egypt (Deut 6.20–21; 15.12–15; 16.12; 24.17–22). ³⁷: See 5.18; 7.1. ⁴⁴: This harsh rhetoric probably reflects intra-Jewish conflict at the time the Gospel was written (see Introduction and cf. 1 Jn 3.8–11). ⁴⁸: Samaritan, probably meaning an outsider. Demon, see 7.20n. ⁵⁶: Abraham rejoiced. The claim is not grounded in a scriptural tradition from Genesis. ⁵⁸: I am, see 4.26n.

^{9.1–12}: A second Sabbath healing and controversy. 2: Cf. v. 34 and 5.14n. 6: Saliva, cf. Mk 8.23. 7: Siloam, an ancient pool in Jerusalem fed by the Gihon Spring (2 Kings 20.20). Sent echoes the identity of Jesus as one sent by God.

see.⁸ The neighbors and those who had seen him before as a beggar began to ask, “Is this not the man who used to sit and beg?”⁹ Some were saying, “It is he.” Others were saying, “No, but it is someone like him.” He kept saying, “I am the man.”¹⁰ But they kept asking him, “Then how were your eyes opened?”¹¹ He answered, “The man called Jesus made mud, spread it on my eyes, and said to me, ‘Go to Siloam and wash.’ Then I went and washed and received my sight.”¹² They said to him, “Where is he?” He said, “I do not know.”

¹³ They brought to the Pharisees the man who had formerly been blind. ¹⁴ Now it was a sabbath day when Jesus made the mud and opened his eyes. ¹⁵ Then the Pharisees also began to ask him how he had received his sight. He said to them, “He put mud on my eyes. Then I washed, and now I see.”¹⁶ Some of the Pharisees said, “This man is not from God, for he does not observe the sabbath.” But others said, “How can a man who is a sinner perform such signs?” And they were divided. ¹⁷ So they said again to the blind man, “What do you say about him? It was your eyes he opened.” He said, “He is a prophet.”

¹⁸ The Jews did not believe that he had been blind and had received his sight until they called the parents of the man who had received his sight¹⁹ and asked them, “Is this your son, who you say was born blind? How then does he now see?”²⁰ His parents answered, “We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind;²¹ but we do not know how it is that now he sees, nor do we know who opened his eyes. Ask him; he is of age. He will speak for himself.”²² His parents said this because they were afraid of the Jews; for the Jews had already agreed that anyone who confessed Jesus^a to be the Messiah^b would be put out of the synagogue.²³ Therefore his parents said, “He is of age; ask him.”

²⁴ So for the second time they called the man who had been blind, and they said to him, “Give glory to God! We know that this man is a sinner.”²⁵ He answered, “I do not know whether he is a sinner. One thing I do know, that though I was blind, now I see.”²⁶ They said to him, “What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?”²⁷ He answered them, “I have told you already, and you would not listen. Why do you want to hear it again? Do you also want to become his disciples?”²⁸ Then they reviled him, saying, “You are his disciple, but we are disciples of Moses.²⁹ We know that God has spoken to Moses, but as for this man, we do not know where he comes from.”³⁰ The man answered, “Here is an astonishing thing! You do not know where he comes from, and yet he opened my eyes.³¹ We know that God does not listen to sinners, but he does listen to one who worships him and obeys his will.³² Never since the world began has it been heard that anyone opened the eyes of a person born blind.³³ If this man were not from God, he could do nothing.”³⁴ They answered him, “You were born entirely in sins, and are you trying to teach us?” And they drove him out.

³⁵ Jesus heard that they had driven him out, and when he found him, he said, “Do you believe in the Son of Man?”^c ³⁶ He answered, “And who is he, sir?”^d Tell me, so that I may believe in him.”³⁷ Jesus said to him, “You have seen him, and the one speaking with you is he.”³⁸ He said, “Lord,^d I believe.” And he worshiped him.³⁹ Jesus said, “I came into this world for judgment so that those who do not see may see, and those who do see may become blind.”⁴⁰ Some of the Pharisees

^a Gk him

^b Or the Christ

^c Other ancient authorities read the Son of God

^d Sir and Lord translate the same Greek word

9.13–34: Testimony for and against Jesus. 22: Reference to expulsions from the synagogue in the Gospel of John reflect tensions at the time the Gospel was written, rather than during the life of Jesus. The Gk word apostynagogos, lit., “out of the synagogue,” is not found in any other ancient Greek text (see also 12.42; 16.2). Most scholars now agree that the term does not refer to a formal procedure taken against followers of Jesus in the first century. This term belongs in the same category as the heightened agonistic rhetoric against “the Jews” in 8.12–59. (See further Introduction.)

9.35–41: Belief and unbelief. 35–38: Unlike the man healed in 5.1–15, this man confesses belief in Jesus. 35: Son of Man, see 1.51n. 39: Judgment is based on one’s response to Jesus. See 3.17–21. 40: An ironic question posed by Jesus’s opponents. The man born blind has come to the light, the Pharisees remain in darkness.

near him heard this and said to him, “Surely we are not blind, are we?”⁴¹ Jesus said to them, “If you were blind, you would not have sin. But now that you say, ‘We see,’ your sin remains.

10 “Very truly, I tell you, anyone who does not enter the sheepfold by the gate but climbs in by another way is a thief and a bandit.² The one who enters by the gate is the shepherd of the sheep.³ The gatekeeper opens the gate for him, and the sheep hear his voice. He calls his own sheep by name and leads them out.⁴ When he has brought out all his own, he goes ahead of them, and the sheep follow him because they know his voice.⁵ They will not follow a stranger, but they will run from him because they do not know the voice of strangers.”⁶ Jesus used this figure of speech with them, but they did not understand what he was saying to them.

⁷ So again Jesus said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, I am the gate for the sheep.⁸ All who came before me are thieves and bandits; but the sheep did not listen to them.⁹ I am the gate. Whoever enters by me will be saved, and will come in and go out and find pasture.¹⁰ The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy. I came that they may have life, and have it abundantly.

¹¹ “I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep.¹² The hired hand, who is not the shepherd and does not own the sheep, sees the wolf coming and leaves the sheep and runs away—and the wolf snatches them and scatters them.¹³ The hired hand runs away because a hired hand does not care for the sheep.¹⁴ I am the good shepherd. I know my own and my own know me,¹⁵ just as the Father knows me and I know the Father. And I lay down my life for the sheep.¹⁶ I have other sheep that do not belong to this fold. I must bring them also, and they will listen to my voice. So there will be one flock, one shepherd.¹⁷ For this reason the Father loves me, because I lay down my life in order to take it up again.¹⁸ No one takes^a it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it up again. I have received this command from my Father.”

¹⁹ Again the Jews were divided because of these words.²⁰ Many of them were saying, “He has a demon and is out of his mind. Why listen to him?”²¹ Others were saying, “These are not the words of one who has a demon. Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?”

²² At that time the festival of the Dedication took place in Jerusalem. It was winter,²³ and Jesus was walking in the temple, in the portico of Solomon.²⁴ So the Jews gathered around him and said to him, “How long will you keep us in suspense? If you are the Messiah,^b tell us plainly.”²⁵ Jesus answered, “I have told you, and you do not believe. The works that I do in my Father’s name testify to me;²⁶ but you do not believe, because you do not belong to my sheep.²⁷ My sheep hear my voice. I know them, and they follow me.²⁸ I give them eternal life, and they will never perish. No one will snatch them out of my hand.²⁹ What my Father has given me is greater than all else, and no one can snatch it out of the Father’s hand.^c ³⁰ The Father and I are one.”

³¹ The Jews took up stones again to stone him.³² Jesus replied, “I have shown you many

^a Other ancient authorities read has taken

^b Or the Christ

^c Other ancient authorities read My Father who has given them to me is greater than all, and no one can snatch them out of the Father’s hand

10.1–18: Discourse on the good shepherd. 1–6: Figure of speech, the Gk term (“paroimia”) refers to a proverbial or metaphorical statement. John does not use the Gk term for parable (“parabolē”) for Jesus’s teaching, but these verses come closest to the parables found in the Synoptic Gospels. See also 16.25. Here the metaphorical language involves a gate (1–2) and a shepherd (3–4). 7–9: Interpretation of the figure of the gate. Jesus allows access to God. 10–18: Interpretation of the figure of the shepherd. 10: The shepherd is a frequent metaphor for God’s care of Israel (Ezek 34.11–23; Isa 40.11; Pss 23.1–4; 78.52–53; 95.7). 11: Lays down his life, Jesus’s death is voluntary, making it noble rather than humiliating. 13: A critique of the religious authorities; cf. Ezek 34.1–10. 16: A reference to Gentile believers (17.20–23). 17: Alludes to the crucifixion and resurrection.

10.19–42: Division among the Jews continues. 20: Demon, see 7.20n. 22–24: Dedication, Hanukkah (see 1 Macc 4.36–59). The fourth festival in the Gospel that Jesus attends. Portico of Solomon, a colonnade good works from the Father. For which of these are you going to stone me?”³³ The Jews answered, “It is not for a good work that we are going to stone you, but for blasphemy, because you, though only a human being, are making yourself God.”³⁴ Jesus answered, “Is it not written in your law,^a ‘I said, you are gods’?”³⁵ If those to whom the word of God came were called ‘gods’—and the scripture cannot be annulled—³⁶ can you say that the one whom the Father has sanctified and sent into the world is blaspheming because I said, ‘I am God’s Son’?”³⁷ If I am not doing the works of my Father, then do not believe me.³⁸ But if I do them, even though you do not believe me, believe the works, so that you may know and understand^b that the Father is in me and I am in the Father.”³⁹ Then they tried to arrest him again, but he escaped from their hands.

⁴⁰ He went away again across the Jordan to the place where John had been baptizing earlier, and he remained there.⁴¹ Many came to him, and they were saying, “John performed no sign, but everything that John said about this man was true.”⁴² And many believed in him there.

11 Now a certain man was ill, Lazarus of Bethany, the village of Mary and her sister Martha.² Mary was the one who anointed the Lord with perfume and wiped his feet with her hair; her brother Lazarus was ill.³ So the sisters sent a message to Jesus,^c “Lord, he whom you love is ill.”⁴ But when Jesus heard it, he said, “This illness does not lead to death; rather it is for God’s glory, so that the Son of God may be glorified through it.”⁵ Accordingly, though Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus,⁶ after having heard that Lazarus^d was ill, he stayed two days longer in the place where he was.

⁷ Then after this he said to the disciples, “Let us go to Judea again.”⁸ The disciples said to him, “Rabbi, the Jews were just now trying to stone you, and are you going there again?”⁹ Jesus answered, “Are there not twelve hours of daylight? Those who walk during the day do not stumble, because they see the light of this world.¹⁰ But those who walk at night stumble, because the light is not in them.”

¹¹ After saying this, he told them, “Our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep, but I am going there to awaken him.”¹² The disciples said to him, “Lord, if he has fallen asleep, he will be all right.”¹³ Jesus, however, had been speaking about his death, but they thought that he was referring merely to sleep.¹⁴ Then Jesus told them plainly, “Lazarus is dead.¹⁵ For your sake I am glad I was not there, so that you may believe. But let us go to him.”¹⁶ Thomas, who was called the Twin,^e said to his fellow disciples, “Let us also go, that we may die with him.”

¹⁷ When Jesus arrived, he found that Lazarus^d had already been in the tomb four days.¹⁸ Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, some two miles^f away,¹⁹ and many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary to console them about their brother.²⁰ When Martha heard that Jesus was coming, she went and met him, while Mary stayed at home.²¹ Martha said to Jesus, “Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died.²² But even now I know that God will give you whatever you ask of him.”²³ Jesus said to her, “Your brother will rise again.”²⁴ Martha said to him, “I know that he will rise again in the resurrection on the last day.”²⁵ Jesus said to her, “I

^a Other ancient authorities read in the law

^b Other ancient authorities lack and understand; others read and believe

^c Gk him

^d Gk he

^e Gk Didymus

^f Gk fifteen stadia

constructed as part of Herod’s Temple construction. 34: Written in your law, meaning the Jewish scriptures in general; the quotation is from Ps 82.6. 40: Across the Jordan, see 3.23.

11.1–44: Dialogue with Martha and Mary and the raising of Lazarus. 2: Mary is known in the tradition for anointing Jesus (12.1–11). Another, probably different pair of sisters named Mary and Martha appear in Lk 10.38–42. 4: Like the man born blind, Lazarus’s illness is for God’s glory (9.3). 11–15: A familiar pattern of Jesus’s language leading to misunderstanding. “Sleep” is a frequent euphemism for death; see Ps 13.3; Acts 7.60, note b; 1 Cor 15.6, note c; 1 Thess 4.13, note d. 19: Here the Jews is used in a neutral way. 24: Martha shares widespread am the resurrection and the life.^a Those who believe in me, even though they die, will live,²⁶ and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?”²⁷ She said to him, “Yes, Lord, I believe that you are the Messiah,^b the Son of God, the one coming into the world.”

²⁸ When she had said this, she went back and called her sister Mary, and told her privately, “The Teacher is here and is calling for you.”²⁹ And when she heard it, she got up quickly and went to him.³⁰ Now Jesus had not yet come to the village, but was still at the place where Martha had met him.³¹ The Jews who were with her in the house, consoling her, saw Mary get up quickly and go out. They followed her because they thought that she was going to the tomb to weep there.³² When Mary came where Jesus was and saw him, she knelt at his feet and said to him, “Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died.”³³ When Jesus saw her weeping, and the Jews who came with her also weeping, he was greatly disturbed in spirit and deeply moved.³⁴ He said, “Where have you laid him?” They said to him, “Lord, come and see.”³⁵ Jesus began to weep.³⁶ So the Jews said, “See how he loved him!”³⁷ But some of them said, “Could not he who opened the eyes of the blind man have kept this man from dying?”

³⁸ Then Jesus, again greatly disturbed, came to the tomb. It was a cave, and a stone was lying against it.³⁹ Jesus said, “Take away the stone.” Martha, the sister of the dead man, said to him, “Lord, already there is a stench because he has been dead four days.”⁴⁰ Jesus said to her, “Did I not tell you that if you believed, you would see the glory of God?”⁴¹ So they took away the stone. And Jesus looked upward and said, “Father, I thank you for having heard me.⁴² I knew that you always hear me, but I have said this for the sake of the crowd standing here, so that they may believe that you sent me.”⁴³ When he had said this, he cried with a loud voice, “Lazarus, come out!”⁴⁴ The dead man came out, his hands and feet bound with strips of cloth, and his face wrapped in a cloth. Jesus said to them, “Unbind him, and let him go.”

⁴⁵ Many of the Jews therefore, who had come with Mary and had seen what Jesus did, believed in him.⁴⁶ But some of them went to the Pharisees and told them what he had done.⁴⁷ So the chief priests and the Pharisees called a meeting of the council, and said, “What are we to do? This man is performing many signs.⁴⁸ If we let him go on like this, everyone will believe in him, and the Romans will come and destroy both our holy place^c and our nation.”⁴⁹ But one of them, Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, said to them, “You know nothing at all!⁵⁰ You do not understand that it is better for you to have one man die for the people than to have the whole nation destroyed.”⁵¹ He did not say this on his own, but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus was about to die for the nation,⁵² and not for the nation only, but to gather into one the dispersed children of God.⁵³ So from that day on they planned to put him to death.

⁵⁴ Jesus therefore no longer walked about openly among the Jews, but went from there to a town called Ephraim in the region near the wilderness; and he remained there with the disciples.

⁵⁵ Now the Passover of the Jews was near, and many went up from the country to Jerusalem before the Passover to purify themselves.⁵⁶ They were looking for Jesus and were asking one another as they stood in the temple, “What do you think? Surely he

^a Other ancient authorities lack and the life

^b Or the Christ

^c Or our temple; Greek our place

Jewish belief in resurrection on the day of judgment (see Dan 12.2; 2 Macc 7.9). Her confession anticipates the stated purpose of the Gospel (20.31). In the Synoptic Gospels, it is Peter who confesses that Jesus is the Messiah (Mk 8.29). 36–37: The different responses to Jesus anticipate different responses to the raising of Lazarus (see 11.45–46). 38–44: The meaning of the sign has been made clear before it occurs. The actual narration is brief.

11.45–53: Continued plotting against Jesus. 48: The Romans will . . . destroy, an accurate description of the fear that comes from living under Roman occupation. Our place possibly refers to all of Jerusalem. The Romans destroyed the Temple in August 70 CE. 49–52: Caiaphas unknowingly “prophesies” the truth about Jesus’s death. 54: Ephraim, also called Aphairema, was about 12 mi (20 km) north of Jerusalem.

will not come to the festival, will he?”⁵⁷ Now the chief priests and the Pharisees had given orders that anyone who knew where Jesus^a was should let them know, so that they might arrest him.

12 Six days before the Passover Jesus came to Bethany, the home of Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead.² There they gave a dinner for him. Martha served, and Lazarus was one of those at the table with him.³ Mary took a pound of costly perfume made of pure nard, anointed Jesus’ feet, and wiped them^b with her hair. The house was filled with the fragrance of the perfume.⁴ But Judas Iscariot, one of his disciples (the one who was about to betray him), said,⁵ “Why was this perfume not sold for three hundred denarii^c and the money given to the poor?”⁶ (He said this not because he cared about the poor, but because he was a thief; he kept the common purse and used to steal what was put into it.)⁷ Jesus said, “Leave her alone. She bought it^d so that she might keep it for the day of my burial.⁸ You always have the poor with you, but you do not always have me.”

⁹ When the great crowd of the Jews learned that he was there, they came not only because of Jesus but also to see Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead.¹⁰ So the chief priests planned to put Lazarus to death as well,¹¹ since it was on account of him that many of the Jews were deserting and were believing in Jesus.

¹² The next day the great crowd that had come to the festival heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem.¹³ So they took branches of palm trees and went out to meet him, shouting, “Hosanna!

Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord—
the King of Israel!”

¹⁴ Jesus found a young donkey and sat on it; as it is written:

¹⁵ “Do not be afraid, daughter of Zion.

Look, your king is coming, sitting on a donkey’s colt!”

¹⁶ His disciples did not understand these things at first; but when Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things had been written of him and had been done to him.¹⁷ So the crowd that had been with him when he called Lazarus out of the tomb and raised him from the dead continued to testify.^e¹⁸ It was also because they heard that he had performed this sign that the crowd went to meet him.¹⁹ The Pharisees then said to one another, “You see, you can do nothing. Look, the world has gone after him!”

²⁰ Now among those who went up to worship at the festival were some Greeks.²¹ They came to Philip, who was from Bethsaida in Galilee, and said to him, “Sir, we wish to see Jesus.”²² Philip went and told Andrew; then Andrew and Philip went and told Jesus.²³ Jesus answered them, “The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified.²⁴ Very truly, I tell you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it remains just a single grain; but if it dies, it bears much fruit.²⁵ Those who love their life lose it, and those who hate their life in this world will keep it for eternal life.²⁶ Whoever serves me must follow me, and where I am, there will my servant be also. Whoever serves me, the Father will honor.

^a Gk he

^b Gk his feet

^c Three hundred denarii would be nearly a year’s wages for a laborer

^d Gk lacks She bought it

^e Other ancient authorities read with him began to testify that he had called . . . from the dead

12.1–11: Mary of Bethany anoints Jesus (cf. Mk 14.3–9). 1: Lazarus, see 11.1–4. 3: The Roman pound was 12 oz (327 gm). Nard, an aromatic oil imported from the Himalayan mountains (see Song 1.12; 4.13–14). Jewish burial rituals include anointing the body with perfume. 7: Jesus’s defense of Mary suggests that her anointing foreshadows his death.

12.12–36a: Jesus’s arrival in Jerusalem for his third and final Passover there. 12–15: Cf. Mt 21.1–9; Mk 11.1–10; Lk 19.28–38. 13: Ps. 118.26. 14: Zeph 3.16; Zech 9.9. 16: These things had been written of him, the scriptures are reinterpreted after the death of Jesus. 19–20: The arrival of the Greeks coinciding with the world has gone after him may refer to the mission to the Gentiles that takes place after Jesus’s death (see 7.35–36). 23: The hour has come accounts for Jesus’s public entry into Jerusalem compared to his secrecy earlier (cf. 7.6–10). 25: Cf. Mt 10.39; Mk

²⁷ “Now my soul is troubled. And what should I say—‘Father, save me from this hour’? No, it is for this reason that I have come to this hour. ²⁸ Father, glorify your name.” Then a voice came from heaven, “I have glorified it, and I will glorify it again.” ²⁹ The crowd standing there heard it and said that it was thunder. Others said, “An angel has spoken to him.” ³⁰ Jesus answered, “This voice has come for your sake, not for mine. ³¹ Now is the judgment of this world; now the ruler of this world will be driven out. ³² And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people^a to myself.” ³³ He said this to indicate the kind of death he was to die. ³⁴ The crowd answered him, “We have heard from the law that the Messiah^b remains forever. How can you say that the Son of Man must be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man?” ³⁵ Jesus said to them, “The light is with you for a little longer. Walk while you have the light, so that the darkness may not overtake you. If you walk in the darkness, you do not know where you are going. ³⁶ While you have the light, believe in the light, so that you may become children of light.”

After Jesus had said this, he departed and hid from them. ³⁷ Although he had performed so many signs in their presence, they did not believe in him. ³⁸ This was to fulfill the word spoken by the prophet Isaiah:

“Lord, who has believed our message, and to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed?”

³⁹ And so they could not believe, because Isaiah also said,

⁴⁰ “He has blinded their eyes and hardened their heart,
so that they might not look with their eyes,

and understand with their heart and turn—
and I would heal them.”

⁴¹ Isaiah said this because^c he saw his glory and spoke about him. ⁴² Nevertheless many, even of the authorities, believed in him. But because of the Pharisees they did not confess it, for fear that they would be put out of the synagogue; ⁴³ for they loved human glory more than the glory that comes from God.

⁴⁴ Then Jesus cried aloud: “Whoever believes in me believes not in me but in him who sent me. ⁴⁵ And whoever sees me sees him who sent me. ⁴⁶ I have come as light into the world, so that everyone who believes in me should not remain in the darkness. ⁴⁷ I do not judge anyone who hears my words and does not keep them, for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world. ⁴⁸ The one who rejects me and does not receive my word has a judge; on the last day the word that I have spoken will serve as judge, ⁴⁹ for I have not spoken on my own, but the Father who sent me has himself given me a commandment about what to say and what to speak. ⁵⁰ And I know that his commandment is eternal life. What I speak, therefore, I speak just as the Father has told me.”

13 Now before the festival of the Passover, Jesus knew that his hour had come to depart from this world and go to the Father. Having loved his own who were in the world, he loved them to the end. ² The devil had already put it into the heart of

^a Other ancient authorities read all things

^b Or the Christ

^c Other ancient witnesses read when

8.35; Lk 9.24. 27: Save me from this hour, perhaps reflecting traditions where Jesus asks God to “remove this cup” (cf. Mk 14.34–35; see also Jn 18.11). 31: Ruler of this world, Satan, but for the Gospel’s first-century audience the phrase would also call to mind the Roman emperor; see 14.30; 16.11. 34: From the law, perhaps a reference to Ps 89.36. 35–36: Light, see 8.12.

12.36b–43: The narrator comments on Jesus’s earthly mission. 38: Isa 53.1. 40: Isa 6.10. 42: Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus may represent two of these authorities; see 19.38–39. Put out of the synagogue, see 9.22n. and Introduction.

12.44–50: Summary of Jesus’s teaching. 44: Jesus cried aloud, as though from offstage, one of the dramatic conventions employed in the Gospel. The verses repeat the central themes of the Gospel and conclude the first part of the narrative (see Introduction).

13–20: Jesus returns to the Father.

13.1–20: Jesus preparing for his departure. 1–3: The turning point in the Gospel when Jesus’s descent into

Judas son of Simon Iscariot to betray him. And during supper ³ Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he had come from God and was going to God, ⁴ got up from the table, ^a took off his outer robe, and tied a towel around himself. ⁵ Then he poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet and to wipe them with the towel that was tied around him. ⁶ He came to Simon Peter, who said to him, "Lord, are you going to wash my feet?" ⁷ Jesus answered, "You do not know now what I am doing, but later you will understand." ⁸ Peter said to him, "You will never wash my feet." Jesus answered, "Unless I wash you, you have no share with me." ⁹ Simon Peter said to him, "Lord, not my feet only but also my hands and my head!" ¹⁰ Jesus said to him, "One who has bathed does not need to wash, except for the feet, ^b but is entirely clean. And you ^c are clean, though not all of you." ¹¹ For he knew who was to betray him; for this reason he said, "Not all of you are clean."

¹² After he had washed their feet, had put on his robe, and had returned to the table, he said to them, "Do you know what I have done to you? ¹³ You call me Teacher and Lord—and you are right, for that is what I am. ¹⁴ So if I, your Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another's feet. ¹⁵ For I have set you an example, that you also should do as I have done to you. ¹⁶ Very truly, I tell you, servants ^d are not greater than their master, nor are messengers greater than the one who sent them. ¹⁷ If you know these things, you are blessed if you do them. ¹⁸ I am not speaking of all of you; I know whom I have chosen. But it is to fulfill the scripture, "The one who ate my bread ^e has lifted his heel against me.' ¹⁹ I tell you this now, before it occurs, so that when it does occur, you may believe that I am he. ^f ²⁰ Very truly, I tell you, whoever receives one whom I send receives me; and whoever receives me receives him who sent me."

²¹ After saying this Jesus was troubled in spirit, and declared, "Very truly, I tell you, one of you will betray me." ²² The disciples looked at one another, uncertain of whom he was speaking. ²³ One of his disciples—the one whom Jesus loved—was reclining next to him; ²⁴ Simon Peter therefore motioned to him to ask Jesus of whom he was speaking. ²⁵ So while reclining next to Jesus, he asked him, "Lord, who is it?" ²⁶ Jesus answered, "It is the one to whom I give this piece of bread when I have dipped it in the dish." ²⁷ So when he had dipped the piece of bread, he gave it to Judas son of Simon Iscariot. ²⁸ After he received the piece of bread, ⁱ Satan entered into him. Jesus said to him, "Do quickly what you are going to do." ²⁹ Now no one at the table knew why he said this to him. ³⁰ Some thought that, because Judas had the common purse, Jesus was telling him, "Buy what we need for the festival"; or, that he should give

^a Gk from supper

^b Other ancient authorities lack except for the feet

^c The Greek word for you here is plural

^d Gk slaves

^e Other ancient authorities read ate bread with me

^f Gk I am

^g Gk dipped it

^h Other ancient authorities read Judas Iscariot son of Simon; others, Judas son of Simon from Karyot (Kerioth)

ⁱ Gk After the piece of bread

the world shifts toward the ascent back to the father. 4–8: Only this Gospel has Jesus washing the disciples' feet. Common hospitality included an opportunity to wash the dust from one's feet, but the washing itself was typically the task of a slave or a disciple of a teacher. Wrapped himself with a towel, donning the attire of a slave. 12–17: The foot-washing is interpreted as humble service. 18: Ps 41.9. 19: I am he, see 4.26n.

13:21–30: Jesus's betrayer. John's version of the meal does not include the words of institution which became part of the Eucharistic liturgy (but see 6.51–58 for the Johannine version). Their absence raises questions about the degree of John's interest in the sacraments. 23: The first appearance of the mysterious "Beloved Disciple" (see 1.40n. and Introduction). Reclining next to him, lit., "on his breast," the same language used for intimacy between the Son and Father in 1.18. 28: The claim that no one knew is puzzling given the exchange between Peter and the Beloved Disciple in 13.24. It may indicate that the Beloved Disciple was inserted into something to the poor.³⁰ So, after receiving the piece of bread, he immediately went out. And it was night.

³¹ When he had gone out, Jesus said, “Now the Son of Man has been glorified, and God has been glorified in him.³² If God has been glorified in him,^a God will also glorify him in himself and will glorify him at once.³³ Little children, I am with you only a little longer. You will look for me; and as I said to the Jews so now I say to you, ‘Where I am going, you cannot come.’³⁴ I give you a new commandment, that you love one another. Just as I have loved you, you also should love one another.³⁵ By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another.”

³⁶ Simon Peter said to him, “Lord, where are you going?” Jesus answered, “Where I am going, you cannot follow me now; but you will follow afterward.”³⁷ Peter said to him, “Lord, why can I not follow you now? I will lay down my life for you.”³⁸ Jesus answered, “Will you lay down your life for me? Very truly, I tell you, before the cock crows, you will have denied me three times.

14 “Do not let your hearts be troubled. Believe^b in God, believe also in me.² In my Father’s house there are many dwelling places. If it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you?^c ³ And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, so that where I am, there you may be also. ⁴ And you know the way to the place where I am going.”^d ⁵ Thomas said to him, “Lord, we do not know where you are going. How can we know the way?”^e ⁶ Jesus said to him, “I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.⁷ If you know me, you will know^e my Father also.

From now on you do know him and have seen him.”

⁸ Philip said to him, “Lord, show us the Father, and we will be satisfied.”⁹ Jesus said to him, “Have I been with you all this time, Philip, and you still do not know me? Whoever has seen me has seen the Father. How can you say, ‘Show us the Father?’¹⁰ Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words that I say to you I do not speak on my own; but the Father who dwells in me does his works.¹¹ Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me; but if you do not, then believe me because of the works themselves.¹² Very truly, I tell you, the one who believes in me will also do the works that I do and, in fact, will do greater works than these, because I am going to the Father.¹³ I will do whatever you ask in my name, so that the Father may be glorified in the Son.¹⁴ If in my name you ask me^f for anything, I will do it.

¹⁵ “If you love me, you will keep^g my commandments.¹⁶ And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Advocate,^h to be with you forever.¹⁷ This is the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know

^a Other ancient authorities lack If God has been glorified in him

^b Or You believe

^c Or If it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you

^d Other ancient authorities read Where I am going you know, and the way you know

^e Other ancient authorities read If you had known me, you would have known

^f Other ancient authorities lack me

^g Other ancient authorities read me, keep

^h Or Helper

the scene as an ideal figure (cf. Mk 14.17–21 and par.). 30: Night, the term carries negative connotations in the Gospel (cf. 3.2,9; 9.4).

13.31–16.33: Jesus’s parting words to the disciples. 13.33: See 7.33–34. 34: A new commandment . . . love one another, suggests an internally focused community; cf. Mt 5.44; Lk 6.26. The commandment is repeated in 15.12–17. 36–38: Lay down my life, although Peter uses the words of Jesus (10.11,15,17), he will falter under pressure (18.15–18,25–27). You will follow afterward, see 21.18–19.

14.1–31: Jesus instructs and comforts his disciples. 5: Though Thomas and Philip also misunderstand Jesus’s symbolic language, they ask questions from a position of belief rather than unbelief. 10: I do not speak on my own, a claim Jesus made earlier in the Gospel to defend himself against accusations (7.17; 8.28). Here it is to instruct. 16: The Advocate, Gk “paraklētōs” (“paraclete”), designating one who comes to another’s aid as a patron him, because he abides with you, and he will be in^a you.

¹⁸“I will not leave you orphaned; I am coming to you. ¹⁹In a little while the world will no longer see me, but you will see me; because I live, you also will live. ²⁰On that day you will know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you. ²¹They who have my commandments and keep them are those who love me; and those who love me will be loved by my Father, and I will love them and reveal myself to them.” ²²Judas (not Iscariot) said to him, “Lord, how is it that you will reveal yourself to us, and not to the world?” ²³Jesus answered him, “Those who love me will keep my word, and my Father will love them, and we will come to them and make our home with them. ²⁴Whoever does not love me does not keep my words; and the word that you hear is not mine, but is from the Father who sent me.

²⁵“I have said these things to you while I am still with you. ²⁶But the Advocate,^b the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything, and remind you of all that I have said to you. ²⁷Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled, and do not let them be afraid. ²⁸You heard me say to you, ‘I am going away, and I am coming to you.’ If you loved me, you would rejoice that I am going to the Father, because the Father is greater than I. ²⁹And now I have told you this before it occurs, so that when it does occur, you may believe. ³⁰I will no longer talk much with you, for the ruler of this world is coming. He has no power over me; ³¹but I do as the Father has commanded me, so that the world may know that I love the Father. Rise, let us be on our way.

15 “I am the true vine, and my Father is the vinegrower. ²He removes every branch in me that bears no fruit. Every branch that bears fruit he prunes^c to make it bear more fruit. ³You have already been cleansed^c by the word that I have spoken to you. ⁴Abide in me as I abide in you. Just as the branch cannot bear fruit by itself unless it abides in the vine, neither can you unless you abide in me. ⁵I am the vine, you are the branches. Those who abide in me and I in them bear much fruit, because apart from me you can do nothing. ⁶Whoever does not abide in me is thrown away like a branch and withers; such branches are gathered, thrown into the fire, and burned. ⁷If you abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask for whatever you wish, and it will be done for you. ⁸My Father is glorified by this, that you bear much fruit and become^d my disciples. ⁹As the Father has loved me, so I have loved you; abide in my love. ¹⁰If you keep my commandments, you will abide in my love, just as I have kept my Father’s commandments and abide in his love. ¹¹I have said these things to you so that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be complete.

¹²“This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. ¹³No one has greater love than this, to lay down one’s life for one’s friends. ¹⁴You are my

^a Or among

^b Or Helper

^c The same Greek root refers to pruning and cleansing

^d Or be

or intercessor. Latin translators understood it in the legal sense as an advocate. 26: Elsewhere in the Gospel, references to what the disciples remember serve as evidence for the truth of Jesus’s words (2.17–22). 30: Ruler of this world, see 12.31n. 31: Rise, let us be on our way. Seemingly the conclusion to the discourse, but Jesus continues addressing the disciples in chs 15–16, and then prays in ch 17. Only at 18.1 do they actually go somewhere. Some interpreters think that chs 15–17 were added to an earlier version of the Gospel. Others draw a parallel to the literary technique of extending a last testament in Greek literature.

15.1–11: Jesus the true vine. 1–3: Vine is a common metaphor for Israel in the Hebrew Bible, with God in the role as a vinedresser disappointed with the fruit (Ps 80.8–16; Isa 5.1–7; Jer 2.21; Ezek 15.1–6; 17.5–10; 19.10–14; cf. Mk 12.1–12). Pruning and cleansing, see note c. 5–11: Jesus describes the relationship between the Father, Jesus and the disciples. Abiding includes bearing fruit and keeping commandments.

15.12–17: The love commandment repeated (see 13.34). 13: Lay down one’s life, the same language Peter used in the context of the love commandment (13.37). 14: Friendship in the ancient Greco-Roman world was a relationship defined by duties and obligations, more than affection.

friends if you do what I command you. ¹⁵ I do not call you servants^a any longer, because the servant^b does not know what the master is doing; but I have called you friends, because I have made known to you everything that I have heard from my Father. ¹⁶ You did not choose me but I chose you. And I appointed you to go and bear fruit, fruit that will last, so that the Father will give you whatever you ask him in my name. ¹⁷ I am giving you these commands so that you may love one another.

¹⁸ “If the world hates you, be aware that it hated me before it hated you. ¹⁹ If you belonged to the world,^c the world would love you as its own. Because you do not belong to the world, but I have chosen you out of the world—therefore the world hates you. ²⁰ Remember the word that I said to you, ‘Servants^d are not greater than their master.’ If they persecuted me, they will persecute you; if they kept my word, they will keep yours also. ²¹ But they will do all these things to you on account of my name, because they do not know him who sent me. ²² If I had not come and spoken to them, they would not have sin; but now they have no excuse for their sin. ²³ Whoever hates me hates my Father also. ²⁴ If I had not done among them the works that no one else did, they would not have sin. But now they have seen and hated both me and my Father. ²⁵ It was to fulfill the word that is written in their law, ‘They hated me without a cause.’

²⁶ “When the Advocate^e comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who comes from the Father, he will testify on my behalf. ²⁷ You also are to testify because you have been with me from the beginning.

16 “I have said these things to you to keep you from stumbling. ² They will put you out of the synagogues. Indeed, an hour

is coming when those who kill you will think that by doing so they are offering worship to God. ³ And they will do this because they have not known the Father or me. ⁴ But I have said these things to you so that when their hour comes you may remember that I told you about them.

“I did not say these things to you from the beginning, because I was with you. ⁵ But now I am going to him who sent me; yet none of you asks me, ‘Where are you going?’ ⁶ But because I have said these things to you, sorrow has filled your hearts. ⁷ Nevertheless I tell you the truth: it is to your advantage that I go away, for if I do not go away, the Advocate^e will not come to you; but if I go, I will send him to you. ⁸ And when he comes, he will prove the world wrong about^f sin and righteousness and judgment: ⁹ about sin, because they do not believe in me; ¹⁰ about righteousness, because I am going to the Father and you will see me no longer; ¹¹ about judgment, because the ruler of this world has been condemned.

¹² “I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. ¹³ When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth; for he will not speak on his own, but will speak whatever he hears, and he will declare to you the things that are to come. ¹⁴ He will glorify me, because he will take what is mine and declare it to you. ¹⁵ All that the Father has is mine. For this reason I said that he will take what is mine and declare it to you.

^a Gk slaves

^b Gk slave

^c Gk were of the world

^d Gk Slaves

^e Or Helper

^f Or convict the world of 15.18–16.4a: Sharing in persecution. 15.18–19: If the world hates you, such language of alienation leads some scholars to posit a sectarian community behind the Gospel tradition. Cf. Mt 10.16–23 for similar predictions of persecutions. 20: See 13.16. The disciples’ status means they will experience persecutions as their master has. 25: Pss 35.19; 69.4. 16.2: Put you out of the synagogues, see 9.22n. and Introduction.

16.4b–15: The role of the Advocate (see 14.16). Here the role of the Advocate is primarily as a legal defender who proves the truth of Jesus’s identity and mission. 5: None of you ask me, but see 14.5. Another indication that these chapters may have been added between chs 14 and 18. 11: Ruler of this world, see 12.31n.

¹⁶“A little while, and you will no longer see me, and again a little while, and you will see me.” ¹⁷Then some of his disciples said to one another, “What does he mean by saying to us, ‘A little while, and you will no longer see me, and again a little while, and you will see me’; and ‘Because I am going to the Father’?” ¹⁸They said, “What does he mean by this ‘a little while’? We do not know what he is talking about.” ¹⁹Jesus knew that they wanted to ask him, so he said to them, “Are you discussing among yourselves what I meant when I said, ‘A little while, and you will no longer see me, and again a little while, and you will see me’?” ²⁰Very truly, I tell you, you will weep and mourn, but the world will rejoice; you will have pain, but your pain will turn into joy. ²¹When a woman is in labor, she has pain, because her hour has come. But when her child is born, she no longer remembers the anguish because of the joy of having brought a human being into the world. ²²So you have pain now; but I will see you again, and your hearts will rejoice, and no one will take your joy from you. ²³On that day you will ask nothing of me.^a Very truly, I tell you, if you ask anything of the Father in my name, he will give it to you.^b ²⁴Until now you have not asked for anything in my name. Ask and you will receive, so that your joy may be complete.

²⁵“I have said these things to you in figures of speech. The hour is coming when I will no longer speak to you in figures, but will tell you plainly of the Father. ²⁶On that day you will ask in my name. I do not say to you that I will ask the Father on your behalf; ²⁷for the Father himself loves you, because you have loved me and have believed that I came from God.^c ²⁸I came from the Father and have come into the world; again, I am leaving the world and am going to the Father.”

²⁹His disciples said, “Yes, now you are speaking plainly, not in any figure of speech!

³⁰Now we know that you know all things, and do not need to have anyone question you; by this we believe that you came from God.”

³¹Jesus answered them, “Do you now believe?”

³²The hour is coming, indeed it has come, when you will be scattered, each one to his home, and you will leave me alone. Yet I am not alone because the Father is with me. ³³I have said this to you, so that in me you may have peace. In the world you face persecution. But take courage; I have conquered the world!”

17 After Jesus had spoken these words, he looked up to heaven and said, “Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son so that the Son may glorify you, ²since you have given him authority over all people,^d to give eternal life to all whom you have given him. ³And this is eternal life, that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent. ⁴I glorified you on earth by finishing the work that you gave me to do. ⁵So now, Father, glorify me in your own presence with the glory that I had in your presence before the world existed.

⁶“I have made your name known to those whom you gave me from the world. They were yours, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word. ⁷Now they know that everything you have given me is from you; ⁸for the words that you gave to me I have given to them, and they have received them and know in truth that I came from you; and they have believed that you sent me. ⁹I am asking on their behalf; I am not asking on behalf of the world, but on behalf of those whom you gave me, because they are yours.

^a Or will ask me no question

^b Other ancient authorities read Father, he will give it to you in my name

^c Other ancient authorities read the Father

^d Gk flesh

16.16–25: Suffering and joy of the disciples. 20–22: Ancient Greek writers often employed metaphors of childbirth; see also Rom 8.19–22. Here it refers to the productive pain the disciples will experience before the joy of being in Jesus’s presence again. 23–24: Jesus’s instructions for petitionary prayer; cf. Mt 21.22; Mk 11.24.

16.25–33: Jesus speaks plainly about his departure. 25: Figures of speech, see 10.1–6 n. Here refers to metaphorical speech such as in 16.21–22. 32: To his own home, see 20.10. I am not alone, cf. Mk 15.34.

17.1–26: Jesus’s prayer of petition for his followers. 1–3: A summary of the Gospel’s major themes recalling the Prologue; eternal life is available to those who accept Jesus as one sent by God. The hour has come, see 12.23n. 5: Recalls Jesus as preexistent Word (1.1–3,14). 9: Continues the theme of alienation from the world

¹⁰ All mine are yours, and yours are mine; and I have been glorified in them. ¹¹ And now I am no longer in the world, but they are in the world, and I am coming to you. Holy Father, protect them in your name that you have given me, so that they may be one, as we are one. ¹² While I was with them, I protected them in your name that^a you have given me. I guarded them, and not one of them was lost except the one destined to be lost,^b so that the scripture might be fulfilled. ¹³ But now I am coming to you, and I speak these things in the world so that they may have my joy made complete in themselves.^c ¹⁴ I have given them your word, and the world has hated them because they do not belong to the world, just as I do not belong to the world. ¹⁵ I am not asking you to take them out of the world, but I ask you to protect them from the evil one.^d ¹⁶ They do not belong to the world, just as I do not belong to the world. ¹⁷ Sanctify them in the truth; your word is truth. ¹⁸ As you have sent me into the world, so I have sent them into the world. ¹⁹ And for their sakes I sanctify myself, so that they also may be sanctified in truth.

²⁰ “I ask not only on behalf of these, but also on behalf of those who will believe in me through their word,²¹ that they may all be one. As you, Father, are in me and I am in you, may they also be in us,^e so that the world may believe that you have sent me. ²² The glory that you have given me I have given them, so that they may be one, as we are one,²³ I in them and you in me, that they may become completely one, so that the world may know that you have sent me and have loved them even as you have loved me. ²⁴ Father, I desire that those also, whom you have given me, may be with me where I am, to see my glory, which you have given me because you loved me before the foundation of the world.

²⁵ “Righteous Father, the world does not know you, but I know you; and these know that you have sent me. ²⁶ I made your name known to them, and I will make it known, so that the love with which you have loved me may be in them, and I in them.”

18 After Jesus had spoken these words, he went out with his disciples across the Kidron valley to a place where there was a garden, which he and his disciples entered. ² Now Judas, who betrayed him, also knew the place, because Jesus often met there with his disciples. ³ So Judas brought a detachment of soldiers together with police from the chief priests and the Pharisees, and they came there with lanterns and torches and weapons. ⁴ Then Jesus, knowing all that was to happen to him, came forward and asked them, “Whom are you looking for?” ⁵ They answered, “Jesus of Nazareth.”^f Jesus replied, “I am he.”^g Judas, who betrayed him, was standing with them. ⁶ When Jesus^h said to them, “I am he,”^g they stepped back and fell to the ground. ⁷ Again he asked them, “Whom are you looking for?” And they said, “Jesus of Nazareth.”^f ⁸ Jesus answered, “I told you that I

^a Other ancient authorities read protected in your name those whom

^b Gk except the son of destruction

^c Or among themselves

^d Or from evil

^e Other ancient authorities read be one in us

^f Gk the Nazorean

^g Gk I am

^h Gk he

(14.17–19,31; 15.18–19; 16.8). 10–11: Emphasis on mutuality and unity among the believers. 15: The evil one is Satan, but see note d. 16–18: I have sent them into the world. The relationship between the disciples and the world is hostile (see 15.18–10). This Gospel does not narrate a missionary journey by disciples during Jesus’s ministry (cf. Mk 6.6–13 and par.) nor is there a “great commission” as in Mt 28.19–20 (cf. Lk 24.47). 20–24: Jesus’s prayer of petition extends to the world which remains the object of God’s love (3.16).

18.1–12: Jesus is arrested. Cf. Mt 26.35–46; Mk 14.32–52; Lk 22.40–53. 1: Kidron Valley, between the Temple Mount in Jerusalem and the Mount of Olives. The garden is named Gethsemane in the Synoptic Gospels. Here there is no anguish on Jesus’s part since he freely enters into his hour (12.27–28). 3: Detachment a sizeable group of Roman soldiers as though anticipating armed resistance (see v. 10). Judas brings both Roman and Jewish authorities. Lanterns, torches and weapons. Johannine irony has Jesus’s opposition come in the dark to arrest the light of the world (8.12). 4: Jesus controls his own destiny. 5–6: I am, words of divine revelation; thus, am he.^a So if you are looking for me, let these men go.”⁹ This was to fulfill the word that he had spoken, “I did not lose a single one of those whom you gave me.”¹⁰ Then Simon Peter, who had a sword, drew it, struck the high priest’s slave, and cut off his right ear. The slave’s name was Malchus.¹¹ Jesus said to Peter, “Put your sword back into its sheath. Am I not to drink the cup that the Father has given me?”

¹² So the soldiers, their officer, and the Jewish police arrested Jesus and bound him.

¹³ First they took him to Annas, who was the father-in-law of Caiaphas, the high priest that year.¹⁴ Caiaphas was the one who had advised the Jews that it was better to have one person die for the people.

¹⁵ Simon Peter and another disciple followed Jesus. Since that disciple was known to the high priest, he went with Jesus into the courtyard of the high priest,¹⁶ but Peter was standing outside at the gate. So the other disciple, who was known to the high priest, went out, spoke to the woman who guarded the gate, and brought Peter in.¹⁷ The woman said to Peter, “You are not also one of this man’s disciples, are you?” He said, “I am not.”¹⁸ Now the slaves and the police had made a charcoal fire because it was cold, and they were standing around it and warming themselves. Peter also was standing with them and warming himself.

¹⁹ Then the high priest questioned Jesus about his disciples and about his teaching.

²⁰ Jesus answered, “I have spoken openly to the world; I have always taught in synagogues and in the temple, where all the Jews come together. I have said nothing in secret.”²¹ Why do you ask me? Ask those who heard what I said to them; they know what I said.”²² When he had said this, one of the police standing nearby struck Jesus on the face, saying, “Is that how you answer the high priest?”²³ Jesus answered, “If I have spoken wrongly, testify to the wrong. But if I have spoken rightly, why do you strike me?”

²⁴ Then Annas sent him bound to Caiaphas the high priest.

²⁵ Now Simon Peter was standing and warming himself. They asked him, “You are not also one of his disciples, are you?” He denied it and said, “I am not.”²⁶ One of the slaves of the high priest, a relative of the man whose ear Peter had cut off, asked, “Did I not see you in the garden with him?”²⁷ Again Peter denied it, and at that moment the cock crowed.

²⁸ Then they took Jesus from Caiaphas to Pilate’s headquarters.^b It was early in the morning. They themselves did not enter the headquarters,^b so as to avoid ritual defilement and to be able to eat the Passover.²⁹ So Pilate went out to them and said, “What accusation do you bring against this man?”³⁰ They answered, “If this man were not a criminal, we would not have handed him over to you.”³¹ Pilate said to them, “Take him yourselves and judge him according to your law.” The Jews replied, “We are not permitted the soldiers are overcome and fall to the ground (cf. 4.26n. and note c). 9: For similar predictions see 6.39; 10.28; 17.12. 10: Malchus, identified by name only in this Gospel. 11: Armed resistance suggests struggle for an earthly reign (see 18.36). Drink the cup, a metaphor for judgment and death (see, e.g., Isa 51.17; Jer 25.15–17; Ezek 23.32–34). Jesus’s question, as in 12.27, emphasizes his noble acceptance of his fate (cf. Mk 10.38–39 and par.).

^a Gk I am

^b Gk the praetorium

18.13–27: Informal questioning before the Jewish authorities. Cf. Mt 26.57–75; Mk 14.53–72; Lk 22.34–71. John’s Gospel does not include a trial before the Jewish Sanhedrin as in the Synoptics. 13: Annas, though deposed as high priest by the Romans in 15 CE, was succeeded by five of his sons and his son-in-law Caiaphas, indicating a powerful family which maintained considerable influence with Roman authorities. 14: See 11.49–50. 15–18: The first of two scenes interwoven with Jesus’s trial before Jewish authorities in which Peter explicitly denies his discipleship. 17: Peter’s fearful I am not contrasts poignantly with Jesus’s “I am” of 18.5. 27: The cock crowed, see 13.38.

18.28–19.16a: Jesus and Pilate. Cf. Mt 26.1–2, 11–31; Mk 15.2–20; Lk 23.1–5, 13–25. The trial before Pilate follows conventions of ancient Greek drama as Pilate alternates between scenes on the inside and outside. 28: Pilate’s headquarters, the official Jerusalem residence of Pilate, the governor of Judea appointed by Rome from 26 CE to 36 CE. The Praetorium (see note b) was located on the west side of Jerusalem. 29–31: Pilate’s words to put anyone to death.”³² (This was to fulfill what Jesus had said when he indicated the kind of death he was to die.)

³³ Then Pilate entered the headquarters^a again, summoned Jesus, and asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?”³⁴ Jesus answered, “Do you ask this on your own, or did others tell you about me?”³⁵ Pilate replied, “I am not a Jew, am I? Your own nation and the chief priests have handed you over to me. What have you done?”³⁶ Jesus answered, “My kingdom is not from this world. If my kingdom were from this world, my followers would be fighting to keep me from being handed over to the Jews. But as it is, my kingdom is not from here.”³⁷ Pilate asked him, “So you are a king?” Jesus answered, “You say that I am a king. For this I was born, and for this I came into the world, to testify to the truth. Everyone who belongs to the truth listens to my voice.”³⁸ Pilate asked him, “What is truth?”

After he had said this, he went out to the Jews again and told them, “I find no case against him.”³⁹ But you have a custom that I release someone for you at the Passover. Do you want me to release for you the King of the Jews?”⁴⁰ They shouted in reply, “Not this man, but Barabbas!” Now Barabbas was a bandit.

19 Then Pilate took Jesus and had him flogged.² And the soldiers wove a crown of thorns and put it on his head, and they dressed him in a purple robe.³ They kept coming up to him, saying, “Hail, King of the Jews!” and striking him on the face.⁴ Pilate went out again and said to them, “Look, I am bringing him out to you to let you know that I find no case against him.”⁵ So Jesus came out, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe. Pilate said to them, “Here is the man!”⁶ When the chief priests and the police saw him, they shouted, “Crucify him! Crucify him!” Pilate said to them, “Take him yourselves and crucify him; I find no case against him.”⁷ The Jews answered him, “We have a law, and according to that law he ought to die because he has claimed to be the Son of God.”

⁸ Now when Pilate heard this, he was more afraid than ever.⁹ He entered his headquarters^a again and asked Jesus, “Where are you from?” But Jesus gave him no answer.¹⁰ Pilate therefore said to him, “Do you refuse to speak to me? Do you not know that I have power to release you, and power to crucify you?”¹¹ Jesus answered him, “You would have no power over me unless it had been given you from above; therefore the one who handed me over to you is guilty of a greater sin.”

¹² From then on Pilate tried to release him, but the Jews cried out, “If you release this man, you are no friend of the emperor. Everyone who claims to be a king sets himself against the emperor.”

¹³ When Pilate heard these words, he brought Jesus outside and sat^b on the judge’s bench at a place called The Stone Pavement, or in Hebrew^c Gabbatha.¹⁴ Now it was the day of Preparation for the Passover; and it was about noon. He said to the Jews, “Here is your King!”¹⁵ They cried out, “Away with him! Away with him! Crucify him!” Pilate

^a Gk the praetorium

^b Or seated him

^c That is, Aramaic

highlight the powerlessness of the Jewish authorities under Roman occupation. 32: The kind of death he was to die alludes to crucifixion which only the Romans had the power to inflict; cf. 3:14; 8:28; 12:32. 35: Pilate’s sarcastic question may be ironic since the Roman governor will do the bidding of the Jewish authorities. 36: Jesus has continually described himself in otherworldly terms. My followers would be fighting, see 18:10–11. 38: An ironic question to ask of the one who describes himself as the truth (14:16). 39: The custom of releasing a prisoner on Passover is unattested outside the New Testament. 40: Bandit, Gk “lēstēs,” which can also mean a political insurrectionist. 19:1 Flogged, even though Pilate finds no case against him (18:38b; 19:4,6). 5–6: The mock coronation of Jesus seems deliberately provocative as does Pilate’s taunt that the Jews crucify Jesus themselves (see 18:31b). 12: The Jews respond with threats of political blackmail, accusing Pilate of misconduct before higher authorities. 13: Sat, or “seated him” (see note b), in which case Pilate is contributing to the mock coronation scene. Gabbatha occurs only here and likely means “the elevated (place)” in Aramaic. 14: The lambs for the Passover were slaughtered on the day of preparation. 15: No king but the emperor, the Jews demand for Jesus’s life leads tragically to their rejection of the reign of God.

asked them, “Shall I crucify your King?” The chief priests answered, “We have no king but the emperor.”¹⁶ Then he handed him over to them to be crucified.

So they took Jesus;¹⁷ and carrying the cross by himself, he went out to what is called The Place of the Skull, which in Hebrew^a is called Golgotha.¹⁸ There they crucified him, and with him two others, one on either side, with Jesus between them.¹⁹ Pilate also had an inscription written and put on the cross. It read, “Jesus of Nazareth,^b the King of the Jews.”²⁰ Many of the Jews read this inscription, because the place where Jesus was crucified was near the city; and it was written in Hebrew,^a in Latin, and in Greek.²¹ Then the chief priests of the Jews said to Pilate, “Do not write, ‘The King of the Jews,’ but, ‘This man said, I am King of the Jews.’”²² Pilate answered, “What I have written I have written.”²³ When the soldiers had crucified Jesus, they took his clothes and divided them into four parts, one for each soldier. They also took his tunic; now the tunic was seamless, woven in one piece from the top.²⁴ So they said to one another, “Let us not tear it, but cast lots for it to see who will get it.” This was to fulfill what the scripture says,

“They divided my clothes among themselves, and for my clothing they cast lots.”

²⁵ And that is what the soldiers did.

Meanwhile, standing near the cross of Jesus were his mother, and his mother’s sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary

Magdalene.²⁶ When Jesus saw his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing beside her, he said to his mother, “Woman, here is your son.”²⁷ Then he said to the disciple, “Here is your mother.” And from that hour the disciple took her into his own home.

²⁸ After this, when Jesus knew that all was now finished, he said (in order to fulfill the scripture), “I am thirsty.”²⁹ A jar full of sour wine was standing there. So they put a sponge full of the wine on a branch of hyssop and held it to his mouth.³⁰ When Jesus had received the wine, he said, “It is finished.” Then he bowed his head and gave up his spirit.

³¹ Since it was the day of Preparation, the Jews did not want the bodies left on the cross during the sabbath, especially because that sabbath was a day of great solemnity. So they asked Pilate to have the legs of the crucified men broken and the bodies removed.³² Then the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first and of the other who had been crucified with him.³³ But when they came to Jesus and saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs.³⁴ Instead, one of the soldiers pierced his side with a spear, and at once blood and water came out.³⁵ (He who saw this has testified so that you also may believe. His testimony is true, and he knows^c that he

^a That is, Aramaic

^b Gk the Nazorean

^c Or there is one who knows

19:16b–37: Jesus is crucified. Cf. Mt. 27.32–50; Mk 15.22–37; Lk 23.26–49. 17: Carrying the cross by himself, in contrast to the Synoptic versions where Simon of Cyrene is made to carry it. 19–22: Irony continues as Pilate’s instructions for the trilingual placard, no doubt given to further antagonize the Jews, enables anyone who passes by to learn about Jesus’s divine kingship. 23–24: The seamless tunic was an undergarment. The quotation is from Ps 22.18. 25b In this Gospel, the women are near the cross, rather than watching “from afar” as in the Synoptic accounts. 25: Tradition varies over the naming of the women at the cross. While Jesus’s mother is not named (also the case in 2.1), she is accompanied by two Marys. It is not clear if her sister is also unnamed or whether she is the wife of Clopas. 26–27: A further indication of the special status of the disciple whom Jesus loved (see 1.40 n. and Introduction): he is given care over Jesus’s mother and becomes a member of the family (see 13.23n.). 28: Jesus’s thirst fulfills Ps 69.21. 29: In Ex 12.21–22, a branch of hyssop (a wild shrub) was dipped in the blood of the Passover lambs to mark the doors of the Hebrews for protection from death. 30: Finished indicates both the end of Jesus life and the completion of his earthly mission. He lays down his own life (10.18). 31–33: Day of Preparation, see 9.14n. Breaking the legs made it impossible to push the body up to forestall the death by asphyxiation that crucifixion entailed. 34: Blood and water are symbolic, perhaps of the slaughtered Passover lamb (see 1.29,36), and the living water of eternal life (4.13–14; 7.37–38). Some scholars see here a reference to the Eucharistic meal and to baptism. 35: He who saw this. Not the writer, but the source of the tradition, tells the truth.)³⁶ These things occurred so that the scripture might be fulfilled, “None of his bones shall be broken.”³⁷ And again another passage of scripture says, “They will look on the one whom they have pierced.”

³⁸ After these things, Joseph of Arimathea, who was a disciple of Jesus, though a secret one because of his fear of the Jews, asked Pilate to let him take away the body of Jesus. Pilate gave him permission; so he came and removed his body.³⁹ Nicodemus, who had at first come to Jesus by night, also came, bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes, weighing about a hundred pounds.⁴⁰ They took the body of Jesus and wrapped it with the spices in linen cloths, according to the burial custom of the Jews.⁴¹ Now there was a garden in the place where he was crucified, and in the garden there was a new tomb in which no one had ever been laid.⁴² And so, because it was the Jewish day of Preparation, and the tomb was nearby, they laid Jesus there.

20 Early on the first day of the week, while it was still dark, Mary Magdalene came to the tomb and saw that the stone had been removed from the tomb.² So she ran and went to Simon Peter and the other disciple, the one whom Jesus loved, and said to them, “They have taken the Lord out of the tomb, and we do not know where they have laid him.”³ Then Peter and the other disciple set out and went toward the tomb.⁴ The two were running together, but the other disciple outran Peter and reached the tomb first.⁵ He bent down to look in and saw the linen wrappings lying there, but he did not go in.⁶ Then Simon Peter came, following him, and went into the tomb. He saw the linen wrappings lying there,⁷ and the cloth that had been on Jesus’ head, not lying with the linen wrappings but rolled up in a place by itself.⁸ Then the other disciple, who reached the tomb first, also went in, and he saw and believed;⁹ for as yet they did not understand the scripture, that he must rise from the dead.¹⁰ Then the disciples returned to their homes.

¹¹ But Mary stood weeping outside the tomb. As she wept, she bent over to look^a into the tomb;¹² and she saw two angels in white, sitting where the body of Jesus had been lying, one at the head and the other at the feet.¹³ They said to her, “Woman, why are you weeping?” She said to them, “They have taken away my Lord, and I do not know where they have laid him.”¹⁴ When she had said this, she turned around and saw Jesus standing there, but she did not know that it was Jesus.¹⁵ Jesus said to her, “Woman, why are you weeping? Whom are you looking for?” Supposing him to be the gardener, she said to him, “Sir, if you have carried him away, tell me where you have laid him, and I will take him away.”¹⁶ Jesus said to her, “Mary!” She turned and said to him in Hebrew,^b “Rabbouni!” (which means Teacher).¹⁷ Jesus said to her, “Do not hold on to me, because I have not yet ascended to the Father. But go to my brothers and say to them, ‘I am ascending to my Father and your Father, to the Beloved Disciple (21.24). 36: Ex 12.46 and Num 9.12 of the Passover lamb, see also Ps 34.20; cf. Jn 1.29n. 37: Zech 12.10.

^a Gk lacks to look

^b That is, Aramaic

19.38–42: The burial of Jesus. Cf. Mt. 27.57–61; Mk 15.42–47; Lk 23.50–56. 38: Fear of the Jews, cf. 7.13; 12.42; and Introduction. 39: Nicodemus (3.2–10) brings an excessive amount of burial spices. 40–42: The details indicate an honorable burial.

20:1–18 Empty tomb and resurrection appearance to Mary. Cf. Mt 28; Mk 16; Lk 24. 1: First day, Sunday. In this Gospel, Mary Magdalene goes to the tomb alone. 2: The other disciple, see 1.40n. and Introduction. 3–10: The footrace and arrival at the tomb indicate a negotiated competition between Peter and the Beloved Disciple in which each gets an opportunity to be first (see 13.23–25; 21.20–22). 8–10: The anticlimactic return to their homes and failure to understand the scripture, that he must rise from the dead suggests that only the disciple saw and believed Mary’s claim that the tomb was empty (cf. Lk 24.8–11). Or, if the statement refers to resurrection belief, it points to a literary motif of idealizing the Beloved Disciple apart from the narrative events. 14–16: The scene resembles other recognition scenes in ancient Greek literature. Mary recognizes Jesus when he calls her by name (see 10.3). Rabbouni a variant of “rabbi” (1.38; 3.2; 11.28; 13.13). 17: Do not hold on to me, lit., “Don’t touch my God and your God.’”¹⁸ Mary Magdalene went and announced to the disciples, “I have seen the Lord”; and she told them that he had said these things to her.

¹⁹When it was evening on that day, the first day of the week, and the doors of the house where the disciples had met were locked for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood among them and said, “Peace be with you.”²⁰ After he said this, he showed them his hands and his side. Then the disciples rejoiced when they saw the Lord.²¹ Jesus said to them again, “Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, so I send you.”²² When he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, “Receive the Holy Spirit.²³ If you forgive the sins of any, they are forgiven them; if you retain the sins of any, they are retained.”

²⁴But Thomas (who was called the Twin^a), one of the twelve, was not with them when Jesus came.²⁵ So the other disciples told him, “We have seen the Lord.” But he said to them, “Unless I see the mark of the nails in his hands, and put my finger in the mark of the nails and my hand in his side, I will not believe.”

²⁶A week later his disciples were again in the house, and Thomas was with them. Although the doors were shut, Jesus came and stood among them and said, “Peace be with you.”²⁷ Then he said to Thomas, “Put your finger here and see my hands. Reach out your hand and put it in my side. Do not doubt but believe.”²⁸ Thomas answered him, “My Lord and my God!”²⁹ Jesus said to him, “Have you believed because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have come to believe.”

³⁰Now Jesus did many other signs in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book.³¹ But these are written so that you may come to believe^b that Jesus is the Messiah,^c the Son of God, and that through believing you may have life in his name.

21 After these things Jesus showed himself again to the disciples by the Sea of Tiberias; and he showed himself in this way.² Gathered there together were Simon Peter, Thomas called the Twin,³ Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, the sons of Zebedee, and two others of his disciples.³ Simon Peter said to them, “I am going fishing.” They said to him, “We will go with you.” They went out and got into the boat, but that night they caught nothing.

⁴Just after daybreak, Jesus stood on the beach; but the disciples did not know that it was Jesus.⁵ Jesus said to them, “Children,

^a Gk Didymus

^b Other ancient authorities read may continue to believe me,” perhaps because Jesus is in a liminal state before returning to the Father. 18: Only Mary is witness to Jesus’s revelation. Like the Samaritan woman, she witnesses to others about Jesus.

^c Or the Christ

20.19–29: Resurrection appearances to other disciples. 19: Fear of the Jews, cf. 9.22; 12.42 and Introduction. Peace be with you a traditional Jewish greeting (see Tob 12.17) that takes on additional significance in the Gospel given earlier words of Jesus (14.27; 16.33). 20: Another recognition scene, this time with the disciples (see 20.14–16n). Jesus’s hands . . . feet bearing the wounds of crucifixion are the means of recognition. 21: The disciples follow Jesus’s model of being agents sent into the world (see 17.18). 22: Breathed on them, cf. Gen 2.7. Receive the Holy Spirit (cf. 14.15–17,25–26; 15.26) 23: Perhaps related to the tradition in Mt 16.19; 18.18. Alternatively, because in the Greek text sins does not appear in the second half of the statement, the intent could be to emphasize forgiveness and holding on to community members (as in 17.12; 18.9). 24–29: The episode is unique to John’s Gospel. Thomas played an equally skeptical role earlier in the narrative (11.16; 14.5). 30: Commonly held to be the original conclusion of the book (see 21.1–25n). Did many other signs, perhaps indicative of the use of an earlier “signs” source. 31: You may come to believe, “you” is plural. The alternative manuscript tradition (see note b) suggests that the purpose of the Gospel is to strengthen the faith of existing believers.

21:1–25. Epilogue. Most scholars see this chapter as a later addition to the Gospel. Because all existing manuscripts contain this final chapter and the chapter shares the same style as the rest of the Gospel, some scholars see the concluding scenes as written by the same author. In either case, the chapter resolves issues related to Peter and the Beloved Disciple. 1: Sea of Tiberias, in Galilee (see 6.1n). 3: Simon Peter . . . fishing. John’s you have no fish, have you?” They answered him, “No.”⁶ He said to them, “Cast the net to the right side of the boat, and you will find some.” So they cast it, and now they were not able to haul it in because there were so many fish.⁷ That disciple whom Jesus loved said to Peter, “It is the Lord!” When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he put on some clothes, for he was naked, and jumped into the sea.⁸ But the other disciples came in the boat, dragging the net full of fish, for they were not far from the land, only about a hundred yards^a off.

⁹ When they had gone ashore, they saw a charcoal fire there, with fish on it, and bread.¹⁰ Jesus said to them, “Bring some of the fish that you have just caught.”¹¹ So Simon Peter went aboard and hauled the net ashore, full of large fish, a hundred fifty-three of them; and though there were so many, the net was not torn.¹² Jesus said to them, “Come and have breakfast.” Now none of the disciples dared to ask him, “Who are you?” because they knew it was the Lord.¹³ Jesus came and took the bread and gave it to them, and did the same with the fish.¹⁴ This was now the third time that Jesus appeared to the disciples after he was raised from the dead.

¹⁵ When they had finished breakfast, Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Simon son of John, do you love me more than these?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord; you know that I love you.” Jesus said to him, “Feed my lambs.”¹⁶ A second time he said to him, “Simon son of John, do you love me?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord; you know that I love you.” Jesus said to him, “Tend my sheep.”¹⁷ He said to him the third time, “Simon son of John,

do you love me?” Peter felt hurt because he said to him the third time, “Do you love me?” And he said to him, “Lord, you know everything; you know that I love you.” Jesus said to him, “Feed my sheep.”¹⁸ Very truly, I tell you, when you were younger, you used to fasten your own belt and to go wherever you wished. But when you grow old, you will stretch out your hands, and someone else will fasten a belt around you and take you where you do not wish to go.”¹⁹ (He said this to indicate the kind of death by which he would glorify God.) After this he said to him, “Follow me.”

²⁰ Peter turned and saw the disciple whom Jesus loved following them; he was the one who had reclined next to Jesus at the supper and had said, “Lord, who is it that is going to betray you?”²¹ When Peter saw him, he said to Jesus, “Lord, what about him?”²² Jesus said to him, “If it is my will that he remain until I come, what is that to you? Follow me!”²³ So the rumor spread in the community^b that this disciple would not die. Yet Jesus did not say to him that he would not die, but, “If it is my will that he remain until I come, what is that to you?”^c

²⁴ This is the disciple who is testifying to these things and has written them, and we know that his testimony is true.²⁵ But there are also many other things that Jesus did; if every one of them were written down, I suppose that the world itself could not contain the books that would be written.

^a Gk two hundred cubits

^b Gk among the brothers

^c Other ancient authorities lack what is that to you

Gospel did not describe Peter as a fisherman earlier (cf. Mk 1.16–20; Mt 4.18–22; Lk 5.1–10). 6–8: Another recognition scene (see 20.14–16,20). The sign of abundance reveals the presence of the Lord to the Beloved Disciple (see 1.40n. and Introduction) who communicates it to Peter. Compare the similar signs of abundance of wine (2.6–10), bread (6.5–13), and life (10.10). 11: A hundred fifty-three, the symbolic significance of the number is unclear. Perhaps inclusion of the detail is intended to authenticate the witness (see 21.24). 14: The third time, see 20.19–23,26–29. 15–17: Three questions to confirm Peter’s loyalty and reverse his three denials of discipleship (18.17,25–27). Feed my lambs suggests Peter’s carrying on of Jesus’s role as the good shepherd (10.11). 18–19: Like Jesus, Peter’s role as shepherd will include laying down his life. His death will glorify God as the death of Jesus did (12.16,23,28; 13.31–32). 20–23: The exchange suggests a rivalry between the Peter and the Beloved Disciple (cf. 20.3–10). 24: The disciple who is testifying likely refers to the Beloved Disciple, distinct from the actual writer. Note the first person “we” to refer to his testimony, as well as the implication that the disciple has already died (v. 23). 25: Second conclusion to the Gospel (see 20:30–31). Books that would be written, a conventional ending; see Eccl 12.12.

THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES

NAME

The anonymous author of the third Gospel and its sequel, the Acts of the Apostles, supplied no titles for these works. By the end of the second century CE this author was thought to be Luke, and his second volume was referred to as “Acts” in the sense of the “activities” or “deeds” of the apostles. As a descriptive title, however, Acts of the Apostles is a misnomer, since Peter is the only one of the twelve apostles whose deeds and speeches are recounted in detail. Paul, the subject of the second half of the book, refers to himself as an “apostle” in his letters but is not presented as such by Luke. Nevertheless, the title does capture an important concept of the book, namely, that the twelve apostles collectively assured the early church’s continuity with Jesus. In Luke’s view they did so because they had been witnesses to everything that happened during Jesus’s ministry, as well as to his resurrection (Acts 1.21–22; 10.39–41).

LOCATION IN CANON

Acts is the fifth book of the New Testament, immediately following the four Gospels. Although modern interpreters now understand Luke–Acts as a unified literary work in two parts, in the canonical arrangement the Gospel of John interrupts that sequence so that the first four books of the New Testament form the fourfold Gospel. Moreover, Luke’s two works never appear sequentially in any ancient manuscript, reflecting the same tendency to group the Gospels together. Consequently, in its canonical position, Acts connects the four Gospels to the collection of letters that follow, and its narrative focus, first on Peter and then on Paul, makes it an appropriate transition from the accounts about Jesus to the “apostolic” writings (Pauline letters and other authoritative writings, attributed to members of the twelve).

AUTHORSHIP

Although Acts nowhere identifies its author, by the end of the second century it was argued, as Irenaeus (ca. 180 CE) does, that Luke was the obvious candidate, and that attribution remains conventional today. This identification was based on the reference to a “Luke” in Philemon 24 and in two other letters attributed to Paul (Col 4.14; 2 Tim 4.11), in conjunction with passages in Acts in which the author seems to present himself as a traveling companion of Paul. Irenaeus pointed to these passages (Acts 16.10–17; 20.5–15; 21.1–18; 27.1–28.16), in which the text shifts from third-person to first-person plural narration, as proof that Luke had been Paul’s inseparable collaborator (Irenaeus, Adv. Haer. 3.14.1). Many modern scholars challenge the assumption that the “we” passages demonstrate personal familiarity with Paul. In fact, Luke’s larger narrative construction results in a presentation of Paul that is inconsistent with biographical and theological details in Paul’s own letters. For example, Luke’s denying Paul the formal status of “apostle” is almost unimaginable for an actual companion of Paul. In his letters Paul repeatedly claims to be one divinely called to be an apostle (e.g., Rom 1.1; 1 Cor 1.1; Gal 1.1), and he recognizes the existence of other apostles besides the twelve (1 Cor 15.5–7). Luke’s reluctance to use this term for Paul is connected to his view that only the twelve, who had been present with Jesus throughout his public activity (Acts 1.21–22), were apostles. This construction disqualifies Paul, even if Acts itself retains an echo of this contested status (14.4,14).

Although there is good reason to doubt that the evangelist Luke was a companion of Paul, it is clear that Luke greatly admired Paul and viewed his missionary career as decisive for establishing Christianity in Asia Minor and Greece. Indeed, Luke’s portrayal suggests that Paul’s fame and influence extended from Jerusalem to Rome. Luke was likely someone from the Pauline mission area who, several generations after Paul, addressed issues facing Christians who found themselves in circumstances quite different from those addressed by Paul himself. Precisely where Luke carried out this task is uncertain. Ancient tradition placed him in Antioch, but his obvious respect for Paul and the Pauline tradition might indicate that he was connected with one of the major cities of the Pauline mission around the Aegean Sea, such as Ephesus or Philippi.

DATE

According to its opening words, Acts was written after Luke’s Gospel, which scholarly consensus dates to 85–95 CE (though some arguments have been advanced for an early second-century date). The considerations on the relation between Luke and Paul just reviewed support a late first- or early second-century date. Discrepancies between the undisputed Pauline letters and the narrative about Paul in Acts (including Luke's restriction of the title "apostle" to the twelve) have long been recognized, and a temporal gap between letters written in the 50s CE and Acts written forty to fifty years later does much to clarify the situation. At the end of the first century Paul's image was undergoing revision (as is shown by the Pastoral Epistles; see 1 and 2 Tim; Titus, pp. 1725–44). For example, Luke does not hesitate to portray Paul as subject to Jewish law; this depiction is consistent with Luke's emphasis on the continuity between the history of Israel and of the church. Moreover, according to Luke it was not Paul's theological arguments but the conversion of Cornelius through Peter, ratified by the apostolic council (Acts 10.1–11.18), that established that Gentile Christians were not required to observe the law of Moses in its entirety. Such contradictions arise because Acts preserves an image of Paul from a period many decades after his death, and because Luke's rhetorical presentation addresses new issues for Christians of his day who lived in changed circumstances (e.g., the inclusion of the Gentiles was the major issue for Paul, while for Luke it is the retention of Jewish believers in community with them). Thus Paul's role in Acts is dictated not primarily by actual biographical details but rather by the needs of Luke's theology and the social circumstances of his readers.

LITERARY HISTORY

Luke gives no information about the sources upon which the narrative presented in Acts is based. He appears to have relied on a mixture of traditional information uncovered by his own investigation (see Lk 1.3) and his imagination about how the founding events unfolded in Jerusalem and reverberated throughout the Mediterranean world. Like most Greek historians, whom Luke imitates in part, Luke supplemented his narrative with speeches appropriate to significant occasions. These speeches, which amount to nearly one-third of the total text, are Luke's own literary creations, inserted into the narrative to instruct the reader by making explicit the theological implications of the narrative. They also serve to demonstrate Luke's view of the unity of the earliest Christian preaching (i.e., Peter and Paul preach the same message), even as they present Luke's own interpretation of the "events" (Lk 1.1) surrounding the emergence of the church. Scholars have attempted to identify traditional material and sources behind Luke's account in Acts, but no consensus has emerged from these efforts. To the extent that Luke did use preexisting sources and traditions, his rewriting of them leaves few clues about what they were. While scholars previously have made much of Luke's apparent lack of use of Paul's letters, some now believe that Luke in fact was familiar with at least a selection of them. It may be that Luke used Paul's letters in a way most appropriate to his narrative genre: not by quoting them but by more generally incorporating their information as an aid in fashioning his picture of Paul and the early church.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

The book of Acts tells a dramatic story of the birth and expansion of the church from the time of the ascension of Jesus until the arrival of Paul in Rome. The plot line of Acts begins with Jesus's ascent to heaven. The narrative first portrays the life and dynamic growth of the early community in Jerusalem, energized by the Spirit and led by Peter and the other apostles up through the martyrdom of Stephen (chs 1–7). The persecution initiated with Stephen's death results in missionary activity outside Jerusalem highlighted by approaches to non-Jews by Philip (ch 8). After narrating the conversion of Saul (ch 9), Luke presents Peter as the individual through whom God establishes the inclusion of the Gentiles (10.1–11.18). Next, the early missionary tour of Barnabas and Saul/Paul on behalf of Antioch is narrated (11.19–14.28), along with a story about Peter's miraculous escape from death (ch 12). The center of the book recounts the apostolic council's approval of the acceptance of Gentile believers and the limited application of Jewish ritual practices to them in the so-called apostolic decree (ch 15). Then Paul's further missionary travels are depicted in Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens, Corinth, Ephesus, Miletus, Caesarea, and Jerusalem (15.36–21.26). Finally, the book recounts Paul's arrest, imprisonment, and trials in Jerusalem and Caesarea, and his transfer to Rome (21.27–28.31), closing with the uplifting image of Paul, while under house arrest, preaching and teaching without hindrance in the capital city of the empire.

INTERPRETATION

Written from the perspective of the late first or early second century CE, Acts is the only document from the earliest Christian period to offer a narrative sequel to the accounts of Jesus's words and deeds found in the Gospels. Its author had already produced his Gospel (Acts 1.1–2). His purpose in writing a second volume was more than a matter of antiquarian interest, although Acts can be compared with Hellenistic historical monographs. This account was intended to give Christians of his day an unshakable confidence in their future through an instructive survey of their past. In carrying out that overarching purpose, Acts addresses social and theological problems brought about by the church's relationship to its Jewish heritage and its Greco-Roman cultural and political environment. Luke sought to clarify both how the church was faithful to the God of the Jewish scriptures and how Christianity was not incompatible with the civic order and morality of the cities of the Roman Empire. Luke devotes half of the narrative to Paul, constructing for Christians of the era after Paul an image of this important figure consistent with the stance taken on Jewish and Roman concerns in the book. Beginning with Irenaeus and especially with Eusebius (d. ca. 339 CE), Christian readers drew on Acts more strictly as a historical account or for information useful for solving later theological problems, no longer observing how in Acts Luke specifically addressed the situation of his original audience with a rhetorical presentation. Moreover, such later uses were aided and abetted by the later canonical arrangement of Luke's works, which gives no indication that his two books were to be read as an interrelated pair. Thus, for most readers ancient and modern, Acts has been viewed not as a supplement to Luke's Gospel in particular, as its introduction suggests, but to the Gospels in general.

For Luke, who was likely a Gentile Christian (though a few scholars contend that he was a Diaspora Jew), God's promises made to the ancient people of God required the church to stand in continuity with Israel. But since most Jews did not accept Jesus as the Messiah, and since the increasingly Gentile Christian community ceased to observe Jewish ritual, this historical continuity had been called into question. Luke responds to this development by depicting the earliest Christians as faithful Jews in Jerusalem until persecution pushed them out. Then, by means of multiple elaborations of the Cornelius episode (10.1–48; 11.1–18; 15.7–9) and of the story of Paul's conversion (9.1–19; 22.4–16; 26.9–18), he demonstrates that the entrance of Gentiles into the church was nothing less than an act of God, and so by definition in continuity with Israel's history. It is highly significant, however, that Luke's ideal Gentile convert is one who continues to practice some elements of Jewish piety (10.2), and that Gentile Christians are urged to adhere to conduct that would permit association with Jews (15.20). Luke's portrayal of Paul's visits to synagogues and his Jewish lifestyle serve to reinforce this maintaining of continuity with Jewish roots. All of these rhetorical moves have implications for the composition of Luke's audience, which one might reasonably expect to have been a mixed Jewish-Gentile group, even if the former were in the minority.

Apart from any value Acts has as history, it is an important example of early Christian theology. Luke develops the idea of the church as a historical entity with its own distinctive era. Moreover, the earliest church, by being confined to Jerusalem, was set apart from the church of Luke's day. The ideal and unrepeatable structures of the early community resulted from the presence of the twelve apostles and eyewitnesses. Luke's concern to highlight the continuity between Israel and the church is expressed by the continued observance of Jewish practices in the early period, implicitly in contrast to Luke's later situation. The gap between Luke's generation and the earlier time is bridged by the endorsement of the Gentile mission in the deliberations of the apostolic council and the promulgation of the apostolic decree (15.20,29; 21.25). The latter pronouncement may have been of practical value for Luke's community by creating the conditions necessary to allow table fellowship between Jewish and Gentile Christians. Luke's portrayal of Christianity's close ties to Judaism and thus as possessing a venerable heritage (24.14) also bolsters his appeal to Roman officials not to concern themselves with internal religious disputes (25.19,20). Acts portrays influential Romans expressing interest in Christianity (13.12; 19.31), or at least concluding that it posed no threat to the state (18.15; 19.37; 23.29; 25.25; 26.32). In this way Luke demonstrates the nonsubversive nature of the church, possibly in an effort to convince elites of his own day that their membership in the Christian community was not incompatible with their status as Roman citizens. Luke's argument is designed for internal consumption; it was neither intended to persuade non-Christians nor would it have been likely to do so.

Narrative elements promoting continuity within the church itself are the descriptions of the church's proclamation and teaching about Jesus and the constant presence of the Spirit as the prime mover at crucial junctures in early Christian history (e.g., 8.29; 10.19; 16.6–7). Yet in Acts it is God who occupies the dominant place. Jesus is described as a man whom God legitimated by mighty works, wonders, and signs (2.22). Interpretation of Jesus's death as atoning occurs only once in an expression taken over from earlier tradition (20.28). The focal point of salvation is the resurrection, which is viewed as the turning point of history. The combination of all of these features allows Luke to portray the successful expansion of the early Christian mission throughout the Roman Empire under the direction of the Spirit according to the purpose of God.

Christopher R. Matthews

1 In the first book, Theophilus, I wrote about all that Jesus did and taught from the beginning² until the day when he was taken up to heaven, after giving instructions through the Holy Spirit to the apostles whom he had chosen.³ After his suffering he presented himself alive to them by many convincing proofs, appearing to them during forty days and speaking about the kingdom of God.⁴ While staying^a with them, he ordered them not to leave Jerusalem, but to wait there for the promise of the Father. “This,” he said, “is what you have heard from me; ⁵for John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with^b the Holy Spirit not many days from now.”

⁶So when they had come together, they asked him, “Lord, is this the time when you will restore the kingdom to Israel?” ⁷He replied, “It is not for you to know the times or periods that the Father has set by his own authority.⁸ But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth.”

⁹When he had said this, as they were watching, he was lifted up, and a cloud took him out of their sight.¹⁰ While he was going and they were gazing up toward heaven, suddenly two men in white robes stood by them.¹¹ They said, “Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking up toward heaven? This Jesus, who has been taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you saw him go into heaven.”

¹²Then they returned to Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is near Jerusalem, a sabbath day's journey away.¹³ When they had entered the city, they went to the

^a Or eating

^b Or by

1.1–14: Introduction and summary. The author (hereafter, “Luke”) summarizes information from the first book, the Gospel of Luke. 1: Theophilus, “dear to God”; perhaps a patron sponsoring publication of the two books (note the respectful address “most excellent” in Lk 1.3), or symbolic for any ideal reader. An opening dedication and reference to previous work is a common pattern in ancient literature. 3: Examples of the many convincing proofs are given in Lk 24.13–53. Appearing to them during forty days, note that Lk 24.50–53 seems to place the ascension on Easter; forty, a symbolic number in the Bible frequently used for important transitions (e.g., Gen 7.12; Ex 24.18; Num 14.23), and here parallels the beginning of Jesus's ministry (Lk 4.2). Kingdom of God stands for the Christian proclamation (8.12; 19.8; 20.25) and indicates continuity with the teaching of Jesus (Lk 4.43; 8.1; 9.2,11). 4: The Gk word translated staying means “to eat at the same table with” (see note a) and likely refers to Lk 24.30,31,35,41–43. Promise of the Father, that is, the Spirit; see Lk 11.13; 24.49. The promise is fulfilled in Acts 2.1–4 (see 2.33). Jerusalem, Luke locates all of the significant founding events in this holy city; the other Gospels report resurrection appearances in Galilee. 5: John the Baptist, Lk 3.1–20. The Holy Spirit is one of the major characters of Acts. 6–11: The ascension, cf. Lk 24.44–51. 6: The apostles suppose that Jesus intends to restore the kingdom to Israel (Lk 22.28–30) and reestablish the dominion once enjoyed by David (Lk 1.32). 7: The nationalistic tenor of the question is deflected. 8: The theme of the apostles as witnesses (Lk 24.48) recurs often (1.22; 2.32; 3.15; 5.32; 10.39,41; 13.31). Jerusalem . . . Judea . . . Samaria . . . the ends of the earth, the progress of the mission is given in geographical terms (8.38n.). 9: Elsewhere in the New Testament the ascension is found only in Lk 24.51 (cf. Mk 16.19). 10: Two men in white robes, angels (24.4; Jn 20.12); in Lk 9.30 the two men are Moses and Elijah. There are other parallels between Luke's Transfiguration account (Lk 9.28–36) and the ascension scene. 11: Will come in the same way, note the cloud in v. 9; Lk 21.27; cf. Mk 14.62; Dan 7.13. 12: Olivet, the Mount of Olives is just east of Jerusalem. A sabbath day's journey, about 3,000 ft. (1,000 m.), the distance permissible for an observant Jew to walk on the sabbath (b. Eruv. 51a) without breaking the command not to leave one's “place” on the sabbath (Ex 6.29). 13: The same list as in Lk 6.14–16, but in a different order (and without Judas room upstairs where they were staying, Peter, and John, and James, and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James son of Alphaeus, and Simon the Zealot, and Judas son of^a James.¹⁴ All these were constantly devoting themselves to prayer, together with certain women, including Mary the mother of Jesus, as well as his brothers.

¹⁵ In those days Peter stood up among the believers^b (together the crowd numbered about one hundred twenty persons) and said,¹⁶ “Friends,^c the scripture had to be fulfilled, which the Holy Spirit through David foretold concerning Judas, who became a guide for those who arrested Jesus—¹⁷ for he was numbered among us and was allotted his share in this ministry.”¹⁸ (Now this man acquired a field with the reward of his wickedness; and falling headlong,^d he burst open in the middle and all his bowels gushed out.¹⁹ This became known to all the residents of Jerusalem, so that the field was called in their language Hakeldama, that is, Field of Blood.)²⁰ “For it is written in the book of Psalms,

‘Let his homestead become desolate,
and let there be no one to live in it’;
and

‘Let another take his position of overseer.’

²¹ So one of the men who have accompanied us during all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us,²² beginning from the baptism of John until the day when he was taken up from us—one of these must become a witness with us to his resurrection.”²³ So they proposed two, Joseph called Barsabbas, who was also known as Justus, and Matthias.²⁴ Then they prayed and said, “Lord, you know everyone’s heart. Show us which one of these two you have chosen²⁵ to take the place^e in this ministry and apostleship from which Judas turned aside to go to his own place.”²⁶ And they cast lots for them, and the lot fell on Matthias; and he was added to the eleven apostles.

2 When the day of Pentecost had come, they were all together in one place.² And suddenly from heaven there came a sound like the rush of a violent wind, and it filled the entire house where they were sitting.³ Divided tongues, as of fire, appeared among them, and a tongue rested on each of them.⁴ All of them were filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in other languages, as the Spirit gave them ability.

^a Or the brother of

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk Men, brothers

^d Or swelling up

^e Other ancient authorities read the share

Iscariot). 14: Jesus’s family is incorporated into the church. Brothers, see Mt 13.55; Mk 6.3; James later appears as the leader of the Jerusalem church (12.17; 15.13; 21.18; Gal 2.9, 12).

15–26: The restoration of the twelve. The selection of Matthias restores the number of apostles to twelve, corresponding to the twelve tribes of Israel. 16: Through David, in the psalms quoted in v. 20; King David was traditionally viewed as the author of the Psalms. Judas, see Lk 22.3–6, 47–48. 17: Us, the twelve apostles. 18: Compare the gruesome death of Herod Agrippa in 12.23. According to Mt 27.5, Judas hanged himself. 19: Their language, Aramaic, a language closely related to Hebrew; the information is clearly for Luke’s Gk readers, not Peter’s Aramaic-speaking audience. 20: Scripture foresaw the situation (Ps 69.25) and dictates a course of action (Ps 109.8). In Acts, citations from the Hebrew Bible are based on the Gk version, the Septuagint. 21: The requirements stipulated here explain why Paul does not qualify as an apostle in Acts. 22: The baptism of John (Lk 3.1–21) marks the beginning of Jesus’s ministry (10.37). To become a witness . . . to Jesus’s resurrection in Acts means to become one of the twelve apostles, who function in a special sense as witnesses (v. 8; 2.32). 23: Nothing else is known about Joseph and Matthias. 24: Know . . . heart, see Lk 9.47; Acts 15.8. 26: Cast lots, allowing the “Lord” (v. 24; Jesus, or perhaps God) to choose. Lots were widely used in the ancient world for religious and social decisions and are often mentioned in the Hebrew Bible (e.g., Lev 16.8; 1 Sam 10.20–21; 1 Chr 25.8).

2.1–41: The day of Pentecost. The Feast of Weeks or Pentecost (Lev 23.15–21), the spring wheat harvest, falls fifty days after Passover. In Jewish tradition the law was given at Mt. Sinai on this day. 1–13: The coming of the Holy Spirit. 2: Rush of a violent wind, perhaps an allusion to Gen 1.2 (“while a mighty wind swept over the face of the waters” [alternate version]), though this and other features here are typical of theophanies—manifestations of God (Ex 19.16–19; 1 Kings 19.11; Isa 66.15). 3: John the Baptist had predicted a baptism “with the Holy Spirit and fire” (Lk 3.16; Mt 3.11; cf. Mk 1.8; Jn 1.33). 4: This baptism (1.5) or filling with the Spirit is clearly

2.9–11: The native lands of Pentecost pilgrims.

⁵ Now there were devout Jews from every nation under heaven living in Jerusalem. ⁶ And at this sound the crowd gathered and was bewildered, because each one heard them speaking in the native language of each. ⁷ Amazed and astonished, they asked, “Are not all these who are speaking Galileans?” ⁸ And how is it that we hear, each of us, in our own native language? ⁹ Parthians, Medes, Elamites, and residents of Mesopotamia, Judea and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, ¹⁰ Phrygia and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of Libya belonging to Cyrene, and visitors from Rome, both Jews and proselytes, ¹¹ Cretans and Arabs—in our own languages we hear them speaking about God’s deeds of power.” ¹² All were amazed and perplexed, saying to one another, “What does this mean?” ¹³ But others sneered and said, “They are filled with new wine.”

¹⁴ But Peter, standing with the eleven, raised his voice and addressed them, “Men of Judea and all who live in Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and listen to what I say. ¹⁵ Indeed, these are not drunk, as you suppose, for it is only nine o’clock in the morning.

¹⁶ No, this is what was spoken through the prophet Joel:

¹⁷ ‘In the last days it will be, God declares, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, foundational for Acts but is not referred to elsewhere in the New Testament (but cf. Jn 20.22). 5: Devout Jews from every nation, emphasizing the universal character of the Pentecost event. 6: The other languages (v. 4) are foreign languages, not the “tongues” of 1 Cor 14.1–33. Perhaps the author thinks of a reversal of the confusion of languages at the tower of Babel (Gen 11.1–9). 9–11: The list of countries and races, generally moving from east to west, suggests universal participation in the Pentecost event. 10: Proselytes, full converts to Judaism. 13: Filled with new wine, i.e., drunk (v. 15). 14–36: Peter’s sermon. Like other Hellenistic historians Luke provides characters with speeches appropriate to their circumstances. These may use traditional material but also convey Luke’s viewpoint. The speeches use the same biblical style reminiscent of the Septuagint in which Luke has written the early chapters of Acts. 14: Peter remains the spokesman for the twelve apostles (1.15); individualized actions by the others are not portrayed in Acts. 16: The event is interpreted as a fulfillment of scripture. 17: In the last days

- and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams.
- ¹⁸ Even upon my slaves, both men and women,
in those days I will pour out my Spirit;
and they shall prophesy.
- ¹⁹ And I will show portents in the heaven above and signs on the earth below, blood, and fire, and smoky mist.
- ²⁰ The sun shall be turned to darkness and the moon to blood, before the coming of the Lord's great and glorious day.
- ²¹ Then everyone who calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved.'
- ²² "You that are Israelites,^a listen to what I have to say: Jesus of Nazareth,^b a man attested to you by God with deeds of power, wonders, and signs that God did through him among you, as you yourselves know—²³ this man, handed over to you according to the definite plan and foreknowledge of God, you crucified and killed by the hands of those outside the law. ²⁴ But God raised him up, having freed him from death,^c because it was impossible for him to be held in its power. ²⁵ For David says concerning him,
'I saw the Lord always before me,
for he is at my right hand so that I will not be shaken;
²⁶ therefore my heart was glad, and my tongue rejoiced;
moreover my flesh will live in hope.
²⁷ For you will not abandon my soul to Hades, or let your Holy One experience corruption.
²⁸ You have made known to me the ways of life;
- you will make me full of gladness with your presence.'
- ²⁹ "Fellow Israelites,^d I may say to you confidently of our ancestor David that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. ³⁰ Since he was a prophet, he knew that God had sworn with an oath to him that he would put one of his descendants on his throne. ³¹ Foreseeing this, David^e spoke of the resurrection of the Messiah,^f saying,
'He was not abandoned to Hades, nor did his flesh experience corruption.'
- ³² This Jesus God raised up, and of that all of us are witnesses. ³³ Being therefore exalted at^g the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you both see and hear. ³⁴ For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he himself says,
'The Lord said to my Lord,
'Sit at my right hand,
³⁵ until I make your enemies your footstool.'"
- ³⁶ Therefore let the entire house of Israel know with certainty that God has made him both Lord and Messiah,^h this Jesus whom you crucified."
- ³⁷ Now when they heard this, they were cut to the heart and said to Peter and to the other apostles, "Brothers,^d what should we do?"
- ³⁸ Peter said to them, "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus

^a Gk Men, Israelites

^b Gk the Nazorean

^c Gk the pains of death

^d Gk Men, brothers

^e Gk he

^f Or the Christ

^g Or by

^h Or Christ

is added to the beginning of the quotation of Joel 2.28–32. 22: A man, Luke does not think of the incarnation of a divine being. Deeds of power, wonders, and signs, biblical language (e.g., Deut 4.34; 6.22; 26.8) used often in Acts. 23: The crucifixion of Jesus by Jews and Gentiles was part of a plan, see Lk 22.22; 24.26; Acts 4.27–28. 25: Ps 16.8–11. David, see 1.16n. 29: His tomb, see, e.g., Josephus, Ant. 7.392–94. 30: 2 Sam 7.12–13; Ps 132.11. 31: The Messiah is assumed to come from the line of David (cf. Rom 1.3). 32: Witnesses, see 1.22n. 33: Exalted, a reference to the ascension. The promise, see 1.4n. 34–35: Ps 110.1, like Ps 16.8–11 (vv. 25,31), here also refers not to David but to Jesus. It was widely used in early Christian thought about Jesus (Mk 12.36; 1 Cor 15.25; Heb 1.13). 36: Made him both Lord and Messiah, apparently at the resurrection. This “adoptionist” Christology appears to conflict with Luke’s account of Jesus’s baptism (Lk 3.21–22); see 10.38n. Such tensions in Acts may indicate the use of sources with contrasting viewpoints. 37–41: The call to repentance. 37: Lk 3.10. 38: Here the gift of the Spirit Christ so that your sins may be forgiven; and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.

³⁹For the promise is for you, for your children, and for all who are far away, everyone whom the Lord our God calls to him.” ⁴⁰And he testified with many other arguments and exhorted them, saying, “Save yourselves from this corrupt generation.” ⁴¹So those who welcomed his message were baptized, and that day about three thousand persons were added. ⁴²They devoted themselves to the apostles’ teaching and fellowship, to the breaking of bread and the prayers.

⁴³Awe came upon everyone, because many wonders and signs were being done by the apostles. ⁴⁴All who believed were together and had all things in common; ⁴⁵they would sell their possessions and goods and distribute the proceeds^a to all, as any had need. ⁴⁶Day by day, as they spent much time together in the temple, they broke bread at home^b and ate their food with glad and generous^c hearts, ⁴⁷praising God and having the goodwill of all the people. And day by day the Lord added to their number those who were being saved.

3 One day Peter and John were going up to the temple at the hour of prayer, at three o’clock in the afternoon. ²And a man lame from birth was being carried in. People would lay him daily at the gate of the temple called the Beautiful Gate so that he could ask for alms from those entering the temple. ³When he saw Peter and John about to go into the temple, he asked them for alms. ⁴Peter looked intently at him, as did John, and said, “Look at us.” ⁵And he fixed his attention on them, expecting to receive something from them. ⁶But Peter said, “I have no silver or gold, but what I have I give you; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth,^d stand up and walk.” ⁷And he took him by the right hand and raised him up; and immediately his feet and ankles were made strong. ⁸Jumping up, he stood and began to walk, and he entered the temple with them, walking and leaping and praising God. ⁹All the people saw him walking and praising God, ¹⁰and they recognized him as the one who used to sit and ask for alms at the Beautiful Gate of the temple; and they were filled with wonder and amazement at what had happened to him.

¹¹While he clung to Peter and John, all the people ran together to them in the portico

^a Gk them

^b Or from house to house

^c Or sincere

^d Gk the Nazorean

follows baptism, but there is variety elsewhere (8.16; 10.44; 18.26; 19.5–6). 39: Isa 57.19; Joel 2.32. All who are far away, the universal nature of the church is clear from the beginning (cf. Lk 2.32). 41: Three thousand persons were added, illustrating the phenomenal success of Peter’s speech.

2.42–47: Life in the first Christian community. (The terms “Christian” and “Christianity” are used here for convenience, but strictly speaking are inaccurate for the time portrayed in the narrative; Luke knows the term “Christians” but does not adopt it as his own designation for believers; see 9.2n.; 11.25–26n.) 42: The breaking of bread (see v. 46) describes both a common Christian meal (e.g., 20.7,11) and the Lord’s Supper (27.33–38; cf. 1 Cor 11.17–34). 43–47: Luke portrays life in the early Jerusalem community as a golden age, to provide a moral lesson for his own readers. 43: By performing wonders and signs the apostles fulfill Joel’s prophecy (2.19) and imitate Jesus (2.22). 44–45: The ideal use of possessions and money illustrates the proper response to the preaching of Jesus on this subject in the Gospel (see Lk 6.20; 12.13–21,33–34; 14.12–24,33). For community of goods in the Dead Sea Scrolls, see 1QS 1.11–12; cf. Josephus, J.W. 2.122 on the Essenes. 46: Members of the growing Christian group are simultaneously devout Jews who remain close to the temple.

3.1–10: Peter’s healing miracle in the Temple. An illustration of the apostles’ “wonders and signs” (2.43). 1: The apostles center their activity in the temple (see 2.46) and so imitate Jesus’s practice in Jerusalem (note the distinctive portrayal in Lk 20–21). John appears here and elsewhere with Peter but with no individualized role. Three o’clock in the afternoon, when sacrifice was offered with prayer (Ex 29.39; Lev 6.20; Josephus, Ant. 14.65). 2: The Beautiful Gate, perhaps the Nicanor Gate of Corinthian bronze on the east side of the Temple; see Josephus, J.W. 5.201. 6: The name is an important concept in Acts (v. 16; 2.21,38), as 4.7–12 will underline (see also 4.17,18,30; 10.43; 19.13).

3.11–26: Peter’s explanation. In a second sermon Peter links Jesus with the patriarchs and Moses. 11: Solomon’s Portico, a colonnade located by Josephus (J.W. 5.185; Ant. 20.221) on the east side of the Temple.

called Solomon's Portico, utterly astonished.¹² When Peter saw it, he addressed the people, "You Israelites,^a why do you wonder at this, or why do you stare at us, as though by our own power or piety we had made him walk?"¹³ The God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, the God of our ancestors has glorified his servant^b Jesus, whom you handed over and rejected in the presence of Pilate, though he had decided to release him.¹⁴ But you rejected the Holy and Righteous One and asked to have a murderer given to you,¹⁵ and you killed the Author of life, whom God raised from the dead. To this we are witnesses.¹⁶ And by faith in his name, his name itself has made this man strong, whom you see and know; and the faith that is through Jesus^c has given him this perfect health in the presence of all of you.

¹⁷ "And now, friends,^d I know that you acted in ignorance, as did also your rulers.¹⁸ In this way God fulfilled what he had foretold through all the prophets, that his Messiah^e would suffer.¹⁹ Repent therefore, and turn to God so that your sins may be wiped out,²⁰ so that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Messiah^f appointed for you, that is, Jesus,²¹ who must remain in heaven until the time of universal restoration that God announced long ago through his holy prophets.²² Moses said, 'The Lord your God will raise up for you from your own people^d a prophet like me. You must listen to whatever he tells you.'²³ And it will be that everyone who does not listen to that prophet will be utterly rooted out of the people.'²⁴ And all the prophets, as many as have spoken, from Samuel and those after him, also predicted these days.²⁵ You are the descendants of the prophets and of the covenant that God gave to your ancestors, saying to Abraham, 'And in your descendants all the families of the earth shall be blessed.'²⁶ When God raised up his servant,^b he sent him first to you, to bless you by turning each of you from your wicked ways."

4 While Peter and John^g were speaking to the people, the priests, the captain of the temple, and the Sadducees came to them,² much annoyed because they were teaching the people and proclaiming that in Jesus there is the resurrection of the dead.³ So they arrested them and put them in custody until the next day, for it was already evening.⁴ But many of those who heard the word believed; and they numbered about five thousand.

⁵ The next day their rulers, elders, and scribes assembled in Jerusalem,⁶ with Annas the high priest, Caiaphas, John,^h and Alexander, and all who were of the high-priestly family.⁷ When they had made the prisonersⁱ stand in their midst, they inquired, "By what

^a Gk Men, Israelites

^b Or child

^c Gk him

^d Gk brothers

^e Or his Christ

^f Or the Christ

^g Gk While they

^h Other ancient authorities read Jonathan

ⁱ Gk them

13: The word servant recalls Isa 52.13 and the suffering servant of the Lord (4.27; 8.30–35). Pilate, Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor of Judea, who sentenced Jesus to death (Lk 3.1; 23.24). Roman responsibility for the death of Jesus is downplayed here as in Lk 23.4,14–16,20–25; contrast Acts 4.27. 14: A murderer, Barabbas (Lk 23.18–19). 15: Author, the Gk word can mean "pioneer" or "founder" (of a new city); in 5.31 it is translated "Leader" (cf. Heb 2.10; 12.2). The testimony of the witnesses is again emphasized (1.22n.). 16: Name, see v. 6n. 17: You acted in ignorance, mitigating the guilt emphasized in vv. 13–15 (see 4.10). Compare 14.16 and 17.30. 18: The necessity that the Messiah would suffer was foretold, see Lk 24.25–27,46; Acts 17.2–3; 26.22–23. Recall the "plan" of 2.23. 19: Lk 3.3. 22: 7.37. Jesus is successor of Moses (Deut 18.15) as well as David. 23: Deut 18.19; Lev 23.29. 24: These days, i.e., the last days (2.17). 25: Gen 12.3; 18.18; 22.18. 26: First to you, implying the later mission to the Gentiles.

4.1–22: Arrest and release of Peter and John. The first of many incidents in which the apostles defend the faith before the authorities. 1–2: Captain of the temple, the officer in charge of the temple police. Sadducees, a circle composed of priestly and lay nobility who according to Luke denied the resurrection of the dead (23.6–8). 3: It was not legal to hold a judicial inquiry at night. 4: Five thousand, the rapid growth of the community of believers continues (see 2.41). This is a recurrent theme in Acts, typically occurring in the face of opposition. 5–6: Perhaps the rulers are priests; with the elders and scribes they made up the Sanhedrin, or council (v. 15), of power or by what name did you do this?”

⁸Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, “Rulers of the people and elders, ⁹if we are questioned today because of a good deed done to someone who was sick and are asked how this man has been healed, ¹⁰let it be known to all of you, and to all the people of Israel, that this man is standing before you in good health by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, ^a whom you crucified, whom God raised from the dead. ¹¹This Jesus^b is

‘the stone that was rejected by you, the builders;

it has become the cornerstone.’^c

¹²There is salvation in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given among mortals by which we must be saved.”

¹³Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John and realized that they were uneducated and ordinary men, they were amazed and recognized them as companions of Jesus. ¹⁴When they saw the man who had been cured standing beside them, they had nothing to say in opposition. ¹⁵So they ordered them to leave the council while they discussed the matter with one another. ¹⁶They said, “What will we do with them? For it is obvious to all who live in Jerusalem that a notable sign has been done through them; we cannot deny it. ¹⁷But to keep it from spreading further among the people, let us warn them to speak no more to anyone in this name.” ¹⁸So they called them and ordered them not to speak or teach at all in the name of Jesus. ¹⁹But Peter and John answered them, “Whether it is right in God’s sight to listen to you rather than to God, you must judge; ²⁰for we cannot keep from speaking about what we have seen and heard.” ²¹After threatening them again, they let them go, finding no way to punish them because of the people, for all of them praised God for what had happened. ²²For the man on whom this sign of healing had been performed was more than forty years old.

²³After they were released, they went to their friends^d and reported what the chief priests and the elders had said to them.

²⁴When they heard it, they raised their voices together to God and said, “Sovereign Lord, who made the heaven and the earth, the sea, and everything in them, ²⁵it is you who said by the Holy Spirit through our ancestor David, your servant:^e

‘Why did the Gentiles rage, and the peoples imagine vain things?’

²⁶The kings of the earth took their stand, and the rulers have gathered together against the Lord and against his Messiah.’^f

²⁷For in this city, in fact, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and the peoples of Israel, gathered together against your holy servant^g Jesus, whom you anointed, ²⁸to do whatever your hand and your plan had predestined to take place. ²⁹And now, Lord, look at their threats, and grant to your servants^g to speak your word with all boldness, ³⁰while you stretch out your hand to heal, and signs and wonders are performed through the name of your holy servant^h Jesus.” ³¹When

^a Gk the Nazorean

^b Gk This

^c Or keystone

^d Gk their own

^e Or child

^f Or his Christ

^g Gk slaves

^h Or child

which the high priest was head. Annas held this office from 6–15 CE; Caiaphas was his son-in-law (Jn 18.13) and became high priest in 18 CE (Lk 3.2); John may be Jonathan, the son of Annas who succeeded Caiaphas in 37 CE. 8–12: A condensed version of the speeches in chs 2, 3, 10, and 13. The scene in v. 8 represents the fulfillment of Jesus’s promise in Lk 12.12; compare the prediction of Lk 21.15. 11: Ps 118.22 was popular in Christian arguments (Mt 21.42; Mk 12.10; Lk 20.17; 1 Pet 2.7). 12: No other name underlines the answer (v. 10) to the question posed (v. 7) about the name; see 3.6,16; 4.17,18,30. 13: Boldness, this word and its cognates are used often in Acts and connote frank and courageous speech (e.g., 9.27–28; 13.46; 18.26). Uneducated and ordinary men, lacking legal training. 19: The reply here and in 5.29 is reminiscent of Socrates’s famous words (Plato, Apology 29d).

4.23–31: Prayer of the community. 24: Ps 146.6. 25–26: Ps 2.1–2. 27: Servant, see 3.13n.; the same term is used of David in v. 25. Herod, Herod Antipas, Lk 3.1n.; 23.12. Pontius Pilate, see 3.13n. 28: See 2.23n.; 3.18. 29: Look at their threats, a prayer to be shielded from harm. 31: The place . . . was shaken, indicating that the prayer was heard (cf. 16.25–26).

they had prayed, the place in which they were gathered together was shaken; and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke the word of God with boldness.

³² Now the whole group of those who believed were of one heart and soul, and no one claimed private ownership of any possessions, but everything they owned was held in common. ³³ With great power the apostles gave their testimony to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and great grace was upon them all. ³⁴ There was not a needy person among them, for as many as owned lands or houses sold them and brought the proceeds of what was sold.

³⁵ They laid it at the apostles' feet, and it was distributed to each as any had need.

³⁶ There was a Levite, a native of Cyprus, Joseph, to whom the apostles gave the name Barnabas (which means "son of encouragement"). ³⁷ He sold a field that belonged to him, then brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

5 But a man named Ananias, with the consent of his wife Sapphira, sold a piece of property; ² with his wife's knowledge, he kept back some of the proceeds, and brought only a part and laid it at the apostles' feet. ³ "Ananias," Peter asked, "why has Satan filled your heart to lie to the Holy Spirit and to keep back part of the proceeds of the land? ⁴ While it remained unsold, did it not remain your own? And after it was sold, were not the proceeds at your disposal? How is it that you have contrived this deed in your heart? You did not lie to us^a but to God!" ⁵ Now when Ananias heard these words, he fell down and died. And great fear seized all who heard of it.

⁶ The young men came and wrapped up his body,^b then carried him out and buried him.

⁷ After an interval of about three hours his wife came in, not knowing what had happened. ⁸ Peter said to her, "Tell me whether you and your husband sold the land for such and such a price." And she said, "Yes, that was the price." ⁹ Then Peter said to her, "How is it that you have agreed together to put the Spirit of the Lord to the test? Look, the feet of those who have buried your husband are at the door, and they will carry you out." ¹⁰ Immediately she fell down at his feet and died. When the young men came in they found her dead, so they carried her out and buried her beside her husband. ¹¹ And great fear seized the whole church and all who heard of these things.

¹² Now many signs and wonders were done among the people through the apostles. And they were all together in Solomon's Portico.

¹³ None of the rest dared to join them, but the people held them in high esteem. ¹⁴ Yet more than ever believers were added to the Lord, great numbers of both men and women, ¹⁵ so that they even carried out the sick into the streets, and laid them on cots and mats, in order that Peter's shadow might fall on some of them as he came by. ¹⁶ A great number of people would also gather from the towns around Jerusalem, bringing the sick and those tormented by unclean spirits, and they were all cured.

^a Gk to men

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

4.32–5.11: The sharing of goods. 4.32–35: The ideal handling of possessions in the early Jerusalem community (see 2.44–45n.). 36–37: Levite, a member of the priestly tribe of Levi. Barnabas, who later appears as Paul's missionary companion in 13.1–14.28 (cf. 1 Cor 9.6), embodies the response of the ideal believer. 5.1–11: The negative example of Ananias and Sapphira. Compare the story of Achan in Josh 7. 3: Satan, Lk 22.3. The apostles, or perhaps the church, represent the Holy Spirit; cf. 9.4; 15.28. 4: The property was at Ananias's disposal (although this contradicts 4.32,34) until he pretended to dedicate all his goods. 11: Church, used here for the first time in Acts, designates the entire congregation of believers, which is still restricted to Jerusalem. Elsewhere it means either local communities in Jerusalem (8.1,3; 11.22; 12.5; 15.4,22; 18.22), Antioch (11.26; 13.1; 14.27; 15.3), Ephesus (20.17), and other places (14.23; 15.41; 16.5), or, occasionally, the universal body of all believers (20.28).

5.12–16: Signs and wonders. 12: Solomon's Portico, see 3.11n. 13: None of the rest, i.e., nonbelievers; the Christians now stand out as a clearly defined group. 16: Compare Mk 1.32–34.

¹⁷ Then the high priest took action; he and all who were with him (that is, the sect of the Sadducees), being filled with jealousy, ¹⁸ arrested the apostles and put them in the public prison. ¹⁹ But during the night an angel of the Lord opened the prison doors, brought them out, and said, ²⁰ “Go, stand in the temple and tell the people the whole message about this life.” ²¹ When they heard this, they entered the temple at daybreak and went on with their teaching.

When the high priest and those with him arrived, they called together the council and the whole body of the elders of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought. ²² But when the temple police went there, they did not find them in the prison; so they returned and reported, ²³ “We found the prison securely locked and the guards standing at the doors, but when we opened them, we found no one inside.” ²⁴ Now when the captain of the temple and the chief priests heard these words, they were perplexed about them, wondering what might be going on. ²⁵ Then someone arrived and announced, “Look, the men whom you put in prison are standing in the temple and teaching the people!” ²⁶ Then the captain went with the temple police and brought them, but without violence, for they were afraid of being stoned by the people.

²⁷ When they had brought them, they had them stand before the council. The high priest questioned them, ²⁸ saying, “We gave you strict orders not to teach in this name,^a yet here you have filled Jerusalem with your teaching and you are determined to bring this man’s blood on us.” ²⁹ But Peter and the apostles answered, “We must obey God rather than any human authority.^b ³⁰ The God of our ancestors raised up Jesus, whom you had killed by hanging him on a tree. ³¹ God exalted him at his right hand as Leader and Savior that he might give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. ³² And we are witnesses to these things, and so is the Holy Spirit whom God has given to those who obey him.”

³³ When they heard this, they were enraged and wanted to kill them. ³⁴ But a Pharisee in the council named Gamaliel, a teacher of the law, respected by all the people, stood up and ordered the men to be put outside for a short time. ³⁵ Then he said to them, “Fellow Israelites,^c consider carefully what you propose to do to these men. ³⁶ For some time ago Theudas rose up, claiming to be somebody, and a number of men, about four hundred, joined him; but he was killed, and all who followed him were dispersed and disappeared. ³⁷ After him Judas the Galilean rose up at the time of the census and got people to follow him; he also perished, and all who followed him were scattered. ³⁸ So in the present case, I tell you, keep away from these men and let them alone; because if this plan or this undertaking is of human origin, it will fail; ³⁹ but if it is of God, you will not be able to overthrow them—in that case you may even be found fighting against God!”

They were convinced by him, ⁴⁰ and when they had called in the apostles, they had them flogged. Then they ordered them not to speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go. ⁴¹ As they left the council, they rejoiced that they were considered worthy to suffer dishonor for the sake of the name. ⁴² And

^a Other ancient authorities read Did we not give you strict orders not to teach in this name?

^b Gk than men

^c Gk Men, Israelites

5:17–42: Second arrest of the apostles. The motif of obeying God rather than human beings is played out again before the council (cf. ch 4). 19: An angel . . . opened the prison doors, see 12.6–11; cf. 16.25–26. 21: Body of the elders, another word for council or Sanhedrin. 29: See 4.19n. 30: The reference to the tree (cross; 10.39; 13.29) recalls Deut 21.22–23, but it is not developed; cf. Gal 3.13. 31: A concise summary of the theology of Acts. Leader, the same Gk word is translated “Author” in 3.15. Savior, a term widely used in the Hellenistic world (e.g., 11.19n.). 34: A Pharisee (see 15.5n.), the famous Rabban Gamaliel, the Elder, later identified as Paul’s teacher (22.3). 36–37: The historical order of the figures referred to is reversed. Theudas, according to Josephus (Ant. 20.97–98), raised his revolt (ca. 44–46 CE) some years after Gamaliel’s speech. Judas the Galilean, a revolutionary leader who in 6 or 7 CE opposed the imposition of new taxes following the census of Quirinius (Lk 2.2). 40: Had them flogged, to reinforce the warning.

every day in the temple and at home^a they did not cease to teach and proclaim Jesus as the Messiah.^b

6 Now during those days, when the disciples were increasing in number, the Hellenists complained against the Hebrews because their widows were being neglected in the daily distribution of food.² And the twelve called together the whole community of the disciples and said, “It is not right that we should neglect the word of God in order to wait on tables.^c ³ Therefore, friends,^d select from among yourselves seven men of good standing, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we may appoint to this task, ⁴ while we, for our part, will devote ourselves to prayer and to serving the word.” ⁵ What they said pleased the whole community, and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and the Holy Spirit, together with Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolaus, a proselyte of Antioch. ⁶ They had these men stand before the apostles, who prayed and laid their hands on them.

⁷ The word of God continued to spread; the number of the disciples increased greatly in Jerusalem, and a great many of the priests became obedient to the faith.

⁸ Stephen, full of grace and power, did great wonders and signs among the people. ⁹ Then some of those who belonged to the synagogue of the Freedmen (as it was called), Cyrenians, Alexandrians, and others of those from Cilicia and Asia, stood up and argued with Stephen. ¹⁰ But they could not withstand the wisdom and the Spirit^e with which he spoke. ¹¹ Then they secretly instigated some men to say, “We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses and God.” ¹² They stirred up the people as well as the elders and the scribes; then they suddenly confronted him, seized him, and brought him before the council. ¹³ They set up false witnesses who said, “This man never stops saying things against this holy place and the law; ¹⁴ for we have heard him say that this Jesus of Nazareth^f will destroy this place and will change the customs that Moses handed on to us.” ¹⁵ And all who sat in the council looked intently at him, and they saw that his face was like the face of an angel.

7 Then the high priest asked him, “Are these things so?” ² And Stephen replied: “Brothers^g and fathers, listen to me. The God of glory appeared to our ancestor Abraham when he was in Mesopotamia, before he

^a Or from house to house

^b Or the Christ

^c Or keep accounts

^d Gk brothers

^e Or spirit

^f Gk the Nazorean

^g Gk Men, brothers

6.1–7: Choice of the seven. The seven are identified as the first deacons by later tradition but hold no ecclesiastical office here. 1: The Hellenists, Greek-speaking Jewish Christians; the Hebrews, Aramaic-speaking Jewish Christians. 2: The twelve is used to designate the apostles only here in Acts. To wait on tables, i.e., to feed the hungry. 5: Stephen, Philip, and the other names are Greek. Proselyte, a Gentile convert to Judaism, implying that the others were born Jews. 6: Laid . . . hands, a ritual of consecration and appointment; see Num 8.10; 27.23; Acts 13.3; 1 Tim 4.14; 2 Tim 1.6. 7: Not all priests are hostile. Throughout Acts the partial success of the Christian movement among Jews is reported (21.20n.; 28.24).

6.8–8.1a: Preaching and martyrdom of Stephen. Elements of Stephen’s trial and death reflect the passion of Jesus. 6.8: Stephen does wonders and signs like the apostles (2.43; 4.30; 5.12). 9: Diaspora Jews argued with Stephen. Freedmen, former slaves, either Jews or proselytes; an inscription found in Jerusalem possibly refers to this synagogue. Cyrenians, from Cyrene in northern Africa (see 11.20n.). Cilicia, the southeastern portion of Asia Minor, which Acts identifies as Paul’s home (21.39; 22.3; cf. 23.34). Asia, the Roman province of that name in western Asia Minor. 10: A fulfillment of Jesus’s prediction in Lk 21.15. 13: False witnesses, cf. Mk 14.55–57. 14: Jesus . . . will destroy this place, Mk 14.58; Lk 21.6; Jn 2.19. The change in customs reported by Mk 7.15,19 is not recorded in Lk. These charges had not been made in the earlier examinations of the apostles. 7.2–50: Stephen’s speech contains some thirty citations from the Greek version of the Hebrew Bible (the Septuagint), which was the Bible of the early Christians. Accordingly, Stephen makes reference to Abraham (v. 2), Joseph (v. 9), Moses (v. 20), and lived in Haran,³ and said to him, 'Leave your country and your relatives and go to the land that I will show you.'⁴ Then he left the country of the Chaldeans and settled in Haran. After his father died, God had him move from there to this country in which you are now living.⁵ He did not give him any of it as a heritage, not even a foot's length, but promised to give it to him as his possession and to his descendants after him, even though he had no child.⁶ And God spoke in these terms, that his descendants would be resident aliens in a country belonging to others, who would enslave them and mistreat them during four hundred years.⁷ 'But I will judge the nation that they serve,' said God, 'and after that they shall come out and worship me in this place.'⁸ Then he gave him the covenant of circumcision. And so Abraham^a became the father of Isaac and circumcised him on the eighth day; and Isaac became the father of Jacob, and Jacob of the twelve patriarchs.

⁹ "The patriarchs, jealous of Joseph, sold him into Egypt; but God was with him,¹⁰ and rescued him from all his afflictions, and enabled him to win favor and to show wisdom when he stood before Pharaoh, king of Egypt, who appointed him ruler over Egypt and over all his household.¹¹ Now there came a famine throughout Egypt and Canaan, and great suffering, and our ancestors could find no food.¹² But when Jacob heard that there was grain in Egypt, he sent our ancestors there on their first visit.¹³ On the second visit Joseph made himself known to his brothers, and Joseph's family became known to Pharaoh.¹⁴ Then Joseph sent and invited his father Jacob and all his relatives to come to him, seventy-five in all;¹⁵ so Jacob went down to Egypt. He himself died there as well as our ancestors,¹⁶ and their bodies^b were brought back to Shechem and laid in the tomb that Abraham had bought for a sum of silver from the sons of Hamor in Shechem.

¹⁷ "But as the time drew near for the fulfillment of the promise that God had made to Abraham, our people in Egypt increased and multiplied¹⁸ until another king who had not known Joseph ruled over Egypt.¹⁹ He dealt craftily with our race and forced our ancestors to abandon their infants so that they would die.²⁰ At this time Moses was born, and he was beautiful before God. For three months he was brought up in his father's house;²¹ and when he was abandoned, Pharaoh's daughter adopted him and brought him up as her own son.²² So Moses was instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and was powerful in his words and deeds.

²³ "When he was forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his relatives, the Israelites.^c ²⁴ When he saw one of them being wronged, he defended the oppressed man and avenged him by striking down the Egyptian.²⁵ He supposed that his kinsfolk would understand that God through him was rescuing them, but they did not understand.²⁶ The next day he came to some of them as they were quarreling and tried to reconcile them, saying, 'Men, you are brothers; why do you wrong each other?'²⁷ But the man who was wronging his neighbor pushed Moses^d aside, saying, 'Who made you a ruler and a judge over us?'²⁸ Do you want to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?'²⁹ When he heard this, Moses fled and became a resident alien in the land of Midian. There he became the father of two sons.

³⁰ "Now when forty years had passed, an angel appeared to him in the wilderness of Mount Sinai, in the flame of a burning bush.³¹ When Moses saw it, he was amazed at the sight; and as he approached to look, there

^a Gk he

^b Gk they

^c Gk his brothers, the sons of Israel

^d Gk him

others (cf. 13:16–24; Heb 11:4–40). 3: Gen 12:1; according to Gen 11:31 Abraham was already in Haran (against v. 2). 5: Gen 12:7; 13:15; 17:8; 48:4. 6–7: Four hundred years, see Gen 15:13–14; cf. Ex 12:40. 8: Gen 17:10–13. 9: Gen 37:10–16; Gen 39–50. 14: Seventy-five, according to the Septuagint of Gen 46:27; Ex 1:5. 16: Shechem, but according to Gen 50:13 Jacob was buried at Hebron. Abraham, but according to Gen 33:19 and Josh 24:32 it was Jacob who bought the tomb at Shechem, where Joseph was buried. 17–19: Ex 1–2. 20–22: Ex 2:1–10. 20: The importance of Moses is stressed by the amount of space devoted to him in the following verses. 23–29: Ex 2:11–22. 29: Midian, northwestern Arabia, on the east coast of the Gulf of Aqaba (Eilat). 30–34: Ex 3:1–10. 30: In Ex 3:1 the mountain came the voice of the Lord: ³²‘I am the God of your ancestors, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.’ Moses began to tremble and did not dare to look. ³³Then the Lord said to him, ‘Take off the sandals from your feet, for the place where you are standing is holy ground. ³⁴I have surely seen the mistreatment of my people who are in Egypt and have heard their groaning, and I have come down to rescue them. Come now, I will send you to Egypt.’

³⁵‘It was this Moses whom they rejected when they said, ‘Who made you a ruler and a judge?’ and whom God now sent as both ruler and liberator through the angel who appeared to him in the bush. ³⁶He led them out, having performed wonders and signs in Egypt, at the Red Sea, and in the wilderness for forty years. ³⁷This is the Moses who said to the Israelites, ‘God will raise up a prophet for you from your own people^a as he raised me up.’ ³⁸He is the one who was in the congregation in the wilderness with the angel who spoke to him at Mount Sinai, and with our ancestors; and he received living oracles to give to us. ³⁹Our ancestors were unwilling to obey him; instead, they pushed him aside, and in their hearts they turned back to Egypt, ⁴⁰saying to Aaron, ‘Make gods for us who will lead the way for us; as for this Moses who led us out from the land of Egypt, we do not know what has happened to him.’ ⁴¹At that time they made a calf, offered a sacrifice to the idol, and reveled in the works of their hands. ⁴²But God turned away from them and handed them over to worship the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets:

‘Did you offer to me slain victims and sacrifices

forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel?

⁴³No; you took along the tent of Moloch, and the star of your god Rephan, the images that you made to worship;

so I will remove you beyond Babylon.’

⁴⁴‘Our ancestors had the tent of testimony in the wilderness, as God^b directed when he spoke to Moses, ordering him to make it according to the pattern he had seen. ⁴⁵Our ancestors in turn brought it in with Joshua when they dispossessed the nations that God drove out before our ancestors. And it was there until the time of David, ⁴⁶who found favor with God and asked that he might find a dwelling place for the house of Jacob.^c ⁴⁷But it was Solomon who built a house for him. ⁴⁸Yet the Most High does not dwell in houses made with human hands;^d as the prophet says, ⁴⁹‘Heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool.

What kind of house will you build for me, says the Lord, or what is the place of my rest?

⁵⁰Did not my hand make all these things?’

⁵¹‘You stiff-necked people, uncircumcised in heart and ears, you are forever opposing the Holy Spirit, just as your ancestors used to do. ⁵²Which of the prophets did your ancestors not persecute? They killed those who foretold the coming of the Righteous One, and now you have become his betrayers and murderers. ⁵³You are the ones that received

^a Gk your brothers

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities read for the God of Jacob

^d Gk with hands

is Horeb, not Sinai. 35: Ex 2.14. 37: A prophet, Deut 18.15; see 3.22. 38: In the Hebrew Bible God, not an angel, speaks to Moses and gives him the law (living oracles); cf. v. 53. 40: Ex 32.1. 42–43: Am 5.25–27 is quoted to support the charge of idolatry raised in vv. 40–42. The book of the (twelve minor) prophets (Hosea through Malachi) was thought of as a unit. 42: The host of heaven, the stars (2 Kings 17.16), which are associated with various supernatural beings. 43: Moloch, a deity to whom children were offered as sacrifices (Jer 32.35). Rephan, an astral deity (Saturn). 44: The tent of testimony, the tabernacle (Ex 27.21), is brought forward in the following verses as preferable to the Temple; compare the “true tent” of Heb 8.1–5. 45: Josh 3.7–4.18. 46: Ps 132.5; cf. 2 Sam 7.1–2. 47: 1 Kings 6. 48: Since made with human hands is language associated with idolatry in the Hebrew Bible (see Ps 115.4; Isa 2.8), its application to the Temple would be offensive to a Jewish audience. Cf. 17.24–25. 49–50: Isa 66.1–2. 51: Stiff-necked people, uncircumcised in heart and ears, biblical language of reproach, see Ex 33.3,5; Lev 26.41; Jer 9.26; cf. Rom 2.29. 52: The question is hyperbolic but recalls Lk 11.47–48. 53: The law, being ordained by angels (cf. v. 38) is considered valid (Heb 2.2); Paul used this Jewish tradition to argue that the law is secondary the law as ordained by angels, and yet you have not kept it.”

⁵⁴When they heard these things, they became enraged and ground their teeth at Stephen.^a ⁵⁵But filled with the Holy Spirit, he gazed into heaven and saw the glory of God and Jesus standing at the right hand of God. ⁵⁶“Look,” he said, “I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God!” ⁵⁷But they covered their ears, and with a loud shout all rushed together against him. ⁵⁸Then they dragged him out of the city and began to stone him; and the witnesses laid their coats at the feet of a young man named Saul. ⁵⁹While they were stoning Stephen, he prayed, “Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.” ⁶⁰Then he knelt down and cried out in a loud voice, “Lord, do not hold this sin against them.” When he had said this,

8 he died.^b ¹And Saul approved of their killing him.

That day a severe persecution began against the church in Jerusalem, and all except the apostles were scattered throughout the countryside of Judea and Samaria. ²Devout men buried Stephen and made loud lamentation over him. ³But Saul was ravaging the church by entering house after house; dragging off both men and women, he committed them to prison.

⁴Now those who were scattered went from place to place, proclaiming the word. ⁵Philip went down to the city^c of Samaria and proclaimed the Messiah^d to them. ⁶The crowds with one accord listened eagerly to what was said by Philip, hearing and seeing the signs that he did, ⁷for unclean spirits, crying with loud shrieks, came out of many who were possessed; and many others who were paralyzed or lame were cured. ⁸So there was great joy in that city.

⁹Now a certain man named Simon had previously practiced magic in the city and amazed the people of Samaria, saying that he was someone great. ¹⁰All of them, from the least to the greatest, listened to him eagerly, saying, “This man is the power of God that is called Great.” ¹¹And they listened eagerly to him because for a long time he had amazed them with his magic. ¹²But when they believed Philip, who was proclaiming the good news about the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women. ¹³Even Simon himself believed. After being baptized, he stayed constantly with Philip and was amazed when he saw the signs and great miracles that took place.

¹⁴Now when the apostles at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had accepted the word of God, they sent Peter and John to them. ¹⁵The two went down and prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit ¹⁶(for as yet the

^a Gk him

^b Gk fell asleep

^c Other ancient authorities read a city

^d Or the Christ

(Gal 3.19). 54–58a: Here Stephen is described as the victim of a lynching. 55–56: Lk 22.69. Son of Man in the Gospels can denote Jesus as the glorified heavenly judge; elsewhere in the New Testament the term is found only in Rev 1.13; 14.14. 58b–8.1: The presence of witnesses, who were legally required to cast the first stones at the offender (Deut 17.7), suggests not a lynching but a judicial execution. 58b: Saul, Luke’s dramatic introduction of Paul. His presence may have been suggested by 1 Cor 15.9 and Gal 1.13 but is not confirmed by these references. 59: Lk 23.46. 60: See Lk 23.34n.

8.1b–40: Spread of the gospel to Samaria and beyond. Christianity now reaches non-Jewish regions. 1: Except the apostles, although unrealistic, it is important for Luke that the apostles remain in Jerusalem. Samaria, between Galilee to the north and Judea to the south, was inhabited by remnants of the northern tribes who worshiped the Lord God and used the Pentateuch. Jews despised them (2 Kings 17.24–41; cf. Mt 10.5). 3: Saul was ravaging the church, 9.1–2; cf. Gal 1.13. 4: Ironically, severe persecution leads to proclaiming the word in new places. 5: Philip, one of the seven mentioned in 6.5, is now active as an evangelist (21.8). Second-century references to this individual identify him as one of the twelve apostles with the same name (Lk 6.14), but according to the idealized account of Acts the apostles remain in Jerusalem during this period. 9: Acts repeatedly distinguishes between magic and Christian signs (see 13.6–12; 19.13–20). 12: Philip breaks religious barriers and fulfills the expectations about Samaritans generated by Luke’s Gospel (Lk 10.30–37; 17.11–19) and the promise of 1.8. 14: Jerusalem is represented as coordinating the ever-growing church (see 11.1,22). 16–17: Spirit had not come,

Chs 8–11: Sites of early Christian missionary activities

Spirit had not come^a upon any of them; they had only been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus).¹⁷ Then Peter and John^b laid their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.¹⁸ Now when Simon saw that the Spirit was given through the laying on of the apostles' hands, he offered them money,¹⁹ saying, "Give me also this power so that anyone on whom I lay my hands may receive the Holy Spirit."²⁰ But Peter said to him, "May your silver perish with you, because you thought you could obtain God's gift with money!²¹ You have no part or share in this, for your heart is not right before God.²² Repent therefore of this wickedness of yours, and pray to the Lord that, if possible, the intent of your heart may be forgiven you.²³ For I see that you are in the gall of bitterness and the chains of wickedness."²⁴ Simon answered, "Pray for me to the Lord, that nothing of what you^c have said may happen to me."

²⁵ Now after Peter and John^d had testified and spoken the word of the Lord, they returned to Jerusalem, proclaiming the good news to many villages of the Samaritans.

²⁶ Then an angel of the Lord said to Philip, "Get up and go toward the south^e to the road that goes down from Jerusalem to Gaza." (This is a wilderness road.)²⁷ So he got up and went. Now there was an Ethiopian eunuch, a court official of the Candace, queen of the Ethiopians, in charge of her entire treasury. He had come to Jerusalem to worship²⁸ and was returning home; seated in his chariot, he was reading the prophet Isaiah.²⁹ Then the Spirit said to Philip, "Go over to this chariot and join it."³⁰ So Philip ran up to it and heard him reading the prophet Isaiah. He asked, "Do you understand what you are reading?"

³¹ He replied, "How can I, unless someone guides me?" And he invited Philip to get in and sit beside him.³² Now the passage of the scripture that he was reading was this:

"Like a sheep he was led to the slaughter, and like a lamb silent before its shearer, so he does not open his mouth.

³³ In his humiliation justice was denied him.

Who can describe his generation?

For his life is taken away from the earth."

³⁴ The eunuch asked Philip, "About whom, may I ask you, does the prophet say this, about himself or about someone else?"

³⁵ Then Philip began to speak, and starting with this scripture, he proclaimed to him the good news about Jesus.³⁶ As they were going along the road, they came to some water; and the eunuch said, "Look, here is water! What is to prevent me from being baptized?"^f ³⁸ He commanded the chariot to stop, and both of them, Philip and the eunuch, went down into the water, and Philip⁹ baptized him.³⁹ When they came up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord snatched Philip away; the eunuch saw him no more, and went on his way rejoicing.⁴⁰ But Philip found himself at Azotus, and as he was passing through the region, he

^a Gk fallen

^b Gk they

^c The Greek word for you and the verb pray are plural

^d Gk after they

^e Or go at noon

^f Other ancient authorities add all or most of verse 37, And Philip said, "If you believe with all your heart, you may." And he replied, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God."

^g Gk he

see 2.38. Laid . . . hands, see 6.6n. 18–24: The medieval term "simony" (buying church offices) is derived from this account. 27: An Ethiopian, see Ps 68.31; Zeph 3.10. The Candace was the title of the queen of the Ethiopians. Although he had come to Jerusalem to worship, a eunuch could not have become a proselyte (Deut 23.1). The passage may envisage fulfillment of Isa 56.3–5. 28: He was reading aloud to himself (as was customary in antiquity); hence Philip heard him (v. 30). 32–33: Isa 53.7–8; see Acts 3.13n. 35: Cf. Lk 24.27. 38: As in the case of the Samaritans, the baptism of an Ethiopian eunuch breaks social and ritual barriers (v. 12n.). Since in the ancient Mediterranean world Ethiopia was often considered to be located at the "ends of the earth" (e.g., Homer, Od. 1.22–23; Herodotus 3.25), this conversion fulfills the prediction of 1.8. 39: The Spirit of the Lord snatched Philip away, cf. 1 Kings 18.12; 2 Kings 2.16. 40: Philip's evangelizing journey proceeds along the Mediterranean coast from Gaza (v. 26) through Azotus (ancient Ashdod, ca. 23 mi [37 km] north-northeast of Gaza) to Caesarea (ca. 55 mi [90 km] farther north). Caesarea was an important seaport and the headquarters of the Roman governor; see 10.1; 21.8.

proclaimed the good news to all the towns until he came to Caesarea.

9 Meanwhile Saul, still breathing threats and murder against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest² and asked him for letters to the synagogues at Damascus, so that if he found any who belonged to the Way, men or women, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem.³ Now as he was going along and approaching Damascus, suddenly a light from heaven flashed around him.⁴ He fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to him, “Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me?”⁵ He asked, “Who are you, Lord?” The reply came, “I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting.⁶ But get up and enter the city, and you will be told what you are to do.”⁷ The men who were traveling with him stood speechless because they heard the voice but saw no one.⁸ Saul got up from the ground, and though his eyes were open, he could see nothing; so they led him by the hand and brought him into Damascus.⁹ For three days he was without sight, and neither ate nor drank.

¹⁰ Now there was a disciple in Damascus named Ananias. The Lord said to him in a vision, “Ananias.” He answered, “Here I am, Lord.”¹¹ The Lord said to him, “Get up and go to the street called Straight, and at the house of Judas look for a man of Tarsus named Saul. At this moment he is praying,¹² and he has seen in a vision^a a man named Ananias come in and lay his hands on him so that he might regain his sight.”¹³ But Ananias answered, “Lord, I have heard from many about this man, how much evil he has done to your saints in Jerusalem;¹⁴ and here he has authority from the chief priests to bind all who invoke your name.”¹⁵ But the Lord said to him, “Go, for he is an instrument whom I have chosen to bring my name before Gentiles and kings and before the people of Israel;¹⁶ I myself will show him how much he must suffer for the sake of my name.”¹⁷ So Ananias went and entered the house. He laid his hands on Saul^b and said, “Brother Saul, the Lord Jesus, who appeared to you on your way here, has sent me so that you may regain your sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit.”¹⁸ And immediately something like scales fell from his eyes, and his sight was restored. Then he got up and was baptized,¹⁹ and after taking some food, he regained his strength.

For several days he was with the disciples in Damascus,²⁰ and immediately he began to proclaim Jesus in the synagogues, saying, “He is the Son of God.”²¹ All who heard him were amazed and said, “Is not this the man who made havoc in Jerusalem among those who invoked this name? And has he not come here for the purpose of bringing them bound before the chief priests?”²² Saul became increasingly more powerful and confounded the Jews who lived in Damascus by proving that Jesus^c was the Messiah.^d

²³ After some time had passed, the Jews plotted to kill him,²⁴ but their plot became known to Saul. They were watching the gates

^a Other ancient authorities lack in a vision

^b Gk him

^c Gk that this

^d Or the Christ

9:1–19a: The conversion/call of Saul of Tarsus. Slightly different versions are found in 22.4–16; 26.9–18; Paul’s own account is in Gal 1.13–17; see 1 Cor 15.8. Key narratives in Acts are stressed by repetition. 1–2: Acts connects Paul with Jerusalem (7.58; 9.13,26), although Paul claimed he was unknown by sight in Judea (Gal 1.22–23). 2: The Way seems to be Luke’s term for Christianity (18.25–26; 19.9,23; 22.4; 24.14,22), but its origin is uncertain. The closest parallels can be found in the Dead Sea Scrolls; cf. Isa 40.3. 3–9: The passage incorporates various features of theophanies (e.g., 2 Macc 3; Acts 2.2n.) and stories of the call of prophets (e.g., Isa 6.1–13). 4–5: In persecuting the disciples, he persecuted Jesus (cf. Mt 25.40). 10: Ananias, evidently one of the leaders of the believers at Damascus (see 22.12). Acts does not record how or when Christians first arrived in Damascus. 11: The street called Straight, the principal east-west thoroughfare in Roman Damascus. Tarsus, see v. 30n. 13: Saints, holy ones, i.e., Christians as sanctified by their faith (see 26.18). 15: Saul, like the prophets, was chosen for a special purpose (Jer 1.5; Gal 1.15). 17: Laid his hands, see 6.6n.

9:19b–31: Saul’s preaching in Damascus and first visit to Jerusalem. 20: Immediately he began to proclaim Jesus in the synagogues, this will be the consistent pattern followed by Paul in Acts; according to Paul himself, he went immediately to Arabia (Gal 1.17). Son of God occurs only here in Acts; cf. Gal 1.15–16. 24–25: According to 2 Cor 11.32–33 day and night so that they might kill him; ²⁵but his disciples took him by night and let him down through an opening in the wall,^a lowering him in a basket.

²⁶When he had come to Jerusalem, he attempted to join the disciples; and they were all afraid of him, for they did not believe that he was a disciple. ²⁷But Barnabas took him, brought him to the apostles, and described for them how on the road he had seen the Lord, who had spoken to him, and how in Damascus he had spoken boldly in the name of Jesus. ²⁸So he went in and out among them in Jerusalem, speaking boldly in the name of the Lord. ²⁹He spoke and argued with the Hellenists; but they were attempting to kill him. ³⁰When the believers^b learned of it, they brought him down to Caesarea and sent him off to Tarsus.

³¹Meanwhile the church throughout Judea, Galilee, and Samaria had peace and was built up. Living in the fear of the Lord and in the comfort of the Holy Spirit, it increased in numbers.

³²Now as Peter went here and there among all the believers,^c he came down also to the saints living in Lydda. ³³There he found a man named Aeneas, who had been bedridden for eight years, for he was paralyzed. ³⁴Peter said to him, “Aeneas, Jesus Christ heals you; get up and make your bed!” And immediately he got up. ³⁵And all the residents of Lydda and Sharon saw him and turned to the Lord.

³⁶Now in Joppa there was a disciple whose name was Tabitha, which in Greek is Dorcas.^d She was devoted to good works and acts of charity. ³⁷At that time she became ill and died. When they had washed her, they laid her in a room upstairs. ³⁸Since Lydda was near Joppa, the disciples, who heard that Peter was there, sent two men to him with the request, “Please come to us without delay.” ³⁹So Peter got up and went with them; and when he arrived, they took him to the room upstairs. All the widows stood beside him, weeping and showing tunics and other clothing that Dorcas had made while she was with them. ⁴⁰Peter put all of them outside, and then he knelt down and prayed. He turned to the body and said, “Tabitha, get up.” Then she opened her eyes, and seeing Peter, she sat up. ⁴¹He gave her his hand and helped her up. Then calling the saints and widows, he showed her to be alive. ⁴²This became known throughout Joppa, and many believed in the Lord. ⁴³Meanwhile he stayed in Joppa for some time with a certain Simon, a tanner.

10 In Caesarea there was a man named Cornelius, a centurion of the Italian

^a Gk through the wall

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk all of them

^d The name Tabitha in Aramaic and the name Dorcas in Greek mean a gazelle

Paul flees the governor of Damascus appointed by Aretas IV, king of the Nabateans. 26: See vv. 1–2n. In Gal 1.18 Paul states that his first visit to Jerusalem was three years after his conversion. Luke associates Paul with Jerusalem from the beginning. 27–28: Barnabas (see 4.36–37) intercedes with the apostles on Paul's behalf. Paul himself (Gal 1.18–19) claimed to have seen only Peter and James, the Lord's brother (not considered an apostle in Acts). 29: Paul, from the Diaspora himself, contends with the Hellenists, namely, Stephen's Greek-speaking Jewish opponents (6.9–14). 30: Tarsus, Paul's home city according to 21.39 and 22.3 (see 11.25; cf. Gal 1.21), was in Cilicia on the southern coast of Asia Minor. 31: The familiar note of growth. The persecution of 8.1 has apparently passed. Here church moves beyond its usual meaning of a local community (see 5.11n.) to believers spread over a larger geographical area.

9.32–43: Peter in Lydda and Joppa. 32: Lydda, northwest of Jerusalem between Azotus and Caesarea (see 8.40n.), about 11 mi (17 km) southeast of Joppa (v. 36). There are already believers in both places, perhaps the result of Philip's activity (8.40). 34: Cf. Lk 5.24–25. 35: Sharon, the coastal plain between Joppa and Caesarea. 36–42: Cf. Lk 8.41–42, 49–56 (Mk 5.22–24, 35–43); 2 Kings 4.33. 36: Joppa, modern Jaffa, on the coast in the Plain of Sharon, ca. 30 mi (50 km) south of Caesarea. 39: Widows, see 6.1; cf. 1 Tim 5.3–16. 43: Peter's lodging with a tanner, who would be ritually unclean, may suggest preparation for his encounter with Cornelius.

10.1–48: The conversion of Cornelius. This key narrative in which the inclusion of Gentiles is directed by God is essentially repeated in 11.1–18 and referred to in significant terms at 15.7–9. Luke ascribes to Peter the Cohort, as it was called. ²He was a devout man who feared God with all his household; he gave alms generously to the people and prayed constantly to God. ³One afternoon at about three o'clock he had a vision in which he clearly saw an angel of God coming in and saying to him, "Cornelius." ⁴He stared at him in terror and said, "What is it, Lord?" He answered, "Your prayers and your alms have ascended as a memorial before God." ⁵Now send men to Joppa for a certain Simon who is called Peter; ⁶he is lodging with Simon, a tanner, whose house is by the seaside." ⁷When the angel who spoke to him had left, he called two of his slaves and a devout soldier from the ranks of those who served him, ⁸and after telling them everything, he sent them to Joppa.

⁹About noon the next day, as they were on their journey and approaching the city, Peter went up on the roof to pray. ¹⁰He became hungry and wanted something to eat; and while it was being prepared, he fell into a trance. ¹¹He saw the heaven opened and something like a large sheet coming down, being lowered to the ground by its four corners. ¹²In it were all kinds of four-footed creatures and reptiles and birds of the air. ¹³Then he heard a voice saying, "Get up, Peter; kill and eat." ¹⁴But Peter said, "By no means, Lord; for I have never eaten anything that is profane or unclean." ¹⁵The voice said to him again, a second time, "What God has made clean, you must not call profane." ¹⁶This happened three times, and the thing was suddenly taken up to heaven.

¹⁷Now while Peter was greatly puzzled about what to make of the vision that he had seen, suddenly the men sent by Cornelius appeared. They were asking for Simon's house and were standing by the gate. ¹⁸They called out to ask whether Simon, who was called Peter, was staying there. ¹⁹While Peter was still thinking about the vision, the Spirit said to him, "Look, three^a men are searching for you. ²⁰Now get up, go down, and go with them without hesitation; for I have sent them." ²¹So Peter went down to the men and said, "I am the one you are looking for; what is the reason for your coming?" ²²They answered, "Cornelius, a centurion, an upright and God-fearing man, who is well spoken of by the whole Jewish nation, was directed by a holy angel to send for you to come to his house and to hear what you have to say." ²³So Peter^b invited them in and gave them lodging.

The next day he got up and went with them, and some of the believers^c from Joppa accompanied him. ²⁴The following day they came to Caesarea. Cornelius was expecting them and had called together his relatives and close friends. ²⁵On Peter's arrival Cornelius met him, and falling at his feet, worshiped him. ²⁶But Peter made him get up, saying, "Stand up; I am only a mortal." ²⁷And as he talked with him, he went in and found that many had assembled; ²⁸and he said to them,

^a One ancient authority reads two; others lack the word

^b Gk he

^c Gk brothers

honor of converting the first Gentile; but recall the Ethiopian (8.26–39) and see 11.19–21. 1: Caesarea, see 8.40n. A centurion, an officer in the Roman army. Luke may want to show that Roman citizenship was compatible with Christianity (13.7n.; 16.37–38n.; 18.14–15n.; 22.25–29n.; 23.27–30n.; 25.8n.). On "friendly" centurions, see 27.3,43. 2: Cornelius was devout and feared God, i.e., worshiped the Jewish God (see v. 22); although he had not adopted the Jewish religion (i.e., undergone circumcision), he practiced the characteristic acts of Jewish piety: almsgiving and prayer. The similar profile of the centurion in Lk 7.1–10 shows that Luke is particularly interested in Gentiles who practice Jewish piety (v. 35); this stance may represent that the Christian audience for whom Luke writes consider themselves in some sense "Jewish." 3: About three o'clock, the time of afternoon prayer (3.1). Angels often appear in Acts in service of the divine will. 7: A devout soldier, suggests that those with Cornelius share his piety (see 16.15n.,33). 9: Noon, the usual Roman time for luncheon. 14: Profane, only some animals might be eaten (Lev 11). 15: In Mk 7.14–19 Jesus declared all foods clean, but this statement is not included in Luke's Gospel and Peter seems unaware of it. Some conditions regarding food will still apply at 15.20,29. 16: Three times, for emphasis and warning. 19–20: The Spirit's message obliquely refers to Cornelius's vision and is reminiscent of the coordinated visions of Ananias and Paul in ch 9. 23: Invited them in, Peter is willing to associate with Gentiles. 28: You yourselves know, the audience is aware that association with Gentiles can be a cause

“You yourselves know that it is unlawful for a Jew to associate with or to visit a Gentile; but God has shown me that I should not call anyone profane or unclean.²⁹ So when I was sent for, I came without objection. Now may I ask why you sent for me?”

³⁰ Cornelius replied, “Four days ago at this very hour, at three o’clock, I was praying in my house when suddenly a man in dazzling clothes stood before me.³¹ He said, ‘Cornelius, your prayer has been heard and your alms have been remembered before God.

³² Send therefore to Joppa and ask for Simon, who is called Peter; he is staying in the home of Simon, a tanner, by the sea.’³³ Therefore I sent for you immediately, and you have been kind enough to come. So now all of us are here in the presence of God to listen to all that the Lord has commanded you to say.”

³⁴ Then Peter began to speak to them: “I truly understand that God shows no partiality,³⁵ but in every nation anyone who fears him and does what is right is acceptable to him.³⁶ You know the message he sent to the people of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ—he is Lord of all.³⁷ That message spread throughout Judea, beginning in Galilee after the baptism that John announced:³⁸ how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power; how he went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with him.³⁹ We are witnesses to all that he did both in Judea and in Jerusalem. They put him to death by hanging him on a tree;⁴⁰ but God raised him on the third day and allowed him to appear,⁴¹ not to all the people but to us who were chosen by God as witnesses, and who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead.⁴² He commanded us to preach to the people and to testify that he is the one ordained by God as judge of the living and the dead.⁴³ All the prophets testify about him that everyone who believes in him receives forgiveness of sins through his name.”

⁴⁴ While Peter was still speaking, the Holy Spirit fell upon all who heard the word.⁴⁵ The circumcised believers who had come with Peter were astounded that the gift of the Holy Spirit had been poured out even on the Gentiles,⁴⁶ for they heard them speaking in tongues and extolling God. Then Peter said,⁴⁷ “Can anyone withhold the water for baptizing these people who have received the Holy Spirit just as we have?”⁴⁸ So he ordered them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ. Then they invited him to stay for several days.

11 Now the apostles and the believers^a who were in Judea heard that the Gentiles had also accepted the word of God.² So when Peter went up to Jerusalem, the circumcised believers^b criticized him,³ saying, “Why did you go to uncircumcised men and eat with them?”⁴ Then Peter began to explain it to them, step by step, saying,⁵ “I was in the city of Joppa praying, and in a trance I saw a vision. There was something like a large sheet coming down from heaven, being lowered by its four corners; and it came close to me.⁶ As I looked at it closely I saw four-footed animals, beasts of prey, reptiles, and birds of the air.⁷ I also heard a voice saying to me, of defilement for Jews (the centurion in Lk 7.6–7 seems to be sensitive to this). But God has shown me, Peter now understands the vision about food (vv. 11–17) to refer allegorically to people (i.e., defilement is no longer an issue). 34: No partiality, lit., “God is no respecter of persons”; cf. Rom 2.10–11. 36–43: A synopsis of Luke’s Gospel. 36: Lord of all, both Jews and Gentiles. 38: God anointed Jesus, seems to refer to the baptism at Lk 3.22 (see also Lk 4.14); but note Lk 2.11; Acts 2.36n.; 3.20. 39: We are witnesses, also v. 41, see 1.8n.; 1.21–22; tree, 5.30n. 41: Jesus was seen only by those chosen (Lk 24.48; Acts 1.8,22). Ate and drank with him, 1.4n.; Lk 24.30–31,41–43. 42: Judge, 17.31. 43: All the prophets, Lk 24.25–27,44–47; forgiveness of sins, Lk 24.47; Acts 2.38; 13.26,39; through his name, 3.6. 44–48: The circumcised believers knew by the speaking in tongues (2.4–11) that the Holy Spirit fell upon the Gentiles before baptism (see 2.38n.).

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk lacks believers

11.1–18: Peter’s defense. The Jerusalem church requires an explanation for the baptism of Gentiles. 1: News of the new development reaches Jerusalem, cf. 8.14; 11.22. 2: Up to this point all believers were circumcised (see note b; at 10.45 the text says “circumcised believers,” but the meaning is the same, as v. 18 makes clear). 3: The question is framed in terms of association with Gentiles, not their entry into the church; cf. Gal 2.12. 4–17: Peter

‘Get up, Peter; kill and eat.’⁸ But I replied, ‘By no means, Lord; for nothing profane or unclean has ever entered my mouth.’⁹ But a second time the voice answered from heaven, ‘What God has made clean, you must not call profane.’¹⁰ This happened three times; then everything was pulled up again to heaven.¹¹ At that very moment three men, sent to me from Caesarea, arrived at the house where we were.¹² The Spirit told me to go with them and not to make a distinction between them and us.^a These six brothers also accompanied me, and we entered the man’s house.¹³ He told us how he had seen the angel standing in his house and saying, ‘Send to Joppa and bring Simon, who is called Peter;¹⁴ he will give you a message by which you and your entire household will be saved.’¹⁵ And as I began to speak, the Holy Spirit fell upon them just as it had upon us at the beginning.¹⁶ And I remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said, ‘John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit.’¹⁷ If then God gave them the same gift that he gave us when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I that I could hinder God?”¹⁸ When they heard this, they were silenced. And they praised God, saying, “Then God has given even to the Gentiles the repentance that leads to life.”

¹⁹ Now those who were scattered because of the persecution that took place over Stephen traveled as far as Phoenicia, Cyprus, and Antioch, and they spoke the word to no one except Jews.²⁰ But among them were some men of Cyprus and Cyrene who, on coming to Antioch, spoke to the Hellenists^b also, proclaiming the Lord Jesus.²¹ The hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number became believers and turned to the Lord.²² News of this came to the ears of the church in Jerusalem, and they sent Barnabas to Antioch.²³ When he came and saw the grace of God, he rejoiced, and he exhorted them all to remain faithful to the Lord with steadfast devotion;²⁴ for he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. And a great many people were brought to the Lord.²⁵ Then Barnabas went to Tarsus to look for Saul,²⁶ and when he had found him, he brought him to Antioch. So it was that for an entire year they met with^c the church and taught a great many people, and it was in Antioch that the disciples were first called “Christians.”

²⁷ At that time prophets came down from Jerusalem to Antioch.²⁸ One of them named Agabus stood up and predicted by the Spirit that there would be a severe famine over all the world; and this took place during the

^a Or not to hesitate

^b Other ancient authorities read Greeks

^c Or were guests of answers by retelling 10.1–48 in abbreviated fashion. 12: Not to make a distinction, clarifies “go . . . without hesitation” in 10.20. 13: Six, replaces “some” in 10.23. 14: Unlike 10.33, here it is made clear that Cornelius is expecting a message of salvation (4.12). 15: See 2.1–4. 16: See 1.5n. 17–18: The “Gentile Pentecost” (v. 15; 10.47; 15.8) was an act of God. Although the issue of Gentile inclusion seems to be decisively settled, controversy will resurface in ch 15.

11.19–26: Mission to the Greeks in Antioch. The narrative now rejoins the mission initiated by the persecution following Stephen’s death (8.1,4). 19: Antioch on the Orontes River, capital of the Roman province of Syria, which included Galilee and Judea, and according to Josephus (J.W. 3.29), the third largest city (after Rome and Alexandria) in the Roman Empire. 20: Cyrene, a great North African city (2.10; 6.9; 13.1; Lk 23.26), had a large Jewish colony. Hellenists (unlike 6.1 and 9.29) here apparently refers to non-Jewish, Greek-speaking residents of Antioch. 22–24: Barnabas came from Cyprus (4.36), and there were Cyriots in Antioch (v. 20). He investigates and expresses approval over the latest developments on behalf of Jerusalem (cf. 8.14–17; 11.1–18). Compare his description (v. 24) with that of Stephen (6.5). 25–26: Saul was in Tarsus (9.30), cf. Gal 1.21. An extended collaboration with Barnabas is initiated (see Gal 2.1,9,13; 1 Cor 9.6). Christians, a Latin word meaning “partisans of Christ,” perhaps at first a term of reproach. It occurs elsewhere in the New Testament only at 26.28 and 1 Pet 4.16. It appears to be a term gaining currency in Luke’s day that has been retrojected into the time portrayed by the narrative.

11.27–30: Antioch aids Jerusalem. 27: Prophets (13.1; 15.32) were numerous in the early church and in Acts characterize the last days (2.17–18). Here they predict the future (see 21.10). 28: Agabus, 21.10–11. The famine reign of Claudius. ²⁹The disciples determined that according to their ability, each would send relief to the believers^a living in Judea; ³⁰this they did, sending it to the elders by Barnabas and Saul.

12 About that time King Herod laid violent hands upon some who belonged to the church. ²He had James, the brother of John, killed with the sword. ³After he saw that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded to arrest Peter also. (This was during the festival of Unleavened Bread.) ⁴When he had seized him, he put him in prison and handed him over to four squads of soldiers to guard him, intending to bring him out to the people after the Passover. ⁵While Peter was kept in prison, the church prayed fervently to God for him.

⁶The very night before Herod was going to bring him out, Peter, bound with two chains, was sleeping between two soldiers, while guards in front of the door were keeping watch over the prison. ⁷Suddenly an angel of the Lord appeared and a light shone in the cell. He tapped Peter on the side and woke him, saying, “Get up quickly.” And the chains fell off his wrists. ⁸The angel said to him, “Fasten your belt and put on your sandals.” He did so. Then he said to him, “Wrap your cloak around you and follow me.” ⁹Peter^b went out and followed him; he did not realize that what was happening with the angel’s help was real; he thought he was seeing a vision. ¹⁰After they had passed the first and the second guard, they came before the iron gate leading into the city. It opened for them of its own accord, and they went outside and walked along a lane, when suddenly the angel left him. ¹¹Then Peter came to himself and said, “Now I am sure that the Lord has sent his angel and rescued me from the hands of Herod and from all that the Jewish people were expecting.”

¹²As soon as he realized this, he went to the house of Mary, the mother of John whose other name was Mark, where many had gathered and were praying. ¹³When he knocked at the outer gate, a maid named Rhoda came to answer. ¹⁴On recognizing Peter’s voice, she was so overjoyed that, instead of opening the gate, she ran in and announced that Peter was standing at the gate. ¹⁵They said to her, “You are out of your mind!” But she insisted that it was so. They said, “It is his angel.” ¹⁶Meanwhile Peter continued knocking; and when they opened the gate, they saw him and were amazed. ¹⁷He motioned to them with his hand to be silent, and described for them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he added, “Tell this to James and to the believers.”^a Then he left and went to another place.

¹⁸When morning came, there was no small commotion among the soldiers over what had become of Peter. ¹⁹When Herod had searched for him and could not find him, he probably occurred in 47 CE; it was not worldwide (see Josephus, Ant. 20.51–53,101). The Roman emperor Claudius ruled 41–54 CE. 29: The relief operation resembles the arrangements for Paul’s collection (20.4n.; 1 Cor 16.2; 2 Cor 9.7); the days of selling all (2.44–45; 4.32–35) are gone. 30: Elders, as Christian leaders are first mentioned here (“old men” in 2.17 translates the same Greek word); their emergence may reflect synagogue practice. According to Gal 2.1–10, Paul’s second visit to Jerusalem coincided with the discussion narrated in Acts 15.1–29.

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk He

12.1–19: Persecution touches the apostles. 1: Herod Agrippa I, grandson of Herod the Great, nephew of Herod Antipas (4.27; 13.1; the Herod of Luke’s Gospel), was made king of Judea by Claudius in 41 CE. 2: An apostle, James the son of Zebedee, is martyred. No replacement is made (cf. 1.15–26). 3: Peter, like Jesus, is arrested at Passover season (v. 4), the festival of Unleavened Bread (v. 3). 4: Four squads of soldiers, emphasizes the impossibility of escape (similarly v. 6). 6–11: Cf. 5.17–23; 16.23–28. Miraculous escapes were a staple of ancient literature. 6: Bring him out, for execution. 12: John . . . Mark is connected with Peter elsewhere (1 Pet 5.13), and tradition credited him with authoring the second Gospel as Peter’s interpreter (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.39.15; 5.8.3). In 12.25–13.13 he travels with Paul and Barnabas. According to Col 4.10 he was Barnabas’s cousin (see also Philem 24; 2 Tim 4.11). 13: Outer gate, a significant house is suggested. 15: A person’s guardian angel (Mt 18.10) was thought to resemble the person protected. 17: James, the brother of Jesus next in age (1.14n.), soon emerges as the leader of the Jerusalem church (15.13; see Gal 1.19; 2.12). Peter goes to another place, appearing one last time at the Jerusalem council (15.7–11).

examined the guards and ordered them to be put to death. Then he went down from Judea to Caesarea and stayed there.

²⁰ Now Herod^a was angry with the people of Tyre and Sidon. So they came to him in a body; and after winning over Blastus, the king's chamberlain, they asked for a reconciliation, because their country depended on the king's country for food. ²¹ On an appointed day Herod put on his royal robes, took his seat on the platform, and delivered a public address to them. ²² The people kept shouting, "The voice of a god, and not of a mortal!" ²³ And immediately, because he had not given the glory to God, an angel of the Lord struck him down, and he was eaten by worms and died.

²⁴ But the word of God continued to advance and gain adherents. ²⁵ Then after completing their mission Barnabas and Saul returned to^b Jerusalem and brought with them John, whose other name was Mark.

13 Now in the church at Antioch there were prophets and teachers: Barnabas, Simeon who was called Niger, Lucius of Cyrene, Manaen a member of the court of Herod the ruler,^c and Saul. ² While they were worshiping the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said, "Set apart for me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them." ³ Then after fasting and praying they laid their hands on them and sent them off.

⁴ So, being sent out by the Holy Spirit, they went down to Seleucia; and from there they sailed to Cyprus. ⁵ When they arrived at Salamis, they proclaimed the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews. And they had John also to assist them. ⁶ When they had gone through the whole island as far as Paphos, they met a certain magician, a Jewish false prophet, named Bar-Jesus. ⁷ He was with the proconsul, Sergius Paulus, an intelligent man, who summoned Barnabas and Saul and wanted to hear the word of God. ⁸ But the magician Elymas (for that is the translation of his name) opposed them and tried to turn the proconsul away from the faith. ⁹ But Saul, also known as Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, looked intently at him ¹⁰ and said, "You son of the devil, you enemy of all righteousness, full of all deceit and villainy, will you not stop making crooked the straight paths of the Lord?" ¹¹ And now listen—the hand of the Lord is against you, and you will be blind for a while, unable to see the sun." Immediately

^a Gk he

^b Other ancient authorities read from

^c Gk tetrarch

12.20–23: Death of Herod Agrippa. Josephus (Ant. 19.343–53) gives a somewhat similar account in which, after flatterers address Herod as a god, he is stricken by a fatal disease and dies after five days of pain—but he acknowledges the false title and accepts his fate. 23: Herod's death in 44 CE occurred before the probable date of the famine mentioned at 11.28. Died, the Gk word here is used elsewhere in the New Testament only to describe the deaths of Ananias and Sapphira (5.5,10).

12.24–13.3: Commission at Antioch. 12.24: The attack on the church's leaders fails to stem growth. 25: Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem to Antioch (see note b) after the relief visit (11.29–30). 13.1: Prophets and teachers were important leaders in the early church (see 11.27n.; 1 Cor 12.28; Eph 4.11). Manaen, Gk form of Heb Menahem. Herod the ruler, Herod Antipas (4.27; Lk 3.19; 8.3; 9.7,9; 13.31; 23.7–15), not Herod Agrippa (12.1n.). 2: As is usual in Acts the Holy Spirit initiates new developments. Set apart, cf. Rom 1.1; Gal 1.15. 3: Laid . . . hands, see 6.6n.

13.4–12: Cyprus. 4: Seleucia Pieria, Antioch's seaport, about 12 mi (20 km) west at the mouth of the Orontes River. 5: Salamis, important port and former capital city at the eastern end of Cyprus. Synagogues, there was a large Jewish population on Cyprus. According to Acts, Paul regularly begins mission work in a new place in the local synagogue (13.14; 14.1; 17.1,10,17; 18.4,19; 19.8; see 9.20n.; cf. Rom 1.16). John, see 12.12n. According to 11.19, missionaries had previously reached the island. 6: Paphos, capital of Cyprus, located in the extreme west. Magician, see 8.9n. Bar-Jesus, "son of Jesus [or Joshua]." 7: The island was a senatorial province ruled by a proconsul. Sergius Paulus, another Roman official favorable to Christianity (see 10.1n.). 8: Elymas does not mean "Bar-Jesus." 9: Saul was his Jewish name, used up to this point to stress his origin; Paul was his Roman name, the one he was generally known by, and is used from now on in Acts as missionary activity aims at both Jews and Gentiles. 10–11: Compare Peter's rebuke of Simon (8.20–24).

Chs 13–14: First missionary journey of Paul mist and darkness came over him, and he went about groping for someone to lead him by the hand. ¹² When the proconsul saw what had happened, he believed, for he was astonished at the teaching about the Lord.

¹³ Then Paul and his companions set sail from Paphos and came to Perga in Pamphylia. John, however, left them and returned to Jerusalem; ¹⁴ but they went on from Perga and came to Antioch in Pisidia. And on the sabbath day they went into the synagogue and sat down. ¹⁵ After the reading of the law and the prophets, the officials of the synagogue sent them a message, saying, “Brothers, if you have any word of exhortation for the people, give it.” ¹⁶ So Paul stood up and with a gesture began to speak:

“You Israelites,^a and others who fear God, listen. ¹⁷ The God of this people Israel chose our ancestors and made the people great during their stay in the land of Egypt, and with uplifted arm he led them out of it.¹⁸ For about forty years he put up with^a them in the wilderness.¹⁹ After he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Canaan, he gave them their land as an inheritance²⁰ for about four hundred fifty years. After that he gave them judges until the time of the prophet Samuel.²¹ Then they asked for a king; and God gave them Saul son of Kish, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, who reigned for forty years.²² When he had removed him, he made David their king. In his testimony about him he said, 'I have found David, son of Jesse, to be a man after my heart, who will carry out all my wishes.'²³ Of this man's posterity God has brought to Israel a Savior, Jesus, as he promised;²⁴ before his coming John had already proclaimed a baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel.²⁵ And as John was finishing his work, he said, 'What do you suppose that I am? I am not he. No, but one is coming after me; I am not worthy to untie the thong of the sandals^b on his feet.'

^a Gk Men, Israelites

13.13–52: Journey to Antioch of Pisidia and Iconium. The focus now clearly shifts to Paul as his first work in inner Asia Minor is depicted. 13: Perga is inland 8 mi (13 km) from Attalia (14.25), main seaport of Pamphylia, a small province south of the Taurus mountains, between Cilicia and Lycia. John . . . left, v. 5; see 15.38. 14: Antioch in Pisidia, about 100 mi (160 km) north of Perga. Synagogue, v. 5n. 15: One lesson each from the law and the prophets was customary. 16: Gesture, an orator’s move. Others who fear God, here and v. 26 is probably equivalent to “devout converts” to Judaism in v. 43 (where “convert” is the Gk word for proselyte; see 6.5n.). 17–25: The survey of biblical history emphasizes the theme of fulfillment in the latter part of the speech (vv. 23,27,29,32,33). 18:

²⁶ "My brothers, you descendants of Abraham's family, and others who fear God, to us^c the message of this salvation has been sent.²⁷ Because the residents of Jerusalem and their leaders did not recognize him or understand the words of the prophets that are read every sabbath, they fulfilled those words by condemning him.²⁸ Even though they found no cause for a sentence of death, they asked Pilate to have him killed.²⁹ When they had carried out everything that was written about him, they took him down from the tree and laid him in a tomb.³⁰ But God raised him from the dead;³¹ and for many days he appeared to those who came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, and they are now his witnesses to the people.³² And we bring you the good news that what God promised to our ancestors³³ he has fulfilled for us, their children, by raising Jesus; as also it is written in the second psalm,

'You are my Son;
today I have begotten you.'

³⁴ As to his raising him from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he has spoken in this way,

'I will give you the holy promises made to David.'

³⁵ Therefore he has also said in another psalm,

'You will not let your Holy One experience corruption.'

³⁶ For David, after he had served the purpose of God in his own generation, died,^d was laid beside his ancestors, and experienced corruption;³⁷ but he whom God raised up experienced no corruption.³⁸ Let it be known to you therefore, my brothers, that through this man forgiveness of sins is proclaimed to you;³⁹ by this Jesus^e everyone who believes is set free from all those sins^f from which you could not be freed by the law of Moses.⁴⁰ Beware, therefore, that what the prophets said does not happen to you:

^a Other ancient authorities read cared for

^b Gk untie the sandals

^c Other ancient authorities read you

^d Gk fell asleep

^e Gk this

^f Gk all

Context requires the reading he put up with them in the wilderness with Deut 1.31 (note a). 19: Seven nations, Deut 7.1; Josh 3.10; 24.11. 20: Four hundred fifty years from the entrance into Canaan to the building of the Temple may be an approximation. Samuel, 1 Sam 4.1. 21: 1 Sam 8.5; 9.15–17. 22: Ps 89.20; 1 Sam 13.14. 23: Posterity, see Lk 3.31. Savior, see 5.31n. For the promise, see 2 Sam 7.12. 24: Lk 3.3. 25: The Baptist's emphatic denial here (cf. Lk 3.16; Mk 1.7; Mt 3.11; Jn 1.20) may be aimed at those who continued to be his disciples (18.25; 19.3). 26: Salvation, 4.12; in vv. 38–39 it is forgiveness of sins (2.38; 10.43; Lk 24.47). 26–41: For argument and style compare Peter's speeches in 2.14–36; 3.12–26; 10.34–43. 27: Did not recognize . . . or understand, see 3.17. 28: No cause, Lk 23.4,14–15,22,47. Pilate, 3.13n. 29: Tree, 5.30n. 30: The resurrection is the heart of the gospel in Acts (3.15; 4.10; 10.40. 13.37). 31: Witnesses, 1.8n. 33: Ps 2.7. Raising Jesus, here in the sense of bringing him on the scene (in contrast to v. 34; cf. 3.22,26). 34: Isa 55.3. 35: Ps 16.10 (see Acts 2.27). 38: Forgiveness of sins, v. 26n. 39: Set free, lit. "justified"; the only reference to justification by faith in Acts fittingly appears on Paul's lips even if the sense is not fully that found ⁴¹ ‘Look, you scoffers!

Be amazed and perish,
for in your days I am doing a work, a work that you will never believe, even if someone tells you.’”

⁴² As Paul and Barnabas^a were going out, the people urged them to speak about these things again the next sabbath. ⁴³ When the meeting of the synagogue broke up, many Jews and devout converts to Judaism followed Paul and Barnabas, who spoke to them and urged them to continue in the grace of God.

⁴⁴ The next sabbath almost the whole city gathered to hear the word of the Lord.^b

⁴⁵ But when the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with jealousy; and blaspheming, they contradicted what was spoken by Paul.

⁴⁶ Then both Paul and Barnabas spoke out boldly, saying, “It was necessary that the word of God should be spoken first to you. Since you reject it and judge yourselves to be unworthy of eternal life, we are now turning to the Gentiles. ⁴⁷ For so the Lord has commanded us, saying,

‘I have set you to be a light for the Gentiles, so that you may bring salvation to the ends of the earth.’”

⁴⁸ When the Gentiles heard this, they were glad and praised the word of the Lord; and as many as had been destined for eternal life became believers. ⁴⁹ Thus the word of the Lord spread throughout the region. ⁵⁰ But the Jews incited the devout women of high standing and the leading men of the city, and stirred up persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and drove them out of their region. ⁵¹ So they shook the dust off their feet in protest against them, and went to Iconium. ⁵² And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

14 The same thing occurred in Iconium, where Paul and Barnabas^a went into the Jewish synagogue and spoke in such a way that a great number of both Jews and Greeks became believers. ² But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles and poisoned their minds against the brothers. ³ So they remained for a long time, speaking boldly for the Lord, who testified to the word of his grace by granting signs and wonders to be done through them. ⁴ But the residents of the city were divided; some sided with the Jews, and some with the apostles. ⁵ And when an attempt was made by both Gentiles and Jews, with their rulers, to mistreat them and to stone them, ⁶ the apostles^a learned of it and fled to Lystra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and to the surrounding country; ⁷ and there they continued proclaiming the good news.

⁸ In Lystra there was a man sitting who could not use his feet and had never walked, for he had been crippled from birth. ⁹ He listened to Paul as he was speaking. And Paul, looking at him intently and seeing that he had faith to be healed, ¹⁰ said in a loud voice, “Stand upright on your feet.” And the

^a Gk they

^b Other ancient authorities read God

in Paul's letters. 41: Hab 1.5. 43: Devout converts to Judaism, see v. 16n. 45: At the level of Luke's audience, the Jews, here and at other places in the narrative, may stand for “Jewish Christians” who opposed the relaxation of ritual practices promoted by Pauline and Lukan Christianity. 46: The same dramatic announcement of turning to the Gentiles occurs in 18.5–6; 28.25–28. Spoke out boldly, 14.3; 18.26; 19.8; 26.26; see 4.13n. 47: Isa 49.6; cf. Lk 2.32. 49: A typical summary that makes it clear that Acts claims to be only a partial report of the spread of Christianity; cf. 9.10n. 50: The scene depicted here (see 2 Tim 3.11) is repeated in subsequent accounts (see 14.2,19; 17.5,13). 51: They shook the dust off (18.6) to show that their responsibility ended (Lk 9.5; 10.11; Mt 10.14). Iconium, modern Konya, ca. 75 mi (120 km) southeast of Antioch.

14.1–28: Ministry in the Iconium region and return to Antioch. 1: In spite of the announcement of 13.46, Paul and Barnabas again start at the Jewish synagogue. 2: 13.50n. 4: The Jews, see 13.45n. The Gk word apostles is used of Paul and Barnabas in Acts only here and in v. 14. Since the term otherwise is limited to the twelve, here the meaning may be “apostles (i.e., emissaries) of the church of Antioch,” the church that sent them (13.2–3). 6: Lystra, according to 16.1 the home of Timothy, was a Roman colony 24 mi (40 km) south-southwest of Iconium. Derbe, another town in Lycaonia 60 mi (96 km) southeast of Lystra. 7: In Acts persecution always leads to new opportunities. 8–18: Cf. 3.1–8. In this and other episodes in Acts Paul's words and actions parallel those of Peter man^a sprang up and began to walk. ¹¹ When the crowds saw what Paul had done, they shouted in the Lycaonian language, “The gods have come down to us in human form!” ¹² Barnabas they called Zeus, and Paul they called Hermes, because he was the chief speaker. ¹³ The priest of Zeus, whose temple was just outside the city,^b brought oxen and garlands to the gates; he and the crowds wanted to offer sacrifice. ¹⁴ When the apostles Barnabas and Paul heard of it, they tore their clothes and rushed out into the crowd, shouting, ¹⁵ “Friends,^c why are you doing this? We are mortals just like you, and we bring you good news, that you should turn from these worthless things to the living God, who made the heaven and the earth and the sea and all that is in them. ¹⁶ In past generations he allowed all the nations to follow their own ways; ¹⁷ yet he has not left himself without a witness in doing good—giving you rains from heaven and fruitful seasons, and filling you with food and your hearts with joy.” ¹⁸ Even with these words, they scarcely restrained the crowds from offering sacrifice to them.

¹⁹ But Jews came there from Antioch and Iconium and won over the crowds. Then they stoned Paul and dragged him out of the city, supposing that he was dead. ²⁰ But when the disciples surrounded him, he got up and went into the city. The next day he went on with Barnabas to Derbe.

²¹ After they had proclaimed the good news to that city and had made many disciples, they returned to Lystra, then on to Iconium and Antioch. ²² There they strengthened the souls of the disciples and encouraged them to continue in the faith, saying, “It is through many persecutions that we must enter the kingdom of God.” ²³ And after they had appointed elders for them in each church, with prayer and fasting they entrusted them to the Lord in whom they had come to believe.

²⁴ Then they passed through Pisidia and came to Pamphylia. ²⁵ When they had spoken the word in Perga, they went down to Attalia. ²⁶ From there they sailed back to Antioch, where they had been commended to the grace of God for the work^d that they had completed. ²⁷ When they arrived, they called the church together and related all that God had done with them, and how he had opened a door of faith for the Gentiles. ²⁸ And they stayed there with the disciples for some time.

15 Then certain individuals came down from Judea and were teaching the brothers, “Unless you are circumcised according to the custom of Moses, you cannot be saved.” ² And after Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and debate with them, Paul and Barnabas and some of the others were appointed to go up to Jerusalem to discuss this question with the apostles and the elders. ³ So they were sent on their way by the church, and as they passed through both Phoenicia and Samaria, they reported the conversion of the Gentiles, and brought

^a Gk he

^b Or The priest of Zeus-Outside-the-City

^c Gk Men

^d Or committed in the grace of God to the work

earlier. 11–12: According to a myth of this region, the gods Zeus and Hermes visited Baucis and Philemon in human form and rewarded their hospitality (Ovid, Metamorphoses, 8.618–724). Paul, the chief speaker, was hailed as the messenger of the gods, not the chief god. 14: Apostles, see 14.4n. Tore their clothes, a sign of horror and dismay at what they looked upon as blasphemy (cf. Mk 14.63). 15–17: Cf. 17.22–31; 1 Thess 1.9–10. Paul (v. 15), like Peter (10.26), rejects worship of himself. 19: 13.50n. Paul tells of receiving a stoning in 2 Cor 11.25; see 2 Tim 3.11. 20: Perhaps a miraculous recovery. 23: In Acts, Paul’s churches are ruled by elders (cf. 20.17). Their presence may reflect conditions in Luke’s day read back into the earlier period (see 15.2n.). The word is not used in Paul’s own letters (but see 1 Tim 4.14; 5.17; Titus 1.5). See 11.30n. 25: Attalia, the seaport of Perga (13.13n.). 26: Antioch, their starting point for the work (13.2) now completed.

15.1–35: Jerusalem affirms the admission of Gentiles. 1: Certain individuals, cf. v. 5, Pharisees; Gal 2.4, “false believers.” Unless you are circumcised and “keep the law” (v. 5), reopens issues seemingly settled with the approval of the “circumcised believers” (11.2n.,18) in 11.1–18. If the right of Gentile admission to the church was confirmed in ch 11, the present discussion may raise the issue of the conditions that might nevertheless apply. 2: Were appointed, in Gal 2.2 Paul says he went “by revelation” (Gal 2.2). Elders (11.30n.; 14.23n.) now appear with the apostles (vv. 4,6,22,23; 16.4n.) as leaders of the Jerusalem church under James (vv. 13,19). Peter is the great joy to all the believers.^a ⁴ When they came to Jerusalem, they were welcomed by the church and the apostles and the elders, and they reported all that God had done with them. ⁵ But some believers who belonged to the sect of the Pharisees stood up and said, “It is necessary for them to be circumcised and ordered to keep the law of Moses.”

⁶ The apostles and the elders met together to consider this matter. ⁷ After there had been much debate, Peter stood up and said to them, “My brothers,^b you know that in the early days God made a choice among you, that I should be the one through whom the Gentiles would hear the message of the good news and become believers. ⁸ And God, who knows the human heart, testified to them by giving them the Holy Spirit, just as he did to us; ⁹ and in cleansing their hearts by faith he has made no distinction between them and us. ¹⁰ Now therefore why are you putting God to the test by placing on the neck of the disciples a yoke that neither our ancestors nor we have been able to bear?

¹¹ On the contrary, we believe that we will be saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus, just as they will.”

¹² The whole assembly kept silence, and listened to Barnabas and Paul as they told of all the signs and wonders that God had done through them among the Gentiles. ¹³ After they finished speaking, James replied, “My brothers,^b listen to me. ¹⁴ Simeon has related how God first looked favorably on the Gentiles, to take from among them a people for his name. ¹⁵ This agrees with the words of the prophets, as it is written,

¹⁶ After this I will return, and I will rebuild the dwelling of David,
which has fallen;
from its ruins I will rebuild it,
and I will set it up,

¹⁷ so that all other peoples may seek the Lord—
even all the Gentiles over whom my name has been called.

Thus says the Lord, who has been making these things ¹⁸ known from long ago.^c

¹⁹ Therefore I have reached the decision that we should not trouble those Gentiles who are turning to God, ²⁰ but we should write to them to abstain only from things polluted by idols and from fornication and from whatever has been strangled^d and from blood.

²¹ For in every city, for generations past, Moses has had those who proclaim him, for he has been read aloud every sabbath in the synagogues.”

²² Then the apostles and the elders, with the consent of the whole church, decided

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk Men, brothers

^c Other ancient authorities read things. ¹⁸ Known to God from of old are all his works.

^d Other ancient authorities lack and from whatever has been strangled only apostle named; the others function as a corporate symbol as they have throughout. 5: In Acts Pharisees are portrayed as believers (26.5) or tolerant of Christianity (5.34), often in sharp contrast to Sadducees (4.1–2; 5.17; 23.6–9). 7–9: Peter’s second summary (see 11.1–18) of the events narrated in 10.1–48. I should be the one, contrast Gal 2.7–8. 10: The yoke is that of the law (Lk 11.46); Paul’s view (Rom 7.12; Phil 3.6) is different. 11: Peter’s words echo Paul’s language (Rom 3.24). 12: 14.27; 15.4. The contentious debate reported in Gal 2 is passed over in silence in Acts. 13: James, see 12.17n. 14: Simeon, the Semitic form of Peter’s given name, emphasizing connections with Judaism even as the church is becoming a mixed group (v. 19) of Jews and Gentiles (see 14.1; 17.4,11–12; 18.4,8; 19.10). 16–18: Am 9.11–12; Jer 12.15; Isa 45.21. 20: Things polluted by idols, i.e., food sacrificed to them—prohibiting by extension idolatry itself (note Paul’s more liberal stance in 1 Cor 10.27–29). Whatever has been strangled, i.e., meat not ritually butchered, which may mean the same thing as blood, although the latter could mean murder. Suggested backgrounds for the items included in the “apostolic decree” include the so-called Noachian precepts (regulations to be observed by all peoples; see Gen 9.4–6) and the regulations for Gentiles living among Jews in Lev 17–18. The list may have a more practical function (avoid non-kosher food and fornication) or stipulate matters beyond compromise (idolatry, murder, and incest). 21: Moses, selections from the Torah (the first five books of the Bible), traditionally thought to have been written by Moses, read aloud in weekly Jewish services. The necessity of the decree (v. 20) is explained in terms of the pervasiveness of Jewish practices, which continued to be observed by Jewish Christians (cf. 21.20–25). 22: Silas may be the Silvanus of

Chs 15–18: Second missionary journey of Paul to choose men from among their members^a and to send them to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas. They sent Judas called Barsabbas, and Silas, leaders among the brothers,²³ with the following letter: “The brothers, both the apostles and the elders, to the believers^b of Gentile origin in Antioch and Syria and Cilicia, greetings.²⁴ Since we have heard that certain persons who have gone out from us, though with no instructions from us, have said things to disturb you and have unsettled your minds,^c ²⁵ we have decided unanimously to choose representatives^d and send them to you, along with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,²⁶ who have risked their lives for the sake of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁷ We have therefore sent Judas and Silas, who themselves will tell you the same things by word of mouth. ²⁸ For it has seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us to impose on you no further burden than these essentials: ²⁹ that you abstain from what has been sacrificed to idols and from blood and from what is strangled^e and from fornication. If you keep yourselves from these, you will do well. Farewell.”

³⁰ So they were sent off and went down to Antioch. When they gathered the congregation together, they delivered the letter. ³¹ When its members^f read it, they rejoiced at the exhortation. ³² Judas and Silas, who were themselves prophets, said much to encourage and strengthen the believers.^b ³³ After they had been there for some time, they were sent off in peace by the believers^b to those who had sent them.^g ³⁵ But Paul and Barnabas remained in Antioch, and there, with many

^a Gk from among them

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities add saying, ‘You must be circumcised and keep the law’

^d Gk men

^e Other ancient authorities lack and from what is strangled

^f Gk When they

^g Other ancient authorities add verse 34, But it seemed good to Silas to remain there

2 Cor 1.19; 1 Thess 1.1; 2 Thess 1.1. He becomes a missionary companion of Paul at 15.40. 28: To the Holy Spirit and to us, see 5.3n. No further burden than these essentials, cf. Gal 2.10. 32: Prophets, 13.1n. 35: 11.26; 14.28.

others, they taught and proclaimed the word of the Lord.

³⁶ After some days Paul said to Barnabas, “Come, let us return and visit the believers^a in every city where we proclaimed the word of the Lord and see how they are doing.”

³⁷ Barnabas wanted to take with them John called Mark. ³⁸ But Paul decided not to take with them one who had deserted them in Pamphylia and had not accompanied them in the work. ³⁹ The disagreement became so sharp that they parted company; Barnabas took Mark with him and sailed away to Cyprus. ⁴⁰ But Paul chose Silas and set out, the believers^a commending him to the grace of the Lord. ⁴¹ He went through Syria and Cilicia, strengthening the churches.

16 Paul^b went on also to Derbe and to Lystra, where there was a disciple named Timothy, the son of a Jewish woman who was a believer; but his father was a Greek. ² He was well spoken of by the believers^a in Lystra and Iconium. ³ Paul wanted Timothy to accompany him; and he took him and had him circumcised because of the Jews who were in those places, for they all knew that his father was a Greek. ⁴ As they went from town to town, they delivered to them for observance the decisions that had been reached by the apostles and elders who were in Jerusalem. ⁵ So the churches were strengthened in the faith and increased in numbers daily.

⁶ They went through the region of Phrygia and Galatia, having been forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia. ⁷ When they had come opposite Mysia, they attempted to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit of Jesus did not allow them; ⁸ so, passing by Mysia, they went down to Troas. ⁹ During the night Paul had a vision: there stood a man of Macedonia pleading with him and saying, “Come over to Macedonia and help us.” ¹⁰ When he had seen the vision, we immediately tried to cross over to Macedonia, being convinced that God had called us to proclaim the good news to them.

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk He

15.36–16.5: Paul revisits the churches of the previous mission. 15.37–38: John called Mark . . . had deserted, see 12.12n.; 13.13. 39: Compare the disagreement here over John Mark with the report in Gal 2.11–13 that Barnabas disagreed with Paul over the legitimacy of Jews and Gentiles eating together. According to Acts, this problem had already been dealt with in 10.1–11.18, although the apostolic decree (15.20,29) may have been intended to make such meals acceptable for Jewish Christians. Barnabas and Mark revisit Cyprus (13.4–12), which had been omitted on the return journey to Antioch described in 14.24–26. 40: Paul now sets out as an “independent” missionary, accompanied by Silas (v. 22). Paul’s ties with Antioch may have been strained at this point (see Gal 2.11–14). 16.1: Derbe and . . . Lystra, 14.6n. Timothy (17.14–15; 18.5; 19.22; 20.4) was a more important companion of Paul than the picture in Acts suggests (see Rom 16.21; 1 Cor 16.10; 2 Cor 1.1,19; Phil 1.1; 1 Thess 1.1); he is referred to as Paul’s “child in the Lord” at 1 Cor 4.17. The pseudonymous letters 1 and 2 Timothy are ostensibly addressed to him. Timothy’s mother (see 2 Tim 1.5) is said to be Jewish, while his father was a Greek. 3: That Paul . . . had him circumcised seems unimaginable in view of passages such as 1 Cor 7.18 and Gal 5.2. Paul stresses in Gal 2.3 that Titus “was not compelled to be circumcised, though he was a Greek.” Timothy’s case might be different because his mother was Jewish (v. 1), yet the principle of matrilineal descent (the ethnicity of the child is determined by the mother) does not appear to have been in effect at this time. Luke may have allowed his theme of Paul’s faithfulness to the law in all respects (21.23–24; 22.3) to color the narrative here and refute the charge raised in 21.21 in advance. Because of the Jews, see 13.45n. 4: The decisions, the apostolic decree of 15.20. The apostles are mentioned here for the last time—their era is now over.

16.6–10: Directed by the Spirit through Asia Minor to Troas. Journey through the interior to the Aegean Sea. 6: The region is probably the country northwest of Iconium where both Phrygians and Galatians lived. Asia, the Roman province of that name in western Asia Minor (6.9). 7: Opposite Mysia, a northwestern part of the province of Asia; Bithynia was to its east. Spirit of Jesus, equivalent to the Holy Spirit in v. 6. 8: Troas, on the western coast of Mysia. 9: Macedonia, a Roman province in Europe including the cities of Philippi, Thessalonica, and Beroea. 10: The “we” passages (16.10–17; 20.5–15; 21.1–18; 27.1–28.16; see Introduction) begin here and bring additional vividness to the story.

¹¹ We set sail from Troas and took a straight course to Samothrace, the following day to Neapolis, ¹² and from there to Philippi, which is a leading city of the district^a of Macedonia and a Roman colony. We remained in this city for some days. ¹³ On the sabbath day we went outside the gate by the river, where we supposed there was a place of prayer; and we sat down and spoke to the women who had gathered there. ¹⁴ A certain woman named Lydia, a worshiper of God, was listening to us; she was from the city of Thyatira and a dealer in purple cloth. The Lord opened her heart to listen eagerly to what was said by Paul. ¹⁵ When she and her household were baptized, she urged us, saying, “If you have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come and stay at my home.” And she prevailed upon us.

¹⁶ One day, as we were going to the place of prayer, we met a slave-girl who had a spirit of divination and brought her owners a great deal of money by fortune-telling. ¹⁷ While she followed Paul and us, she would cry out, “These men are slaves of the Most High God, who proclaim to you^b a way of salvation.” ¹⁸ She kept doing this for many days. But Paul, very much annoyed, turned and said to the spirit, “I order you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her.” And it came out that very hour.

¹⁹ But when her owners saw that their hope of making money was gone, they seized Paul and Silas and dragged them into the marketplace before the authorities. ²⁰ When they had brought them before the magistrates, they said, “These men are disturbing our city; they are Jews²¹ and are advocating customs that are not lawful for us as Romans to adopt or observe.” ²² The crowd joined in attacking them, and the magistrates had them stripped of their clothing and ordered them to be beaten with rods. ²³ After they had given them a severe flogging, they threw them into prison and ordered the jailer to keep them securely. ²⁴ Following these instructions, he put them in the innermost cell and fastened their feet in the stocks.

²⁵ About midnight Paul and Silas were praying and singing hymns to God, and the prisoners were listening to them. ²⁶ Suddenly there was an earthquake, so violent that the foundations of the prison were shaken; and immediately all the doors were opened and everyone’s chains were unfastened. ²⁷ When the jailer woke up and saw the prison doors wide open, he drew his sword and was about to kill himself, since he supposed that the prisoners had escaped. ²⁸ But Paul shouted in a loud voice, “Do not harm yourself, for we are all here.” ²⁹ The jailer^c called for lights,

^a Other authorities read a city of the first district

^b Other ancient authorities read to us

^c Gk He

16.11–40: Paul and Silas in Philippi. 11: Samothrace, an island in the northern Aegean, midway between Troas and Neapolis, the seaport of Philippi. 12: Philippi was a leading city, but not the capital, of Macedonia. It was populated by discharged soldiers who received grants of land and enjoyed the special civic rights that pertained to a Roman colony (freedom from taxation; Roman legal procedures). 13: The Gk word normally rendered “prayer” in the New Testament can also mean a place of prayer, as here, which may or may not imply a building (synagogue). By the river, some evidence suggests that Diaspora synagogues were frequently located near water. As usual in Acts, Paul seeks out the Jewish community in a new place. 14: Worshiper of God, the same word is used to describe proselytes in 13.43 but is applied to “women of high standing” in 13.50 in contradistinction to Jews. The term might simply describe Lydia as pious or suggest that she is attracted to Judaism. Thyatira (Rev 2.18–29), a city of Lydia, a region in western Asia Minor, was a center for the dyeing industry. 15: She and her household were baptized, dependents followed the head of the household in religious matters (v. 31; 10.2; 1 Cor 1.16). 17: In Lk 8.28 the Gerasene demoniac identifies Jesus as Son of the Most High God. The epithet is common for God in the Psalms of the Septuagint. The “we” passage (v. 10n.) stops here and resumes at 20.5. 19: Acts frowns on making money by magical or supernatural means (see 8.18–24; 19.25n.). 20: Magistrates, Gk “generals”; here probably not a military but a civic term (apparently to be distinguished from the “authorities,” v. 19). 21: It was not lawful for Jews to make converts of Romans. 22–23: Cf. 2 Cor 11.23–25 (“imprisonments . . . floggings . . . beaten with rods”). 24: The familiar motif of apparently escape-proof security (5.19–20; 12.6). 26: An earthquake, here a supernatural event (see 4.31). Doors open and bonds are loosened for Dionysus in Euripides’ Bacchae 447–48; see also Ovid, Metamorphoses 15.669–71. See 12.6–11n. 27: Drew his sword, a Roman and rushing in, he fell down trembling before Paul and Silas. ³⁰ Then he brought them outside and said, “Sirs, what must I do to be saved?” ³¹ They answered, “Believe on the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved, you and your household.” ³² They spoke the word of the Lord^a to him and to all who were in his house. ³³ At the same hour of the night he took them and washed their wounds; then he and his entire family were baptized without delay. ³⁴ He brought them up into the house and set food before them; and he and his entire household rejoiced that he had become a believer in God.

³⁵ When morning came, the magistrates sent the police, saying, “Let those men go.” ³⁶ And the jailer reported the message to Paul, saying, “The magistrates sent word to let you go; therefore come out now and go in peace.” ³⁷ But Paul replied, “They have beaten us in public, uncondemned, men who are Roman citizens, and have thrown us into prison; and now are they going to discharge us in secret? Certainly not! Let them come and take us out themselves.” ³⁸ The police reported these words to the magistrates, and they were afraid when they heard that they were Roman citizens; ³⁹ so they came and apologized to them. And they took them out and asked them to leave the city. ⁴⁰ After leaving the prison they went to Lydia’s home; and when they had seen and encouraged the brothers and sisters^b there, they departed.

17 After Paul and Silas^c had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the Jews. ² And Paul went in, as was his custom, and on three sabbath days argued with them from the scriptures, ³ explaining and proving that it was necessary for the Messiah^d to suffer and to rise from the dead, and saying, “This is the Messiah,^d Jesus whom I am proclaiming to you.” ⁴ Some of them were persuaded and joined Paul and Silas, as did a great many of the devout Greeks and not a few of the leading women. ⁵ But the Jews became jealous, and with the help of some ruffians in the marketplaces they formed a mob and set the city in an uproar. While they were searching for Paul and Silas to bring them out to the assembly, they attacked Jason’s house. ⁶ When they could not find them, they dragged Jason and some believers^b before the city authorities,^e shouting, “These people who have been turning the world upside down have come here also, ⁷ and Jason has entertained them as guests. They are all acting contrary to the decrees of the emperor, saying that there is another king named Jesus.” ⁸ The people and the city officials were disturbed when they heard this, ⁹ and after they had taken bail from Jason and the others, they let them go.

¹⁰ That very night the believers^b sent Paul and Silas off to Berea; and when they arrived, they went to the Jewish synagogue. ¹¹ These Jews were more receptive than those in Thessalonica, for they welcomed the mes-

^a Other ancient authorities read word of God

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk they

^d Or the Christ

^e Gk politarchs

jailer whose prisoner escaped was liable to forfeit his life (cf. 12.19; 27.42). 30: The question is elicited by the supernatural circumstances. 33: The entire household is baptized (v. 15). 35: Police, lictors, officials who enforced the decisions of a magistrate. 37–38: With dramatic flair the reader suddenly learns that both Paul and Silas are Roman citizens protected by law against scourging (22.25; contrast 2 Cor 11.23–25). This surprising increase in Paul’s credentials strongly endorses the theme of the compatibility of Christianity with Roman life (see 10.1n.; 13.7n.).

17.1–15: From Thessalonica to Athens. Paul founds churches in Thessalonica and Berea. 1: Amphipolis and Apollonia were on the Via Egnatia between Philippi and Thessalonica (modern Saloniki), capital of the second district of Macedonia. 2: His custom, the pattern of starting a new mission in a synagogue (vv. 1,10,17) is explicitly stated (see 13.5n.; 14.1n.). 3: See 3.18n. 4: Devout Greeks, see 16.14n. Leading women, v. 12; contrast 13.50. 5: Jealous, 13.45. On the typical nature of the scene, see 13.50n.; cf. 1 Thess 2.14–16. 6–7: City authorities, i.e., politarchs, a Macedonian title for non-Roman magistrates. Serious charges of activities that threaten Roman order are made; cf. Lk 23.2. 9: Had taken bail from Jason, had made him financially and legally responsible for future good behavior. 10: Berea, a city of Macedonia, 36 mi (58 km) west-southwest of Thessalonica. 11–12: Jews and sage very eagerly and examined the scriptures every day to see whether these things were so. ¹² Many of them therefore believed, including not a few Greek women and men of high standing. ¹³ But when the Jews of Thessalonica learned that the word of God had been proclaimed by Paul in Berea as well, they came there too, to stir up and incite the crowds. ¹⁴ Then the believers^a immediately sent Paul away to the coast, but Silas and Timothy remained behind. ¹⁵ Those who conducted Paul brought him as far as Athens; and after receiving instructions to have Silas and Timothy join him as soon as possible, they left him.

¹⁶ While Paul was waiting for them in Athens, he was deeply distressed to see that the city was full of idols. ¹⁷ So he argued in the synagogue with the Jews and the devout persons, and also in the marketplace^b every day with those who happened to be there. ¹⁸ Also some Epicurean and Stoic philosophers debated with him. Some said, “What does this babbler want to say?” Others said, “He seems to be a proclaimer of foreign divinities.” (This was because he was telling the good news about Jesus and the resurrection.) ¹⁹ So they took him and brought him to the Areopagus and asked him, “May we know what this new teaching is that you are presenting? ²⁰ It sounds rather strange to us, so we would like to know what it means.” ²¹ Now all the Athenians and the foreigners living there would spend their time in nothing but telling or hearing something new.

²² Then Paul stood in front of the Areopagus and said, “Athenians, I see how extremely religious you are in every way. ²³ For as I went through the city and looked carefully at the objects of your worship, I found among them an altar with the inscription, ‘To an unknown god.’ What therefore you worship as unknown, this I proclaim to you. ²⁴ The God who made the world and everything in it, he who is Lord of heaven and earth, does not live in shrines made by human hands, ²⁵ nor is he served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all mortals life and breath and all things. ²⁶ From one ancestor^c he made all nations to inhabit the whole earth, and he allotted the times of their existence and the boundaries of the places where they would live, ²⁷ so that they would search for God^d and perhaps grope for him and find him—though indeed he is not far from each one of us. ²⁸ For ‘In him we live and move and have our being’; as even some of your own poets have said,

‘For we too are his offspring.’

^a Gk brothers

^b Or civic center; Gk agora

^c Gk From one; other ancient authorities read From one blood

^d Other ancient authorities read the Lord

Gentiles believe (15.14n). Greek women and men of high standing, Christianity is attracting people with status (16.37–38n). 14: To the coast, where he would take a ship to Athens (v. 15).

17.16–34: Paul at Athens. Paul is portrayed as the first Christian philosopher, using Stoic and Jewish arguments. 16: Waiting . . . in Athens, cf. 1 Thess 3.1–2. Full of idols, v. 22; cf. 1 Thess 1.9. 18: Epicurean and Stoic philosophers, recognizable tenets from both groups are incorporated into Paul’s speech in vv. 22–31. Babbler, a term of disparagement; the Gk word literally refers to birds “picking up seeds,” and of persons “one who makes a living by picking up scraps” (here implied: “of learning”). Jesus and Anastasis (the Gk word for resurrection) are mistaken for two foreign divinities. 19: Took him, could either imply arrest or friendly escort, and Areopagus could refer either to arraignment before the Council of the Areopagus (essentially the chief Roman court in Athens) or the Areopagus hill west of the Acropolis. The request “May we know . . . ?” suggests a more relaxed setting for discussion, though allusions to Socrates before the Areopagus court are surely intended (see v. 34). 21: The curiosity of the Athenians was proverbial. 22–31: Contrast the approach to Gentiles attributed to Paul in this speech with Rom 1.18–31. 22: Extremely religious, can be taken in a good or bad sense. It connects to “idols” in v. 16 and leads to v. 23. 23: To an unknown god, such an inscription has not been found in Athens to date; the plural form is attested. The scene intends to illustrate the anxiety of the “extremely religious” (v. 22) lest the honor due to any deity be inadvertently omitted and gives Paul an opening to proclaim the Christian message. 24–25: God as the creator (14.15) is an idea common to Jews (Gen 1.1) and Greeks (e.g., Plato, Timaeus). Shrines made by human hands, 7.48n. 26: From one ancestor, Adam. 27: God created “all nations” (v. 26) to search for God (cf. 14.17). That God was near to all people was a Stoic belief. 28: Although the first quotation is sometimes attributed to

²⁹ Since we are God's offspring, we ought not to think that the deity is like gold, or silver, or stone, an image formed by the art and imagination of mortals. ³⁰ While God has overlooked the times of human ignorance, now he commands all people everywhere to repent, ³¹ because he has fixed a day on which he will have the world judged in righteousness by a man whom he has appointed, and of this he has given assurance to all by raising him from the dead."

³² When they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some scoffed; but others said, "We will hear you again about this." ³³ At that point Paul left them. ³⁴ But some of them joined him and became believers, including Dionysius the Areopagite and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

18 After this Paul^a left Athens and went to Corinth. ² There he found a Jew named Aquila, a native of Pontus, who had recently come from Italy with his wife Priscilla, because Claudius had ordered all Jews to leave Rome. Paul^b went to see them, ³ and, because he was of the same trade, he stayed with them, and they worked together—by trade they were tentmakers. ⁴ Every sabbath he would argue in the synagogue and would try to convince Jews and Greeks.

⁵ When Silas and Timothy arrived from Macedonia, Paul was occupied with proclaiming the word,^c testifying to the Jews that the Messiah^d was Jesus. ⁶ When they opposed and reviled him, in protest he shook the dust from his clothes^e and said to them, "Your blood be on your own heads! I am innocent. From now on I will go to the Gentiles." ⁷ Then he left the synagogue^f and went to the house of a man named Titius^g Justus, a worshiper of God; his house was next door to the synagogue. ⁸ Crispus, the official of the synagogue, became a believer in the Lord, together with all his household; and many of the Corinthians who heard Paul became believers and were baptized. ⁹ One night the Lord said to Paul in a vision, "Do not be afraid, but speak and do not be silent; ¹⁰ for I am with you, and no one will lay a hand on you to harm you, for there are many in this city who are my people." ¹¹ He stayed there a year and six

^a Gk he

^b Gk He

^c Gk with the word

^d Or the Christ

^e Gk reviled him, he shook out his clothes

^f Gk left there

^g Other ancient authorities read Titus

Epimenides, its language is probably to be associated with Posidonius (based on Plato); the second quotation is from Aratus (Phaenomena 5), a Greek poet of Cilicia educated as a Stoic. In Paul's usage the original pantheistic sense of both "quotations" is reinterpreted. 30: Ignorance, cf. 14.16. 31: That the world will be judged (10.42) . . . by a man, i.e., Jesus (2.22,36), appointed by God has been guaranteed by the resurrection. 32: Some scoffed, Greek thought made no provision for resurrection of the body (e.g., Aeschylus, Eumenides, 647–648; cf. 1 Cor 15.12,35), but others were intrigued. 34: The conversion of Dionysius, a member of the Areopagus court, contributes to the theme of rulers attracted to Christianity. The note about Damaris conforms to a pattern found in both the Gospel (e.g., Lk 15.3–10) and Acts (e.g., 5.1–11) of juxtaposing characters of both genders.

18.1–17: Paul in Corinth. See 1 Cor 1–4 for Paul's own account. 1: Corinth, the old city was famous but was razed in 146 BCE by the Romans. It was refounded as a colony in 44 BCE by Julius Caesar, became the capital of the senatorial province of Achaia in 27 BCE, and quickly emerged as an important commercial center owing to its location on the isthmus linking the Peloponnesus to mainland Greece with neighboring seaports to the east and west. 2: Pontus, a Roman province of Asia Minor on the Black Sea. An edict issued by the emperor Claudius (see Suetonius, Claudius 25) expelling the Jews from Rome can probably be dated to 49 CE; this verse might suggest that the expulsion targeted Jews proselytizing on behalf of Christ (see 13.35n.). Aquila and Priscilla (or Prisca) worked with Paul, according to Rom 16.3–5. The fact that a church met in their house (Rom 16.5; 1 Cor 16.19) suggests that they were wealthy. In the epistles (including 2 Tim 4.19) their names appear in reverse order. 3: Same trade . . . tentmakers, see 20.34. He stayed with them, possibly "lodged with them." 4: Synagogue, 13.5n.; Jews and Greeks, 15.14n. 6: 13.46n.,51n. Your blood . . . , 2 Sam 1.16; Mt 27.25. 7: Worshiper of God, 16.14n. 8: Crispus, his baptism by Paul is mentioned as an exceptional case in 1 Cor 1.14. The conversion of the official of the synagogue (i.e., president; see 13.15) and his household (16.15n.) illustrates the continued success of Paul's mission among Jews (in spite of v. 6) in addition to Gentiles (many of the Corinthians . . . became believers). 9–10: Cf. Isa 41.10; 43.5; months, teaching the word of God among them.

Chs 18–21: Third missionary journey of Paul

¹² But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews made a united attack on Paul and brought him before the tribunal. ¹³ They said, “This man is persuading people to worship God in ways that are contrary to the law.” ¹⁴ Just as Paul was about to speak, Gallio said to the Jews, “If it were a matter of crime or serious villainy, I would be justified in accepting the complaint of you Jews; ¹⁵ but since it is a matter of questions about words and names and your own law, see to it yourselves; I do not wish to be a judge of these matters.” ¹⁶ And he dismissed them from the tribunal.

¹⁷ Then all of them^a seized Sosthenes, the official of the synagogue, and beat him in front of the tribunal. But Gallio paid no attention to any of these things.

¹⁸ After staying there for a considerable time, Paul said farewell to the believers^b and sailed for Syria, accompanied by Priscilla and Aquila. At Cenchreae he had his hair cut, for he was under a vow. ¹⁹ When they reached Ephesus, he left them there, but first he himself went into the synagogue and had a discussion with the Jews. ²⁰ When they asked

^a Other ancient authorities read all the Greeks

^b Gk brothers

Jer 1.8.12: L. Junius Gallio, older brother of the Roman philosopher Seneca, proconsul of Achaia about 52 CE. The dating of Gallio’s proconsulship is crucial for chronological reconstructions of Paul’s career. The Jews, see 13.45n. 13: The law, could mean the Jewish law (as Gallio takes it in v. 15) or Roman law, i.e., charges of sedition similar to the complaints raised in 16.21 and 17.7 (the latter would make more sense to present before a proconsul). 14–15: Gallio again voices one of the subthemes of the book: Christianity is not a cause of concern for Rome. Roman representatives tend to be either outwardly favorable, such as Cornelius (ch 10) and Sergius Paulus (13.7–12, or at worst indifferent to Christianity, suggesting that it need not be viewed as incompatible with Rome (see 10.1n.). 17: Sosthenes may be the one mentioned in 1 Cor 1.1, but the name is common.

18.18–23: End of the second missionary journey and beginning of the third. Paul returns to Antioch and goes back to Asia Minor. 18: Paul had his hair cut as a temporary nazirite vow (21.23–24; Num 6.1–21), but the rule was to cut the hair off at the end of the vow. Cenchreae, the eastern port of Corinth (Rom 16.1). 19: Ephesus, on him to stay longer, he declined;²¹ but on taking leave of them, he said, “I^a will return to you, if God wills.” Then he set sail from Ephesus.

²² When he had landed at Caesarea, he went up to Jerusalem^b and greeted the church, and then went down to Antioch.

²³ After spending some time there he departed and went from place to place through the region of Galatia^c and Phrygia, strengthening all the disciples.

²⁴ Now there came to Ephesus a Jew named Apollos, a native of Alexandria. He was an eloquent man, well-versed in the scriptures. ²⁵ He had been instructed in the Way of the Lord; and he spoke with burning enthusiasm and taught accurately the things concerning Jesus, though he knew only the baptism of John. ²⁶ He began to speak boldly in the synagogue; but when Priscilla and Aquila heard him, they took him aside and explained the Way of God to him more accurately. ²⁷ And when he wished to cross over to Achaia, the believers^d encouraged him and wrote to the disciples to welcome him. On his arrival he greatly helped those who through grace had become believers, ²⁸ for he powerfully refuted the Jews in public, showing by the scriptures that the Messiah^e is Jesus.

19 While Apollos was in Corinth, Paul passed through the interior regions and came to Ephesus, where he found some disciples. ² He said to them, “Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you became believers?” They replied, “No, we have not even heard that there is a Holy Spirit.” ³ Then he said, “Into what then were you baptized?” They answered, “Into John’s baptism.” ⁴ Paul said, “John baptized with the baptism of repentance, telling the people to believe in the one who was to come after him, that is, in Jesus.” ⁵ On hearing this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. ⁶ When Paul had laid his hands on them, the Holy Spirit came upon them, and they spoke in tongues and prophesied—⁷ altogether there were about twelve of them.

⁸ He entered the synagogue and for three months spoke out boldly, and argued persuasively about the kingdom of God. ⁹ When some stubbornly refused to believe and spoke evil of the Way before the congregation, he left them, taking the disciples with him, and argued daily in the lecture hall of Tyrannus.^f ¹⁰ This continued for two years, so that all the residents of Asia, both Jews and Greeks, heard the word of the Lord.

¹¹ God did extraordinary miracles through Paul, ¹² so that when the handkerchiefs or aprons that had touched his skin were brought to the sick, their diseases left them, and the evil spirits came out of them. ¹³ Then some itinerant Jewish exorcists tried to use the name of the Lord Jesus over those who had evil spirits, saying, “I adjure you by the Jesus

^a Other ancient authorities read I must at all costs keep the approaching festival in Jerusalem, but I

^b Gk went up

^c Gk the Galatian region

^d Gk brothers

^e Or the Christ

^f Other ancient authorities read of a certain Tyrannus, from eleven o'clock in the morning to four in the afternoon the Aegean coast, was the capital of the Roman province of Asia. 22: Caesarea, see 8.40n. Jerusalem still appears as the mother church. Antioch, see 11.19n. 23: The region of Galatia and Phrygia, see 16.6n.

18.24–28: Apollos in Ephesus. 25: The Way, see 9.2n. Although he taught accurately, he had not received Christian baptism (13.25n.). 26: Speak boldly, 13.46n. It is not disclosed in what sense things were explained . . . more accurately. 27–28: For Apollos’s activity in Corinth, see 1 Cor 1.12; 3.1–9, 21–23.

19.1–41: Paul’s long ministry in Ephesus. Paul wrote 1 and 2 Corinthians during the period of more than two years (v. 10; cf. 20.31) portrayed here. 1: The interior regions of Asia Minor (18.23). Disciples elsewhere in Acts means Christians. 2: All who read the Jewish scriptures would know of a Holy Spirit (Ps 51.11; Isa 63.10,11). The reference may be to outward signs of the Spirit’s presence (v. 6; 10.44–48n.). 3: John’s baptism, 13.25n. 5–6: See 6.6n.; 8.17. 8: Synagogue, 13.5n. Kingdom of God, 1.3n. 9: The Way, v. 23; see 9.2n. Tyrannus, perhaps a local philosopher; the name appears in inscriptions in Ephesus. The hours mentioned in note a suggest the building was available to Paul during siesta time. 10: During Paul’s stay of two years. . . all the residents of Asia heard the word (note the churches of Rev 2–3). The mixed character of the audience (Jews and Greeks) continues to be noted (15.14n.). 12: Compare 5.15; on parallels between Peter and Paul, see 14.8–18n. 13: For Jewish exorcists, see whom Paul proclaims.”¹⁴ Seven sons of a Jewish high priest named Sceva were doing this.¹⁵ But the evil spirit said to them in reply, “Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are you?”¹⁶ Then the man with the evil spirit leaped on them, mastered them all, and so overpowered them that they fled out of the house naked and wounded.¹⁷ When this became known to all residents of Ephesus, both Jews and Greeks, everyone was awestruck; and the name of the Lord Jesus was praised.¹⁸ Also many of those who became believers confessed and disclosed their practices.¹⁹ A number of those who practiced magic collected their books and burned them publicly; when the value of these books^a was calculated, it was found to come to fifty thousand silver coins.²⁰ So the word of the Lord grew mightily and prevailed.

²¹ Now after these things had been accomplished, Paul resolved in the Spirit to go through Macedonia and Achaia, and then to go on to Jerusalem. He said, “After I have gone there, I must also see Rome.”²² So he sent two of his helpers, Timothy and Erastus, to Macedonia, while he himself stayed for some time longer in Asia.

²³ About that time no little disturbance broke out concerning the Way.²⁴ A man named Demetrius, a silversmith who made silver shrines of Artemis, brought no little business to the artisans.²⁵ These he gathered together, with the workers of the same trade, and said, “Men, you know that we get our wealth from this business.²⁶ You also see and hear that not only in Ephesus but in almost the whole of Asia this Paul has persuaded and drawn away a considerable number of people by saying that gods made with hands are not gods.²⁷ And there is danger not only that this trade of ours may come into disrepute but also that the temple of the great goddess Artemis will be scorned, and she will be deprived of her majesty that brought all Asia and the world to worship her.”

²⁸ When they heard this, they were enraged and shouted, “Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!”²⁹ The city was filled with the confusion; and people^b rushed together to the theater, dragging with them Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonians who were Paul’s travel companions.³⁰ Paul wished to go into the crowd, but the disciples would not let him; ³¹ even some officials of the province of Asia,^c who were friendly to him, sent him a message urging him not to venture into the theater.³² Meanwhile, some were shouting one thing, some another; for the assembly was in confusion, and most of them did not know why they had come together.³³ Some of the crowd gave instructions to Alexander, whom the Jews had pushed forward. And Alexander motioned for silence and tried to make a defense before the people.³⁴ But when they recognized that he was a Jew, for about two hours all of them shouted in unison, “Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!”³⁵ But when the

^a Gk them

^b Gk they

^c Gk some of the Asiarchs

Lk 11.19. For use of the name outside the circle of Jesus, see Mk 9.38–39. 14: Sceva, a high priest by this name is not known. 15–16: The story makes it clear that the name (v. 17; 3.6n.) does not belong to the realm of magic. On a number of occasions Acts attempts to distinguish Christian miracle working from the activities of religious charlatans and profiteers (8.18–24; 13.6–12; 16.16–19). 19: Ephesus was such a noted center of magic that magical books were often called “Ephesian Scripts.” 21: Must . . . see Rome, 23.11; 27.24; cf. Rom 1.13–15; 15.22–29. 22: A city treasurer named Erastus is mentioned at Rom 16.23; the city of his office is not named, but the letter to the Romans was likely written in Corinth; the name also appears at 2 Tim 4.20. A Corinthian inscription mentions a Roman official (an aedile) by this name. 24: Shrines, apparently miniature temples for use in religious ceremonies or as souvenirs or amulets. Artemis, chief divinity of Ephesus; her temple was one of the seven wonders of the ancient world. 25: Wealth, the story joins others in which gain by religious means is criticized (see vv. 15–16n.). 26: See 17.24. 29: The theater has been excavated and could seat at least 24,000. Gaius and Aristarchus, see 20.4n. 31: Asiarchs (in note c) held office in a league of the cities of Asia and promoted the worship of the emperor. They were friendly to Paul and so portray again the favorable disposition of high officials toward Christianity. Such acceptance by high-status individuals suggested to Luke’s readers that social respectability was not beyond their grasp (16.37–38n.). 35: Temple keeper, a designation assumed by Asiatic cities that had built a town clerk had quieted the crowd, he said, “Citizens of Ephesus, who is there that does not know that the city of the Ephesians is the temple keeper of the great Artemis and of the statue that fell from heaven?^a ³⁶ Since these things cannot be denied, you ought to be quiet and do nothing rash. ³⁷ You have brought these men here who are neither temple robbers nor blasphemers of our^b goddess. ³⁸ If therefore Demetrius and the artisans with him have a complaint against anyone, the courts are open, and there are proconsuls; let them bring charges there against one another. ³⁹ If there is anything further^c you want to know, it must be settled in the regular assembly. ⁴⁰ For we are in danger of being charged with rioting today, since there is no cause that we can give to justify this commotion.” ⁴¹ When he had said this, he dismissed the assembly.

20 After the uproar had ceased, Paul sent for the disciples; and after encouraging them and saying farewell, he left for Macedonia. ² When he had gone through those regions and had given the believers^d much encouragement, he came to Greece, ³ where he stayed for three months. He was about to set sail for Syria when a plot was made against him by the Jews, and so he decided to return through Macedonia. ⁴ He was accompanied by Sopater son of Pyrrhus from Beroea, by Aristarchus and Secundus from Thessalonica, by Gaius from Derbe, and by Timothy, as well as by Tychicus and Trophi-mus from Asia. ⁵ They went ahead and were waiting for us in Troas; ⁶ but we sailed from Philippi after the days of Unleavened Bread, and in five days we joined them in Troas, where we stayed for seven days.

⁷ On the first day of the week, when we met to break bread, Paul was holding a discussion with them; since he intended to leave the next day, he continued speaking until midnight. ⁸ There were many lamps in the room upstairs where we were meeting. ⁹ A young man named Eutychus, who was sitting in the window, began to sink off into a deep sleep while Paul talked still longer. Overcome by sleep, he fell to the ground three floors below and was picked up dead. ¹⁰ But Paul went down, and bending over him took him in his arms, and said, “Do not be alarmed, for his life is in him.” ¹¹ Then Paul went upstairs, and after he had broken bread and eaten, he continued to converse with them until dawn; then he left. ¹² Meanwhile they had taken the boy away alive and were not a little comforted.

¹³ We went ahead to the ship and set sail for Assos, intending to take Paul on board there; for he had made this arrangement, intending to go by land himself. ¹⁴ When he met us in Assos, we took him on board and went

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Other ancient authorities read your

^c Other ancient authorities read about other matters

^d Gk given them

temple in honor of their patron god or the emperor. The statue that fell from heaven, apparently a meteorite. 36–40: An argument that Christians were entitled to due process and that the actions taken thus far were unwarranted is put into the mouth of the town clerk.

20.1–6: The last visit to Greece. 2: Through those regions, revisiting the churches of Philippi, Thessalonica, and Beroea (see 19.21). 3: Three months, at Corinth (see 2 Cor 12.14; 13.1; the problems evident in 2 Corinthians are not mentioned). A plot . . . by the Jews, 9.24; 20.19; 23.12. 4: Paul’s companions seem to be local representatives of churches that have contributed to the collection for Jerusalem organized by Paul (see 11.29n.) who are traveling with him to deliver it (Rom 15.25–29; 1 Cor 16.3–4). Apart from 24.17 there is no hint of this major project of Paul’s in Acts. Sopater, perhaps the Sosipater of Rom 16.21. Aristarchus, 19.29; 27.2 (Col 4.10; Philem 24). A Gaius from Macedonia is mentioned in 19.29 (cf. Rom 16.23; 1 Cor 1.14), but Derbe is in the same region as Timothy’s home (Lystra, see 16.1). Tychicus, Eph 6.21; Col 4.7; 2 Tim 4.12; Titus 3.12. Trophimus, 2 Tim 4.20. 5: The “we” passages (16.10n.) resume here at Philippi, the city where the previous passage ended (16.17). 6: Days of Unleavened Bread, 12.3n.

20.7–38: The raising of Eutychus and the speech to the Ephesian elders. 7: The first day of the week, Sunday. Break bread, see 2.42n.; 27.36–37. 9: Eutychus, a not uncommon name meaning “fortunate.” Three floors, a tenement-style building is pictured. 10: An understated miraculous resurrection (cf. 14.19–20). 13: Assos, a port town on the coast, southwest of Troas, opposite the northern end of the island of Lesbos. 14: Mitylene, capital to Mitylene. ¹⁵ We sailed from there, and on the following day we arrived opposite Chios. The next day we touched at Samos, and^a the day after that we came to Miletus. ¹⁶ For Paul had decided to sail past Ephesus, so that he might not have to spend time in Asia; he was eager to be in Jerusalem, if possible, on the day of Pentecost.

¹⁷ From Miletus he sent a message to Ephesus, asking the elders of the church to meet him. ¹⁸ When they came to him, he said to them:

“You yourselves know how I lived among you the entire time from the first day that I set foot in Asia, ¹⁹ serving the Lord with all humility and with tears, enduring the trials that came to me through the plots of the Jews. ²⁰ I did not shrink from doing anything helpful, proclaiming the message to you and teaching you publicly and from house to house, ²¹ as I testified to both Jews and Greeks about repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus. ²² And now, as a captive to the Spirit,^b I am on my way to Jerusalem, not knowing what will happen to me there, ²³ except that the Holy Spirit testifies to me in every city that imprisonment and persecutions are waiting for me. ²⁴ But I do not count my life of any value to myself, if only I may finish my course and the ministry that I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify to the good news of God’s grace.

²⁵ “And now I know that none of you, among whom I have gone about proclaiming the kingdom, will ever see my face again. ²⁶ Therefore I declare to you this day that I am not responsible for the blood of any of you, ²⁷ for I did not shrink from declaring to you the whole purpose of God. ²⁸ Keep watch over yourselves and over all the flock, of which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to shepherd the church of God^c that he obtained with the blood of his own Son.^d ²⁹ I know that after I have gone, savage wolves will come in among you, not sparing the flock. ³⁰ Some even from your own group will come distorting the truth in order to entice the disciples to follow them. ³¹ Therefore be alert, remembering that for three years I did not cease night or day to warn everyone with tears. ³² And now I commend you to God and to the message of his grace, a message that is able to build you up and to give you the inheritance among all who are sanctified. ³³ I coveted no one’s silver or gold or clothing. ³⁴ You know for yourselves that I worked with my own hands to support myself and my companions. ³⁵ In all this I have given you an example that by such work we must support the weak, remembering the words of the Lord Jesus, for he himself said, ‘It is more blessed to give than to receive.’”

³⁶ When he had finished speaking, he knelt down with them all and prayed. ³⁷ There was much weeping among them all; they embraced Paul and kissed him, ³⁸ grieving especially because of what he had said, that they would not see him again. Then they brought him to the ship.

^a Other ancient authorities add after remaining at Trogyllium

^b Or And now, bound in the spirit

^c Other ancient authorities read of the Lord

^d Or with his own blood; Gk with the blood of his Own

city of Lesbos. 15: Chios, an island south of Lesbos. Samos, an island southwest of Chios. Miletus, an important port on the western coast of Asia Minor at the mouth of the Meander River. The “we” passages resume again at 21.1. 16: Sail past Ephesus, while on route from Chios to Samos. Pentecost, see 2.1–41n. 17: Elders, 14.23n. 18–35: Paul’s “farewell” address, the only speech in Acts explicitly addressed to Christians. It reviews Paul’s accomplishments as depicted in Acts and looks forward to paint a picture of the church in Luke’s day. 21: Paul’s mission has been consistently portrayed as directed to both Jews and Greeks. 24–25: Finish my course . . . testify, a premonition of martyrdom (2 Tim 4.6). 27: Purpose of God, cf. 2.23; 4.28; 5.38–39; 13.36. 28: Overseers (Gk “episkopoi”), used to designate officials in secular institutions; here it indicates those described as elders in v. 17. Shepherd, an image for leadership both in the Hebrew Bible (Jer 3.15; 23.1–4; Ezek 34.1–24) and in nonbiblical writings that also appears in the New Testament (Jn 21.15–17; Eph 4.11, “pastors”). In 1 Pet 5.1–4 elders are exhorted to “tend the flock of God.” With his own blood (note d), understanding Jesus as a representative of God. Church has universal overtones; see 5.11n. Elsewhere in Luke–Acts, emphasis is placed on the resurrection, not the redemptive death of Christ. 29–30: Mt 7.15; Mk 13.22. 34: 18.3; 1 Cor 9.1–18. 35: A saying of Jesus not found in the Gospels.

21 When we had parted from them and set sail, we came by a straight course to Cos, and the next day to Rhodes, and from there to Patara.^a ² When we found a ship bound for Phoenicia, we went on board and set sail. ³ We came in sight of Cyprus; and leaving it on our left, we sailed to Syria and landed at Tyre, because the ship was to unload its cargo there. ⁴ We looked up the disciples and stayed there for seven days. Through the Spirit they told Paul not to go on to Jerusalem. ⁵ When our days there were ended, we left and proceeded on our journey; and all of them, with wives and children, escorted us outside the city. There we knelt down on the beach and prayed ⁶ and said farewell to one another. Then we went on board the ship, and they returned home.

⁷ When we had finished^b the voyage from Tyre, we arrived at Ptolemais; and we greeted the believers^c and stayed with them for one day. ⁸ The next day we left and came to Caesarea; and we went into the house of Philip the evangelist, one of the seven, and stayed with him. ⁹ He had four unmarried daughters^d who had the gift of prophecy. ¹⁰ While we were staying there for several days, a prophet named Agabus came down from Judea. ¹¹ He came to us and took Paul's belt, bound his own feet and hands with it, and said, "Thus says the Holy Spirit, 'This is the way the Jews in Jerusalem will bind the man who owns this belt and will hand him over to the Gentiles.'" ¹² When we heard this, we and the people there urged him not to go up to Jerusalem. ¹³ Then Paul answered, "What are you doing, weeping and breaking my heart?

For I am ready not only to be bound but even to die in Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." ¹⁴ Since he would not be persuaded, we remained silent except to say, "The Lord's will be done."

¹⁵ After these days we got ready and started to go up to Jerusalem. ¹⁶ Some of the disciples from Caesarea also came along and brought us to the house of Mnason of Cyprus, an early disciple, with whom we were to stay.

¹⁷ When we arrived in Jerusalem, the brothers welcomed us warmly. ¹⁸ The next day Paul went with us to visit James; and all the elders were present. ¹⁹ After greeting them, he related one by one the things that God had done among the Gentiles through his ministry. ²⁰ When they heard it, they praised God. Then they said to him, "You see, brother, how many thousands of believers there are among the Jews, and they are all zealous for the law. ²¹ They have been told about you that you teach all the Jews living among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, and that you tell them not to circumcise their children or observe the customs. ²² What then is to be done? They will certainly hear that you have come. ²³ So do what we tell you. We have four men who are under a vow. ²⁴ Join these men, go through the rite of purification with them, and pay for the shaving of their heads. Thus all will know that there is nothing in what they have been told about you, but that you yourself observe

^a Other ancient authorities add and Myra

^b Or continued

^c Gk brothers

^d Gk four daughters, virgins,

21.1–16: Journey to Jerusalem. 1: The "we" passages (16.10n.) resume. Cos, an island off the southwestern coast of Asia Minor. 4: V. 12; 20.23. 7: Ptolemais, a port town in Phoenicia (modern Akko, near Haifa), 22 mi (35 km) south of Tyre. 8: Philip the evangelist (8.5n.) had arrived in Caesarea (8.40n.) some time before. One of the seven, see 6.1–7. 9: Philip's daughters became important figures in the church traditions of Hierapolis and Ephesus. 10–11: Agabus (11.28), like Hebrew prophets (1 Kings 11.29–32; Isa 20.2–6), performs a symbolic act. The prediction is not strictly fulfilled in the chapters that follow. 12: V. 4. 14: Paul appears as a heroic figure, cf. Lk 22.42. 16: An early disciple, note Christianity in connection with Cyprus at 4.36; 11.19–20; 13.4–12.

21.17–26: Paul's observance of Jewish tradition. 17–20: The Jerusalem church accepts Paul and his accomplishments as complementary to their own in a harmonious portrait of unity (cf. Gal 2). 18: James, see 12.17n.; the elders, 11.30n. The "we" passage stops here. 20: Thousands of believers, Acts represents the success of Christianity among Jews as phenomenal (cf. 6.7). Zealous for the law, see 11.2n.; 15.1n.; 15.5n.; cf. Gal 2. 21: Moses, see 15.21n. The charge has been anticipated (16.3n.). The informants are not identified (see v. 28). 23–24: Paul can demonstrate his faithfulness to the law by undergoing purification for uncleanness with some others and paying the and guard the law.²⁵ But as for the Gentiles who have become believers, we have sent a letter with our judgment that they should abstain from what has been sacrificed to idols and from blood and from what is strangled^a and from fornication.”²⁶ Then Paul took the men, and the next day, having purified himself, he entered the temple with them, making public the completion of the days of purification when the sacrifice would be made for each of them.

²⁷ When the seven days were almost completed, the Jews from Asia, who had seen him in the temple, stirred up the whole crowd. They seized him,²⁸ shouting, “Fellow Israelites, help! This is the man who is teaching everyone everywhere against our people, our law, and this place; more than that, he has actually brought Greeks into the temple and has defiled this holy place.”²⁹ For they had previously seen Trophimus the Ephesian with him in the city, and they supposed that Paul had brought him into the temple.³⁰ Then all the city was aroused, and the people rushed together. They seized Paul and dragged him out of the temple, and immediately the doors were shut.³¹ While they were trying to kill him, word came to the tribune of the cohort that all Jerusalem was in an uproar.³² Immediately he took soldiers and centurions and ran down to them. When they saw the tribune and the soldiers, they stopped beating Paul.³³ Then the tribune came, arrested him, and ordered him to be bound with two chains; he inquired who he was and what he had done.³⁴ Some in the crowd shouted one thing, some another; and as he could not learn the facts because of the uproar, he ordered him to be brought into the barracks.³⁵ When Paul^b came to the steps, the violence of the mob was so great that he had to be carried by the soldiers.³⁶ The crowd that followed kept shouting, “Away with him!”

³⁷ Just as Paul was about to be brought into the barracks, he said to the tribune, “May I say something to you?” The tribune^c replied, “Do you know Greek?”³⁸ Then you are not the Egyptian who recently stirred up a revolt and led the four thousand assassins out into the wilderness?”³⁹ Paul replied, “I am a Jew, from Tarsus in Cilicia, a citizen of an important city; I beg you, let me speak to the people.”⁴⁰ When he had given him permission, Paul stood on the steps and motioned to the people for silence; and when there was a great hush, he addressed them in the Hebrew^d language, saying:

22 “Brothers and fathers, listen to the defense that I now make before you.”

² When they heard him addressing them in Hebrew,^d they became even more quiet. Then he said:

³ “I am a Jew, born in Tarsus in Cilicia, but brought up in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, educated strictly according to our ancestral

^a Other ancient authorities lack and from what is strangled

^b Gk he

^c Gk He

^d That is, Aramaic

expenses upon their release from a nazirite vow (18.18n.). 25: He is told of the decree (15.20, 29) as though he had not heard of it (see 16.4); Paul’s letters never mention the decree.

21.27–40: Uproar in the Temple and arrest of Paul. Seized after a disturbance in the Temple, Paul begins his defense. 28: It was a capital offense for non-Jews to pass beyond the Court of the Gentiles; an inscription stating this has been discovered (cf. Josephus, J.W. 5.193–94; 6.125–26). 29: Trophimus, 20.4; 2 Tim 4.20. 31: A military tribune commanded a cohort (a detachment of 1,000 men); this would have been stationed in the citadel Antonia, which had access to the Temple courtyard (see Josephus, J.W. 5.244). The tribune’s name was Claudius Lysias (23.26). 33: Paul’s case came into the hands of Roman, not Jewish, authorities. 36: Away with him, 22.22; cf. Lk 23.18. 38: The question in Greek may be: “Are you not the Egyptian?” Concerning the Egyptian, a pseudo-messiah who, with thousands of followers, had planned to take Jerusalem from the Romans, see Josephus, J.W. 2.261–63 (which puts the number at about 30,000); Ant. 20.169–72. 39: Paul gives assurances that he is not the Egyptian. Tarsus, 9.30n.

22.1–29: Defense in the Temple and Roman custody. 1: Defense is the principal theme of the next chapters (24.10; 25.8,16; 26.1–2). It has a clear function at the level of the narrative and also allows Luke to endorse Paul for readers who may have had questions about him. 3: Brought up, educated. Gamaliel, see 5.34n. Zealous, 21.20;

law, being zealous for God, just as all of you are today. ⁴I persecuted this Way up to the point of death by binding both men and women and putting them in prison, ⁵as the high priest and the whole council of elders can testify about me. From them I also received letters to the brothers in Damascus, and I went there in order to bind those who were there and to bring them back to Jerusalem for punishment.

⁶“While I was on my way and approaching Damascus, about noon a great light from heaven suddenly shone about me. ⁷I fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to me, ‘Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?’ ⁸I answered, ‘Who are you, Lord?’ Then he said to me, ‘I am Jesus of Nazareth^a whom you are persecuting.’ ⁹Now those who were with me saw the light but did not hear the voice of the one who was speaking to me. ¹⁰I asked, ‘What am I to do, Lord?’ The Lord said to me, ‘Get up and go to Damascus; there you will be told everything that has been assigned to you to do.’ ¹¹Since I could not see because of the brightness of that light, those who were with me took my hand and led me to Damascus.

¹²“A certain Ananias, who was a devout man according to the law and well spoken of by all the Jews living there, ¹³came to me; and standing beside me, he said, ‘Brother Saul, regain your sight!’ In that very hour I regained my sight and saw him. ¹⁴Then he said, ‘The God of our ancestors has chosen you to know his will, to see the Righteous One and to hear his own voice; ¹⁵for you will be his witness to all the world of what you have seen and heard. ¹⁶And now why do you delay? Get up, be baptized, and have your sins washed away, calling on his name.’

¹⁷“After I had returned to Jerusalem and while I was praying in the temple, I fell into a trance ¹⁸and saw Jesus^b saying to me, ‘Hurry and get out of Jerusalem quickly, because they will not accept your testimony about me.’ ¹⁹And I said, ‘Lord, they themselves know that in every synagogue I imprisoned and beat those who believed in you. ²⁰And while the blood of your witness Stephen was shed, I myself was standing by, approving and keeping the coats of those who killed him.’ ²¹Then he said to me, ‘Go, for I will send you far away to the Gentiles.’”

²²Up to this point they listened to him, but then they shouted, “Away with such a fellow from the earth! For he should not be allowed to live.” ²³And while they were shouting, throwing off their cloaks, and tossing dust into the air, ²⁴the tribune directed that he was to be brought into the barracks, and ordered him to be examined by flogging, to find out the reason for this outcry against him. ²⁵But when they had tied him up with thongs,^c Paul said to the centurion who was standing by, “Is it legal for you to flog a Roman citizen who is uncondemned?” ²⁶When the centurion heard that, he went to the tribune and said to him, “What are you about to do? This man is a Roman citizen.” ²⁷The tribune came and asked Paul,^b “Tell me, are you a Roman citizen?” And he said, “Yes.” ²⁸The tribune answered, “It cost me a large sum of money to get my citizenship.” Paul said, “But I was born a citizen.” ²⁹Immediately those who were about to examine him drew back from him; and the tribune also was afraid, for he realized that Paul was a Roman citizen and that he had bound him.

^a Gk the Nazorean

^b Gk him

^c Or up for the lashes

in Gal 1.14 as a self-description of Paul. 4–21: Cf. 9.1–18; 26.9–18. 9: In 9.7 the companions heard the voice but saw no one. 14–15: What Ananias says here is roughly parallel to what the Lord tells him in 9.15. 17–21: The report of the vision is not given in the other conversion accounts. Paul’s commission to the Gentiles is significantly located in the temple. 20: See 7.58. 24: Examined by flogging to determine the truth of the matter (2 Cor 11.23). 25–29: That Paul is a Roman citizen is disclosed at the last moment; see 16.37–38n. In the early part of the emperor Claudius’s reign citizenship was often purchased for a large sum. The scene increases Paul’s status for readers of Acts and reinforces the theme of the compatibility of Christianity and Roman life; nowhere in Paul’s letters is it stated that he was a Roman citizen.

³⁰ Since he wanted to find out what Paul^a was being accused of by the Jews, the next day he released him and ordered the chief priests and the entire council to meet. He brought Paul down and had him stand before them.

23 While Paul was looking intently at the council he said, “Brothers,^b up to this day I have lived my life with a clear conscience before God.”² Then the high priest Ananias ordered those standing near him to strike him on the mouth.³ At this Paul said to him, “God will strike you, you whitewashed wall! Are you sitting there to judge me according to the law, and yet in violation of the law you order me to be struck?”⁴ Those standing nearby said, “Do you dare to insult God’s high priest?”⁵ And Paul said, “I did not realize, brothers, that he was high priest; for it is written, ‘You shall not speak evil of a leader of your people.’”

⁶ When Paul noticed that some were Sadducees and others were Pharisees, he called out in the council, “Brothers, I am a Pharisee, a son of Pharisees. I am on trial concerning the hope of the resurrection^c of the dead.”⁷ When he said this, a dissension began between the Pharisees and the Sadducees, and the assembly was divided.⁸ (The Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, or angel, or spirit; but the Pharisees acknowledge all three.)⁹ Then a great clamor arose, and certain scribes of the Pharisees’ group stood up and contended, “We find nothing wrong with this man. What if a spirit or an angel has spoken to him?”¹⁰ When the dissension became violent, the tribune, fearing that they would tear Paul to pieces, ordered the soldiers to go down, take him by force, and bring him into the barracks.

¹¹ That night the Lord stood near him and said, “Keep up your courage! For just as you have testified for me in Jerusalem, so you must bear witness also in Rome.”

¹² In the morning the Jews joined in a conspiracy and bound themselves by an oath neither to eat nor drink until they had killed Paul.¹³ There were more than forty who joined in this conspiracy.¹⁴ They went to the chief priests and elders and said, “We have strictly bound ourselves by an oath to taste no food until we have killed Paul.¹⁵ Now then, you and the council must notify the tribune to bring him down to you, on the pretext that you want to make a more thorough examination of his case. And we are ready to do away with him before he arrives.”

¹⁶ Now the son of Paul’s sister heard about the ambush; so he went and gained entrance to the barracks and told Paul.¹⁷ Paul called one of the centurions and said, “Take this young man to the tribune, for he has something to report to him.”¹⁸ So he took him, brought him to the tribune, and said, “The prisoner Paul called me and asked me to bring this young man to you; he has something to tell you.”¹⁹ The tribune took him by the hand, drew him aside privately, and asked, “What is it that you have to report to me?”²⁰ He answered, “The Jews have agreed to ask you to bring Paul down to the council tomorrow, as though they were going to inquire more thoroughly into his case.²¹ But do not be persuaded by them, for more than forty of their men are lying in ambush for him. They have bound themselves by an oath

^a Gk he

^b Gk Men, brothers

^c Gk concerning hope and resurrection

22.30–23.11: Paul before the Sanhedrin. The tribune brings him before it to get evidence, not to try him.

22.30: The tribune calls for an advisory meeting of the council; see 5.21n. 23.2: Ananias, high priest in the reigns of Claudius and Nero, was murdered by rebels about 66 CE. 3: Whitewashed wall, cf. Ezek 13.10–15; Mt 23.27. 5: Ex 22.28. It is strange that Paul does not recognize the high priest. 6: Paul as a Pharisee (26.5; Phil 3.5) realizes he can exploit a difference of opinion between Sadducees and Pharisees over the resurrection (see Josephus, J.W. 2.163–65). 8: Sadducees denied a resurrection (Mk 12.18). 9: The Pharisees side with Paul (see 15.5n.). 10: Paul is rescued from mob violence for a second time by an agent of Rome (21.33–36). 11: A vision (cf. 18.9–10) provides assurance that martyrdom will not occur in Jerusalem (21.13).

23.12–35: A plot to kill Paul results in his transfer to Caesarea, the seat of the Roman governor. 12: Conspiracy, 9.24; 20.19. 16: There is no other extant information about Paul’s family. The notion of Paul’s education in Jerusalem (22.3) could suggest that other family members were there. 17–22: The prisoner Paul’s remarkable neither to eat nor drink until they kill him. They are ready now and are waiting for your consent.”²² So the tribune dismissed the young man, ordering him, “Tell no one that you have informed me of this.”

²³ Then he summoned two of the centurions and said, “Get ready to leave by nine o’clock tonight for Caesarea with two hundred soldiers, seventy horsemen, and two hundred spearmen.”²⁴ Also provide mounts for Paul to ride, and take him safely to Felix the governor.”²⁵ He wrote a letter to this effect:

²⁶ “Claudius Lysias to his Excellency the governor Felix, greetings.²⁷ This man was seized by the Jews and was about to be killed by them, but when I had learned that he was a Roman citizen, I came with the guard and rescued him.²⁸ Since I wanted to know the charge for which they accused him, I had him brought to their council.²⁹ I found that he was accused concerning questions of their law, but was charged with nothing deserving death or imprisonment.³⁰ When I was informed that there would be a plot against the man, I sent him to you at once, ordering his accusers also to state before you what they have against him.”³¹

³¹ So the soldiers, according to their instructions, took Paul and brought him during the night to Antipatris.³² The next day they let the horsemen go on with him, while they returned to the barracks.³³ When they came to Caesarea and delivered the letter to the governor, they presented Paul also before him.³⁴ On reading the letter, he asked what province he belonged to, and when he learned that he was from Cilicia,³⁵ he said,

“I will give you a hearing when your accusers arrive.” Then he ordered that he be kept under guard in Herod’s headquarters.^b

24 Five days later the high priest Ananias came down with some elders and an attorney, a certain Tertullus, and they reported their case against Paul to the governor.² When Paul^c had been summoned, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying:

“Your Excellency,^d because of you we have long enjoyed peace, and reforms have been made for this people because of your foresight.³ We welcome this in every way and everywhere with utmost gratitude.⁴ But, to detain you no further, I beg you to hear us briefly with your customary graciousness.⁵ We have, in fact, found this man a pestilent fellow, an agitator among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes.^e He even tried to profane the temple, and so we seized him.^f By examining him yourself you will be able to learn from him concerning everything of which we accuse him.”

⁹ The Jews also joined in the charge by asserting that all this was true.

^a Other ancient authorities add Farewell

^b Gk praetorium

^c Gk he

^d Gk lacks Your Excellency

^e Gk Nazoreans

^f Other ancient authorities add and we would have judged him according to our law. ⁷But the chief captain Lysias came and with great violence took him out of our hands, ⁸commanding his accusers to come before you.

access to the commanders shows some favoritism. 23: Caesarea, 8.40n. The number of soldiers emphasizes the danger faced. The Gk word translated spearmen is obscure. 24: Antonius Felix, procurator of Judea (ca. 52–60 CE), brother of Pallas, a favorite freedman of the emperor Claudius. 26: His Excellency, the same word used in addressing Theophilus (Lk 1.3). 27–30: The letter summarizes the preceding events and perhaps casts the tribune in a better light. As was the case with Jesus (Lk 23.4,14–16,20–25), Romans find no serious charges (v. 29; cf. 18.14–16). 31: Antipatris, a city in the Plain of Sharon on the main road to Caesarea. 35: Herod’s headquarters, a palace built by Herod the Great and occupied by the Roman governors in Palestine.

24.1–27: Paul before Felix. Paul denies the charges, and the governor postpones the case. 2–4: Tertullus begins the prosecution with the customary method of opening a speech with praise that is intended to attract the attention and good will of the one being addressed. 5: Agitator, a charge of political sedition (see 16.21; 17.7; 18.13) would be taken seriously by a Roman court. Sect, or party, is used in a bad sense here and at 24.14; 28.22; it is used of the Sadducees at 5.17. Nazarenes, the term otherwise used in the singular to identify Jesus (2.22; 3.6; 4.10; 6.14; 22.8) is here used in the plural to describe Christians for Romans. 6: Profane the temple, 21.28.

¹⁰ When the governor motioned to him to speak, Paul replied:

“I cheerfully make my defense, knowing that for many years you have been a judge over this nation. ¹¹ As you can find out, it is not more than twelve days since I went up to worship in Jerusalem. ¹² They did not find me disputing with anyone in the temple or stirring up a crowd either in the synagogues or throughout the city. ¹³ Neither can they prove to you the charge that they now bring against me. ¹⁴ But this I admit to you, that according to the Way, which they call a sect, I worship the God of our ancestors, believing everything laid down according to the law or written in the prophets. ¹⁵ I have a hope in God—a hope that they themselves also accept—that there will be a resurrection of both^a the righteous and the unrighteous. ¹⁶ Therefore I do my best always to have a clear conscience toward God and all people. ¹⁷ Now after some years I came to bring alms to my nation and to offer sacrifices. ¹⁸ While I was doing this, they found me in the temple, completing the rite of purification, without any crowd or disturbance. ¹⁹ But there were some Jews from Asia—they ought to be here before you to make an accusation, if they have anything against me. ²⁰ Or let these men here tell what crime they had found when I stood before the council, ²¹ unless it was this one sentence that I called out while standing before them, ‘It is about the resurrection of the dead that I am on trial before you today.’”

²² But Felix, who was rather well informed about the Way, adjourned the hearing with the comment, “When Lysias the tribune comes down, I will decide your case.” ²³ Then he ordered the centurion to keep him in custody, but to let him have some liberty and not to prevent any of his friends from taking care of his needs.

²⁴ Some days later when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, who was Jewish, he sent for

Paul and heard him speak concerning faith in Christ Jesus. ²⁵ And as he discussed justice, self-control, and the coming judgment, Felix became frightened and said, “Go away for the present; when I have an opportunity, I will send for you.” ²⁶ At the same time he hoped that money would be given him by Paul, and for that reason he used to send for him very often and converse with him.

²⁷ After two years had passed, Felix was succeeded by Porcius Festus; and since he wanted to grant the Jews a favor, Felix left Paul in prison.

25 Three days after Festus had arrived in the province, he went up from Caesarea to Jerusalem ² where the chief priests and the leaders of the Jews gave him a report against Paul. They appealed to him ³ and requested, as a favor to them against Paul,^b to have him transferred to Jerusalem. They were, in fact, planning an ambush to kill him along the way. ⁴ Festus replied that Paul was being kept at Caesarea, and that he himself intended to go there shortly. ⁵ “So,” he said, “let those of you who have the authority come down with me, and if there is anything wrong about the man, let them accuse him.”

⁶ After he had stayed among them not more than eight or ten days, he went down to Caesarea; the next day he took his seat on the tribunal and ordered Paul to be brought. ⁷ When he arrived, the Jews who had gone down from Jerusalem surrounded him, bringing many serious charges against him, which they could not prove. ⁸ Paul said in his defense, “I have in no way committed an offense against the law of the Jews, or against the temple, or against the emperor.” ⁹ But Festus, wishing to do the Jews a favor, asked

^a Other ancient authorities read of the dead, both of

^b Gk him

10: See 22.1n. 14: The Way (see 9.2n.) is compatible with the ancestral religion. 15: Resurrection, here general belief in resurrection as common ground (also v. 21). 16: Clear conscience, 20.20,27,33; 23.1. 17: To bring alms, may connect to 21.23–26 but is reminiscent of Paul’s plan in Rom 15.25–29 to deliver the collection (see 11.29n.; 20.4n.). 23: Custody, perhaps protective custody. 24: Drusilla was the sister of Herod Agrippa II and Bernice (25.13); she had left her husband Azizus, king of Emesa, to marry Felix. 25–26: Cf. Mk 6.20. Felix embodies both positive and negative features, but ultimately his corruption means that Paul remains in prison. 27: After two years had passed, either from Felix’s appointment or Paul’s arrest. Porcius Festus, appointed procurator of Judea by the emperor Nero in 60 ce.

25.1–12: Appeal to the emperor. Paul insists on a Roman trial, and Festus consents to send him to Rome. 3: See 23.12. 8: Paul maintains that he is both a good Jew and a good Roman citizen. 9: Favor, 24.27.

Paul, “Do you wish to go up to Jerusalem and be tried there before me on these charges?”

¹⁰ Paul said, “I am appealing to the emperor’s tribunal; this is where I should be tried. I have done no wrong to the Jews, as you very well know. ¹¹ Now if I am in the wrong and have committed something for which I deserve to die, I am not trying to escape death; but if there is nothing to their charges against me, no one can turn me over to them. I appeal to the emperor.” ¹² Then Festus, after he had conferred with his council, replied, “You have appealed to the emperor; to the emperor you will go.”

¹³ After several days had passed, King Agrippa and Bernice arrived at Caesarea to welcome Festus. ¹⁴ Since they were staying there several days, Festus laid Paul’s case before the king, saying, “There is a man here who was left in prison by Felix. ¹⁵ When I was in Jerusalem, the chief priests and the elders of the Jews informed me about him and asked for a sentence against him. ¹⁶ I told them that it was not the custom of the Romans to hand over anyone before the accused had met the accusers face to face and had been given an opportunity to make a defense against the charge. ¹⁷ So when they met here, I lost no time, but on the next day took my seat on the tribunal and ordered the man to be brought. ¹⁸ When the accusers stood up, they did not charge him with any of the crimes^a that I was expecting. ¹⁹ Instead they had certain points of disagreement with him about their own religion and about a certain Jesus, who had died, but whom Paul asserted to be alive. ²⁰ Since I was at a loss how to investigate these questions, I asked whether he wished to go to Jerusalem and be tried there on these charges.^b ²¹ But when Paul had appealed to be kept in custody for the decision of his Imperial Majesty, I ordered him to be held until I could send him to the emperor.” ²² Agrippa said to Festus, “I would like to hear the man myself.” “Tomorrow,” he said, “you will hear him.”

²³ So on the next day Agrippa and Bernice came with great pomp, and they entered the audience hall with the military tribunes and the prominent men of the city. Then Festus gave the order and Paul was brought in. ²⁴ And Festus said, “King Agrippa and all here present with us, you see this man about whom the whole Jewish community petitioned me, both in Jerusalem and here, shouting that he ought not to live any longer. ²⁵ But I found that he had done nothing deserving death; and when he appealed to his Imperial Majesty, I decided to send him. ²⁶ But I have nothing definite to write to our sovereign about him. Therefore I have brought him before all of you, and especially before you, King Agrippa, so that, after we have examined him, I may have something to write—²⁷ for it seems to me unreasonable to send a prisoner without indicating the charges against him.”

26 Agrippa said to Paul, “You have permission to speak for yourself.” Then Paul stretched out his hand and began to defend himself:

² “I consider myself fortunate that it is before you, King Agrippa, I am to make my defense today against all the accusations of the Jews, ³ because you are especially familiar

^a Other ancient authorities read with anything

^b Gk on them

10: Paul does not want to be turned over to a Jewish court; therefore he insists on the emperor’s tribunal, i.e., trial according to Roman law. 11–12: Paul’s appeal to the emperor becomes the mechanism that takes him to Rome (19.21; 23.11). Details of the law of appeals are unclear.

25.13–26.32: Paul’s defense before Agrippa. Paul’s speech is intended to present a model defense of Christianity and allows for the pronouncement of a symbolic Roman acquittal. 25.13: King Agrippa, Herod Agrippa II (ruled 53–ca. 93 CE), sided with the Romans in the First Jewish Revolt. He and his sister Bernice were children of Herod Agrippa I (12.1n.). 16: Roman judicial process is put in a good light. 18–20: The accusers do not bring a charge of sedition (24.5). Cf. 18.13–16; but in this case Festus does not dismiss the charges. 25: Nothing deserving death is the repeated verdict of the Roman authorities handling Paul’s case (26.31; cf. Lk 23.4,15,22). His Imperial Majesty, Gk “Sebastos” (“Augustus”), one of the imperial titles. 26.1: The scene set for Paul’s speech fulfills 9.15 and Lk 21.12–15. Compare Jesus’s appearance before Herod Antipas (Lk 23.6–12). 2: Defense, 22.1n. The Jews, see 13.45n. 3: The narrative assumes that Agrippa was a practicing Jew. 4: Among my own people, stresses with all the customs and controversies of the Jews; therefore I beg of you to listen to me patiently.

⁴“All the Jews know my way of life from my youth, a life spent from the beginning among my own people and in Jerusalem. ⁵They have known for a long time, if they are willing to testify, that I have belonged to the strictest sect of our religion and lived as a Pharisee.

⁶And now I stand here on trial on account of my hope in the promise made by God to our ancestors, ⁷a promise that our twelve tribes hope to attain, as they earnestly worship day and night. It is for this hope, your Excellency,^a that I am accused by Jews! ⁸Why is it thought incredible by any of you that God raises the dead?

⁹“Indeed, I myself was convinced that I ought to do many things against the name of Jesus of Nazareth.^b ¹⁰And that is what I did in Jerusalem; with authority received from the chief priests, I not only locked up many of the saints in prison, but I also cast my vote against them when they were being condemned to death. ¹¹By punishing them often in all the synagogues I tried to force them to blaspheme; and since I was so furiously enraged at them, I pursued them even to foreign cities.

¹²“With this in mind, I was traveling to Damascus with the authority and commission of the chief priests, ¹³when at midday along the road, your Excellency,^a I saw a light from heaven, brighter than the sun, shining around me and my companions. ¹⁴When we had all fallen to the ground, I heard a voice saying to me in the Hebrew^c language, ‘Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me? It hurts you to kick against the goads.’ ¹⁵I asked, ‘Who are you, Lord?’ The Lord answered, ‘I am Jesus whom you are persecuting.’ ¹⁶But get up and stand on your feet; for I have appeared to you for this purpose, to appoint you to serve and testify to the things in which you have seen me^d and to those in which I will appear to you. ¹⁷I will rescue you from your people and from the Gentiles—to whom I am sending you ¹⁸to open their eyes so that they may turn from darkness to light and from the power of Satan to God, so that they may receive forgiveness of sins and a place among those who are sanctified by faith in me.’

¹⁹“After that, King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision, ²⁰but declared first to those in Damascus, then in Jerusalem and throughout the countryside of Judea, and also to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God and do deeds consistent with repentance. ²¹For this reason the Jews seized me in the temple and tried to kill me. ²²To this day I have had help from God, and so I stand here, testifying to both small and great, saying nothing but what the prophets and Moses said would take place: ²³that the Messiah^e must suffer, and that, by being the first to rise from the dead, he would proclaim light both to our people and to the Gentiles.”

²⁴While he was making this defense, Festus exclaimed, “You are out of your mind, Paul! Too much learning is driving you insane!” ²⁵But Paul said, “I am not out of my mind, most excellent Festus, but I am speaking the sober truth. ²⁶Indeed the king knows about these things, and to him I speak freely; for I am certain that none of these things has escaped his notice, for this was not done in

^a Gk O king

^b Gk the Nazorean

^c That is, Aramaic

^d Other ancient authorities read the things that you have seen

^e Or the Christ

Paul’s thoroughly Jewish upbringing (22.3n.; Phil 3.5). 8: You, i.e., the Jewish people. 9–20: A third account of Paul’s conversion (9.1–8; 22.4–16). 10: In Jerusalem, according to 9.1–2 Paul’s authorization concerned Damascus. Saints, see 9.13n. 14: Here all fall to the ground and the voice speaks Hebrew (see note c), quoting a common Greek proverb about the futility of resisting the divine will (cf. 9.4; 22.7); a goad is a pointed stick used to prod an ox or other animals. 16: Only in this account does Paul’s commission on the road come directly from Jesus (cf. Gal 1.1); there is no mention of Ananias or Paul’s blindness. 20: Paul’s mission is universal, directed to both Jews and Greeks. 21: For this reason, i.e., inclusion of the Gentiles. 22–23: The prophets and Moses . . . the Messiah must

a corner. ²⁷ King Agrippa, do you believe the prophets? I know that you believe.” ²⁸ Agrippa said to Paul, “Are you so quickly persuading me to become a Christian?”^a ²⁹ Paul replied, “Whether quickly or not, I pray to God that not only you but also all who are listening to me today might become such as I am—except for these chains.”

³⁰ Then the king got up, and with him the governor and Bernice and those who had been seated with them; ³¹ and as they were leaving, they said to one another, “This man is doing nothing to deserve death or imprisonment.” ³² Agrippa said to Festus, “This man could have been set free if he had not appealed to the emperor.”

27 When it was decided that we were to sail for Italy, they transferred Paul and some other prisoners to a centurion of the Augustan Cohort, named Julius. ² Embarking on a ship of Adramyttium that was about to set sail to the ports along the coast of Asia, we put to sea, accompanied by Aristarchus, a Macedonian from Thessalonica. ³ The next day we put in at Sidon; and Julius treated Paul kindly, and allowed him to go to his friends to be cared for. ⁴ Putting out to sea from there, we sailed under the lee of Cyprus, because the winds were against us. ⁵ After we had sailed across the sea that is off Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra in Lycia. ⁶ There the centurion found an Alexandrian ship bound for Italy and put us on board. ⁷ We sailed slowly for a number of days and arrived with difficulty off Cnidus, and as the wind was against us, we sailed under the lee of Crete off Salmone. ⁸ Sailing past it with difficulty, we came to a place called Fair Havens, near the city of Lasea.

⁹ Since much time had been lost and sailing was now dangerous, because even the Fast had already gone by, Paul advised them, ¹⁰ saying, “Sirs, I can see that the voyage will be with danger and much heavy loss, not only of the cargo and the ship, but also of our lives.” ¹¹ But the centurion paid more attention to the pilot and to the owner of the ship than to what Paul said. ¹² Since the harbor was not suitable for spending the winter, the majority was in favor of putting to sea from there, on the chance that somehow they could reach Phoenix, where they could spend the winter. It was a harbor of Crete, facing southwest and northwest.

¹³ When a moderate south wind began to blow, they thought they could achieve their purpose; so they weighed anchor and began to sail past Crete, close to the shore. ¹⁴ But soon a violent wind, called the northeaster, rushed down from Crete.^b ¹⁵ Since the ship was caught and could not be turned head-on into the wind, we gave way to it and were driven. ¹⁶ By running under the lee of a small island called Cauda^c we were scarcely able to get the ship’s boat under control. ¹⁷ After hoisting it up they took measures^d to undergird the ship; then, fearing that they would run on the Syrtis, they lowered the

^a Or Quickly you will persuade me to play the Christian

^b Gk it

^c Other ancient authorities read Clauda

^d Gk helps

suffer, 3.18n.; 10.43; 15.21n.; Lk 24.25–27,44–47. 27: See v. 3. 28: Christian, see 11.25–26n. 31: Nothing to deserve death or imprisonment, a further “acquittal” (25.25n.). 32: See 25.11–12n.

27:1–44: Shipwreck. A dangerous winter voyage ends in shipwreck. 1: The “we” passages (16.10n.) resume here. The Augustan Cohort, a unit of this name was stationed in Syria in the first century. 2: Adramyttium, a seaport south of Troas (16.8). Aristarchus, 19.29; 20.4. Thessalonica, 17.1n. 3: Sidon, a Phoenician seaport, north of Tyre. Julius treated Paul kindly, compare the centurions of Lk 7.1–10; 23.47; and Cornelius (10.1–2n.). Friends, i.e., Christians. 4: Under the lee of Cyprus, apparently north of the island. 5–6: Myra on the southern coast of Asia Minor was a regular stage in the route of Egyptian grain ships bound for Italy (see v. 38). 7: Cnidus, on the mainland northwest of Rhodes. Under the lee of Crete, to its south for shelter from the wind; Salmone is at the northeast tip of the island. 8: Fair Havens, a bay on the southern coast of Crete. Lasea, a city somewhat inland and east of Fair Havens. 9: Sailing was . . . dangerous after September and ceased from mid-November until mid-March. The Fast, the Day of Atonement, in September or October. 16: Cauda, south of Crete. The ship’s boat (see vv. 30–32) was in tow. 17: The measures undertaken by the crew are not clear. The Syrtis, a dangerous shoal west of Cyrene on the north coast of Africa. Sea anchor, a conjecture for the Gk word meaning “vessel” or “implement,” sea anchor and so were driven. ¹⁸ We were being pounded by the storm so violently that on the next day they began to throw the cargo overboard, ¹⁹ and on the third day with their own hands they threw the ship's tackle overboard. ²⁰ When neither sun nor stars appeared for many days, and no small tempest raged, all hope of our being saved was at last abandoned.

Chs 27–28: Paul's journey to Rome

²¹ Since they had been without food for a long time, Paul then stood up among them and said, "Men, you should have listened to me and not have set sail from Crete and thereby avoided this damage and loss. ²² I urge you now to keep up your courage, for there will be no loss of life among you, but only of the ship. ²³ For last night there stood by me an angel of the God to whom I belong and whom I worship, ²⁴ and he said, 'Do not be afraid, Paul; you must stand before the emperor; and indeed, God has granted safety to all those who are sailing with you.' ²⁵ So keep up your courage, men, for I have faith in God that it will be exactly as I have been told.

²⁶ But we will have to run aground on some island."

²⁷ When the fourteenth night had come, as we were drifting across the sea of Adria, about midnight the sailors suspected that they were nearing land. ²⁸ So they took soundings and found twenty fathoms; a little farther on they took soundings again and found fifteen fathoms. ²⁹ Fearing that we might run on the rocks, they let down four anchors from the stern and prayed for day to come. ³⁰ But when the sailors tried to escape from the ship and had lowered the boat into the sea, on the pretext of putting out anchors from the bow, ³¹ Paul said to the centurion and the soldiers, "Unless these men stay in the ship, you cannot be saved." ³² Then the soldiers cut away the ropes of the boat and set it adrift.

³³ Just before daybreak, Paul urged all of them to take some food, saying, "Today is the fourteenth day that you have been in suspense and remaining without food, having eaten nothing. ³⁴ Therefore I urge you to take

i.e., a device to slow the ship. 18: Jn 1.5 and numerous Greek and Roman parallels (e.g., Josephus, J.W. 1.280). 22: Cf. v. 10. 24: 23.11; 25.11–12. 27: The sea of Adria then included the central Mediterranean. 30: Escape of the crew some food, for it will help you survive; for none of you will lose a hair from your heads.”

³⁵ After he had said this, he took bread; and giving thanks to God in the presence of all, he broke it and began to eat. ³⁶ Then all of them were encouraged and took food for themselves. ³⁷ (We were in all two hundred seventy-six^a persons in the ship.) ³⁸ After they had satisfied their hunger, they lightened the ship by throwing the wheat into the sea.

³⁹ In the morning they did not recognize the land, but they noticed a bay with a beach, on which they planned to run the ship ashore, if they could. ⁴⁰ So they cast off the anchors and left them in the sea. At the same time they loosened the ropes that tied the steering-oars; then hoisting the foresail to the wind, they made for the beach. ⁴¹ But striking a reef,^b they ran the ship aground; the bow stuck and remained immovable, but the stern was being broken up by the force of the waves.

⁴² The soldiers’ plan was to kill the prisoners, so that none might swim away and escape; ⁴³ but the centurion, wishing to save Paul, kept them from carrying out their plan. He ordered those who could swim to jump overboard first and make for the land, ⁴⁴ and the rest to follow, some on planks and others on pieces of the ship. And so it was that all were brought safely to land.

28 After we had reached safety, we then learned that the island was called Malta. ² The natives showed us unusual kindness. Since it had begun to rain and was cold, they kindled a fire and welcomed all of us around it. ³ Paul had gathered a bundle of brushwood and was putting it on the fire, when a viper, driven out by the heat, fastened itself on his hand. ⁴ When the natives saw the creature hanging from his hand, they said to one another, “This man must be a murderer; though he has escaped from the sea, justice has not allowed him to live.” ⁵ He, however, shook off the creature into the fire and suffered no harm. ⁶ They were expecting him to swell up or drop dead, but after they had waited a long time and saw that nothing unusual had happened to him, they changed their minds and began to say that he was a god.

⁷ Now in the neighborhood of that place were lands belonging to the leading man of the island, named Publius, who received us and entertained us hospitably for three days. ⁸ It so happened that the father of Publius lay sick in bed with fever and dysentery. Paul visited him and cured him by praying and putting his hands on him. ⁹ After this happened, the rest of the people on the island who had diseases also came and were cured. ¹⁰ They bestowed many honors on us, and when we were about to sail, they put on board all the provisions we needed.

¹¹ Three months later we set sail on a ship that had wintered at the island, an Alexandrian ship with the Twin Brothers as its figurehead. ¹² We put in at Syracuse and stayed there for three days; ¹³ then we weighed anchor and came to Rhegium. After one day there a south wind sprang up, and on the second day we came to Puteoli. ¹⁴ There we found believers^c and were invited

^a Other ancient authorities read seventy-six; others, about seventy-six

^b Gk place of two seas

^c Gk brothers

is a popular motif found in Greco-Roman novels. 35–36: He took bread, gave thanks, and broke it, cf. Lk 22:19; 24:30,35 (see 2.42n.). The meal in which all partake has clear eucharistic overtones. 37: Two hundred seventy-six people on board is quite possible. 41: A reef, Gk “a place of two seas.” 42: The soldiers were responsible for the prisoners (see 12:19; 16:27). 43: The “good” centurion intervenes (see v. 3n.; 10:1n.).

28.1–10: Paul on Malta. Unharmed though bitten by a viper, Paul heals the father of Publius. 1: Malta, a significant island south of Sicily controlled by the Romans. 2: Natives (lit., “barbarians”), used of non-Greek speakers. 4: Justice, here a deity. 5: Lk 10:19; Mk 16:18 (Ps 91:13). 7: Leading man, a local official on Malta. 8–9: Lk 4:38–40.

28.11–16: The journey to Rome. Paul goes by sea to Syracuse, Rhegium, and Puteoli, then by land to the capital. 11: Three months (see 27:9n.) would be too soon to have set sail but is probably an approximation. The Twin Brothers, the Dioscuri, Castor and Pollux, patron deities of sailors. 12: Syracuse, capital city of the island of Sicily. 13: Rhegium, modern Reggio Calabria, port city on the Italian coast opposite Sicily. Puteoli, modern Pozzuoli, on the north side of the Bay of Naples. 14: Believers, there are already Christians at Rome (see 18.2n.).

to stay with them for seven days. And so we came to Rome. ¹⁵The believers^a from there, when they heard of us, came as far as the Forum of Appius and Three Taverns to meet us. On seeing them, Paul thanked God and took courage.

¹⁶When we came into Rome, Paul was allowed to live by himself, with the soldier who was guarding him.

¹⁷Three days later he called together the local leaders of the Jews. When they had assembled, he said to them, “Brothers, though I had done nothing against our people or the customs of our ancestors, yet I was arrested in Jerusalem and handed over to the Romans. ¹⁸When they had examined me, the Romans^b wanted to release me, because there was no reason for the death penalty in my case. ¹⁹But when the Jews objected, I was compelled to appeal to the emperor—even though I had no charge to bring against my nation. ²⁰For this reason therefore I have asked to see you and speak with you,^c since it is for the sake of the hope of Israel that I am bound with this chain.” ²¹They replied, “We have received no letters from Judea about you, and none of the brothers coming here has reported or spoken anything evil about you. ²²But we would like to hear from you what you think, for with regard to this sect we know that everywhere it is spoken against.”

²³After they had set a day to meet with him, they came to him at his lodgings in great numbers. From morning until evening he explained the matter to them, testifying to the kingdom of God and trying to convince them about Jesus both from the law of Moses and from the prophets. ²⁴Some were convinced by what he had said, while others refused to believe. ²⁵So they disagreed with each other; and as they were leaving, Paul made one further statement: “The Holy Spirit was right in saying to your ancestors through the prophet Isaiah,

²⁶‘Go to this people and say,
You will indeed listen, but never understand,
and you will indeed look, but never perceive.

²⁷For this people’s heart has grown dull, and their ears are hard of hearing,
and they have shut their eyes;
so that they might not look with their eyes,
and listen with their ears, and understand with their heart and turn—
and I would heal them.’

²⁸Let it be known to you then that this salvation of God has been sent to the Gentiles; they will listen.”^d

³⁰He lived there two whole years at his own expense^e and welcomed all who came to him, ³¹proclaiming the kingdom of God and teaching about the Lord Jesus Christ with all boldness and without hindrance.

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk they

^c Or I have asked you to see me and speak with me

^d Other ancient authorities add verse 29, And when he had said these words, the Jews departed, arguing vigorously among themselves

^e Or in his own hired dwelling

¹⁵: The Forum of Appius was 40 mi (65 km) from Rome, and Three Taverns 30 mi (50 km), both on the Via Appia.

¹⁶: The “we” passages (16.10n.) end here. By himself, apparently in private quarters.

^{28.17–28}: Paul and the Jews of Rome. ¹⁷: Even as a captive Paul sticks to the pattern of speaking to Jews first (9.20n.; 13.5n.; 17.2n.). ²⁰: The hope of Israel is now bound up with Christianity. ²³: Kingdom of God, 1.3n.; the prophets, 26.22–23n. ²⁴: The reception is mixed as it has been all along (17.11–12n.). ^{26–27}: Isa 6.9–10, a prophetic reproof in the Hebrew Bible, is used elsewhere to explain Jewish rejection of the gospel (see Mt 13.14–15; Jn 12.40; cf. Rom 9–11). ²⁸: The “turn to the Gentiles” of 13.46; 18.6 is repeated. It is no more a final rejection than the previous instances were, but may indicate the social reality of Luke’s day.

^{28.30–31}: Conclusion. Though under house arrest (v. 16) Paul preached without hindrance for two whole years.

INTRODUCTION TO THE LETTERS/EPISTLES IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

CLASSIFICATION AND AUTHORSHIP OF THE NEW TESTAMENT LETTERS

Letters, or epistles, are the earliest documents in the New Testament and its most common literary form: Some scholars date 1 Thessalonians before 50 CE, about twenty years before Mark, the earliest of the Gospels. Of the twenty-one letters in the New Testament, thirteen are from Paul or his missionary associates: Romans, 1 and 2 Corinthians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, Galatians, 1 and 2 Thessalonians, 1 and 2 Timothy, Titus, and Philemon. These letters are arranged not chronologically but in rough order of length, with Romans being the longest and Philemon the shortest. When the book of Hebrews was attributed to Paul, the number of Pauline letters in ancient manuscripts and lists came to fourteen. Another seven letters, which appear to be pseudonymously attributed to other apostles, round out the group: 1 and 2 Peter; 1, 2, and 3 John; James; and Jude. The Gk word epistolē (“letter”) originally referred to an oral communication sent by messenger (Herodotus, Hist. 4.10.1). Even in the New Testament period, the letter-carrier might be entrusted with crucial information about a letter’s content that was conveyed to its recipients orally. Paul often includes missionary associates in the greeting of his letters (1 Cor 1.1; 2 Cor 1.1; Phil 1.1; Col 1.1; 1 Thess 1.1; Philem 1). He omits them in Galatians, where he has no future plans to visit the region, and in Romans, addressed to a church he did not found. Ephesians lacks a specific destination in the best manuscripts and may be an exhortation sent to several churches in Asia Minor by a later disciple of Paul.

Several other Pauline epistles also differ in language and theological emphasis from the major Pauline letters. The Pastoral Epistles (1 and 2 Timothy and Titus; see pp. 1725–44), addressed to his key assistants, treat them as youthful leaders of local churches. The Pastoral Epistles look to a future in which Christians are established in the larger society. While both 1 and 2 Thessalonians have as their principal theme the return of the Lord Jesus in the end-time, the second letter seeks to moderate expectations that the last days are at hand. This change in eschatological perspective, as well as its warning against pseudo-Pauline writings, has led some scholars to conclude that 2 Thessalonians was written by a later disciple of Paul as well. Since Paul had a number of close associates in his missionary activities, it would not be surprising if they used a familiar medium, the apostolic letter, to continue dealing with concrete issues in the churches of the Pauline mission. Although many of the letters unquestionably by Paul are considerably longer than ordinary private letters, they address concrete situations in the churches.

Ephesians, however, lacks not only an address but also references to specific individuals or problems. Among the non-Pauline letters, Hebrews and James also appear to be tractates or general exhortations, rather than letters to specific communities. Jude addresses a sharp apocalyptic warning to Christians in general. First John speaks to concrete problems in its church circles, but lacks the form of a letter; 2 and 3 John are both personal letters, though addressed to different problems. First Peter uses the letter form as exhortation for suffering Christians in Asia Minor. Finally, 2 Peter appears to be the latest epistle in the New Testament. It contains a possible allusion to the Gospel account of the transfiguration of Jesus (1.16–18; see Mk 9.2–8) and refers to Christians who misinterpret Paul’s letters (3.15–16). Like 2 Timothy, 2 Peter is presented as the last testament of an apostle. It affirms the unity of apostolic teaching concerning the “day of the Lord” (3.1–14) against some who used Paul’s authority to deny that God would end the world.

WRITING AND SENDING LETTERS IN THE GRECO-ROMAN WORLD

Letters from Greco-Roman antiquity include imperial decrees addressed to subjects in a particular area, such as that by the Roman emperor Claudius to “the city of Alexandria” in Egypt in 41 CE concerning Jewish agitation for citizen rights; collections of philosophical letters by prominent figures like Cicero, Pliny, and Seneca; and hundreds of papyri from Egypt documenting the concerns of ordinary people. Royal diplomatic correspondence has its own formalities of language, which are echoed in the so-called letters that the heavenly Christ addresses to the angels of the churches in Revelation 2–3. Philosophical letters often use a highly formal rhetoric, which indicates that such letters were intended to be preserved for posterity. They are typically longer than private letters, which are generally described as “documentary” to distinguish them from such literary creations. Authors often retained copies of and revised literary correspondence before committing it to copying for posterity. Documentary letters existed only for one or more immediate purposes, such as dealing with problems at home, urging an absent husband or son to return, reporting on a military posting, pleading for legal redress, engaging in commerce, describing one’s circumstances to family or friends, and recommending the bearer of the letter to its recipient.

The existence of so many letters from private individuals does not necessarily imply a high rate of literacy among craftsmen, traders, or women. A letter could be dictated to a scribe who would be charged with the actual writing. Even those who could write often preferred to employ the services of a scribe (Rom 16.22; Gal 6.11). The letter-carrier or another party might read the letter at its destination and, depending upon the carrier’s relationship to the sender, might also interpret the content of the letter. Some documentary letters in Egypt suggest that after the letter had been read in Greek, it might be translated into the local dialect so that the women in the sender’s audience could understand it.

The formal parts of an ancient letter—to be distinguished from other rhetorical patterns authors of literary epistles might use—are straightforward. The opening or superscription identifies sender(s) and recipient(s) and concludes with a greeting or salutation. Epithets, information about geographical locations, and terms of endearment often expand on individuals named. Paul regularly shifts to a Semitic form of salutation, “grace and peace,” expanded with reference to God and Christ Jesus (2 Cor 1.2). When his apostolic authority is an issue between himself and the recipients, that note may be attached as a self-designation (2 Cor 1.1; Rom 1.1–5, a community for which Paul is not a founding apostle). In ancient letters, the opening is often followed by a formal statement of the sender’s wish for the health of the recipients. Such formulas may also be used to close the letter. Another common formula expresses the sender’s prayer to the gods or thanksgiving on behalf of the recipients. In the Pauline letter type, this conventional way of opening a letter usually develops into a much longer thanksgiving or blessing section. That section often previews items from the body of the letter that follows.

After the opening formalities, the body of the letter states the actual business or request that is the reason for the letter. The sender may either give information about his own future travel plans or request it about others. Paul usually has such travel reports near the end of the body of a letter. Various formulas can be used to conclude the letter. Often greetings are given from or to others not mentioned in the body of the letter.

Once a letter was written, the sender had to find a person to deliver the letter to its recipient. Often the presence of someone who was on the way to the desired location provided an opportunity for writing. There was no guaranteed overnight delivery in antiquity! Even letters entrusted to friends for delivery had an uncertain fate. Under the best of circumstances a response was weeks or months away. The sender would ordinarily retain a copy, and some scholars have suggested that the first collection of Paul’s letters was due to the apostle’s own editing of his copies of Romans, 1 and 2 Corinthians, and Galatians. This hypothesis accounts for the start of the process of collecting and editing Pauline letters, but lacking any specific manuscript evidence, it remains speculative.

PHEME PERKINS

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE ROMANS

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

This letter is named for the recipients to whom it is addressed, “God’s beloved in Rome” (1.7). The believers in Christ at Rome had not been evangelized by Paul; the identity of those who first preached the gospel in Rome remains unknown. Paul names himself as the letter’s author, and this has rarely been doubted.

DATE OF COMPOSITION AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Most scholars think that Paul wrote Romans late in his missionary life sometime between 52 and 58 CE. There are two related historical contexts to consider. The first is the context of the Roman church, where there are both Jewish and non-Jewish believers in Christ (2.17; 1.5–6), and some tension exists between them (see 14.1–15.6). On the basis of an episode reported in Suetonius’s Life of Claudius 25.3, scholars have proposed that the Roman church had been affected by Emperor Claudius’s expulsion of Jews from Rome, probably in 49 CE. Suetonius writes that Roman Jews were constantly making disturbances at the instigation of Chrestus, so Claudius ordered them out of the city. Historians have understood the word “Chrestus” to be a misspelling of “Christos” and proposed this as evidence that the Jews expelled from Rome were believers in Jesus Christ. Some scholars think that when Paul wrote Romans, these Christian Jews had returned home. Acts 18.1–3 reports that at Corinth Paul met a Jewish Christian couple, Aquila and Priscilla, who had been expelled by Claudius; in Rom 16.3–4, Paul sends greetings to Aquila and Prisca (presumably the same woman), suggesting that some of those who had been expelled under Claudius have now returned. The tension between Jewish and Gentile believers evident in the letter is understood, then, to be the result of the returning Christian Jews finding that their position in the church community had changed or even been diminished. Paul’s emphasis on the centrality of Israel in God’s purposes and the need for Gentile believers to recognize with gratitude their adoption into God’s people (chs 9–11) is understood as a response to the friction between Jews and non-Jews in the Roman congregation.

A second, and related, historical context is Paul’s life and missionary agenda. There must have been some reason why Paul, in the midst of a taxing and potentially dangerous period in his life (see 15.22–29), would undertake writing this letter to people who were converted by someone other than himself. Several explanations have been given about why Paul wrote this dense and powerful letter to the church at Rome: theological, personal, and pastoral. For centuries this letter was regarded as a distillation of Paul’s theological thought, expressed in a general way. Melancthon, a contemporary of Luther, described Romans as setting forth all the articles of the faith. This approach found voice also in the twentieth century. Karl Barth described Romans as a “dogmatics in outline.” In this view, Paul wrote this letter not to address particular matters in Rome but to express his understanding of the gospel. Since the early twentieth century, however, recognition of the fact that Romans as an actual letter must be addressed to a specific historical situation at a particular point in Paul’s life has led most interpreters to suggest either personal or pastoral reasons for Paul writing. Among the personal reasons are that Paul was seeking to gain both financial and prayer support from the Roman church for his mission to evangelize Spain (15.14–32). Another is that Paul writes Romans in light of his upcoming visit to Jerusalem (15.25–27): either Paul writes to sum up his thinking in case he does not escape Jerusalem alive (a “last will and testament”), or he writes it as a preparation for an anticipated defense of his gospel in Jerusalem, a church with similar issues to those in Rome. Among the possible pastoral motives for Romans are that Paul feels constrained to address the tensions he has heard about between Jewish and Gentile believers; he writes to assure Jewish Christians that they still maintain a special place in God’s purposes (1.16; chs 9–11), and to exhort non-Jewish believers to recognize their dependence on both Israel and God’s mercy (11.13–32). Another is that Paul feels obliged, on the basis of his self-understanding as the apostle to the Gentiles (1.1), to preach his gospel to the church at Rome, because that church includes Gentiles (1.5–6). Romans is Paul’s preaching of the gospel in writing in order to fulfill his divinely given commission that Gentiles, including those at Rome, might receive the fullness of the gospel.

STRUCTURE

Romans begins with a letter opening (1.1–7) in which Paul introduces himself in an atypically lengthy passage. In this opening Paul makes it clear that he wishes to be understood as completely identified with the gospel that the Romans themselves believe. The letter continues with a thanksgiving section (1.8–15), which is standard in most of Paul's letters. What distinguishes this thanksgiving is that Paul spends a significant amount of time explaining why he has not yet been able to visit the Roman church. The body of the letter begins at 1.16 and extends to 11.36. The main focus of Paul's thoughts in the letter body are summarized in 1.16–17. In 12.1–5.13 Paul turns to matters of ethics. Paul has addressed matters of behavior in the letter body, for example at 6.11, but in these later chapters he focuses more intensely on the character and behavior appropriate to believers. This ethical section is integrally related to the concepts and claims Paul has made prior to ch 12. At 15.14–33 Paul talks, as he does in some of his other letters, about his plans and desire to visit his addressees. The letter closes with greetings and a doxology (16.1–27).

INTERPRETATION

Each proposal concerning Paul's purpose in writing this letter must take into account several significant emphases in it. One weighty emphasis in Romans is on God's righteousness. Paul opens the letter body by declaring that in the gospel the righteousness of God is revealed (1.17). The unveiling of God's righteousness is at once the unveiling of God's wrath against human unrighteousness (1.18). Paul claims that the gospel is God's power for salvation in light of this unveiling (1.16). God gives righteousness to those who believe through the faith of Jesus Christ (3.21–26). Another way that Paul describes the condition of being gifted with righteousness through faith is that believers are "in Christ" (8.1) and Christ is in believers (8.10). The gift of this condition means that believers are joint heirs with Christ (8.17), having been adopted into the same privileged relationship to God as Christ has (8.15). Even believers' faith is not theirs alone. The quality of Christian belief is that it is Christ's faith by and in which Christians believe (3.22, 26). Romans also emphasizes the centrality and power of the Spirit. The Spirit is God's and Christ's (8.9), and it is the guarantor of life (8.11). Believers are in the Spirit and the Spirit is in them (8.9). Paul understands that one of the distinguishing features of his gospel to the Gentiles is that it is accompanied by the power of the Spirit (15.18–19). A further emphasis in this letter is on God's commitment to Israel. Paul is convinced that despite the fact that very few of his fellow Israelites have currently accepted Jesus as the Christ, this signifies neither that God has rejected God's people nor that Israel will be denied salvation (chs 9–11).

Interpretation of this great letter has influenced church history. Some of the most significant thinkers and leaders in the history of Christianity (for example, Augustine, Luther, John Wesley, Karl Barth) had their thinking transformed and nurtured through study of this text. Engagement with Romans shaped their theology and practice and, in turn, the self-understanding of countless other Christians.

Ann Jervis

1 Paul, a servant^a of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, set apart for the gospel of God,² which he promised beforehand through his prophets in the holy scriptures,³ the gospel concerning his Son, who was descended from David according to the flesh⁴ and was declared to be Son of God with power according to the spirit^b of holiness by resurrection from the dead, Jesus Christ our Lord,⁵ through whom we have received grace and apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith among all the Gentiles for the sake of his name,⁶ including yourselves who are called to belong to Jesus Christ,

⁷To all God's beloved in Rome, who are called to be saints:

Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

⁸First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for all of you, because your faith is proclaimed throughout the world. ⁹For God, whom I serve with my spirit by announcing the gospel^c of his Son, is my witness that without ceasing I remember you always in my prayers,¹⁰ asking that by God's will I may somehow at last succeed in coming to you. ¹¹For I am longing to see you so that I may share with you some spiritual gift to strengthen you—¹²or rather so that we may be mutually encouraged by each other's faith, both yours and mine. ¹³I want you to know, brothers and sisters,^d that I have often intended to come to you (but thus far have been prevented), in order that I may reap some harvest among you as I have among the rest of the Gentiles. ¹⁴I am a debtor both to Greeks and to barbarians, both to the wise and to the foolish¹⁵—hence my eagerness to proclaim the gospel to you also who are in Rome.

¹⁶For I am not ashamed of the gospel; it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who has faith, to the Jew first and also to the Greek. ¹⁷For in it the righteousness of God is revealed through faith for faith; as it is

^a Gk slave

^b Or Spirit

^c Gk my spirit in the gospel

^d Gk brothers

1.1–7: Salutation. Like other ancient Greco-Roman writers, Paul begins his letter to Rome by identifying himself and the letter's recipients. Unlike other undisputed letters Paul does not name a co-sender, even though Timothy is with him (16.21). This is an exceptionally lengthy self-identification in which Paul identifies himself by describing "the gospel." It closes with a formula that draws God the Father and the Lord Jesus into the simpler "grace to you and peace" of other letters (1 Thess 1.1; for the longer form, Gal 1.3; Phil 1.2; 1 Cor 1.3; 2 Cor 1.2; Philem 3). 1: Servant, lit., "slave"; as elsewhere (Phil 1:1; Gal 1:10), Paul understands his life to be dedicated to Christ's service. Christ, Gk "christos," "anointed," translates Heb mashiah, "anointed, messiah." Apostle, lit., "one sent forth" whether as an ambassador or prophet. Gospel, lit., "good news," used in the Jewish scriptures of God's salvation (e.g., Isa 40.9), and in inscriptions for the emperor's birthday or accession said to mark a new order; of God suggests a message both from and about God. 2–4: A confession of faith shared by both Paul and the Roman believers. 2: Promised beforehand, God's prophets declared the good news in advance (Gal 3.8). 3: The good news concerns God's Son. Kings of Israel, Israel itself, Roman emperors, and significant philosophers were designated "sons of God." Jesus Christ is God's Son physically (according to the flesh) descended from David, as in Mt 1.1–17.20; Lk 3.23–31. 4: Spirit of holiness, a phrase not found elsewhere in the NT, probably meaning the Holy Spirit. 5: Obedience of faith (Rom 16.26) is a construction which equates obedience and faith. Gentiles, Gk "ethnē" (lit., "nations"), a term used by Jews for all non-Jews. Paul was called by God to be the apostle to the Gentiles (see also 1.13; 15.16; Gal 1.16). 7: Saints, lit., "holy ones," the NT term for all believers in Jesus Christ.

1.8–15: Thanksgiving. Ancient letters followed the salutation with an expression giving thanks for or praying for the well-being of recipients. Paul follows this practice except in Gal and in 2 Cor. This thanksgiving is unusual in its length and in focusing more on Paul than on the recipients. 14: Greeks and . . . barbarians; the wise and . . . the foolish. A standard way of classifying humanity. Paul insists that his life is in service to all non-Jews.

1.16–17: The theme of the letter. 16: Not ashamed, a rhetorical trope to express the positive opposite of the negative statement. The gospel is the power of God, not a set of doctrines. The purpose of the gospel is salvation and everyone who has faith may benefit from its saving power. Paul reminds his hearers, who are primarily non-Jews (see 11.17–24), that the gospel first came to the Jew. 17: Righteousness of God, a central theme in Romans (see written, “The one who is righteous will live by faith.”^a ¹⁸ For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and wickedness of those who by their wickedness suppress the truth. ¹⁹ For what can be known about God is plain to them, because God has shown it to them. ²⁰ Ever since the creation of the world his eternal power and divine nature, invisible though they are, have been understood and seen through the things he has made. So they are without excuse; ²¹ for though they knew God, they did not honor him as God or give thanks to him, but they became futile in their thinking, and their senseless minds were darkened. ²² Claiming to be wise, they became fools; ²³ and they exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images resembling a mortal human being or birds or four-footed animals or reptiles.

²⁴ Therefore God gave them up in the lusts of their hearts to impurity, to the degrading of their bodies among themselves, ²⁵ because they exchanged the truth about God for a lie and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever! Amen.

²⁶ For this reason God gave them up to degrading passions. Their women exchanged natural intercourse for unnatural,²⁷ and in the same way also the men, giving up natural intercourse with women, were consumed with passion for one another. Men committed shameless acts with men and received in their own persons the due penalty for their error.

²⁸ And since they did not see fit to acknowledge God, God gave them up to a debased mind and to things that should not be done. ²⁹ They were filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, covetousness, malice. Full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, craftiness, they are gossips,³⁰ slanderers, God-haters,^b insolent, haughty, boastful, inventors of evil, rebellious toward parents,³¹ foolish, faithless, heartless, ruthless. ³² They know God’s decree, that those who practice such things deserve to die—yet they not only do them but even applaud others who practice them.

2 Therefore you have no excuse, whoever you are, when you judge others; for in passing judgment on another you condemn yourself, because you, the judge, are doing the very same things. ² You say,^c “We know

^a Or The one who is righteous through faith will live

^b Or God-hated

^c Gk lacks You say

also 3.21–26). God’s righteousness is God’s character which desires justice (the Gk word for “righteousness” also means “justice”) for all God’s creation. It is God, not Paul, who is revealing righteousness (10.3). Through faith may refer to the faithfulness of God or perhaps of Jesus, while for faith is human trust in God. God gives God’s own righteousness to those who have faith, and the result is life. Paul quotes Hab 2.4 in order to summarize the connection between the revelation of God’s righteousness, and the reception of that righteousness by faith, and life; see the alternate translation of Hab 2.4 in textual note a.

1.18–32: Revelation of God’s wrath. 18: The wrath of God reflects the human situation without the grace of God (3.22–23). Here God’s wrath is passive; God responds to human unrighteousness by handing humanity over (1.24, 26, 28). Ungodliness and wickedness (lit., “unrighteousness”), which is the opposite of God’s righteous character, result from humans being willing to suppress the truth. 20: This is why there is no excuse. 21: Humans knew God but made the fateful error of not honoring or thanking God. 24: God gave them up, lit., “God handed them over”; also vv. 26, 28. This expression evokes the image of handing over to an enemy. Later it will be clear that Paul thinks that as a consequence of humanity’s choice, humanity is under sin’s power (3.9n.; 6.6). 25: Humanity knew the truth about God, but they exchanged it. Note the repetition of the idea of “exchange,” vv. 23, 25, 26. 25: An example, among others, that Paul gives of the consequences of not honoring and thanking God is that women exchanged natural intercourse for unnatural, just as men did. Whether Paul is talking about heterosexual people engaging in homosexual acts (that is, acts that are “unnatural” for heterosexuals) is unclear. It is uncertain whether Paul or his Jewish contemporaries ever considered the possibility of same-gender sexual orientation. 29: The consequence of not acknowledging God is that humanity is filled with every kind of wickedness, which Paul goes on to itemize; for similar lists, see Gal 5.19–21; 1 Tim 1.9–10. 32: The evidence of humanity’s self-inflicted predicament is that we choose to do things that we know mean that we deserve to die.

2.1–16: All humanity will be judged. 1: Paul challenges an imaginary interlocutor for passing judgment on another, while mistakenly assuming that he will not be judged by God. 2: The words you say, which are not that God's judgment on those who do such things is in accordance with truth."³ Do you imagine, whoever you are, that when you judge those who do such things and yet do them yourself, you will escape the judgment of God?⁴ Or do you despise the riches of his kindness and forbearance and patience? Do you not realize that God's kindness is meant to lead you to repentance?⁵ But by your hard and impenitent heart you are storing up wrath for yourself on the day of wrath, when God's righteous judgment will be revealed.⁶ For he will repay according to each one's deeds:⁷ to those who by patiently doing good seek for glory and honor and immortality, he will give eternal life;⁸ while for those who are self-seeking and who obey not the truth but wickedness, there will be wrath and fury.⁹ There will be anguish and distress for everyone who does evil, the Jew first and also the Greek,¹⁰ but glory and honor and peace for everyone who does good, the Jew first and also the Greek.¹¹ For God shows no partiality.

¹² All who have sinned apart from the law will also perish apart from the law, and all who have sinned under the law will be judged by the law.¹³ For it is not the hearers of the law who are righteous in God's sight, but the doers of the law who will be justified.¹⁴ When Gentiles, who do not possess the law, do instinctively what the law requires, these, though not having the law, are a law to themselves.¹⁵ They show that what the law requires is written on their hearts, to which their own conscience also bears witness; and their conflicting thoughts will accuse or perhaps excuse them¹⁶ on the day when, according to my gospel, God, through Jesus Christ, will judge the secret thoughts of all.

¹⁷ But if you call yourself a Jew and rely on the law and boast of your relation to God¹⁸ and know his will and determine what is best because you are instructed in the law,¹⁹ and if you are sure that you are a guide to the blind,²⁰ a corrector of the foolish, a teacher of children, having in the law the embodiment of knowledge and truth,²¹ you, then, that teach others, will you not teach yourself? While you preach against stealing, do you steal?²² You that forbid adultery, do you commit adultery? You that abhor idols, do you rob temples?²³ You that boast in the law, do you dishonor God by breaking the law?²⁴ For, as it is written, "The name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles because of you."

in the GK, have been added to make it clear that what follows are words attributed to the interlocutor. Some interpreters suggest that Paul is addressing Jews who condemn Gentiles for the deeds in 1:18–32. However, Paul does not address fellow Jews directly until 2:17. 3: Paul is probably addressing all of humanity, whoever you are, since, as Paul will state, there is no one who is righteous (3:10). 5: The day of wrath, which is the expected culmination of the current revelation of God's wrath (1:18), refers to God's final judgment on humanity; see also 14:10; 1 Cor 4:4–5; 2 Cor 5:10; 1 Thess 1:9–10. Paul believes that when judgment occurs in the future it will finally end humanity's subservience to sin and creation's bondage to decay (8:21). 6: At the day of wrath, God will repay according to each one's deeds (lit., "works"). See Prov 24:12; also Ps 62:12. 9: This verse, which appears to contradict Paul's earlier statement that God saves everyone who has faith (1:16), might be read as a building block in argument. In the immediate context it builds toward Paul's statement in v. 11. 11: God shows no partiality, might have been offensive to the Jew; Jews believed that they were God's chosen people to whom God was partial. Both here and at 1:16 Paul maintains the priority of the Jew in God's purposes and care. Israel's election is irrevocable (11:28). 12: Sin is judged whether or not people are aware of the law. Those who are apart from the law, that is, the Gentiles, will be judged (perish and judge appear to have parallel meanings). Those who are under the law, that is the Jews, will be judged by the law. 13: The statement that it is the doers of the law who will be justified serves as a building block in Paul's argument toward his central conviction that all have sinned and consequently justification comes only as God's gift through faith (3:23–25). 14–15: Gentiles can do the law instinctively (lit., "by nature") by means of the guidance of their conscience. Written on their hearts, cf. Jer 31:33.

2:17–29: Who is a Jew? 17: Paul turns to a Jewish interlocutor who is proud of a relationship to God grounded in the law. 18. Know his will (Ps 40:8; Bar 4.4), a positive feature of Jewish piety. 19. A guide . . . a light, see Isa 42:6–7. 21–24. Each sentence could be read as a statement rather than a question. As questions, these sentences interrogate an imagined interlocutor. The scriptural citation in v. 24 (Isa 52:5) could serve as the evidence for a

²⁵ Circumcision indeed is of value if you obey the law; but if you break the law, your circumcision has become uncircumcision. ²⁶ So, if those who are uncircumcised keep the requirements of the law, will not their uncircumcision be regarded as circumcision? ²⁷ Then those who are physically uncircumcised but keep the law will condemn you that have the written code and circumcision but break the law. ²⁸ For a person is not a Jew who is one outwardly, nor is true circumcision something external and physical. ²⁹ Rather, a person is a Jew who is one inwardly, and real circumcision is a matter of the heart—it is spiritual and not literal. Such a person receives praise not from others but from God.

3 Then what advantage has the Jew?

Or what is the value of circumcision?

² Much, in every way. For in the first place the Jews^a were entrusted with the oracles of God.

³ What if some were unfaithful? Will their faithlessness nullify the faithfulness of God?

⁴ By no means! Although everyone is a liar, let God be proved true, as it is written,

“So that you may be justified in your words, and prevail in your judging.”^b

⁵ But if our injustice serves to confirm the justice of God, what should we say? That God is unjust to inflict wrath on us? (I speak in a human way.) ⁶ By no means! For then how could God judge the world? ⁷ But if through my falsehood God’s truthfulness abounds to his glory, why am I still being condemned as a sinner? ⁸ And why not say (as some people slander us by saying that we say), “Let us do evil so that good may come”? Their condemnation is deserved!

⁹ What then? Are we any better off?^c No, not at all; for we have already charged that all, both Jews and Greeks, are under the power of sin, ¹⁰ as it is written:

“There is no one who is righteous, not even one;

¹¹ there is no one who has understanding,

there is no one who seeks God.

¹² All have turned aside, together they have become worthless;

there is no one who shows kindness, there is not even one.”

¹³ “Their throats are opened graves; they use their tongues to deceive.”

“The venom of vipers is under their lips.”

¹⁴ “Their mouths are full of cursing and bitterness.”

¹⁵ “Their feet are swift to shed blood;

¹⁶ ruin and misery are in their paths,

¹⁷ and the way of peace they have not known.”

¹⁸ “There is no fear of God before their eyes.”

¹⁹ Now we know that whatever the law says, it speaks to those who are under the law, so that every mouth may be silenced, and the whole world may be held accountable to God.

^a Gk they

^b Gk when you are being judged

^c Or at any disadvantage?

statement of the charge in v. 23. 25: Even circumcision (the sign of the covenant between God and the Jews; Gen 17:1–4) does not determine those who carry out God’s will. 29: When Paul writes that a person is a Jew who is one inwardly, he is not calling for Jews to abandon circumcision. Rather, like the law and the prophets (Deut 10:16; 30:6; Jer 4:4; 9:26), Paul asks his fellow Jews to let the meaning of circumcision transform their hearts. Paul’s aim here is to support his upcoming declaration (3:9) that even Jews need the gospel.

3:1–8: The faithfulness and justice of God. 1: Paul responds to the legitimate concerns Jews might have about God’s trustworthiness if, after God’s election they do not have an advantage. 2–3: God entrusted God’s oracles (that is, Scripture) to the Jews and remains faithful to them. 4. Everyone is a liar, Ps 116:11; “So that you may be justified. . .,” Ps 51:4. 5–8: Paul addresses a negative characterization of his gospel: that since the justice of God (in Gk this is the same phrase as in 1:17, where it is translated “the righteousness of God”) is clearly demonstrated when it is contrasted to our injustice; those who say “Let us do evil so that good may come” are presenting a slanderous misrepresentation of his message.

3:9–20: No one is righteous. 9: Despite the Jews’ advantages, both Jews and Greeks (i.e., the whole of humanity) are in the same predicament, under the power of sin. Sin for Paul is personified as an active, God-defying agent that enslaves humanity by provoking sinful actions. Paul develops this idea in chs 6–7. 10–12: Pss 14:1–2; 53:1–2. 13: Pss 5:9; 140:3. 14: Ps 10:7. 15–17: Isa 59:7–8; Prov 1:16. 18: Ps 36:1. 19: Under the law, see 2:12n.

²⁰ For “no human being will be justified in his sight” by deeds prescribed by the law, for through the law comes the knowledge of sin.

²¹ But now, apart from law, the righteousness of God has been disclosed, and is attested by the law and the prophets, ²² the righteousness of God through faith in Jesus Christ^a for all who believe. For there is no distinction, ²³ since all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God; ²⁴ they are now justified by his grace as a gift, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, ²⁵ whom God put forward as a sacrifice of atonement^b by his blood, effective through faith. He did this to show his righteousness, because in his divine forbearance he had passed over the sins previously committed; ²⁶ it was to prove at the present time that he himself is righteous and that he justifies the one who has faith in Jesus.^c prescribed by the law. ²⁹ Or is God the God of Jews only? Is he not the God of Gentiles also? Yes, of Gentiles also, ³⁰ since God is one; and he will justify the circumcised on the ground of faith and the uncircumcised through that same faith. ³¹ Do we then overthrow the law by this faith? By no means! On the contrary, we uphold the law.

²⁷ Then what becomes of boasting? It is excluded. By what law? By that of works? No, but by the law of faith. ²⁸ For we hold that a person is justified by faith apart from works

4 What then are we to say was gained by^d Abraham, our ancestor according to the flesh? ² For if Abraham was justified by works, he has something to boast about, but not before God. ³ For what does the scripture say? “Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness.” ⁴ Now to one who works, wages are not reckoned as a gift but as something due. ⁵ But to one who without works trusts him who justifies the ungodly, such faith is reckoned as

^a Or through the faith of Jesus Christ

^b Or a place of atonement

^c Or who has the faith of Jesus

^d Other ancient authorities read say about

20: The law brings the knowledge of sin (see 7:7–12), but doing the law cannot make humans righteous (justified). Ps 143:2 supports the conclusion that doing deeds prescribed by the law (lit., “works of law”) is not the means of being justified. Rather, it is necessary to be released from sin’s power in order to be righteous/justified in God’s sight.

3.21–26: God’s righteousness in Christ Jesus. 21: Now . . . the righteousness of God has been disclosed (lit., “revealed”), see 1:17, where the phrase “righteousness of God” is first introduced. Paul says that it is being revealed (a different Gk word for “reveal”) in the gospel. Apart has a spatial sense. God’s righteousness is revealed in a place outside the law, although it is also attested (lit., “witnessed”) by the law and the prophets, i.e., the Jewish scriptures as a whole. 22: The Gk can also be understood as referring to Christ’s own faith (also v. 26; Gal 2.16,20; 3.22; Phil 3.9; see textual notes a and c). If this reading is chosen, it does not eliminate the need for human faith as well: God’s righteousness through the faith of Jesus Christ is available for all who believe. 24: Now justified, “now” is not in the Gk; “justified” is the verbal form (lit., “being justified”) of the Gk word translated as “righteousness” in v. 21. See also 1:17; 3.5,25,26. Redemption refers to buying a slave out of captivity and connotes liberation or deliverance. 25: Sacrifice of atonement translates Gk “hilastērion.” This word, found only here and at Heb 9.5 in the NT, can be translated as “place of atonement,” “atonement,” “expiation,” “propitiation,” “sacrifice of reconciliation,” “sacrifice.” 26: Prove, the same Gk word translated “show” in v. 25. Faith in Jesus, or “the faith of Jesus”; see v. 22n.

3.27–31: Righteousness received by faith. 27: Law of faith, the principle of faith (see “law” as “principle” also at 7.21–23); or the law taken in hand by faith and so fulfilled by being in Christ (as at 8.1–4). 31: By this faith, while “this” is not in the Gk, the translation does draw attention to the fundamental matter of faith for both those who are circumcised (i.e., Jews) and those who are uncircumcised (the rest of humanity). We uphold the law presents an idea that Paul will develop in the following chapters.

4.1–12: Abraham made righteous by faith. 1: Abraham, our ancestor according to the flesh refers to the Jews’ belief that their ethnic genealogy goes back to Abraham. 3: Gen 15.6 (also in Gal 3.6; and Jas 2.23, which draws a different conclusion on the basis of this scripture). 5: Him who justifies the ungodly refers to God’s unique ability to reckon the ungodly righteous (see also v. 6). Ungodly includes all humanity (3.19–20,23). Such faith refers to faith as exemplified in Abraham: faith that trusts in recognition that being made righteous (justified) is the work righteousness. ⁶ So also David speaks of the blessedness of those to whom God reckons righteousness apart from works:

⁷ “Blessed are those whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered;

⁸ blessed is the one against whom the Lord will not reckon sin.”

⁹ Is this blessedness, then, pronounced only on the circumcised, or also on the uncircumcised? We say, “Faith was reckoned to Abraham as righteousness.” ¹⁰ How then was it reckoned to him? Was it before or after he had been circumcised? It was not after, but before he was circumcised. ¹¹ He received the sign of circumcision as a seal of the righteousness that he had by faith while he was still uncircumcised. The purpose was to make him the ancestor of all who believe without being circumcised and who thus have righteousness reckoned to them, ¹² and likewise the ancestor of the circumcised who are not only circumcised but who also follow the example of the faith that our ancestor Abraham had before he was circumcised.

¹³ For the promise that he would inherit the world did not come to Abraham or to his descendants through the law but through the righteousness of faith. ¹⁴ If it is the adherents of the law who are to be the heirs, faith is null and the promise is void. ¹⁵ For the law brings wrath; but where there is no law, neither is there violation.

¹⁶ For this reason it depends on faith, in order that the promise may rest on grace and be guaranteed to all his descendants, not only to the adherents of the law but also to those who share the faith of Abraham (for he is the father of all of us, ¹⁷ as it is written, “I have made you the father of many nations”)—in the presence of the God in whom he believed, who gives life to the dead and calls into existence the things that do not exist. ¹⁸ Hoping against hope, he believed that he would become “the father of many nations,” according to what was said, “So numerous shall your descendants be.” ¹⁹ He did not weaken in faith when he considered his own body, which was already^a as good as dead (for he was about a hundred years old), or when he considered the barrenness of Sarah’s womb. ²⁰ No distrust made him waver concerning the promise of God, but he grew strong in his faith as he gave glory to God, ²¹ being fully convinced that God was able to do what he had promised. ²² Therefore his faith^b “was reckoned to him as righteousness.” ²³ Now the words, “it was reckoned to him,” were written not for his sake alone, ²⁴ but for ours also. It will be reckoned to us who believe in him who raised Jesus our Lord from the dead, ²⁵ who was handed over to death for our trespasses and was raised for our justification.

^a Other ancient authorities lack already

^b Gk Therefore it

of God, not the consequence of works, that is, human striving to be good in God’s sight; trusts translates the same Gk word as “believed” in 4.3. 6–8: Paul supports his interpretation of Genesis by quoting Ps 32.1–2. God’s grace is seen in God’s willingness not to reckon sin. Sin here is transgression of God’s will for humanity to do only good. Reckon is a commercial term meaning to repay. Paul contrasts that sort of transaction with the gift of justification/being made righteous (3.24). 9: See v. 3n. 10–11: Abraham was justified (Gen 15.6) before he was circumcised (Gen 17.24). Paul uses the sequence of the Genesis story to bolster his claim that the blessedness of being reckoned righteous on the basis of faith is available to all who believe whether or not they are circumcised (that is, are Jews). 12: The circumcised may also have righteousness reckoned to them, as long as they follow Abraham’s example of faith, that is, his trust in God’s capacity to give righteousness to the ungodly (4.5).

4.13–25: God’s promise to Abraham extends to all who share his faith. 13: Paul echoes Jewish interpretation of God’s promise to Abraham (Gen 12.3) as being the inheritance of the world (Jub. 19.21; cf. 2 Bar. 14.13). Righteousness of faith, that is, righteousness that comes through faith. 15: Wrath here refers to God’s response to transgression of the law (cf. the curses on those who disobey the law in Lev 27; Deut 28). Paul offers a different perspective on God’s wrath at 1.18. 17: Gen 17.5. Life to the dead, alludes both to Abraham’s dead body (4.19) and God’s raising Jesus from the dead (4.24). Calls into existence, refers not only to the birth of Isaac but to God’s capacity to bring righteousness where it does not exist. Paul may also be working with the conviction that God created all out of nothing; see 2 Macc 7.28; 2 Bar. 21.4; 48.8. 18: Gen 15.5. 19: Gen 17.17; 18.11. 20: Distrust, lit., “lack of faith.” 22: See vv. 3n., 9. 25: Handed over, the same Gk word translated “gave up” in 1.24, 26, 28; see

5 Therefore, since we are justified by faith, we^a have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, ² through whom we have obtained access^b to this grace in which we stand; and we^c boast in our hope of sharing the glory of God. ³ And not only that, but we^c also boast in our sufferings, knowing that suffering produces endurance, ⁴ and endurance produces character, and character produces hope, ⁵ and hope does not disappoint us, because God's love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit that has been given to us.

⁶ For while we were still weak, at the right time Christ died for the ungodly. ⁷ Indeed, rarely will anyone die for a righteous person—though perhaps for a good person someone might actually dare to die. ⁸ But God proves his love for us in that while we still were sinners Christ died for us. ⁹ Much more surely then, now that we have been justified by his blood, will we be saved through him from the wrath of God.^d ¹⁰ For if while we were enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of his Son, much more surely, having been reconciled, will we be saved by his life. ¹¹ But more than that, we even boast in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation.

¹² Therefore, just as sin came into the world through one man, and death came through sin, and so death spread to all because all have sinned—¹³ sin was indeed in the world before the law, but sin is not reckoned when there is no law. ¹⁴ Yet death exercised dominion from Adam to Moses, even over those whose sins were not like the transgression of Adam, who is a type of the one who was to come.

¹⁵ But the free gift is not like the trespass. For if the many died through the one man's trespass, much more surely have the grace of God and the free gift in the grace of the one man, Jesus Christ, abounded for the many. ¹⁶ And the free gift is not like the effect of the one man's sin. For the judgment following one trespass brought condemnation, but the free gift following many trespasses brings justification. ¹⁷ If, because of the one man's

^a Other ancient authorities read let us

^b Other ancient authorities add by faith

^c Or let us

^d Gk the wrath

1.24n. Elsewhere Paul describes death as an enemy (1 Cor 15.26). See also 1 Cor 11.23 and Isa 53.4–5,11–12. For our trespasses, on account of humanity's sins. For our justification, for the sake of humanity being made righteous.

5:1–5: The state of being justified. 1: Therefore signifies that which follows from what he has just said. Justified, lit., “having been made/pronounced righteous.” 2: Here to boast (and at 5.3,11) is good. Contrast 2.17; 3.27. Sharing the glory of God is the opposite of humanity's state under sin's power (3.9–23). God's “glory” sums up all of God's attributes. Because of Christ we may anticipate participating in that glory. 3: Our sufferings, afflictions and hardships integral to “this present time” (8.18). See also 8.35; 12.12. 5: God's love for us that, being poured into our hearts, frees us to love God, transforming us from being God's enemies (5.10). See also 5.8; 8.39. Reference to the Holy Spirit anticipates Paul's description in ch 8 of the importance of the Spirit's presence and work for the justified.

5:6–11: Christ's death has justified us. 6: Paul equates being weak, that is, helpless in the face of sin's power, with being ungodly; see 4.5. At the right time, lit., “at that time.” 8: For us, for our sakes. 9: We shall be saved, being justified assures final salvation; cf. 8.24, where salvation is a present state. The wrath of God, or simply the wrath (see textual note d), refers to a future manifestation of wrath; see 2.5n.; 1 Thess 1.10. 10: Reconciled is another way Paul speaks about being made righteous/justified. By (i.e., “through”) his life, refers to Christ's resurrection. His death and risen life effected the end of humanity's enmity to God and assures salvation.

5:12–21: The story of our salvation. 12: Therefore (lit., “on account of this”) translates a different Gk idiom than “therefore” at 5.1, indicating that what Paul says now is the conclusion to all that he has said so far. Sin, see 1.24. One man, i.e., Adam (Gen 2–3). Death came through sin, Paul's theology sees death and sin as interdependent (cf. 2 Esd 3.7). All have sinned, see 3.23. 14: Sin is not reckoned, see also 7.7. 14: Moses, the one who transmitted God's law to the Jewish people. A type, a model or pattern. One who was to come, Christ/Messiah. Paul presents Adam and Christ as contrasting models. Adam is the pattern for humanity that sins and dies, Christ the pattern for humanity liberated from sin and fit for life. See also 1 Cor 15.21–23,45–49. 15: The many is synonymous with “all,” vv. 12,18. See also v. 19. 16: Justification, see 2.13; 3.20,24. Condemnation, see also 8.1. 17: Exercised trespass, death exercised dominion through that one, much more surely will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness exercise dominion in life through the one man, Jesus Christ.

¹⁸ Therefore just as one man's trespass led to condemnation for all, so one man's act of righteousness leads to justification and life for all. ¹⁹ For just as by the one man's disobedience the many were made sinners, so by the one man's obedience the many will be made righteous. ²⁰ But law came in, with the result that the trespass multiplied; but where sin increased, grace abounded all the more, ²¹ so that, just as sin exercised dominion in death, so grace might also exercise dominion through justification^a leading to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

6 What then are we to say? Should we continue in sin in order that grace may abound? ² By no means! How can we who died to sin go on living in it? ³ Do you not know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? ⁴ Therefore we have been buried with him by baptism into death, so that, just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, so we too might walk in newness of life.

⁵ For if we have been united with him in a death like his, we will certainly be united with him in a resurrection like his. ⁶ We know that our old self was crucified with him so that the body of sin might be destroyed, and we might no longer be enslaved to sin. ⁷ For whoever has died is freed from sin. ⁸ But if we have died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him.

⁹ We know that Christ, being raised from the dead, will never die again; death no longer has dominion over him. ¹⁰ The death he died, he died to sin, once for all; but the life he lives, he lives to God. ¹¹ So you also must consider yourselves dead to sin and alive to God in Christ Jesus.

¹² Therefore, do not let sin exercise dominion in your mortal bodies, to make you obey their passions. ¹³ No longer present your members to sin as instruments^b of wickedness, but present yourselves to God as those who have been brought from death to life, and present your members to God as instruments^b of righteousness. ¹⁴ For sin will have no dominion over you, since you are not under law but under grace.

¹⁵ What then? Should we sin because we are not under law but under grace? By no means! ¹⁶ Do you not know that if you present yourselves to anyone as obedient slaves, you are slaves of the one whom you obey, either of sin, which leads to death, or of obedience, which leads to righteousness? ¹⁷ But thanks be to God that you, having once been slaves of sin, have become obedient from the heart to the form of teaching to which you were entrusted, ¹⁸ and that you, having been set free from sin, have become slaves of righteousness. ¹⁹ I am speaking in human terms dominion, lit., "ruled"; Paul emphasizes that death is rooted in Adam while life is rooted in Christ. 18–19: Therefore, lit., "so then." One man's act of righteousness is the same as one man's obedience. This may refer to Christ's faith; see 3.22n.,26. Obedience and faith are synonymous for Paul; see 1.5n. 20: Trespass multiplied, see 7.7–8.

^a Or righteousness

^b Or weapons

6.1–23: Living in Christ Jesus. 1–2: In sin, the domain of sin (see 5.21) is distinct from being in Christ. See also 3.9n.; 6.11,14. 3–5: Baptized into his death, by baptism the believer is united with Christ (see v. 5) and so with the one death that ended in life, thereby defeating sin's power. See 5.12. Might walk, that is, conduct our lives. Newness of life, sharing in Christ's resurrection life. If, better "since." 6: Old self, our old humanity rooted in Adam. Crucified, see also Gal 2.20. Body of sin, "body," as at 12.1, indicates the whole person; here, the person enslaved to sin. See 1.24; 3.9. 11: Must consider, for Paul this expression implies a firm conviction which determines how believers live. In Christ Jesus, the new environment inhabited by those who are liberated from the domain of sin; the realm where grace rules. 13: Your members, the constituent parts of the whole person, physical and internal. To sin, i.e., to sin's power, from which those who are in Christ Jesus have been freed. 14: Under, Paul's anthropology is that humans serve either sin, death, and law (see 7.6–24), or God (see v. 22), characterized as grace. 16: If, better "when." 17: Form of teaching, lit., "type (pattern) of teaching." See 15.14–15. 18: Slaves of righteousness, see also v. 22. 19: Sanctification, holiness, which is the goal of being made righteous through faith; the daily task of

because of your natural limitations.³ For just as you once presented your members as slaves to impurity and to greater and greater iniquity, so now present your members as slaves to righteousness for sanctification.

²⁰ When you were slaves of sin, you were free in regard to righteousness.²¹ So what advantage did you then get from the things of which you now are ashamed? The end of those things is death.²² But now that you have been freed from sin and enslaved to God, the advantage you get is sanctification. The end is eternal life.²³ For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

7 Do you not know, brothers and sisters^b—for I am speaking to those who know the law—that the law is binding on a person only during that person’s lifetime?

² Thus a married woman is bound by the law to her husband as long as he lives; but if her husband dies, she is discharged from the law concerning the husband.³ Accordingly, she will be called an adulteress if she lives with another man while her husband is alive. But if her husband dies, she is free from that law, and if she marries another man, she is not an adulteress.

⁴ In the same way, my friends,^b you have died to the law through the body of Christ, so that you may belong to another, to him who has been raised from the dead in order that we may bear fruit for God.⁵ While we were living in the flesh, our sinful passions, aroused by the law, were at work in our members to bear fruit for death.⁶ But now we are discharged from the law, dead to that which held us captive, so that we are slaves not under the old written code but in the new life of the Spirit.

⁷ What then should we say? That the law is sin? By no means! Yet, if it had not been for the law, I would not have known sin. I would not have known what it is to covet if the law had not said, “You shall not covet.”⁸ But sin, seizing an opportunity in the commandment, produced in me all kinds of covetousness. Apart from the law sin lies dead.⁹ I was once alive apart from the law, but when the commandment came, sin revived¹⁰ and I died, and the very commandment that promised life proved to be death to me.¹¹ For sin, seizing an opportunity in the commandment, deceived me and through it killed me.¹² So the law is holy, and the commandment is holy and just and good.

¹³ Did what is good, then, bring death to me? By no means! It was sin, working death in me through what is good, in order that sin might be shown to be sin, and through the commandment might become sinful beyond measure.

¹⁴ For we know that the law is spiritual; but I am of the flesh, sold into slavery under sin.^c

^a Gk the weakness of your flesh

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk sold under sin

those who are justified/made righteous. See 12.1–2. 21: Advantage, lit., “fruit.” 22: Eternal life, see 5.21. 23: Wages . . . free gift, Paul contrasts two entirely different categories of transactions, summarizing his previous emphasis on the “much more” of God’s work in Christ (5.9,15,17,20).

7.1–13: Sin and the law. 1: The law, refers to the Jewish law and perhaps also to Roman law. 4: Died to the law, see also 6.14. Paul envisions the law as trapped in the domain of sin from which those in Christ have been freed. Later he claims that the law is fulfilled by living in the Spirit (8.4). To another, that is, the risen Christ. Bear fruit for God, a life of holiness; see 6.19. 5: The flesh, here an environment dominated by sin and death. The Dead Sea Scrolls express a similar view, referring to the dominion of sin in the flesh (1QH 4.25). See 8.4–7. Members, see 6.13n. 6: Dead to that which held us captive, see 6.14. 7: I, scholars disagree whether Paul is referring to himself alone or to a generic “I” representative of Adamic humanity (see 5.12–21). “You shall not covet,” Ex 20.17; Deut 5.21. 10: Perhaps an allusion to Lev 18.5 or Deut 30.6–20. 11–13: Sin, seizing an opportunity, Paul thinks that sin used the law to produce more of itself (v. 8); the law itself is holy. See 3.19; 6.14; 7.4.

7.14–25: The power of sin and deliverance through Jesus Christ. 14: The law is spiritual, see v. 13. I am, scholars disagree whether Paul is referring here to the condition of those who are under the power of sin (3.9) or to those who are in Christ. Of the flesh (lit., “fleshly”), depending on what condition Paul is referring to, this can mean either “determined by the power of the flesh” (v. 5; 8.4–7), or “made of flesh,” that is, physical beings (cf. 4.1). Sold into slavery under sin, talking about the condition of humanity under the power of sin (3.9n.; see also ¹⁵I do not understand my own actions. For I do not do what I want, but I do the very thing I hate. ¹⁶Now if I do what I do not want, I agree that the law is good. ¹⁷But in fact it is no longer I that do it, but sin that dwells within me. ¹⁸For I know that nothing good dwells within me, that is, in my flesh. I can will what is right, but I cannot do it. ¹⁹For I do not do the good I want, but the evil I do not want is what I do. ²⁰Now if I do what I do not want, it is no longer I that do it, but sin that dwells within me.

²¹So I find it to be a law that when I want to do what is good, evil lies close at hand. ²²For I delight in the law of God in my inmost self, ²³but I see in my members another law at war with the law of my mind, making me captive to the law of sin that dwells in my members. ²⁴Wretched man that I am! Who will rescue me from this body of death? ²⁵Thanks be to God through Jesus Christ our Lord!

So then, with my mind I am a slave to the law of God, but with my flesh I am a slave to the law of sin.

8 There is therefore now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus. ²For the law of the Spirit^a of life in Christ Jesus has set you^b free from the law of sin and of death.

³For God has done what the law, weakened by the flesh, could not do: by sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and to deal with sin,^c he condemned sin in the flesh,⁴ so that the just requirement of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not according to the flesh but according to the Spirit.^a ⁵For those who live according to the flesh set their minds on the things of the flesh, but those who live according to the Spirit^a set their minds on the things of the Spirit.^a ⁶To set the mind on the flesh is death, but to set the mind on the Spirit^a is life and peace. ⁷For this reason the mind that is set on the flesh is hostile to God; it does not submit to God's law—indeed it cannot,⁸ and those who are in the flesh cannot please God.

⁹But you are not in the flesh; you are in the Spirit,^a since the Spirit of God dwells in

^a Or spirit

^b Here the Greek word you is singular number; other ancient authorities read me or us

^c Or and as a sin offering

5:12–21). 17: Sin that dwells within me, another personification of sin as a God-defying power; see 3.9n. and v. 20. 18: In my flesh, see v. 14n. 21: Law, here probably meaning “norm,” or “principle,” giving the sense of inevitability; see 3.27n. 23: Members, here our bodies as opposed to the “inmost self,” v. 22. See 6.13 for a slightly different use of the word. Law, see v. 21. This and the previous verses resonate with passages from the Dead Sea Scrolls, especially 1QS 3.13–4.26. 24: Body of death, probably means body under the dominion of death. See 5:12; 6.14. Deliverance comes through Jesus Christ and his lordship which is stronger than the power of sin, death and the flesh. 25: Some think this sentence may have originally appeared before v. 24, others that it was added by a copyist.

8.1–4: What God has done for humanity. 1: Now no condemnation, as a result of God's action (v. 3), humanity is released from subservience to sin, death, and the flesh (see 6.14) and from deserved condemnation (see 5.16,18). In Christ Jesus is the new environment God offers for humanity to inhabit. 2: Law of the Spirit of life, refers to the principle or ruling function of the Holy Spirit in the domain of Christ Jesus. The alternative spirit in textual note a is misleading, since Paul's focus in these verses is on God's Spirit (v. 9). Law of sin and death, refers to the powers of sin and death which regulated humanity's existence until God delivered us; see 5.12–21; ch 6. 3: The law, here the Jewish law, as at 2.12–15; 3.20–21; 7.14. The flesh, see 7.5. Likeness of sinful flesh (lit., “in the likeness of the flesh of sin”), alludes to God's Son's complete identification with humanity's predicament, but without being identical to us; he is not enslaved to sin's power. See 2 Cor 5.21. To deal with sin, lit., “for the sake of, or concerning, sin”; the translation as a sin offering (textual note c) is a particular theological interpretation of the Gk. In the flesh, see 7.5. 4: Just requirement, see 7.12. Walk, see 6.4. Flesh . . . Spirit, opposing domains (see v. 6) regulated in the first instance by sin and death, and in the second by righteousness and life (see vv. 9–10). Being in the Spirit, which is another way Paul speaks of being in Christ Jesus (see 8.1), allows for the law to be fulfilled, whereas life in the flesh does not (see 7.5).

8.5–17: Life in the Spirit. 5: Flesh, see 7.5. 6: See v. 4n. 7–8: See 7.5n. Hostile to God, see 5.10. 9–10: In the Spirit, since the Spirit of God dwells, indicates the complete transformation offered in the domain of the Spirit; those

you. Anyone who does not have the Spirit of Christ does not belong to him.¹⁰ But if Christ is in you, though the body is dead because of sin, the Spirit^a is life because of righteousness.¹¹ If the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Christ^b from the dead will give life to your mortal bodies also through^c his Spirit that dwells in you.

¹² So then, brothers and sisters,^d we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh—¹³ for if you live according to the flesh, you will die; but if by the Spirit you put to death the deeds of the body, you will live.¹⁴ For all who are led by the Spirit of God are children of God.¹⁵ For you did not receive a spirit of slavery to fall back into fear, but you have received a spirit of adoption. When we cry, “Abba!^e Father!”¹⁶ it is that very Spirit bearing witness^f with our spirit that we are children of God,¹⁷ and if children, then heirs, heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ—if, in fact, we suffer with him so that we may also be glorified with him.

¹⁸ I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worth comparing with the glory about to be revealed to us.¹⁹ For the creation waits with eager longing for the revealing of the children of God;²⁰ for the creation was subjected to futility, not of its own will but by the will of the one who subjected it, in hope²¹ that the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to decay and will obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God.²² We know that the whole creation has been groaning in labor pains until now;²³ and not only the creation, but we ourselves, who have the first fruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly while we wait for adoption, the

^a Or spirit

^b Other ancient authorities read the Christ or Christ Jesus or Jesus Christ

^c Other ancient authorities read on account of

^d Gk brothers

^e Aramaic for Father

^f Or ¹⁵ a spirit of adoption, by which we cry, “Abba! Father!” ¹⁶ The Spirit itself bears witness in Christ Jesus both live in the Spirit and the Spirit lives in them. Paul can speak of the Spirit and Christ interchangeably. The Spirit is life because of righteousness, that is, existence in and through God’s Spirit means having resurrection life as a present promise (see 6.4n.) on account of the good news of the justifying power of God (see 1.16–17). 11: Will give life, refers to the resurrection at Christ’s return; see 5.10; 6.5,8; 1 Cor 15.12–24,50–57. 13: Put to death the deeds of the body, indicates the capacity available to those who live in Christ. See also 6.11–14. This God-given ability is in stark contrast to the predicament of those who live under the power of sin (see 1.18–32; 3.9–10). Deeds (lit., “practices”) of the body refers to actions that result from the continuing existence and influence of sin, despite being in Christ/the Spirit. 15–16: Spirit of adoption, the Spirit does not make us slaves but adopted children; see also Gal 4.5–7. Abba! Father!, this Spirit-prompted exclamation gives evidence with our spirit (the human spirit) that we are God’s own children, in contrast to our previous hostility toward God (8.7; 5.10). Abba is an Aramaic word which Jesus may have used in his own prayer (Mk 14.26). 17: Joint heirs, see 8.39. If, in fact, we suffer with him, “if” can mean “seeing that,” indicating that this is in fact the case (see v. 18). Three words in this verse emphasize union with Christ: “joint heirs,” “suffer with,” and “glorified with.” See also 6.3–5.

8.18–25: Sufferings and glory. 18. Sufferings, see 5.3–4. Being in Christ does not insulate believers from hardships. This present time, probably another way Paul speaks of “the present evil age” (see Gal 1.4). See also 3.26. Glory, see 5.2 and v. 17. See also Phil 3.21. To be revealed, “reveal” translates the same Greek word used in 1.17 in relation to the gospel’s revelation of the righteousness of God, and in 1.18 concerning God’s wrath. This word appears also in v. 19. 19: Creation waits, Paul personifies creation, and attaches the same verbs to creation and humanity, “wait” (vv. 19,23,25) and “groan” (v. 23). The inseparability of creation and humanity is emphasized. Children of God, see vv. 16–17,29. 20–21: Futility, another image for creation being in bondage to decay. This echoes Gen 3.17–19 where God curses the earth that Adam must nevertheless work. 22: Labor pains, Paul uses the image of labor pangs to describe the struggle involved in the transition from the present time to a glorious future. See also 1 Thess 5.3; Mk 13.8. This image also appears in Jewish apocalyptic literature (e.g., 1 En. 62.). 23: First fruits of the Spirit, the first part of the harvest that represents what is to come. See 8.11. Wait for adoption, here “adoption” is future, in comparison to 8.15. Redemption of our bodies, “redemption” means liberation (see 3.24n.). “Our bodies” may refer simply to “our selves,” or to the expectation that God will raise our bodies now redemption of our bodies. ²⁴ For in^a hope we were saved. Now hope that is seen is not hope. For who hopes^b for what is seen? ²⁵ But if we hope for what we do not see, we wait for it with patience.

²⁶ Likewise the Spirit helps us in our weakness; for we do not know how to pray as we ought, but that very Spirit intercedes^c with sighs too deep for words. ²⁷ And God,^d who searches the heart, knows what is the mind of the Spirit, because the Spirit^e intercedes for the saints according to the will of God.^f

²⁸ We know that all things work together for good^g for those who love God, who are called according to his purpose. ²⁹ For those whom he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, in order that he might be the firstborn within a large family.^h ³⁰ And those whom he predestined he also called; and those whom he called he also justified; and those whom he justified he also glorified.

³¹ What then are we to say about these things? If God is for us, who is against us? ³² He who did not withhold his own Son, but gave him up for all of us, will he not with him also give us everything else? ³³ Who will bring any charge against God's elect? It is God who justifies. ³⁴ Who is to condemn? It is Christ Jesus, who died, yes, who was raised, who is at the right hand of God, who indeed intercedes for us.ⁱ ³⁵ Who will separate us from the love of Christ? Will hardship, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? ³⁶ As it is written,

“For your sake we are being killed all day long;
we are accounted as sheep to be slaughtered.”

³⁷ No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. ³⁸ For I am convinced that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor rulers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, ³⁹ nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord.

^a Or by

^b Other ancient authorities read awaits

^c Other ancient authorities add for us

^d Gk the one

^e Gk he or it

^f Gk according to God

^g Other ancient authorities read God makes all things work together for good, or in all things God works for good

^h Gk among many brothers

ⁱ Or Is it Christ Jesus . . . for us?

dead because of sin to life that never ends. See 8.10–11. 24–25: See 2 Cor 5.7.

8.26–30: Conformed to Christ's image. 26: Intercedes, here Paul introduces another benefit of life in the Spirit; see also 8.2–17. Some manuscripts include for us, possibly from a copyist clarifying Paul's meaning, see v. 27. 27: Saints, see 1.7n. 28: For good, there are several manuscript variations of this verse; see textual note g. Called, i.e., “chosen”; see 1.17. His purpose, namely humanity's conformity to Christ; see v. 29. 29: Foreknew . . . predestined, see Eph 1.4. Though from a human perspective God's intention that humans be conformed to the image of God's Son can be conceived as being prior in time, Paul affirms that there was never a moment when this was not God's will. Firstborn, see v. 16–17; see also Col 1.15. 30: Glorified, is in the past tense, like “called” and “justified”; unlike v. 17, Paul sees temporality both from the human and divine perspective: though from our perspective being glorified is future, from God's perspective it has already occurred since it is God's will; see also v. 29n.

8.31–39: The love of God in Christ Jesus. 31: If God is for us . . ., cf. Ps 118.6. 32: Did not withhold, lit., “spare”; see also 3.25; 4.25; 5.8; 8.3–4. With him, echoes Paul's concept of believers' union with Christ, see also v. 17n. 34: Right hand, Christ's resurrection is integrally connected to Christ's ascension to God's side. Intercedes, see also v. 26 where it is the Spirit who intercedes. For Paul the activities of Christ and the Spirit are harmonious, see 8.9–10. 35: Love of Christ, see v. 39 which speaks of God's love coming to us in Christ. See also 5.8. Hardship, the same Gk word is translated “sufferings” in 5.3. 36: Ps 44.22. 38: Death . . . life, dying or living. 39: Creation, can also be translated “creature” or “created thing.” The preceding list refers to things that are not God and includes also those not listed (anything else). Love of God, see 5.5n.

9 I am speaking the truth in Christ—I am not lying; my conscience confirms it by the Holy Spirit—²I have great sorrow and unceasing anguish in my heart. ³For I could wish that I myself were accursed and cut off from Christ for the sake of my own people,^a my kindred according to the flesh. ⁴They are Israelites, and to them belong the adoption, the glory, the covenants, the giving of the law, the worship, and the promises; ⁵to them belong the patriarchs, and from them, according to the flesh, comes the Messiah,^b who is over all, God blessed forever.^c Amen.

⁶It is not as though the word of God had failed. For not all Israelites truly belong to Israel,⁷ and not all of Abraham's children are his true descendants; but "It is through Isaac that descendants shall be named for you."⁸ This means that it is not the children of the flesh who are the children of God, but the children of the promise are counted as descendants. ⁹For this is what the promise said, "About this time I will return and Sarah shall have a son."¹⁰ Nor is that all; something similar happened to Rebecca when she had conceived children by one husband, our ancestor Isaac. ¹¹Even before they had been born or had done anything good or bad (so that God's purpose of election might continue,¹² not by works but by his call) she was told, "The elder shall serve the younger."¹³ As it is written,

"I have loved Jacob, but I have hated Esau."

¹⁴What then are we to say? Is there injustice on God's part? By no means! ¹⁵For he says to Moses,

"I will have mercy on whom I have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I have compassion."

¹⁶So it depends not on human will or exertion, but on God who shows mercy. ¹⁷For the scripture says to Pharaoh, "I have raised you up for the very purpose of showing my power in you, so that my name may be proclaimed in all the earth."¹⁸ So then he has mercy on whomever he chooses, and he hardens the heart of whomever he chooses.

¹⁹You will say to me then, "Why then does he still find fault? For who can resist his

^a Gk my brothers

^b Or the Christ

^c Or Messiah, who is God over all, blessed forever; or Messiah. May he who is God over all be blessed forever

9.1–5: Paul's love for his fellow Israelites. 1: Not lying, Paul is taking a solemn oath concerning the truth of his words. 3: According to the flesh, see 1.3. 4–5: Israelites, fellow Jews. Perhaps Paul here uses this term rather than "Jews" to evoke the closeness of God's relationship to God's chosen people. (God changes the name of Jacob, one of the founding ancestors of the Jews, to "Israel" after an intimate encounter between Jacob and God; see Gen 32.29). Paul affirms that although the majority of the Jews do not believe that Jesus is the Messiah/Christ, they are Israelites, that is, God's chosen people to whom belong the special divine gifts listed in vv. 4–5. Adoption, that is, as God's children (Ex 4.22; Jer 31.9). The same word appears in 8.15,23. Glory, God's presence (Ex 16.10; 24.16). Covenants, the plural is unusual, but perhaps refers to the covenants with Abraham (Gen 15.18; 17.2,7,9), with Isaac (Gen 26.3–5; Ex 2.24), and with Israel through Moses (Ex 24.7–8; Sir 44.12,18). Giving of the law, Ex 20.1–17; Deut 5.1–21. Patriarchs (lit., "the fathers"), perhaps referring to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; see 11.28. According to the flesh, see 1.3n.

9.6–18: God's faithfulness and freedom. 7–9: Gen 21.12; Paul interprets this scripture to prove that the children of God are only those who are children of the promise God gave to Abraham (Gen 18.10). Although Abraham had other sons (Gen 25.2,12,19), only Isaac was his heir (Gen 21.12). This passage affirms Paul's assertion that God is faithful to God's word. Earlier Paul asserted that faith alone allowed Abraham to receive God's promise (4.13). Israelites cannot count on anything other than their faith in God's promise, just as Gentiles also can only receive God's gifts through faith. 11: God's purpose of election might continue, lit., "God's purpose according to election might continue, or persist." Earlier Paul spoke of God's purpose (8.28); here he speaks of the means by which God works that purpose—election, that is, God's freedom of choice. 12: Gen 25.23.13; Mal 1.2–3. Loved and hated, that is, chosen and not chosen. 15: Ex 33.19, a passage that affirms God's freedom. 16: The same thought as v. 12, but expressed in light of the scripture in v. 15. See also v. 18. 17: Ex 9.16. 18: Hardens the heart, a reference to the Exodus story, see Ex 7.3,13–14; 8.19; 9.12; 10.1,20,27; 11.10.

9.19–29: God controls God's wrath. 21: For the image of God as a potter, see Isa 29.16; Jer 18.1–11; Wis 15.7.

will?”²⁰ But who indeed are you, a human being, to argue with God? Will what is molded say to the one who molds it, “Why have you made me like this?”²¹ Has the potter no right over the clay, to make out of the same lump one object for special use and another for ordinary use?²² What if God, desiring to show his wrath and to make known his power, has endured with much patience the objects of wrath that are made for destruction;²³ and what if he has done so in order to make known the riches of his glory for the objects of mercy, which he has prepared beforehand for glory—²⁴ including us whom he has called, not from the Jews only but also from the Gentiles?²⁵ As indeed he says in Hosea,

“Those who were not my people I will call ‘my people,’

and her who was not beloved I will call ‘beloved.’”

²⁶ “And in the very place where it was said to them, ‘You are not my people,’ there they shall be called children of the living God.”

²⁷ And Isaiah cries out concerning Israel, “Though the number of the children of Israel were like the sand of the sea, only a remnant of them will be saved;²⁸ for the Lord will execute his sentence on the earth quickly and decisively.”^a ²⁹ And as Isaiah predicted,

“If the Lord of hosts had not left survivors^b to us,
we would have fared like Sodom and been made like Gomorrah.”

³⁰ What then are we to say? Gentiles, who did not strive for righteousness, have attained it, that is, righteousness through faith;³¹ but Israel, who did strive for the righteousness that is based on the law, did not succeed in fulfilling that law.³² Why not? Because they did not strive for it on the basis of faith, but as if it were based on works. They have stumbled over the stumbling stone,³³ as it is written,

“See, I am laying in Zion a stone that will make people stumble, a rock that will make them fall,

and whoever believes in him^c will not be put to shame.”

10 Brothers and sisters,^d my heart’s desire and prayer to God for them is that they may be saved.² I can testify that they have a zeal for God, but it is not enlightened.³ For, being ignorant of the righteousness that comes from God, and seeking to establish their own, they have not submitted to God’s righteousness.⁴ For Christ is the end of the law so that there may be righteousness for everyone who believes.

⁵ Moses writes concerning the righteousness that comes from the law, that “the person who does these things will live by them.”

⁶ But the righteousness that comes from

^a Other ancient authorities read for he will finish his work and cut it short in righteousness, because the Lord will make the sentence shortened on the earth

^b Or descendants; Gk seed

^c Or trusts in it

^d Gk Brothers

22–23: Paul has referred to God’s wrath several times and in various ways, see especially 1.18; 2.5–6; 4.15; 5.9. What is clear is that Paul understands God’s wrath to be the fitting response to human unrighteousness. The construction of the Greek and the manuscript options make it difficult to translate and to fully understand vv. 22–23. Prepared beforehand, see 8.29n. 25–26: Paul uses Hos 2.23 and 1.10, which speak of the restoration of Israel to God’s favor after Israel had forsaken God, as scriptural support for his conviction that God now includes non-Jews in God’s people. 27–28: Isa 10.22–22; Hos 1.10. Only a remnant, the Gk does not have the word “only.” 29: Isa 1.9.

9.30–10.4: Israel’s misunderstanding. 9.30–32: Paul distinguishes between righteousness through faith and righteousness based on the law (lit., “law of righteousness”): there is only one kind of righteousness, that which is through faith. Israel has misunderstood that the law of righteousness cannot be fulfilled except through faith. See 3.20–28. Israel, see 9.4–5n. Stumbling stone, it is not clear whether this refers to Christ or to the law. 10.2: Not enlightened, lit., “not according to knowledge.” 3: Submitted resonates with Paul’s claim that God’s righteousness is a power; see 6.14n.; 8.10. See also 1.16–17. 4: Christ is the end of the law, although end can mean either “cessation” or “goal,” here it likely means the latter, as 8.3–4 suggests; see also 3.31.

10.5–13: Righteousness that comes by faith. 5: Lev 18.5. As he does elsewhere (e.g., Gal 3.11–12), Paul criticizes the notion that life comes from works of law; see also 3.20. 6–8: Paul personifies the righteousness that faith says, “Do not say in your heart, ‘Who will ascend into heaven?’” (that is, to bring Christ down)⁷ “or ‘Who will descend into the abyss?’” (that is, to bring Christ up from the dead).⁸ But what does it say?

“The word is near you, on your lips and in your heart”

(that is, the word of faith that we proclaim);⁹ because^a if you confess with your lips that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved.¹⁰ For one believes with the heart and so is justified, and one confesses with the mouth and so is saved.¹¹ The scripture says, “No one who believes in him will be put to shame.”¹² For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek; the same Lord is Lord of all and is generous to all who call on him.¹³ For, “Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved.”

¹⁴ But how are they to call on one in whom they have not believed? And how are they to believe in one of whom they have never heard? And how are they to hear without someone to proclaim him? ¹⁵ And how are they to proclaim him unless they are sent? As it is written, “How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news!”¹⁶ But not all have obeyed the good news;^b for Isaiah says, “Lord, who has believed our message?”¹⁷ So faith comes from what is heard, and what is heard comes through the word of Christ.^c ¹⁸ But I ask, have they not heard? Indeed they have; for “Their voice has gone out to all the earth, and their words to the ends of the world.”

¹⁹ Again I ask, did Israel not understand? First Moses says,

“I will make you jealous of those who are not a nation;
with a foolish nation I will make you angry.”

²⁰ Then Isaiah is so bold as to say,

“I have been found by those who did not seek me;
I have shown myself to those who did not ask for me.”

²¹ But of Israel he says, “All day long I have held out my hands to a disobedient and contrary people.”

11 I ask, then, has God rejected his people? By no means! I myself am an Israelite, a descendant of Abraham, a member of the tribe of Benjamin.² God has not rejected his people whom he foreknew. Do you not know what the scripture says of Elijah, how he pleads with God against Israel?³ “Lord, they have killed your prophets, they have demolished your altars; I alone am left, and they are seeking my life.”⁴ But what is the divine reply to him? “I have kept for myself seven thousand who have not bowed the knee to Baal.”⁵ So too at the present time there is

^a Or namely, that

^b Or gospel

^c Or about Christ; other ancient authorities read of God

comes from faith, and has it speaking words that paraphrase Moses’ words in Deut 9.4; 30.11–14. The use of abyss, which replaces Deuteronomy’s phrase “cross to the other side of the sea,” shows that Paul is using Moses’ words to reference the events of Christ’s death and resurrection. This confirms Paul’s point in 10.4 that Christ is the “end” (i.e., goal) of the law. 9–10: Will be saved, probably refers to salvation at the last judgment; see 5.9n. Justified is a form of the same Gk word as “righteousness.” Is saved, lit., “for salvation.” 11: Isa 28.16 (LXX). 12: Jew and Greek, see also 3.29. 13: Joel 2.32. In Joel, Lord refers to God, but Paul’s use of this citation makes “Lord” refer to Jesus Christ.

10.14–21: Israel’s deafness to the word of Christ. 15: Isa 52.17; bring good news, lit., “evangelize good things.” The Gk verb translated “evangelize” has the same stem as the noun translated “gospel.” 16: Obedied, see 1.5. Isa 53.1 (LXX). 17: Word of Christ likely means “the message about Christ”; see textual note c. 18: Ps 19.4. 19: Deut 32.21; “those who are not a nation,” that is, non-Jews; cf. 9.25. 20: Isa 65.1. 21: Isa 65.2; “held out my hands” indicates God’s continual invitation to Israel.

11.1–10: God has not rejected Israel. 1: I myself am an Israelite, Paul’s claim proves that by no means has God rejected God’s people. 2: Foreknew, expresses the absolute security Israel has with God. Elijah, the ninth-century BCE prophet whose obedience to God enabled him to defeat the prophets of the rival god, Baal (1 Kings 18.1–46). 3: See 1 Kings 19.10. 4: See 1 Kings 19.18, where the verb “keep” is future tense. 5–6: Remnant, see 9.27.

a remnant, chosen by grace. ⁶ But if it is by grace, it is no longer on the basis of works, otherwise grace would no longer be grace.^a

⁷ What then? Israel failed to obtain what it was seeking. The elect obtained it, but the rest were hardened, ⁸ as it is written,

“God gave them a sluggish spirit, eyes that would not see and ears that would not hear, down to this very day.”

⁹ And David says,

“Let their table become a snare and a trap, a stumbling block and a retribution for them;

¹⁰ let their eyes be darkened so that they cannot see,
and keep their backs forever bent.”

¹¹ So I ask, have they stumbled so as to fall? By no means! But through their stumbling^b salvation has come to the Gentiles, so as to make Israel^c jealous. ¹² Now if their stumbling^b means riches for the world, and if their defeat means riches for Gentiles, how much more will their full inclusion mean!

¹³ Now I am speaking to you Gentiles. Inasmuch then as I am an apostle to the Gentiles, I glorify my ministry^d in order to make my own people^d jealous, and thus save some of them. ¹⁵ For if their rejection is the reconciliation of the world, what will their acceptance be but life from the dead! ¹⁶ If the part of the dough offered as first fruits is holy, then the whole batch is holy; and if the root is holy, then the branches also are holy.

¹⁷ But if some of the branches were broken off, and you, a wild olive shoot, were grafted in their place to share the rich root^e of the olive tree, ¹⁸ do not boast over the branches. If you do boast, remember that it is not you that support the root, but the root that supports you. ¹⁹ You will say, “Branches were broken off so that I might be grafted in.”

²⁰ That is true. They were broken off because of their unbelief, but you stand only through faith. So do not become proud, but stand in awe. ²¹ For if God did not spare the natural branches, perhaps he will not spare you.^f

²² Note then the kindness and the severity of God: severity toward those who have fallen, but God’s kindness toward you, provided you continue in his kindness; otherwise you also will be cut off. ²³ And even those of Israel,^g if they do not persist in unbelief, will be grafted in, for God has the power to graft them in again. ²⁴ For if you have been cut from what is by nature a wild olive tree and grafted, contrary to nature, into a cultivated olive tree, how much more will these natural branches be grafted back into their own olive tree.

^a Other ancient authorities add But if it is by works, it is no longer on the basis of grace, otherwise work would no longer be work

^b Gk transgression

^c Gk them

^d Gk my flesh

^e Other ancient authorities read the richness

^f Other ancient authorities read neither will he spare you

^g Gk lacks of Israel

Chosen by grace, God’s grace, not obedience to the law, is the basis for the God’s choice. 7: The elect, that is, the “remnant.” Hardened, Paul describes what he means by this in his selection of the following scriptures. 8: Isa 29.10; Deut 29.4. 10: Ps 69.22–23.

11.11–24: Israel is essential to the salvation of the Gentiles. 11: So as to fall, that is to lose their place with God. 12: Defeat, that is, failure. In context of talk of wealth, a better translation is “loss.” Israel’s loss results in wealth (that is, the riches of the good news) for the Gentiles. Full inclusion, see 11.26n. 13: Apostle to the Gentiles, see 1.5. 15: Their rejection, that is, Israel’s rejection of the gospel. Acceptance, that is, of the gospel. Life from the dead, probably not a reference to the general resurrection but rather a succinct description of the gift of faith in Christ: being brought from death to life. 16: Dough, probably a reference to Num 15.18–21. This verse, with its reference to the root and the branches, prepares for the image that dominates the next verses in which Israel is the root and the branches of the tree. 17: You, a wild olive shoot, Gentile believers in Jesus. 18: The branches, i.e., the branches that have been broken off. 22: Kindness and severity of God, that is, God’s mercy and judgment; aspects of God’s character that Paul has highlighted throughout the letter. Continue in his kindness, another way of saying continue to recognize that you are saved only through faith in God’s mercy; that you are saved by God’s grace.

²⁵ So that you may not claim to be wiser than you are, brothers and sisters,^a I want you to understand this mystery: a hardening has come upon part of Israel, until the full number of the Gentiles has come in.²⁶ And so all Israel will be saved; as it is written,

“Out of Zion will come the Deliverer;
he will banish ungodliness from Jacob.”

²⁷ “And this is my covenant with them, when I take away their sins.”

²⁸ As regards the gospel they are enemies of God^b for your sake; but as regards election they are beloved, for the sake of their ancestors; ²⁹ for the gifts and the calling of God are irrevocable. ³⁰ Just as you were once disobedient to God but have now received mercy because of their disobedience, ³¹ so they have now been disobedient in order that, by the mercy shown to you, they too may now^c receive mercy. ³² For God has imprisoned all in disobedience so that he may be merciful to all.

³³ O the depth of the riches and wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are his judgments and how inscrutable his ways!

³⁴ “For who has known the mind of the Lord?

Or who has been his counselor?”

³⁵ “Or who has given a gift to him, to receive a gift in return?”

³⁶ For from him and through him and to him are all things. To him be the glory forever. Amen.

12 I appeal to you therefore, brothers and sisters,^a by the mercies of God, to present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God, which is your spiritual^d worship. ² Do not be conformed to this world,^e but be transformed by the renewing of your minds, so that you may discern what is the will of God—what is good and acceptable and perfect.^f

³ For by the grace given to me I say to everyone among you not to think of yourself more highly than you ought to think, but to think with sober judgment, each according to the measure of faith that God has assigned.

⁴ For as in one body we have many members, and not all the members have the same function, ⁵ so we, who are many, are one body in Christ, and individually we are members one of another. ⁶ We have gifts that differ according to the grace given to us: prophecy, in proportion to faith; ⁷ ministry, in ministering; the teacher, in teaching; ⁸ the exhorter, in exhortation; the giver, in generosity; the leader, in diligence; the compassionate, in cheerfulness.

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk lacks of God

^c Other ancient authorities lack now

^d Or reasonable

^e Gk age

^f Or what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God

11.25–35: All Israel will be saved. 25: Mystery, a divine disclosure. A hardening has come upon part of Israel, see 11.7n. Full number, lit., “fullness”; it is unclear whether this means a particular number God has ordained or all non-Jews. Has come in, presumably to join others who are saved by God’s grace. 26: All Israel, as opposed to the remnant of which Paul spoke earlier, 9.27; 11.5–7. 27: Isa 59.20–21; 27.9 (LXX). Zion, a name for Jerusalem. 29: The gifts, see 9.4–5. The calling of God, another way to speak of God’s election of Israel. Irrevocable, see 11.1. 30: Disobedient and their disobedience refers to lack of faith. See 1.5. 32: Imprisoned all in disobedience, see 1.18–32. Merciful to all, articulates one of the letter’s most important ideas; see 1.5,16. 34: Isa 40.13 (LXX). 35: Cf. Job 35.7; 41.11.

12.1–8: The holy life. 1: Bodies, i.e., entire selves. Holy and acceptable to God, because God has through Christ liberated believers from ungodliness and their previous enmity toward God; see 5.6–11. Spiritual, the alternative translation “reasonable” (textual note d) is closer to the Gk. The sense is that the fitting response to the mercy of God is to present to God our entire selves. 2: This world, can also be translated as “this age,” a reference to Paul’s distinction between the “present evil age” (see Gal 1.4) and the new creation. Renewing of your minds, compare the state of having a “debased mind” (1.28). 3: Measure of faith, might best be understood as “measure that is faith.” Our self-assessment is to be done in the context of faith; and faith is what God has assigned (lit., “distributed”). Faith is understood here as a gift. 4–8: See also 1 Cor 12.12–30. God’s gifts to particular members of the church are to be used for the body of Christ.

⁹ Let love be genuine; hate what is evil, hold fast to what is good; ¹⁰ love one another with mutual affection; outdo one another in showing honor. ¹¹ Do not lag in zeal, be ardent in spirit, serve the Lord.^a ¹² Rejoice in hope, be patient in suffering, persevere in prayer. ¹³ Contribute to the needs of the saints; extend hospitality to strangers.

¹⁴ Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse them. ¹⁵ Rejoice with those who rejoice, weep with those who weep. ¹⁶ Live in harmony with one another; do not be haughty, but associate with the lowly;^b do not claim to be wiser than you are. ¹⁷ Do not repay anyone evil for evil, but take thought for what is noble in the sight of all. ¹⁸ If it is possible, so far as it depends on you, live peaceably with all. ¹⁹ Beloved, never avenge yourselves, but leave room for the wrath of God;^c for it is written, “Vengeance is mine, I will repay, says the Lord.” ²⁰ No, “if your enemies are hungry, feed them; if they are thirsty, give them something to drink; for by doing this you will heap burning coals on their heads.” ²¹ Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.

13 Let every person be subject to the governing authorities; for there is no authority except from God, and those authorities that exist have been instituted by God. ² Therefore whoever resists authority resists what God has appointed, and those who resist will incur judgment. ³ For rulers are not a terror to good conduct, but to bad. Do you wish to have no fear of the authority? Then do what is good, and you will receive its approval; ⁴ for it is God’s servant for your good. But if you do what is wrong, you should be afraid, for the authority^d does not bear the sword in vain! It is the servant of God to execute wrath on the wrongdoer. ⁵ Therefore one must be subject, not only because of wrath but also because of conscience. ⁶ For the same reason you also pay taxes, for the authorities are God’s servants, busy with this very thing. ⁷ Pay to all what is due them—taxes to whom taxes are due, revenue to whom revenue is due, respect to whom respect is due, honor to whom honor is due.

⁸ Owe no one anything, except to love one another; for the one who loves another has fulfilled the law. ⁹ The commandments, “You shall not commit adultery; You shall not murder; You shall not steal; You shall not covet”; and any other commandment, are summed up in this word, “Love your neighbor as yourself.” ¹⁰ Love does no wrong to a neighbor; therefore, love is the fulfilling of the law.

¹¹ Besides this, you know what time it is, how it is now the moment for you to wake

^a Other ancient authorities read serve the opportune time

^b Or give yourselves to humble tasks

^c Gk the wrath

^d Gk it

12.9–21: The character of Christian life. 9–10a: Love, Paul starts with the most excellent gift (see 1 Cor 12.31–13.1–13). 13: Saints, see 1.7n. 14: Mt 5.44. 19: Leave room for the wrath of God, lit., “give place to the wrath”; as the NRSV translation indicates, interpreters understand Paul to be referring to God’s eschatological wrath (see 3.5). Deut. 32.35. 20: See Prov 25.21–22. Perhaps the reference to burning coals is to burning shame for having been repaid good for evil.

13.1–7: Pay to all what is due. 1: Be subject, indicates submission to someone else. Governing authorities, refers most likely to humans in power in the Roman Empire, rather than to cosmic powers such as angels (8.38). Instituted by God, Paul claims that God is the one who set up the governing authorities, an idea that would be surprising to those authorities who believed their powers were ordained by the Roman gods. The character of the God revealed in Jesus Christ contextualizes subjection to the governing authorities. 2: Will incur judgment, lit., “will receive judgment on themselves”; whether this is the judgment of the authorities or God is not clear. Perhaps Paul here thinks of it as the same; see v. 4. 6: Servants, the Gk word means people who do public work on behalf of the state.

13.8–10: Love is the fulfilling of the law. 8: Owe, the same Gk word translated “due” in v. 7. 9: The commandments which Paul cites are found in Ex 20.13–17 and Deut 5.17–21. Love your neighbor as yourself, Lev. 19.18; see also Mk 12.29–31; Gal 5.14; Jas 2.8.

13.11–14: Understanding the time. 11: Now is the moment, lit., “the hour is already (come, or past)”; Paul urges the Roman believers to recognize that they are not in a time of waiting but a time of action. Wake from sleep, from sleep. For salvation is nearer to us now than when we became believers;¹² the night is far gone, the day is near. Let us then lay aside the works of darkness and put on the armor of light;¹³ let us live honorably as in the day, not in reveling and drunkenness, not in debauchery and licentiousness, not in quarreling and jealousy.¹⁴ Instead, put on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make no provision for the flesh, to gratify its desires.

14 Welcome those who are weak in faith,^a but not for the purpose of quarreling over opinions.² Some believe in eating anything, while the weak eat only vegetables.³ Those who eat must not despise those who abstain, and those who abstain must not pass judgment on those who eat; for God has welcomed them.⁴ Who are you to pass judgment on servants of another? It is before their own lord that they stand or fall. And they will be upheld, for the Lord^b is able to make them stand.

⁵ Some judge one day to be better than another, while others judge all days to be alike. Let all be fully convinced in their own minds.⁶ Those who observe the day, observe it in honor of the Lord. Also those who eat, eat in honor of the Lord, since they give thanks to God; while those who abstain, abstain in honor of the Lord and give thanks to God.

⁷ We do not live to ourselves, and we do not die to ourselves.⁸ If we live, we live to the Lord, and if we die, we die to the Lord; so then, whether we live or whether we die, we are the Lord's.⁹ For to this end Christ died and lived again, so that he might be Lord of both the dead and the living.

¹⁰ Why do you pass judgment on your brother or sister?^c Or you, why do you despise your brother or sister?^c For we will all stand before the judgment seat of God.^d ¹¹ For it is written,

“As I live, says the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall give praise to^e
God.”

¹² So then, each of us will be accountable to God.^f

¹³ Let us therefore no longer pass judgment on one another, but resolve instead never to put a stumbling block or hindrance in the way of another.⁹ ¹⁴ I know and am persuaded in the Lord Jesus that nothing is unclean in itself; but it is unclean for anyone who thinks it unclean.¹⁵ If your brother or sister^c is being injured by what you eat, you are no longer walking in love. Do not let what you eat cause the ruin of one for whom Christ died.¹⁶ So do not let your good be spoken of as evil.¹⁷ For the kingdom of God is not food and drink but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy

^a Or conviction

^b Other ancient authorities read for God

^c Gk brother

^d Other ancient authorities read of Christ

^e Or confess

^f Other ancient authorities lack to God

⁹ Gk of a brother

that is, be up and ready; see also 1 Thess 5.6. Salvation is nearer, lit., “our salvation is nearer,” likely a reference to the return of Christ (Phil 3.20–21) which will accomplish the ultimate defeat of death (1 Cor 15.26). 12: Put on the armor of light, another way of saying what Paul says in v. 14. See also Gal 3.27. 14: Flesh, see 7.5n.

14.1–12: Welcome, do not judge each other. 1: Welcome, a command to receive and accept the weak in faith. The “weak in faith” is probably a designation made by “the strong,” among whom Paul counts himself (15.1). From the perspective of “the strong” it is weak to be scrupulous about diet and calendar observances. Nevertheless, this difference of opinion is not to divide the community. 3: Paul’s conviction is that God has welcomed them—both the weak and the strong—and so neither group should feel they can either despise or pass judgment on the other. See also v. 10. 4: Servants, the Gk word means members of a household who cannot be freed or bought by another; they are intrinsic to the household and entirely dependent on the master. The household servants stand or fall on the basis of whether or not the master finds their behavior acceptable. Upheld, lit., “will be made to stand.” 7: Live to ourselves . . . die to ourselves, might be better translated “live/die for ourselves,” which meaning the next verse spells out. 10: Judgment seat of God, see 2.1–16. 11: See Isa 45.23; cf. Phil 2.10–11.

14.13–23: Do not make another fall. Beyond the requirement not to judge, Paul exhorts the strong and the weak not to cause difficulties for each other by placing a “stumbling block” in each other’s paths, especially in matters of dietary observance; see also 1 Cor 8.7–13. 15: Walking in love, see 13.8–10.

Spirit.¹⁸ The one who thus serves Christ is acceptable to God and has human approval.¹⁹ Let us then pursue what makes for peace and for mutual upbuilding.²⁰ Do not, for the sake of food, destroy the work of God. Everything is indeed clean, but it is wrong for you to make others fall by what you eat;²¹ it is good not to eat meat or drink wine or do anything that makes your brother or sister^a stumble.^b ²² The faith that you have, have as your own conviction before God. Blessed are those who have no reason to condemn themselves because of what they approve.²³ But those who have doubts are condemned if they eat, because they do not act from faith;^c for whatever does not proceed from faith^c is sin.^d

15 We who are strong ought to put up with the failings of the weak, and not to please ourselves.² Each of us must please our neighbor for the good purpose of building up the neighbor.³ For Christ did not please himself; but, as it is written, “The insults of those who insult you have fallen on me.”⁴ For whatever was written in former days was written for our instruction, so that by steadfastness and by the encouragement of the scriptures we might have hope.⁵ May the God of steadfastness and encouragement grant you to live in harmony with one another, in accordance with Christ Jesus,⁶ so that together you may with one voice glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

⁷ Welcome one another, therefore, just as Christ has welcomed you, for the glory of God.⁸ For I tell you that Christ has become a servant of the circumcised on behalf of the truth of God in order that he might confirm the promises given to the patriarchs,⁹ and in order that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy. As it is written, “Therefore I will confess^e you among the Gentiles, and sing praises to your name”;

¹⁰ and again he says,

“Rejoice, O Gentiles, with his people”;

¹¹ and again,

“Praise the Lord, all you Gentiles, and let all the peoples praise him”;

¹² and again Isaiah says,

“The root of Jesse shall come,
the one who rises to rule the Gentiles;
in him the Gentiles shall hope.”

¹³ May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.

¹⁴ I myself feel confident about you, my brothers and sisters,^f that you yourselves are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, and able to instruct one another.¹⁵ Nevertheless on some points I have written to you rather boldly by way of reminder, because of the grace given me by God¹⁶ to be a minister of Christ Jesus to the Gentiles in the priestly service of the gospel of God, so that the offering of the Gentiles may be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.¹⁷ In Christ Jesus, then, I have reason to boast of my work for God.¹⁸ For I will not venture to speak of any-

^a Gk brother

^b Other ancient authorities add or be upset or be weakened

^c Or conviction

^d Other authorities, some ancient, add here 16.25-27

^e Or thank

^f Gk brothers

23: Whatever does not proceed from faith is sin, whether a summary of the advice Paul has just given in a particular situation, or a general principle, this statement underscores Paul’s understanding that sin is only dealt with on the basis of faith.

15.1–13: Live in harmony in accordance with Christ’s example. 1: See 14.1. 3: Ps 69.9. 7: Cf. 14.1,3. 8: Servant of the circumcised, may also be translated “servant with respect to the circumcised.” “The circumcised” is another designation for Jews. Promises, see 9.4. 9: Ps 18.49. 10: Deut 32.43. 11: Ps 117.1. 12: Isa 11.10 (LXX). Root of Jesse refers to a descendant of Jesse, King David’s father (Ruth 4.17; 1 Sam 17.17); cf. Rom 1.3.

15.14–33: Explanation for the letter. 15–16: Grace . . . minister of Christ Jesus to the Gentiles. As at the opening of the letter (1.5), Paul claims that God has appointed him to bring the gospel to the Gentiles. This explains why he would write to a church he had not himself evangelized. Gospel of God, Paul also refers to the gospel as “of Christ,” see v. 19, textual note c. Offering of the Gentiles, that is, the offering that consists of the Gentiles. For thing except what Christ has accomplished^a through me to win obedience from the Gentiles, by word and deed,¹⁹ by the power of signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God,^b so that from Jerusalem and as far around as Illyricum I have fully proclaimed the good news^c of Christ.²⁰ Thus I make it my ambition to proclaim the good news,^c not where Christ has already been named, so that I do not build on someone else's foundation,²¹ but as it is written,

“Those who have never been told of him shall see,

and those who have never heard of him shall understand.”

²² This is the reason that I have so often been hindered from coming to you.²³ But now, with no further place for me in these regions, I desire, as I have for many years, to come to you²⁴ when I go to Spain. For I do hope to see you on my journey and to be sent on by you, once I have enjoyed your company for a little while.²⁵ At present, however, I am going to Jerusalem in a ministry to the saints;²⁶ for Macedonia and Achaia have been pleased to share their resources with the poor among the saints at Jerusalem.

²⁷ They were pleased to do this, and indeed they owe it to them; for if the Gentiles have come to share in their spiritual blessings, they ought also to be of service to them in material things.²⁸ So, when I have completed this, and have delivered to them what has been collected,^d I will set out by way of you to Spain;²⁹ and I know that when I come to you, I will come in the fullness of the blessing^e of Christ.

³⁰ I appeal to you, brothers and sisters,^f by our Lord Jesus Christ and by the love of the Spirit, to join me in earnest prayer to God on my behalf,³¹ that I may be rescued from the unbelievers in Judea, and that my ministry^g to Jerusalem may be acceptable to the saints,³² so that by God's will I may come to you with joy and be refreshed in your company.³³ The God of peace be with all of you.^h Amen.

16 I commend to you our sister Phoebe, a deaconⁱ of the church at Cenchreae,² so that you may welcome her in the Lord as is fitting for the saints, and help her in whatever she may require from you, for she has been a benefactor of many and of myself as well.

³ Greet Prisca and Aquila, who work with me in Christ Jesus,⁴ and who risked their necks for my life, to whom not only I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles.⁵ Greet also the church in their house. Greet my beloved Epaenetus, who was the first convert^j in Asia for Christ.⁶ Greet Mary, who has worked very hard among you.⁷ Greet Andronicus and Junia,^k my

^a Gk speak of those things that Christ has not accomplished

^b Other ancient authorities read of the Spirit or of the Holy Spirit

^c Or gospel

^d Gk have sealed to them this fruit

^e Other ancient authorities add of the gospel

^f Gk brothers

^g Other ancient authorities read my bringing of a gift

^h One ancient authority adds 16.25-27 here

ⁱ Or minister

^j Gk first fruits

^k Or Junias; other ancient authorities read Julia

another example of people being offered to God, see Isa 66.20. 18: Win obedience, see 1.5n. 19: Illyricum, a Roman province on the eastern Adriatic Sea. 21: Isa 52.15. 24: Sent on by you, probably a euphemism for receiving financial support for his missionary journey to Spain. 25: Ministry to the saints (see 1.7n.), the money collected by Paul from his Gentile churches; see 1 Cor 16.1-4; 2 Cor 8-9. 27: Share in their spiritual blessings, see 11.17-24. 31: Rescued from the unbelievers in Judea, see 1 Thess 2.14 for evidence that in Judea believers in Jesus were in danger from nonbelievers.

16.1-2: Commendation of Phoebe. 1: Our sister, an appellation, like “brother,” for a fellow believer. A deacon, the Gk word can be translated as “one who serves or ministers to”; Phoebe had a leadership role in the church at Cenchreae. Cenchreae, a port of Corinth, Greece. 2: Benefactor, lit., “patron”; Phoebe was a woman who had enough wealth to be in a patron-client relationship with Paul and others.

16.3-16: Greetings. 3: Prisca and Aquila, see Acts 18; 1 Cor 16.19. 5: Church in their house, see 1 Cor 16.19. The first believers met in houses; see also Philem 2; Col 4.15. 7: Junia, a woman's name. Many manuscripts read relatives^a who were in prison with me; they are prominent among the apostles, and they were in Christ before I was.⁸ Greet Ampliatus, my beloved in the Lord.⁹ Greet Urbanus, our co-worker in Christ, and my beloved Stachys.¹⁰ Greet Apelles, who is approved in Christ. Greet those who belong to the family of Aristobulus.¹¹ Greet my relative^b Herodion. Greet those in the Lord who belong to the family of Narcissus.¹² Greet those workers in the Lord, Tryphaena and Tryphosa. Greet the beloved Persis, who has worked hard in the Lord.¹³ Greet Rufus, chosen in the Lord; and greet his mother—a mother to me also.¹⁴ Greet Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermes, Patrobas, Hermas, and the brothers and sisters^c who are with them.¹⁵ Greet Philologus, Julia, Nereus and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints who are with them.¹⁶ Greet one another with a holy kiss. All the churches of Christ greet you.

¹⁷I urge you, brothers and sisters,^c to keep an eye on those who cause dissensions and offenses, in opposition to the teaching that you have learned; avoid them.¹⁸ For such people do not serve our Lord Christ, but their own appetites,^d and by smooth talk and flattery they deceive the hearts of the simple-minded.¹⁹ For while your obedience is known to all, so that I rejoice over you, I want you to be wise in what is good and guileless in what is evil.²⁰ The God of peace will shortly crush Satan under your feet. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.^e

²¹Timothy, my co-worker, greets you; so do

Lucius and Jason and Sosipater, my relatives.^a

²²I Tertius, the writer of this letter, greet you in the Lord.^f

²³Gaius, who is host to me and to the whole church, greets you. Erastus, the city treasurer, and our brother Quartus, greet you.^g

²⁵Now to God^h who is able to strengthen you according to my gospel and the proclamation of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery that was kept secret for long ages²⁶ but is now disclosed, and through the prophetic writings is made known to all the Gentiles, according to the command of the eternal God, to bring about the obedience of faith—²⁷to the only wise God, through Jesus Christ, to whomⁱ be the glory forever! Amen.^j

^a Or compatriots

^b Or compatriot

^c Gk brothers

^d Gk their own belly

^e Other ancient authorities lack this sentence

^f Or I Tertius, writing this letter in the Lord, greet you

^g Other ancient authorities add verse 24, The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with all of you. Amen.

^h Gk the one

ⁱ Other ancient authorities lack to whom. The verse then reads, to the only wise God be the glory through Jesus Christ forever. Amen.

^j Other ancient authorities lack 16.25-27 or include it after 14.23 or 15.33; others put verse 24 after verse 27

“Junias,” an otherwise unattested man’s name. Apostles, if “Junia” is read as a woman, she is evidence for female apostleship. 16: Holy kiss, see 1 Cor 16.20; 2 Cor 13.12; 1 Thess 5.26; 1 Pet 5.14.

16.17–20: Warning. Many commentators consider that these verses were not written by Paul. 17: Teaching, what the Roman believers had learned from their original evangelists; see 15.14. 18: Appetites, see textual note d; see also Phil 3.19. 20: Satan, though Paul refers to Satan in his other letters (1 Cor 5.5; 7.5; 2 Cor 2.11; 11.14; 1 Thess 2.18; 2 Thess 2.9), this is the only mention in Romans.

16.21–23: Further greetings. 22: Tertius, Paul’s secretary, who wrote down the letter as Paul dictated it; cf. 1 Cor 16.21.

16.25–27: Final doxology. See textual note j; because of the different locations of these verses in ancient manuscripts (in some after 14.33, in others after 15.33, and in some manuscripts these verses do not appear at all) and the atypical style and content, many think that vv. 25–27 were written by someone other than Paul. 26: Obedience of faith, see 1.5n.

THE FIRST LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CORINTHIANS

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

The letter is named for its recipients, the community of believers in Christ in the Greek city of Corinth (see map 14 in the color map section at the end of the volume). Scholars agree that Paul was its author.

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

First Corinthians affords an unparalleled glimpse into the life of an early Christian community in a Greco-Roman city. This portrait both reflects the ethical challenges faced by converts rooted in Greco-Roman polytheism and signals intense experimentation with their new social identity discovered in Messiah Jesus.

Paul's Corinth was a Roman city, refounded by order of Julius Caesar in 44 BCE after its brutal destruction by Mummius in 146 BCE. Caesar populated the colony with numerous freedmen, but the ethnic mix was more diverse a century later, including Syrians and Egyptians, along with Greeks who had immigrated from surrounding cities. The first-century CE Jewish philosopher Philo speaks of a sizeable Jewish community in Corinth; see also Acts 18.4, 7. Corinth rapidly regained its ancient prosperity owing to its favorable location, on the Isthmus. By 27 BCE, Corinth was already the capital of the senatorial province of Achaia and the judicial seat of the Roman proconsul (see Acts 18.12). Sharp contrasts between rich and poor were apparent in this flourishing commercial center. But opportunities for social advancement also existed: even freedmen held civic office (see Rom 16.23b), something uncommon elsewhere. The Isthmian Games, hosted by Corinth every two years, drew large crowds. The theater, rehabilitated by the emperor Augustus in the late first century BCE, held more than fifteen thousand spectators. The Roman-style amphitheater was one of the earliest built in the Greek world, probably dating to just after the foundation of the colony; the gladiatorial games held there during the imperial cult festivals were emulated by other Greek cities, such as Athens. The city was sacred to the goddess Aphrodite, whose famous sanctuary stood on the Acrocorinth. The temple of Asclepius, the god of healing, had extensive dining facilities. Inscriptions and dedications attest to the importance of the worship of the Roman emperor. Paul's choice of this bustling cosmopolis as one of the principal centers of his missionary activity reveals the scope of his missionary ambition.

The date of Paul's arrival in Corinth is debated by scholars. The majority place the beginning of Paul's Corinthian mission in 50 CE, correlating the account of Paul's trial before Gallio, the Roman proconsul of Achaia, in Acts 18.12–17 with an inscribed letter of the emperor Claudius to Delphi, in which Gallio's name is mentioned. A minority of scholars propose that Paul first visited Corinth in 41 CE, correlating the edict of Claudius on the Jews, as reported by Suetonius and Cassius Dio, with the account in Acts 18.1–2 that Aquila and Priscilla had relocated from Italy to Corinth, “because Claudius had ordered all Jews to leave Rome.” The account of Paul's activity in Corinth in Acts 18.1–18 is incomplete and anecdotal, but can be supplemented by information from Paul's letters. Upon arrival in Corinth, Paul found lodging with Aquila and his wife Priscilla, both Jews and of the same trade as Paul. Paul preached in the synagogue every sabbath; Greeks were among those whom Paul tried to persuade. In response to opposition from some Jews, Paul withdrew from the synagogue and began preaching in the house of a “godfearer” named Titius Justus. Paul names Stephanas and his household as the first converts of the Roman province of Achaia in southern Greece (1 Cor 16.15; 1.16). The author of Acts attributes sensational importance to the conversion of the synagogue president Crispus: “Many of the Corinthians believed and had themselves baptized when they heard [of it]”—that is, of the conversion of Crispus (Acts 18.8). As Paul represents it, most of his converts were lower class, lacking in education, wealth, and birth (1 Cor 1.26–28). But Paul also baptized a few wealthy persons, such as Gaius (1.14), who eventually became the “host . . . of the whole church” (Rom 16.23). After Paul left Corinth, confusion arose among the new converts regarding boundaries between the church and the larger society, prompting Paul to write the letter on association with “immoral” persons and “idolaters,” to which reference is made in 1 Cor 5.9–10. While Paul was in Ephesus, the Corinthians sent him a letter, seeking his advice on several issues, including marriage, food sacrificed to idols, spiritual gifts, and other matters (7.1; 8.1; 12.1; 16.1,12). At some point after Paul's founding visit, another Christian teacher visited Corinth, an Alexandrian Jew named Apollos, “an eloquent man, powerful in the [exposition of] scriptures” (Acts 18.24). Apollos made a strong impression on the Corinthians, especially upon the elite who valued proficiency in philosophy and rhetoric. Factions formed within the church, with members declaring support for one teacher or another (1 Cor 1.10–12; 3.4).

LITERARY HISTORY

Most scholars view the writing known as 1 Corinthians as a single, unified composition. But its abrupt transitions, frequent changes of theme, and generally loose construction have raised questions about its integrity. Assigning portions of 1 Corinthians to separate letters would be justified only if the passages in question presupposed different situations. This appears to be the case in three instances: Paul’s attitude toward the factions (contrast 11.18–19 with 1.10–12), Paul’s advice on food sacrificed to idols (contrast 10.1–11.1 with 8.1–13), and Paul’s announcement of his travel plans (contrast 16.5–9 with 4.17–21). Hence, some scholars have divided 1 Corinthians into three letters, composed in the following order: Letter A, On Association with the Immoral and Idolaters (10.1–22; 6.12–20; 10.23–11.34); Letter B, In Response to the Corinthians’ Questions (7–9; 12–16); Letter C, Counsel of Concord (1.1–6.11).

The strongest argument for the unity of the present text derives from rhetorical analysis, which identifies 1 Corinthians as a deliberative appeal for concord (1.1–4.21), with advice on divisive issues organized under sub-headings (5.1–16.24). Yet a single letter may not be consistent with the several occasions and sources of information evident in the text: an anonymous report (11.18), the Corinthians’ letter (7.1), a visit by Stephanas (16.17), and a report from “Chloe’s people” (1.11). Whether 1 Corinthians is one letter or several, the place of composition was western Asia Minor (1 Cor. 16.19), probably Ephesus. According to the traditional chronology of Paul’s life, the date of composition would be in the mid-50s CE.

INTERPRETATION

In 1 Corinthians Paul shows remarkable familiarity with the culture of his converts and with its forms of discourse: for example, ch 7 shows Paul conversant with Cynic-Stoic views of marriage (like those of Musonius and Epictetus); 9.24–27 employs an athletic metaphor from the Isthmian Games; ch 13 praises agape (“love”), a Christian counterpart to the praise of eros (“sexual love”) in Plato’s Symposium; ch 15 offers a reasoned proof of the resurrection of the body, analogous to philosophical arguments for the immortality of the soul in Plato and Cicero; chs 1–4 evoke the language of Corinth’s colonial charter, in seeking to establish a constitution for the ekklesia (“church, assembly”; see 1.2n.) of Christ-believers. In several passages, Paul addresses a group whose opinions on a variety of subjects—eating meat sacrificed to idols, financial support of missionaries, speaking in tongues, the resurrection of the dead, going to court before unbelievers—diverge sharply from his own. The attitudes of this group (“the strong”) correlate with those typically held by persons of high social status and education.

First Corinthians demonstrates Paul’s capacity to think through the social and ethical implications of the new being “in Christ”: for example, his exhortation to share with “the have-nots” at the communal meal, so as to “discern the body” of Christ (11.17–34); and his insight into the paradoxical power of “the word of the cross” (1.18) to call, redeem, and sanctify the low and despised of this world, “the nothings and nobodies.”

Laurence L. Welborn

1 Paul, called to be an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, and our brother Sosthenes,

²To the church of God that is in Corinth, to those who are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, together with all those who in every place call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, both their Lord^a and ours:

³Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

⁴I give thanks to my^b God always for you because of the grace of God that has been given you in Christ Jesus, ⁵for in every way you have been enriched in him, in speech and knowledge of every kind—⁶just as the testimony of^c Christ has been strengthened among you—⁷so that you are not lacking in any spiritual gift as you wait for the revealing of our Lord Jesus Christ. ⁸He will also strengthen you to the end, so that you may be blameless on the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

⁹God is faithful; by him you were called into the fellowship of his Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

¹⁰Now I appeal to you, brothers and sisters,^d by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that all of you be in agreement and that there be no divisions among you, but that you be united in the same mind and the same purpose. ¹¹For it has been reported to me by Chloe's people that there are quarrels among you, my brothers and sisters.^e ¹²What I mean is that each of you says, "I belong to Paul," or "I belong to Apollos," or "I belong to Cephas," or "I belong to Christ." ¹³Has Christ been divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Or were you baptized in the name of

^a Gk theirs

^b Other ancient authorities lack my

^c Or to

^d Gk brothers

^e Gk my brothers

1.1–3: Prescript and Greeting. The prescript of Paul's letters has the same form found in many papyrus letters of antiquity: the names of the sender and the addressees, with a short greeting. 1: "Paulos" is the Greek form of a Latin cognomen ("Paulus"), meaning "small, of little significance," perhaps a self-deprecatory nickname expressing the apostle's sense of humility. Paul's sense of being called as an apostle is vividly described in Gal 1.15–16. Christ is not part of the proper name of Jesus, but is the Gk translation of Heb mashiah, "the anointed," that is, the Messiah; Paul is the emissary of Messiah Jesus. It is not certain whether Sosthenes named here as a Christian brother is the same person as the synagogue president of Acts 18.17. 2: Church of God (Gk "ekklesia theou") may be a translation of Heb qahal Yahweh ("assembly of Yahweh") expressing a sense of divine election; but "ekklesia" was the designation of the city "assembly" of Corinth, so that church of God may have evoked a sense of belonging to an alternative community. 2b: This phrase is likely a gloss added to the prescript in order to make Paul's advice applicable to all those who in every place call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, an indication that the original letter has been edited. 3: The greeting grace and peace derives from older Jewish formulas (see Apoc. Bar. 78.2), but embodies the essence of Paul's own experience of God in Christ.

1.4–9: Thanksgiving. The thanksgiving is a standard feature of the prescripts of Paul's letters, comparable to the assurance of prayer for the addressees of other ancient letters. 4: Paul gives thanks for the grace of God . . . given to the Corinthians, not for their "labor of love" as in 1 Thess 1.3. 5: Because speech and knowledge are attainments of which the Corinthians are proud (1.17; 8.1–2; 13.1–2), Paul's selective mention of these gifts has an ironic quality, enhanced by the hyperbolic phrases, in every way . . . of every kind. 8: Paul's assurance that God will . . . strengthen the Corinthians contains a mild reproach of their instability. The day of our Lord is an apocalyptic term for the day of judgment; see 3.13; 4.5.

1.10–17: Divisions in the church. Paul describes the situation in the church of Corinth in terms also used by political orators to characterize conflicts within city-states: divisions and quarrels are synonyms for discord, and Paul's appeal to be in agreement and be united in the same mind and the same purpose echoes the language of speeches on concord. 11: Mention of Chloe without introduction indicates that she and her people (probably slaves) were known to the Corinthians and that she probably lived in Corinth. 12: Paul caricatures the Corinthians' partisanship using slogans like those shouted by fans of star performers in the amphitheater. Apollos, from Alexandria in Egypt, was an eloquent early Christian preacher according to Acts 18.24–28; see also 1 Cor 3.4–6; 4.6; 16.12. Cephas, the Aramaic form of Peter's name. The climactic slogan, I belong to Christ, is added for ironic effect, and does not indicate the existence of a "Christ-party." 13: Paul's rhetorical question, Has Christ

Paul? ¹⁴ I thank God^a that I baptized none of you except Crispus and Gaius, ¹⁵ so that no one can say that you were baptized in my name. ¹⁶ (I did baptize also the household of Stephanas; beyond that, I do not know whether I baptized anyone else.) ¹⁷ For Christ did not send me to baptize but to proclaim the gospel, and not with eloquent wisdom, so that the cross of Christ might not be emptied of its power.

¹⁸ For the message about the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God.

¹⁹ For it is written,

“I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and the discernment of the discerning I will thwart.”

²⁰ Where is the one who is wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the debater of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? ²¹ For since, in the wisdom of God, the world did not know God through wisdom, God decided, through the foolishness of our proclamation, to save those who believe.

²² For Jews demand signs and Greeks desire wisdom, ²³ but we proclaim Christ crucified, a stumbling block to Jews and foolishness to Gentiles, ²⁴ but to those who are the called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. ²⁵ For God’s foolishness is wiser than human wisdom, and God’s weakness is stronger than human strength.

²⁶ Consider your own call, brothers and sisters:^b not many of you were wise by human standards,^c not many were powerful, not many were of noble birth. ²⁷ But God chose what is foolish in the world to shame the wise; God chose what is weak in the world to shame the strong; ²⁸ God chose what is low and despised in the world, things that are not, to reduce to nothing things that are, ²⁹ so that no one^d might boast in the presence of

^a Other ancient authorities read I am thankful

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk according to the flesh

^d Gk no flesh

been divided? uses a verb related to a common Greek term for “party”: “Has the body of Christ been split into parties?” 14: Paul’s thanksgiving that he baptized none . . . except Crispus and Gaius has a note of irony which suggests that Crispus and Gaius may have been involved in forming factions. Crispus is the former synagogue president (Acts 18.8), while Gaius is described as “the host . . . to the whole church” (Rom 16.23); both are evidently of high social standing. 16: Paul employs the device of a feigned lapse of memory to separate Stephanas, his strongest supporter (see 16.15–18), from Crispus and Gaius. 17: Paul formulates his commission as an apostle antithetically: not to baptize but to proclaim. The negative definition of the style and content of Paul’s preaching (not with eloquent wisdom) suggests that the Corinthians have found Paul’s proclamation deficient.

1.18–2.5: The folly of the message about the cross. Paul acknowledges that his preaching is foolishness to the educated elite, but asserts that God has confounded the wisdom of this world. 18: Paul provocatively reduces the content of the gospel to a single, shameful event—the cross. Greek “moria” (foolishness) has a social stigma that does not attach to English “folly”: better, “a vulgar joke.” The message about the cross, lit. “the word of the cross.” 19: Isa 29.14 (LXX). This text is particularly apt, since it critiques those who take pride in wisdom and foretells the creation of a new order in which the deaf will hear and the blind will see. 20: Paul’s rhetorical questions mock the educated elite by means of culturally specific titles of dignity: the Jewish scribe is not merely a skilled copyist but an expert in the scriptures; the debater is a philosophical researcher highly esteemed in the Hellenic world. 21: Paul shapes a playful contrast between two types of wisdom: on the one hand, a divine attribute; on the other, a human attainment (cf. Sir 1.9–10; Wis 7; 8). 22: The desire for wisdom among the Greeks was proverbial: see Herodotus 4.77.1. 23: The first-century BCE orator Cicero attests the constraint upon discourse about the cross among persons of higher social class: “The mere mention of the word ‘cross’ is shameful to a Roman citizen and a free man” (Pro Rabirio 5.16). 24–25: In formulating the paradox of the crucified Christ as the power and wisdom of God, Paul employs phrases that sound positively blasphemous—God’s foolishness . . . God’s weakness. 26–31: Paul expounds the social consequences of the divine reversal of wisdom and foolishness. 26–28: The terms used by Paul to describe the makeup of the community are those employed by Greek writers to designate the major class divisions in civil strife: wise, powerful, and of noble birth are euphemisms for “the rich,” while “the poor” are the foolish, weak, and low (born). Paul offers a radical explanation of why the majority of those who have been “called” by the gospel of the crucified are persons lacking in education, wealth,

God.³⁰ He is the source of your life in Christ Jesus, who became for us wisdom from God, and righteousness and sanctification and redemption,³¹ in order that, as it is written, “Let the one who boasts, boast in^a the Lord.”

2 When I came to you, brothers and sisters,^b I did not come proclaiming the mystery^c of God to you in lofty words or wisdom.² For I decided to know nothing among you except Jesus Christ, and him crucified.³ And I came to you in weakness and in fear and in much trembling.⁴ My speech and my proclamation were not with plausible words of wisdom,^d but with a demonstration of the Spirit and of power,⁵ so that your faith might rest not on human wisdom but on the power of God.

⁶ Yet among the mature we do speak wisdom, though it is not a wisdom of this age or of the rulers of this age, who are doomed to perish.⁷ But we speak God’s wisdom, secret and hidden, which God decreed before the ages for our glory.⁸ None of the rulers of this age understood this; for if they had, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

⁹ But, as it is written,

“What no eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the human heart conceived, what God has prepared for those who love him”—

¹⁰ these things God has revealed to us through the Spirit; for the Spirit searches everything, even the depths of God.¹¹ For what human being knows what is truly human except the human spirit that is within? So also no one comprehends what is truly God’s except the Spirit of God.¹² Now we have received not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit that is from God, so that we may understand the gifts bestowed on us by God.¹³ And we speak of these things in words not taught by human wisdom but taught by the Spirit, interpreting spiritual things to those who are spiritual.^e

¹⁴ Those who are unspiritual^f do not receive the gifts of God’s Spirit, for they are foolishness to them, and they are unable to understand them because they are spiritually discerned.¹⁵ Those who are spiritual discern all things, and they are themselves subject to no one else’s scrutiny.

¹⁶ “For who has known the mind of the Lord
so as to instruct him?”

But we have the mind of Christ.

^a Or of

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities read testimony

^d Other ancient authorities read the persuasiveness of wisdom

^e Or interpreting spiritual things in spiritual language, or comparing spiritual things with spiritual and birth: God chose (repeated three times for emphasis). 31: Jer 9.23. 2.1–5: Paul’s concession that he did not preach in lofty words or wisdom is a rejoinder to an anticipated objection against his assertion that the crucified Christ is the wisdom of God: “But little wisdom or eloquence was apparent when you came preaching among us!” Paul adopts the persona of the befuddled orator from comedy and mime in order to establish that, despite his stammering weakness, the message about Christ is the power of God. Paul’s choice of terms belonging to the technical vocabulary of Hellenistic rhetoric (lofty words, plausible words, demonstration, power) marks a contrast between his proclamation and that of missionary rivals who have made use of the art of rhetoric. 2: Paul’s use of the perfect participle, crucified, to describe more precisely the Christ whom he proclaims is a provocation to the elite: Paul insists that the present significance of Christ, even after his resurrection, consists in nothing other than that he is the crucified.

^f Or natural

2.6–16: The wisdom Paul teaches. Paul’s claim that he speaks wisdom among the mature is perplexing, in light of his previous assertion that he preaches the gospel without eloquent wisdom (1.17; 2.1,4). The seeming contradiction is resolved if 2.6–16 is regarded as Paul’s self-parody as a teacher imparting secret wisdom to initiates. The brilliance of this strategy is that, by mocking himself and his proclamation, Paul undermines the idea that an apostle is a wise man as defined by the elite, while simultaneously asserting the existence of a paradoxical wisdom capable of transforming those who receive it, despite the ineptitude of its communicators. 6: Mature (Gk “teleios”) is a technical term in the mystery religions, designating one who has been fully initiated. The rulers of this age may be spiritual, demonic powers, but more likely are political authorities. 9: The source of this citation is uncertain, but may come from the Apocalypse of Elijah (thus the second-century CE exegete Origen), cited here as scripture. 16: Isa 40.13.

3 And so, brothers and sisters,^a I could not speak to you as spiritual people, but rather as people of the flesh, as infants in Christ.² I fed you with milk, not solid food, for you were not ready for solid food. Even now you are still not ready,³ for you are still of the flesh. For as long as there is jealousy and quarreling among you, are you not of the flesh, and behaving according to human inclinations?⁴ For when one says, “I belong to Paul,” and another, “I belong to Apollos,” are you not merely human?

⁵ What then is Apollos? What is Paul? Servants through whom you came to believe, as the Lord assigned to each.⁶ I planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the growth.⁷ So neither the one who plants nor the one who waters is anything, but only God who gives the growth.⁸ The one who plants and the one who waters have a common purpose, and each will receive wages according to the labor of each.⁹ For we are God’s servants, working together; you are God’s field, God’s building.

¹⁰ According to the grace of God given to me, like a skilled master builder I laid a foundation, and someone else is building on it. Each builder must choose with care how to build on it.¹¹ For no one can lay any foundation other than the one that has been laid; that foundation is Jesus Christ.¹² Now if anyone builds on the foundation with gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, straw—¹³ the work of each builder will become visible, for the Day will disclose it, because it will be revealed with fire, and the fire will test what sort of work each has done.¹⁴ If what has been built on the foundation survives, the builder will receive a reward.¹⁵ If the work is burned up, the builder will suffer loss; the builder will be saved, but only as through fire.

¹⁶ Do you not know that you are God’s temple and that God’s Spirit dwells in you?^b

¹⁷ If anyone destroys God’s temple, God will destroy that person. For God’s temple is holy, and you are that temple.

¹⁸ Do not deceive yourselves. If you think that you are wise in this age, you should become fools so that you may become wise.

¹⁹ For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written,

“He catches the wise in their craftiness,”

²⁰ and again,

“The Lord knows the thoughts of the wise, that they are futile.”

²¹ So let no one boast about human leaders. For all things are yours,²² whether Paul or Apollos or Cephas or the world or life or death or the present or the future—all belong to you,²³ and you belong to Christ, and Christ belongs to God.

4 Think of us in this way, as servants of Christ and stewards of God’s mysteries.² Moreover, it is required of stewards that they be found trustworthy.³ But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged by you or by any human court. I do not even judge myself.⁴ I am not aware of anything

^a Gk brothers

^b In verses 16 and 17 the Greek word for you is plural

3.1–4.21: Apostles as servants of the Lord. 3.1–4: Paul chides the Corinthians in a derisive manner for their spiritual immaturity. 1: Paul’s description of the Corinthians as infants uses a metaphor from political rhetoric, comparing the factious with quarrelsome children. 4: The reduction in the number of slogans from the four of 1.12 to two, “I belong to Paul,” “I . . . to Apollos,” suggests that Apollos is the focus of the Corinthians’ partisanship.

3.5–4.5: In a series of well-constructed metaphors, Paul portrays himself and Apollos as farm workers (3.6–9), construction laborers (3.9–15), and household stewards (4.1–5), in order to emphasize collegiality against partisanship, and to diminish the importance attributed to them. 3.5: Both Paul and Apollos have been assigned positions as servants by the Lord. 6: The one who planted has priority over the one who has watered, and a greater claim upon the produce. 10: Paul is a skilled master builder (Gk “sophos architekton,” a technical term of construction work) who has laid the foundation of the community, while Apollos is, figuratively, one of the anonymous workers (someone) who has added something to the structure. 13: The Day, the day of judgment; see 1.8n. 15: The expression as through fire is a common Greek idiom describing a narrow escape from danger: as the fire ignites, the workers escape from the legal penalty to be imposed upon their shoddy construction by running through the walls of the burning building. 19: Job 5.12–13. 20: Ps 94.11. 22: Paul . . . Apollos . . . Cephas, see 1.12n. 4.3: Paul’s indifference to the possibility that he may be judged by the Corinthians employs a Greek against myself, but I am not thereby acquitted. It is the Lord who judges me.⁵ Therefore do not pronounce judgment before the time, before the Lord comes, who will bring to light the things now hidden in darkness and will disclose the purposes of the heart. Then each one will receive commendation from God.

⁶ I have applied all this to Apollos and myself for your benefit, brothers and sisters,^a so that you may learn through us the meaning of the saying, “Nothing beyond what is written,” so that none of you will be puffed up in favor of one against another.⁷ For who sees anything different in you?^b What do you have that you did not receive? And if you received it, why do you boast as if it were not a gift?

⁸ Already you have all you want! Already you have become rich! Quite apart from us you have become kings! Indeed, I wish that you had become kings, so that we might be kings with you!⁹ For I think that God has exhibited us apostles as last of all, as though sentenced to death, because we have become a spectacle to the world, to angels and to mortals.¹⁰ We are fools for the sake of Christ, but you are wise in Christ. We are weak, but you are strong. You are held in honor, but we in disrepute.¹¹ To the present hour we are hungry and thirsty, we are poorly clothed and beaten and homeless,¹² and we grow weary from the work of our own hands. When reviled, we bless; when persecuted, we endure;¹³ when slandered, we speak kindly. We have become like the rubbish of the world, the dregs of all things, to this very day.

¹⁴ I am not writing this to make you ashamed, but to admonish you as my beloved children.¹⁵ For though you might have ten thousand guardians in Christ, you do not have many fathers. Indeed, in Christ Jesus I became your father through the gospel.

¹⁶ I appeal to you, then, be imitators of me.

¹⁷ For this reason I sent^c you Timothy, who is my beloved and faithful child in the Lord, to remind you of my ways in Christ Jesus, as I teach them everywhere in every church.

¹⁸ But some of you, thinking that I am not coming to you, have become arrogant.¹⁹ But I will come to you soon, if the Lord wills, and I will find out not the talk of these arrogant people but their power.²⁰ For the kingdom of God depends not on talk but on power.

²¹ What would you prefer? Am I to come to you with a stick, or with love in a spirit of gentleness?

^a Gk brothers

^b Or Who makes you different from another?

^c Or am sending

verb (“anakrinein”) with a technical usage for the preliminary examination of political leaders to establish their qualifications, suggesting that the Corinthians plan to “examine” Paul’s apostolic credentials. 5: Before the Lord comes, see 1.8n.; 3.13.

4.6–13: Application. 6: Paul makes clear that he has been teaching with the aid of figures of speech applied to himself and Apollos (see 1.12n.). “Nothing beyond what is written” is a maxim of uncertain origin whose meaning must be pertinent to the following clause, so that none of you will be puffed up. 7–8: With mounting sarcasm, Paul mocks the pretensions of leading figures in the Corinthian church (king was the client’s term for a rich patron). Paul ironically reminds these patrons that everything they have (spiritually) they have received as a gift; they have nothing of which to boast. 9–13: Paul expounds the consequences of the message about the cross for himself and his colleagues, who have conformed their lives to the fate of the crucified Christ: they are fools (Gk “moroi”) in a spectacle (Gk “theatron”) exhibited by God. Paul’s vocabulary is explicitly theatrical: like the poor fools in the mime, Paul and his colleagues are weak, hungry, poorly clothed, beaten (literally, “given the knuckle-sandwich”), etc. 13: Rubbish and dregs were the worst terms of abuse in Greek, originally applied to those unfortunate persons, mostly paupers and the deformed, who were put to death for the purification of the city.

4.14–21: Admonition. Paul portrays himself as a solicitous father, the Corinthians as unruly children, and other ministers of the gospel as guardians (Gk “paidagogoi”). That Paul is not altogether pleased with the performance of the guardians is suggested by his hyperbolic reference to their number, ten thousand, and by the need for parental intervention. If the Corinthians will not accept instruction from faithful Timothy (see Acts 18.5), Paul will come with his stick (Gk “rabdos”), standard equipment of the fool in the mime. Paul’s warning to the Corinthians is imbued with an ironic consciousness of the possibility of his own discomfiture.

5 It is actually reported that there is sexual immorality among you, and of a kind that is not found even among pagans; for a man is living with his father's wife.² And you are arrogant! Should you not rather have mourned, so that he who has done this would have been removed from among you?

³For though absent in body, I am present in spirit; and as if present I have already pronounced judgment⁴ in the name of the Lord Jesus on the man who has done such a thing.^a When you are assembled, and my spirit is present with the power of our Lord Jesus,⁵ you are to hand this man over to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, so that his spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord.^b

⁶Your boasting is not a good thing. Do you not know that a little yeast leavens the whole batch of dough?⁷ Clean out the old yeast so that you may be a new batch, as you really are unleavened. For our paschal lamb, Christ, has been sacrificed.⁸ Therefore, let us celebrate the festival, not with the old yeast, the yeast of malice and evil, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

⁹I wrote to you in my letter not to associate with sexually immoral persons—¹⁰not at all meaning the immoral of this world, or the greedy and robbers, or idolaters, since you would then need to go out of the world.¹¹ But now I am writing to you not to associate with anyone who bears the name of brother or sister^c who is sexually immoral or greedy, or is an idolater, reviler, drunkard, or robber. Do not even eat with such a one.¹² For what have I to do with judging those outside? Is it not those who are inside that you are to judge?¹³ God will judge those outside. “Drive out the wicked person from among you.”

6 When any of you has a grievance against another, do you dare to take it to court before the unrighteous, instead of taking it before the saints?² Do you not know that the saints will judge the world? And if the world is to be judged by you, are you incompetent to try trivial cases?³ Do you not know that we are to judge angels—to say nothing of ordinary matters?⁴ If you have ordinary cases, then, do you appoint as judges those who have no standing in the church?⁵ I say this to your shame. Can it be that there is no one among you wise enough to decide between

^a Or on the man who has done such a thing in the name of the Lord Jesus

^b Other ancient authorities add Jesus

^c Gk brother

5.1–13: Sexual immorality in the community. 1: The expression father's wife is an idiom for “stepmother.” Paul accurately reports that sexual relations with one's stepmother were prohibited by biblical law (Lev 18.7–8; 20.11; Deut 22.30) as well as by Roman law; according to the Institutes of Gaius, “neither can I marry her who has previously been my mother-in-law . . . or stepmother” (1.63) 2: That the church had taken no disciplinary action suggests that the sinner was a person of high social status. 3–5: While it is not clear precisely what was involved in the execution of this sentence, Paul's language (hand this man over to Satan) indicates a punishment that was drastic and permanent, such as excommunication. 5: Flesh for Paul does not refer to the human body but to an instinct toward sin, a way of life unredeemed by the spirit and oriented toward worldly advantages. The day of the Lord, see 1.8n. 6–8: Paul's metaphor compares immorality in the community with old yeast which must be cleansed from the house in preparation for the Jewish festival of Passover, when only unleavened bread was to be eaten (Ex 12.15–20). 7: Paul nowhere else describes Christ as our paschal lamb; but cf. Jn 1.29; 19.36; Rev 5.12. 9–13: Clarifying a misunderstanding. 9: Defenders of the unity of 1 Corinthians assume that the letter to which Paul refers has been lost. But would the Corinthians have treated one of Paul's letters with such disregard? Alternatively, the letter may be preserved in 1 Cor 10.1–22; 6.12–20; 10.23–11.34, passages which discuss association with the immoral and idolaters; see further Introduction, pp. 1637–38. 13: Drive out the wicked person, following the instructions of Deut 13.5; 17.7; etc.

6.1–11: Lawsuits between believers. Someone dares to do what should be unthinkable for a Christian: to take another Christian to court before the unrighteous. 1: The phrase has a grievance against another employs a technical expression of legal proceedings frequently attested in Greek sources. In general, only persons of more than moderate wealth had access to the courts. 2: For the idea that the saints (the believers) will judge the world, see Dan 7.22 (LXX); Wis 3.8; Rev 3.21; 20.4. 3: That the angels themselves are subject to judgment, see Jude 6; 2 Pet 2.4. 4: The lawsuits in question seem to have been ordinary civil cases, concerned with money or property.

one believer^a and another,⁶ but a believer^a goes to court against a believer^a—and before unbelievers at that?

⁷In fact, to have lawsuits at all with one another is already a defeat for you. Why not rather be wronged? Why not rather be defrauded?⁸ But you yourselves wrong and defraud—and believers^b at that.

⁹Do you not know that wrongdoers will not inherit the kingdom of God? Do not be deceived! Fornicators, idolaters, adulterers, male prostitutes, sodomites,¹⁰ thieves, the greedy, drunkards, revilers, robbers—none of these will inherit the kingdom of God.¹¹ And this is what some of you used to be. But you were washed, you were sanctified, you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and in the Spirit of our God.

¹²“All things are lawful for me,” but not all things are beneficial. “All things are lawful for me,” but I will not be dominated by anything.

¹³“Food is meant for the stomach and the stomach for food,”^c and God will destroy both one and the other. The body is meant not for fornication but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body.¹⁴ And God raised the Lord and will also raise us by his power.¹⁵ Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ? Should I therefore take the members of Christ and make them members of a prostitute? Never!¹⁶ Do you not know that whoever is united to a prostitute becomes one body with her? For it is said, “The two shall be one flesh.”¹⁷ But anyone united to the Lord becomes one spirit with him.¹⁸ Shun fornication! Every sin that a person commits is outside the body; but the fornicator sins against the body itself.¹⁹ Or do you not know that your body is a temple^d of the Holy Spirit within you, which you have from God, and that you are not your own?²⁰ For you were bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body.

7 Now concerning the matters about which you wrote: “It is well for a man not to

^a Gk brother

^b Gk brothers

^c The quotation may extend to the word other

^d Or sanctuary

7: Paul's advice resembles that of Jesus in Mt 5.39–40; Lk 6.28–30: nonresistance. 9–11: Catalogues of vices and virtues are known from Jewish and Greek writers, especially the Stoic philosophers. 9: Male prostitutes (Gk “malakoi,” lit., “soft men”) were boys and men sodomized by other males, while sodomites (Gk “arsenokoitai,” lit., “men who bed males”); a word first found here and based on LXX Lev 18.22; 20.13) were men who exercised the dominant role, pederasts.

6.12–20: Christians going to prostitutes. The abrupt beginning of 6.12, and differences of tone and content with 5.1–6.11, suggest that this paragraph originally belonged not here but possibly between 10.22 and 10.23, with which 6.12–20 has much in common: in both passages, the temptation to immorality is strong and Christians are urged to “flee” (6.18; 10.8,14); in both passages, Paul quotes the Corinthian slogan, “All things are lawful for me” (6.12; 10.23). 12: Paul quotes a slogan of the Corinthians, a proud boast of freedom, asserting liberation from cultural taboos. Paul counters by insisting upon the mutually beneficial as the criterion of moral judgment. 13: Another slogan of the Corinthians, with a background in Cynic philosophy. Paul counters by affirming God's power over the body. 14: The resurrection of Jesus signals that the body is not meant for corruption but for ongoing life. 15: Paul appeals to his characteristic idea of the church as the body of Christ (see 12.12–14,27) in order to exclude the possibility of contact with a dangerous polluting agent, the prostitute. 16: Gen. 2.24. 18: Cf. 10.14 (5.9). That the fornicator sins against himself, against his own person (reflected in his body), is an idea with Stoic parallels. 19: Like the community as a whole (cf. 3.16), each believer is a temple of the Holy Spirit. 20: Paul draws upon the custom of sacred manumission: the slave whose freedom was bought with a price with money previously deposited in the temple treasury was regarded as the property of the god.

7.1–40: Marriage and sexual relations. In response to the Corinthians' questions, Paul rethinks the most basic relationships, with the result that marriage as well as other marks of social status are relativized in importance by the eschatological “calling” from the Lord. 1: Now concerning, a formula introducing the first of several topics about which the Corinthians had queried Paul in their letter; see also 7.25; 8.1; 12.1; 16.1; 16.12. The words “It is well for a man not to touch a woman” are a quotation from the Corinthians' letter. Touch is an idiom for “have sex with.” The quotation may be an expression of extreme asceticism, or may represent an touch a woman.”² But because of cases of sexual immorality, each man should have his own wife and each woman her own husband.³ The husband should give to his wife her conjugal rights, and likewise the wife to her husband.⁴ For the wife does not have authority over her own body, but the husband does; likewise the husband does not have authority over his own body, but the wife does.⁵ Do not deprive one another except perhaps by agreement for a set time, to devote yourselves to prayer, and then come together again, so that Satan may not tempt you because of your lack of self-control.⁶ This I say by way of concession, not of command.⁷ I wish that all were as I myself am. But each has a particular gift from God, one having one kind and another a different kind.

⁸To the unmarried and the widows I say that it is well for them to remain unmarried as I am.⁹ But if they are not practicing self-control, they should marry. For it is better to marry than to be aflame with passion.

¹⁰To the married I give this command—not I but the Lord—that the wife should not separate from her husband¹¹ (but if she does separate, let her remain unmarried or else be reconciled to her husband), and that the husband should not divorce his wife.

¹²To the rest I say—I and not the Lord—that if any believer^a has a wife who is an unbeliever, and she consents to live with him, he should not divorce her.¹³ And if any woman has a husband who is an unbeliever, and he consents to live with her, she should not divorce him.¹⁴ For the unbelieving husband is made holy through his wife, and the unbelieving wife is made holy through her husband. Otherwise, your children would be unclean, but as it is, they are holy.¹⁵ But if the unbelieving partner separates, let it be so; in such a case the brother or sister is not bound. It is to peace that God has called you.^b ¹⁶Wife, for all you know, you might save your husband. Husband, for all you know, you might save your wife.

¹⁷However that may be, let each of you lead the life that the Lord has assigned, to which God called you. This is my rule in all the churches.¹⁸ Was anyone at the time of his call already circumcised? Let him not seek to

^a Gk brother

^b Other ancient authorities read us

ironic retort by those who claimed freedom from conventional morality (6.12n.) to Paul's warning against immorality in his previous letter. 2: Against the temptation to immorality, Paul counsels monogamy and fidelity in marriage; cf. 1 Thess 4.3–5. 3: Conjugal rights, lit., “debt,” used here in a technical and euphemistic sense, to denote the obligation of spouses to each other. 4: That the partnership of marriage includes the bodies of the husband and wife was also affirmed by the Stoic philosopher Musonius. 5: Paul warns rather strongly (deprive is literally “defraud”) against withholding conjugal relations and allows for exceptions only within limits—by harmonious agreement, for a season, to devote oneself to prayer (cf. T. Naph. 8). 6: To avoid the impression that he commands sexual relations within marriage, Paul clarifies the point of his previous statement: he has spoken by way of concession, to prevent temptation on account of lack of self-control. 7: Paul's wish is that all were as he is—unmarried (v. 8) yet self-controlled, a state which he regards as a gift from God; yet Paul acknowledges that others have different gifts. 8–9: Paul counsels celibacy to the unmarried and widows, unless they are “out of control.” Greek writers describe passion as an internal burning; love spells in magical papyri send desire into the body of the beloved as “heat.” 10–11: The command of the Lord appears to refer to sayings about divorce like those attributed to Jesus in Mk 10.2–12; Mt 5.31–32; 19.3–9. Paul has formulated the command of Jesus in accordance with Roman law under which the wife could divorce her husband; according to biblical law, divorce was initiated only by the husband (Deut 24.1). To separate is a technical term for divorce in Greek sources. 12–16: Paul offers advice to Christ-believers in mixed marriages. The advice is naturally offered on Paul's own authority, because such marriages were not envisioned by Jesus. If the non-Christian is sympathetically disposed to live with the believer, there should be no divorce. 14: Paul's statement rests upon the notion that “holiness,” like “uncleanness,” is a quality transferable within relationships; cf. 1 Clem 46.2. 15: For peace as the goal of Christian life, see 2 Cor 13.11; Rom 14.17. 16: The term save is used here in the sense of conversion; cf. 1 Pet 3.1–2. 17–24: Paul inserts a paragraph enunciating his general rule in all the churches, of which the preceding advice on marriage has been a special application: the call of God does not remove a Christian from his or her situation in society, but intensifies obedience to God in the midst of life. 18: Paul envisions cases of a Jewish convert who might seek remove the marks of circumcision. Was anyone at the time of his call uncircumcised? Let him not seek circumcision. ¹⁹ Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing; but obeying the commandments of God is everything. ²⁰ Let each of you remain in the condition in which you were called.

²¹ Were you a slave when called? Do not be concerned about it. Even if you can gain your freedom, make use of your present condition now more than ever. ²² For whoever was called in the Lord as a slave is a freed person belonging to the Lord, just as whoever was free when called is a slave of Christ. ²³ You were bought with a price; do not become slaves of human masters. ²⁴ In whatever condition you were called, brothers and sisters,^b there remain with God.

²⁵ Now concerning virgins, I have no command of the Lord, but I give my opinion as one who by the Lord's mercy is trustworthy.

²⁶ I think that, in view of the impending^c crisis, it is well for you to remain as you are. ²⁷ Are you bound to a wife? Do not seek to be free. Are you free from a wife? Do not seek a wife. ²⁸ But if you marry, you do not sin, and if a virgin marries, she does not sin. Yet those who marry will experience distress in this life,^d and I would spare you that. ²⁹ I mean, brothers and sisters,^b the appointed time has grown short; from now on, let even those who have wives be as though they had none, ³⁰ and those who mourn as though they were not mourning, and those who rejoice as though they were not rejoicing, and those who buy as though they had no possessions, ³¹ and those who deal with the world as though they had no dealings with it. For the present form of this world is passing away.

^a Or avail yourself of the opportunity

^b Gk brothers

^c Or present

^d Gk in the flesh

to remove the marks of circumcision, and of a Gentile convert who might seek circumcision, motivated by a desire for social acceptance in either group. 19: Paul insists that circumcision and uncircumcision amount to nothing; what matters is keeping the commandments of God; cf. Gal 5.6; 6.15; Rom 2.25–26. 20: Paul plays provocatively with the word “calling” to indicate that something has been added to every condition, by virtue of which the Christian can remain in his or her calling, yet with a higher vocation. 21: A slave should not be concerned about his condition. But what if he is able to become free? Paul's advice has puzzled interpreters; the Greek literally reads “rather make use of” (the words “your present condition now more than ever” have been supplied by the NRSV translators), with the verb lacking an object in the Greek text, and either “slavery” or “freedom” must be supplied to complete the meaning. The context argues for the latter: if the slave can somehow become free, he or she should make use of freedom. 22: The calling in the Lord results in a status reversal: the Christian slave has become a freed person of Christ, while the free man has become a slave of Christ. Paul's thought moves beyond the Stoic consolation of “inner freedom” and implies changes in social relationship and behavior; see Philem 16. 23: You were bought with a price evokes the readers' experience of the large Roman slave market at Corinth. As was the custom in sacred manumission, where the god was imagined to be the purchaser, so Christ has bought the Corinthians with a price, whether slave or free, so that they should no longer enslave themselves to human masters. 25–38: Whether virgins should marry must have been a question raised in the Corinthians' letter to Paul, as indicated by the recurrence of the formula now concerning (see 7.1n.). 25: Paul acknowledges that the advice that follows is his own opinion, since he has no command of the Lord; cf. 7.10,12. 26: The impending crisis refers to the tribulations expected to occur in the last days before the judgment; see also vv. 29,31. 27: What kind of “bond” is envisioned? Not, evidently, the bond of marriage, but a pledge to preserve the virginity of the young woman, to which the man addressed by Paul has committed himself. 28: Paul reassures the man and his betrothed that the decision to marry is no sin, should they prove incapable of keeping their pledge to virginity. 29–31: Paul shares his belief about the foreshortening of time as justification for urging an adjustment in social, emotional, and economic relations. The participle that Paul chooses (grown short) to describe what has happened to time in the Christ-event is from a verb used elsewhere in Greek literature of the furling of a ship's sails, of the folding of a bird's wings, of curtains gathered together. An apocalyptic parallel to Paul's account of life according to the principle of as though . . . not is found in 2 Esd 16.41b–44: “Let the one who buys be like the one who will lose; . . . those who marry, like those who will have no children.” But there are important differences: for Paul, the eschatological rupture occurs in the present, and is immanent to every action, whereas ³² I want you to be free from anxieties. The unmarried man is anxious about the affairs of the Lord, how to please the Lord; ³³ but the married man is anxious about the affairs of the world, how to please his wife, ³⁴ and his interests are divided. And the unmarried woman and the virgin are anxious about the affairs of the Lord, so that they may be holy in body and spirit; but the married woman is anxious about the affairs of the world, how to please her husband. ³⁵ I say this for your own benefit, not to put any restraint upon you, but to promote good order and unhindered devotion to the Lord.

³⁶ If anyone thinks that he is not behaving properly toward his fiancée,^a if his passions are strong, and so it has to be, let him marry as he wishes; it is no sin. Let them marry. ³⁷ But if someone stands firm in his resolve, being under no necessity but having his own desire under control, and has determined in his own mind to keep her as his fiancée,^a he will do well. ³⁸ So then, he who marries his fiancée^a does well; and he who refrains from marriage will do better.

³⁹ A wife is bound as long as her husband lives. But if the husband dies,^b she is free to marry anyone she wishes, only in the Lord. ⁴⁰ But in my judgment she is more blessed if she remains as she is. And I think that I too have the Spirit of God.

8 Now concerning food sacrificed to idols: we know that “all of us possess knowledge.” Knowledge puffs up, but love builds up. ² Anyone who claims to know something does not yet have the necessary knowledge; ³ but anyone who loves God is known by him. ⁴ Hence, as to the eating of food offered to idols, we know that “no idol in the world really exists,” and that “there is no God but one.” ⁵ Indeed, even though there may be so-called gods in heaven or on earth—as in fact there are many gods and many lords—⁶ yet for us there is one God, the Father, from whom are all things and for whom we exist, and one Lord, Jesus Christ, through

^a Gk virgin

^b Gk falls asleep

² Esdras distinguishes present from future, and distributes the crisis across different actions. 32–35: Paul wants his converts to be free from anxieties. Epictetus counselled the ideal Cynic to avoid the distractions of marriage; but the goal of Paul’s advice is not philosophical self-mastery but unhindered devotion to the Lord. 36–38: Paul gives particular consideration to a situation which posed a special danger: when the desires of those who have pledged themselves to celibacy threaten to get out of control. In advising marriage in this case, Paul is not compromising his preference for the unmarried state. In Paul’s hierarchy of virtue, marriage is good, but celibacy is better. 39–40: The freedom of a Christ-believing widow to remarry is affirmed, with one proviso: that she marry a fellow Christ-believer. Yet Paul judges a widow to be more blessed who remains unmarried.

8.1–13: Eating food offered to idols. 1: The formula now concerning (see 7.1n.) indicates that this matter had been raised in the Corinthians’ letter to Paul. The background was apparently this: Paul’s advice in a previous letter (cf. 1 Cor 5.9) to shun the worship of idols (see 1 Cor 10.14–22) proved confusing and difficult for some to follow. What if one were invited to dine in the banquet hall of a sacred precinct? To decline such invitations would be socially disadvantageous (cf. 1 Cor 5.10). In reply, Paul quotes repeatedly from the Corinthians’ letter (8.1,4,8), permitting a detailed reconstruction of the social location and religious beliefs of the disputants. “All of us possess knowledge” is a quotation from the Corinthians’ letter. The content of their knowledge is quoted in 8.4: “No idol . . . really exists.” As a consequence, eating idol meat is a matter of indifference: “We are no worse off,” etc. (8.8; but also see further, below). Perhaps the “strong” represented it as their duty to build up the conscience of the “weak,” so that they would not cling to superstitious scruples (8.10). In seeking to identify the “strong” and the “weak,” one should bear in mind that the poor seldom had meat as part of their diet, except when it was distributed at public religious festivals, whereas the rich could afford to buy meat in the market, and would have received invitations to dine in temples, owing to their social status. 1: Paul counters the emphasis upon religious knowledge by exposing its tendency to self-inflation; love (Gk “agape”) is the constructive force of Christian community, praised in ch 13. 3: Cf. Rom 8.28–30; Gal 4.9; 1 Cor 13.12. 4: The Corinthians’ knowledge that “no idol in the world really exists” is grounded in the monotheistic faith to which they have been converted; cf. Deut 4.35; 6.4; Wis 7.17; 13.1; 15.2–3. 5: Paul acknowledges not that many gods exist, but that they are worshiped as such by others. 6: Paul quotes an early confession; cf. Rom 11.36; Col 1.15–16.

whom are all things and through whom we exist.

⁷It is not everyone, however, who has this knowledge. Since some have become so accustomed to idols until now, they still think of the food they eat as food offered to an idol; and their conscience, being weak, is defiled. ⁸“Food will not bring us close to God.”^a We are no worse off if we do not eat, and no better off if we do. ⁹But take care that this liberty of yours does not somehow become a stumbling block to the weak. ¹⁰For if others see you, who possess knowledge, eating in the temple of an idol, might they not, since their conscience is weak, be encouraged to the point of eating food sacrificed to idols? ¹¹So by your knowledge those weak believers for whom Christ died are destroyed.^b ¹²But when you thus sin against members of your family,^c and wound their conscience when it is weak, you sin against Christ. ¹³Therefore, if food is a cause of their falling,^d I will never eat meat, so that I may not cause one of them^e to fall.

9 Am I not free? Am I not an apostle? Have I not seen Jesus our Lord? Are you not my work in the Lord? ²If I am not an apostle to others, at least I am to you; for you are the seal of my apostleship in the Lord.

³This is my defense to those who would examine me. ⁴Do we not have the right to our food and drink? ⁵Do we not have the right to be accompanied by a believing wife,^f as do the other apostles and the brothers of the Lord and Cephas? ⁶Or is it only Barnabas and I who have no right to refrain from working for a living? ⁷Who at any time pays the expenses for doing military service? Who plants a vineyard and does not eat any of its fruit? Or who tends a flock and does not get any of its milk?

^a The quotation may extend to the end of the verse

^b Gk the weak brother . . . is destroyed

^c Gk against the brothers

^d Gk my brother's falling

^e Gk cause my brother

^f Gk a sister as wife

7: Paul confronts the “strong” with the reality that some do not share their enlightened attitude toward the gods. Those who have been accustomed to idols until now must be Gentiles rather than Jews. The Greek word translated conscience does not correspond to the modern conception of an internal guide to moral conduct in the future, but denotes a past misdeed which causes pain. The “strong” have asserted that their consumption of idol meat did not convict them of any wrongdoing, and have alleged that the conscience of other Christians is weak for harboring such scruples. Paul appropriates the term conscience from the “strong” and uses it to express his own true concern that someone for whom the so-called gods (v. 5) have existence might be defiled by eating food offered to an idol. 8: The entire verse is another quotation from the Corinthians’ letter, despite the NRSV’s punctuation. 9: The Greek word translated liberty has a meaning closer to “authority” or “right,” as in 9.4–6,12,18. 10: The situation envisioned here is illustrated by the temple of Asclepius at Corinth, which had three dining rooms on the east side of the courtyard. 11–12: Paul formulates a radical conclusion regarding the relationship between knowledge and love: the proper object of religious concern is not an abstract truth about God, but those weak believers for whom Christ died. 13: Paul formulates a general principle of Christian ethics: self-limiting regard for others.

9.1–27: Paul’s defense of his means of subsistence, with implications for his legitimacy as an apostle. As if to illustrate the principle of renunciation articulated in 8.13, Paul launches into a spirited defense of his decision not to accept financial support from some at Corinth. The background of the controversy was as follows: while Paul was resident in Corinth, he provided for his own needs by working with his hands (Acts 18.1–3). When other apostles and evangelists subsequently arrived, they accepted patronage from wealthy persons. In retrospect, Paul’s refusal of support appeared questionable. Did Paul know he was not entitled to support because he was not really an apostle? Moreover, labor of the sort by which Paul sustained himself was viewed as degrading by persons of high social status. These doubts must have found expression in the Corinthians’ letter to Paul. 1: Am I not free? Paul responds to the insinuation that he is not “free” to evangelize because he is a “slave” of his labor. An apostle . . . seen Jesus; cf. 15.8; Gal 1.1,11–17. 3: Defense (Gk “apologia”), a speech of defense before a court. On plans to examine Paul, see the allusion in 4.3–4. 5: The brothers of the Lord are Jesus’s brothers; cf. Mk 6.3; Gal 1.19. Cephas, the Aramaic form of Peter’s name. 6: Barnabas was Paul’s first colleague in mission; see Gal.2.1–10; Acts 9.27; 11.25–26; 13–14. 7–14: Why does Paul multiply examples of the exercise of a privilege (by the soldier, ⁸ Do I say this on human authority? Does not the law also say the same? ⁹ For it is written in the law of Moses, “You shall not muzzle an ox while it is treading out the grain.” Is it for oxen that God is concerned? ¹⁰ Or does he not speak entirely for our sake? It was indeed written for our sake, for whoever plows should plow in hope and whoever threshes should thresh in hope of a share in the crop. ¹¹ If we have sown spiritual good among you, is it too much if we reap your material benefits? ¹² If others share this rightful claim on you, do not we still more?

Nevertheless, we have not made use of this right, but we endure anything rather than put an obstacle in the way of the gospel of Christ. ¹³ Do you not know that those who are employed in the temple service get their food from the temple, and those who serve at the altar share in what is sacrificed on the altar? ¹⁴ In the same way, the Lord commanded that those who proclaim the gospel should get their living by the gospel.

¹⁵ But I have made no use of any of these rights, nor am I writing this so that they may be applied in my case. Indeed, I would rather die than that—no one will deprive me of my ground for boasting! ¹⁶ If I proclaim the gospel, this gives me no ground for boasting, for an obligation is laid on me, and woe to me if I do not proclaim the gospel! ¹⁷ For if I do this of my own will, I have a reward; but if not of my own will, I am entrusted with a commission. ¹⁸ What then is my reward? Just this: that in my proclamation I may make the gospel free of charge, so as not to make full use of my rights in the gospel.

¹⁹ For though I am free with respect to all, I have made myself a slave to all, so that I might win more of them. ²⁰ To the Jews I became as a Jew, in order to win Jews. To those under the law I became as one under the law (though I myself am not under the law) so that I might win those under the law. ²¹ To those outside the law I became as one outside the law (though I am not free from God’s law but am under Christ’s law) so that I might win those outside the law. ²² To the weak I became weak, so that I might win the weak. I have become all things to all people, that I might by all means save some. ²³ I do it all for the sake of the gospel, so that I may share in its blessings.

²⁴ Do you not know that in a race the runners all compete, but only one receives the prize? Run in such a way that you may win it. ²⁵ Athletes exercise self-control in all things; they do it to receive a perishable wreath, but we an imperishable one. ²⁶ So I do not run aimlessly, nor do I box as though beating the air; ²⁷ but I punish my body and enslave it, so that after proclaiming to others I myself should not be disqualified.

the planter, the herder, the priest) about which the Corinthians are in agreement, when it is not his exercise of the privilege which is in dispute, but his renunciation of it? For the key to Paul’s argumentative strategy, see the following note on vv. 12b–14. 9: Deut. 25.4. 12b–14: Paul cleverly reinterprets the Lord’s command as a right of which he has not made use. Paul’s critics may have pointed out that, by working as a craftsman, Paul had violated the norms of Christian mission—that those who proclaim the gospel should get their living by the gospel. 14: What the Lord commanded refers to a saying like that attributed to Jesus in Lk 10.7. 15: Against those who find his occupation shameful, Paul asserts that it has provided him with ground for boasting; see also 2 Cor 11.7–10. 16: Paul represents his preaching as an obligation (lit., “necessity”), not a choice; cf. Rom 1.14–15. 17–18: By means of a series of well-chosen economic terms, Paul reverses the values of the Corinthian patrons: reward is literally “wages”; commission (Gk “oikonomia”) is “the work of a household-manager”; free of charge is a characteristic of benefactors. Paul’s point is that evangelists who accept financial support are mere hirelings, whereas he is the true benefactor of the community. 19–23: Paul portrays himself as a populist leader who identifies with the interests of the common people. Paul justifies his self-lowering action for the sake of the gospel: by making himself a slave to all, he hopes to save some. Paul’s upper-class critics may have regarded him as a demagogue, but the poor and weak would have found his self-presentation appealing. 24–27: In an extended metaphor, Paul compares himself to an athlete in training for the games. His renunciation of financial support should be understood as a form of discipline, an exercise of self-control. 25: The perishable wreath may allude specifically to the winner’s crown of the Isthmian Games, which was made of pine.

10 I do not want you to be unaware, brothers and sisters,^a that our ancestors were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea,² and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea,³ and all ate the same spiritual food,⁴ and all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank from the spiritual rock that followed them, and the rock was Christ.⁵ Nevertheless, God was not pleased with most of them, and they were struck down in the wilderness.

⁶ Now these things occurred as examples for us, so that we might not desire evil as they did.⁷ Do not become idolaters as some of them did; as it is written, “The people sat down to eat and drink, and they rose up to play.”⁸ We must not indulge in sexual immorality as some of them did, and twenty-three thousand fell in a single day.⁹ We must not put Christ^b to the test, as some of them did, and were destroyed by serpents.¹⁰ And do not complain as some of them did, and were destroyed by the destroyer.

¹¹ These things happened to them to serve as an example, and they were written down to instruct us, on whom the ends of the ages have come.¹² So if you think you are standing, watch out that you do not fall.

¹³ No testing has overtaken you that is not common to everyone. God is faithful, and he will not let you be tested beyond your strength, but with the testing he will also provide the way out so that you may be able to endure it.

¹⁴ Therefore, my dear friends,^c flee from the worship of idols.¹⁵ I speak as to sensible people; judge for yourselves what I say.¹⁶ The cup of blessing that we bless, is it not a sharing in the blood of Christ? The bread that we break, is it not a sharing in the body of Christ?¹⁷ Because there is one bread, we who are many are one body, for we all partake of the one bread.¹⁸ Consider the people of

^a Gk brothers

^b Other ancient authorities read the Lord

^c Gk my beloved

10.1–22: Warning against participation in the worship of idols. Paul’s demand for a complete break with polytheistic sacrificial rituals is significantly more rigorous than his advice on food offered to idols in ch 8, suggesting that this passage belonged (with 6.12–20) to the letter on association with the immoral and idolaters mentioned in 5.9–10. Paul’s admonition takes the form of a typological interpretation of Israel’s Exodus and wilderness traditions, encouraging the Corinthians to see the danger to their community through the prism of Israel’s calamitous idolatry. 1: The expression our ancestors reckons Gentile Christians as belonging to Israel. For Israel under the cloud, see Ps 105.39; Wis 10.17; 19.7; on passage through the sea, cf. Ex 14.21–22. 2: Paul typologically constructs Israel’s Exodus experience as prefiguring Christian baptism. 3–4: Spiritual food refers to the “manna” of Ex 16.15; cf. Ps 78.24–25; spiritual drink is the water struck from the rock by Moses in Ex 17.6; Num 20.7–11; cf. Ps 78.15–16. The tradition that the rock followed Israel through the wilderness is found in Tg. Ps.-J. on Num 20.19. In a stunning typological substitution, Paul explains that the rock was Christ. Using a similar hermeneutical maneuver, the first-century CE Jewish interpreter Philo equates the “rock” with “wisdom” and “manna” with the divine “logos” (Quod deterius 115–18). 5: For the divine punishment of the wilderness generation, see Num 14.29–30; Jude 5; Heb 3.17. 6: Paul suggests that evil desire is the root of idolatry and immorality; for the background, see Num 11.4–6; Ps 106.14–15. 7: Paul quotes Ex 32.6, the only scripture cited explicitly in ch 10, because it epitomizes Paul’s concern with idolatry and immorality among the Corinthians. 8: For the close connection of idolatry with sexual immorality, see T. Reuben 4. On the twenty-three thousand who died by the plague, cf. Num 25.1–9. 9: That Israel put God to the test, see Ps 78.18; for destroyed by serpents, see Num 21.6. 10: Num. 16.41,49. 11: Paul discerns a deeper “typological” purpose in the things that happened to Israel. Paul’s capacity to grasp such correspondences depends upon his eschatological perspective. 12–13: Paul reassures the Corinthians that God will provide the way out of the temptation to participate in polytheistic rituals. 14: Paul formulates the point of the preceding typological interpretation as an urgent injunction; cf. the similarly formulated warning in 6.18. 15–22: To dissuade the Corinthians from participating in polytheistic rituals, Paul develops an argument that he hopes will appeal to the sensible. The argument rests upon the assumption that religious “fellowship” (Gk “koinonia”) is mutually exclusive. 16: The elasticity of the Greek phrase translated sharing in allows both for the social concept “fellowship with” and for the sacramental idea of “participation in” the blood . . . the body of Christ. 17: More than an act of communal sharing, Christ-believers become one body

Israel;^a are not those who eat the sacrifices partners in the altar?¹⁹ What do I imply then? That food sacrificed to idols is anything, or that an idol is anything?²⁰ No, I imply that what pagans sacrifice, they sacrifice to demons and not to God. I do not want you to be partners with demons.²¹ You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. You cannot partake of the table of the Lord and the table of demons.²² Or are we provoking the Lord to jealousy? Are we stronger than he?

²³“All things are lawful,” but not all things are beneficial. “All things are lawful,” but not all things build up.²⁴ Do not seek your own advantage, but that of the other.²⁵ Eat whatever is sold in the meat market without raising any question on the ground of conscience,²⁶ for “the earth and its fullness are the Lord’s.”²⁷ If an unbeliever invites you to a meal and you are disposed to go, eat whatever is set before you without raising any question on the ground of conscience.²⁸ But if someone says to you, “This has been offered in sacrifice,” then do not eat it, out of consideration for the one who informed you, and for the sake of conscience—²⁹I mean the other’s conscience, not your own.

For why should my liberty be subject to the judgment of someone else’s conscience?³⁰ If I partake with thankfulness, why should I be denounced because of that for which I give thanks?

³¹So, whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do everything for the glory of God.³² Give no offense to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God,³³ just as I try to please everyone in everything I do, not seeking my own advantage, but that of many, so that they may be saved.¹ Be imitators of me, as I am of Christ.

²I commend you because you remember me in everything and maintain the traditions just as I handed them on to you.³ But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the husband^b is the head of his wife,^c and God is the head of Christ.⁴ Any man who prays or prophesies with something on his head disgraces his head,⁵ but any woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled disgraces her head—it is through partaking of the one bread; cf. 12.13. 20: Cf. Deut 32.17. 21: Greek papyri furnish examples of invitations to dine upon the “couch” of deities such as lord Sarapis. 22: Cf. Deut 32.19,21.

^a Gk Israel according to the flesh

^b The same Greek word means man or husband

^c Or head of the woman

10.23–11.1: Limits upon religious exclusivity. Paul anticipates objections to his advice to shun idolatry and deals with two ambiguous cases; on the meaning of “conscience,” see 8.7n. 23: As in 6.12, Paul quotes a Corinthian slogan and counters with consideration of what is beneficial and edifying. 25: Should all meat sold in the market be regarded as idol meat? The question was relevant, because meat markets were often located in the vicinity of temples. 27: The meal is presumably in the private home of an unbeliever. 29b–30: Because these questions stand in tension with what precedes and follows, some interpreters regard them as the objections of an imaginary interlocutor, while others suggest that they originated as a marginal gloss by one of the “strong” who read Paul’s letter. 31–33: Paul foregoes consideration of further cases and formulates a general rule of conduct.

11.2–16: Hairstyles in the assembly. The point at issue is difficult to determine. Paul seems to insist that charismatic women leaders wear the veil, in accordance with Jewish custom. But v. 15 allows that women have their hair as a covering. Hence, some interpreters construe unveiled (vv. 5,13) more generally as “uncovered,” in reference to the loose, disheveled hair of women in the ecstatic worship of Dionysus and Cybele. But there is little support for this connection in the text. More interesting than what Paul argues for is what he does not argue against—the Spirit-filled leadership of women. It is assumed that women will pray and prophesy in the worship assembly (v. 5). 2: A problematic beginning: How will Paul maintain the traditions in the face of the new social identity given in Christ (cf. Gal 3.28)? 3–7: Paul argues on the basis of a hierarchy of being: God, Christ, man, woman. 4: Jewish men in the first century did not wear a head-covering; see Gen. Rab. 17.8. 5–6: On the potential disgrace of a woman unveiled in public, see the comment of Plutarch on Roman custom: “It is more usual for women to go forth in public with their heads covered and men with their heads uncovered” (Quaestiones Romanae 267a). For Paul’s assumption that it is disgraceful for a woman to have her hair cut short, it may be one and the same thing as having her head shaved. ⁶ For if a woman will not veil herself, then she should cut off her hair; but if it is disgraceful for a woman to have her hair cut off or to be shaved, she should wear a veil. ⁷ For a man ought not to have his head veiled, since he is the image and reflection^a of God; but woman is the reflection^a of man. ⁸ Indeed, man was not made from woman, but woman from man. ⁹ Neither was man created for the sake of woman, but woman for the sake of man. ¹⁰ For this reason a woman ought to have a symbol of^b authority on her head,^c because of the angels. ¹¹ Nevertheless, in the Lord woman is not independent of man or man independent of woman. ¹² For just as woman came from man, so man comes through woman; but all things come from God. ¹³ Judge for yourselves: is it proper for a woman to pray to God with her head unveiled? ¹⁴ Does not nature itself teach you that if a man wears long hair, it is degrading to him, ¹⁵ but if a woman has long hair, it is her glory? For her hair is given to her for a covering. ¹⁶ But if anyone is disposed to be contentious—we have no such custom, nor do the churches of God.

¹⁷ Now in the following instructions I do not commend you, because when you come together it is not for the better but for the worse. ¹⁸ For, to begin with, when you come together as a church, I hear that there are divisions among you; and to some extent I believe it. ¹⁹ Indeed, there have to be factions among you, for only so will it become clear who among you are genuine. ²⁰ When you come together, it is not really to eat the Lord's supper. ²¹ For when the time comes to eat, each of you goes ahead with your own supper, and one goes hungry and another becomes drunk. ²² What! Do you not have homes to eat and drink in? Or do you show contempt for the church of God and humiliate those who have nothing? What should I say to you? Should I commend you? In this matter I do not commend you!

²³ For I received from the Lord what I also handed on to you, that the Lord Jesus on the night when he was betrayed took a loaf of bread, ²⁴ and when he had given thanks, he broke it and said, "This is my body that is for^d

^a Or glory

^b Gk lacks a symbol of

^c Or have freedom of choice regarding her head

^d Other ancient authorities read is broken for relevant that Roman portraiture generally depicts women with long hair braided and wound up around their heads. 7: See Gen 1.27. 8–9: An argument from the order of creation; see Gen 2.18–23. 10: The angels are probably the "sons of God" in Gen 6.2 who had intercourse with mortal women and fathered a race of giants. Like other Jewish writers of the period (e.g., T. Reuben 5.6), Paul evidently fears that the angels will be aroused to lust by the sight of exposed women. 11–12: Nevertheless indicates that Paul breaks off the preceding argument and moves on to emphasize what is important: in the Lord there is mutuality and reciprocity between woman and man. 13–16: Paul's argument having collapsed, he hands the decision over to the Corinthians, invoking a Stoic argument from nature and finally appealing to custom.

11.17–34: Divisions at the Lord's Supper. A gulf between the "haves" and the "have-nots" emerged at the very place where the Corinthians should have been most capable of discerning the unity of the body of Christ—at the Lord's Supper. According to the conventions of Greco-Roman dinner parties, the host apportioned the fare according to the status of his guests, reserving the best food and wine for his social equals and intimate friends. 18: The phrase come together as a church designates the weekly assembly of all the Christians of Corinth (cf. 14.23; 16.2), a larger gathering of the several subgroups, or "house churches," for the purpose of eating the Lord's Supper. The whole church evidently met in the home of Gaius (Rom 16.23). 19: Paul's assertion that there have to be factions may reflect an apocalyptic belief about the tribulation expected in the last days, but also may be meant ironically. 20–21: The contrast between the Lord's supper and "the private supper" (NRSV: your own supper) makes clear how Paul sees the problem: the privatization of a meal intended for the community. The Greek verb translated goes ahead is ambiguous: it may suggest that some (the leisure class) began to eat before others (slaves, laborers) had arrived, but also that some selfishly ate their food while others looked on. In any case, the result is that one goes hungry and another becomes drunk. 22: Paul's question Do you not have homes? is heavy with irony against the proprietary class. 23–26: Paul reminds the Corinthians of the act of self-giving, you. Do this in remembrance of me.”²⁵ In the same way he took the cup also, after supper, saying, “This cup is the new covenant in my blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me.”²⁶ For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the Lord’s death until he comes.

²⁷Whoever, therefore, eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be answerable for the body and blood of the Lord.²⁸ Examine yourselves, and only then eat of the bread and drink of the cup.²⁹ For all who eat and drink^a without discerning the body,^b eat and drink judgment against themselves.³⁰ For this reason many of you are weak and ill, and some have died.^c ³¹But if we judged ourselves, we would not be judged.³² But when we are judged by the Lord, we are disciplined^d so that we may not be condemned along with the world.

³³So then, my brothers and sisters,^e when you come together to eat, wait for one another.³⁴ If you are hungry, eat at home, so that when you come together, it will not be for your condemnation. About the other things I will give instructions when I come.

12 Now concerning spiritual gifts,^f brothers and sisters,^e I do not want you to be uninformed.² You know that when you were pagans, you were enticed and led astray to idols that could not speak.³ Therefore I want you to understand that no one speaking by the Spirit of God ever says “Let Jesus be cursed!” and no one can say “Jesus is Lord” except by the Holy Spirit.

⁴Now there are varieties of gifts, but the same Spirit;⁵ and there are varieties of services, but the same Lord;⁶ and there are varieties of activities, but it is the same God who activates all of them in everyone.⁷ To each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for the common good.⁸ To one is given through the Spirit the utterance of wisdom, and to another the utterance of knowledge according to the same Spirit,⁹ to another faith by the same Spirit, to another gifts of healing by the one Spirit,¹⁰ to another the working of miracles, to another prophecy, to another the discernment of spirits, to another various kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues.¹¹ All these are activated by one and the same Spirit, who allots to each one individually just as the Spirit chooses.

¹²For just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with Christ.¹³ For in the one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—Jews or Greeks,

^a Other ancient authorities add in an unworthy manner,

^b Other ancient authorities read the Lord’s body

^c Gk fallen asleep

^d Or When we are judged, we are being disciplined by the Lord

^e Gk brothers

^f Or spiritual persons

which established the basis of their fellowship, on the basis of early tradition; cf. Mk 14.12–25. 25: Paul’s reference to the cup, after supper presupposes that a meal was served between the bread and the wine. 26: Until he comes, see 1.8n. 29: What is meant by discerning the body? Probably the gathered church as Christ’s body. 33–34: Paul’s counsel that the Corinthians wait for one another implies sharing, so as to alleviate the hunger and humiliation of those who have no gift (vv. 21–22).

12–14: On spiritual gifts. Paul counters an overemphasis upon glossolalia (speaking in tongues). Judging from the amount of space devoted to the subject, the gift of tongues must have been highly prized among the Corinthians. Not everyone in the church spoke in tongues (12.30); those who had the gift may have looked down upon those who did not. Paul does not deny the power of speaking in tongues, but interprets that power by ordering the gifts from the greatest (love) to the least (tongues), while affirming that all are necessary for the body of Christ. 12.1: The formula now concerning (see 7.1n.) indicates that a question about spiritual gifts had been raised in the Corinthians’ letter. 3: Paul establishes criteria to determine whether a person is speaking by the Spirit of God. Did someone in the church at Corinth actually say “Jesus be cursed!” in an ecstatic trance? Did the Corinthians hesitate to expel this person because of an overvaluation of spiritual gifts? 4–11: Paul affirms the diversity of gifts within unity. 7: The guiding principle should be the common good. 8–11: The nine named gifts are ranked: first wisdom, last tongues. 12–26: Paul’s metaphor of the church as a body is derived slaves or free—and we were all made to drink of one Spirit.

¹⁴ Indeed, the body does not consist of one member but of many. ¹⁵ If the foot would say, “Because I am not a hand, I do not belong to the body,” that would not make it any less a part of the body. ¹⁶ And if the ear would say, “Because I am not an eye, I do not belong to the body,” that would not make it any less a part of the body. ¹⁷ If the whole body were an eye, where would the hearing be? If the whole body were hearing, where would the sense of smell be? ¹⁸ But as it is, God arranged the members in the body, each one of them, as he chose. ¹⁹ If all were a single member, where would the body be? ²⁰ As it is, there are many members, yet one body. ²¹ The eye cannot say to the hand, “I have no need of you,” nor again the head to the feet, “I have no need of you.” ²² On the contrary, the members of the body that seem to be weaker are indispensable, ²³ and those members of the body that we think less honorable we clothe with greater honor, and our less respectable members are treated with greater respect; ²⁴ whereas our more respectable members do not need this. But God has so arranged the body, giving the greater honor to the inferior member, ²⁵ that there may be no dissension within the body, but the members may have the same care for one another. ²⁶ If one member suffers, all suffer together with it; if one member is honored, all rejoice together with it.

²⁷ Now you are the body of Christ and individually members of it. ²⁸ And God has appointed in the church first apostles, second prophets, third teachers; then deeds of power, then gifts of healing, forms of assistance, forms of leadership, various kinds of tongues. ²⁹ Are all apostles? Are all prophets? Are all teachers? Do all work miracles? ³⁰ Do all possess gifts of healing? Do all speak in tongues? Do all interpret? ³¹ But strive for the greater gifts. And I will show you a still more excellent way.

13 If I speak in the tongues of mortals and of angels, but do not have love, I am a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal. ² And if I have prophetic powers, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but do not have love, I am nothing. ³ If I give away all my possessions, and if I hand over my body so that I may boast,^a but do not have love, I gain nothing.

^a Other ancient authorities read body to be burned

from Greco-Roman political discourse, where the figure functioned to urge concord. In the well-known fable of Meneius Agrippa, the Roman senator compared a strike by the common people to a revolt of the hands, mouth, and teeth against the belly, resulting in the death of the body. In ancient politics, the body analogy was essentially conservative, portraying the established order as “natural.” Paul uses the metaphor subversively to question conventional assumptions about status and honor. 13: Paul alludes to an early baptismal formula; cf. Gal 3.27–28. 14–21: Ancient philosophers and orators referred to the hands and feet, the eyes and ears in elaborating the society-as-body metaphor, but Paul emphasizes mutuality rather than hierarchy. 22–26: Paul reverses the values of ancient political rhetoric, which figured the parts of the body representing the ruling class, such as the head and the belly, as most honorable and indispensable. Paul claims, scandalously, that the weaker parts are actually more indispensable and honorable, that we acknowledge this fact when we clothe these private parts, and that God has so arranged the body in this paradoxical manner, giving the greater honor to the inferior member. 27: Paul summarizes the argument and applies it to the body of Christ metaphor. 28–30: Because God has established the diversity of gifts in the body, one should not succumb to the ambition to have others’ gifts, or to the tendency to privilege one gift over others.

13.1–13: Praise of love. In the context of chs 12–14, Paul’s encomium of love serves to devalue the gift of tongues by showing the Corinthians a “more excellent way.” Yet, ch 13 is self-contained, and the transitions from 12.31 to 13.1 and from 13.13 to 14.1 are weak, so that some scholars conjecture that ch 13 was conceived and written earlier and independently (possibly as an essay for Paul’s school in Ephesus; cf. Acts 19.9) and reused here because of its relevance. With Paul’s speech in praise of love, cf. Plato Symp. 197c–e. 1–3: The gifts are nothing without love. 1: Tongues of mortals refers to human speech; tongues of angels refers to glossolalia; cf. T. Job 48–52; 2 Cor 12.4. Paul’s comparative terms, noisy gong and clanging cymbal, are derived from ancient religious rituals; such sounds lack the warmth of love. 3: If the alternative reading my body to be burned (textual note a)

⁴ Love is patient; love is kind; love is not envious or boastful or arrogant ⁵ or rude. It does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; ⁶ it does not rejoice in wrongdoing, but rejoices in the truth. ⁷ It bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.

⁸ Love never ends. But as for prophecies, they will come to an end; as for tongues, they will cease; as for knowledge, it will come to an end. ⁹ For we know only in part, and we prophesy only in part; ¹⁰ but when the complete comes, the partial will come to an end. ¹¹ When I was a child, I spoke like a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child; when I became an adult, I put an end to childish ways. ¹² For now we see in a mirror, dimly,^a but then we will see face to face. Now I know only in part; then I will know fully, even as I have been fully known. ¹³ And now faith, hope, and love abide, these three; and the greatest of these is love.

14 Pursue love and strive for the spiritual gifts, and especially that you may prophesy. ² For those who speak in a tongue do not speak to other people but to God; for nobody understands them, since they are speaking mysteries in the Spirit. ³ On the other hand, those who prophesy speak to other people for their upbuilding and encouragement and consolation. ⁴ Those who speak in a tongue build up themselves, but those who prophesy build up the church. ⁵ Now I would like all of you to speak in tongues, but even more to prophesy. One who prophesies is greater than one who speaks in tongues, unless someone interprets, so that the church may be built up.

⁶ Now, brothers and sisters,^b if I come to you speaking in tongues, how will I benefit you unless I speak to you in some revelation or knowledge or prophecy or teaching? ⁷ It is the same way with lifeless instruments that produce sound, such as the flute or the harp. If they do not give distinct notes, how will anyone know what is being played? ⁸ And if the bugle gives an indistinct sound, who will get ready for battle? ⁹ So with yourselves; if in a tongue you utter speech that is not intelligible, how will anyone know what is being said? For you will be speaking into the air. ¹⁰ There are doubtless many different kinds of sounds in the world, and nothing is without sound. ¹¹ If then I do not know the meaning of a sound, I will be a foreigner to the speaker and the speaker a foreigner to me. ¹² So with yourselves; since you are eager for spiritual gifts, strive to excel in them for building up the church.

¹³ Therefore, one who speaks in a tongue should pray for the power to interpret. ¹⁴ For if I pray in a tongue, my spirit prays but my mind is unproductive. ¹⁵ What should I do then? I will pray with the spirit, but I will pray with the mind also; I will sing praise with the spirit, but I will sing praise with the mind also. ¹⁶ Otherwise, if you say a blessing with is adopted, Paul is probably referring to the notorious Indian philosophers (“gymnosophists”) who immolated themselves to demonstrate their contempt of death. 4–7: The qualities of love: patient, cf. 1 Thess 5.14; Gal 5.22; kind, cf. Rom 2.4; not envious, cf. 3.3; not arrogant, cf. 4.18–19. 5: Cf. 10.33. 8–13: Paul emphasizes the imperishability of love, in contrast to the limitations of prophecies, tongues, and knowledge, which the Corinthians have overvalued. 8: The Greek verb translated ends is used elsewhere in reference to the wind: love is like a wind that never “subsides.” 12: In a mirror, dimly: that is, one does not see the thing itself but only its reflected image. 13: For the triad faith, hope, and love, cf. 1 Thess 1.3; 5.8; Col 1.4–5.

^a Gk in a riddle

^b Gk brothers

14.1–40: Prophecy is more edifying than tongues-speaking. 1: Prophecy, not in the sense of “predict the future” but “edify” the church, as in v. 3. 2: Paul shares with Plato, Philo, and others the belief in a higher form of Spirit-inspired speech directed to the divine, but incomprehensible to normal human intelligence. 5: Paul’s concession, I would like all of you to speak in tongues, reveals the high value that was set upon this gift, and how many Corinthians earnestly strove for it. By declaring that one who prophesies is greater than one who speaks in tongues, Paul reverses the hierarchy of speech-types assumed by the elite, elevating the comprehensible above the esoteric. The new criterion of value is whether the community is edified. 6–12: Paul devalues the esoteric speech of tongues by comparison with the sounds produced by lifeless instruments. 13–19: In praying, singing, and other acts of worship, Paul counsels cooperation between spirit and mind. 16: The word the spirit, how can anyone in the position of an outsider say the “Amen” to your thanksgiving, since the outsider does not know what you are saying? ¹⁷ For you may give thanks well enough, but the other person is not built up. ¹⁸ I thank God that I speak in tongues more than all of you; ¹⁹ nevertheless, in church I would rather speak five words with my mind, in order to instruct others also, than ten thousand words in a tongue.

²⁰ Brothers and sisters,^a do not be children in your thinking; rather, be infants in evil, but in thinking be adults. ²¹ In the law it is written,

“By people of strange tongues and by the lips of foreigners
I will speak to this people; yet even then they will not listen to me,”

says the Lord. ²² Tongues, then, are a sign not for believers but for unbelievers, while prophecy is not for unbelievers but for believers. ²³ If, therefore, the whole church comes together and all speak in tongues, and outsiders or unbelievers enter, will they not say that you are out of your mind? ²⁴ But if all prophesy, an unbeliever or outsider who enters is reproved by all and called to account by all. ²⁵ After the secrets of the unbeliever’s heart are disclosed, that person will bow down before God and worship him, declaring, “God is really among you.”

²⁶ What should be done then, my friends?^a When you come together, each one has a hymn, a lesson, a revelation, a tongue, or an interpretation. Let all things be done for building up. ²⁷ If anyone speaks in a tongue, let there be only two or at most three, and each in turn; and let one interpret. ²⁸ But if there is no one to interpret, let them be silent in church and speak to themselves and to God. ²⁹ Let two or three prophets speak, and let the others weigh what is said. ³⁰ If a revelation is made to someone else sitting nearby, let the first person be silent. ³¹ For you can all prophesy one by one, so that all may learn and all be encouraged. ³² And the spirits of prophets are subject to the prophets, ³³ for God is a God not of disorder but of peace.

(As in all the churches of the saints, ³⁴ women should be silent in the churches. For they are not permitted to speak, but should be subordinate, as the law also says. ³⁵ If there is anything they desire to know, let them ask their husbands at home. For it is shameful for a woman to speak in church.^b ³⁶ Or did the word of God originate with you? Or are you the only ones it has reached?)

³⁷ Anyone who claims to be a prophet, or to have spiritual powers, must acknowledge that what I am writing to you is a command of the Lord. ³⁸ Anyone who does not recognize this is not to be recognized. ³⁹ So, my friends,^c be eager to prophesy, and do not forbid speaking in tongues; ⁴⁰ but all things should be done decently and in order.

^a Gk brothers

^b Other ancient authorities put verses 34–35 after verse 40

^c Gk my brothers

translated outsider (Gk “idiotes”) means someone untrained, i.e., not adept at understanding those speaking in tongues. 18–19: As in the case of food (cf. 8.13), Paul adopts the ethical principle of self-limiting regard for others. 20–25: The Corinthians have been naïve in failing to consider the effects of speaking in tongues upon nonadept believers as well as unbelievers. 21: The point of the citation (not found in the law, as Paul says, but in Isa 28.11–12) is that the word of the Lord foretold not only the phenomenon of speaking in tongues but also its failure to convince. 22–23: For unbelievers, tongues are a sign opposed and spoken against, leading outsiders to the conclusion that Christ-believers are out of their minds. 26–33a: Paul gives instructions for an orderly procedure involving tongues and prophecy in the worship assembly. 33b–36: Many scholars regard this passage as a later non-Pauline addition, because it disrupts the flow of the argument from v. 33a to v. 37; it contradicts the assumption of 11.5 that women will pray and prophesy in the assembly; it resembles the viewpoint of the Deutero-Pauline letters (see 1 Tim 2.9–15); it exhibits non-Pauline sentiments, e.g., v. 34b, as the law also says; and vv. 34–35 appear after 14.40 in some manuscripts. 37–40: Assertion of authority and summary of the argument of ch 14.

15 Now I would remind you, brothers and sisters,^a of the good news^b that I proclaimed to you, which you in turn received, in which also you stand,² through which also you are being saved, if you hold firmly to the message that I proclaimed to you—unless you have come to believe in vain.

³ For I handed on to you as of first importance what I in turn had received: that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures,⁴ and that he was buried, and that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures,⁵ and that he appeared to Cephas, then to the twelve.⁶ Then he appeared to more than five hundred brothers and sisters^a at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have died.^c ⁷ Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles.⁸ Last of all, as to one untimely born, he appeared also to me.⁹ For I am the least of the apostles, unfit to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God.¹⁰ But by the grace of God I am what I am, and his grace toward me has not been in vain. On the contrary, I worked harder than any of them—though it was not I, but the grace of God that is with me.¹¹ Whether then it was I or they, so we proclaim and so you have come to believe.

¹² Now if Christ is proclaimed as raised from the dead, how can some of you say there is no resurrection of the dead?¹³ If there is no resurrection of the dead, then Christ has not been raised;¹⁴ and if Christ has not been raised, then our proclamation has been in vain and your faith has been in vain.¹⁵ We are even found to be misrepresenting God, because we testified of God that he raised Christ—whom he did not raise if it is true that the dead are not raised.¹⁶ For if the dead are not raised, then Christ has not been raised.¹⁷ If Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile and you are still in your sins.¹⁸ Then those also who have died^c in Christ have perished.¹⁹ If for this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are of all people most to be pitied.

²⁰ But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who have died.^c ²¹ For since death came through a human being, the resurrection of the dead has also come through a human being;²² for as all die in Adam, so all will be made alive in Christ.²³ But each in his own order: Christ the first fruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ.²⁴ Then comes the end,^d when he hands over the kingdom to God the

^a Gk brothers

^b Or gospel

^c Gk fallen asleep

^d Or Then come the rest

15.1–58: A reasoned proof of the resurrection of the dead. The issue that evokes this argument is identified in v. 12: some of the Corinthians have said, “There is no resurrection of the dead.” Those Greeks and Romans who were not skeptics about life beyond death tended to believe in the separation of the soul from the body, a belief sanctioned by the oracle at Delphi and popular philosophers. Enlightened persons found the idea of the resurrection of the body laughable; cf. Acts 17.32. Paul constructs an argument for the resurrection of the body on the analogy of the philosophical proof of the immortality of the soul in Plato Phaedr. 245c–257d; Cicero Tusculan Disputations bk. 1; Plutarch On the Soul; etc. The major divisions of Paul’s discourse are easily recognized and correspond to his philosophical models: 15.1–34, proof of the fact of the resurrection, established by reasoned arguments; and 15.35–58, discussion of the manner of the resurrection and the nature of the resurrection body, culminating in a “mythological hymn.” 15.1–2: Paul reminds the Corinthians that the resurrection faith belongs to the foundation of Christian tradition. 3–4: Paul quotes an early creed; cf. Rom 4.24–25; 10.9–10; 1 Thess 5.10. The phrase, he was buried, is unique to this instance of the creed and may have been added by Paul for the context here. 5–7: Within the argument of ch 15, the list of witnesses to Christ’s resurrection, which belonged to the tradition that Paul had received, provides the evidential basis for what follows. 5: Cephas is the Aramaic form of Peter’s name. 8: Paul adds his own witness to the tradition. The term translated one untimely born refers to an abortion or miscarriage. Paul may be taking up an insult hurled at him by his opponents. 9: See 9.4–5; 22.4–5; Gal 1.13. 12–34: The reality of the resurrection of the dead. 13–19: Paul employs a series of rhetorical syllogisms (if . . . then) to refute the denial of the resurrection by some at Corinth. 18–19: Cf. 1 Thess 4.13. 20–28: Paul argues positively for the resurrection based upon an order established by God. 20: The first fruits guarantee the harvest to come. 21–23: For the Adam–Christ typology, see also vv. 45–49; Rom 5.12–21. 23: Cf. 1 Thess 4.16. 24–25: On the apocalyptic scenario envisioned here, cf. 2 Esd 7.29; Rev 20.4–6; Pirke Eliezer 11. 24: Cf. Rom 5.17.

Father, after he has destroyed every ruler and every authority and power.²⁵ For he must reign until he has put all his enemies under his feet.²⁶ The last enemy to be destroyed is death.²⁷ For “God^a has put all things in subjection under his feet.” But when it says, “All things are put in subjection,” it is plain that this does not include the one who put all things in subjection under him.²⁸ When all things are subjected to him, then the Son himself will also be subjected to the one who put all things in subjection under him, so that God may be all in all.

²⁹ Otherwise, what will those people do who receive baptism on behalf of the dead? If the dead are not raised at all, why are people baptized on their behalf?

³⁰ And why are we putting ourselves in danger every hour? ³¹ I die every day! That is as certain, brothers and sisters,^b as my boasting of you—a boast that I make in Christ Jesus our Lord.³² If with merely human hopes I fought with wild animals at Ephesus, what would I have gained by it? If the dead are not raised,

“Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die.”

³³ Do not be deceived:

“Bad company ruins good morals.”

³⁴ Come to a sober and right mind, and sin no more; for some people have no knowledge of God. I say this to your shame.

³⁵ But someone will ask, “How are the dead raised? With what kind of body do they come?” ³⁶ Fool! What you sow does not come to life unless it dies.³⁷ And as for what you

sow, you do not sow the body that is to be, but a bare seed, perhaps of wheat or of some other grain.³⁸ But God gives it a body as he has chosen, and to each kind of seed its own body.³⁹ Not all flesh is alike, but there is one flesh for human beings, another for animals, another for birds, and another for fish.⁴⁰ There are both heavenly bodies and earthly bodies, but the glory of the heavenly is one thing, and that of the earthly is another.⁴¹ There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars; indeed, star differs from star in glory.

⁴² So it is with the resurrection of the dead. What is sown is perishable, what is raised is imperishable.⁴³ It is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power.⁴⁴ It is sown a physical body, it is raised a spiritual body. If there is a physical body, there is also a spiritual body.⁴⁵ Thus it is written, “The first man, Adam, became a living being”; the last Adam became a life-giving spirit.⁴⁶ But it is not the spiritual that is first, but the physical, and then the spiritual.⁴⁷ The first man was from the earth, a man of dust; the second man is^c from heaven.⁴⁸ As was the man of dust, so are those who are of the dust; and as is the man of heaven, so are those who are of heaven.⁴⁹ Just as we have borne the image of the man of dust, we will^d also bear the image of the man of heaven.

^a Gk he

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities add the Lord

^d Other ancient authorities read let us

25: See Ps 110.1. 26: For the personification of death, see vv. 54–55; 2 Esd 8.55. 27: Ps 8.6. 29–34: A personal attack on his opponents, appealing to practice, experience, and generally accepted wisdom. 29: It is not clear what was involved in the Corinthian practice of baptism on behalf of the dead. Paul appeals to the practice to suggest to the Corinthians that they have an implicit faith in the resurrection. 32: Paul speaks metaphorically, comparing the mortal danger to which he is daily exposed in his apostolic calling with a “beast fight” in the arena of Ephesus, the city from which Paul is writing. The quotation is from Isa 22.13. 33: Paul cites a proverb from a play by the Greek comic writer Menander (third century BCE). 35–50: The nature of the resurrection body. Through analogies, Paul seeks to show that there can be types of bodies other than bodies of flesh. 36–38: The first analogy is drawn from a seed; the same analogy is used in Jn 12.24. 39: The second analogy references the different kinds of flesh of lower beings. 40–41: The third analogy points to the difference between heavenly bodies and earthly bodies, and references the various types of glory among celestial bodies. 42–44: By means of four antitheses, Paul contrasts the resurrected body with the present, mortal body. 45: Gen. 2.7. 45–49: The first man . . . the man of dust is Adam; the last Adam . . . the second man . . . the man of heaven is Christ; cf. 15.21–23n. 49: Christians will be transformed in the resurrection: they will exchange the image of the man of dust, which they currently bear as descendants of Adam, for the image of the man of heaven, which they will receive through ⁵⁰ What I am saying, brothers and sisters,^a is this: flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable. ⁵¹ Listen, I will tell you a mystery! We will not all die,^b but we will all be changed, ⁵² in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed. ⁵³ For this perishable body must put on imperishability, and this mortal body must put on immortality. ⁵⁴ When this perishable body puts on imperishability, and this mortal body puts on immortality, then the saying that is written will be fulfilled:

“Death has been swallowed up in victory.”

⁵⁵ “Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?”

⁵⁶ The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. ⁵⁷ But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

⁵⁸ Therefore, my beloved,^c be steadfast, immovable, always excelling in the work of the Lord, because you know that in the Lord your labor is not in vain.

16 Now concerning the collection for the saints: you should follow the directions I gave to the churches of Galatia. ² On the first day of every week, each of you is to put aside and save whatever extra you earn, so that collections need not be taken when I come. ³ And when I arrive, I will send any whom you approve with letters to take your gift to Jerusalem. ⁴ If it seems advisable that I should go also, they will accompany me.

⁵ I will visit you after passing through Macedonia—for I intend to pass through Macedonia—⁶ and perhaps I will stay with you or even spend the winter, so that you may send me on my way, wherever I go. ⁷ I do not want to see you now just in passing, for I hope to spend some time with you, if the Lord permits. ⁸ But I will stay in Ephesus until Pentecost, ⁹ for a wide door for effective work has opened to me, and there are many adversaries.

¹⁰ If Timothy comes, see that he has nothing to fear among you, for he is doing the work of the Lord just as I am; ¹¹ therefore let no one despise him. Send him on his way in peace, so that he may come to me; for I am expecting him with the brothers.

¹² Now concerning our brother Apollos, I strongly urged him to visit you with the other brothers, but he was not at all willing^d to come now. He will come when he has the opportunity.

¹³ Keep alert, stand firm in your faith, be courageous, be strong. ¹⁴ Let all that you do be done in love.

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk fall asleep

^c Gk beloved brothers

^d Or it was not at all God's will for him

participation in Christ. 50: Paul clarifies that a resurrection of flesh and blood is impossible. 51–57: Paul discloses a mystery, a lyrical account of the destiny of those who survive until the resurrection, a Pauline counterpart to the mythological hymn which concludes philosophical proofs of the immortality of the soul. 52: Cf. 1 Thess 4.16. 54: Isa 25.7. 55: Hos 13.14. 56: A later gloss by an editor reflecting thorough acquaintance with Paul's mature theology; cf. Rom 5.12; 7.7–8,13. 58: Concluding exhortation.

16.1–24: Advice on administrative and personal matters. 1–4: Paul gives instructions for the implementation of a charitable collection for the poor saints (believers) in Jerusalem. See further Gal 2.10; 2 Cor 8–9; Rom 15.25–29. 1: The formula now concerning (see 7.1n.) indicates that a question about the collection had been raised in the Corinthians' letter to Paul. 4: If it seems advisable, better “if it is considerable”—that is, the size of the collection: Paul will only take the collection to Jerusalem in person if the sum is worth the effort. 5–8: Paul's account of his travel plans in this passage contrasts sharply with that in 4.18–19; cf. Acts 19.1, 21–22. 10–11: Paul is doubtful whether Timothy (see 4.17n.) will be treated with respect by the Corinthians; thus Paul provides the strongest assurance: he is doing the work of the Lord. 12: The formula now concerning (see 7.1n.) indicates that the Corinthians had asked about Apollos (see 1.12n.) in their letter to Paul. The eagerness of some in Corinth for Apollos's speedy return is illuminated by Acts 18.27–28. 13–14: This concluding exhortation signals the end of the letter, after which the paragraph on Stephanas (vv. 15–18) makes a surprising new beginning.

¹⁵ Now, brothers and sisters,^a you know that members of the household of Stephanas were the first converts in Achaia, and they have devoted themselves to the service of the saints;¹⁶ I urge you to put yourselves at the service of such people, and of everyone who works and toils with them.¹⁷ I rejoice at the coming of Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus, because they have made up for your absence;¹⁸ for they refreshed my spirit as well as yours. So give recognition to such persons.

¹⁹ The churches of Asia send greetings. Aquila and Prisca, together with the church in their house, greet you warmly in the Lord.²⁰ All the brothers and sisters^a send greetings. Greet one another with a holy kiss.

²¹ I, Paul, write this greeting with my own hand.²² Let anyone be accursed who has no love for the Lord. Our Lord, come!^b ²³ The grace of the Lord Jesus be with you.²⁴ My love be with all of you in Christ Jesus.^c

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk Marana tha. These Aramaic words can also be read Maran atha, meaning Our Lord has come

^c Other ancient authorities add Amen

15–18: Appeal for recognition of Stephanas. On the household of Stephanas, see 1.16n. 15: The direct address, brothers (and sisters), communicates a sense of urgency. Why should Paul need to appeal for recognition of the first converts in Achaia (the principal Roman province of southern Greece)? Evidently Paul assumed that the congregation, or some of its members, had no strong inclination to grant it. The phrase devoted themselves to the service of the saints (i.e., the believers) employs some of the same vocabulary used by Paul in describing the charitable collection in 16.1; 2 Cor 8.4; 9.1. 17: Fortunatus (“Lucky”) and Achaicus (“the Achaian”) are probably Stephanas’s slaves or freedmen; their names indicate servile origins. 19: On Aquila and Prisca in Asia (Minor), see Acts 18.2,18–21,26. 20: The holy kiss was a form of early Christian greeting; cf. 1 Thess 5.26; Rom 16.16; 1 Pet 5.14. 21: Up to this point Paul had been dictating the letter; now he adds a few words in his own hand. 22: Our Lord, come! An early Christian prayer, in Aramaic, expressing hope in an imminent coming of the Messiah; cf. Rev 22.20.

THE SECOND LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CORINTHIANS

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

Like its canonical predecessor, this letter is named for its addressees, the community of believers in Corinth. A change from 1 Corinthians appears, however, in the opening formula where the addressees are expanded to include “all the saints throughout Achaia.” It is “second” in the sense that it follows 1 Corinthians in canonical order, but it is almost certainly not a single continuous letter, but rather two or more letters or fragments of letters combined. The opening names two senders, Paul and Timothy, in a formula analogous to the mention of Paul and Sosthenes in 1 Cor 1.2. Timothy, Paul’s missionary co-worker, has played an important role in communicating between Paul and the Corinthian congregation, perhaps informing Paul of trouble arising in Corinth after he had sent the letter we call 1 Corinthians. Timothy is mentioned here presumably to fortify Paul’s appeal, but he is not a coauthor of the letter. Titus, another coworker in the Pauline mission, also appears prominently in the letter as a go-between to restore harmony between Paul and the Corinthians (2.1–4.13; cf. 1 Cor 4.17; Acts 19.21–22). Traditional dating ranges from 54 to 57 CE. Second Corinthians was sent from Macedonia five to seven years after Paul’s original visit to Corinth. At least one letter intervened between Paul’s writing 1 and 2 Corinthians: the “sorrowful letter” he first mentions in 2.3–4 (see also 2.9; 7.8,12). This letter may be lost, or may be incorporated in 2 Cor 10–13.

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

On the Roman city of Corinth in the first century, see Introduction to 1 Corinthians. The historical circumstances of 2 Corinthians are complicated since it appears to comprise sections of two or more letters that Paul sent to Corinth. Some scholars find four blocks of material, separately composed, from which they construct a narrative of conflict and reconciliation occurring after the receipt of 1 Corinthians while Paul was missionizing between Asia (Ephesus) and Macedonia. The principal events reflected in this theory are a “painful visit” (2.1) to Corinth by Paul (his second visit), which he followed up with the “sorrowful letter,” and subsequently a recovery from crisis illustrated in a later letter of reconciliation, chs 1–7. Emphasis on the integrity of the letter, on the other hand, finds two crises shaping the rhetoric of the letter; a first caused by a particular offender and resolved according to the reconciliation in chs 1–7, and a second ongoing crisis, still troubling Paul in chs 10–13, involving the intrusion of “false apostles,” perhaps from Jerusalem (11.13,22–23), who denigrate Paul’s ministry. Within these blocks are two shorter blocks, 6.14–7.1 and chs 8–9, dedicated respectively to issues of purity in the community and monetary matters, especially contributions to Paul’s collection from his churches for the poor in Jerusalem (1 Cor 16.1–4; Rom 15.26–27; Gal 2.10). The purity passage (6.14–7.1) is so uncharacteristic of Paul in vocabulary and content that many deem it an interpolation by a later editor. Chapters 8 and 9 both concern the collection, though some argue that they, too, are separate letters. In any event they are consistent with the narrative of conciliation both between Paul and this community and between the Gentile churches and Jerusalem.

INTERPRETATION

However one imagines the letter’s composition, its content reflects with power and pathos the difficulties Paul faced in his missionary work, both in suffering persecutions, beatings, and imprisonments, and, in what seems even more painful to him, the volatile relational crises he negotiated in this nascent, fragile community of believers. Lists of apostolic hardships (4.7–12; 6.4–10), charges of vacillation (1.15–18), the pain of a personal affront (2.5–11), and the sting of criticism from intruding missionaries (10.1–13.10) reveal the afflicted apostle more vividly than in any other letter. “Afflicted in every way” (4.8; 7.5), “disputes without and fears within” (7.8), he writes. In the context of forgiving his offender, Paul reveals a strategy of resisting assaults of every kind for the sake of the community, for “in the presence of Christ,” he is not to be “outwitted by Satan: for we are not ignorant of his designs” (2.10–11; cf. 10.3; 11.14). The reconciling action facilitated by Christ’s presence is further nuanced in 5.16–21 where the death of Christ is the fulcrum between worlds, the ground of a new way of knowing: “So if anyone is in Christ, there is a new creation: everything old has passed away; see, everything has become new!” (5.17). Paul’s life both in the presence of Christ and in Christ makes his afflictions a participation in the reconciling suffering, death, and rising of Christ. The turning of the ages in the death of the “one who died for all, so that those who live might live no longer for themselves” (5.14) is the theological fundament on which this discourse of reconciliation rests. While reconciliation was present in 1 Corinthians, in 2 Corinthians, where Satan’s designs persist, Paul’s apocalyptic appeal intensifies.

The letter presents a theological narrative of apostolic affliction, including criticism of Paul within the church, relieved by divine comfort grounded in the suffering, death and resurrection of Jesus. Human suffering, inevitable in the world still enthralled to Satan’s designs, becomes participation in perception and action in Christ’s suffering and death and life as “new creation” (5.17). Living the paradox of power in affliction enables Paul to boast (as a “fool,” 11.1–12.13) in his weaknesses and to characterize his ministry “as having nothing, and yet possessing everything” (6.10). Interwoven with this basic narrative of God’s reconciling and creative “yes” in Christ (1.19) is the story of Paul’s painful visit to Corinth, his own reconciliation with an offender (chs 1–7), along with challenges to his ministry in the presence of false apostles (chs 10–12). The lengthy appeal for contributions to the Jerusalem church (chs 8–9) registers hope that despite these difficulties, the Corinthians’ generous contribution will manifest the “surpassing grace of God” whose “gift” is “indescribable” (9.14–15). The letter to the Romans, written from Corinth, confirms that the collection from Macedonia and Corinth was completed. At the time that he wrote Romans, Paul was on his way to deliver that gift to the “saints at Jerusalem” (Rom 15.25–29).

Alexandra R. Brown

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, and Timothy our brother,

To the church of God that is in Corinth, including all the saints throughout Achaia:

² Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

³ Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and the God of all consolation, ⁴ who consoles us in all our affliction, so that we may be able to console those who are in any affliction with the consolation with which we ourselves are consoled by God. ⁵ For just as the sufferings of Christ are abundant for us, so also our consolation is abundant through Christ. ⁶ If we are being afflicted, it is for your consolation and salvation; if we are being consoled, it is for your consolation, which you experience when you patiently endure the same sufferings that we are also suffering. ⁷ Our hope for you is unshaken; for we know that as you share in our sufferings, so also you share in our consolation.

⁸ We do not want you to be unaware, brothers and sisters,^a of the affliction we

^a Gk brothers

1.1–11: Opening salutation and blessing.

1.1–2: Opening salutation. Paul and Timothy, also co-senders in Phil 1.1; Col. 1.1; Thess 1.1; 2 Thess 1.1; Philem 1. Brother (cf. 1 Thess 3.2), and elsewhere “my beloved child” (1 Cor 4.17), was an emissary for Paul (but never called an “apostle”) to Corinth (1 Cor 4.17; 16.10). Apostle by the will of God, also 1 Cor 1.1; cf. Rom 1.1; Gal 1.1. Here, where that status is being contested, that claim is especially pointed. The addressees include the church at Corinth and all the saints (or “the sanctified,” Paul’s designation for all believers) throughout Achaia (the Roman province in southern Greece to which the city of Corinth belongs). Grace to you and peace, Paul’s standard greeting, which reflects Greco-Roman epistolary form with modified vocabulary: e.g., grace (Gk “charis”) instead of the standard Gk term “chaire” (“greeting”).

1.3–11: Blessing. 3–5: Blessed be God. Instead of the typical thanksgiving formula, “I give thanks . . .,” (1 Cor 1.4), Paul here uses the language of blessing associated with Jewish benedictions; cf. Eph 1.3. The benediction establishes that the principal agent of comfort in affliction, as of apostolic commission, is God, the Father of mercies (Ex 34.6; Pss 25.6; 69.16; Rom 12.1; Phil 2.1) and God of all consolation (Isa 40.1; 49.3). 6–7: Suffering in service to God is answered by the consolation of God. As the Corinthians patiently endure the same sufferings, they will experience that comfort. 8: Affliction in Asia, what Paul refers to is unclear (cf. 1 Cor 15.32 and Acts experienced in Asia; for we were so utterly, unbearably crushed that we despaired of life itself. ⁹ Indeed, we felt that we had received the sentence of death so that we would rely not on ourselves but on God who raises the dead. ¹⁰ He who rescued us from so deadly a peril will continue to rescue us; on him we have set our hope that he will rescue us again, ¹¹ as you also join in helping us by your prayers, so that many will give thanks on our^a behalf for the blessing granted us through the prayers of many.

¹² Indeed, this is our boast, the testimony of our conscience: we have behaved in the world with frankness^b and godly sincerity, not by earthly wisdom but by the grace of God—and all the more toward you. ¹³ For we write you nothing other than what you can read and also understand; I hope you will understand until the end—¹⁴ as you have already understood us in part—that on the day of the Lord Jesus we are your boast even as you are our boast.

¹⁵ Since I was sure of this, I wanted to come to you first, so that you might have a double favor;^c ¹⁶ I wanted to visit you on my way to Macedonia, and to come back to you from Macedonia and have you send me on to Judea. ¹⁷ Was I vacillating when I wanted to do this? Do I make my plans according to ordinary human standards,^d ready to say “Yes, yes” and “No, no” at the same time? ¹⁸ As surely as God is faithful, our word to you has not been “Yes and No.” ¹⁹ For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, whom we proclaimed among you, Silvanus and Timothy and I, was not “Yes and No”; but in him it is always “Yes.” ²⁰ For in him every one of God’s promises is a “Yes.” For this reason it is through him that we say the “Amen,” to the glory of God. ²¹ But it is God who establishes us with you in Christ and has anointed us, ²² by putting his seal on us and giving us his Spirit in our hearts as a first installment.

²³ But I call on God as witness against me: it was to spare you that I did not come again to Corinth. ²⁴ I do not mean to imply that we lord it over your faith; rather, we are workers with you for your joy, because you stand 2 firm in the faith. ¹ So I made up my mind not to make you another painful visit. ² For if I cause you pain, who is there to make me glad but the one whom I have pained? ³ And I wrote as I did, so that when I came, I might not suffer pain from those who should have made me rejoice; for I am confident about all of you, that my joy would be the joy of all of you. ⁴ For I wrote you out of much distress and anguish of heart and with many tears, not to cause you pain, but to let you know the abundant love that I have for you.

^a Other ancient authorities read your

^b Other ancient authorities read holiness

^c Other ancient authorities read pleasure

^d Gk according to the flesh

19.23–24); Asia, the Roman province in western Asia Minor. Despaired, cf. 4.8; Ps 88.16 (LXX). 9–10. But God, who raises the dead (4.14), rescued him from the sentence of death then and will rescue again. Blessing, Gk “charisma.”

1.12–7.16: Body, Part I: Visitation, trauma, reconciliation.

1.12–2.13: Paul’s change of plans and painful visit. 12: A defensive tone is suggested by testimony of our conscience; cf. 7.2. A well-attested variant (see textual note b) reads “hagiotēti,” “holiness,” instead of “haplotēti,” frankness. 13–14: End-time terminology (see 2 Thess 2.2n.) punctuates Paul’s assertion of sincerity. 15–20: Paul had intended a double visit (“double favor,” v. 15), one on either side of his trip to Macedonia (1 Cor 16.5–6), but altered his plans a second time. 16: Macedonia, Roman province in northern Greece where Thessalonica, Philippi, and Berea were located. 17: Against the charge of vacillating Paul identifies his straightforward word (cf. Mt 5.37; Jas 5.12) with the faithfulness of God (v.18). Amen, to the glory of God suggests a liturgical context; see 1 Cor 14.16. 19: Timothy and Silvanus were coworkers on his first visit to Corinth; see Acts 18.5. 21–22: A tone of defensiveness but also reassurance marks the claim to ongoing divine confirmation in Christ (lit., “Christ-ward”) of Paul and the Corinthians together, itself founded upon God’s past action of anointing, sealing, and giving the first installment (the same Gk word is translated “guarantee” in 5.5) of the Spirit; cf. Eph 1.13. Early commentators (e.g., Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian) understood this as baptismal language. 1.23–2.4: A return to the courtroom imagery of 1.12. The prior “tearful” letter (2.3–4) is sometimes identified with chs 10–13, where Paul repeatedly and passionately restates his love for the Corinthians; see Introduction.

⁵ But if anyone has caused pain, he has caused it not to me, but to some extent—not to exaggerate it—to all of you. ⁶ This punishment by the majority is enough for such a person; ⁷ so now instead you should forgive and console him, so that he may not be overwhelmed by excessive sorrow. ⁸ So I urge you to reaffirm your love for him. ⁹ I wrote for this reason: to test you and to know whether you are obedient in everything. ¹⁰ Anyone whom you forgive, I also forgive. What I have forgiven, if I have forgiven anything, has been for your sake in the presence of Christ. ¹¹ And we do this so that we may not be outwitted by Satan; for we are not ignorant of his designs.

¹² When I came to Troas to proclaim the good news of Christ, a door was opened for me in the Lord; ¹³ but my mind could not rest because I did not find my brother Titus there. So I said farewell to them and went on to Macedonia.

¹⁴ But thanks be to God, who in Christ always leads us in triumphal procession, and through us spreads in every place the fragrance that comes from knowing him. ¹⁵ For we are the aroma of Christ to God among those who are being saved and among those who are perishing; ¹⁶ to the one a fragrance from death to death, to the other a fragrance from life to life. Who is sufficient for these things? ¹⁷ For we are not peddlers of God's word like so many;^a but in Christ we speak as persons of sincerity, as persons sent from God and standing in his presence.

3 Are we beginning to commend ourselves again? Surely we do not need, as some do, letters of recommendation to you or from you, do we? ² You yourselves are our letter, written on our^b hearts, to be known and read by all; ³ and you show that you are a letter of Christ, prepared by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts.

⁴ Such is the confidence that we have through Christ toward God. ⁵ Not that we are competent of ourselves to claim anything as coming from us; our competence is from God, ⁶ who has made us competent to be ministers of a new covenant, not of letter but of spirit; for the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life.

⁷ Now if the ministry of death, chiseled in letters on stone tablets,^c came in glory so that the people of Israel could not gaze at Moses' face because of the glory of his face, a glory now set aside, ⁸ how much more will the min-

^a Other ancient authorities read like the others

^b Other ancient authorities read your

^c Gk on stones

2.5–13: The specific cause of pain is an unnamed individual. Paul urges forgiveness of this one (cf. 7.12) toward whom some punishment (perhaps exclusion) has been applied by “the majority” (v. 6). 11: Satan appears elsewhere as “the god of this world” (4.4), Beliar (6.15), and the serpent who deceived Eve (11.3). 12: Troas, a city in northwest Asia Minor, near ancient Troy. Titus, likely the carrier of the “tearful letter” (see 7.6–13; 8.6,18,23; 12.18).

2.14–3.18: Divine commissioning and ministry in the new covenant. 14–17: A paragraph of thanks (cf. 1.3–11) reverses the mood of restlessness. 14–15: Triumphal procession alludes to the Roman imperial practice of leading captives in a victory parade. Here, God is the victor; Paul with others in Christ is being led in spectacle. Fragrance and aroma suggest sacrificial ritual (Gen 8.21; Lev 1.9); see also the aroma of divine presence in 1 En. 24.4–25.6 and of Wisdom in Sirach 24.15. In analogy to the effects of the message of the cross in 1 Cor 1.18–25, also associated with divine Wisdom, this aroma is for the ones being saved the fragrance of life, but for the ones perishing, the fragrance of death. 17: Peddlers translates a verb of monetary transaction and suggests preaching for financial gain or preaching a diluted message. 3.1: The Greek epistolary form letter of recommendation was used by early Christians to introduce believers to one another (cf. Acts 18.27; Rom 16). 2–3: Paul defends his lack of such a letter since the Corinthian congregants constitute his letter of Christ. Contrasting tablets of stone (the medium for the Ten Commandments, e.g., Ex 20.1–17; 24.12; 31.18; 34.1) with human hearts, Paul invokes the “new covenant” (see v. 6) language of Jer 31.31–33 and Ezek 11.19; 36.26–27. 4–6: Paul's own confidence . . . through Christ toward God reiterates the source of Paul's ministry. Concentrated “diakonos” (“servant, minister”) language in chs 1–9 supports Paul's claim to be an authoritative go-between. Competence for the new covenant ministry is from God and bears the life of the Spirit in contrast to the dead letter of the written code. 7–11: Stone tablets connect with Moses' reflection of divine glory at Sinai (Ex 34.29–35). An extended three-part istry of the Spirit come in glory? ⁹ For if there was glory in the ministry of condemnation, much more does the ministry of justification abound in glory! ¹⁰ Indeed, what once had glory has lost its glory because of the greater glory; ¹¹ for if what was set aside came through glory, much more has the permanent come in glory!

¹² Since, then, we have such a hope, we act with great boldness, ¹³ not like Moses, who put a veil over his face to keep the people of Israel from gazing at the end of the glory that^a was being set aside. ¹⁴ But their minds were hardened. Indeed, to this very day, when they hear the reading of the old covenant, that same veil is still there, since only in Christ is it set aside. ¹⁵ Indeed, to this very day whenever Moses is read, a veil lies over their minds; ¹⁶ but when one turns to the Lord, the veil is removed. ¹⁷ Now the Lord is the Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom. ¹⁸ And all of us, with unveiled faces, seeing the glory of the Lord as though reflected in a mirror, are being transformed into the same image from one degree of glory to another; for this comes from the Lord, the Spirit.

4 Therefore, since it is by God's mercy that we are engaged in this ministry, we do not lose heart. ² We have renounced the shameful things that one hides; we refuse to practice cunning or to falsify God's word; but by the open statement of the truth we commend ourselves to the conscience of everyone in the sight of God. ³ And even if our gospel is veiled, it is veiled to those who are perishing. ⁴ In their case the god of this world has blinded the minds of the unbelievers, to keep them from seeing the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God. ⁵ For we do not proclaim ourselves; we proclaim Jesus Christ as Lord and ourselves as your slaves for Jesus' sake. ⁶ For it is the God who said, "Let light shine out of darkness," who has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

⁷ But we have this treasure in clay jars, so that it may be made clear that this extraordinary power belongs to God and does not rhetorical figure, known in rabbinic literature as "qal va-ḥomer" (lit., "light and heavy," i.e., "from the lesser to the greater"), follows through v. 11. Cf. Rom 5.16,18. 12–18: Paul contrasts his own boldness to Moses' hiding. 13: End may suggest simply "cessation," or alternately, "goal." 14: Their minds were hardened recalls Deut. 29.4; Isa 29.10 (cited verbatim in Rom 11.8). Divine agency may be reflected in the passive voice of the verb "to harden." Temporal distinctions (cf. Deut 29.4 "but to this day") between the time of Moses and the present collapse: to this very day the veil remains when they hear the old covenant read. A second passive verb completes the thought: only in Christ is the veil set aside. 15: Paul reiterates the temporal duration "to this day." Heart (Gk "kardia"; NRSV minds) is now the veiled organ. 16: Partial human agency appears within the passive construction: when one turns to the Lord the veil is removed; one is indefinite. 17: The Lord (Ex 34.34) is identified by Paul with the Spirit and the Spirit with freedom (cf. v. 18; Gal 5.1–5). 18: All of us continues Paul's emphasis on all throughout the Corinthian correspondence. With unveiled faces, cf. Moses' repeated unveiling in Ex 34.34. Glory . . . reflected in a mirror may suggest the reflection of the Lord God in Christ (4.6). Some translate the verb differently, e.g., "to behold," "to contemplate." Metamorphosis to the divine image figures in Hellenistic religion and in Rom 8.29; 1 Cor 15.49; Col 3.10.

^a Gk of what

4.1–5.10: Ministry, momentary affliction, and the surpassing weight of glory. 1: Lose heart, cf. 4.16; Gal 6.9; Eph 3.13; 2 Thess 3.13. 2: Paul is accused of cunning (12.16; cf. 11.3; 1 Cor 3.19) and of falsifying the divine word (cf. 2.17). Conscience, 1.12. 3: A return to the veil image encapsulates and reinforces the argument in 3.12–17. 4: The god of this world is the sole reference in the New Testament to Satan as a "god"; cf. 1 Cor 2.6.n.; Eph 2.2. This world appears in 1 Cor 3.19; 5.10; 7.31 (twice). Minds recalls the minds hardened by an unidentified, but likely divine agent in 3.14; cf. Rom 11.8. Unbelievers, see 6.14 and cf. 1 Cor 6.6; 7.12–15; 10.27; 14.22. Christ as image of God occurs only here and Col 1.15; cf. 3.18. In Wis 7.25–26, Wisdom is "image of his (God's) goodness." Elsewhere the term refers to human beings, e.g., Gen 1.26; cf. Rom 8.29; 1 Cor 11.7; 15.49. Glory, a central attribute of the divine presence for Paul, especially thematic in 3.7–11,17–18; 4.15–17. 5: Jesus Christ as Lord, see 1 Cor 12.2; Rom 10.9; Phil 2.11; Col 2.6. Your slaves, see Rom 1.2; Gal 1.10; Phil 1.1. 6: Let light shine out of the darkness, cf. Gen 1.3; Ps 112.4; Isaiah 9.2; Job 37.15. 7: Treasure, the ministry described above. Clay jars, earthenware, vulnerable to come from us.⁸ We are afflicted in every way, but not crushed; perplexed, but not driven to despair;⁹ persecuted, but not forsaken; struck down, but not destroyed;¹⁰ always carrying in the body the death of Jesus, so that the life of Jesus may also be made visible in our bodies.

¹¹ For while we live, we are always being given up to death for Jesus' sake, so that the life of Jesus may be made visible in our mortal flesh.

¹² So death is at work in us, but life in you.

¹³ But just as we have the same spirit of faith that is in accordance with scripture—"I believed, and so I spoke"—we also believe, and so we speak,¹⁴ because we know that the one who raised the Lord Jesus will raise us also with Jesus, and will bring us with you into his presence.¹⁵ Yes, everything is for your sake, so that grace, as it extends to more and more people, may increase thanksgiving, to the glory of God.

¹⁶ So we do not lose heart. Even though our outer nature is wasting away, our inner nature is being renewed day by day.¹⁷ For this slight momentary affliction is preparing us for an eternal weight of glory beyond all measure,¹⁸ because we look not at what can be seen but at what cannot be seen; for what can be seen is temporary, but what cannot be seen is eternal.

5 For we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.² For in this tent we groan, longing to be clothed with our heavenly dwelling—³ if indeed, when we have taken it off^a we will not be found naked.⁴ For while we are still in this tent, we groan under our burden, because we wish not to be unclothed but to be further clothed, so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by life.⁵ He who has prepared us for this very thing is God, who has given us the Spirit as a guarantee.

⁶ So we are always confident; even though we know that while we are at home in the body we are away from the Lord—⁷ for we walk by faith, not by sight.⁸ Yes, we do have confidence, and we would rather be away from the body and at home with the Lord.

^a Other ancient authorities read put it on

breakage. 8–9: Catalogues of affliction were common in Stoic philosophy to demonstrate the moral strength of the philosopher. Here, the power of God upholds the apostle through adversity. Cf. 6.4–10; 11.23–28; 12.10; Rom 8.35–39; 1 Cor 4.11–13; Phil 4.12. 10: Death, Gk “nekrōsis,” “dead or decaying flesh”; cf. Rom 4.19. Carrying in the body, cf. Gal 6.17. The body, i.e., mortal flesh (v. 11), is where both the death and the life of Jesus are simultaneously manifested; cf. 1 Cor 13.3. The apostle gives up the body (Gal 2.20; Eph 5.2), or allows his body to be given up (if read as a passive) 13–15: Ps 116.10 (Ps 115.1 LXX) echoes Paul's own experience and ends with assurance of entering God's presence with thanksgiving. 15: For your sake, 2.10; see also 1.6; 5.13; 8.23. Grace (Gk “charis”) occurs seventeen times in 2 Cor and emphasizes extension and plenitude at 8.6; 9.8. 16: Lose heart, 4.1; Eph 3.13. Outer . . . inner, “nature” is supplied for translation; cf. Rom 7.22; Eph 3.16. Wasting away . . . being renewed: Simultaneous actions corresponding to the dual activity in v. 10 of carrying necrosis (“death”) in the body and manifesting life in our bodies. Being renewed, the verb “to renew” occurs only here and in Col 3.10; the noun “renewal/renewing” occurs in Rom 12.2 (of the mind) and Titus 3.5. Cf. 5.17; Gal 6.15. 17–18: Two more pairs of antitheses end the section. Antitheses, temporal and sensory, here and elsewhere in Paul, often indicate overlapping realities, e.g., glory shining through affliction. 5.1–10: Eschatological transformation. 1: The earthly tent we live in, lit., “our earthly house of the tent”; cf. Wis 9.15; 2 Pet 1.13. Three forms of the Gk word “oikos” (“house, home”) build the transition from earthly to heavenly dwelling; cf. 4.7 where the body is a “clay jar.” Destroyed, death of the mortal body. A house not made with hands, i.e., “God-made” (cf. Mk 14.58; Col 2.11; Heb 9.11,24), the believer's resurrection body (cf. “spiritual body” in 1 Cor 15.44). See also Jn 2.19–21 where Jesus's resurrected body will replace the Temple. For the gathered community as God's temple, see 6.16; 1 Cor 3.16–17; cf. 2 Esd 10.40–57. 2: Groan, 5.4; Rom 8.23,26. To be clothed . . . to be further clothed (v. 4) to put a garment on over an existing garment, so perhaps the heavenly dwelling over the earthly one, i.e., the resurrection body over the earthly one; cf. 1 Cor 15.54. 3: Not found naked, i.e., clothed in the resurrection body. 4: In this tent . . . under our burden, see Wis 9.15. The mortal (body), when further clothed (at death), will be swallowed up by life. (Cf. 1 Cor 15.53–54). 5: Guarantee, see 1.22n. 6: Confident: In some Hellenistic philosophers, death is met with confidence because the soul endures or because all things are regulated by a manifold order; e.g., Plato, Phaedo 63 E; Epictetus, Dissertationes 2.1.14. In the body . . . away from the Lord, see Phil 1.21,23. 7: By faith not sight, see ¹¹ Therefore, knowing the fear of the Lord, we try to persuade others; but we ourselves are well known to God, and I hope that we are also well known to your consciences. ¹² We are not commending ourselves to you again, but giving you an opportunity to boast about us, so that you may be able to answer those who boast in outward appearance and not in the heart. ¹³ For if we are beside ourselves, it is for God; if we are in our right mind, it is for you. ¹⁴ For the love of Christ urges us on, because we are convinced that one has died for all; therefore all have died. ¹⁵ And he died for all, so that those who live might live no longer for themselves, but for him who died and was raised for them.

⁹ So whether we are at home or away, we make it our aim to please him. ¹⁰ For all of us must appear before the judgment seat of Christ, so that each may receive recompense for what has been done in the body, whether good or evil.

¹⁶ From now on, therefore, we regard no one from a human point of view;^a even though we once knew Christ from a human point of view,^a we know him no longer in that way. ¹⁷ So if anyone is in Christ, there is a new creation: everything old has passed away; see, everything has become new! ¹⁸ All this is from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ, and has given us the ministry of reconciliation; ¹⁹ that is, in Christ God was reconciling the world to himself,^b not counting their trespasses against them, and entrusting the message of reconciliation to us. ²⁰ So we are ambassadors for Christ, since God is making his appeal through us; we entreat you on behalf of Christ, be reconciled to God. ²¹ For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.

6 As we work together with him,^c we urge you also not to accept the grace of God in vain. ² For he says,

“At an acceptable time I have listened to you, and on a day of salvation I have helped you.”

See, now is the acceptable time; see, now is the day of salvation! ³ We are putting no obstacle in anyone’s way, so that no fault may be found with our ministry, ⁴ but as servants of God we have commended ourselves in every way: through great endurance, in afflictions, hardships, calamities, ⁵ beatings, imprisonments, riots, labors, sleepless nights, hunger; ⁶ by purity, knowledge, patience, kindness,

^a Gk according to the flesh

^b Or God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself

^c Gk As we work together

4.18; 1 Cor 13.12; Rom 8.24–25; 1 Pet 1.8. 10: The judgment seat, see 1 Cor 4.5; Rom 2.16; Rom 14. 9–10. Recompense . . ., the body is the locus of consequential moral action.

5.11–6.13: The ministry of reconciliation amid manifold afflictions. 11: Fear of the Lord, cf. 7.1; see also, e.g., Prov 1.7; 2.5; 9.10; etc., and Sir 1.11,12–14. Consciences, 1.12; 4.2. 12: Commending ourselves, see 3.2n. In outward appearances, lit., “in the face,” not in the heart, perhaps referring to Paul’s opponents; see 10.12; 11.5–6,12–15; 12.11 for Paul’s opponents. 13: Are beside ourselves, perhaps a reference to spiritual ecstasy; see 12.1–8; cf. 1 Cor 14.2,28. In our right mind, cf. 1 Cor 14.19. 14–15: Love of Christ, Christ’s love for us, expressed in his one death on behalf of all. All have died, cf. Rom 6.3–4; see also Rom 7.4; 14.7–9; Gal 2.19–20. 16: From a human point of view, lit., “according to the flesh,” can be read as an adjective modifying “no one,” or adverbially, modifying “regard.” 17: New creation, see Isa 43.18–19; 48.6; 65.17; 66.22; Gal 6.15; Eph 2.15; 2 Pet 3.13; Rev 21.1–5; cf. Rom 8.19–21. 18–19: Reconciled us, cf. Rom 5.10–11. Reconciliation is a term found only in Pauline letters in the NT; cf. 2 Macc 1.5; 7.33; 8.29. 20: Ambassadors has political resonance, it can refer to Roman legates, sent by the emperor to govern imperial provinces, or to envoys sent on a diplomatic mission. 21: Made him to be sin (Gk “hamartia”; cf. Gal 3.13–14; Rom 8.3–4) is variously interpreted: Christ is a sin-offering for humanity, an atonement offering (Isa 53.9–11; Rom 3.25; 1 Cor 5.7), or Christ himself took the place of the sinner, though he remained sinless. Righteousness of God, either the righteousness that belongs to God and brings about the salvation of humanity, or the righteousness God imparts to human beings to justify them; see Rom 1.17; 3.5,21–22,25–26; 10.3; Phil 3.9. 6.1–10: Summary of defense and appeal to affection. 2: At an acceptable time . . ., Isa 49.8. Now, see 5.16. 3: Obstacle, 1 Cor 9.12. 4a: Commend ourselves intensifies the theme of boasting, prominent in 1 Cor, using language of self-commendation and defense: cf. 3.1; 4.2; 5.12; 10.12; 10.18; 12.11. 4b–5: A catalogue of afflictions holiness of spirit, genuine love,⁷ truthful speech, and the power of God; with the weapons of righteousness for the right hand and for the left;⁸ in honor and dishonor, in ill repute and good repute. We are treated as impostors, and yet are true;⁹ as unknown, and yet are well known; as dying, and see—we are alive; as punished, and yet not killed;¹⁰ as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing everything.

¹¹We have spoken frankly to you Corinthians; our heart is wide open to you. ¹²There is no restriction in our affections, but only in yours. ¹³In return—I speak as to children—open wide your hearts also.

¹⁴Do not be mismatched with unbelievers. For what partnership is there between righteousness and lawlessness? Or what fellowship is there between light and darkness? ¹⁵What agreement does Christ have with Beliar? Or what does a believer share with an unbeliever? ¹⁶What agreement has the temple of God with idols? For we^a are the temple of the living God; as God said,

“I will live in them and walk among them,
and I will be their God,
and they shall be my people.

¹⁷Therefore come out from them, and be separate from them, says the Lord,
and touch nothing unclean;

followed by a catalogue of divinely empowered virtues (vv. 6–7). 7: Weapons of righteousness, Paul often uses military metaphors, e.g., 2.14n.; 10.4–5; Phil 2.25; Philem 1.2; Gal 5.13,17; Rom 13.12; 1 Thess 5.8. 8–10: A series of paired antitheses illustrates the paradoxical nature of apostolic work; see Gal 5.22–23; Phil 4.8; Col 3.12; 1 Pet 3.8; 2 Pet 1.5–7. In Stoic philosophy such lists describe the philosopher’s self-sufficiency, but here support Paul’s God-sourced self-defense. 11. Frankly, lit., “our mouth is open.” 12: Affections, lit., “the inner organs,” the seat of the emotions.

6.14–7.1: Warnings about purity. These verses insert an uncharacteristic theme into the discourse on affection that resumes at 7.2. 14: Mismatched, lit., “misyoked,” a term related to the injunction against interbreeding animals in Lev 19.19; it may relate to marriages (cf. 1 Cor 7.12–16), but also to business relations. Righteousness and lawlessness (Rom 6.19); darkness and light (Rom 2.19; 13.12; 1 Cor 4.5; 1 Thess 5.4–5). 15: Beliar, variant of Belial (Heb “worthlessness”), is attested only here in biblical literature; more commonly “Satan” (see 2.11n.; 11.14; 12.7). 16: Temple of the living God, see 1 Cor 3.16. As God said, a chain of scriptural citations follows: 16d conflates Ezek 37.27 and Lev 26.12; 17a–c: Isa 52.11; 17d: Ezek 20.34 (LXX); 18a: 2 Sam 7.14; 18b: Isa 43.6. 7.1: We have these promises. Indicating either a present state or a future hope. Making holiness, cf. text variant at 1.12 and 1 Cor 3.17.

7.2–16: Return to personal defense and affection. 2: Wronged . . . corrupted . . . taken advantage of. Denial of these charges indicates strained relations with opponents. The last charge returns in 12.17. 5–16: Travel narrative resumes from 2.13. Paul’s reunion with Titus in Macedonia brings the welcome news of the Corinthians’ good will (see 2.2–4). 6: God who consoles the downcast, Isa 49.13. 8: My letter, 2.2–4.

then I will welcome you, ¹⁸and I will be your father, and you shall be my sons and daughters,
says the Lord Almighty.”

7 Since we have these promises, beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from every defilement of body and of spirit, making holiness perfect in the fear of God.

²Make room in your hearts^b for us; we have wronged no one, we have corrupted no one, we have taken advantage of no one. ³I do not say this to condemn you, for I said before that you are in our hearts, to die together and to live together. ⁴I often boast about you; I have great pride in you; I am filled with consolation; I am overjoyed in all our affliction.

⁵For even when we came into Macedonia, our bodies had no rest, but we were afflicted in every way—disputes without and fears within. ⁶But God, who consoles the downcast, consoled us by the arrival of Titus, ⁷and not only by his coming, but also by the consolation with which he was consoled about you, as he told us of your longing, your mourning, your zeal for me, so that I rejoiced still more. ⁸For even if I made you sorry with my letter, I do not regret it (though I did regret it, for I see that I grieved you with that letter, though only briefly). ⁹Now I rejoice, not because you were grieved, but because your grief led to repentance; for you felt a godly grief, so that you were not harmed in any way by us.¹⁰ For godly grief produces a repentance that leads to salvation and brings no regret, but worldly grief produces death.¹¹ For see what earnestness this godly grief has produced in you, what eagerness to clear yourselves, what indignation, what alarm, what longing, what zeal, what punishment! At every point you have proved yourselves guiltless in the matter.¹² So although I wrote to you, it was not on account of the one who did the wrong, nor on account of the one who was wronged, but in order that your zeal for us might be made known to you before God.¹³ In this we find comfort.

^a Other ancient authorities read you

^b GK lacks in your hearts

In addition to our own consolation, we rejoiced still more at the joy of Titus, because his mind has been set at rest by all of you.¹⁴ For if I have been somewhat boastful about you to him, I was not disgraced; but just as everything we said to you was true, so our boasting to Titus has proved true as well.¹⁵ And his heart goes out all the more to you, as he remembers the obedience of all of you, and how you welcomed him with fear and trembling.¹⁶ I rejoice, because I have complete confidence in you.

8 We want you to know, brothers and sisters,^a about the grace of God that has been granted to the churches of Macedonia;

² for during a severe ordeal of affliction, their abundant joy and their extreme poverty have overflowed in a wealth of generosity on their part.³ For, as I can testify, they voluntarily gave according to their means, and even beyond their means,⁴ begging us earnestly for the privilege^b of sharing in this ministry to the saints—⁵ and this, not merely as we expected; they gave themselves first to the Lord and, by the will of God, to us,⁶ so that we might urge Titus that, as he had already made a beginning, so he should also complete this generous undertaking^c among you.⁷ Now as you excel in everything—in faith, in speech, in knowledge, in utmost eagerness, and in our love for you^d—so we want you to excel also in this generous undertaking.^e

⁸ I do not say this as a command, but I am testing the genuineness of your love against the earnestness of others.⁹ For you know the generous act^e of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that by his poverty you might become rich.¹⁰ And in this matter I

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk grace

^c Gk this grace

^d Other ancient authorities read your love for us

^e Gk the grace

11: Heightened rhetoric raises the question of whether Paul had been mistaken in his prior assessment of their guilt. Eagerness to clear (Gk “apologia”) and punishment carry legal overtones. 12: The one who did the wrong, presumably the individual of 2.5–11. The one who was wronged, Paul. 13: Comfort . . . consolation, see 1.3–7. 15: Obedience, see 2.9. Fear and trembling, cf. Phil 2.12; Eph 6.5. 16: Expression of complete confidence (5.6,8) sums up the preceding section and looks ahead to the concrete financial requests in chs 8–9.

8.1–9.15: Body, Part II, 8.1–9.15: The collection.

8.1–24: Exhortation to contribute for relief of the saints in Jerusalem. Chapters 8 and 9, thought by some to be separate letters, discuss the collection Paul is gathering for the believers in Jerusalem; see Rom 15.25–32; 1 Cor 16.1–4; Gal 2.10; also Acts 24.17. 1: Grace (Gk “charis”), here meaning “divine beneficence.” The term is used ten times in chs 8–9 with rich nuance as shown in the wide range of translations of the term: “privilege” (8.4); “generous undertaking” (8.6,7,19); “generous act” (8.9); “thanks” (8.16; 9.15); “blessing” (9.8). Macedonia, see 1.16n. 2: Severe ordeal, cf. Phil 1.29–30; 1 Thess 1.6; 2.14; 3.3–4. 4: Sharing (Gk “koinōnia”) refers to the collection in 8.4; 9.13; Rom 15.26. The same noun denotes participating in Christ (1 Cor 1.9; 10.16; 2 Cor 2.7; Phil 3.10) and with the Spirit (2 Cor 13.13; Phil 2.1); see also, “sharing in the gospel” (Phil 1.5) and “sharing of faith” (Philem 6). Ministry (Gk “diakonia”), see 3.4–6n. Saints, the believers in Jerusalem for whom the collection is taken; see 1.1–2n. 6: Titus, having already begun (7.13), may now complete this generous undertaking, i.e., the collection (8.1). On Titus see 2.13; 8.16–24. 7: Paul elsewhere mentions the Corinthians’ spiritual gifts of faith (1 Cor 12.9; 13.2,8), speech (1 Cor 1.5; 14.9), and knowledge (1 Cor 1.5; 12.8; 13.2,8; 14.6). Our love (Gk “agapē”) for you, see textual note d. On the superiority of love to every other spiritual gift, 1 Cor 13.13. 9: Became poor, see 6.10; cf. 5.21 and Phil am giving my advice: it is appropriate for you who began last year not only to do something but even to desire to do something—¹¹ now finish doing it, so that your eagerness may be matched by completing it according to your means.¹² For if the eagerness is there, the gift is acceptable according to what one has—not according to what one does not have.¹³ I do not mean that there should be relief for others and pressure on you, but it is a question of a fair balance between¹⁴ your present abundance and their need, so that their abundance may be for your need, in order that there may be a fair balance.¹⁵ As it is written,

“The one who had much did not have too much,
and the one who had little did not have too little.”

¹⁶ But thanks be to God who put in the heart of Titus the same eagerness for you that I myself have.¹⁷ For he not only accepted our appeal, but since he is more eager than ever, he is going to you of his own accord.¹⁸ With him we are sending the brother who is famous among all the churches for his proclaiming the good news;^a ¹⁹ and not only that, but he has also been appointed by the churches to travel with us while we are administering this generous undertaking^b for the glory of the Lord himself^c and to show our goodwill.²⁰ We intend that no one should blame us about this generous gift that we are administering,²¹ for we intend to do what is right not only in the Lord’s sight but also in the sight of others.²² And with them we are sending our brother whom we have often tested and found eager in many matters, but who is now more eager than ever because of his great confidence in you.²³ As for Titus, he is my partner and co-worker in your service; as for our brothers, they are messengers^d of the churches, the glory of Christ.²⁴ Therefore openly before the churches, show them the proof of your love and of our reason for boasting about you.

9 Now it is not necessary for me to write you about the ministry to the saints,² for I know your eagerness, which is the subject of my boasting about you to the people of Macedonia, saying that Achaia has been ready since last year; and your zeal has stirred up most of them.³ But I am sending the brothers in order that our boasting about you may not prove to have been empty in this case, so that you may be ready, as I said you would be;⁴ otherwise, if some Macedonians come with me and find that you are not ready, we would be humiliated—to say nothing of you—in this undertaking.^e ⁵ So I thought it necessary to urge the brothers to go on ahead to you, and arrange in advance for this bountiful gift that you have promised, so that it may be ready as a voluntary gift and not as an extortion.

⁶ The point is this: the one who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and the one who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully.⁷ Each of you must give as you have made up your mind, not reluctantly or under compulsion, for God loves a cheerful giver.⁸ And God is able to provide you with every blessing in abundance, so that by always having enough of everything, you may share

^a Or the gospel

^b Gk this grace

^c Other ancient authorities lack himself

^d Gk apostles

^e Other ancient authorities add of boasting

2.6–8. 10–14: Giving my advice, cf. 1 Cor 7.25. Paul encourages follow-through on their gift to make a fair balance, i.e., their abundance matching the need of the poor in Jerusalem. 15: Ex 16.18.

8.16–24: Defense against mishandling. 18: The brother, one of two unnamed brothers (vv. 22–23) being sent (“apostles” in v. 23; see textual note d) with Titus and Paul to administer the collection. 21: See Prov 3.4. Paul seeks to secure the integrity of the collection against accusations of mishandling. See 12.17–18 for Paul’s defense against some critics of his financial management.

9.1–15: Reprise of the exhortation to give. Perhaps a separate letter after the letter comprising chs 1–8. 1: It is not necessary . . . suggests information already known to his audience. 2: Macedonia, see 1.16n.; Achaia, see 1.1–2n. 5: Their gift will be bountiful and voluntary: both terms translate Gk “eulogia,” translated as “bountifully” twice in v. 6. Extortion suggests that the amount requested would exceed the willingness to give; cf. Phil 14. 6: Sows . . . reaps, Prov 11.24. 7: Not under compulsion bears overtones of the Stoic doctrine of liberty but with abundantly in every good work.⁹ As it is written,

“He scatters abroad, he gives to the poor; his righteousness^a endures forever.”

¹⁰ He who supplies seed to the sower and bread for food will supply and multiply your seed for sowing and increase the harvest of your righteousness.^a ¹¹ You will be enriched in every way for your great generosity, which will produce thanksgiving to God through us; ¹² for the rendering of this ministry not only supplies the needs of the saints but also overflows with many thanksgivings to God. ¹³ Through the testing of this ministry you glorify God by your obedience to the confession of the gospel of Christ and by the generosity of your sharing with them and with all others, ¹⁴ while they long for you and pray for you because of the surpassing grace of God that he has given you. ¹⁵ Thanks be to God for his indescribable gift!

10 I myself, Paul, appeal to you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ—I who am humble when face to face with you, but bold toward you when I am away!—² I ask that when I am present I need not show boldness by daring to oppose those who think we are acting according to human standards.^b ³ Indeed, we live as human beings,^c but we do not wage war according to human standards;^b ⁴ for the weapons of our warfare are not merely human,^d but they have divine power to destroy strongholds. We destroy arguments⁵ and every proud obstacle raised up against the knowledge of God, and we take every thought captive to obey Christ. ⁶ We are ready to punish every disobedience when your obedience is complete.

⁷ Look at what is before your eyes. If you are confident that you belong to Christ, remind yourself of this, that just as you belong to Christ, so also do we. ⁸ Now, even if I boast a little too much of our authority, which the Lord gave for building you up and not for tearing you down, I will not be ashamed of it. ⁹ I do not want to seem as though I am trying to frighten you with my letters. ¹⁰ For they say, “His letters are weighty and strong, but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech contemptible.” ¹¹ Let such people understand that what we say by letter when absent, we will also do when present.

¹² We do not dare to classify or compare ourselves with some of those who commend themselves. But when they measure themselves by one another, and compare themselves with one another, they do not

^a Or benevolence

^b Gk according to the flesh

^c Gk in the flesh

^d Gk fleshly

the added dimension of divine agency in accomplishing it. God loves . . . giver, Prov 22.8. 9: Ps 112.9 (LXX). Seed, bread, Isa 55.10. Harvest of your righteousness, Hos 10.12 (LXX). 11–12: Generosity will produce thanksgiving, see 4.15, where the extension of the gift (“charis”) increases thanksgiving to the glory of God. 12: Rendering (Gk “diakonia”) of this ministry (Gk “leitourgia,” lit., “work of the people”). 13: You glorify God; or “they glorify God.”

10.1–13.10: Body, Part III: Apostolic defense intensified under stress.

10.1–18: Defense of apostolic service. The last three chapters are widely held to be a separate letter; see “Introduction.” 1: I, myself, Paul, an emphatic identity claim; cf. Gal 5.2. Humble when face to face, Paul’s opponents may describe him as humble in a pejorative way, e.g., as “servile,” “lacking authority” (v. 10). There is continuity with the theme of power in weakness; see, e.g., 4.7–12; 11.21–30; 12.8–10; 13.4. Bold, 5.6,8; 7.16. 2: Those who think . . . Paul’s opponents are indicated directly at 10.10,12; 11.5,12–15,22–23; 12.11; and obliquely at 11.4; 12.15–16,18. 2b–4: Human translates different forms of the Gk word for “flesh.” For Paul the flesh may be the realm of physical existence without pejorative meaning or a powerful realm opposed to the Spirit. Here, the Spirit-indwelted flesh may be in view, i.e., Paul’s weapons (6.7; Rom 6.3; 13.12) are not merely human. 5: Metaphors of war, e.g., wielding weapons and taking captives are also associated with Stoic argumentation. 7–8: Calling attention to some who are persuaded that they belong to Christ (perhaps without warrant; cf. 1 Cor 1.12), Paul urges that they look to him as possessing God-given authority; cf. 12.19; 13.10; 1 Cor 3.9–15. Building up . . . tearing down, see Jer 1.10; etc. Boasting may be a charge brought against Paul. 9–10: Frightening you with letters, cf. Gal 1.7. They say, lit., “he says.” Bodily presence is weak, probably more than physical weakness; see, e.g., 1.17. 12: The terms classify or compare form a pun in Greek, lost in translation (“enkrinai ē synkrinai”); see 11.22–23.

show good sense.¹³ We, however, will not boast beyond limits, but will keep within the field that God has assigned to us, to reach out even as far as you.¹⁴ For we were not overstepping our limits when we reached you; we were the first to come all the way to you with the good news^a of Christ.¹⁵ We do not boast beyond limits,^a that is, in the labors of others; but our hope is that, as your faith increases, our sphere of action among you may be greatly enlarged,¹⁶ so that we may proclaim the good news^a in lands beyond you, without boasting of work already done in someone else's sphere of action.¹⁷ "Let the one who boasts, boast in the Lord."¹⁸ For it is not those who commend themselves that are approved, but those whom the Lord commends.

11 I wish you would bear with me in a little foolishness. Do bear with me!² I feel a divine jealousy for you, for I promised you in marriage to one husband, to present you as a chaste virgin to Christ.³ But I am afraid that as the serpent deceived Eve by its cunning, your thoughts will be led astray from a sincere and pure^b devotion to Christ.⁴ For if someone comes and proclaims another Jesus than the one we proclaimed, or if you receive a different spirit from the one you received, or a different gospel from the one you accepted, you submit to it readily enough.⁵ I think that I am not in the least inferior to these super-apostles.⁶ I may be untrained in speech, but not in knowledge; certainly in every way and in all things we have made this evident to you.

⁷ Did I commit a sin by humbling myself so that you might be exalted, because I proclaimed God's good news^c to you free of charge?⁸ I robbed other churches by accepting support from them in order to serve you.⁹ And when I was with you and was in need, I did not burden anyone, for my needs were supplied by the friends^d who came from Macedonia. So I refrained and will continue to refrain from burdening you in any way.¹⁰ As the truth of Christ is in me, this boast of mine will not be silenced in the regions of Achaia.¹¹ And why? Because I do not love you? God knows I do!

¹² And what I do I will also continue to do, in order to deny an opportunity to those who want an opportunity to be recognized as our equals in what they boast about.¹³ For such boasters are false apostles, deceitful workers, disguising themselves as apostles of Christ.¹⁴ And no wonder! Even Satan disguises himself as an angel of light.¹⁵ So it is not strange if his ministers also disguise themselves as ministers of righteousness. Their end will match their deeds.

¹⁶ I repeat, let no one think that I am a fool; but if you do, then accept me as a fool, so that I too may boast a little.¹⁷ What I am saying in regard to this boastful confidence, I am saying not with the Lord's authority, but as a fool;¹⁸ since many boast according to human

^a Or the gospel

^b Other ancient authorities lack and pure

^c Gk the gospel of God

^d Gk brothers

13–15: Despite eschewing comparison, Paul engages in it. Boasting to keep within limits of the field (lit., "the measure of the rule (Gk "kanōn)") God assigned. 15–16: Sphere of action, Gk "kanōn." Paul aims to preach the gospel without encroaching on someone else's territory. 17: Jer 9.23–24; cf. 1 Cor 1.31.

11.1–12.13: "The fool's speech" and apostolic boasting in "visions and revelations." 1: Bear with me, emphatically repeated, and recalled with irony in v. 4 where the Corinthians are said to submit to (lit., "bear") it (another gospel) readily enough. Foolishness, see 11.17, 21. 2: Paul employs a marriage metaphor: as father to the bride, the Corinthian church, he must guard her purity; see, e.g., Sir 42.9–10. Paul is both "father" (1 Cor 4.14–15; Philem 10) and "mother" (1 Thess 2.7; Gal 4.19; 1 Cor 3.2). 3: Serpent deceived Eve, Gen 3.13. Cunning, see 12.16 ("crafty"). 4–5: The content of the different gospel is undefined (cf. Gal 1.6). The irony of affliction that dominates this letter suggests that the difference may be a style of apostleship (that of the super-apostles) characterized by boasts of superiority in status, presence, and preaching (11.12–22; 12.11–12). 6: Untrained in speech, i.e., not a professional orator (10.10). 7–8: Humbling . . ., supporting himself by manual labor. Free of charge, lit., "as a gift." I robbed other churches, see Phil 4.14–18. 9–11: Refrain from burdening, i.e., financially; cf. 1 Thess 2.7. Love, not money, drives the mission. Paul may have offended donors in Corinth by refusing to be paid. Macedonia, see 1.16n. Achaia, see 1.1–2n. 16–18: Accept me as a fool . . ., a vocabulary of folly different from that in 1 Cor 3.18; 4.10. Here standards,^a I will also boast. ¹⁹ For you gladly put up with fools, being wise yourselves! ²⁰ For you put up with it when someone makes slaves of you, or preys upon you, or takes advantage of you, or puts on airs, or gives you a slap in the face. ²¹ To my shame, I must say, we were too weak for that!

But whatever anyone dares to boast of—I am speaking as a fool—I also dare to boast of that. ²² Are they Hebrews? So am I. Are they Israelites? So am I. Are they descendants of Abraham? So am I. ²³ Are they ministers of Christ? I am talking like a madman—I am a better one: with far greater labors, far more imprisonments, with countless floggings, and often near death. ²⁴ Five times I have received from the Jews the forty lashes minus one. ²⁵ Three times I was beaten with rods. Once I received a stoning. Three times I was shipwrecked; for a night and a day I was adrift at sea; ²⁶ on frequent journeys, in danger from rivers, danger from bandits, danger from my own people, danger from Gentiles, danger in the city, danger in the wilderness, danger at sea, danger from false brothers and sisters;^b ²⁷ in toil and hardship, through many a sleepless night, hungry and thirsty, often without food, cold and naked. ²⁸ And, besides other things, I am under daily pressure because of my anxiety for all the churches. ²⁹ Who is weak, and I am not weak? Who is made to stumble, and I am not indignant?

³⁰ If I must boast, I will boast of the things that show my weakness. ³¹ The God and Father of the Lord Jesus (blessed be he forever!) knows that I do not lie. ³² In Damascus, the governor^c under King Aretas guarded the city of Damascus in order to^d seize me, ³³ but I was let down in a basket through a window in the wall,^e and escaped from his hands.

12 It is necessary to boast; nothing is to be gained by it, but I will go on to visions and revelations of the Lord. ² I know a person in Christ who fourteen years ago was caught up to the third heaven—whether in the body or out of the body I do not know; God knows. ³ And I know that such a person—whether in the body or out of the body I do not know; God knows—⁴ was caught up into Paradise and heard things that are not to be told, that no mortal is permitted to repeat. ⁵ On behalf of such a one I will boast, but on my own behalf I will not boast, except of my weaknesses. ⁶ But if I wish to boast, I will not be a fool, for I will be speaking the truth. But I refrain from it, so that no one may think better of me than what is seen in me or heard from me, ⁷ even considering the exceptional character of the revelations. Therefore, to keep^f me from being too elated, a thorn was given me in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to torment

^a Gk according to the flesh

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk ethnarch

^d Other ancient authorities read and wanted to

^e Gk through the wall

^f Other ancient authorities read To keep

“folly” is the act of boasting Paul employs to combat his enemies. Such boasting is not with the Lord’s authority (cf. 10.8,17) but according to human standards (lit., “according to the flesh.”) 21a: To my shame, employing high irony, Paul claims to be too weak to put up with the airs and oppressive acts of false apostles. 21b–23: Whatever anyone dares to boast of. . . Paul claims the same ethnic and religious pedigree as his opponents; cf. Phil 3.4–6; Gal 1.13–15; Rom 9.4; 11.1. Ministers, Gk “diakonoi.” 23b–28: Paul outlines his superior claim to apostolic ministry with another catalogue of sufferings (cf. 4.8–12; 6.4–5), some of which are narrated in Acts: imprisonments, Acts 16.22–40; 24.27; floggings, Acts 16.22–23; stoning, Acts 14.19. Forty lashes minus one, see Deut. 25.3. Damascus, Syrian city associated with Paul’s conversion (Acts 9.1–22; Gal 1.13–17). King Aretas IV ruled the Nabatean kingdom, i.e., “Arabia” (Gal. 1.17) ca. 9 BCE.–40 CE. Perhaps Nabateans resided in Damascus under the jurisdiction of Aretas IV through a governor. Let down in a basket, see Acts 9.23–25. 12.1–13: Paul reluctantly boasts of ecstatic experiences, perhaps to match claims of his opponents; see 5.13; Gal 1.16; 2.2; 1 Cor 9.1; 15.8; cf. Acts 9.3–9; 22.6–7; 26.12–18. 2–3: I know a man, a circumlocution for Paul himself. Third heaven, see 2 En. 8.1–8; T. Levi 2.7–10; 3.1–4. For heavenly ascents, see, e.g., 1 En. 14.8; 39.3–4; 71.1–5 3; 2 Bar. 17.3. 4: Paradise, a Persian word meaning “garden,” enclosure, used in Gen 2–3 (LXX) of Eden; in the NT (Lk 23.43; Rev 2.7) and in Jewish apocalyptic literature (2 Esd 3.5–11; 4.7–8; 7.36,123; 8.52; Apoc. Abr. 21; 2 En. 8.1–8; T. Abr. 20; T. Levi 18.10–11) of a place in the heavens. Things not to be told, a paradox, lit., “unutterable utterances.” 7: Thorn . . . in the flesh: a physical ailment, opposition from his opponents, or other dire impediment to his mission, ultimately charged to a messenger (Gk me, to keep me from being too elated.^a ⁸Three times I appealed to the Lord about this, that it would leave me, ⁹but he said to me, “My grace is sufficient for you, for power^b is made perfect in weakness.” So, I will boast all the more gladly of my weaknesses, so that the power of Christ may dwell in me. ¹⁰Therefore I am content with weaknesses, insults, hardships, persecutions, and calamities for the sake of Christ; for whenever I am weak, then I am strong.

¹¹I have been a fool! You forced me to it. Indeed you should have been the ones commending me, for I am not at all inferior to these super-apostles, even though I am nothing. ¹²The signs of a true apostle were performed among you with utmost patience, signs and wonders and mighty works. ¹³How have you been worse off than the other churches, except that I myself did not burden you? Forgive me this wrong!

¹⁴Here I am, ready to come to you this third time. And I will not be a burden, because I do not want what is yours but you; for children ought not to lay up for their parents, but parents for their children. ¹⁵I will most gladly spend and be spent for you. If I love you more, am I to be loved less? ¹⁶Let it be assumed that I did not burden you. Nevertheless (you say) since I was crafty, I took you in by deceit. ¹⁷Did I take advantage of you through any of those whom I sent to you? ¹⁸I urged Titus to go, and sent the brother with him. Titus did not take advantage of you, did he? Did we not conduct ourselves with the same spirit? Did we not take the same steps?

¹⁹Have you been thinking all along that we have been defending ourselves before you? We are speaking in Christ before God. Everything we do, beloved, is for the sake of building you up. ²⁰For I fear that when I come, I may find you not as I wish; I fear that there may perhaps be quarreling, jealousy, anger, selfishness, slander, gossip, conceit, and disorder. ²¹I fear that when I come again, my God may humble me before you, and that I may have to mourn over many who previously sinned and have not repented of the impurity, sexual immorality, and licentiousness that they have practiced.

13 This is the third time I am coming to you. “Any charge must be sustained by the evidence of two or three witnesses.” ²I warned those who sinned previously and all the others, and I warn them now while absent, as I did when present on my second visit, that if I come again, I will not be lenient—³since you desire proof that Christ is speaking in me. He is not weak in dealing with you, but is powerful in you. ⁴For he was crucified in weakness, but lives by the power of God. For we are weak in him,^c but in dealing with you we will live with him by the power of God.

⁵Examine yourselves to see whether you are living in the faith. Test yourselves. Do you not realize that Jesus Christ is in you?—unless, indeed, you fail to meet the test! ⁶I hope

^a Other ancient authorities lack to keep me from being too elated

^b Other ancient authorities read my power

^c Other ancient authorities read with him

“angelos”) of Satan. 9: Power is made perfect, for Paul, God’s power and Christ’s are linked; cf. 1 Cor 1.17–19. 10: A final list of afflictions summarizes Paul’s experience of strength in weakness. 11–13: Epilogue to “the fool’s speech” focused on apostolic defense. Super-apostles, see 11.5n. Signs, see Rom. 15.19; apostolic signs often attested in Acts, e.g., 2.43; 4.16,22,30. Did not burden, i.e., worked free of charge; see 11.9n.

12.14–13.10: Final appeal and readiness to visit a third time. 14: This third time, Paul’s second visit ended abruptly after a “painful visit” (2.1). 16: Deceit, Paul is accused of an unidentified deception related to money. 17: In two questions expecting “no” answers, Paul claims that both he and those he has sent are innocent. The unnamed brother may be one of the brothers in 8.18,22, or someone who accompanied Titus earlier to begin the collection (8.6). 18: Two questions expecting positive answers balance those in v. 17. 21: When I come again, “again” is ambiguous and could mean “God may humble me again . . .” referring to his second “painful” visit. 13.1: Any charge . . . witnesses, a nearly verbatim quotation of Deut 19.15, where it protects the accused by demanding more than one witness; cf. Mt 18.16; 1 Tim 5.19; Heb 10.28. 2: Will not be lenient, cf. 1.23. 3–4: Paul’s stern dealing with those who sinned previously (see 12.21) and all the others is proof of Christ’s power working in weakness, a principal theme of the entire letter. The power of God is exemplified in the resurrection life Paul you will find out that we have not failed.⁷ But we pray to God that you may not do anything wrong—not that we may appear to have met the test, but that you may do what is right, though we may seem to have failed.⁸ For we cannot do anything against the truth, but only for the truth.⁹ For we rejoice when we are weak and you are strong. This is what we pray for, that you may become perfect.¹⁰ So I write these things while I am away from you, so that when I come, I may not have to be severe in using the authority that the Lord has given me for building up and not for tearing down.

¹¹ Finally, brothers and sisters,^a farewell.^b Put things in order, listen to my appeal,^c agree with one another, live in peace; and the God of love and peace will be with you.¹² Greet one another with a holy kiss. All the saints greet you.

¹³ The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the communion of^d the Holy Spirit be with all of you.

^a Gk brothers

^b Or rejoice

^c Or encourage one another

^d Or and the sharing in lives with him (Christ). Cf. 1 Cor 1.23–24; 6.14; Rom 1.4; 6.4. 8: The truth, cf. 11.10; also 4.2; 6.7. 9: That you may become perfect, the noun “perfection,” used only here in the NT, suggests “strengthening” and “maturation.” See 13.11n.; 1 Cor 1.10; 1 Thess 3.10; Rom 9.22 10: For building up and not for tearing down, repeating 10.8 and summarizing Paul’s pastoral goals.

13.11–14: Closing farewell. 11: Farewell, or “rejoice”; cf. 1 Thess 5.16. Put things in order, the verb could mean either “put yourselves in order” or “be ordered, restored” (by God). Agree with one another, a phrase found in Greek political rhetoric urging unity; see also Rom 12.16; 15.5; Phil 2.2; 4.2; cf. 1 Cor 1.10. God of love, an expression occurring only here in the Bible. God of peace is frequently used by Paul: Rom 15.33; 16.20; Phil 4.9; 1 Thess 5.23; see also 1 Cor 14.33. 12: With a holy kiss is added to the typical Hellenistic commendation to “greet one another”; see 1 Cor 16.20; Rom 16.16; 1 Thess 5.26. All the saints greet you, cf. Phil 4.22; 1 Cor 16.19–20; Rom 16.16. 13: Grace of Jesus Christ . . . The Gk sentence can be read as expressing a wish, “May the grace . . .” or an imperative “(You) let the grace . . .” Grace and love are subjective genitives, thus: “the grace belonging to Christ,” “the love belonging to God.”

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE GALATIANS

NAME, DATE, AND AUTHORSHIP

The letter is named for its recipients, multiple gatherings or “churches” of Galatia (1.2). Galatia was a region in north-central Asia Minor occupied by an originally Celtic people beginning in the third century BCE. Under Roman rule Galatia was the name of a province that stretched farther south to the coast. No date of composition is indicated but the letter was probably written sometime between 50 and 58 CE. Scholars generally agree that Paul was the author. Its content, language, and style resemble sections of his later letter to the Romans.

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Galatians paints the picture of a Christ-centered movement within Judaism. Key issues of belief, practice, and authority are subjects of dispute among its leaders. As in his other letters, Paul is a figure on the move, traveling from city to city and engaged with Gentile converts. Chapters 1–2 provide our earliest evidence about the leaders active in the years just after Jesus’s death (30/33 CE) and before the catastrophic Judean rebellion against Rome (66–70 CE). Paul makes contentious claims about rivals and competitors, including Peter, those he refers to as “pillars in Jerusalem,” and a more vaguely defined faction that comes in for harsh rebuke. Disputed issues center on what it means to be a Jewish versus a Gentile follower of Christ. Though he represents himself as an iconoclast, Paul’s arguments about how Gentiles should relate to traditional Jewish practices echo some strands of Jewish thought about the inclusion of Gentiles in the eschatological people of God.

CONTENTS AND INTERPRETATION

The letter adapts standard Greco-Roman letter forms but is unusual in several respects. The opening and closing do not address particular persons, and Paul’s tone is clipped and defensive from the outset. The body of the letter is marked by often harsh, antagonistic arguments about rival teachers and teachings. Major issues of dispute center on the place of Gentiles in the Jesus movement.

Galatians opens with a defense of Paul’s own authority that includes an account of his own “call” to be an apostle to the Gentiles and of interactions with other leaders. Initial agreements about the gospel message and missionary activity had fallen apart. The core of the letter develops several charged, polemical arguments urging readers to side with Paul amid a flurry of competing claims. Thus, Galatians creates a picture of an embattled Paul, and his Galatian converts as misled by illegitimate teachings and teachers. The target audience is clearly made up of Gentiles, but Paul probably intends it to be overheard by the opposing teachers as well.

The issue of true and false teachings looms large from the outset. Paul portrays his own authority as having a divine rather than human source. Paul recalls his own dramatic reorientation as God called him to cease persecuting the early Jesus movement and to actively promote the gospel of Jesus Christ (1.16). This narrative emphasizes Paul’s independence from the leaders in Jerusalem (1.16–17), though he visits them twice. Hints of division occur in their second meeting (2.1–10), followed by a dramatic confrontation with Peter in Antioch (2.14–15), over whether Jewish and Gentile Christ-followers should eat together. This conflict sets the stage for a series of reflections on the status of Gentiles, circumcision, the law, and the “pneuma” (“breath” or “spirit”) of Christ. These arguments are convoluted, but clearly Paul conceives of God’s work in Christ as part of an apocalyptic plan for world history. Its culmination will involve the ingathering of at least some Gentiles, peoples who had been alienated from God and who some Jews considered morally depraved. Central to God’s plan is an outpouring of the “pneuma” of Christ as the basis for a new way of life, one that ensures the vindication of the Gentile Christ-elect at the impending judgment.

Throughout the letter, Paul alternately rebukes and cajoles his “foolish Galatians” (3.1), but most of his ire is reserved for competing teachers. To explain the special status of Gentiles in God’s plan for history, Paul offers arguments about the promises to Abraham, the status of the law, and the life of the “flesh” versus the new life of the “pneuma.” In some cases, the Jewish law is portrayed as a necessary precursor to the fulfillment of the promises to Abraham, which have only recently come to fruition with Christ. These promises are evidence that the Gentile peoples of the world will one day join the true people of God, a day that has dawned in Christ. In other cases, as with the allegory of Sarah and Hagar (4.21–31; see Gen 16; 21.1–21), Paul seems to suggest that the law has become an obstacle to becoming a true heir of Abraham through Christ. In still others, he suggests that the law is being fulfilled in some way by the Gentiles, at least by those who do his bidding (so 5.14; 6.2; Rom 8.1–4). The issue of whether Jewish followers of Christ should continue observing the law is never clearly addressed. But Paul insists that many of the law's provisions are not to be applied to Gentiles (5.2–3), especially circumcision. Paul's tone softens somewhat in chs 5 and 6, which call upon the Galatians to form a harmonious community bound by an ethic of mutuality, solidarity, and concern for others who share the "pneuma" of Christ.

Galatians has often been interpreted as a story of conflict between the new, free, and universal religion of Christianity and the confining, legalistic strictures of an exclusivistic Judaism, but this misrepresents both Judaism and Christianity. Scholars have shown that the characterization of Judaism as legalistic is misleading and that the early Christ-followers are not aptly characterized as belonging to a new religion, namely, Christianity. Careful reading also draws attention to the polemical, one-sided characterizations of persons, alleged factions, and groups in the highly charged rhetoric of this letter. Indeed, the claims about Gentile Christ-followers, assemblies, and rival teachers and teachings are best understood as identifications that Paul hopes to create in the minds of his audience, not straightforward depictions of social-historical realities.

Emma Wasserman

1 Paul an apostle—sent neither by human commission nor from human authorities, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised him from the dead—² and all the members of God's family^a who are with me,

To the churches of Galatia:

³ Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ, ⁴ who gave himself for our sins to set us free from the present evil age, according to the will of our

God and Father, ⁵ to whom be the glory forever and ever. Amen.

⁶ I am astonished that you are so quickly deserting the one who called you in the grace of Christ and are turning to a different gospel—⁷ not that there is another gospel, but there are some who are confusing you and want to pervert the gospel of Christ. ⁸ But even if we

^a Gk all the brothers

1.1–5: The greeting. 1: Apostle or "messenger," lit., "one who is sent." Only later does this become a formal designation for a specific group of Jesus's first disciples. 2: Churches of Galatia refers to "gatherings" or "assemblies" in the region. 3: A common greeting formula found also in Rom 1.7; 1 Cor 1.3; 2 Cor 1.2. 4: For our sins, Paul does not clearly construe Christ's death as an atoning sacrifice, as it later comes to be understood. The language here suggests that Christ is pivotal for establishing a new way of dealing with sin. The present evil age draws an antagonistic relationship with outsiders and alludes to the promise of a new age right on the horizon. Apocalyptic expectations about the imminent return of Christ and a time of judgment frame Paul's arguments here as in his other letters.

1.6–2.14: A recapitulation of Paul's life and ministry. The earliest and best historical source for the movement (or set of movements) that will later come to be known as "Christianity." Unlike Acts, which presents a picture of harmony and agreement among the early leaders, Paul suggests relatively prickly meetings with others that sometimes became openly hostile.

1.6–9: Paul rebukes the Galatians. 6: Instead of the standard praise and thanksgiving to those addressed at the opening of the letter (cf. Rom 1.8–15; 1 Cor 1.4–9), Paul charges the Galatians with deserting the one who called you, that is, God (or God through Christ). Paul implies that they stand behind his teachings and guarantee their authenticity. A different gospel, the Galatians have accepted teachings that are not compatible with Paul's true and legitimate instruction. 8–9: Even if an angel from heaven revealed another teaching, that angelic gospel would still be false. The idea that lesser deities (or angels) might act as mediators of divine teachings also appears in 3.19 and was common in folk religions of Asia Minor.

or an angel^a from heaven should proclaim to you a gospel contrary to what we proclaimed to you, let that one be accursed! ⁹As we have said before, so now I repeat, if anyone proclaims to you a gospel contrary to what you received, let that one be accursed!

¹⁰Am I now seeking human approval, or God's approval? Or am I trying to please people? If I were still pleasing people, I would not be a servant^b of Christ.

¹¹For I want you to know, brothers and sisters,^c that the gospel that was proclaimed by me is not of human origin; ¹²for I did not receive it from a human source, nor was I taught it, but I received it through a revelation of Jesus Christ.

¹³You have heard, no doubt, of my earlier life in Judaism. I was violently persecuting the church of God and was trying to destroy it. ¹⁴I advanced in Judaism beyond many among my people of the same age, for I was far more zealous for the traditions of my ancestors. ¹⁵But when God, who had set me apart before I was born and called me through his grace, was pleased ¹⁶to reveal his Son to me,^d so that I might proclaim him among the Gentiles, I did not confer with any human being, ¹⁷nor did I go up to Jerusalem to those who were already apostles before me, but I went away at once into Arabia, and afterwards I returned to Damascus.

¹⁸Then after three years I did go up to Jerusalem to visit Cephas and stayed with him fifteen days; ¹⁹but I did not see any other apostle except James the Lord's brother. ²⁰In what I am writing to you, before God, I do not lie! ²¹Then I went into the regions of Syria and Cilicia, ²²and I was still unknown by sight to the churches of Judea that are in Christ; ²³they only heard it said, "The one who formerly was persecuting us is now proclaiming the faith he once tried to destroy." ²⁴And they glorified God because of me.

2 Then after fourteen years I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, taking Titus along with me. ²I went up in response to a revelation. Then I laid before them (though only in a private meeting with the acknowledged leaders) the gospel that I proclaim among the Gentiles, in order to make sure that I was not running, or had not run, in vain. ³But even Titus, who was with me, was not compelled to be circumcised, though he was a Greek. ⁴But because of false believers^e

^a Or a messenger

^b Gk slave

^c Gk brothers

^d Gk in me

^e Gk false brothers

1.10–12: Paul again defends his teachings as authoritative. Paul states that his teaching was directly revealed to him by Jesus Christ, implying that other teachings are of lesser value because they are of human origin.

1.13–24: Paul's call, early work among the Gentiles, and conflicts with others. 13–14: Cf. Phil 3.4–6. 15–16: Paul recounts a divine intervention that reorients his understanding of God's plan for history and his own place within it. Language such as set . . . born is similar to prophetic call-narratives; cf. Isa 49.1; Jer 1.5. To me (lit., "in me"), links the ideas that Christ is revealed to Paul with the gospel's proclamation to the Gentiles. 17: Arabia, most likely the Nabatean kingdom in Transjordan, whose capital was Petra. The geographic details establish Paul's distance from Jerusalem. 18: It is unclear whether the three years are to be counted from Paul's call or from his return to Damascus. Cephas, the Aramaic equivalent of "Peter" (Gk "Petros"; both names mean "rock") and the form of the name used by Paul. 19: James, the brother of Jesus; see 1 Cor 15.7; Mk 6.3; Mt 13.55; Acts 13.55; 15.13; 21.18–19. 21: Syria, a district in the northeast corner of the Mediterranean; its capital Antioch was one of the largest and wealthiest in the Roman Empire. It was combined into a single province with the neighboring territory of Cilicia, on the southeast coast of Asia Minor. The capital of Cilicia was Tarsus, reportedly Paul's hometown (Acts 9.11). 22–24: Paul distances himself from the Judean communities despite claiming to be their equal as an apostle (cf. 1 Cor 15.8–11).

2.1–10: Paul meets with the Jerusalem leaders. The relationship of this visit with that described in Acts 15.1–29 is uncertain. 1–2: This second visit is instigated by divine revelation, again suggesting Paul's independence as an apostle. Whether the fourteen years are to be counted from his call or his first Jerusalem visit (1.18–19) is unclear. Two co-workers are named: Barnabas (also in 2.9) and Titus, an uncircumcised Gentile (see 2 Cor 2.13; 7.6,13,14; 8.6,16,23; 12.18). 3–5: Hinting at future conflicts, Paul charges that false believers surreptitiously disrupted the meeting by challenging his teachings. The remark about Titus's uncircumcision and the later

Places mentioned in Galatians 1–2

secretly brought in, who slipped in to spy on the freedom we have in Christ Jesus, so that they might enslave us—⁵ we did not submit to them even for a moment, so that the truth of the gospel might always remain with you. ⁶ And from those who were supposed to be acknowledged leaders (what they actually were makes no difference to me; God shows no partiality)—those leaders contributed nothing to me. ⁷ On the contrary, when they saw that I had been entrusted with the gospel for the uncircumcised, just as Peter had been entrusted with the gospel for the circumcised ⁸ (for he who worked through Peter making him an apostle to the circumcised also worked through me in sending me to the Gentiles), ⁹ and when James and Cephas and John, who were acknowledged pillars, recognized the grace that had been given to me, they gave to Barnabas and me the right hand of fellowship, agreeing that we should go to the Gentiles and they to the circum-conflict at Antioch (vv. 11–14) suggest that the status of Gentiles was a matter of dispute. 6–9: Paul seems to hedge on the authority of the Jerusalem leaders but portrays their interactions as conciliatory. Uncircumcised . . . circumcised, Gentiles and Jews (or Judeans). Paul asserts that the Jerusalem leaders agree with him in distinguishing between their outreach to the Jews and his to the Gentiles, thus supporting his decisions concerning cised.¹⁰ They asked only one thing, that we remember the poor, which was actually what I was^a eager to do.

¹¹ But when Cephas came to Antioch, I opposed him to his face, because he stood self-condemned; ¹² for until certain people came from James, he used to eat with the Gentiles. But after they came, he drew back and kept himself separate for fear of the circumcision faction. ¹³ And the other Jews joined him in this hypocrisy, so that even Barnabas was led astray by their hypocrisy. ¹⁴ But when I saw that they were not acting consistently with the truth of the gospel, I said to Cephas before them all, “If you, though a Jew, live like a Gentile and not like a Jew, how can you compel the Gentiles to live like Jews?”^b

¹⁵ We ourselves are Jews by birth and not Gentile sinners; ¹⁶ yet we know that a person is justified^c not by the works of the law but through faith in Jesus Christ.^d And we have come to believe in Christ Jesus, so that we might be justified by faith in Christ,^e and not by doing the works of the law, because no one will be justified by the works of the law. ¹⁷ But if, in our effort to be justified in Christ, we ourselves have been found to be sinners, is Christ then a servant of sin? Certainly not! ¹⁸ But if I build up again the very things that I once tore down, then I demonstrate that I am a transgressor. ¹⁹ For through the law I died to the law, so that I might live to God. I

^a Or had been

^b Some interpreters hold that the quotation extends into the following paragraph

^c Or reckoned as righteous; and so elsewhere

^d Or the faith of Jesus Christ

^e Or the faith of Christ

Gentile believers. 10: The poor could allude to impoverished members of the movement. Josephus (Ant. 20.51) mentions a famine in 46/48 CE. It could also refer to some subgroup needing financial support. Paul elsewhere collects money to be sent to Jerusalem (Rom 15.25–29; 2 Cor 8.1–9.15); 1 Cor 16.1–3 mentions Galatia specifically.

2.11–14: Paul reports a confrontation with Peter at Antioch. The issue of table-fellowship raised questions about the status of Gentiles and Jews. Sharing, or not sharing, a meal typically indicated acceptance or non-acceptance. Jewish writers sometimes stereotyped Gentiles as immoral, especially sexually (see Rom 1.18–32; 1 Thess 4.5), emphasizing their alienation from the true God and their worship of idols or false gods. Many also maintain that, in spite of this alienation, the Gentiles will eventually join in worshiping the true God, though they do not agree on precisely when or how this might happen. Paul’s statements throughout Galatians suggest disagreement on these points, particularly the issue of whether Gentiles should be circumcised or have a second-class status within the movement. 12: The people . . . from James, presumably messengers from the Jerusalem apostles who insist that Gentile Christ-followers have a lesser status. Paul will portray this division as a matter of keeping or not keeping “the law” (2.16), but it is unclear why he construes eating with Gentiles in this way. Some texts show a concern with violating dietary laws (Dan 1.8–16; Tob 1.10–13; Jdt 10.5; Letter of Aristeas 142), but there are no explicit prohibitions against eating with Gentiles in the extant literature. 14: Paul charges Peter with hypocritical behavior and here casts the issue as living “like Jews” instead of “like Gentiles.”

2.15–21: Jews and Gentiles are both justified through Christ. These verses fit within a larger set of arguments about the status of Gentiles and Jews in God’s unfolding plan for human and cosmic history. Later interpreters see terms such as “works,” “law,” “justification,” and “faith” as signs pointing to major theological issues, but it remains unclear why Paul distinguishes between works of the law and justification by faith here. 15: Jews by birth, Paul identifies himself with Peter, insisting that they are Jewish by birth and that they agree on what God demands of both Jews and Gentiles in the new era that has dawned with Christ. Gentile sinners, see 2.11–14n. 16: By works Paul probably means Jewish practices that his rivals are insisting that Gentiles must observe. Whatever they are precisely, he deems them irrelevant to the larger issue of finding favor with God. Paul emphasizes Jesus’s faithfulness and the radical transformation made possible by Christ’s “pneuma.” Faith in Jesus Christ, better “the faithfulness of Jesus Christ.” This translation frames the issue in terms of the remarkable things that Christ has done (2.20; 3.22; Rom 3.22,26; Phil 3.9), not the convictions of individual believers. Christ’s faithfulness alludes to Christ’s trusting obedience to God, even to the point of death (1.4; Rom 5.18–19; Phil 2.8). 17: Paul suggests an ironic objection to his view. 18: Things that I once tore down (i.e., observance of the law) as the only path for Gentiles. 19: Through the law I died to the law, it is unclear how Paul understands the different roles played by “law” here, but he stresses a new, radical kind of transformation that reorients him have been crucified with Christ;²⁰ and it is no longer I who live, but it is Christ who lives in me. And the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God,^a who loved me and gave himself for me.²¹ I do not nullify the grace of God; for if justification^b comes through the law, then Christ died for nothing.

3 You foolish Galatians! Who has bewitched you? It was before your eyes that Jesus Christ was publicly exhibited as crucified! ²The only thing I want to learn from you is this: Did you receive the Spirit by doing the works of the law or by believing what you heard? ³Are you so foolish? Having started with the Spirit, are you now ending with the flesh? ⁴Did you experience so much for nothing?—if it really was for nothing. ⁵Well then, does God^c supply you with the Spirit and work miracles among you by your doing the works of the law, or by your believing what you heard?

⁶Just as Abraham “believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness,” ⁷so, you see, those who believe are the descendants of Abraham. ⁸And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the Gentiles by faith, declared the gospel beforehand to Abraham, saying, “All the Gentiles shall be blessed in you.”⁹ For this reason, those who believe are blessed with Abraham who believed.

¹⁰For all who rely on the works of the law are under a curse; for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who does not observe and obey all the things written in the book of the law.”

¹¹Now it is evident that no one is justified before God by the law; for “The one who is righteous will live by faith.”^d ¹²But the law does not rest on faith; on the contrary, “Whoever does the works of the law^e will live by them.” ¹³Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us—for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who hangs on a tree”—¹⁴in order that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.

^a Or by the faith of the Son of God

^b Or righteousness

^c Gk he

^d Or The one who is righteous through faith will live

^e Gk does them

around a singular good (see also Phil 3.7–11). Crucified with Christ, the death and resurrection of Christ serve as an analogy for Paul’s own transformation (see also Phil 3.8); this is applied to Christ-followers in 5.24; 6.14; Rom 6.5–11; cf. 2 Cor 4.10–12. 20: Christ who lives in me, suggests a material transformation that Paul elsewhere connects with the “pneuma” (“Spirit”) of Christ; see 4.5–6; Rom 8.9–11; 1 Cor 2.13–16; 15.20–29,35–54; 2 Cor 1.22. Gave himself for me, see 1.4n.

3.1–5: Paul again addresses his Gentile audience. Paul asks the Galatians whether they received the gift of the “Spirit” (Gk “pneuma”; see 2.20n.) through following practices of the Jewish law, or through accepting the gospel proclaimed by Paul. 1: Jesus Christ was publicly exhibited as crucified, most likely a reference to Paul’s graphic description of Jesus’s crucifixion. 3: Ending with the flesh, an oblique reference to circumcision. Paul often opposes “pneuma” to “flesh” (e.g., 4.29; 5.16–25; 6.8; Rom 8.1–12; 3.1; 1 Cor 15.35–55; Phil 3.2–6). He typically associates the “pneuma” of Christ with heavenly, divine, and eternal things while the flesh is associated with mortal bodies and with passions and desires that cause immorality and vice (see especially 5.16–6.10; Rom 1.26,28; 7.5). 5: Miracles are associated with Paul’s teaching activity and with the presence of the “pneuma” among his followers (Rom 15.19; 1 Cor 12.10; 2 Cor 12.12).

3.6–14: Abraham as a model of trusting obedience. Paul portrays Abraham’s faithful obedience as a model for Gentiles. The promises to Abraham also link together God’s plan for human history with the Gentile Christ-followers who can now inherit the promises. Abraham also appears as a model in Rom 4. 6: Paul appropriates Gen 15.6 here and in Rom 4.3. Those who share this trusting loyalty (believe) are now deemed children of Abraham. 8: The blessings promised to Abraham (Gen 12.3; 18.18; 22.18) are now realized among Paul’s Gentiles 10: Paul’s statements about the “curse” of the law draw on Deut 27.26. In Paul’s time the general Jewish view was that perfect fulfillment of the law was not a requirement of belonging to God’s covenant people, but observance of the law expressed faithfulness to God’s covenant. It sounds strange for Paul to suggest that the law demands perfect obedience. 11–12: Quoting Hab 2.4 (as in Rom 1.17), Paul again makes faithful obedience and loyalty the key to divine reward. By contrast, the law appears ill-suited for this purpose. 13–14: Paul again draws

¹⁵ Brothers and sisters,^a I give an example from daily life: once a person's will^b has been ratified, no one adds to it or annuls it. ¹⁶ Now the promises were made to Abraham and to his offspring;^c it does not say, "And to offsprings,"^d as of many; but it says, "And to your offspring,"^c that is, to one person, who is Christ. ¹⁷ My point is this: the law, which came four hundred thirty years later, does not annul a covenant previously ratified by God, so as to nullify the promise. ¹⁸ For if the inheritance comes from the law, it no longer comes from the promise; but God granted it to Abraham through the promise. ¹⁹ Why then the law? It was added because of transgressions, until the offspring^c would come to whom the promise had been made; and it was ordained through angels by a mediator. ²⁰ Now a mediator involves more than one party; but God is one.

²¹ Is the law then opposed to the promises of God? Certainly not! For if a law had been given that could make alive, then righteousness would indeed come through the law.

²² But the scripture has imprisoned all things under the power of sin, so that what was promised through faith in Jesus Christ^e might be given to those who believe.

²³ Now before faith came, we were imprisoned and guarded under the law until faith would be revealed. ²⁴ Therefore the law was our disciplinarian until Christ came, so that we might be justified by faith. ²⁵ But now that faith has come, we are no longer subject to a disciplinarian, ²⁶ for in Christ Jesus you are

^a Gk Brothers

^b Or covenant (as in verse 17)

^c Gk seed

^d Gk seeds

^e Or through the faith of Jesus Christ

connections between keeping the law and being under a curse, this time quoting Deut 21.23 to envision the crucifixion as a curse. Christ's death clears the way so that the promises to Abraham can be realized among the Gentiles. As elsewhere, Paul suggests that this new situation involves the gifts of Christ's "pneuma" (Spirit) and trusting loyalty (Gk "pistis," faith).

3.15–18: The inheritance of Abraham. Paul insists that Christ is the singular heir of Abraham's promises and that these promises have priority over the law, which came centuries later (cf. Rom 5.13–14). 15: Will, the Gk means "covenant" as well as a person's document of bequest (see textual note b). 16: Offspring, lit., "seed" (see textual notes c and d). Paul uses the same Greek word as the Septuagint (LXX) text of Genesis where God makes promises to Abraham (Gen 12.7; 15.5; 17.8; 22.17). Paul contrasts the singular "seed" with the common (and in his view mistaken) interpretation of it as a plural, "seeds." In Rom 4.16, by contrast, he interprets the "seed" as plural (NRSV "descendants"). 17–18: Paul distinguishes the promises from the giving of the law and connects the inheritance of the Gentiles with the former. His time frame of four hundred thirty years from Abraham to the giving of the law follows the LXX of Ex 12.40.

3.19–25: The purpose of the law of Moses. The law does not replace God's promise to Abraham but is a temporary means of discipline for God's people. 19: Added because of transgressions allows several interpretations: It can mean to make aware of sin (Rom 3.20; 7.7); it can also carry the sense of restraining transgressions (vv. 23–25); and it can also signify that the law provoked sin (Rom 5.20; 7.7–12). Ordained through angels some Jewish traditions claim that the Sinai law was delivered by divine mediators, not directly by God; see Deut 33.2 (LXX); Jub. 1.26–2.1; Josephus, Ant. 15.136; cf. Acts 7.38,53; Heb 2.2. A mediator, Moses (see Lev 26.46; Num 36.13). 20: An obscure verse that seems to play the mediator figure off against the idea of one, unique God; it perhaps implies that the new situation with Christ allows for more direct, unmediated access to God. 21–22: Paul raises the possible objection that the law is at odds with the promises (see 2.19–20; Rom 3.31), only to dismiss it. The promises which come through Christ are life-giving, perhaps alluding to the immortal destiny of the Christ-elect. 22: Imprisoned . . . under the power of sin, lit., "the scripture confined all things under sin." This role of the law has negative connotations, but Paul construed this as a necessary prelude to the coming of Christ. Faith in Jesus Christ, better "faith of Jesus Christ" (see textual note e), emphasizes Jesus's faith or trusting loyalty as that basis for the promise; this promise of sonship accrues to the elect who believe, trust, and are loyal; see 2.16n. 24–25: The law is construed as a disciplinarian, necessary only during early phases of life. Disciplinarian, a slave who accompanied a boy to school and who often punished him for bad behavior.

3.26–29: Baptism into Christ. Through a ritual washing, the Christ-elect come to participate "in Christ" and are made into offspring of Abraham, thus fulfilling the promises. Paul may be recalling a formula used during all children of God through faith.²⁷ As many of you as were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ.²⁸ There is no longer Jew or Greek, there is no longer slave or free, there is no longer male and female; for all of you are one in Christ Jesus.²⁹ And if you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's offspring,^a heirs according to the promise.

4 My point is this: heirs, as long as they are minors, are no better than slaves, though they are the owners of all the property;² but they remain under guardians and trustees until the date set by the father.³ So with us; while we were minors, we were enslaved to the elemental spirits^b of the world.⁴ But when the fullness of time had come, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under the law,⁵ in order to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as children.⁶ And because you are children, God has sent the Spirit of his Son into our^c hearts, crying, "Abba!^d Father!"⁷ So you are no longer a slave but a child, and if a child then also an heir, through God.^e

⁸ Formerly, when you did not know God, you were enslaved to beings that by nature are not gods.⁹ Now, however, that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how can you turn back again to the weak and beggarly elemental spirits?^f How can you want to be enslaved to them again?¹⁰ You are observing special days, and months, and seasons, and years.¹¹ I am afraid that my work for you may have been wasted.

¹² Friends,^g I beg you, become as I am, for I also have become as you are. You have done me no wrong.¹³ You know that it was because of a physical infirmity that I first announced the gospel to you;¹⁴ though my condition put

^a Gk seed

^b Or the rudiments

^c Other ancient authorities read your

^d Aramaic for Father

^e Other ancient authorities read an heir of God through Christ

^f Or beggarly rudiments

^g Gk Brothers

baptism in vv. 26–28. 26: The Christ-elect become children of God and therefore coheirs with Christ (see also Rom 8.14–17). 27: This ritual produces a radical transformation (Rom 6.3–11). Clothed . . . with Christ, an analogy for the changed physical or social-psychological reality of the baptized; see also Rom 13.14. 28: Paul here insists that participation "in Christ" obviates common social classifications: Jew/Greek, slave/free, and male/female. It is unclear how this relates practically to social distinctions among the Christ-elect, whether in the present or in an imagined future. A similar erasure of social distinctions appears in 1 Cor 12.13 (cf. Col 3.9–11) without the phrase male and female that is taken from Gen 1.27. 29: Christ alone is Abraham's offspring or "seed" (see 3.16n.), but now Paul's elect can be united with him through ritual washing.

4.1–7: The elect become children of God through Christ. 1–2: Paul uses the analogy of a guardian (typically a slave) to explain the role of the law. During their earlier, immature phase God's elect had the law as a guardian until the appropriate time arrived for a transition of relationships. This analogy suggests that the earlier slave-like submission to the law was necessary and inevitable. 3: Elemental spirits of the world, lit., "elements (Gk "stoicheia") of the cosmos." "Stoicheia" can refer to the four elements (earth, water, air, and fire) as well as components or parts of some broader system or whole. Many scholars construe these as malevolent lesser beings (as suggested by the NRSV "elemental spirits"), but this is unlikely. Taking these "stoicheia" as parts of the cosmos that the Gentiles (mistakenly) worship fits with other polemics against idolatry (see v. 8; cf. Rom 1.23,25; Wis 13.3; Philo, Opif. 7; De spec. leg. 2.55). 4: Paul stresses Jesus's human birth and responsibility to the law, as if it connects to his mission to rescue others. 6–7: Abba, see textual note d; Rom 8.15. The Christ-elect receive the "pneuma" (Spirit) inside their bodies and are adopted as sons of God.

4.8–10: The Galatians risk returning to their former slave status. Paul construes keeping the law (at least in the ways his rivals would have them do) in this new, changed situation as equivalent to returning to their old ways, which involved enslavement and submission to weak and illegitimate gods. 9: Elemental spirits, see 4.3n. 10–11: Days, months, and seasons suggests that the Galatians may be observing Jewish or other festivals.

4.12–20: Paul reminds the Galatians of their close relationship. 12: Paul uses common friendship tropes to create a picture of warm, mutual relationships between himself and the Galatians. The language of imitation appears elsewhere in his letters (1 Thess 1.6; 1 Cor 4.16; 11.1; Phil 3.17) but without the emphasis on mutuality here (but see 1 Cor 9.21). 13–15: Paul may be alluding to earlier visits to Galatia. The precise nature of the infirm-

you to the test, you did not scorn or despise me, but welcomed me as an angel of God, as Christ Jesus. ¹⁵ What has become of the goodwill you felt? For I testify that, had it been possible, you would have torn out your eyes and given them to me. ¹⁶ Have I now become your enemy by telling you the truth? ¹⁷ They make much of you, but for no good purpose; they want to exclude you, so that you may make much of them. ¹⁸ It is good to be made much of for a good purpose at all times, and not only when I am present with you. ¹⁹ My little children, for whom I am again in the pain of childbirth until Christ is formed in you, ²⁰ I wish I were present with you now and could change my tone, for I am perplexed about you.

²¹ Tell me, you who desire to be subject to the law, will you not listen to the law? ²² For it is written that Abraham had two sons, one by a slave woman and the other by a free woman. ²³ One, the child of the slave, was born according to the flesh; the other, the child of the free woman, was born through the promise. ²⁴ Now this is an allegory: these women are two covenants. One woman, in fact, is Hagar, from Mount Sinai, bearing children for slavery. ²⁵ Now Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia^a and corresponds to the present Jerusalem, for she is in slavery with her children. ²⁶ But the other woman corresponds to the Jerusalem above; she is free, and she is our mother. ²⁷ For it is written, “Rejoice, you childless one, you who bear no children, burst into song and shout, you who endure no birth pangs;

for the children of the desolate woman are more numerous than the children of the one who is married.”

²⁸ Now you,^b my friends,^c are children of the promise, like Isaac. ²⁹ But just as at that time the child who was born according to the flesh persecuted the child who was born according to the Spirit, so it is now also. ³⁰ But what does the scripture say? “Drive out the slave and her child; for the child of the slave will not share the inheritance with the child of the free woman.” ³¹ So then, friends,^c we are children, not of the slave but of the free woman. ¹ For freedom Christ has set us free. Stand firm, therefore, and do not submit again to a yoke of slavery.

^a Other ancient authorities read For Sinai is a mountain in Arabia

^b Other ancient authorities read we

^c Gk brothers

mity is not known (see 6.17; 2 Cor 11.23–27; 12.7–10), but it exemplifies the care and self-sacrifice that formerly characterized their relationship. 16–17: Paul shifts to a tone of sharp rebuke, defends his own truth-telling, and launches another high-pitched attack on his alleged competitors and opponents. 17: They, i.e., Paul’s rivals, are depicted as self-interested, insincere, and aiming to exclude Paul’s Christ-elect in some way. 19: The birth imagery suggests that the Christ-elect of Galatia remain immature and unformed. Paul elsewhere uses parent/child analogies to characterize his addressees as in need of his instruction (1 Cor 4.14; 2 Cor 6.13; 1 Thess 2.11).

4.21–5.1: The allegory of Hagar and Sarah. A polemically charged allegory that seems to cast non-Christ-following Jews in a harshly negative light. 21: The law, construed here as the entire Pentateuch/Torah. 22–23: Summarizes key points of the story in Gen 16.1–4,15; 21.1–7. 24–26: Allegory, lit., “these things are spoken allegorically.” Paul is familiar with traditions of allegorical interpretation, which treat texts as having nonliteral meanings that can be known by those with special learning and skill. Here the women stand for two types of covenants and, upending the story told in Genesis, Hagar stands for the old covenant associated with Sinai and with Jerusalem, while Sarah represents the heavenly covenant and the true Jerusalem above. 25: Now Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia (see textual note a). Paul is unique in identifying Hagar directly with Mount Sinai, where the law was given to Israel. This negative identification probably targets Jews who are not part of the Christ-movement; Paul aims to associate his rivals with them in some way. 26: The Jerusalem above . . . our mother, images of a heavenly Jerusalem appear in some later texts, but Paul often imagines the heavens as the true home of his Christ-elect (1 Thess 4.15–17; 1 Cor 15.12–57; 2 Cor 4.16–5.5; Phil 3.14–21) 27: Paul uses language from Isa 54.1 to celebrate the Christ-elect as the true children of Sarah; see also Isa 51.2–3. 29–30: Gen 21.9–10 does not explicitly describe Ishmael persecuting Isaac; for Paul, however, this conflict becomes the basis for an attack on his rivals. 5:1 The allegory leads to exhortations about slavery versus freedom, flesh versus spirit (see 4.29).

² Listen! I, Paul, am telling you that if you let yourselves be circumcised, Christ will be of no benefit to you. ³ Once again I testify to every man who lets himself be circumcised that he is obliged to obey the entire law. ⁴ You who want to be justified by the law have cut yourselves off from Christ; you have fallen away from grace. ⁵ For through the Spirit, by faith, we eagerly wait for the hope of righteousness. ⁶ For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision nor uncircumcision counts for anything; the only thing that counts is faith working^a through love.

⁷ You were running well; who prevented you from obeying the truth? ⁸ Such persuasion does not come from the one who calls you. ⁹ A little yeast leavens the whole batch of dough. ¹⁰ I am confident about you in the Lord that you will not think otherwise. But whoever it is that is confusing you will pay the penalty. ¹¹ But my friends,^b why am I still being persecuted if I am still preaching circumcision? In that case the offense of the cross has been removed. ¹² I wish those who unsettle you would castrate themselves!

¹³ For you were called to freedom, brothers and sisters;^b only do not use your freedom as an opportunity for self-indulgence,^c but through love become slaves to one another. ¹⁴ For the whole law is summed up in a single commandment, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.” ¹⁵ If, however, you bite and devour one another, take care that you are not consumed by one another.

¹⁶ Live by the Spirit, I say, and do not gratify the desires of the flesh. ¹⁷ For what the flesh desires is opposed to the Spirit, and what the Spirit desires is opposed to the flesh; for these are opposed to each other, to prevent you from doing what you want. ¹⁸ But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not subject to the law. ¹⁹ Now the works

^a Or made effective

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk the flesh

5.2–12: Paul’s case against circumcision. A Gentile who accepts circumcision is seeking righteousness in the wrong way. 2–5: Paul states unequivocally that circumcision will exclude Gentiles from the Christ-community and tie them to the demands of the law, which they cannot keep (see 2.16; 3.10–12). 6: Neither circumcision nor uncircumcision, seeming to contradict the position stated in vv. 2–5, circumcision now appears to be a matter of indifference, a point that is repeated again in 6.15 (see also 1 Cor 7.19). Among the elect, the main thing is “faith made effective through love” (see textual note a). This gives trusting obedience (Gk “pistis,” faith) a passive sense because it is instigated through love, presumably God’s love. 7–8: The Galatians are deserting the true teachings of Paul. His rivals attempt to pervert the truth, which comes from The one who calls you, God through Christ. 9: Paul uses the same saying in 1 Cor 5.6. 10: Paul continues to drive a wedge between his Galatian followers and the rivals and competitors who actively seek to harm them. 11: If I am still preaching circumcision, raises a possible objection that Paul’s teachings about circumcision have been inconsistent. It is unclear what role the offense of the cross plays in this subargument, but it suggests Paul’s alienation and persecution by others (see 1 Cor 1.18–25). 12: Paul’s polemic about his competitors comes to an apex of bitter sarcasm: his opponents should castrate themselves rather than seek to mutilate the genitals of others; see also Phil 3.2.

5.13–6.10: Ethics among the Christ-elect. In a shift of topic and tone, Paul presents a series of moral teachings that center on mutuality and solidarity.

5.13–26: The constraints on freedom among the elect. 13: Paul again uses freedom/slavery analogies. Self-indulgence, lit., “the flesh,” which Paul associates negatively with self-directed desires. The alternative is enslavement to one another for the sake of love; its opposite is strife and conflict (see v. 15). Love, mutuality, and solidarity are common ethical ideals in Stoic traditions, but Paul confines them to the elect here and in Phil 2.2–4; Rom 13.8–10; 14.7–23. 14: Returning to the law, Paul insists that the Christ-elect fulfill the law through this ethic of solidarity, here construed in terms of the command to love one’s neighbor, quoting Lev 19.18 (also in Rom 13.8–10). 16–17: The life of the “pneuma” (Spirit) requires alienation from the desires of the flesh (v. 13n.; 3.3; Rom 8.1–17; cf. Rom 7.14–24), which are antithetical to the “pneuma.” Greek moral philosophy considered passions and desires the root cause of immorality. Platonic discussions of self-mastery associate these irrational (bad) desires with the flesh and body, as Paul does here; see also Rom 1.24,26; 6.12–13; 7.5; 13.13–14; 1 Cor 9.24–27. 18: Not subject to the law, although v. 14 suggests that they may fulfill it in some way. 19–23: Catalogues of the flesh are obvious: fornication, impurity, licentiousness,²⁰ idolatry, sorcery, enmities, strife, jealousy, anger, quarrels, dissensions, factions,²¹ envy,^a drunkenness, carousing, and things like these. I am warning you, as I warned you before: those who do such things will not inherit the kingdom of God.

²²By contrast, the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness,²³ gentleness, and self-control. There is no law against such things.²⁴ And those who belong to Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with its passions and desires.²⁵ If we live by the Spirit, let us also be guided by the Spirit.²⁶ Let us not become conceited, competing against one another, envying one another.

6 My friends,^b if anyone is detected in a transgression, you who have received the Spirit should restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness. Take care that you yourselves are not tempted.² Bear one another's burdens, and in this way you will fulfill^c the law of Christ.³ For if those who are nothing think they are something, they deceive themselves.⁴ All must test their own work; then that work, rather than their neighbor's work, will become a cause for pride.⁵ For all must carry their own loads.

⁶Those who are taught the word must share in all good things with their teacher.

⁷Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for you reap whatever you sow.⁸ If you sow to your own flesh, you will reap corruption from the flesh; but if you sow to the Spirit, you will reap eternal life from the Spirit.

⁹So let us not grow weary in doing what is right, for we will reap at harvest time, if we do not give up.¹⁰ So then, whenever we have an opportunity, let us work for the good of all, and especially for those of the family of faith.

¹¹See what large letters I make when I am writing in my own hand!¹² It is those who want to make a good showing in the flesh that try to compel you to be circumcised—only that they may not be persecuted for the cross of Christ.¹³ Even the circumcised do not themselves obey the law, but they want you to be circumcised so that they may boast about your flesh.¹⁴ May I never boast of anything except the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which^d the world has been crucified to me,

^a Other ancient authorities add murder

^b Gk Brothers

^c Other ancient authorities read in this way fulfill

^d Or through whom

of vices and virtues were commonly used in Greco-Roman ethical instruction and were adapted by early Christian writers; see Rom 1.29–31; 1 Cor 6.9–10; 2 Cor 6.6–7; 12.20–21; in other early Christian literature, see Col 3.5–14; Mk 7.21–23; Mt 15.19; 1 Tim 1.9–10; 6.11; 2 Tim 3.2–5; 1 Pet 2.1; 4.3; 2 Pet 1.5–7; Rev 21.8; 22.15. Paul's virtue and vice lists are relatively conventional but he adds language about idolatry, the kingdom of God, the "pneuma" ("Spirit"), and belonging to Christ. 24: The use of crucifixion as an analogy for controlling the passions is distinctive. Paul elsewhere uses death metaphors to convey domination and control (7.7–25), as does Philo (e.g., De spec. leg. 1.105–107; 2.78; Posterity 73).

6.1–10: Paul exhorts the Galatians about ethical conduct. 1: The stress is on mutuality and care for others who share the "pneuma" (Spirit) of Christ; see also Rom 15.1–7. 2: Here the Gentiles seem to fulfill the law in some way; see also 5.14; 1 Cor 9.21; Rom 8.2. 3–5: Paul again warns that self-directed behavior will lead to a bad outcome at the impending judgment. 6: Cf. 1 Cor 9.14. 7–9: Paul again warns about the ways of the flesh versus "pneuma" (Spirit), here emphasizing the possible reward of eternal life (see also Rom 8.5–8). 9: Not grow weary, see 2 Thess 3.13; in 2 Cor 4.1,16; Eph 3.13, the same verb is translated as "not lose heart." 10: The family of faith, lit., "members of the household of faithfulness."

6.11–18: Final warning about the dangers of rival teachers. A return to the polemical tone characteristic of the letter. 11: What large letters I make, Paul had dictated this letter to a secretary but writes the conclusion in his own hand; see 1 Cor 16.21; 2 Thess 3.17. 12–14: Paul paints an antagonistic picture of his rivals as boastful, as he does elsewhere (see Phil 3.2–4; Rom 2.17–24; 3.27; 4.2; 1 Cor 4.7; 2 Cor 11.12–13,18). He charges that their interest in circumcising the Gentiles stems from self-interested motives: to make a good showing in the flesh and to avoid persecution. They are also portrayed as hypocritical, as they do not obey the law themselves. Paul sums up his own teachings as boasting . . . in the cross; positive use of boasting language also appears in Rom 5.2–3,11; 1 Cor and I to the world. ¹⁵ For^a neither circumcision nor uncircumcision is anything; but a new creation is everything! ¹⁶ As for those who will follow this rule—peace be upon them, and mercy, and upon the Israel of God.

¹⁷ From now on, let no one make trouble for me; for I carry the marks of Jesus branded on my body.

¹⁸ May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, brothers and sisters.^b Amen.

^a Other ancient authorities add in Christ Jesus

^b Gk brothers

1.29–31; 2.2 15: See 5.6. New creation, the new mode of being that is made possible by the “pneuma” (“Spirit”), given to those who are “in Christ”; cf. 2 Cor 5.17; Rom 8.19–23. 16–18: A two-part blessing. Verse 16 has the form of a traditional Jewish blessing and is conditional, bestowed on those who follow Paul’s teaching; it is the counterpart to the curse in 1.8. The address brothers and sisters in v. 18 does not appear in the final blessing of Paul’s other letters and expresses the hope that the former warm relationship between the apostle and the community will be restored. 16: This rule is the teaching that Paul has advocated throughout the letter. Israel of God, a phrase unique to this verse, equivalent to the “true Israel,” i.e., those who follow Paul’s rule and not the teachings of his alleged rivals and opponents. 17: Marks of Jesus, perhaps the scars from injuries inflicted on Paul during his work as an apostle (2 Cor 6.4–5; 11.23–25). Paul may also be suggesting that his scars identify him as belonging to Christ like the brand marks on a slave. 18: Cf. Phil 4.23; Philem 25.

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE EPHESIANS

NAME AND CONTENTS

This letter is named for its apparent recipients (1.1), the Christian community in the city of Ephesus, a commercial center on the Aegean coast of Asia Minor, which served as the hub of Paul's missionary activity in the region (Acts 18–19). He also may have been imprisoned there in the early 50s CE (1 Cor 15.32; 16.8–9). The original text of what was later called "Ephesians" likely did not specify a geographical location for its recipients, as some early manuscripts and quotations in some early Christian writings lack the reference to Ephesus in 1.1 (see note a). Since the text does not address problems specific to a single congregation, some scholars think that Ephesians was a circular letter sent to a number of churches, perhaps in Asia Minor. Others, noting the similarities to the letter to the Colossians, believe the original recipients of this text were the churches of Hierapolis and Laodicea (see Col 4.13,16). Those who collected and edited Paul's letters in the late first century may have added "in Ephesus" to 1.1 in recognition of the key role Ephesus played in Paul's ministry.

The first chapter of Ephesians introduces nearly all the theological themes of the letter, and readers may find it helpful to keep this chapter in mind as they read the rest of Ephesians. The blessing of God in 1.3–14 gives a sweeping overview of God's plan for salvation, whose meaning is filled out with poetic grandeur in 2:1–3.13. The thanksgiving prayer (1.15–23) focuses upon how this plan should be realized in the present life of the church, themes that are developed in detail in 3.14–6.20. In sum, the letter is an evocative celebration of God's plan to unite all of creation under the lordship of Christ.

AUTHORSHIP, DATE OF COMPOSITION, HISTORICAL CONTEXT, AND LITERARY HISTORY

Significant differences between Ephesians and the letters ascribed to Paul with certainty (Rom, 1 Cor, 2 Cor, Gal, Phil, 1 Thess, Philem) raise questions about the identity of its author. Many important terms in Ephesians are not used by Paul elsewhere (e.g., "heavenly places," "dividing wall," "fellow citizen"), and some of Paul's characteristic terms and emphases are given new meaning (e.g., "church" as a universal rather than a local community) or are absent (e.g., "the Jews," "justification"). In addition, the verbose rhetorical style of Ephesians, especially the use of complex, long sentences (many of which have been divided in the NRSV), is not characteristic of Paul. Theological differences are also evident, especially the letter's emphasis on the experience of salvation in the present (1.3–12; 2.4–10) and the use of Greco-Roman household rules for ethical teaching (5.22–6.9); see further the Introduction to Colossians. A majority of scholars therefore hold that Ephesians is pseudonymous, written by a Jewish-Christian admirer of Paul who sought to apply Paul's thought to the situation of the church in the late first century, although some scholars hold that Paul composed this letter at the end of his career while imprisoned in Rome (see 3.1; 4.1). This latter position attributes different theological emphases to developments in Paul's thinking and the particulars of the situation addressed.

Numerous verbal parallels between the letters to the Ephesians and the Colossians (see the annotations) suggest a literary relationship between the two letters. If Paul were the author of both, they likely would have both been written in the late 50s; if Ephesians were written by a later follower of Paul, then he drew upon the established authority of the letter to the Colossians and modeled his composition after it. Ephesians also includes allusions to other Pauline letters—primarily Romans and 1 Corinthians—although they are not as precise and sustained as those to Colossians.

Establishing a historical context for Ephesians has proven extremely difficult. In contrast to many of Paul's letters and even to Colossians, Ephesians contains few hints of specific events or issues that might have triggered its composition. Since unity between Jews and Gentiles within the church is a major theme, some scholars think that the text is meant to address the alienation of Jewish followers of the Christian movement from their Gentile counterparts. Other scholars suggest external events, such as Roman persecution, as the impetus for the letter's composition. A more fruitful approach may be to employ a rhetorical analysis, paying close attention to how the author presents himself and his readers, especially his desire for their maturity as believers. This approach reveals that the author sees his readers as deficient in a number of key areas, including knowledge of God's plan for salvation, of the spiritual power at their disposal, and of the calling of the church as the body of Christ.

STRUCTURE

Ephesians begins with a greeting (1.1–2) and an introductory thanksgiving prayer (1.15–23) and ends with an epilogue (6.21–24), but it lacks many features typical of the Pauline letter form (see pp. 1611–12) and is better classified as a sermon. The text can be divided into two parts: theological teaching (chs 1–3) and ethical exhortation (chs 4–6). The first part focuses on the church as a new community in which Jews and Gentiles equally share in God's blessings. The second part is an appeal for the church to maintain that new unity and press on toward full maturity by rejecting their former lifestyle and displaying Christian values of truth, love, forgiveness, and sexual purity. However, rather than advocating a complete transformation of household relationships based on love, forgiveness, and mutual submission, the author's Christology is used to justify and Christianize the hierarchical structure of the ancient, idealized patriarchal family.

INTERPRETATION

In powerful poetic language drawn from early Christian hymns and the Jewish scriptures, Ephesians celebrates a vision of the universal church. According to God's eternal plan for humanity, Christ's death brought together Jews and Gentiles into a new, unified community: the Jewish law, which previously divided Jew from Gentile, was rendered irrelevant by the cross, and Christ thus reconciled both groups to each other and to God (2.14–16). Paul's role as the one who reveals this previously hidden plan for the salvation of all humankind is a recurring theme (3.1–12). Whether Ephesians is intended to encourage Gentiles to recognize their position as full partners in the church or whether Gentiles are being admonished to respect their Jewish fellow believers is not clear. According to Ephesians, human existence is beset by cosmic forces (1.21; 2.2; 3.10; 4.27; 6.11–12), some of them clearly malevolent. Christ has been given power over them, and through God's grace human beings are freed from their immoral and deceitful influences. The new life is one of knowledge and spiritual power, and the letter contains recurring contrasts of the old life with the new (2.1–6, 11–13, 19; 4.22–24; 5.8). The church must recognize Christ as its Lord and exemplar (4.12–16, 20–24; 5.1–2) and also its own exalted status as a spirit-filled community that brings the power and presence of God to the world (1.22–23; 2.22; 3.10, 19; 4.24). Conflict with cosmic forces continues (6.10–20), but the church looks forward to the complete reestablishment of God's sovereignty over creation (1.10) and the perfection of the church as the body of Christ (4.12–16). Because Ephesians describes the church in such universal and glorious terms, it has been used by theologians throughout the centuries to establish their own vision of the church and its mission.

The doctrine of recapitulation owes its name to the central verb in Eph 1.10 (Gk anakephalaio sasthai; here translated “to gather up”) and its content to Rom 5. First articulated by Irenaeus in the late second century, the doctrine posits that because Christ experienced all stages of human life as a new and perfect Adam, he is able to redeem all of human experience. The language of Ephesians also deeply influenced the Protestant emphasis on predestination (“chosen,” 1.4; “destined,” 1.5; “sealed,” 1.13) and substitutionary atonement (“redemption through his blood,” 1.7; “by the blood of Christ,” 2.13; “a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God,” 5.2).

Jennifer K. Berenson

SIMILAR PASSAGES IN COLOSSIANS AND EPHESIANS

EPHESIANS	COLOSSIANS
1.1–2	1.1–2
1.15–16	1.3–4,9
5.6	3.6
5.18–20	3.16–17
5.22	3.18

EPHESIANS	COLOSSIANS
5.25	3.19
6.1	3.20
6.5–9	3.22–25; 4.1
6.18–20	4.2–4
6.21–22	4.7–8

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God,

To the saints who are in Ephesus and are faithful^a in Christ Jesus:

² Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

³ Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in Christ with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places, ⁴ just as he chose us in Christ^b before the foundation of the world to be holy and blameless before him in love. ⁵ He destined us for adoption as his children through Jesus Christ, according to the good pleasure of his will, ⁶ to the praise of his glorious grace that he freely bestowed on us in the Beloved. ⁷ In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace ⁸ that he lavished on us. With all wisdom and insight ⁹ he has made known to us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure that he set forth in Christ, ¹⁰ as a plan for the fullness of time, to gather up all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth. ¹¹ In Christ we have also obtained an inheritance,^c having been destined according to the purpose of him who accomplishes all things according to his counsel and will, ¹² so that we, who were the first to set our hope on Christ, might live for the praise of his glory. ¹³ In him you also, when you had heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and had believed in him, were marked with the seal of the promised Holy Spirit; ¹⁴ this^d is the pledge of our inheritance toward redemption as God's own people, to the praise of his glory.

¹⁵ I have heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love^e toward all the saints, and for this reason ¹⁶ I do not cease to give thanks for you as I remember you in my prayers. ¹⁷ I pray that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and revelation as you come to know him, ¹⁸ so that, with the eyes of your heart enlightened, you may know what is the hope to which he has called you, what are the riches of his glorious inheritance among the saints, ¹⁹ and what is the immeasurable greatness of his power for us who believe, according to

^a Other ancient authorities lack in Ephesus, reading saints who are also faithful

^b Gk in him

^c Or been made a heritage

^d Other ancient authorities read who

^e Other ancient authorities lack and your love

1.1–2: Salutation (cf. Col 1.1–2). Apostle, see Rom 1.1n. By the will of God, see 3.2–13; Gal 1.11–17. Saints . . . faithful, emphasizing two foundations of Christian existence: holiness (see Col 1.2n.) and steadfast loyalty to Jesus. On Ephesus, see the Introduction. 2: A common Pauline greeting building upon conventional salutations in Gk (grace) and Heb (peace).

1.3–14: Blessing of God for his blessings to the church (cf. Rom 8.15–39) An extended praise of God based on a traditional Jewish prayer that enumerates God's actions on behalf of Israel (1 Kings 8.15,56; Lk 1.68–75). In Christ, a theme throughout this section, indicating Christ's mediation of divine blessings. In the heavenly places, anticipates the letter's interest in heavenly realities accessible in the present (1.20–23; 2.6–7; 3.11–12). 4: Chose us, the language of Israel's election as God's people (Deut 7.6–8) is used here for followers of the Christian movement. The foundation of the world, a reference to God's creation (Gen 1.1). 5: Adoption, a privileged status allowing intimacy and full inheritance rights (see 1.11–14; Rom 8.15–17; Gal 4.5). 6: Beloved, a title for Christ; cf. Mk 1.11; Col 1.13. 7: Redemption, release or ransom from slavery (Eph 1.21; 2.2; 6.10–17). His blood, Christ's death brings reconciliation with God. 9: Mystery, on Paul's use of this term, see Col 1:26–28n; here defined as the unification of the church and the cosmos (1:10,20–22; 3:1–13). 10: To gather up, literally, “sum up” or “to gather under one head.” 11: Inheritance, continuing the metaphor of adoption (1.5). 12: The first to set our hope on Christ, early Jewish followers of the Christian movement. 13: You also, Gentiles are now included in God's plan (2.11; 3.1). Promised Holy Spirit, Paul traces the promise of the Spirit to Abraham (Gal 3.14,22); other early Christian texts point to the prophet Joel (Joel 2.28–32; Acts 2.14–21) and the promise of Jesus (Lk 24.49; Jn 14.26; Acts 1.4–5). Seal, a sign of ownership and protection; see also 4.30. 14: Pledge, the same Gk word is translated “first installment” in 2 Cor 1.22.

1.15–23: Thanksgiving prayer for wisdom and power (cf. Col 1.3–14). 15: Faith . . . love, two central Christian virtues (1 Cor 13.13; 1 Thess 5.8; cf. Col 1.3–5). 17: Spirit of wisdom and revelation, the ability to understand God's purposes. 19–20: An emphatic assertion that the same power that raised Jesus is available to the church to live the working of his great power.²⁰ God^a put this power to work in Christ when he raised him from the dead and seated him at his right hand in the heavenly places,²¹ far above all rule and authority and power and dominion, and above every name that is named, not only in this age but also in the age to come.

²² And he has put all things under his feet and has made him the head over all things for the church,²³ which is his body, the fullness of him who fills all in all.

2 You were dead through the trespasses and sins² in which you once lived, following the course of this world, following the ruler of the power of the air, the spirit that is now at work among those who are disobedient.³ All of us once lived among them in the passions of our flesh, following the desires of flesh and senses, and we were by nature children of wrath, like everyone else.⁴ But God, who is rich in mercy, out of the great love with which he loved us⁵ even when we were dead through our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ^b—by grace you have been saved—⁶ and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus,⁷ so that in the ages to come he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus.

⁸ For by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not your own doing; it is the gift of God—⁹ not the result of works, so that no one may boast.¹⁰ For we are what he has made us, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand to be our way of life.

¹¹ So then, remember that at one time you Gentiles by birth,^c called “the uncircumcision” by those who are called “the circumcision”—a physical circumcision made in the flesh by human hands—¹² remember that you were at that time without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world.¹³ But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ.¹⁴ For he is our peace; in his flesh he has made both groups into one and has broken down the dividing wall, that

^a Gk He

^b Other ancient authorities read in Christ

^c Gk in the flesh

out its calling (cf. 2.6; 3.7,16,20). At his right hand, derived from Ps 110.1, a common early Christian description of Christ’s exaltation (Acts 2.34–35; Rom 8.34; Col 3.1; Heb 1.13; 8.1). 21: Rule . . . dominion, titles given to cosmic spiritual forces in ancient religious speculation (Col 1.16; cf. 1 Cor 15.20–28). Name, see Phil 2.9. 22: Under his feet, exaltation language derived from Ps 8.6 (1 Cor 15.27; Heb. 2.6–8). 22–23: Head . . . body, see Col 1.18n. The head-body metaphor, applied here to Christ and the church (see also Eph 4.12,15–16), is also found in speculation about the cosmos in Hellenistic, Jewish, and Gnostic thought. 23: Fullness, the church expresses God’s power and presence to the world; alternatively, the completion of the church by Christ (3.19; Col 1.19n; 2.9–10; see also Jer 23.24).

2.1–10: The old life contrasted with the new (cf. Col 1.21–23). 1–5: Formerly both Gentile (you) and Jew (all of us) habitually sinned and lacked God’s protection and blessings (were dead/children of wrath). 2: Course, literally “age,” a reference to the present as a period in which human life is pervaded and perverted by a malevolent spiritual force (the ruler . . . air; 6.10–17; see also Rom 6.12–13). 3: Children of wrath, those to be punished at the future judgment (1 Thess 5.4–10). 5, 8: By grace . . . saved, deliverance to a new life is due solely to God’s mercy and benevolence (1.7). 5–6: Made us alive . . . raised us . . . seated us, the new life is one of exaltation like Christ himself (1.19–20). 9: Works, individual achievement, not “works of the law” as in Gal 2.16. 10: Good works, the ethical way of life envisioned in God’s plan (1.4; 4.1; 1 Tim 6.18; Titus 2.14; 3.8). Prepared beforehand, see 1.4.

2.11–22: The unity of Jews and Gentiles in the church. 11: The uncircumcision, a derogatory term for Gentiles. The circumcision, generally Jews, but often used for those who required all followers of Jesus to obey the law of Moses (Acts 10.45; Gal 2.12; Col 4.11; cf. Phil 3.3). 12–13: You were . . . But now, another temporal contrast (2.1–5), focused on the Gentiles’ plight as aliens and strangers from Israel and God. 12: Covenants of promise, God promised Abraham (Gen 15.18; 17.2–8), Israel/Jacob (Gen 28.13–15), and David (2 Sam 7; Ps 89) his presence and protection (see Ps 105). 13: Far off . . . brought near, a spatial contrast symbolizing alienation and reconciliation (v. 17; cf. Isa 57.19). 14: Made both groups into one, Jews and Gentiles united in a new community (2.16). Dividing wall, the Jewish law; the image perhaps derives from the balustrade in the Jerusalem Temple, beyond which Gentiles is, the hostility between us.¹⁵ He has abolished the law with its commandments and ordinances, that he might create in himself one new humanity in place of the two, thus making peace,¹⁶ and might reconcile both groups to God in one body^a through the cross, thus putting to death that hostility through it.^b ¹⁷ So he came and proclaimed peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near;¹⁸ for through him both of us have access in one Spirit to the Father.¹⁹ So then you are no longer strangers and aliens, but you are citizens with the saints and also members of the household of God,²⁰ built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the cornerstone.^c ²¹ In him the whole structure is joined together and grows into a holy temple in the Lord;²² in whom you also are built together spiritually^d into a dwelling place for God.

3 This is the reason that I Paul am a prisoner for^e Christ Jesus for the sake of you Gentiles—² for surely you have already heard of the commission of God's grace that was given me for you,³ and how the mystery was made known to me by revelation, as I wrote above in a few words,⁴ a reading of which will enable you to perceive my understanding of the mystery of Christ.⁵ In former generations this mystery^f was not made known to humankind, as it has now been revealed to his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit:⁶ that is, the Gentiles have become fellow heirs, members of the same body, and sharers in the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel.

⁷ Of this gospel I have become a servant according to the gift of God's grace that was given me by the working of his power.⁸ Although I am the very least of all the saints, this grace was given to me to bring to the Gentiles the news of the boundless riches of Christ,⁹ and to make everyone see^g what is the plan of the mystery hidden for ages in^h God who created all things;¹⁰ so that through the church the wisdom of God in its rich variety might now be made known to the rulers and authorities in the heavenly places.¹¹ This was in accordance with the eternal purpose that he has carried out in Christ Jesus our Lord,¹² in whom we have access to God in boldness and confidence through faith in him.ⁱ ¹³ I pray therefore that you^j may not lose heart over my sufferings for you; they are your glory.

¹⁴ For this reason I bow my knees before the Father,^k ¹⁵ from whom every family^l in heaven and on earth takes its name. ¹⁶ I pray

^a Or reconcile both of us in one body for God

^b Or in him, or in himself

^c Or keystone

^d Gk in the Spirit

^e Or of

^f Gk it

^g Other ancient authorities read to bring to light

^h Or by

ⁱ Or the faith of him

^j Or I

^k Other ancient authorities add of our Lord Jesus Christ

^l Gk fatherhood

were forbidden. 15: Abolished the law, in its promotion of hostility (Acts 10.28) but not in its moral insight (cf. 6.2). 17: Proclaimed peace, see Isa 52.7. 19: Citizens, a civic metaphor for Gentiles' full inclusion among God's people (1.5,11–14). 20–22: An extended architectural metaphor to describe the dependence of God's people on each other and on the Lord Jesus (4.15–16). 20: Prophets, early Christian prophets (3.5; 4.11; 1 Cor 14). Cornerstone, either the foundation (Isa 28.16) or the capstone (T. Sol. 22.7). 21–22: A holy temple, the community embodies the presence of God; the Essenes held a similar view of themselves in contrast to the Jerusalem Temple (1QS 8.4–10).

3.1–13: The revelation of God's plan (cf. Col 1.24–29). 2: Commission, or “stewardship,” given to Paul at his encounter with Christ (Gal 1.15–16). 3: Mystery, see 1.9n. By revelation, in contrast to human origin (Gal 1.11–12). Above, literally, “previously,” either in 1.9–10 or perhaps in an earlier letter. 8: Least, 1 Cor 15.8–9. 10: The church embodies and thereby reveals God's plan (wisdom) to all cosmic forces. 13: Sufferings . . . glory, Paul's imprisonment for preaching the gospel has secured the Gentiles' new life and future glorification (3.1; 2 Cor 1.6; 4.12; Col 1.24).

3.14–21: Prayer for the church to embody love. 14–15: Father . . . family, a play on words in Gk (“patēr,” “patria,” see note k); God is the Father (creator and ruler) of all nations and cosmic forces. 16–18: See 1.15–20.

that, according to the riches of his glory, he may grant that you may be strengthened in your inner being with power through his Spirit,¹⁷ and that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith, as you are being rooted and grounded in love.¹⁸ I pray that you may have the power to comprehend, with all the saints, what is the breadth and length and height and depth,¹⁹ and to know the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge, so that you may be filled with all the fullness of God.

²⁰ Now to him who by the power at work within us is able to accomplish abundantly far more than all we can ask or imagine,²¹ to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus to all generations, forever and ever. Amen.

4 I therefore, the prisoner in the Lord, beg you to lead a life worthy of the calling to which you have been called,² with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another in love,³ making every effort to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.⁴ There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to the one hope of your calling,⁵ one Lord, one faith, one baptism,⁶ one God and Father of all, who is above all and through all and in all.

⁷ But each of us was given grace according to the measure of Christ's gift.⁸ Therefore it is said,

“When he ascended on high he made captivity itself a captive;
he gave gifts to his people.”

⁹ (When it says, “He ascended,” what does it mean but that he had also descended^a into the lower parts of the earth?¹⁰ He who descended is the same one who ascended far above all the heavens, so that he might fill all things.)¹¹ The gifts he gave were that some would be apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, some pastors and teachers,¹² to equip the saints for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ,¹³ until all of us come to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to maturity, to the measure of the full stature of Christ.¹⁴ We must no longer be children, tossed to and fro and blown about by every wind of doctrine, by people's trickery, by their craftiness in deceitful scheming.¹⁵ But speaking the truth in love, we must grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ,¹⁶ from whom the whole body, joined and knit together by every ligament with which it is equipped, as each part is working properly, promotes the body's growth in building itself up in love.

¹⁷ Now this I affirm and insist on in the Lord: you must no longer live as the Gentiles live, in the futility of their minds.¹⁸ They are darkened in their understanding, alienated from the life of God because of their ignorance and hardness of heart.¹⁹ They have lost all sensitivity and have abandoned themselves to licentiousness, greedy to practice every kind of impurity.²⁰ That is not the way you learned Christ!²¹ For surely you have heard about him and were taught in him, as truth is in Jesus.²² You were taught to put away your former way of life, your old self, corrupt and deluded by its lusts,²³ and to be renewed in the spirit of your minds,²⁴ and to clothe yourselves with the new self, created according to the likeness of God in true righteousness and holiness.

²⁵ So then, putting away falsehood, let all of us speak the truth to our neighbors, for

^a Other ancient authorities add first

18–19: Breadth, length, height, depth, a catalogue of dimensions used to emphasize immensity. 19: Filled with all the fullness, 1.23n. 20–21: A doxology celebrating God's ability to accomplish his plan through the church.

4.1–6.20: Ethical exhortation. 4.1–16: Appeal for unity. 2–3: See a similar list of virtues in Gal 5.22–23. 3: Unity . . . peace, made possible by Christ (2.11–22), must be consciously maintained. 4–6: Seven bases of Christian unity. 8–11: Ps 68.18 is used to describe Christ's exaltation (1.20–22) and his gifts of leadership for the church. 9: Lower parts of the earth, the earth itself or perhaps Hades. 14: Children, literally “infants,” society's most vulnerable. Wind of doctrine, Jas 1.6; Jude 12,13. 15–16: A vision of the church as an organic, interrelated whole, whose goal is to reflect fully its head, Christ (2.20–22).

4.17–5.21: Appeal for a new way of life (cf. Col 3.5–17). 4.17–18: On the plight of the Gentiles, see 2.1–3,11–12 (cf. Rom 1.18–32). 19: Licentiousness . . . impurity, excessive and inappropriate sexual behavior (5.3,5). 22–24: Like worn-out clothing, the old life must be replaced by a new one guided by knowledge of Christ. 25: Speak the

we are members of one another. ²⁶ Be angry but do not sin; do not let the sun go down on your anger, ²⁷ and do not make room for the devil. ²⁸ Thieves must give up stealing; rather let them labor and work honestly with their own hands, so as to have something to share with the needy. ²⁹ Let no evil talk come out of your mouths, but only what is useful for building up,^a as there is need, so that your words may give grace to those who hear.

³⁰ And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, with which you were marked with a seal for the day of redemption. ³¹ Put away from you all bitterness and wrath and anger and wrangling and slander, together with all malice, ³² and be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ has forgiven you.^b ¹ Therefore be imitators of God, as beloved children, ² and live in love, as Christ loved us^c and gave himself up for us, a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God.

³ But fornication and impurity of any kind, or greed, must not even be mentioned among you, as is proper among saints. ⁴ Entirely out of place is obscene, silly, and vulgar talk; but instead, let there be thanksgiving. ⁵ Be sure of this, that no fornicator or impure person, or one who is greedy (that is, an idolater), has any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.

⁶ Let no one deceive you with empty words, for because of these things the wrath of God comes on those who are disobedient. ⁷ Therefore do not be associated with them.

⁸ For once you were darkness, but now in the Lord you are light. Live as children of light—

⁹ for the fruit of the light is found in all that is good and right and true. ¹⁰ Try to find out what is pleasing to the Lord. ¹¹ Take no part in the unfruitful works of darkness, but instead expose them. ¹² For it is shameful even to mention what such people do secretly; ¹³ but everything exposed by the light becomes visible, ¹⁴ for everything that becomes visible is light. Therefore it says, “Sleeper, awake!

Rise from the dead,

and Christ will shine on you.”

¹⁵ Be careful then how you live, not as unwise people but as wise, ¹⁶ making the most of the time, because the days are evil. ¹⁷ So do not be foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is. ¹⁸ Do not get drunk with wine, for that is debauchery; but be filled with the Spirit, ¹⁹ as you sing psalms and hymns and spiritual songs among yourselves, singing and making melody to the Lord in your hearts, ²⁰ giving thanks to God the Father at all times and for everything in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

²¹ Be subject to one another out of reverence for Christ.

²² Wives, be subject to your husbands as you are to the Lord. ²³ For the husband is the head of the wife just as Christ is the head of the church, the body of which he is the Savior. ²⁴ Just as the church is subject to Christ, so also wives ought to be, in everything, to their husbands.

^a Other ancient authorities read building up faith

^b Other ancient authorities read us

^c Other ancient authorities read you

truth, see 4.15; Zech 8.16. 26: On anger, see also 1 Cor 13.5; Mt 5.22; Jas 1.19. 29: Building up, continuing the metaphor from 2.20–22 and 4.16. 30: Seal, see 1.13n. Day of redemption, when God’s plan comes to completion. 5.2: Fragrant offering, Gods of the ancient Near East are often depicted as enjoying the odor of sacrificial animals (Gen 8.21; Ex 29.18; Ezek 20.41). 3–5: Sexual sins are the primary focus in these verses (cf. 4.19). 4: Proper speech is a recurring theme (4.15,29). 6: Cf. Col. 3.6. 11–13: See Jn 3.19–21. 14: Sleeper . . . you, a poetic fragment, perhaps from a baptismal hymn. 19–20: Cf. Col 3.16–17. 21: Be subject to one another, some scholars see this call to mutual subjection as a principle that moderates the subordination of wives prescribed in 5.22–33.

5.22–6.9: Appeal for transformed household relationships (cf. Col 3.18–4.1). On the form of these rules, see Col 3.18–4.1n. 5.22–33: Wives/ husbands, female subordination within marriage is legitimized by an extended theological analogy where the husband is aligned with Christ’s authority over the church (head; see 1.22; 4.15 and Col 1.18n.), while wives are to imitate the church as the passive and obedient recipient of Christ’s blessings (body). As the church’s purity is achieved through Christ’s death and continual care, husbands are to sacrifice themselves wholly for their wives’ good (5.2). This passage, by granting complete authority to the male and encouraging female passivity, has in the past been used to suggest that Christian women should remain in ²⁵ Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her, ²⁶ in order to make her holy by cleansing her with the washing of water by the word, ²⁷ so as to present the church to himself in splendor, without a spot or wrinkle or anything of the kind—yes, so that she may be holy and without blemish. ²⁸ In the same way, husbands should love their wives as they do their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. ²⁹ For no one ever hates his own body, but he nourishes and tenderly cares for it, just as Christ does for the church, ³⁰ because we are members of his body.^a ³¹ “For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two will become one flesh.”^b ³² This is a great mystery, and I am applying it to Christ and the church. ³³ Each of you, however, should love his wife as himself, and a wife should respect her husband.

6 Children, obey your parents in the Lord,^b for this is right. ² “Honor your father and mother”—this is the first commandment with a promise: ³ “so that it may be well with you and you may live long on the earth.”

⁴ And, fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord.

⁵ Slaves, obey your earthly masters with fear and trembling, in singleness of heart, as you obey Christ; ⁶ not only while being watched, and in order to please them, but as slaves of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart. ⁷ Render service with enthusiasm, as to the Lord and not to men and women,

⁸ knowing that whatever good we do, we will receive the same again from the Lord, whether we are slaves or free.

⁹ And, masters, do the same to them. Stop threatening them, for you know that both of you have the same Master in heaven, and with him there is no partiality.

¹⁰ Finally, be strong in the Lord and in the strength of his power. ¹¹ Put on the whole armor of God, so that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. ¹² For our^c struggle is not against enemies of blood and flesh, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the cosmic powers of this present darkness, against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly places. ¹³ Therefore take up the whole armor of God, so that you may be able to withstand on that evil day, and having done everything, to stand firm. ¹⁴ Stand therefore, and fasten the belt of truth around your waist, and put on the breastplate of righteousness. ¹⁵ As shoes for your feet put on whatever will make you ready to proclaim the gospel of peace. ¹⁶ With all of these,^d take the shield of faith, with which you will be able to quench all the flaming arrows of the evil one. ¹⁷ Take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

¹⁸ Pray in the Spirit at all times in every prayer and supplication. To that end keep

^a Other ancient authorities add of his flesh and of his bones

^b Other ancient authorities lack in the Lord

^c Other ancient authorities read your

^d Or In all circumstances

abusive marital relationships. 26: Washing of water, baptism is here compared to the Jewish custom of a bride's prenuptial bath. 31–32: Mystery, see 1.9n, here revealed through exegesis of Gen 2.24. (See note a for a scribal addition from Gen 2.23.) 6.1–4: Children/fathers, children are to obey their parents (plural), but instructions are only given to fathers concerning their upbringing. Legally, all children were property of their father. 2–3: Ex 20.12; Deut 5.16. 5–9: Slaves/masters, like wives, slaves are not to imitate Christ but are to obey their masters' divinely sanctioned authority; see Col 3.22–4.1; Titus 2.9–10. 6: Not only while being watched, a stereotypical accusation made against slaves. 8: We will receive again from the Lord, an eschatological reward is used to motivate Christian slaves; cf. Gal 3.28. 9: No partiality, despite the sanctioned social inequality inherent in the master-slave relationship, this section ends with a strong statement of God's equal treatment of both slave and free (cf. Gal 3.28).

6.10–20: Appeal for strength amid conflict. 12: Blood and flesh, Ultimately, the church's enemies are not human, but rather cosmic powers (1.21; 2.2; 3.10). 13–17: Armor of God, recalls the descriptions of Israel's divine protector (Isa 11.4–5; 52.7; 59.17; Wis 5.17–20). 13: That evil day, generally a reference to the future eschatological crisis; here, however, the author situates the church within an ongoing spiritual conflict (5.16). 14: Truth, 4.15, 25. Righteousness, here likely indicating appropriate Christian behavior. 15: Gospel of peace, 2.14–18. 17: Salvation, alert and always persevere in supplication for all the saints. ¹⁹ Pray also for me, so that when I speak, a message may be given to me to make known with boldness the mystery of the gospel, ^a ²⁰ for which I am an ambassador in chains. Pray that I may declare it boldly, as I must speak.

²¹ So that you also may know how I am and what I am doing, Tychicus will tell you everything. He is a dear brother and a faithful minister in the Lord. ²² I am sending him to you for this very purpose, to let you know how we are, and to encourage your hearts.

²³ Peace be to the whole community, ^b and love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁴ Grace be with all who have an undying love for our Lord Jesus Christ. ^c

^a Other ancient authorities lack of the gospel

^b Gk to the brothers

^c Other ancient authorities add Amen

deliverance from harm. The sword, the only offensive weapon mentioned in this catalogue, is the proclamation of the gospel. 19–20: Cf. Col. 4.2–4. To make known . . . the mystery, a final restatement of the author's divine commission (3.1–13). In chains, see 3.1; 4.1.

6.21–24: Epilogue (Cf. Col 4.7–8). 21: Tychicus, Paul's associate in ministry; see Acts 20.4; Col 4.7; 2 Tim 4.12. 23: Whole community, the Gk word adelphoi can more literally be translated "siblings" (note b). 24: The final words of the letter are "in immortality," here translated as "undying." The phrase may instead point toward God's unending grace in the age to come.

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE PHILIPPIANS

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

The letter to the Philippians is one of the richest of Paul's letters and has never been seriously questioned as genuine. Philippi was a major city of Macedonia in northern Greece and a Roman colony on the Via Egnatia, the Roman road linking Byzantium in the East to the western coast of Macedonia, from which ships could easily reach Italy. The Christian community in Philippi was the westernmost Pauline church at the time of its founding (Acts 16.11–13). The mutual affection between Paul and the Philippians is evident in the letter and contrasts with the problems he had with other churches.

DATE AND PLACE OF COMPOSITION

Except that Paul was in prison and awaiting trial at the time of writing (1.7–18), it is impossible to speak confidently of the time and place of the writing of this letter. Because of references to the imperial guard or praetorium (1.13) and to the emperor's household (4.22), and also because the situation reflected in the letter bears some resemblance to that described at the end of Acts, the traditional date of the letter has been during the period of Paul's imprisonment at Rome (about 61–63 CE). The indications are by no means conclusive, however, and more recently some scholars have thought that the place of composition is perhaps Caesarea before Paul's arrival in Rome (Acts 24–26) or Ephesus at an earlier stage in Paul's career, especially because of frequent communication and emissaries between Paul and Philippi implied in the letter (2.19,25–26; 4.10,18). This information seems to be inconsistent with the great distance from Philippi to Rome, about 800 miles, taking perhaps a month of travel, or an even greater distance of almost 1,200 miles from Caesarea, requiring perhaps two months of travel, whereas Ephesus was only about 300 miles away, a relatively easy week by sea. The term referring to the emperor's household was also used for provincial government centers and the imperial civil service outside Rome. Elsewhere Paul notes an unhappy situation in Ephesus (1 Cor 15.32) and in the Roman province of Asia, of which Ephesus was a major center (2 Cor 1.8), and in Acts 20.16 he bypasses Ephesus on his way south down the coast. For these reasons it is likely that Paul wrote the letters while imprisoned in Ephesus in the mid-50s. The immediate occasion of Paul's writing was the return to Philippi of Epaphroditus (2.25–30), sent by the Philippian church with gifts for Paul (4.18), then seriously ill while staying with him. Paul took this opportunity to thank them for their gifts and to set their difficulties in a wider framework by describing his and their situation in light of the reality of his and their faith in Christ.

STRUCTURE AND INTERPRETATION

The letter follows the usual pattern of Paul's letters, but some seemingly abrupt changes of topic (especially between 3.1 and 2, and 4.3 and 4), in addition to the fact that an early Christian writer (Polycarp, Philippians 2.3), speaks of "letters" of Paul to the Philippians, has led some scholars to conclude that our present Philippians is composed of as many as three letters that Paul wrote to Philippi. Many scholars, however, find that Philippians is a coherent whole as it stands. After the greeting (1.1–2) and thanksgiving (1.3–11), Paul lays out the situation (1.12–26) and exhorts the community to unity (1.27–4.3) with many arguments, including proposing Christ (2.5–11), Timothy and Epaphroditus (2.19–30), and himself (3.4–14) as models of self-giving for the good of the whole. He thanks them for their recent gifts (4.10–20) and concludes the letter (4.21–23).

Paul writes from prison and is uncertain of the outcome for himself. The themes of opposition and the possibility of death are therefore prominent. Yet in the midst of suffering and uncertainty, the theme of joy emerges quite clearly and remarkably (1.4,18,25; 2.2,17–18,28; 4.4,10). The Philippians too are experiencing opposition (1.29), but Paul's major concern is to bring them together and thus overcome the threat of internal disharmony. In keeping with that purpose, he uses a hymnic passage that celebrates the self-emptying of Christ even to death, for which God bestowed on him the name of "Lord," the "name above all names" (2.6–11). The poetic reflection, was probably composed by a prior author known to both Paul and the Philippians. Here it is the prime example of why they should be willing also to empty themselves of their own opinions. The example of Paul himself follows and supports the argument (3.4–16). Paul offers both Christ and himself as examples of courage and self-surrender in the face of suffering and death. Thus he attempts to turn the Philippians from partisanship to unity.

Carolyn Osiek

1 Paul and Timothy, servants^a of Christ Jesus,

To all the saints in Christ Jesus who are in Philippi, with the bishops^b and deacons:^c

² Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

³ I thank my God every time I remember you, ⁴ constantly praying with joy in every one of my prayers for all of you, ⁵ because of your sharing in the gospel from the first day until now. ⁶ I am confident of this, that the one who began a good work among you will bring it to completion by the day of Jesus Christ. ⁷ It is right for me to think this way about all of you, because you hold me in your heart,^d for all of you share in God's grace^e with me, both in my imprisonment and in the defense and confirmation of the gospel. ⁸ For God is my witness, how I long for all of you with the compassion of Christ Jesus. ⁹ And this is my prayer, that your love may overflow more and more with knowledge and full insight ¹⁰ to help you to determine what is best, so that in the day of Christ you may be pure and blameless, ¹¹ having produced the harvest of righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ for the glory and praise of God.

¹² I want you to know, beloved,^f that what has happened to me has actually helped to spread the gospel, ¹³ so that it has become known throughout the whole imperial guard^g and to everyone else that my imprisonment is for Christ; ¹⁴ and most of the brothers and sisters,^f having been made confident in the Lord by my imprisonment, dare to speak the word^h with greater boldness and without fear.

¹⁵ Some proclaim Christ from envy and rivalry, but others from goodwill. ¹⁶ These proclaim Christ out of love, knowing that I have been put here for the defense of the gospel; ¹⁷ the others proclaim Christ out of selfish ambition, not sincerely but intending to increase my suffering in my imprisonment. ¹⁸ What does it matter? Just this, that Christ is proclaimed in every way, whether out of false motives or true; and in that I rejoice.

Yes, and I will continue to rejoice, ¹⁹ for I know that through your prayers and the help of the Spirit of Jesus Christ this will turn out for my deliverance. ²⁰ It is my eager expectation and hope that I will not be put to shame in any way, but that by my speaking with all boldness, Christ will be exalted now as always in my body, whether by life or by death. ²¹ For to me, living is Christ and dying is gain. ²² If I am to live in the flesh, that means fruit-

^a Gk slaves

^b Or overseers

^c Or overseers and helpers

^d Or because I hold you in my heart

^e Gk in grace

^f Gk brothers

^g Gk whole praetorium

^h Other ancient authorities read word of God

1.1–2: Salutation. 1: Bishops and deacons, the alternate translation overseers and helpers is preferable. These functions are not yet the church offices that they will later become.

1.3–11: Thanksgiving. A common feature of a Pauline letter. 5: Sharing, “koinônia,” an important Pauline concept (2.1; 3.10; 4.15). From the first day, when Paul first preached at Philippi (Acts 16.12). 6: The day of Jesus Christ, when he will return and the present age will end (2.16; see 1 Cor 1.8; cf. 2 Thess 2.1 and 2 Pet 3.10). 10: Rom 2.18.

1.12–26: Paul's situation in chains. 13: Paul is confined in some Roman administrative center, where he has had the opportunity to preach the gospel. 15–18: Not all Christian preachers agreed with Paul or liked him; this is clear in Galatians and 1 and 2 Corinthians (especially 2 Cor 10–13), and here Paul questions their motives. 19: See Job 13.16. 21–24: His life is not his own but is given over to Christ, so that he is indifferent to the outcome of life or death; nevertheless, his death would mean loss to his churches.

ful labor for me; and I do not know which I prefer. ²³I am hard pressed between the two: my desire is to depart and be with Christ, for that is far better; ²⁴but to remain in the flesh is more necessary for you. ²⁵Since I am convinced of this, I know that I will remain and continue with all of you for your progress and joy in faith, ²⁶so that I may share abundantly in your boasting in Christ Jesus when I come to you again.

²⁷Only, live your life in a manner worthy of the gospel of Christ, so that, whether I come and see you or am absent and hear about you, I will know that you are standing firm in one spirit, striving side by side with one mind for the faith of the gospel, ²⁸and are in no way intimidated by your opponents. For them this is evidence of their destruction, but of your salvation. And this is God's doing. ²⁹For he has graciously granted you the privilege not only of believing in Christ, but of suffering for him as well— ³⁰since you are having the same struggle that you saw I had and now hear that I still have.

2 If then there is any encouragement in Christ, any consolation from love, any sharing in the Spirit, any compassion and sympathy, ²make my joy complete: be of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind. ³Do nothing from selfish ambition or conceit, but in humility regard others as better than yourselves. ⁴Let each of you look not to your own interests, but to the interests of others. ⁵Let the same mind be in you that was^a in Christ Jesus, ⁶who, though he was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God as something to be exploited, ⁷but emptied himself, taking the form of a slave, being born in human likeness.

And being found in human form, ⁸he humbled himself and became obedient to the point of death— even death on a cross.

⁹Therefore God also highly exalted him and gave him the name that is above every name, ¹⁰so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bend, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, ¹¹and every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

¹²Therefore, my beloved, just as you have always obeyed me, not only in my presence, but much more now in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling; ¹³for it is God who is at work in you, enabling you both to will and to work for his good pleasure.

¹⁴Do all things without murmuring and arguing, ¹⁵so that you may be blameless and innocent, children of God without blemish in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, in which you shine like stars in the world. ¹⁶It is by your holding fast to the word of life that I can boast on the day of Christ that I did not run in vain or labor in vain. ¹⁷But even if I am being poured out as a libation over the sacrifice and the offering of your faith, I am glad and rejoice with all of you— ¹⁸and in the same way you also must be glad and rejoice with me.

^a Or that you have

1.27–4.1: Appeal to unity, followed by examples. 2.1–18: First example: self-emptying of Christ. 6: In the form of God, equality with God, may refer to divine status, or simply preexistence as a heavenly being (Dan 7.13), or Adam's original immortality (Wis 2.23–24), which Christ renounced by becoming subject to death. 7: But emptied himself, the extreme limit of self-denial. 8: Mt 26.39; Jn 10.18; Rom 5.19; Heb 5.8; 12.2. 9: Exalted, in raising him from the dead. The name . . . above every name is Lord. 10–11: Cf. Isa 45.23. 12: With fear and trembling, a frequent biblical expression (Ex 15.16; Deut 2.25; Ps 2.11; Isa 19.6; 4 Macc 4.10) that had become a commonplace (1 Cor 2.3; 2 Cor 7.15; Eph 6.5). 15: Shine like stars, Dan 12.3. 16: Day of Christ, see 1.6n. 17: Paul's possible death is compared to a temple sacrifice.

¹⁹ I hope in the Lord Jesus to send Timothy to you soon, so that I may be cheered by news of you. ²⁰ I have no one like him who will be genuinely concerned for your welfare. ²¹ All of them are seeking their own interests, not those of Jesus Christ. ²² But Timothy's^a worth you know, how like a son with a father he has served with me in the work of the gospel. ²³ I hope therefore to send him as soon as I see how things go with me; ²⁴ and I trust in the Lord that I will also come soon.

²⁵ Still, I think it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus—my brother and co-worker and fellow soldier, your messenger^b and minister to my need; ²⁶ for he has been longing for^c all of you, and has been distressed because you heard that he was ill. ²⁷ He was indeed so ill that he nearly died. But God had mercy on him, and not only on him but on me also, so that I would not have one sorrow after another. ²⁸ I am the more eager to send him, therefore, in order that you may rejoice at seeing him again, and that I may be less anxious. ²⁹ Welcome him then in the Lord with all joy, and honor such people, ³⁰ because he came close to death for the work of Christ,^d risking his life to make up for those services that you could not give me.

3 Finally, my brothers and sisters,^e rejoice^f in the Lord.

To write the same things to you is not troublesome to me, and for you it is a safeguard.

² Beware of the dogs, beware of the evil workers, beware of those who mutilate the flesh!^g ³ For it is we who are the circumcision, who worship in the Spirit of God^h and boast in Christ Jesus and have no confidence in the flesh—⁴ even though I, too, have reason for confidence in the flesh.

If anyone else has reason to be confident in the flesh, I have more: ⁵ circumcised on the eighth day, a member of the people of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew born of Hebrews; as to the law, a Pharisee; ⁶ as to zeal, a persecutor of the church; as to righteousness under the law, blameless.

⁷ Yet whatever gains I had, these I have come to regard as loss because of Christ.

⁸ More than that, I regard everything as loss because of the surpassing value of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things, and I regard them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ ⁹ and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but one that comes through faith in Christ,ⁱ the righteousness from God based on faith. ¹⁰ I want to know Christ^j and the power of his resurrection and the sharing of his sufferings by becoming like him in his death, ¹¹ if somehow I may attain the resurrection from the dead.

^a Gk his

^b Gk apostle

^c Other ancient authorities read longing to see

^d Other ancient authorities read of the Lord

^e Gk my brothers

^f Or farewell

^g Gk the mutilation

^h Other ancient authorities read worship God in spirit

ⁱ Or through the faith of Christ

^j Gk him

2.19–3.1a: Second example: Timothy and Epaphroditus. 19: Timothy, Acts 16.1–3; 1 Cor 16.10–11. 24: I trust . . . that I will also come soon, an argument against Rome as place of writing (see Rom 15.23–25). 25: Epaphroditus, apostle and coworker of Paul who brought the gift from Philippi (4.18), now being sent home.

3.1b–3: A digression about those who preach the necessity of circumcision, requiring Christians to observe the laws of Judaism. They were Paul's bitter opponents elsewhere, especially in Galatia, and are introduced here as a negative example (cf. Gal 5.1–12). 3: The flesh, emphasis on physical rituals.

3.4–4.1: Third example: Paul himself. 5: Hebrew, a more preferred self-designation than Jew, which was used more often by and for outsiders. Pharisee, member of the group concerned with interpretation of the Jewish law. 6: A persecutor, Acts 9.1–2; 1 Cor 15.9; Gal 1.13. As to righteousness under the law, blameless, Paul did not see himself as guilty or incomplete before his encounter with Christ. 8: Rubbish, or excrement. 9: The righteousness from God based on faith, a free gift bestowed by God through the grace of Christ (Rom 1.16–4.25). 10–11: Actually to know Christ as risen and living is to have power to suffer and die like him, and to possess the hope of rising

¹² Not that I have already obtained this or have already reached the goal;^a but I press on to make it my own, because Christ Jesus has made me his own. ¹³ Beloved,^b I do not consider that I have made it my own;^c but this one thing I do: forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, ¹⁴ I press on toward the goal for the prize of the heavenly^d call of God in Christ Jesus. ¹⁵ Let those of us then who are mature be of the same mind; and if you think differently about anything, this too God will reveal to you. ¹⁶ Only let us hold fast to what we have attained.

¹⁷ Brothers and sisters,^b join in imitating me, and observe those who live according to the example you have in us. ¹⁸ For many live as enemies of the cross of Christ; I have often told you of them, and now I tell you even with tears. ¹⁹ Their end is destruction; their god is the belly; and their glory is in their shame; their minds are set on earthly things. ²⁰ But our citizenship^e is in heaven, and it is from there that we are expecting a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. ²¹ He will transform the body of our humiliation^f that it may be conformed to the body of his glory,^g by the power that also enables him to make all things

4 subject to himself. ¹ Therefore, my brothers and sisters,^h whom I love and long for, my joy and crown, stand firm in the Lord in this way, my beloved.

² I urge Euodia and I urge Syntyche to be of the same mind in the Lord. ³ Yes, and I ask you also, my loyal companion,ⁱ help these women, for they have struggled beside me in the work of the gospel, together with Clement and the rest of my co-workers, whose names are in the book of life.

⁴ Rejoice^j in the Lord always; again I will say, Rejoice.^j ⁵ Let your gentleness be known to everyone. The Lord is near. ⁶ Do not worry about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. ⁷ And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.

⁸ Finally, beloved,^k whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is pleasing, whatever is commendable, if there is any excellence and if there is anything worthy of praise, think about^l these things. ⁹ Keep on doing the things that you have learned and received and heard and seen in me, and the God of peace will be with you.

¹⁰ I rejoice^m in the Lord greatly that now at last you have revived your concern for me; indeed, you were concerned for me, but had no opportunity to show it.ⁿ ¹¹ Not that I am

^a Or have already been made perfect

^b Gk Brothers

^c Other ancient authorities read my own yet

^d Gk upward

^e Or commonwealth

^f Or our humble bodies

^g Or his glorious body

^h Gk my brothers

ⁱ Or loyal Syzygus

^j Or Farewell

^k Gk brothers

^l Gk take account of

^m Gk I rejoiced

ⁿ Gk lacks to show it and living with him. 12–14: The goal and the prize, allusion to popular sports, the Greek foot races, their finishing post, and the award to the winner (see 2.16; 1 Cor 9.24–27). 18–19: Many live as enemies of the cross of Christ, presumably professing Christians who cannot accept Paul's cross theology. 20: Our citizenship, our ultimate political loyalty and real homeland, contrasting with the status of many of the Philippians as Roman citizens. 21: Rom 8.23; 1 Cor 15.47–57; 2 Cor 5.1–5; Col 3.1–4. 1: 1 Thess 2.19–20. A crown was often awarded to the winner of a race (see 3.12–14n.).

4.2–9: Dissension. 2: Euodia . . . Syntyche, two women leaders in the Philippian church, most likely heads of house-churches (John Chrysostom, Hom. Phil. 13) and therefore among the overseers and helpers (1.1) whose disagreement has caused factions in the church that have seriously affected the community. 3: My loyal companion, an unknown but influential figure who could serve as mediator between the two. Less likely, the Greek word for companion may be understood as a proper name, Syzygus. Book of life, a book kept by God containing names of those to be saved (Ps 69.28; Dan 12.1; Lk 10.20; Rev 3.5; etc.).

4.10–20: Acknowledgment of their gifts. 11: Content, Paul here expresses the Stoic ideal of indifference, but referring to being in need; for I have learned to be content with whatever I have. ¹²I know what it is to have little, and I know what it is to have plenty. In any and all circumstances I have learned the secret of being well-fed and of going hungry, of having plenty and of being in need. ¹³I can do all things through him who strengthens me. ¹⁴In any case, it was kind of you to share my distress.

¹⁵You Philippians indeed know that in the early days of the gospel, when I left Macedonia, no church shared with me in the matter of giving and receiving, except you alone.

¹⁶For even when I was in Thessalonica, you sent me help for my needs more than once.

¹⁷Not that I seek the gift, but I seek the profit that accumulates to your account. ¹⁸I have been paid in full and have more than enough; I am fully satisfied, now that I have received from Epaphroditus the gifts you sent, a fragrant offering, a sacrifice acceptable and pleasing to God. ¹⁹And my God will fully satisfy every need of yours according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus. ²⁰To our God and Father be glory forever and ever. Amen.

²¹Greet every saint in Christ Jesus. The friends^a who are with me greet you. ²²All the saints greet you, especially those of the emperor's household.

²³The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.^b

^a Gk brothers

^b Other ancient authorities add Amen

with new motivation because of Christ. 15–16: Macedonia, Thessalonica, according to Acts 17.1, Paul had gone to Thessalonica immediately after his stay in Philippi. 15,17,18: Giving and receiving, profit . . . account, paid in full, a series of business terms used metaphorically here and in other contexts of friendship. 18: Fragrant offering, Gen 8.21; Ex 29.18; Ezek 20.41.

4.21–23: Conclusion. 22: The emperor's household, members of the imperial civil service who are believers where Paul is confined, but not necessarily located in Rome.

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE COLOSSIANS

NAME AND CONTENTS

This letter is named for its recipients, the Christian community in the Phrygian city of Colossae (1.2), a community founded by Epaphras, a Colossian associate of Paul (1.7–8; 4.12–13). Once a thriving town on the Lycus River in the Roman province of Asia, Colossae had a significant Jewish population. The city fell into decline after an earthquake ca. 60 CE; the site has not yet been excavated.

AUTHORSHIP, DATE OF COMPOSITION, HISTORICAL CONTEXT, AND LITERARY HISTORY

Despite its similarity to the undisputed letters of Paul in structure, language, and theology, Colossians lacks some central Pauline terms (e.g., righteousness, justification), uses new theological vocabulary (e.g., to be raised with Christ), and is composed in a more elevated, liturgical style. Colossians presents a vision of believers' present lives as almost completely transformed by Christ's death and resurrection (3.1–4), a contrast to Paul's characteristic tension between the partial experience of God's blessings in the present in light of the future resurrection (e.g., Rom 6.4; 1 Cor 15.50–58). Colossians also uses the Greco-Roman format of household rules to define ethical norms (3.18–4.1), which is more characteristic of the post-Pauline Ephesians, Pastoral Letters, and 1 Peter. Paul's own ethical instructions did not reinforce or even focus on these household relationships; Paul instead adopted a baptismal creed that overturns social, ethnic, and gender hierarchies (Gal 3.28), and elevated celibacy over marriage (e.g., 1 Cor 7). Some scholars conclude that Colossians is pseudonymous—written in Paul's name by one of his disciples, either during Paul's lifetime or shortly after his death (ca. 65 CE), in order to authorize the application of Paul's thought to a new situation. Other scholars think the letter was written by Paul while imprisoned (4.3,10,18) at Rome near the end of his life and attribute any theological differences to developments in Paul's thinking and the particulars of the situation addressed.

After beginning with a glowing description of the Colossians' lives, the author soon alludes to unnamed teachers who pose a threat to their faith. Without an independent description of these teachings, precise identification is difficult. It appears that these teachers advocated observance of ascetic rituals, where the adherent seeks the help of spiritual powers to reach the divine throne (2.8–23). Many scholars understand these rituals to be indebted to Jewish mysticism; others emphasize the influence of local Phrygian religious practices or Hellenistic philosophy. The attractiveness of Jewish ritual elements within the church at Colossae reflects not only the ongoing close connections between Jewish and Christian communities, but also the fluidity of practices across porous religious boundaries. The polemical tone of Colossians, however, represents an emerging first-century Christian ambivalence toward Jewish rituals and the desire to more clearly define community boundaries.

STRUCTURE

Colossians follows the usual structure of a Pauline letter (see pp. 1611–12), beginning with a greeting (1.1–2), an introductory thanksgiving (1.3–8) and prayer (1.9–14), and ending with greetings and instructions (4.7–18). The body of the letter includes both a theological argument (2.6–23) and ethical instructions (3.1–4.6). The basis of the theological argument—focused on Christ—is presented in 1.12–2.5. In the elevated words of an early Christian hymn, Christ is praised as the supreme power over the cosmos and the church (1.15–20). Although cosmic forces enslaved humanity in the past, believers have been freed from their malevolent influence, forgiven through Christ's death, and made full citizens of the kingdom of Christ, to whom they now owe complete allegiance (1.12–14, 21–23). Christ is the perfect revelation of God (1.19; 2.9–10) and the single source of wisdom about how to live rightly (1.9–10; 2.2–3).

INTERPRETATION

The main theological argument of Colossians focuses on the change in believers' spiritual existence achieved by Christ's death on the cross (2.9–15). The recurring contrasts of death and life (2.12–13,20; 3.1–5), old and new (3.9–10), and past and present (1.12–14,21–23) emphasize the fundamental psychological and moral reorientation required of those who would be faithful to Christ. This letter presupposes a world populated by a multitude of spiritual or cosmic entities enmeshed in conflict with humans and the divine (1.16; 2.8,15,18). Our author believes that rituals of mystical ascension to the heavenly realm (see above) belong to the old, inferior world and entail subjection to cosmic entities; they must be rejected as denials of Christ's lordship.

The members of a true Christian community, rejecting their previous immoral lifestyle (3.5–11) and reorienting their entire lives around Christ as Lord (3.1–4), are to live in harmony with each other as they worship and give thanks to God and Christ (3.12–17). It is therefore surprising that the idealized household (3.18–4.1) is only a mildly Christianized version of the ancient patriarchal family rather than a reconsideration of household relationships based on the equality of all in Christ and on mutual love and forgiveness (3.10–15). The letter's elevated language of death, ascension, and spiritual wisdom provided fertile ground for theological speculation since the second century CE; perhaps most significant, however, is the Christological language in 1.15–20 that shaped the debates of the fourth century and the formation of the church's creeds.

Jennifer K. Berenson

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, and Timothy our brother,

²To the saints and faithful brothers and sisters^a in Christ in Colossae:

Grace to you and peace from God our Father.

³In our prayers for you we always thank God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, ⁴for we have heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and of the love that you have for all the saints, ⁵because of the hope laid up for you in heaven. You have heard of this hope before in the word of the truth, the gospel ⁶that has come to you. Just as it is bearing fruit and growing in the whole world, so it has been bearing fruit among yourselves from the day you heard it and truly comprehended the grace of God. ⁷This you learned from Epaphras, our beloved fellow servant.^b He is a faithful minister of Christ on your^c behalf, ⁸and he has made known to us your love in the Spirit.

⁹For this reason, since the day we heard it, we have not ceased praying for you and asking that you may be filled with the knowledge of God's^d will in all spiritual wisdom and understanding, ¹⁰so that you may lead lives worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing to him, as you bear fruit in every good work and as you grow in the knowledge of God. ¹¹May you be made strong with all the strength that comes from his glorious power, and may you be prepared to endure everything with patience, while joyfully ¹²giving thanks to the Father, who has enabled^e you^f to share in the inheritance of the saints in the light. ¹³He has rescued us

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk slave

^c Other ancient authorities read our

^d Gk his

^e Other ancient authorities read called

^f Other ancient authorities read us

1.1–2: Salutation. 1: Apostle . . . by the will of God, see 1.25; Rom 1.1n. Timothy, Paul's fellow missionary and emissary (Philem 1; 2 Cor 1.1; Phil 1.1; 2.19–24). Brother indicates a bond of affection and loyalty. 2: Saints, literally “holy ones,” refers to all followers of the Christian movement. Brothers and sisters, the Gk plural adelphoi (see note a) has the sense of “siblings.” Grace . . . peace, a common Pauline greeting building upon conventional salutations in Gk (grace) and Heb (peace).

1.3–8: Thanksgiving for obedient lives. 3–5: Faith, hope, and love, a summary of Christian virtues (1 Cor 13.13; 1 Thess 5.8). 4: Faith, here allegiance or loyalty. 5: Gospel, proclamation of good news, here referring to the message of Christ's victory over death (see 2.15). 6: The whole world, hyperbole for all the Christian communities in the ancient world. 7: Epaphras, founder of the church in Colossae (4.12–13; Philem 23).

1.9–14: Prayer for continued growth in knowledge (v. 9), moral maturity (v. 10), and endurance (v. 11). 9: Spiritual wisdom and understanding, a major theme of the letter (1.25–28; 2.2–4,9–15). 12–14: Perhaps a fragment of a baptismal hymn. 12–13: Light . . . darkness, apocalyptic imagery for the opposing domains within the cosmos (see 1.16n.; 1 Thess 5.5). 12: Inheritance, a metaphor based on Israel's inheritance of the land as a gift of God.

from the power of darkness and transferred us into the kingdom of his beloved Son,¹⁴ in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins.^a

¹⁵ He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation;¹⁶ for in^b him all things in heaven and on earth were created, things visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or powers—all things have been created through him and for him.¹⁷ He himself is before all things, and in^b him all things hold together.¹⁸ He is the head of the body, the church; he is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, so that he might come to have first place in everything.¹⁹ For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell,²⁰ and through him God was pleased to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, by making peace through the blood of his cross.

²¹ And you who were once estranged and hostile in mind, doing evil deeds,²² he has now reconciled^c in his fleshly body^d through death, so as to present you holy and blameless and irreproachable before him—²³ provided that you continue securely established and steadfast in the faith, without shifting from the hope promised by the gospel that you heard, which has been proclaimed to every creature under heaven. I, Paul, became a servant of this gospel.

²⁴ I am now rejoicing in my sufferings for your sake, and in my flesh I am completing what is lacking in Christ's afflictions for the sake of his body, that is, the church.²⁵ I became its servant according to God's commission that was given to me for you, to make the word of God fully known,²⁶ the mystery that has been hidden throughout the ages and generations but has now been revealed to his saints.²⁷ To them God chose to make known how great among the Gentiles are the riches of the glory of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.²⁸ It is he whom we proclaim, warning everyone and teaching everyone in all wisdom, so that we may present everyone mature in Christ.²⁹ For this I toil and struggle with all the energy that he powerfully inspires within me.

^a Other ancient authorities add through his blood

^b Or by

^c Other ancient authorities read you have now been reconciled

^d Gk in the body of his flesh

14: Redemption, release or ransom from slavery.

1.15–20: The supremacy of Christ. This enduring language of an early Christian hymn, probably based on the Jewish figure Wisdom/Sophia (Prov 8; Sir 24; Wis 6–9; see also Jn 1.1–18; Phil 2.6–11), expresses Christ's supremacy over the cosmos (vv. 15–17) and the church (vv. 18–20). 15: Image, the perfect, visible manifestation of God. Firstborn expresses priority and supremacy. 16: Thrones . . . powers, hostile cosmic powers (1.13; 2.15; Eph 6.12). 17: In him all things hold together, Christ actively maintains the coherence of the cosmos 18: Head, ruling authority or originator; see Eph 1.22; 5.23. The body, the church, both terms stem from ancient political discourse for a community assembly, emphasizing unity and coherence; see Rom 12.4–5; 1 Cor 12.27. See also Eph 1.22–23n. Firstborn from the dead, the first of all those to be resurrected from the dead (1 Cor 15.20,23; Acts 26.23; Rev 1.5). 19: Fullness of God, the power and presence of God (see also 1.29; 2.9–10). 20: Reconcile . . . making peace, the estrangement of creation from the creator is rectified (1.13–14, 21–22, 2.15).

1.21–23: Assurance and warning. 21: Hostile in mind, doing evil deeds, interrelated aspects of the former life (Rom 1.18–32). 22: Fleshly body, an emphatic contrast with Christ's heavenly origins (1.20, 2.9; cf. 1.15–17). To present you . . . before him, reconciliation is completed by Christ's approval at the eschatological judgment (v. 28). 23: Concern for continued allegiance to Christ is the primary focus of the letter.

1.24–2.5: Paul's mission and pastoral commitment. 1.24: Completing . . . afflictions, not a denigration of Christ's death but an acknowledgment that those who preach the gospel will experience sufferings (1.29), such as imprisonment (4.3,10,18) and other hardships (2 Cor 4.7–12; 11.23–28). 26–28: Mystery, in Paul's writings, the term refers to God's secret eschatological plan (Rom 11.25; 1 Cor 2.6–7, 15.51; cf. Dan 2.28; Wis 2.22); in Colossians, Christ himself is the mystery (2.2; 4.3; Rom 16.25–26; cf. Eph 1.10; 3.2–6). Hope of glory . . . so that we may

2 For I want you to know how much I am struggling for you, and for those in Laodicea, and for all who have not seen me face to face. ²I want their hearts to be encouraged and united in love, so that they may have all the riches of assured understanding and have the knowledge of God's mystery, that is, Christ himself,^a ³in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. ⁴I am saying this so that no one may deceive you with plausible arguments. ⁵For though I am absent in body, yet I am with you in spirit, and I rejoice to see your morale and the firmness of your faith in Christ.

⁶As you therefore have received Christ Jesus the Lord, continue to live your lives^b in him, ⁷rooted and built up in him and established in the faith, just as you were taught, abounding in thanksgiving.

⁸See to it that no one takes you captive through philosophy and empty deceit, according to human tradition, according to the elemental spirits of the universe,^c and not according to Christ. ⁹For in him the whole fullness of deity dwells bodily,¹⁰ and you have come to fullness in him, who is the head of every ruler and authority. ¹¹In him also you were circumcised with a spiritual circumcision,^d by putting off the body of the flesh in the circumcision of Christ; ¹²when

you were buried with him in baptism, you were also raised with him through faith in the power of God, who raised him from the dead. ¹³And when you were dead in trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, God^e made you^f alive together with him, when he forgave us all our trespasses, ¹⁴erasing the record that stood against us with its legal demands. He set this aside, nailing it to the cross. ¹⁵He disarmed^g the rulers and authorities and made a public example of them, triumphing over them in it.

¹⁶Therefore do not let anyone condemn you in matters of food and drink or of observing festivals, new moons, or sabbaths. ¹⁷These are only a shadow of what is to come, but the substance belongs to Christ. ¹⁸Do not let anyone disqualify you, insisting on self-abasement and worship of angels, dwelling^h on visions,ⁱ puffed up without cause by a

^a Other ancient authorities read of the mystery of God, both of the Father and of Christ

^b Gk to walk

^c Or the rudiments of the world

^d Gk a circumcision made without hands

^e Gk he

^f Other ancient authorities read made us; others, made

^g Or divested himself of

^h Other ancient authorities read not dwelling

ⁱ Meaning of Gk uncertain present, the expectation of their eschatological presentation before Christ. 2.1: Laodicea, see 4.13n. 5: Morale, firmness, terminology evoking military discipline.

2.6–23: Theological Argument. 2.6–15: Christ and the cross. 6–7: Thematic statement of the letter (see Introduction; 1.21–23; 3.1–4). 6: Received, a technical term for the reception of oral tradition (1 Cor 15.1,3); here, that Jesus is Lord (Rom 10.9). 8: Philosophy includes ethical and religious teachings. Human tradition, in contrast to God's revelation through Paul. Elemental spirits, cosmic forces perhaps based on the four primal elements of Greek thought; associated with the Jewish law in Gal 4.1–5.9–10. 9–10: See 1.19n. 11–12: Circumcision, a ritual, bodily mark of membership in the people of Israel (Gen 17.9–14). The significance of circumcision is here transferred to Christian baptism where the previous life (the body of the flesh) is shed in solidarity with Christ's death and the baptized are given new life (you were also raised) as was Christ. 13: Uncircumcision of your flesh, the Colossians were Gentiles. 14: Record . . . demands, a document detailing transgressions, perhaps similar to that in Dan 7.10 and Rev 20.12. Nailing it to the cross, ridding it of its power to condemn. 15: Rulers and authorities, see 1.16n. Disarmed . . . public example, language evoking a Roman ritual (the "triumph") where the state's vanquished enemies were publically displayed in an elaborate parade.

2.16–23: Warnings against ascetic practices. 16: Matters of food and drink, observance of Jewish dietary laws. Festivals, new moons, or sabbaths, a summary of the Jewish religious calendar (e.g., 2 Chr 8.13; Neh 10.33). 17: Shadow . . . substance, Platonic language contrasting the temporal/inferior with the eternal/perfect (see Heb 8.5n.). 18: Ascetic practices (self-abasement) used to achieve a mystical ascent to heaven (dwelling on visions); worship of angels may refer to ecstatic participation in worship of God alongside angels or the showing of rever-human way of thinking,^{a 19} and not holding fast to the head, from whom the whole body, nourished and held together by its ligaments and sinews, grows with a growth that is from God.

²⁰ If with Christ you died to the elemental spirits of the universe,^b why do you live as if you still belonged to the world? Why do you submit to regulations,²¹ “Do not handle, Do not taste, Do not touch”?²² All these regulations refer to things that perish with use; they are simply human commands and teachings.²³ These have indeed an appearance of wisdom in promoting self-imposed piety, humility, and severe treatment of the body, but they are of no value in checking self-indulgence.^c

3 So if you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God.² Set your minds on things that are above, not on things that are on earth,³ for you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God.⁴ When Christ who is your^d life is revealed, then you also will be revealed with him in glory.

⁵ Put to death, therefore, whatever in you is earthly: fornication, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed (which is idolatry).⁶ On account of these the wrath of God is coming on those who are disobedient.^{e 7} These are the ways you also once followed, when you were living that life.^{f 8} But now you must get rid of all such things—anger, wrath, malice, slander, and abusive^g language from your mouth.⁹ Do not lie to one another, seeing that you have stripped off the old self with its practices¹⁰ and have clothed yourselves with the new self, which is being renewed in knowledge according to the image of its creator.¹¹ In that renewal^h there is no longer Greek and Jew, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave and free; but Christ is all and in all!

¹² As God’s chosen ones, holy and beloved, clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, meekness, and patience.¹³ Bear with one another and, if anyone has a complaint against another, forgive each other; just as the Lordⁱ has forgiven you, so you also must forgive.¹⁴ Above all, clothe yourselves with love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony.¹⁵ And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in the one body. And be thankful.¹⁶ Let

^a Gk by the mind of his flesh

^b Or the rudiments of the world

^c Or are of no value, serving only to indulge the flesh

^d Other authorities read our

^e Other ancient authorities lack on those who are disobedient (Gk the children of disobedience)

^f Or living among such people

^g Or filthy

^h Gk its creator, “where

ⁱ Other ancient authorities read just as Christ

ence to angels. 19: Head, body, see 1.18n. 20: Died to, no longer under the authority of (vv. 8–15). As if . . . world, see 2.11; 3.1–3. 21: Jewish purity regulations. 22: See Mk 7,7,19. 23: The criticism is either that such practices do not address the author’s moral concerns (3.5,8) or that they inappropriately focus attention on the body (see note c).

3.1–4.6: Ethical implications. 3.1–4: Maintain a heavenly perspective. 1: Raised, 2.12. Seated at the right hand of God, see Eph 1.19–20n. 1–2: Seek . . . set, commands to orient one’s life around the heavenly reality of Christ’s exaltation and authority. 3: Died, see 2.11–12n. Hidden with, expressing an intimate and inseparable connection. 4: Is revealed, at the eschatological judgment.

3.5–11: Reject sins of the old life. 5: Put to death, vehemently refuse to engage in. Fornication . . . evil desire, inappropriate sexual behavior. Idolatry, often linked with sexual sins in Jewish and Christian thought (Hos 4.12–19; Rom 1.23–27; 1 Cor 10.7–8). 6: Wrath, God’s eschatological judgment. 8: Anger . . . abusive language, a list of vices commonly condemned in antiquity (cf. 1 Cor 6.9; Gal 5.19–21). 9–10: Old self . . . new self, another contrast emphasizing the new act of creation (recalling Gen 1.26–27) brought about by baptism (2.12). Stripped off, changing one’s clothing as a metaphor for adopting a new way of life (3.12–14; Eph 4.22–24). 11: An eloquent rejection of privileges based on ethnicity and socioeconomic status; cf. the additional abrogation of a gender hierarchy in Gal 3.28. Barbarian . . . Scythian, shorthand in antiquity for uncultured peoples.

3.12–17: Adopt virtues of the new life. 12: Compassion . . . patience, virtues emphasizing a proper attitude toward oneself and genuine concern for others. 13: Forgive, Eph 4.32; cf. Mt 6.14–15. 16: Word of Christ, teachings concerning Christ.

the word of Christ^a dwell in you richly; teach and admonish one another in all wisdom; and with gratitude in your hearts sing psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs to God.^b ¹⁷ And whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him.

¹⁸ Wives, be subject to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord. ¹⁹ Husbands, love your wives and never treat them harshly.

²⁰ Children, obey your parents in everything, for this is your acceptable duty in the Lord. ²¹ Fathers, do not provoke your children, or they may lose heart. ²² Slaves, obey your earthly masters^c in everything, not only while being watched and in order to please them, but wholeheartedly, fearing the Lord.^c ²³ Whatever your task, put yourselves into it, as done for the Lord and not for your masters,^d ²⁴ since you know that from the Lord you will receive the inheritance as your reward; you serve^e the Lord Christ. ²⁵ For the wrongdoer will be paid back for whatever wrong has been done, and there is no

4 partiality. ¹ Masters, treat your slaves justly and fairly, for you know that you also have a Master in heaven.

² Devote yourselves to prayer, keeping alert in it with thanksgiving. ³ At the same time pray for us as well that God will open to us a door for the word, that we may declare the mystery of Christ, for which I am in prison, ⁴ so that I may reveal it clearly, as I should.

⁵ Conduct yourselves wisely toward outsiders, making the most of the time.^f ⁶ Let your speech always be gracious, seasoned with salt, so that you may know how you ought to answer everyone.

⁷ Tychicus will tell you all the news about me; he is a beloved brother, a faithful minister, and a fellow servant^g in the Lord. ⁸ I have sent him to you for this very purpose, so that you may know how we are^h and that he may encourage your hearts; ⁹ he is coming with Onesimus, the faithful and beloved brother, who is one of you. They will tell you about everything here.

¹⁰ Aristarchus my fellow prisoner greets you, as does Mark the cousin of Barnabas, concerning whom you have received instructions—if he comes to you, welcome him.

¹¹ And Jesus who is called Justus greets you. These are the only ones of the circumcision among my co-workers for the kingdom of God, and they have been a comfort to me.

^a Other ancient authorities read of God, or of the Lord

^b Other ancient authorities read to the Lord

^c In Greek the same word is used for master and Lord

^d Gk not for men

^e Or you are slaves of, or be slaves of ^f Or opportunity

^g Gk slave

^h Other authorities read that I may know how you are

3.18–4.1: Household relationships “in the Lord.” This passage adopts a popular philosophical format of paired commands (wife/husband, etc.) for describing the ancient ideal of the patriarchal family and defends it as appropriate for a community dedicated to Christ as Lord (see the more extensive elaboration in Eph 5.22–6.9). The commands to the male figure somewhat moderate his traditional prerogatives (see 3.19,21; 4.1), although appeal to these rules throughout Christian history has tended to reinforce rather than challenge male authority. 18–19: Wives/husbands, the first of the three fundamental household relationships. Cf. Eph 5:22–33. 18: Be subject, accept a position of subordination. The role of Nympha (4.15n) stands in contrast to the idealized subordinate female. 19: Never treat them harshly, alternatively, “do not be embittered against them.” 20–21: Children/fathers, cf. Eph 6.1–4. 3.22–4.1: Slaves/masters, cf. Eph 6.5–9. This relationship is the most fully developed of the three, placing the burden on the slave to act in a way that does not incur the master’s displeasure.

4.2–6: Final admonitions. 3: Door for the word, an opportunity to preach. Mystery, see 1.26–27n. Prison, see 1.24n. 5: Conduct yourself wisely, perhaps the motivation for advocating the conservative household ethic above. Making the most of the time, recognizing the eschatological urgency. 6: With salt, with graciousness or perhaps wit (cf. Mt 5.13).

4.7–18: Final greetings and instructions. 7: Tychicus, Paul’s associate (Acts 20.4; 2 Tim 4.12), commended like Epaphras (cf. 1.7). 9: Onesimus, see Philem 10–21. 10: Aristarchus, Acts 20.4; 27.2; Philem 24. Welcome him, cf. Paul’s conflict with Mark in Acts 13.13; 15.37–39. 11: Jesus, a common Jewish name. The circumcision, Jewish fol-

¹² Epaphras, who is one of you, a servant^a of Christ Jesus, greets you. He is always wrestling in his prayers on your behalf, so that you may stand mature and fully assured in everything that God wills. ¹³ For I testify for him that he has worked hard for you and for those in Laodicea and in Hierapolis. ¹⁴ Luke, the beloved physician, and Demas greet you. ¹⁵ Give my greetings to the brothers and sisters^b in Laodicea, and to Nympha and the church in her house. ¹⁶ And when this letter has been read among you, have it read also in the church of the Laodiceans; and see that you read also the letter from Laodicea. ¹⁷ And say to Archippus, “See that you complete the task that you have received in the Lord.”

¹⁸ I, Paul, write this greeting with my own hand. Remember my chains. Grace be with you.^c

^a Gk slave

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities add Amen

lowers of the Christian movement, here without negative connotations (cf. Gal 2.12). 12: Epaphras, see 1.7n. 13: Laodicea, Hierapolis, cities located 10 and 15 miles (16 and 24 km), respectively, northwest of Colossae. 14: Luke, 2 Tim 4.11; Philem 24. Traditionally identified as the author of the Gospel of Luke and Acts (see respective Introductions). Demas, 2 Tim 4.10; Philem 24. 15: Brothers and sisters, see Eph 6.23n. Nympha, probably the leader of the church that met in her home (see Philem 1–2). 16: The letter from Laodicea, no letter is extant, although some scholars identify it with Ephesians. This verse attests to the churches’ practice of sharing Paul’s letters prior to their distribution in a collection. 17: Archippus, Philem 2. 18: A final word in the author’s handwriting to authenticate the letter (cf. 1 Cor 16.21; Gal 6.11); the rest of the letter would have been dictated to a secretary (see Rom 16.22).

THE FIRST LETTER OF PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS

NAME AND CANONICAL STATUS

The letter is addressed to the Christ-group comprised of people living in Thessalonica, the capital of the Roman province of Macedonia in northern Greece. The title is secondary, added to the Greek manuscripts probably fairly early during the copying and collecting of Paul's letters. Its status as "first" of two letters is due to its length relative to 2 Thessalonians, since Paul's letters were placed in the canon in order of length.

AUTHORSHIP, DATE, AND HISTORY

Although Paul is the primary writer (1.1; 2.18; 3.5; 5.27), Silvanus and Timothy (1.1) were known to the Thessalonians and likely had a hand in the composition of the letter, as reflected in the many uses of "we" throughout. Though a few late nineteenth-century scholars questioned its authenticity, 1 Thessalonians is widely considered to be a genuine letter of Paul.

Acts 17:1–10 records Paul's visit to Thessalonica as he moves east to west through Macedonia, before turning south to Athens and finally Corinth (Acts 16–18). While in Athens, Paul sends Timothy back to Thessalonica to check on the believers (3.1). By the time Timothy returns, Paul and his entourage have likely moved to Corinth (cf. Acts 18.1), a visit dated ca. 49–51 CE. First Thessalonians is written at this time, making it the earliest surviving letter by Paul.

LITERARY HISTORY, STRUCTURE, AND CONTENTS

Past theories that 1 Thessalonians comprises numerous letter fragments pasted together have not proven persuasive, and the letter is generally seen as a single composition. The one exception is 2.13–16, over which scholars are divided. The inclusion of a second "thanksgiving" section in a letter is unusual, but the harsh, unnuanced words against the Jews especially run counter to Paul's reflections elsewhere (esp. Rom 9–11) and thus cause some scholars to doubt the authenticity of this section. Other scholars find historical or theological reasons to maintain its authenticity by insisting that Paul does not condemn Jews as a people, only those in Judea hostile to Jesus and his followers; Paul himself had been such a zealous persecutor (Gal 1.13–14). The letter has the following structure:

1.1	Opening greeting
1.2–10	Thanksgiving for the Thessalonians' response to the gospel
2.1–12	Recalling Paul's work at Thessalonica
2.13–16	Second thanksgiving (possibly an interpolation)
2.17–3.13	Paul's desire to visit the Thessalonians
4.1–5.11	Responses to issues raised by the Thessalonians <ul style="list-style-type: none">Proper sexual conduct (4.1–8)Care for one another (4.9–12)The fate of the dead and Jesus's return (4.13–18)The timing of Jesus's return (5.1–11)
5.12–22	Community leadership and general exhortations
5.23–28	Closing greeting

INTERPRETATION

The letter aims to maintain and build relationships in the wake of a hasty departure by Paul and his companions from Thessalonica. Overall, it is warm and encouraging. The relationship is affirmed not only in recalling the Thessalonians' initial reception and imitation of the Paul party (1.5–6) but in the familial metaphors the writers employ (2.7,11–12) and the pure motives expressed in the enthusiasm of Paul and his associates while living and working among them (2.5–6,8–10). Paul and his companions long to return to Thessalonica. In the meantime, there are some specific issues that need to be addressed, which are taken up in the second half of the letter: sexual ethics, mutual love and caring among community members, and the fate of those who have died before the return of Jesus, the timing of which is also of concern. Even here, the writers are affirming of the Thessalonians' behavior (4.1,9; 5.11) and simply urge them to continue in what they are already doing.

Richard S. Ascough

1 Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy,
To the church of the Thessalonians in God
the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:
Grace to you and peace.

²We always give thanks to God for all of you and mention you in our prayers, constantly ³remembering before our God and Father your work of faith and labor of love and steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ. ⁴For we know, brothers and sisters^a beloved by God, that he has chosen you, ⁵because our message of the gospel came to you not in word only, but also in power and in the Holy Spirit and with full conviction; just as you know what kind of persons we proved to be among you for your sake. ⁶And you became imitators of us and of the Lord, for in spite of persecution you received the word with joy inspired by the Holy Spirit, ⁷so that you became an example to all the believers in Macedonia and in Achaia. ⁸For the word of the Lord has sounded forth from you not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith in God has become known, so that we have no need to speak about it. ⁹For the people of those regions^b report about us what kind of welcome we had among you, and how you turned to God from idols, to serve a living and true God,¹⁰ and to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead—Jesus, who rescues us from the wrath that is coming.

2 You yourselves know, brothers and sisters,^a that our coming to you was not in vain, ²but though we had already suffered and been shamefully mistreated at Philippi, as you know, we had courage in our God to declare to you the gospel of God in spite of great opposition. ³For our appeal does not spring from deceit or impure motives or trickery, ⁴but just as we have been approved by God to be entrusted with the message of the gospel, even so we speak, not to please mortals, but to please God who tests our hearts. ⁵As you know and as God is our witness, we never came with words of flattery

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk For they

1.1: Greeting. Silvanus, the Latin form of the Greek name Silas, who appears as Paul's companion in Acts (see esp. chs 16–17) and is mentioned as such in 2 Cor 1.19. Timothy is Paul's trusted co-worker and emissary and is credited as a letter co-writer not only here and in 2 Thess but also in 2 Cor, Phil, Philem, and Col. While Greek letters begin with the word "greeting" ("chaire"), here the writers use the similar sounding Gk word for grace ("charis") while also invoking the typical Jewish greeting peace (Heb "shalom") in order to remind the recipients of what God has provided to them.

1.2–10: Opening thanksgiving. 3: The triad faith . . . love . . . hope (cf. 5.8) modifies words that underline the recipients' status as laborers: work . . . labor . . . steadfastness. 6: Persecution here may not indicate persistent maltreatment and harassment by others, but only that the believers' refusal to participate in regular religious rituals is causing them social and occupational discrimination. 7: Macedonia and Achaia, the two Roman provinces in Greece. 9: You turned to God from idols, the addressees are Gentiles rather than Jews or even Jewish sympathizers, neither of which would be described as worshipping "idols." The plural you suggests they changed their allegiance collectively as a group. 10: Mention of wrath indicates that Paul's initial preaching warned of a day of judgment.

2.1–12: Recalling Paul's work at Thessalonica. 1–6: Behind the ardent denial of deceit, impure motives, trickery, flattery, greed, and a desire for praise, there may be a suspicion on the part of some Thessalonian believers that this is precisely what motivated Paul and his companions. In contrast, the writers reassure the believers that they had the full approval of God in acting and speaking as they did. 2: At Philippi, see Acts 16.19–40.

or with a pretext for greed;⁶ nor did we seek praise from mortals, whether from you or from others,⁷ though we might have made demands as apostles of Christ. But we were gentle^a among you, like a nurse tenderly caring for her own children.⁸ So deeply do we care for you that we are determined to share with you not only the gospel of God but also our own selves, because you have become very dear to us.

⁹You remember our labor and toil, brothers and sisters;^b we worked night and day, so that we might not burden any of you while we proclaimed to you the gospel of God.¹⁰ You are witnesses, and God also, how pure, upright, and blameless our conduct was toward you believers.¹¹ As you know, we dealt with each one of you like a father with his children,¹² urging and encouraging you and pleading that you lead a life worthy of God, who calls you into his own kingdom and glory.

¹³We also constantly give thanks to God for this, that when you received the word of God that you heard from us, you accepted it not as a human word but as what it really is, God's word, which is also at work in you believers.¹⁴ For you, brothers and sisters,^b became imitators of the churches of God in Christ Jesus that are in Judea, for you suffered the same things from your own compatriots as they did from the Jews,¹⁵ who killed both the Lord Jesus and the prophets,^c and drove us out; they displease God and oppose everyone¹⁶ by hindering us from speaking to the Gentiles so that they may be saved. Thus they have constantly been filling up the measure of their sins; but God's wrath has overtaken them at last.^d ¹⁷As for us, brothers and sisters,^b when, for a short time, we were made orphans by being separated from you—in person, not in heart—we longed with great eagerness to see you face to face.¹⁸ For we wanted to come to you—certainly I, Paul, wanted to again and again—but Satan blocked our way.¹⁹ For what is our hope or joy or crown of boasting before our Lord Jesus at his coming? Is it not you?²⁰ Yes, you are our glory and joy!

3 Therefore when we could bear it no longer, we decided to be left alone in Athens;² and we sent Timothy, our brother and co-worker for God in proclaiming^e the gospel of Christ, to strengthen and encourage you for the sake of your faith,³ so that no one would be shaken by these persecutions. Indeed, you yourselves know that this is what we are destined for.⁴ In fact, when we were with you, we told you beforehand that we were to suffer persecution; so it turned out,

^a Other ancient authorities read infants

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities read their own prophets

^d Or completely or forever

^e Gk lacks proclaiming

7a: Made demands as apostles: itinerant philosophers would be paid for imparting their wisdom, a practice carried out by some traveling Christian preachers (cf. 1 Cor 9.3–18; 2 Cor 2.17) but not Paul and his companions.

7b: Nurse here might also be rendered “nursing mother” and is a domestic image of concern and nurturing, here particularly so because it is linked to her own children. 9: That Paul and his companions worked daily while they proclaimed . . . the gospel confirms that they supported themselves as manual laborers (cf. 2 Thess 3.7–8), perhaps leatherworkers (cf. Acts 18.3); their workshop may have been the setting in which they secured the first group willing to change their allegiance from idols to God (cf. 1.9).

2.13–16: Second thanksgiving. This passage may not be original to the letter (see Introduction). 14: Became imitators of the churches . . . in Judea suggests a connection between the Gentile believers in Thessalonica and Judeans. If the text is an interpolation, then the claim God's wrath has overtaken them may refer to the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple in 70 CE; if original, it is likely a more general reference to anti-Jewish sentiments in the culture (e.g., Tacitus, Hist. 5.5) or reflects a viewpoint that God has rejected the Jews (contrary to Rom 9–11).

2.17–3.13: Paul's desire to visit the Thessalonians. Paul personally expresses his affection for the Thessalonians and the frustration of separation. 2.18: Reference to Satan suggests that Paul experienced physical impediments to returning that he attributed to demonic forces (cf. 2 Cor 12.7–10), which he fears may also be at work among the Thessalonians (3.5). This impediment may be the persecutions they experience as part of their ongoing proclamations (3.3,4,7). 19: A crown could be used to honor victors in athletic contests as well as patrons and leaders of other groups. Coming, Gk “parousia.” 3.1: In Athens, see Acts 17.15–18.1.

as you know. ⁵For this reason, when I could bear it no longer, I sent to find out about your faith; I was afraid that somehow the tempter had tempted you and that our labor had been in vain.

⁶But Timothy has just now come to us from you, and has brought us the good news of your faith and love. He has told us also that you always remember us kindly and long to see us—just as we long to see you. ⁷For this reason, brothers and sisters, ^aduring all our distress and persecution we have been encouraged about you through your faith. ⁸For we now live, if you continue to stand firm in the Lord. ⁹How can we thank God enough for you in return for all the joy that we feel before our God because of you? ¹⁰Night and day we pray most earnestly that we may see you face to face and restore whatever is lacking in your faith.

¹¹Now may our God and Father himself and our Lord Jesus direct our way to you. ¹²And may the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all, just as we abound in love for you. ¹³And may he so strengthen your hearts in holiness that you may be blameless before our God and Father at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all his saints.

4 Finally, brothers and sisters, ^awe ask and urge you in the Lord Jesus that, as you learned from us how you ought to live and to please God (as, in fact, you are doing), you should do so more and more. ²For you know what instructions we gave you through the Lord Jesus. ³For this is the will of God, your sanctification: that you abstain from fornication; ⁴that each one of you know how to control your own body^b in holiness and honor, ⁵not with lustful passion, like the Gentiles who do not know God; ⁶that no one wrong or exploit a brother or sister^c in this matter, because the Lord is an avenger in all these things, just as we have already told you beforehand and solemnly warned you. ⁷For God did not call us to impurity but in holiness. ⁸Therefore whoever rejects this rejects not human authority but God, who also gives his Holy Spirit to you.

⁹Now concerning love of the brothers and sisters, ^ayou do not need to have anyone write to you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love one another; ¹⁰and indeed you do love all the brothers and sisters^a throughout Macedonia. But we urge you, beloved, ^ato do so more and more, ¹¹to aspire to live quietly, to mind your own affairs, and to work with your hands, as we directed you, ¹²so that you may behave properly toward outsiders and be dependent on no one.

¹³But we do not want you to be uninformed, brothers and sisters, ^aabout those who have died, ^dso that you may not grieve as others do who have no hope. ¹⁴For since we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even

^a Gk brothers

^b Or how to take a wife for himself

^c Gk brother

^d Gk fallen asleep

11–13: This prayer invocation concludes the first section of the letter, with its focus on relationships (love) and shifts toward ethical exhortations (holiness; blameless) of the second. Saints, Gk “holy ones”; a reference either to already-deceased believers in Christ or perhaps to a reference to Zech 14.5 and thus indicating angels.

4.1–8: Proper sexual conduct. 4: Body is only one of three ways to translate the metaphoric use of the Gk “skeuos,” lit. “vessel.” Here it could refer to a man’s wife or his penis. In any case, the general sense is that the Thessalonians preserve sexual decorum in dealing with one another.

4.9–12: Care for one another. 9: The basis for affirming their brotherly and sisterly love (Gk “philadelphia”) rests in their being “God-taught,” a term coined by the writers. 11: Working with your own hands suggests that the Thessalonians are manual laborers like Paul and his companions (see. 2.9n.). 11–12: The injunction to live quietly and be dependent on no one indicates that unlike many other groups at that time, the Thessalonians are not to rely on patrons to fund their activities.

4.13–18: The fate of the dead and Jesus’s return. A message of consolation for the Thessalonians, who seem distraught that some members have died before the return of Jesus. The imagery is similar to that found in 1 Cor 15.51–53, and is developed from Jewish apocalyptic thought. 13: Died, lit., “fallen asleep,” suggesting so, through Jesus, God will bring with him those who have died.^a ¹⁵ For this we declare to you by the word of the Lord, that we who are alive, who are left until the coming of the Lord, will by no means precede those who have died.^a ¹⁶ For the Lord himself, with a cry of command, with the archangel's call and with the sound of God's trumpet, will descend from heaven, and the dead in Christ will rise first. ¹⁷ Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up in the clouds together with them to meet the Lord in the air; and so we will be with the Lord forever. ¹⁸ Therefore encourage one another with these words.

5 Now concerning the times and the seasons, brothers and sisters,^b you do not need to have anything written to you. ² For you yourselves know very well that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night. ³ When they say, "There is peace and security," then sudden destruction will come upon them, as labor pains come upon a pregnant woman, and there will be no escape! ⁴ But you, beloved,^b are not in darkness, for that day to surprise you like a thief; ⁵ for you are all children of light and children of the day; we are not of the night or of darkness. ⁶ So then let us not fall asleep as others do, but let us keep awake and be sober; ⁷ for those who sleep sleep at night, and those who are drunk get drunk at night. ⁸ But since we belong to the day, let us be sober, and put on the breastplate of faith and love, and for a helmet the hope of salvation. ⁹ For God has destined us not for wrath but for obtaining salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, ¹⁰ who died for us, so that whether we are awake or asleep we may live with him. ¹¹ Therefore encourage one another and build up each other, as indeed you are doing.

¹² But we appeal to you, brothers and sisters,^b to respect those who labor among you, and have charge of you in the Lord and admonish you; ¹³ esteem them very highly in love because of their work. Be at peace among yourselves. ¹⁴ And we urge you, beloved,^b to admonish the idlers, encourage the fainthearted, help the weak, be patient with all of them. ¹⁵ See that none of you repays evil for evil, but always seek to do good to one another and to all. ¹⁶ Rejoice always, ¹⁷ pray without ceasing, ¹⁸ give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you. ¹⁹ Do not quench the Spirit. ²⁰ Do not despise the words of prophets,^c ²¹ but test everything; hold fast to what is good; ²² abstain from every form of evil.

^a Gk fallen asleep

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk despise prophecies

a nonpermanent state. 15: By the word of the Lord might refer to a tradition of a teaching of Jesus or Paul may be indicating this was revealed to him by the risen Jesus. We who are alive, also v. 17; the writers anticipate that these events will occur within their own lifetime. 16: Cry, call, and trumpet are associated with the triumphal entrance of an emperor into a city. 17: When the dead and living are caught up in the clouds together their communal identity is reforged; separation is only temporary. 18: The purpose of this brief description is not to be predictive of the last days but to encourage the Thessalonians.

5.1–11: The timing of Jesus's return. 2: Thief in the night suggests being taken by surprise (cf. Mt 24.20–43; 2 Pet 3.10). 3: Peace and security may be a deliberate challenge to the Roman imperial authorities who pride themselves on maintaining such. 4: Unlike robbery (v. 2), childbirth is not wholly unexpected; curiously, pregnancy, which brings life, is used to describe destruction. 6–8: The point of all the imagery is to exhort the Thessalonians to vigilance in living out their commitments to God; cf. Rom 13.11–13; Eph 6.13–17. 11: The Thessalonians should encourage one another about Jesus's return rather than worry about identifying precise timelines or specific events.

5.12–22: Local leadership issues. 12–13: There is a local leadership structure in place. On prophets, see 1 Cor 14.1–5. 14–15: The ethical imperatives here are similar to ones found within ancient philosophical literature; see also Rom 12.17; 1 Pet 3.9. Although idlers could refer to those refusing to work, it more likely indicates those who are disruptive at gatherings. 16–18: As with the previous admonitions, these too are community focused and set within the context of Christian worship.

²³ May the God of peace himself sanctify you entirely; and may your spirit and soul and body be kept sound^a and blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁴ The one who calls you is faithful, and he will do this.

²⁵ Beloved,^b pray for us.

²⁶ Greet all the brothers and sisters^c with a holy kiss. ²⁷ I solemnly command you by the Lord that this letter be read to all of them.^d

²⁸ The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.^e

^a Or complete

^b Gk Brothers

^c Gk brothers

^d Gk to all the brothers

^e Other ancient authorities add Amen

5:23–28: Closing greeting: 26: The imperative for a kiss greeting among the Christ-adherents reflects a widespread cultural practice, although the adjective holy suggests there is a deeper commitment that unites them (cf. Rom 16.16; 1 Cor 16.20; 2 Cor 13.12; 1 Pet 5.14). 27: Be read to all: In antiquity the majority could not read, thus the writers want to ensure that everyone in the Christ-group be privy to the words in this letter through a public reading.

THE SECOND LETTER OF PAUL TO THE THESSALONIANS

NAME AND CANONICAL STATUS

The letter is designated “second” as it is the shorter of the two letters addressed to Christ-adherents resident in Thessalonica (for details see Introduction to 1 Thessalonians).

AUTHORSHIP, DATE, AND HISTORY

The authorship of 2 Thessalonians has been disputed since the nineteenth century. Although attributed like 1 Thessalonians to Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy (1.1), notable linguistic and stylistic differences may indicate different writers. More significantly, the difficulty in reconciling the end-time (eschatological) scenarios laid out in 1 Thess 4.13–5.11 and 2 Thess 2.1–12 have caused many commentators to doubt they come from the same hand. Particularly troublesome is reconciling the insistence in 1 Thess 5.1–11 that there will be no signs preceding the return of Jesus with the affirmation in 2 Thess 2.1–12 that recognizable signs will take place first. In the annotations we assume that 2 Thessalonians dates after Paul’s death but is written in his style to address the Christ-group in the city of Thessalonica that faces new issues not anticipated in the first letter.

If the letter was written by Paul and his companions then it probably dates to shortly after 1 Thessalonians in the early 50s CE. If pseudonymous, it is most likely a late first- to early second-century composition.

LITERARY HISTORY, STRUCTURE, AND CONTENTS

Despite controversy over authorship, the literary integrity of 2 Thessalonians has not been brought into question. It is shorter than most other Pauline letters and follows the Greco-Roman letter writing conventions: opening, thanksgiving, body, closing.

1.1–2	Opening greeting
1.3–12	Thanksgiving for how the Thessalonians face adversity
2.1–12	Reassurances about the timing of Jesus’s return
2.13–17	Second thanksgiving affirming God’s faithfulness
3.1–5	Exhortation to prayer and steadfastness
3.6–15	Instruction concerning disorderly members
3.16–18	Closing greeting

The inclusion of a second thanksgiving (2.13–17) is not typical of Greco-Roman letters generally, or any other New Testament letters, except 1 Thessalonians. In the latter, the content of the second thanksgiving (2.13–16) has caused some scholars to see it as a later interpolation (see Introduction to 1 Thessalonians). In the case of 2 Thessalonians, the content itself is unproblematic. Consequently, the presence of a second thanksgiving, along with other parallel features, may indicate that a later writer copied the structure of 1 Thessalonians. Alternatively, similarity in structure and parallel features may be a mark of shared authorship. Scholars remain divided on the question.

INTERPRETATION

Second Thessalonians addresses community issues that have developed since the writing of 1 Thessalonians. Particularly problematic is the disruptiveness caused by some believers refusing to work and creating friction among members (3.6–16). Of more consequence, however, are claims that the day of the Lord has arrived, and that somehow the Thessalonians have missed the opportunity to be gathered with Jesus (2.1–2). Second Thessalonians asserts that the rumors are false, and exhorts the Thessalonians to stay the course in living out their faith commitments, even when they face opposition (1.4–6; 3.3–5).

Throughout the history of biblical interpretation the apocalyptic passages of 1 and 2 Thessalonians have been blended with passages taken from other Jewish and Christian apocalyptic texts (e.g., Dan; Mk 13; Rev)

to create a single, unified narrative. Such impulses must be avoided. The scenario outlined in 2 Thessalonians is distinctive and much remains perplexing to modern readers, who no longer share the same cultural milieu.

Similarities to 1 Thessalonians, in structure and more importantly in content, include the positive emphasis on manual labor and a deep-seated concern among the recipients concerning the nature and timing of Jesus's return and the coming of God's wrath. Yet, significant differences are also striking, such as the nature and severity of the recipients' suffering and especially the details of the eschatological scenario in each letter. In any case, whether by the hand of Paul or a later writer, 2 Thessalonians, like the first letter, is primarily concerned to reassure the believers in the steadfastness of their faith commitment to God (1.3–4, 11–12; 2.15–17; 3.4–5).

Richard S. Ascough

1 Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy,
To the church of the Thessalonians in God
our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

² Grace to you and peace from God our^a Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

³ We must always give thanks to God for you, brothers and sisters,^b as is right, because your faith is growing abundantly, and the love of every one of you for one another is increasing. ⁴ Therefore we ourselves boast of you among the churches of God for your steadfastness and faith during all your persecutions and the afflictions that you are enduring.

⁵ This is evidence of the righteous judgment of God, and is intended to make you worthy of the kingdom of God, for which you are also suffering. ⁶ For it is indeed just of God to repay with affliction those who afflict you, ⁷ and to give relief to the afflicted as well as to us, when the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with his mighty angels⁸ in flaming fire, inflicting vengeance on those who do not know God and on those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord

Jesus. ⁹ These will suffer the punishment of eternal destruction, separated from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of his might, ¹⁰ when he comes to be glorified by his saints and to be marveled at on that day among all who have believed, because our testimony to you was believed. ¹¹ To this end we always pray for you, asking that our God will make you worthy of his call and will fulfill by his power every good resolve and work of faith, ¹² so that the name of our Lord Jesus may be glorified in you, and you in him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 As to the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered together to him, we beg you, brothers and sisters,^b not to be quickly shaken in mind or alarmed, either by spirit or by word or by letter, as though from us, to the effect that the day of the Lord is already here. ³ Let no one deceive you in any way; for that day will not come unless the

^a Other ancient authorities read the

^b Gk brothers

1.1–2: Opening greeting. The opening is almost identical to that of 1 Thess, except for the addition of from God ... Christ in v. 2. On co-authorship, and on grace ... peace, see 1 Thess 1.1n.

1.3–12: Thanksgiving for how the Thessalonians face adversity. The writers assure the Thessalonians that God is still with them in their suffering and thus they should persevere. 4–5: The afflictions seem to be much more intense than in 1 Thess (see 1.6; 3.3.7), perhaps involving physical violence (persecutions). Scholars are divided as to whether the source of such suffering is the imperial authorities or members of other groups in the city. 6: In the end, justice will be served when God punishes the perpetrators. 7: The risen Jesus bears the imperial title Lord. 8: Vengeance, better, “justice.” 8–9: The images of fire and destruction seem to expand the “coming wrath” of 1 Thess 1.10. 10–12: In contrast to the destruction of their enemies, the Thessalonian believers (saints) will glorify Jesus at his coming, as they do now in how they live.

2.1–12: Reassurances about the timing of Jesus's return. 2: False rumors are spreading in writing (by letter) and orally (by word; by spirit, perhaps indicative of false prophets). As though from us clearly indicates that pseudonymous letters were in circulation. Day of the Lord is the time of God's apocalyptic judgment (mentioned in 1 Thess 5.2; cf. Isa 13.6; Joel 2.1; Amos 5.18), which still lies in the future. 3: In contrast to 1 Thess 5.2–3, the writers rebellion comes first and the lawless one^a is revealed, the one destined for destruction.^b

⁴ He opposes and exalts himself above every so-called god or object of worship, so that he takes his seat in the temple of God, declaring himself to be God. ⁵ Do you not remember that I told you these things when I was still with you? ⁶ And you know what is now restraining him, so that he may be revealed when his time comes. ⁷ For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work, but only until the one who now restrains it is removed.

⁸ And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord Jesus^c will destroy^d with the breath of his mouth, annihilating him by the manifestation of his coming. ⁹ The coming of the lawless one is apparent in the working of Satan, who uses all power, signs, lying wonders,¹⁰ and every kind of wicked deception for those who are perishing, because they refused to love the truth and so be saved.

¹¹ For this reason God sends them a powerful delusion, leading them to believe what is false,¹² so that all who have not believed the truth but took pleasure in unrighteousness will be condemned.

¹³ But we must always give thanks to God for you, brothers and sisters^e beloved by the Lord, because God chose you as the first fruits^f for salvation through sanctification by the Spirit and through belief in the truth.

¹⁴ For this purpose he called you through our proclamation of the good news,⁹ so that you may obtain the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

¹⁵ So then, brothers and sisters,^e stand firm and hold fast to the traditions that you were taught by us, either by word of mouth or by our letter.

¹⁶ Now may our Lord Jesus Christ himself and God our Father, who loved us and through grace gave us eternal comfort and good hope,¹⁷ comfort your hearts and strengthen them in every good work and word.

3 Finally, brothers and sisters,^e pray for us, so that the word of the Lord may spread rapidly and be glorified everywhere, just as it is among you,² and that we may be rescued from wicked and evil people; for not all have faith. ³ But the Lord is faithful; he will strengthen you and guard you from the evil one.^h ⁴ And we have confidence in the Lord concerning you, that you are doing and will

^a Gk the man of lawlessness; other ancient authorities read the man of sin

^b Gk the son of destruction

^c Other ancient authorities lack Jesus

^d Other ancient authorities read consume

^e Gk brothers

^f Other ancient authorities read from the beginning

^g Or through our gospel

^h Or from evil

note a series of events that will anticipate Jesus's return, including rebellion (better, "apostasy") and indicates a falling away from commitment to God. 3–4: The lawless one (lit., "the man of lawlessness") is a human person who disobeys God's rules and claims divinity for himself. He is an agent of Satan (v. 9) but not a supernatural being, and not to be conflated with the antichrist(s) of 1 Jn 2:18,22 (cf. 4:3; 2 Jn 7) or the beasts of Rev 13 (esp. v. 18). Yet, as in Revelation, the image of the lawless one may refer to a Roman emperor. Clearly the letter audience could identify the referent, even if the modern reader cannot. 6–7: The implication is that God is ultimately in control by restraining the lawless one until the proper time. 8–9: Jesus will destroy the agent of Satan, but not before there is widespread deception among those who refuse to believe in God. With the breath of his mouth, cf. Job 4:9; Isa 11:4. 11: Even in the delusion, God is in control.

2:13–17: Second thanksgiving affirming God's faithfulness. 13: Just as God is in control of the events marking the last days (2:1–12), so also God chose those who now believe in the truth (cf. 1 Thess 1:4). 15: As a result of being chosen, the Thessalonians must stand firm and hold fast to traditions, i.e., to the things told to them by Paul and his companions verbally and in writing. The letter may refer to 1 Thessalonians, and is a contrast to the false letter mentioned in 2.2. 16–17: As with 1 Thess 3:11–12 (see note there), the invocation shifts the focus of this letter toward practical matters.

3:1–5: Exhortation to prayer and steadfastness. 2: As is the case with the Thessalonians, wicked and evil people are also plaguing Paul and his companions. 3: The evil one, see Mt 6:13. 4: The writers express their confidence that the Thessalonians are already faithfully enacting the commands (and traditions) given to them (cf. 1:4; 2:15) and will continue to do so.

go on doing the things that we command.

⁵ May the Lord direct your hearts to the love of God and to the steadfastness of Christ.

⁶ Now we command you, beloved,^a in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, to keep away from believers who are^b living in idleness and not according to the tradition that they^c received from us. ⁷ For you yourselves know how you ought to imitate us; we were not idle when we were with you, ⁸ and we did not eat anyone's bread without paying for it; but with toil and labor we worked night and day, so that we might not burden any of you. ⁹ This was not because we do not have that right, but in order to give you an example to imitate. ¹⁰ For even when we were with you, we gave you this command: Anyone unwilling to work should not eat. ¹¹ For we hear that some of you are living in idleness, mere busybodies, not doing any work. ¹² Now such persons we command and exhort in the Lord Jesus Christ to do their work quietly and to earn their own living. ¹³ Brothers and sisters,^d do not be weary in doing what is right.

¹⁴ Take note of those who do not obey what we say in this letter; have nothing to do with them, so that they may be ashamed. ¹⁵ Do not regard them as enemies, but warn them as believers.^e

¹⁶ Now may the Lord of peace himself give you peace at all times in all ways. The Lord be with all of you.

¹⁷ I, Paul, write this greeting with my own hand. This is the mark in every letter of mine; it is the way I write. ¹⁸ The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with all of you.^f

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk from every brother who is

^c Other ancient authorities read you

^d Gk Brothers

^e Gk a brother

^f Other ancient authorities add Amen

3.6–15: Instruction concerning disorderly members. Alongside trouble from outsiders (cf. 1.4–8), some group members are creating internal disturbances and refusing to work (v. 11). The writers argue that persons that refuse to integrate into the group are not to be welcome at community meals. 6: Living in idleness, the Greek phrase can also indicate persons who are being disorderly and disruptive, a much more frequently attested problem among groups in antiquity and thus also part of the meaning of the phrase here. 7–8: Paul and his companions worked among the Thessalonians as laborers to earn their keep (cf. 1 Thess 2.9; 4.11–12). 9: On the right to support see 1 Thess 2.7; 1 Cor 9.4–15. 10: The context in which the Thessalonians could enforce the injunction against eating would be a shared community meal, from which the lazy and disruptive could be banned. 14–15: Group members are to avoid engaging with anyone who refuses to adhere to the group norms even though they are still considered to be believers (lit., “as a brother”).

3.16–18: Closing greeting. 16,18: Peace and grace recall 1.1. The assertion to be writing with my own hand is identical to the phrase in 1 Cor 16.21 and Col 4.18 and similar to Gal 6.11 and Philem 19. Every letter of mine is an overstatement as it is missing in other canonical letters by Paul.

INTRODUCTION TO THE PASTORAL EPISTLES

The term “Pastoral Epistles” has been applied, since the eighteenth century, to the three letters from Paul to his two co-workers and envoys, Timothy and Titus. The name reflects the central concern in these three epistles for the internal life, governance, and behavior of Christian communities and their members. Scholars have long debated whether these letters were written by the apostle Paul himself, or by a later disciple who sought to provide guidance for Pauline churches in new times and places. While most scholars today regard them as pseudepigraphical (that is, ascribed to the authority of a major figure but not actually written by him, a custom well attested in ancient literature), there is not complete unanimity on the question.

The conclusion that these three epistles were not written by Paul is based upon literary, historical, and theological criteria. First and Second Timothy and Titus share a common Greek vocabulary and style that diverges in many ways from the other Pauline epistles. Historically, the Pastoral Epistles appear to presume an institutionalized leadership in local communities with bishops and deacons, and internal dissent over issues of faith and practice, which better fits a period late in the first or early in the second century CE when Paul was no longer alive. It is possible to see how some passages may have been written to explain or definitively interpret passages in the authentic letters already in circulation (such as 1 Tim 2.9–19; cf. 1 Cor 14.33–36). Theologically these letters minimize or lack characteristic Pauline themes (such as justification by faith, and the church as the body of Christ) in favor of a new emphasis on adherence to tradition and regulation as signs of the Christian piety they seek to inculcate in their readers. Although Timothy and Titus had been Paul’s trusted co-workers for decades, the first letter to Timothy and the letter to Titus present the recipients as needing basic instructions for community leadership. They represent a bridge between the apostle and later generations. Second Timothy is less concerned with regulating the life of the Christian communities than Titus and 1 Timothy. It has been described as a “testament,” the last words of the apostle to a close associate. It looks forward to the difficulties facing Timothy and others after Paul’s death with foreboding, and bears some similarity to the Paul’s genuine letter to the Philippians in this regard.

Recent challenges to the pseudepigraphical nature of all three letters have come from scholars who argue that each should be judged separately, that the letters contain fragments of original Pauline material, or that the very concept of “authorship” of a Pauline letter requires nuance, given that Paul used secretaries and served as a member of a cooperative missionary team. Still, the prevailing view of scholars is that these letters were not written by Paul but are later compositions seeking to “fix” his legacy (in both senses of the term). Even if not composed by Paul, they have historically had a very influential role in Christian thought and practice, and the controversies they sought to “fix”—such as the roles of women in the church—remain alive to the present day.

Neither is there scholarly unanimity about which other letters are certainly authentic nor which parts of those are most tellingly “Pauline” for comparison with these epistles. Each reader should consider the evidence about the authorship of the Pastorals cumulatively, first as a question of historical fact—did Paul write them or not? Then, and separately, one should reflect on the interpretative and theological implications of such a decision, for the denial of Pauline authorship may or may not entail a loss of authoritative status for that document within a particular religious community.

Regardless of authorship, the Pastoral Epistles share a common rhetorical strategy: each is addressed to a single individual among Paul’s co-workers but also has in mind a wider circle of readers. In each the author presents himself as a Paul who speaks in his letters via the epistolary medium as an unambiguously authoritative figure of the past to church leaders and members of later generations who did not know him personally.

Margaret M. Mitchell

THE FIRST LETTER OF PAUL TO TIMOTHY

NAME, AUTHORSHIP, AND BACKGROUND

This letter is named for its recipient, Paul's "loyal child" Timothy (1.2); for further information on Timothy, see the Introduction to 2 Timothy, p. 1735. It presents Paul as a wise and sure teacher who hands on to his student his deposit of tradition, his "sound teaching" (1.10; 4.6), so that this fixed legacy will be passed down with fidelity to the next generation. (On the authorship and date of this letter, see 1725.) The letter presents a vision of household ethics that joins instructions on Christian "godliness" (or "piety"; 2.2) for the individual with a church order of regulations and qualifications for various roles (bishops, deacons, widows, elders) in the church, designated "the household of God" (3.15). This advice is set in a dual context formed, positively, by the warmly remembered relationship between Paul and Timothy, and, negatively, by frequent allusions to purveyors of alternate teachings in or near Timothy's church in Ephesus.

STRUCTURE

After an epistolary prescript (1.1–2) the author launches (without the customary thanksgiving) into the body of the letter, which is roughly arranged with alternating sections of contrast between true and false teaching (1.3–2.15; 4.1–5.2; 6.2b–21a) and instructions for church order and governance, understood as the means for living in the church of God (3.1–16; 5.3–6.2a). The letter concludes with summary exhortations to Timothy to guard this tradition with which he has been entrusted (6.11–21). Unusually, it lacks greetings to or from friends and associates. As with all Pauline letters a final benediction (6.21) seals the letter, perhaps in anticipation of liturgical use.

INTERPRETATION

Although the author names two of his Christian opponents (1.20), exactly what they taught, and why, is only hazily sketched here in vituperative terms: They have "deviated" from the truth (1.6); they have "suffered shipwreck in the faith" (1.19). No definitive reconstruction is possible from these verbal assaults, but it seems that these opponents have some connection with Judaism and Torah observance, "myths and endless genealogies" (1.4), and ascetic practices, such as rejecting marriage and abstaining from certain foods (4.3). There may be a link between the Christians whom this author opposes and those who held to traditions found in the later apocryphal Acts of Paul and Thecla that validate women's ministries and claim Paul as the champion of an ascetic and celibate lifestyle. On this view, 1 Timothy is a kind of "corrective composition" whose author is seeking to "fix" Paul's legacy for an early second-century CE audience and its concerns.

Sometimes Timothy is directly addressed (1.18; 6.20), but more often he recedes into the background, and the author speaks to a more universal readership. As ethical instruction (parenesis), 1 Timothy is cast in characteristic forms of Greco-Roman moral exhortation, such as Seneca's Moral Epistles and the pseudepigraphical Socratic and Neopythagorean letters. These include letters between friends or teachers and students about progress in the ethical life, lists of virtues and vices, and contrasts between illustrious examples and notorious counterexamples. Likewise, the content is in many ways similar to that literature, with emphasis on decorum and decency, on the hierarchical, orderly disposition of the patriarchal household, on reliable speech, and against accumulation of wealth. But the letter's theological universe, which is punctuated by shorthand terminology and quotations from established traditions, is distinctly Christian.

Margaret M. Mitchell

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the command of God our Savior and of Christ Jesus our hope,

²To Timothy, my loyal child in the faith:

Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

³I urge you, as I did when I was on my way to Macedonia, to remain in Ephesus so that you may instruct certain people not to teach any different doctrine, ⁴and not to occupy themselves with myths and endless genealogies that promote speculations rather than the divine training^a that is known by faith.

⁵But the aim of such instruction is love that comes from a pure heart, a good conscience, and sincere faith. ⁶Some people have deviated from these and turned to meaningless talk, ⁷desiring to be teachers of the law, without understanding either what they are saying or the things about which they make assertions.

⁸Now we know that the law is good, if one uses it legitimately. ⁹This means understanding that the law is laid down not for the innocent but for the lawless and disobedient, for the godless and sinful, for the unholy and profane, for those who kill their father or mother, for murderers, ¹⁰fornicators, sodomites, slave traders, liars, perjurers, and whatever else is contrary to the sound teaching ¹¹that conforms to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which he entrusted to me.

¹²I am grateful to Christ Jesus our Lord, who has strengthened me, because he judged me faithful and appointed me to his service, ¹³even though I was formerly a blasphemer, a persecutor, and a man of violence. But I received mercy because I had acted ignorantly in unbelief, ¹⁴and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. ¹⁵The saying is sure and worthy of full acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners—of whom I am the foremost. ¹⁶But for that very reason I received mercy, so that in me, as the foremost, Jesus Christ might display the utmost patience, making me an example to those who would come to believe in him for eternal life. ¹⁷To the King of the ages, immortal, invisible, the only God, be honor and glory forever and ever.^b Amen.

¹⁸I am giving you these instructions, Timothy, my child, in accordance with the prophecies made earlier about you, so that by following them you may fight the good fight, ¹⁹having faith and a good conscience. By rejecting conscience, certain persons have suffered shipwreck in the faith; ²⁰among them are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I have turned over to Satan, so that they may learn not to blaspheme.

^a Or plan

^b Gk to the ages of the ages

1.1–2: Epistolary prescript: sender, addressees, and salutation, following the typical form of a Pauline letter (see Philem 1.1–3), with the addition of mercy in the greeting (cf. 2 Tim 1.2).

1.3–2.15: The contrast of true and false teaching (part one).

1.3–11: Opening warning against false teachers, in place of a thanksgiving formula (cf. Philem 4–9), signaling the urgency of the problem, as the author sees it. 3: Instruct, the author's main purpose (1.5,18; 4.11; 5.7; 6.13,17). 4: Myths and endless genealogies, uncertain, but probably speculations on biblical texts (cf. 4.7; Titus 1.14; 3.9). Divine training, or “plan,” or “stewardship.” 5: Love . . . conscience . . . faith, for Paul's usual triad of faith, love, and hope (1 Thess 1.3; 5.8; 1 Cor 13.13). 6: Deviated, see 6.21n. 7: The law, presumably the Torah. 9–10: An implied critique of the false teachers as ethically depraved; cf. catalogues of vice in Rom 1.29–31; 1 Cor 5.11; 6.9–10; Gal 5.19–21.

1.12–2.0: Contrasting portraits of faithfulness and faithlessness. 12–17: A portrait of Paul, the blasphemer transformed into the faithful proclaimer; cf. the different portrayals in Paul's letters (1 Cor 15.8–10; Gal 1.13–24; Phil 3.5–11), and in Acts 9. 15: The saying is sure, a favored formula in the Pastorals (see 3.1; 4.9; 2 Tim 2.11; Titus 3.8). 17: Theology cast as doxology (cf. 6.15–16). 18: Prophecies, see 4.14. 19: Conscience, the seat of self-awareness of guilt or innocence (a key theme; see 1.5; 3.9; 4.2; 2 Tim 1.3; Titus 1.15). 20: Hymenaeus (unknown apart from here and 2 Tim 2.17) and Alexander (likely to be identified with “Alexander the coppersmith” in 2 Tim 4.14; perhaps Acts 19.33), characterized as blasphemers (cf. 1.13). Turned over to Satan, for correction or punishment (cf. 1 Cor 5.5). Satan or the devil is mentioned frequently in the Pastorals; see 3.6,7; 5.15; 2 Tim 2.26.

2 First of all, then, I urge that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and thanksgivings be made for everyone, ² for kings and all who are in high positions, so that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and dignity. ³ This is right and is acceptable in the sight of God our Savior, ⁴ who desires everyone to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth. ⁵ For there is one God;

there is also one mediator between God and humankind,

Christ Jesus, himself human,

⁶ who gave himself a ransom for all—this was attested at the right time. ⁷ For this I was appointed a herald and an apostle (I am telling the truth,^a I am not lying), a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and truth.

⁸ I desire, then, that in every place the men should pray, lifting up holy hands without anger or argument; ⁹ also that the women should dress themselves modestly and decently in suitable clothing, not with their hair braided, or with gold, pearls, or expensive clothes, ¹⁰ but with good works, as is proper for women who profess reverence for God. ¹¹ Let a woman^b learn in silence with full submission. ¹² I permit no woman^b to teach or to have authority over a man;^c she is to keep silent. ¹³ For Adam was formed first, then Eve;¹⁴ and Adam was not deceived, but the woman was deceived and became a transgressor. ¹⁵ Yet she will be saved through childbearing, provided they continue in faith and love and holiness, with modesty.

3 The saying is sure:^d whoever aspires to the office of bishop^e desires a noble task. ² Now a bishop^f must be above reproach, married only once,^g temperate, sensible, respectable, hospitable, an apt teacher, ³ not a drunkard, not violent but gentle, not quarrelsome, and not a lover of money. ⁴ He must manage his own household well, keeping his children submissive and respectful in every way—⁵ for if someone does not know how to manage his own household, how can he take care of God's church? ⁶ He must not be a recent convert, or he may be puffed up with conceit and fall into the condemnation of the devil. ⁷ Moreover, he must be well thought

^a Other ancient authorities add in Christ

^b Or wife

^c Or her husband

^d Some interpreters place these words at the end of the previous paragraph. Other ancient authorities read The saying is commonly accepted

^e Or overseer

^f Or an overseer

^g Gk the husband of one wife

2.1–8: Instruction on prayer. 1–3: Accommodation with worldly authorities urged for the sake of peace for the church (see Rom 13.1–7). The irenic tone circumvents the difficult question of the limits of Christian acquiescence to an emperor who was honored as a god by daily worship and oaths of allegiance. Godliness, or “piety” (Gk “eusebeia”), a predominant concern of the Pastoral Epistles (3.16, translated “religion”; 4.7,8; 6.3,5,6; 2 Tim 3.5; Titus 1.1). The rationale given for such prayer is both strategic (2.2b) and theological (2.3–7). 4: Strong emphasis on God as universal savior (cf. 4.10). Knowledge of the truth, as found in the gospel proclamation (see 2 Tim 2.25; 3.7; Titus 1.1). 5: One God . . . one mediator, a reformulation of the Shema (see Deut 6.4–9n.; cf. 1 Cor 8.6; Eph 4.5–6). 7: The title herald, although sometimes implied (e.g., 2 Cor 4.5; 5.20), is not found in the undisputed letters of Paul (unlike apostle); cf. 2 Tim 1.11.

2.9–15: The proper demeanor of faithful women. The author wishes to show Paul unambiguously opposed to women holding leadership and teaching positions on the grounds that it threatens conventional domestic order (also 5.3–16). Paul had left an ambiguous legacy on women: while he upheld a gender distinction in worship (1 Cor 11.2–16), Rom 16.1–7 shows he respected women as deacons and apostles. 9: Dress themselves modestly, a standard concern of Stoic and other Hellenistic moralists. And decently, Gk “sophrosunē” (“moderation”), one of the four cardinal virtues of Greek philosophical thought. 11–12: Very similar to the contested passage 1 Cor 14.34–35 (see note there). 13–14: A reading of Gen 2–3 assigning all the blame to the woman (contrast Rom 5.12–21). 15: She will be saved through childbearing, a soteriology (theology of salvation) at odds with Paul's justification by faith (Gal 2.16; Rom 1.16–17). Modesty, Gk “sophrosunē”; see v. 9n.

3.1–16: Living in the church of God (part one). Qualifications for bishops (3.1–7) and deacons (3.8–13), already established ecclesial offices (contrast 1 Cor 12.28; Phil 1.1n.). 1,2: Bishop, (Gk “episkopos”), “overseer,” one who looks after church affairs (see note e). 5: God's church (cf. v. 15, “the household of God”) envisioned as an of by outsiders, so that he may not fall into disgrace and the snare of the devil.

⁸ Deacons likewise must be serious, not double-tongued, not indulging in much wine, not greedy for money; ⁹ they must hold fast to the mystery of the faith with a clear conscience. ¹⁰ And let them first be tested; then, if they prove themselves blameless, let them serve as deacons. ¹¹ Women^a likewise must be serious, not slanderers, but temperate, faithful in all things. ¹² Let deacons be married only once,^b and let them manage their children and their households well; ¹³ for those who serve well as deacons gain a good standing for themselves and great boldness in the faith that is in Christ Jesus.

¹⁴ I hope to come to you soon, but I am writing these instructions to you so that, ¹⁵ if I am delayed, you may know how one ought to behave in the household of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and bulwark of the truth. ¹⁶ Without any doubt, the mystery of our religion is great:

He^c was revealed in flesh, vindicated^d in spirit,^e
seen by angels,
proclaimed among Gentiles, believed in throughout the world,
taken up in glory.

4 Now the Spirit expressly says that in later^f times some will renounce the faith by paying attention to deceitful spirits and teachings of demons, ² through the hypocrisy of liars whose consciences are seared with a hot iron. ³ They forbid marriage and demand abstinence from foods, which God created to be received with thanksgiving by those who believe and know the truth. ⁴ For everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected, provided it is received with thanksgiving; ⁵ for it is sanctified by God's word and by prayer.

⁶ If you put these instructions before the brothers and sisters,^g you will be a good servant^h of Christ Jesus, nourished on the words of the faith and of the sound teaching that you have followed. ⁷ Have nothing to do with profane myths and old wives' tales. Train yourself in godliness, ⁸ for, while physical training is of some value, godliness is valuable in every way, holding promise for both the present life and the life to come. ⁹ The saying is sure and worthy of full acceptance. ¹⁰ For to this end we toil and struggle,ⁱ because we have our hope set on the living God, who is the Savior of all people, especially of those who believe.

¹¹ These are the things you must insist on and teach. ¹² Let no one despise your youth, but set the believers an example in speech and conduct, in love, in faith, in purity. ¹³ Until I arrive, give attention to the public reading of scripture,^j to exhorting, to teaching.

¹⁴ Do not neglect the gift that is in you, which was given to you through prophecy with the laying on of hands by the council of elders.^k

^a Or Their wives, or Women deacons

^b Gk be husbands of one wife

^c Gk Who; other ancient authorities read God; others, Which

^d Or justified

^e Or by the Spirit

^f Or the last

^g Gk brothers

^h Or deacon

ⁱ Other ancient authorities read suffer reproach

^j Gk to the reading

^k Gk by the presbytery

orderly patriarchal Greco-Roman household. 11: Women deacons (but see note a for the ambiguity), such as Phoebe (Rom 16.1). If women deacons are intended, the short treatment may be due to the author's anxiety about female leadership (see 2.9–15; 5.3–16). 14–15: If I am delayed, an epistolary commonplace, here suggesting verisimilitude (cf. Rom 15.24; 1 Cor 16.7; Philem 22; Phil 2.24). Whether he is dead or alive, the letter takes Paul's place. 16: Perhaps from an early hymn.

4.1–5.2: The contrast of true and false teaching (part two). 1: The later times (see textual note f), often associated with false teachings (Mk 13.21–23; 2 Thess 2.1–16; cf. 2 Tim 4.3–4). 3: They forbid marriage and demand abstinence from foods, clearest statement of the opponents' ascetic practices. 6: The sound teaching, the reliable tradition the Pastoral Epistles pass on (1.10; 4.1,6,13,16; 5.17; 6.1,3; 2 Tim 1.13; 3.10,16; 4.3; Titus 1.9; 2.1,7,10). 7: Myths, see 1.4n. 7–10: The life of faith compared to training for an athletic contest (cf. 1 Cor 9.24–27; 2 Tim 2.5). 13: A glimpse into the contents of an early Christian worship service. 14: The laying on of hands, a gesture mark-

¹⁵ Put these things into practice, devote yourself to them, so that all may see your progress. ¹⁶ Pay close attention to yourself and to your teaching; continue in these things, for in doing this you will save both yourself and your hearers.

5 Do not speak harshly to an older man,^a but speak to him as to a father, to younger men as brothers,² to older women as mothers, to younger women as sisters—with absolute purity.

³ Honor widows who are really widows.

⁴ If a widow has children or grandchildren, they should first learn their religious duty to their own family and make some repayment to their parents; for this is pleasing in God's sight. ⁵ The real widow, left alone, has set her hope on God and continues in supplications and prayers night and day; ⁶ but the widow^b who lives for pleasure is dead even while she lives. ⁷ Give these commands as well, so that they may be above reproach. ⁸ And whoever does not provide for relatives, and especially for family members, has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever.

⁹ Let a widow be put on the list if she is not less than sixty years old and has been married only once;^c ¹⁰ she must be well attested for her good works, as one who has brought up children, shown hospitality, washed the saints' feet, helped the afflicted, and devoted herself to doing good in every way. ¹¹ But refuse to put younger widows on the list; for when their sensual desires alienate them from Christ, they want to marry, ¹² and so they incur condemnation for having violated their first pledge. ¹³ Besides that, they learn to be idle, gadding about from house to house; and they are not merely idle, but also gossips

and busybodies, saying what they should not say. ¹⁴ So I would have younger widows marry, bear children, and manage their households, so as to give the adversary no occasion to revile us. ¹⁵ For some have already turned away to follow Satan. ¹⁶ If any believing woman^d has relatives who are really widows, let her assist them; let the church not be burdened, so that it can assist those who are real widows.

¹⁷ Let the elders who rule well be considered worthy of double honor,^e especially those who labor in preaching and teaching; ¹⁸ for the scripture says, "You shall not muzzle an ox while it is treading out the grain," and, "The laborer deserves to be paid." ¹⁹ Never accept any accusation against an elder except on the evidence of two or three witnesses. ²⁰ As for those who persist in sin, rebuke them in the presence of all, so that the rest also may stand in fear. ²¹ In the presence of God and of Christ Jesus and of the elect angels, I warn you to keep these instructions without prejudice, doing nothing on the basis of partiality. ²² Do not ordain^f anyone hastily, and do not participate in the sins of others; keep yourself pure.

²³ No longer drink only water, but take a little wine for the sake of your stomach and your frequent ailments.

²⁴ The sins of some people are conspicuous and precede them to judgment, while the sins

^a Or an elder, or a presbyter

^b Gk she

^c Gk the wife of one husband

^d Other ancient authorities read believing man or woman; others, believing man

^e Or compensation

^f Gk Do not lay hands on

ing the succession of ministerial authorization (see 5.22, textual note f; 2 Tim 1.6; Acts 6.6). 15: Your progress, Gk "prokopē," the Stoic concept of ethical advancement (for the opposite, see 2 Tim 2.16; 3.9,13).

5.3–6.2a: Living in the church of God (part two). Three groups of persons are singled out for instructions: widows (vv. 3–16), elders (vv. 17–20), and slaves (6.1–2). 3–16: Real widows (vv. 3,5,16), an attempt to regulate and restrict the practice of dedicated widowhood by insisting on the maintenance of the conventional patriarchal household. Not less than sixty years old, well beyond usual life expectancy. Has been married only once, the Roman ideal of the univira (see note c). 9: Put on the list, designated for communal support. 13: Stereotypical caricature of idle women as busybodies. 14: The adversary, see 1.20n.; 3.7. Also can be a reference to human opponents (cf. 1 Cor 16.9; Phil 1.28).

18a: Deut 25.4. 18b: A saying of Jesus, according to Lk 10.7. 19: Two or three witnesses, Deut 19.15; 2 Cor 13.1. 22: Ordain, see textual note f and 4.14n. 23: A little wine, in contrast to the asceticism of the opponents; see of others follow them there.²⁵ So also good works are conspicuous; and even when they are not, they cannot remain hidden.

6 Let all who are under the yoke of slavery regard their masters as worthy of all honor, so that the name of God and the teaching may not be blasphemed.² Those who have believing masters must not be disrespectful to them on the ground that they are members of the church;^a rather they must serve them all the more, since those who benefit by their service are believers and beloved.^b

Teach and urge these duties.³ Whoever teaches otherwise and does not agree with the sound words of our Lord Jesus Christ and the teaching that is in accordance with godliness,⁴ is conceited, understanding nothing, and has a morbid craving for controversy and for disputes about words. From these come envy, dissension, slander, base suspicions,⁵ and wrangling among those who are depraved in mind and bereft of the truth, imagining that godliness is a means of gain.^c ⁶Of course, there is great gain in godliness combined with contentment;⁷ for we brought nothing into the world, so that^d we can take nothing out of it;⁸ but if we have food and clothing, we will be content with these.⁹ But those who want to be rich fall into temptation and are trapped by many senseless and harmful desires that plunge people into ruin and destruction.¹⁰ For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, and in their eagerness to be rich some have wandered away from the faith and pierced themselves with many pains.

¹¹But as for you, man of God, shun all this; pursue righteousness, godliness, faith, love, endurance, gentleness.¹² Fight the good fight of the faith; take hold of the eternal life, to which you were called and for which you made^e the good confession in the presence of many witnesses.¹³ In the presence of God, who gives life to all things, and of Christ Jesus, who in his testimony before Pontius Pilate made the good confession, I charge you¹⁴ to keep the commandment without spot or blame until the manifestation of our Lord Jesus Christ,¹⁵ which he will bring about at the right time—he who is the blessed and only Sovereign, the King of kings and Lord of lords.¹⁶ It is he alone who has immortality and dwells in unapproachable light, whom no one has ever seen or can see; to him be honor and eternal dominion. Amen.

¹⁷As for those who in the present age are rich, command them not to be haughty, or to set their hopes on the uncertainty of riches, but rather on God who richly provides us with everything for our enjoyment.¹⁸ They are to do good, to be rich in good works, generous, and ready to share,¹⁹ thus storing up for themselves the treasure of a good foundation for the future, so that they may take hold of the life that really is life.

^a Gk are brothers

^b Or since they are believers and beloved, who devote themselves to good deeds

^c Other ancient authorities add Withdraw yourself from such people

^d Other ancient authorities read world—it is certain that

^e Gk confessed

4.3n. 6.1–2: Reminiscent of the exhortations in Eph 6.5–9; Col 3.22–4.1, but lacking a reciprocal exhortation to the owners.

6.2b–21: The contrast of true and false teaching (part three). 3–5: A concluding portrait of the unsound teacher (cf. 1.3–11). 6–10: The catchword gain leads to a favorite philosophical and biblical (Job 1.21; Eccl 5.15) commonplace about the false security of riches (taken up again in 6.17–19). 6: Contentment (also v. 8), “autarkeia,” a Stoic term meaning “self-sufficiency.” 11–12: Fight the good fight, compare 1.18 and 2 Tim 4.7. 13: Pontius Pilate, the only New Testament reference to the Roman governor of Judea outside the Gospels and Acts (Mt 27.2; Lk 3.1; Acts 4.27). The good confession, see Jn 18.33–38, but cf. Mt 27.11–13. 14: Commandment, a reference to the testimony in this letter, or perhaps the same as the “good confession” in v. 12. Manifestation (lit., “epiphany”), a reference to the Second Coming (a favored term in the Pastorals: 2 Tim 1.10; 4.1,8; Titus 2.13). 15–16: A hymn to the sovereignty of God as all-powerful, immortal, and invisible (Ex 33.20; Rom 1.23; Col 1.15; Jn 1.18). 19: The treasure, for the theme, see Mt 6.19–20; Lk 12.21; 2 Esd 7.77.

²⁰ Timothy, guard what has been entrusted to you. Avoid the profane chatter and contradictions of what is falsely called knowledge; ²¹ by professing it some have missed the mark as regards the faith.

Grace be with you.^a

^a The Greek word for you here is plural; in other ancient authorities it is singular. Other ancient authorities add Amen.

6.20–21: Timothy the guardian of the true teaching. 20: What has been entrusted to you (lit., “the deposit”), the teachings in this letter, a vaccination against false teaching. Contradictions (Gk “antitheseis”), the title of a work by Marcion (ca. 140 CE), whose canon did not include the Pastoral Epistles. What is falsely called knowledge, an epithet that will become a standard part of orthodox “anti-Gnostic” heresiological rhetoric. Contemporary scholars doubt there was a single “Gnostic” religious group. 21: Missed the mark, a characterization of all opponents, which frames the letter (see also 1.6, “have deviated from,” more literally, “being off the mark,” and 2 Tim 2.18).

6.21b: Concluding benediction.

THE SECOND LETTER OF PAUL TO TIMOTHY

NAME, AUTHORSHIP, AND BACKGROUND

The second letter addressed to Paul's "beloved child" Timothy, despite similarities in address and diction, has a more personal tone than the first. (On the authorship and date of this letter, see p. 1725.) Less concerned with church order and roles, here Paul is portrayed as in prison, awaiting trial and expecting death (2.9; 4.6–8, 16). In testamentary fashion the apostle hands on to his spiritual heir, Timothy, the wisdom accumulated through a life of mission, ministry, and, above all, suffering for the gospel. The letter is set within a carefully scripted historical scenario marked by Paul's imminent death and Timothy's bereavement, at a time of distortions to the apostle's "sound teaching" (1.13; see 4.3).

Timothy is named as co-sender of six Pauline letters (2 Cor 1.1; Phil 1.1; Col 1.1; 1 Thess 1.1; 2 Thess 1.1; Philem 1). They present Timothy as one of his most loyal co-workers, who acted as a trusted delegate to churches (1 Thess 3.2–6; 1 Cor 4.17; 16.10; Phil 2.19–22). According to Acts 16, Timothy's mother was Jewish and his father Greek. That later account imagines that Paul had him circumcised in the face of anticipated Jewish hostility (an event not corroborated in Paul's epistles). This letter sketches Timothy's life in broad strokes, from his early immersion in the scriptures (2 Tim 3.15) and matrilineal Christian pedigree (1.5), to his authorization for ministry by the laying on of Paul's hands (1.6), and his present ecclesiastical challenges. Most prominent in the letter, however, is the detailed and moving portrait of Paul, though ignominiously cast in prison for the gospel in Rome (1.8,16–17; 2.9), forsaken even by close friends (1.15; 4.10,16), nonetheless empowered by his Lord not only to endure suffering and death but to celebrate it as the fitting culmination to his life of apostolic ministry and service (4.6–8,17–18).

STRUCTURE AND INTERPRETATION

The theme of 2 Timothy is announced in 1.8: Timothy and all who follow him should not be ashamed of the gospel or its representative, Paul, but should stand in fidelity to them, even to the point of suffering. Second Timothy follows a regular epistolary structure with an opening prescript (1.1–2), thanksgiving (1.3–7), body (1.8–4.18), greetings and closing (4.19–22). Timothy is urged to contemplate the positive example of Paul (1.8–14) and the negative one afforded by those who deserted Paul in time of need (1.15–18).

The essential principle of the argument is appeal to example (Paul as one who suffered for the gospel: 1.12; 2.9–10; 3.11; 4.6–7, 16–18), and call for imitation, by Timothy (2.3; 4.5), and by all readers through him (see especially 2.11–12). Further, the exhortation to Timothy to be strong and teach others correctly (2.1–13) is contrasted with false teachers who must be contended with (2.14–26), for, as expected at the end-time, signs of their appearance are already here (3.1–9). But Timothy is to follow in Paul's footsteps (3.10–4.5). These exhortations culminate in the depiction of the dying apostle's reflections on his life and its imminent conclusion (4.6–8; cf. Phil 1.12–26). The letter ends on a hopeful note as the imprisoned Paul exults in divine deliverance (both past and future) and issues spirited directives for the ministry, including a future visit from Timothy (4.9, 21).

Margaret M. Mitchell

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, for the sake of the promise of life that is in Christ Jesus,

²To Timothy, my beloved child:

Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

³I am grateful to God—whom I worship with a clear conscience, as my ancestors did—when I remember you constantly in my prayers night and day. ⁴Recalling your tears, I long to see you so that I may be filled with joy. ⁵I am reminded of your sincere faith, a faith that lived first in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice and now, I am sure, lives in you. ⁶For this reason I remind you to rekindle the gift of God that is within you through the laying on of my hands; ⁷for God did not give us a spirit of cowardice, but rather a spirit of power and of love and of self-discipline.

⁸Do not be ashamed, then, of the testimony about our Lord or of me his prisoner, but join with me in suffering for the gospel, relying on the power of God, ⁹who saved us and called us with a holy calling, not according to our works but according to his own purpose and grace. This grace was given to us in Christ Jesus before the ages began, ¹⁰but it has now been revealed through the appearing of our Savior Christ Jesus, who abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. ¹¹For this gospel I was appointed a herald and an apostle and a teacher,^a ¹²and for this reason I suffer as I do. But I am not ashamed, for I know the one in whom I have put my trust, and I am sure that he is able to guard until that day what I have entrusted to him.^b ¹³Hold to the standard of sound teaching that you have heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. ¹⁴Guard the good treasure entrusted to you, with the help of the Holy Spirit living in us.

¹⁵You are aware that all who are in Asia have turned away from me, including Phygelus and Hermogenes. ¹⁶May the Lord grant mercy to the household of Onesiphorus, because he often refreshed me and was not ashamed of my chain; ¹⁷when he arrived in Rome, he eagerly^c searched for me and found me ¹⁸—may the Lord grant that he will find mercy from the Lord on that day! And you know very well how much service he rendered in Ephesus.

2 You then, my child, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus; ²and what you have heard from me through many witnesses entrust to faithful people who will be able to teach others as well. ³Share in suffering like a good soldier of Christ Jesus. ⁴No one serving in the army gets entangled in everyday affairs; the soldier's aim is to please the enlisting officer. ⁵And in the case of an athlete, no one is crowned without competing according to the rules. ⁶It is the farmer who does the

^a Other ancient authorities add of the Gentiles

^b Or what has been entrusted to me

^c Or promptly

1.1–2: Epistolary prescript (see 1 Tim 1.1n.) The promise of life, see 1 Tim 4.8.

1.3–7: Thanksgiving for Timothy's faith. 3: I remember you constantly in my prayers, cf. 1 Thess 1.2–3; Philem 4; Rom 1.9; Phil 1.3–4. 5: Lois and Eunice: Timothy's "living faith" is a matrilineal inheritance. 6: I remind you, memory plays a key role in the exhortation (also 2.8,14). Laying on of my hands, see 1 Tim 4.14n.

1.8–14: Theme: shared suffering, rather than shame, for the gospel and its apostle. 8: Ashamed, the expected response to imprisonment; see also 1.12,16; 2.15. 9–10: Gospel proclamation in shorthand form, with characteristic themes. 9: Before the ages began, see Titus 1.2; cf. Jn 1.2–3. 10: Appearing, see 1 Tim 6.14n. Abolished death, cf. 1 Cor 15.26,54–57. 11: Herald and an apostle, see 1 Tim 2.7n. 12: The one in whom I have put my trust, Timothy, and each subsequent reader who stands in his place. What I have entrusted to him (lit., "the deposit"), as in 1.14; 1 Tim 6.20; cf. 2.2, a major theme of the Pastorals. That day, the Second Coming of Christ, the eschaton, see v. 18; 4.8; 2 Thess 1.10. 13: Sound teaching, see 1 Tim 4.6n.

1.15–18: Examples, worthy and unworthy. 15: Asia, a Roman province in Asia Minor. Phygelus and Hermogenes, otherwise unknown. Turned away from me, Paul's abandonment is depicted again in 4.10,16. 16: Onesiphorus, see 4.19. My chain, i.e., imprisonment; see 2.9. 18: That day, see v. 12n.

2.1–13: Timothy's charge to suffer for the gospel. 2: Entrust, Timothy is to hand on the deposit he received from Paul (see 1.12n.) to the next generation. 4–6: Soldier, athlete, farmer, commonplaces from three professions work who ought to have the first share of the crops.⁷ Think over what I say, for the Lord will give you understanding in all things.

⁸ Remember Jesus Christ, raised from the dead, a descendant of David—that is my gospel,⁹ for which I suffer hardship, even to the point of being chained like a criminal. But the word of God is not chained.¹⁰ Therefore I endure everything for the sake of the elect, so that they may also obtain the salvation that is in Christ Jesus, with eternal glory.¹¹ The saying is sure:

If we have died with him, we will also live with him;

¹² if we endure, we will also reign with him; if we deny him, he will also deny us;

¹³ if we are faithless, he remains faithful—for he cannot deny himself.

¹⁴ Remind them of this, and warn them before God^a that they are to avoid wrangling over words, which does no good but only ruins those who are listening.¹⁵ Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved by him, a worker who has no need to be ashamed, rightly explaining the word of truth.¹⁶ Avoid profane chatter, for it will lead people into more and more impiety,¹⁷ and their talk will spread like gangrene. Among them are Hymenaeus and Philetus,¹⁸ who have swerved from the truth by claiming that the resurrection has already taken place. They are upsetting the faith of some.¹⁹ But God's firm foundation stands, bearing this inscription: "The Lord knows those who are his," and, "Let everyone who calls on the name of the Lord turn away from wickedness."

²⁰ In a large house there are utensils not only of gold and silver but also of wood and clay, some for special use, some for ordinary.²¹ All who cleanse themselves of the things I have mentioned^b will become special utensils, dedicated and useful to the owner of the house, ready for every good work.²² Shun youthful passions and pursue righteousness, faith, love, and peace, along with those who call on the Lord from a pure heart.²³ Have nothing to do with stupid and senseless controversies; you know that they breed quarrels.²⁴ And the Lord's servant^c must not be quarrelsome but kindly to everyone, an apt teacher, patient,²⁵ correcting opponents with gentleness. God may perhaps grant that they will repent and come to know the truth,²⁶ and that they may escape from the snare of the devil, having been held captive by him to do his will.^d

3 You must understand this, that in the last days distressing times will come.² For people will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boasters, arrogant, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy,³ inhuman, implacable, slanderers, profligates, brutes, haters of good,⁴ treacherous, reckless, swollen with conceit, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God,⁵ holding to the outward form of godliness but denying its power. Avoid them!⁶ For among them are

^a Other ancient authorities read the Lord

^b Gk of these things

^c Gk slave

^d Or by him, to do his (that is, God's) will about the cost of securing divine favor. 8: Another encapsulation of the gospel (cf. 1.10; Rom 1.3). 11: The saying is sure, see 1 Tim 1.15n. 11–13: A series of parallel clauses, suggesting to some scholars a quotation from a hymn. Died with him ... live with him, Rom 6.5–11; 2 Cor 5.14–15. Reign with him, in glory at the end-time (1 Cor 4.8). Deny him, Mt 10.33; Mk 8.38; 1 Jn 2.22–23.

2.14–26: Strategies for proper combat with false teachers. 14: Wrangling over words, Gk "logomachia," a special concern of the Pastoral epistles (see 1 Tim 6.4). 17: Hymenaeus, 1 Tim 1.20. Philetus, otherwise unknown. Gangrene, the opposite of "healthy" teaching (see 1.13n.). 18: Swerved from the truth, see 1 Tim 6.21n. The resurrection has already taken place (cf. 1 Cor 15.12), a glimpse at the eschatology of the opponents, though not the theology behind it. 19: God's firm foundation (cf. 1 Tim 6.19), as known in scripture. This inscription, a quotation from Num 16.5; the second sentence has resonances with Isa 26.13; Job 36.10; Sir 17.26. 20–21: Utensils ... some for special use, some for ordinary (lit., "some for honor, some for dishonor"); cf. Rom 9.19–23. 23: Stupid and senseless controversies, see 1 Tim 6.4; Titus 3.9. 26: Held captive, "captured and kept alive" (the same verb is used in Lk 5.10).

3.1–9: End-time now: a close-up picture of the opposition. 1: The last days, seen as both future and already present. 2–4: Vice catalogue (see 1 Tim 1.9–10n.). 5: Godliness, see 1 Tim 2.1–3n. 6: Captivate silly women, ancient those who make their way into households and captivate silly women, overwhelmed by their sins and swayed by all kinds of desires, ⁷who are always being instructed and can never arrive at a knowledge of the truth. ⁸As Jannes and Jambres opposed Moses, so these people, of corrupt mind and counterfeit faith, also oppose the truth. ⁹But they will not make much progress, because, as in the case of those two men,^a their folly will become plain to everyone.

¹⁰Now you have observed my teaching, my conduct, my aim in life, my faith, my patience, my love, my steadfastness, ¹¹my persecutions, and my suffering the things that happened to me in Antioch, Iconium, and Lystra. What persecutions I endured! Yet the Lord rescued me from all of them. ¹²Indeed, all who want to live a godly life in Christ Jesus will be persecuted. ¹³But wicked people and impostors will go from bad to worse, deceiving others and being deceived. ¹⁴But as for you, continue in what you have learned and firmly believed, knowing from whom you learned it, ¹⁵and how from childhood you have known the sacred writings that are able to instruct you for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. ¹⁶All scripture is inspired by God and is^b useful for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, ¹⁷so that everyone who belongs to God may be proficient, equipped for every good work.

4 In the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who is to judge the living and the dead, and in view of his appearing and his kingdom, I solemnly urge you: ²proclaim the message; be persistent whether the time is favorable or unfavorable; convince, rebuke, and encourage, with the utmost patience in teaching. ³For the time is coming when people will not put up with sound doctrine, but having itching ears, they will accumulate for themselves teachers to suit their own desires, ⁴and will turn away from listening to the truth and wander away to myths. ⁵As for you, always be sober, endure suffering, do the work of an evangelist, carry out your ministry fully.

⁶As for me, I am already being poured out as a libation, and the time of my departure has come. ⁷I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. ⁸From now on there is reserved for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will give me on that day, and not only to me but also to all who have longed for his appearing.

⁹Do your best to come to me soon, ¹⁰for Demas, in love with this present world, has deserted me and gone to Thessalonica; Crescens has gone to Galatia,^c Titus to Dalmatia. ¹¹Only Luke is with me. Get Mark and bring him with you, for he is useful in my ministry. ¹²I have sent Tychicus to Ephesus. ¹³When you come, bring the cloak that I left with Car-

^a Gklacks two men

^b Or Every scripture inspired by God is also

^c Other ancient authorities read Gaul

negative caricature of women, employed as part of the invective against the opponents (cf. 1 Tim 2.11–12; 4.7). 7: Knowledge of the truth, see 1 Tim 2.4n. 8: Jannes and Jambres, the names of the Egyptian magicians who opposed Moses (Ex 7.11), according to postbiblical Jewish tradition.

3.10–4.5: Timothy's charge to steadfastness in his ministry. 11: Antioch, Iconium, and Lystra, cf. the order of Paul's persecutions in Acts 13.14–14.23 (which may suggest knowledge of Acts by this author). 15–16: Sacred writings, scripture, the Jewish scriptures (the Hebrew Bible in the ancient Greek version, the Septuagint), which Christians will later call the Old Testament. 4.1: Appearing, see 1 Tim 6.14n. Kingdom, also 4.18. 2: A succinct list of the tasks of church leaders. 3–4: The false teachers as purveyors of myths (cf. 1 Tim 1.4; 4.7; Titus 1.14). 5: Evangelist, Eph 4.11; Acts 21.8.

4.6–8: Paul's reflections on his impending death. 6–7: Sacrificial (Phil 2.17) and athletic (1 Cor 9.24–27; Phil 2.16; 1 Tim 6.12; Acts 20.24) metaphors applied to Paul's missionary life. 8: Crown of righteousness, the winner's prize, signifying positive judgment from the Lord at his Second Coming (1 Thess 2.19; 1 Cor 9.25; Phil 4.1).

4.8–18: An update from prison. 9: An abrupt shift from the previous indication of Paul's imminent death (also 4.21). 10–11: Paul's abandonment at the end (also 1.15; 4.16). 10–12: Demas, Luke, Mark, cf. Philem 24 and Col 4.10–14. Crescens, mentioned only here. On Titus, see Introduction to Titus. 12: Tychicus, see Col 4.7; cf. Eph 6.21–22; Acts 20.4; Titus 3.12. 13: Troas, ancient Troy, the departure point from Asia to Europe (2 Cor 2.12–13;

pus at Troas, also the books, and above all the parchments. ¹⁴ Alexander the coppersmith did me great harm; the Lord will pay him back for his deeds. ¹⁵ You also must beware of him, for he strongly opposed our message.

¹⁶ At my first defense no one came to my support, but all deserted me. May it not be counted against them! ¹⁷ But the Lord stood by me and gave me strength, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. So I was rescued from the lion's mouth. ¹⁸ The Lord will rescue me from every evil attack and save me for his heavenly kingdom. To him be the glory forever and ever. Amen.

¹⁹ Greet Prisca and Aquila, and the household of Onesiphorus. ²⁰ Erastus remained in Corinth; Trophimus I left ill in Miletus. ²¹ Do your best to come before winter. Eubulus sends greetings to you, as do Pudens and Linus and Claudia and all the brothers and sisters.^a

²² The Lord be with your spirit. Grace be with you.^b

^a Gk all the brothers

^b The Greek word for you here is plural. Other ancient authorities add Amen.

Acts 16.8–12). Carpus, mentioned only here. The books, and above all the parchments, a suggestive but unspecific reference to Paul's literary proclivities. 14: Alexander, see 1 Tim 1.20n. 16: My first defense, probably a preliminary hearing (cf. Phil 1.7). 17: The Lord ... gave me strength, as he will Timothy (2.1; also 1 Tim 1.12). Rescued from the lion's mouth, Ps 21.22 (LXX); Dan 6.21; 1 Macc 2.60.

4.19–21: Epistolary greetings. 19: Prisca and Aquila, prominent missionary team and close associates of Paul (Rom 16.3; 1 Cor 16.19; Acts 18.2,18). Onesiphorus, 1.16–17. 20: Erastus, the city-treasurer of Corinth (Rom 16.23; cf. Acts 19.22). Trophimus, Acts 20.4; 21.29. 21: All of these people who are with Paul (despite 4.11!) are found only here. Come before winter, while a sea voyage is possible.

4.22: Concluding benediction.

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO TITUS

NAME, AUTHORSHIP, AND BACKGROUND

This letter, which has many similarities to 1 Timothy, is named for its recipient, Paul's envoy and co-worker Titus. It is cast as a reminder and incitement to Titus to complete his mission on Crete (1.5). Acts and the other Pauline letters do not mention any apostolic mission on this, the largest of the Aegean islands and home to a large Jewish community. Those who argue that the letter is genuine contend that such a mission could have taken place after Paul's imprisonment at Rome recounted in Acts 28, while those who regard it as pseudepigraphical (see Introduction to the Pastoral Epistles, 1725) think the author has chosen Crete as a locale representing quintessential disobedience (1.12), or because of a later tradition associating Titus with the island.

Although Titus is not mentioned in Acts, Paul's letters ascribe a prominent role to an associate named Titus. According to Gal 2.3 Titus was a Gentile who accompanied Paul to the conference with the Jerusalem apostles, where Titus served as a litmus test for the acceptability of uncircumcised Gentile converts. Titus played a crucial role in the pastoral ministry to Corinth, first as a key administrator of the collection for the church in Jerusalem (2 Cor 8.6,16–17,23; 12.18), and later as Paul's diplomatic envoy who successfully brokered a reconciliation between the apostle and the Corinthian church, which had harbored doubts about Paul's legitimacy and financial reliability (2 Cor 2.13; 7.6–7,13–16).

STRUCTURE AND INTERPRETATION

The letter to Titus is framed as a commissioning letter. After the usual epistolary prescript (1.1–4, which is expanded with a theological creed), the body of the letter focuses on Titus's dual mandate to correct things on Crete and to appoint elders (1.5–16). The basis for his ministry follows in instructions concerning the submission expected of various groups in the church (2.1–10), the theological basis for pious living (2.11–15), and a final section bringing the two themes—submission and good works—together (3.1–11). The letter concludes with a discussion of travel plans (3.12–13), a final exhortation to good works (3.14), epistolary greetings (3.15a), and a benediction (3.15b).

Titus receives a dual task from his mentor, Paul: “putting things in order” (1.5) by exhorting the faithful in sound teaching (1.9,13; 2.1–2,8), and refuting the opposition (2.2,15; cf. 1.9). The mainstay of sound teaching, as the author defines it, is strict maintenance of a patriarchal church order and the proper submission it demands (2.5,9; 3.1; contrast the characterization of the opponents as “insubordinate” or “rebellious” in 1.6,10). This ethic of the “household code” as applied to the Christian house-church reflects the wider cultural context of Hellenism in the Roman empire and is characteristic of the Pastoral epistles. The second task, the refutation of opponents (depicted as fellow Christians of Jewish background who adhere to the requirements of the law of Moses, the Torah, such as dietary laws), is addressed by the author by sharp invective and ridicule (1.10–16; 2.8; 3.9–11) rather than theological debate, which the author appears to eye largely with suspicion (1.13–14; 3.9–11).

Though short, this letter is theologically packed, requiring readers to pause and reconstruct the underlying gospel narrative and theological concepts, which the author often invokes by terse shorthand. Passages such as 1.1–3; 2.11–14; and 3.4–7 allow for instructive comparison with other tight Pauline formulations (see Gal 4.1–11; Rom 3.21–26; 2 Tim 1.9–10), so the theology constructed here can be appreciated both for its distinctiveness and for its continuity with earlier traditions.

Margaret M. Mitchell

1 Paul, a servant^a of God and an apostle of Jesus Christ, for the sake of the faith of God's elect and the knowledge of the truth that is in accordance with godliness,² in the hope of eternal life that God, who never lies, promised before the ages began—³ in due time he revealed his word through the proclamation with which I have been entrusted by the command of God our Savior,

⁴ To Titus, my loyal child in the faith we share:

Grace^b and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Savior.

⁵ I left you behind in Crete for this reason, so that you should put in order what remained to be done, and should appoint elders in every town, as I directed you: ⁶ someone who is blameless, married only once,^c whose children are believers, not accused of debauchery and not rebellious. ⁷ For a bishop,^d as God's steward, must be blameless; he must not be arrogant or quick-tempered or addicted to wine or violent or greedy for gain; ⁸ but he must be hospitable, a lover of goodness, prudent, upright, devout, and self-controlled. ⁹ He must have a firm grasp of the word that is trustworthy in accordance with the teaching, so that he may be able both to preach with sound doctrine and to refute those who contradict it.

¹⁰ There are also many rebellious people, idle talkers and deceivers, especially those of the circumcision; ¹¹ they must be silenced, since they are upsetting whole families by teaching for sordid gain what it is not right to teach. ¹² It was one of them, their very own prophet, who said,

“Cretans are always liars, vicious brutes, lazy gluttons.”

¹³ That testimony is true. For this reason rebuke them sharply, so that they may become sound in the faith,¹⁴ not paying attention to Jewish myths or to commandments of those who reject the truth. ¹⁵ To the pure all things are pure, but to the corrupt and unbelieving nothing is pure. Their very minds and consciences are corrupted. ¹⁶ They profess to know God, but they deny him by their actions. They are detestable, disobedient, unfit for any good work.

2 But as for you, teach what is consistent with sound doctrine. ² Tell the older men to be temperate, serious, prudent, and sound in faith, in love, and in endurance.

³ Likewise, tell the older women to be reverent in behavior, not to be slanderers or slaves to drink; they are to teach what is good,⁴ so that they may encourage the young women to love their husbands, to love their children,⁵ to be self-controlled, chaste, good managers of the household, kind, being submissive to their husbands, so that the word of God may not be discredited.

^a Gk slave

^b Other ancient authorities read Grace, mercy,

^c Gk husband of one wife

^d Or an overseer

1.1–4: Epistolary prescript, sender, addressee, and salutation with theological expansion reminiscent of Rom 1.2–6 (cf. 1 Cor 2.7; Col 1.26; 2 Tim 1.10). 2: God, who never lies, cf. v. 12. Before the ages began, see 2 Tim 1.9; cf. Jn 1.2–3. 3: God our Savior, also 2.10; 3.4; 1 Tim 1.1; 2.3; 4.10. 4: Christ Jesus our Savior, also 2.13; 3.6; 2 Tim 1.10.

1.5–16: Titus's commission in Crete. 5–7: Elders . . . bishop, apparently regarded as synonymous or at least overlapping categories (cf. 1 Tim 3.1–7; 5.17–20). 6: Rebellious, lit., “insubordinate” (also 1.10). 7: Steward, manager of the household (cf. 1 Cor 4.1–2). 9: Sound doctrine, the reliable tradition the Pastoralists pass on; see 1 Tim 4.6n. 10: Those of the circumcision, Jewish Christians who teach adherence to Torah, the law of Moses (see Gal 2.12), including dietary laws (see v. 15). 11: Upsetting whole families, lit., “households,” the basic unit of civic and church life. 12: Invective against opponents supported by a hexameter from the Cretan poet Epimenides (ca. 600 BCE). 13: Sound in the faith, having a “healthy” faith (also 2.2; see 1 Tim 4.6n.). 14: Jewish myths, probably speculations on biblical texts like Genesis; see 3.9; 1 Tim 1.4; 4.7. 15: Cf. Rom 14.14. 16: Good work, see 2.7,14; 3.1,8,14 (also 3.8n.).

2.1–10: The proclamation of sound teaching in submission. A catalogue of virtues reflecting and inscribing the hierarchical order of the Greco-Roman household (v. 2, older men; vv. 3–5, women, older and younger; vv. 6–8, younger men; vv. 9–10, slaves). 2: Faith . . . love . . . endurance, a variation on Paul's usual triad of faith, love, and hope (1 Cor 13.13; 1 Thess 1.3; 5.8; cf. 1 Tim 1.5). 5: Being submissive, the author seeks to rein in the insubordinate (1.6,10) by calling for obedience to superiors (also 2.9; 3.1) and adherence to the model of Titus (v. 7).

⁶Likewise, urge the younger men to be self-controlled. ⁷Show yourself in all respects a model of good works, and in your teaching show integrity, gravity, ⁸and sound speech that cannot be censured; then any opponent will be put to shame, having nothing evil to say of us.

⁹Tell slaves to be submissive to their masters and to give satisfaction in every respect; they are not to talk back, ¹⁰not to pilfer, but to show complete and perfect fidelity, so that in everything they may be an ornament to the doctrine of God our Savior.

¹¹For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation to all, ^a ¹²training us to renounce impiety and worldly passions, and in the present age to live lives that are self-controlled, upright, and godly, ¹³while we wait for the blessed hope and the manifestation of the glory of our great God and Savior, ^b Jesus Christ. ¹⁴He it is who gave himself for us that he might redeem us from all iniquity and purify for himself a people of his own who are zealous for good deeds.

¹⁵Declare these things; exhort and reprove with all authority. ^c Let no one look down on you.

3 Remind them to be subject to rulers and authorities, to be obedient, to be ready for every good work, ²to speak evil of no one, to avoid quarreling, to be gentle, and to show every courtesy to everyone.

³For we ourselves were once foolish, disobedient, led astray, slaves to various passions and pleasures, passing our days in malice and envy, despicable, hating one another. ⁴But when the goodness and loving kindness of God our Savior appeared, ⁵he saved us, not because of any works of righteousness that we had done, but according to his mercy, through the water^d of rebirth and renewal by the Holy Spirit. ⁶This Spirit he poured out on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, ⁷so that, having been justified by his grace, we might become heirs according to the hope of eternal life. ⁸The saying is sure.

I desire that you insist on these things, so that those who have come to believe in God may be careful to devote themselves to good works; these things are excellent and profitable to everyone. ⁹But avoid stupid controversies, genealogies, dissensions, and quarrels about the law, for they are unprofitable and worthless. ¹⁰After a first and second admonition, have nothing more to do with anyone who causes divisions, ¹¹since you know that such a person is perverted and sinful, being self-condemned.

¹²When I send Artemas to you, or Tychicus, do your best to come to me at Nicopolis, for I have decided to spend the winter there. ¹³Make every effort to send Zenas the lawyer

^a Or has appeared to all, bringing salvation

^b Or of the great God and our Savior

^c Gk commandment

^d Gk washing

2.11–15: The theological basis for present pious living. 11: The grace of God has appeared (lit., “been manifested”), in the life, death, and resurrection of Christ (cf. 3.4). 13: The manifestation (lit., “epiphany”), a reference to the Second Coming, as elsewhere in the Pastorals (1 Tim 6.14; 2 Tim 1.10; 4.1,8). Our great God and Savior, Jesus Christ, if translated this way (see note b), is one of the few places in the New Testament where Christ may be referred to as God (Jn 1.18; 20.28; Rom 9.5). 14: Who gave himself, Gal 1.4; 2.20; Eph 5.2; 1 Tim 2.6. Redeem us, buy back from slavery (Rom 3.24; 1 Cor 1.30; 6.20; 7.23; Eph 1.7; Col 1.14; cf. Mk 10.45). A people of his own, appropriation of the biblical promise to Israel (Deut 7.6–8; Ex 9.5–16); cf. 1 Pet 2.9.

3.1–11: Submission and good works are the marks of the saved. 1: Subject to rulers and authorities, advice for Christians to accommodate to the larger social order (cf. Rom 13.1–7; 1 Tim 2.1–3). 4–7: A tight creedal formulation, perhaps from an early hymn. 5: The water of rebirth and renewal, baptism, as both promise of resurrection (Rom 6.3–5) and power for present transformation (Rom 12.2). 8: The saying is sure, a frequent formula in the Pastorals (1 Tim 1.15; 3.1; 4.9; 2 Tim 2.11). Good works, as distinguished from “works of righteousness” in v. 5 (the works of the law); see 1.16n. 9–11: Condemnatory attitude toward the opponents (cf. 1 Tim 6.3–5; 2 Tim 2.14–18); cf. the gentler disposition of 1 Tim 2.4; 2 Tim 2.24–26. 9: Genealogies, linked with “myths” (see 1.4n.) in 1 Tim 1.4.

3.12–13: Travel plans. 12: Artemas, otherwise unknown. Tychicus, one of Paul’s companions (Acts 20.4; Eph 6.21–22; Col 4.7; 2 Tim 4.12). Nicopolis, probably in western Greece. 13: Zenas the lawyer, named only here.

and Apollos on their way, and see that they lack nothing. ¹⁴ And let people learn to devote themselves to good works in order to meet urgent needs, so that they may not be unproductive.

¹⁵ All who are with me send greetings to you. Greet those who love us in the faith. Grace be with all of you.^a

^a Other ancient authorities add Amen

Apollos, an early Christian leader named in 1 Cor 1.12; 16.12; Acts 18.24. See that they lack nothing, providing hospitality for itinerant missionaries, as in Rom 16.2; 3 Jn 6. 14: People, Gk “our people.”

3.14: Concluding exhortation to good works.

3.15a: Epistolary greetings.

3.15b: Concluding benediction.

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO PHILEMON

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

This enigmatic letter is a piece of the apostle Paul's business correspondence, containing an intentionally designed blend of personal and public appeal, addressed to three individuals, Philemon (for whom the letter is named), Apphia, and Archippus, and to the church that meets in one of their houses (v. 2). Though its meaning is much debated, its genuineness is not disputed.

STRUCTURE AND INTERPRETATION

The structure of Philemon is straightforward. After the epistolary prescript (vv. 1–3) and thanksgiving (vv. 4–7), which praise Philemon for his past benefactions, in the epistolary body (vv. 8–22) Paul makes a fresh request for the present situation involving the slave Onesimus, through various forms of subtle and not-so-subtle appeal, ending with the suggestion that Paul will soon visit Philemon (v. 22). He closes the letter with epistolary greetings from missionary co-workers that accent the public visibility of Philemon's decision (vv. 23–24), and a final benediction (v. 25).

The letter employs a carefully calibrated rhetoric to make a request of Philemon. In order to interpret this letter one must reconstruct the situation it presupposes, but in doing so the reader must largely depend upon the letter itself, which is cryptic, partly because Paul and his recipients already know the circumstances, and partly because Paul chooses to be indirect. We know that Paul writes this letter from prison (vv. 1,9–10) in a location not specified, where he has been joined by someone named Onesimus, whom Paul has converted to the gospel there (v. 10). This Onesimus, who is the slave of Philemon (v. 16), is the object of Paul's appeal (v. 10). While the circumstances that led to Onesimus's encounter with Paul are not described in the letter (v. 15 merely says "he was separated from you"), two quite different possibilities suggest themselves: either Onesimus ran away from his master, perhaps after causing him some financial loss (vv. 15,18), or Onesimus was sent by his owner to serve Paul in prison (v. 13), much as Epaphroditus was sent to Paul in prison by the Philippians (Phil 2.25–30). The advantage of the latter possibility is that it explains how Onesimus came to be in prison with Paul, whereas the former option must explain why a slave would run away to a prison. Perhaps Onesimus, according to legal precedent, sought out a friend of his master to act as an intermediary in a dispute between himself and his owner. The precise occasion of the letter is the moment of Paul's sending Onesimus back to his master (v. 12). The letter is meant to accompany Onesimus and register an appeal "for my child, Onesimus" (v. 10).

What is Paul asking Philemon to do? The history of interpretation has focused on several different possibilities: (1) Paul is asking Philemon to receive Onesimus back as his slave (though a "brother in Christ") and forgive whatever transgressions he had committed (vv. 17–18); (2) Paul is asking Philemon to send Onesimus back to him to continue serving the apostle's physical needs while in prison (vv. 13–14); (3) Paul is strongly hinting that Philemon should not only receive Onesimus back but grant this new Christian brother his freedom through formal manumission (vv. 16,21). Each of these options has some grounding in the text, and which one the reader adopts depends upon which verses are thought to be the focal point of the argument and upon how one assesses Paul's tone at various points. The decision may also depend on how one reads 1 Cor 7.17–21, and the famously ambiguous 7.21 (see n. there), as representing Paul's general view on whether Christ-believing slaves should be manumitted. One thing, however, is certain about this letter: Paul engages in full-strength arm-twisting of Philemon to do his "good deed" (v. 14). But the final decision of what to do is left up to Philemon himself—in the context of a host of onlookers among his fellow Christians. One of the most remarkable things about this letter is that it was preserved and ultimately incorporated into the canonical collection of Paul's letters, perhaps an indication that Philemon's ultimate decision met Paul's request.

This letter has played a role in the history of Christian social ethics disproportionate to its size. The extent to which Paul challenged the institution of chattel slavery or not, and the legacy of this text (and others in the Pauline tradition, such as 1 Cor 7.17–24; Col 3.22–4.1; Eph 6.5–9) for Christian social and political thought, has long been debated. This is especially so in the American context, where the Bible was appealed to by both abolitionists and defenders of slavery in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

Margaret M. Mitchell

¹ Paul, a prisoner of Christ Jesus, and Timothy our brother,^a

To Philemon our dear friend and co-worker,² to Apphia our sister,^b to Archippus our fellow soldier, and to the church in your house:

³ Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

⁴ When I remember you^c in my prayers, I always thank my God⁵ because I hear of your love for all the saints and your faith toward the Lord Jesus.⁶ I pray that the sharing of your faith may become effective when you perceive all the good that we^d may do for Christ.⁷ I have indeed received much joy and encouragement from your love, because the hearts of the saints have been refreshed through you, my brother.

⁸ For this reason, though I am bold enough in Christ to command you to do your duty,⁹ yet I would rather appeal to you on the basis of love—and I, Paul, do this as an old man, and now also as a prisoner of Christ Jesus.^e ¹⁰ I am appealing to you for my child, Onesimus, whose father I have become during my imprisonment. ¹¹ Formerly he was useless to you, but now he is indeed useful^f both to you and to me. ¹² I am sending him, that is, my own heart, back to you. ¹³ I wanted to keep him with me, so that he might be of service to me in your place during my imprisonment for the gospel; ¹⁴ but I preferred to do nothing without your consent, in order that your good deed might be voluntary and not something forced. ¹⁵ Perhaps this is the reason he was separated from you for a while, so that you might have him back forever, ¹⁶ no longer as a slave but more than a slave, a beloved brother—especially to me but how much more to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord.

¹⁷ So if you consider me your partner, welcome him as you would welcome me.

¹⁸ If he has wronged you in any way, or owes you anything, charge that to my account. ¹⁹ I,

^a Gk the brother

^b Gk the sister

^c From verse 4 through verse 21, you is singular

^d Other ancient authorities read you (plural)

^e Or as an ambassador of Christ Jesus, and now also his prisoner

^f The name Onesimus means useful or (compare verse 20) beneficial

1–3: Epistolary prescript (senders, addressees, and salutation), with each sender and recipient carefully designated. 1: Timothy, see Introduction to 2 Timothy. 2: Our sister, fellow Christian. Apphia, named only here. Archippus, see Col 4.17. And to the church in your house, Paul puts Philemon’s decision in a more public context.

4–7: Thanksgiving for Philemon’s past good deeds. In vv. 4–22a Paul uses the singular address (you). Because he calls him “brother” in v. 20, it must refer either to Philemon or Archippus; tradition and current scholarship almost unanimously choose Philemon, on the grounds that he is the first named. 4: Remember you in my prayers, cf. 2 Tim 1.3. 5: Saints, lit., “holy ones,” believers in Christ Jesus. 7: Hearts, Gk “splanchna,” lit., “inner organs,” refers to the emotional center of a person (see vv. 12, 20).

8–22: Paul’s appeal for another good deed from Philemon. 10: Whose father I have become, lit., “whom I begot” to new life in the gospel (cf. 1 Cor 4.15). 11: Useful (“eu-chrestos”) is a double pun, referring both to Onesimus’s name (see textual note f) and his identity in Christ (“eu-Christos” = “good in Christ”). 14: Voluntary, Paul does not command (cf. v. 8), but prefers to persuade. 15: Was separated, a perhaps deliberately vague reference to Onesimus’s absence. 16: No longer as a slave, finally the problem is stated: status dissonance (i.e., when a person occupies two or more social positions simultaneously). What happens when a slave of a Christian master becomes a Christian? Some scholars take Paul to mean the slave stops being a slave by becoming a brother, but others think Paul considers the new status of brother as relativizing, but not changing, the slave’s station in the world. In the flesh and in the Lord, in the world and in the church. 17–19: Partner, charge . . . to my account,

Paul, am writing this with my own hand: I will repay it. I say nothing about your owing me even your own self.²⁰ Yes, brother, let me have this benefit from you in the Lord! Refresh my heart in Christ.²¹ Confident of your obedience, I am writing to you, knowing that you will do even more than I say.

²² One thing more—prepare a guest room for me, for I am hoping through your prayers to be restored to you.

²³ Epaphras, my fellow prisoner in Christ Jesus, sends greetings to you,^a ²⁴ and so do Mark, Aristarchus, Demas, and Luke, my fellow workers.

²⁵ The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.^b

^a Here you is singular

^b Other ancient authorities add Amen

repay, business terminology signalling Paul's financial obligations to Philemon. Writing this with my own hand, cf. 1 Cor 16.21; Gal 6.11. Owing me even your own self, Philemon's spiritual obligation to the one who converted him. 21: More than I say, a mere commonplace, or perhaps a diplomatically framed hint to release him from slavery through manumission? 22b: Your prayers, in the plural. Paul here joins the co-recipients (v. 2) with him in registering his plea to Philemon.

23–24: Greetings, the same five people are named in Col 4.10–14. Epaphras, Col 1.7; 4.12.

25: Concluding benediction.

THE LETTER TO THE HEBREWS

NAME, GENRE, AND AUDIENCE

The “Letter to the Hebrews” is a misnomer on two counts. First, while it does have typical elements of a letter closing (13.18–25), it opens not as a letter but as a sonorous sermon to be read aloud in the assembly. The author labels his work a “word of exhortation” (13.22; cf. Acts 13.15), essentially a sermon (here in writing). Second, its addressees (unspecified in the text itself) are not “Hebrews” in any meaningful sense. They speak Greek and know the Jewish scriptures in the Greek translation, the Septuagint. The author’s arguments depend at several points on Septuagint readings that differ from the original Hebrew. If the letter is addressed to a church founded as part of Pauline mission (see below), we should expect a mixed congregation of Gentile and Jewish followers of the Christian movement. The author’s attention to the place of the Levitical ritual and priesthood in God’s plan is appropriate to such a mixed audience, all of whom read the Jewish scriptures as the word of God.

CANONICAL STATUS AND LOCATION IN CANON

Hebrews was more readily embraced in the eastern churches than those in the west until the fourth century CE, but it was widely accepted by the end of the fourth century. Its canonicity was occasionally questioned in connection with doubts about its authorship, but it was more often defended, despite those questions, on the basis of the apostolicity of its contents. Today, all Christian communions hold Hebrews to be canonical scripture.

Hebrews is placed after Romans in an Egyptian codex of Paul’s letters from around 200 CE. Other eastern manuscripts locate it after 2 Corinthians or after 2 Thessalonians, still within the body of Paul’s letters to churches (and before Paul’s letters to individuals). Western manuscripts tend to place Hebrews at the end of the Pauline corpus, reflecting stronger doubts about Pauline authorship. Some early Lutheran Bibles placed Hebrews after 3 John as a canonical but nonapostolic writing. The western position is now reflected in almost all modern printed Bibles.

AUTHORSHIP, DATE OF COMPOSITION, HISTORICAL CONTEXT, AND LITERARY HISTORY

Hebrews is technically anonymous. Early scribes attributed the letter to Paul based on his reputation as a letter-writer and the reference to Timothy (13.23), but, as Origen and Tertullian recognized, this attribution is surely incorrect. Paul, for example, insists that he came to faith through direct divine intervention (Gal 1.11–17; 1 Cor 15.3–10;); the author of Hebrews affirms that he came to faith through the preaching of other apostles (Heb 2.3–4). Paul intentionally avoids the kind of rhetorical ornamentation that the author of Hebrews delights in displaying (see 1 Cor 2.1–5). The author does appear, however, to be a part of a larger Pauline network, coordinating his movements with those of Timothy and to personally know the addressees, to whom he hopes to be restored (13.19). Some connection with Italy is evident from 13.24. More likely, the author sends greetings from outside Italy; possibly the addressees are located in Italy, with the author sending the greetings of “those (with him) from Italy” back home.

First Clement draws on Hebrews, establishing that it was composed sometime before ca. 95 CE. It is not clear whether the author wrote prior to the destruction of the Temple, since he engages the tabernacle and its sacrifices primarily on the basis of what is written in the Torah rather than from personal knowledge of worship in Jerusalem. The author’s pointed question in 10.2 is more naturally asked prior to the cessation of sacrifices in 70 CE, when the Temple was destroyed by the Roman armies.

The addressees are not being challenged either by a new wave of persecution or by heretical innovations. Rather, the author addresses a perceived crisis of commitment among some of the recipients. These Christians had formerly shown themselves bold in the face of rejection and scorn, the plundering of their property, imprisonment, and other hardships in the past (10.32–34). With the passing of time, however, the loss of honor and place in society has begun to erode the commitment of some, who have begun to dissociate themselves from this unpopular group (10.25). The author intervenes in the hope of keeping others from “drifting away” (2.1; see also 3.12; 4.11; 6.4–6; 10.26–31; 12.15) or otherwise succumbing to their neighbors’ pressure to conform once again to their expectations for pious and reliable citizens.

STRUCTURE

The sermon alternates between exposition and exhortation, which is a key to its structure. Demonstrations of the Son's (1.2) superior status and effectiveness vis-à-vis other mediators of God's favor (angels, Moses, Levitical priests) give way to exhortations to keep responding in an appropriate manner to the word God spoke through this Son. Hebrews 4.14–16 and 10.19–22, which share similar content, are particularly important exhortations, bracketing the “long and difficult word” about Jesus's priesthood and sacrifice (see also 4.14–10.18), which is the centerpiece of the sermon. Scholars had formerly suggested that Heb 13, with its more practical guidance, was not original to the sermon. Most scholars today have come to understand that this practical advice on how to show gratitude is integral to the author's agenda.

INTERPRETATION

The addressees would have readily grasped the author's message. He urges them, in the midst of their difficulties, not to lose sight of the immense favors and privileges they have been granted by their divine patron through Jesus, the mediator of God's favor, and to continue to live out a grateful response of loyalty, obedient service, and public testimony. The relationship of grace will thus be preserved, and the addressees will attain what God has yet promised for the future. A large part of keeping faith involves being willing to continue to embrace a lower status in the visible world for the sake of attaining a place of honor in the invisible but unshakable realm where God dwells.

The high Christology of Hebrews (esp. 1.1–4) played an important role in combating Arianism in the fourth century and contributed to the emergence of Trinitarian theology. Equally significant was its contribution to reflection on the meaning of Jesus's death as an atoning sacrifice. Its promotion of the relationship between the Old and New Covenants as “shadow” to “reality” became a lynchpin in eastern Christian interpretation of the Old Testament. Perhaps ironically, Hebrews also played a role in the emergence of a specialized clergy (see 5.4–5) and in the establishment of the Eucharist, with the bread and wine, as an ongoing offering of Jesus's high priestly sacrifice by his junior priests. In the Reformation period, its emphasis on the unrepeatability of Christ's sacrifice and the elimination of graded access to God through priestly professionals was used to criticize Roman Catholic practice. Hebrews 6.4–8 provoked perennial discussion concerning the possibility for, or practical limitations upon, repentance for sins committed after baptism, entering into discussions of election and predestination as well. The encomium on faith in Hebrews 11 remains perhaps the most popular portion of the sermon.

David A. deSilva

1 Long ago God spoke to our ancestors in many and various ways by the prophets, ²but in these last days he has spoken to us by a Son,^a whom he appointed heir of all things, through whom he also created the worlds. ³He is the reflection of God's glory and the exact imprint of God's very being, and he sustains^b all things by his powerful word. When he had made purification for sins, he sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high, ⁴having become as much superior to angels as the name he has inherited is more excellent than theirs.

⁵For to which of the angels did God ever say, "You are my Son; today I have begotten you"?

Or again,

"I will be his Father, and he will be my Son"?

⁶And again, when he brings the firstborn into the world, he says,

"Let all God's angels worship him."

⁷Of the angels he says,

"He makes his angels winds, and his servants flames of fire."

⁸But of the Son he says,

"Your throne, O God, is^c forever and ever, and the righteous scepter is the scepter of your^d kingdom.

⁹You have loved righteousness and hated wickedness; therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness beyond your companions."

¹⁰And,

"In the beginning, Lord, you founded the earth, and the heavens are the work of your hands;

¹¹they will perish, but you remain; they will all wear out like clothing;

¹²like a cloak you will roll them up, and like clothing^e they will be changed.

But you are the same, and your years will never end."

¹³But to which of the angels has he ever said,

"Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet"?

¹⁴Are not all angels^f spirits in the divine service, sent to serve for the sake of those who are to inherit salvation?

^a Or the Son

^b Or bears along

^c Or God is your throne

^d Other ancient authorities read his

^e Other ancient authorities lack like clothing

^f Gk all of them

1.1–2.18: Summons to give the Son one's full attention and allegiance.

1.1–4: The sermon's thesis statement. God's final and complete word has been spoken through the Son, who has greater honor even than the angels. This is all one single sentence in Greek. Verses 3–4 are not just independent theological statements about the Son, but serve purposefully to amplify the significance of the Son, such that the audience should prioritize responding to the word God spoke through him above all other considerations.

1: In many and various ways, better, "piecemeal and in various ways." The author will show throughout the sermon how the pieces of divine revelation found in the Jewish scriptures become a unified revelation of the Son, often by reading a passage from them as being spoken about (1.5b), spoken to (1.5a,13; 5.5–6), or even spoken by (2.12–13; 10.5–8) the Son. 2b–3: The author uses Jewish reflection on the figure of Wisdom to speak of the Son's relationship to God and activity prior to the incarnation (see Prov 8.22–31; Wis 7.25–8.1; 9.1; cf. Col 1.15–20; Phil 2.6–11).

1.5–14: Arguments from scripture that Jesus is superior in status to angels, mediators of the Old Covenant. Establishing this point contributes to the force of the author's call to action in 2.1–4. 5: Ps 2.7; 2 Sam 7.14. 6: Into the world, the divine realm of God and the angels, the unshakable "world." The author thinks here of the Son's ascension following his incarnation and death (see 2.5). The quotation is from Deut 32.43 (LXX). 7: Ps 104.4. 8–9: Ps 45.6–7. 10–12: Ps 102.25–27. Essential to the argument is the author's cosmology and eschatology. The visible earth and heavens are created, material, and therefore temporary. The presently unseen divine realm (the place of God's rest, 4.1–11, and the heavenly homeland, 11.16) is immaterial and eternal. Jesus has passed through the former (4.14) to enter the latter ("heaven itself," 9.24) as the forerunner for God's many children (2.10; 6.19–20). The author expects a day on which God will remove the created earth and heavens, allowing Jesus's faithful clients to enter the unshakable, eternal realm (12.25–28) and thus enjoy "eternal salvation" (5.9). 13: Ps 110.1. Psalm 110 is a key text within this sermon (see 1.3; 5.6; 7.17,21; 8.1; 10.12; 12.2). 14: Are to inherit salvation, this author speaks of salvation consistently as a future deliverance at the return of Christ and dissolution of the material cosmos.

2 Therefore we must pay greater attention to what we have heard, so that we do not drift away from it. ² For if the message declared through angels was valid, and every transgression or disobedience received a just penalty, ³ how can we escape if we neglect so great a salvation? It was declared at first through the Lord, and it was attested to us by those who heard him, ⁴ while God added his testimony by signs and wonders and various miracles, and by gifts of the Holy Spirit, distributed according to his will.

⁵ Now God^a did not subject the coming world, about which we are speaking, to angels. ⁶ But someone has testified somewhere,

“What are human beings that you are mindful of them,^b or mortals, that you care for them?^c

⁷ You have made them for a little while lower^d than the angels;

you have crowned them with glory and honor,^e

⁸ subjecting all things under their feet.”

Now in subjecting all things to them, God^a left nothing outside their control. As it is, we do not yet see everything in subjection to them, ⁹ but we do see Jesus, who for a little while was made lower^f than the angels, now crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God^g he might taste death for everyone.

¹⁰ It was fitting that God,^a for whom and through whom all things exist, in bringing many children to glory, should make the pioneer of their salvation perfect through sufferings. ¹¹ For the one who sanctifies and those who are sanctified all have one Father.^h For this reason Jesus^a is not ashamed to call them brothers and sisters,ⁱ ¹² saying,

“I will proclaim your name to my brothers and sisters,ⁱ in the midst of the congregation I will praise you.”

¹³ And again,

“I will put my trust in him.”

And again,

“Here am I and the children whom God has given me.”

¹⁴ Since, therefore, the children share flesh and blood, he himself likewise shared the same things, so that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil,¹⁵ and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by the fear of death. ¹⁶ For it is clear that he did not come to help angels, but the descendants of Abraham. ¹⁷ Therefore he had to become like

^a Gk he

^b Gk What is man that you are mindful of him?

^c Gk or the son of man that you care for him? In the Hebrew of Psalm 8.4–6 both man and son of man refer to all humankind

^d Or them only a little lower

^e Other ancient authorities add and set them over the works of your hands

^f Or who was made a little lower

^g Other ancient authorities read apart from God

^h Gk are all of one

ⁱ Gk brothers

2.1–4: Exhortation to heed the announcement of deliverance made through the Son, drawing a “lesser to greater” inference on the basis of 1.1–14. Again, this is a single sentence in Greek; 3b–4 serve directly to amplify why this salvation is so great. 2: The message declared through angels, the law of Moses (see Jub. 1.27–29; 2.1; Acts 7.38,53; Gal 3.19; Josephus, Ant. 15.136). 3–4: Signs and wonders . . . and gifts of the Holy Spirit, see Gal 3.1–5; 1 Cor 2.1–5.

2.5–18: A further argument in support of the exhortation (2.1–4). Attachment to Jesus is the path to a share in his honor as well as the path of gratitude for past benefits and Jesus’s ongoing mediation. 6–8: Quoting Ps 8.4–6. Mortals . . . them . . . their, the translation obscures the double meaning in the Greek, where “son of man” could refer to a generic human being or to a messianic figure. The author of Hebrews reads the psalm at both levels, with Jesus fulfilling the psalm’s vision ahead of the “many sons and daughters” (children, 2.10). 10: Fitting, because God knew the trials through which the many sons and daughters would pass on the way to the end of their journey. “Perfection” language is used in Hebrews to speak of something or someone being brought to its final, divinely ordained condition, here Jesus’s installation in heaven as high priest. 12: Ps 22.22. 13: Isa 8.17, 18. 14–15: Both Greco-Roman and Jewish ethicists recognized that fear of death often undermined individual commitment to virtuous and altruistic action. Socrates was also celebrated for having sought to free his followers from the fear of death by the way he himself faced it (Seneca, Epistulae 24.4).

his brothers and sisters^a in every respect, so that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make a sacrifice of atonement for the sins of the people.¹⁸ Because he himself was tested by what he suffered, he is able to help those who are being tested.

3 Therefore, brothers and sisters,^a holy partners in a heavenly calling, consider that Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession,² was faithful to the one who appointed him, just as Moses also “was faithful in all^b God’s^c house.”³ Yet Jesus^d is worthy of more glory than Moses, just as the builder of a house has more honor than the house itself.⁴ (For every house is built by someone, but the builder of all things is God.)⁵ Now Moses was faithful in all God’s^c house as a servant, to testify to the things that would be spoken later.⁶ Christ, however, was faithful over God’s^c house as a son, and we are his house if we hold firm^e the confidence and the pride that belong to hope.

⁷ Therefore, as the Holy Spirit says, “Today, if you hear his voice,

⁸ do not harden your hearts as in the rebellion,
as on the day of testing in the wilderness,

⁹ where your ancestors put me to the test, though they had seen my works¹⁰ for forty years.

Therefore I was angry with that generation, and I said, “They always go astray in their hearts, and they have not known my ways.’

¹¹ As in my anger I swore,

“They will not enter my rest.’”

¹² Take care, brothers and sisters,^a that none of you may have an evil, unbelieving heart that turns away from the living God.¹³ But exhort one another every day, as long as it is called “today,” so that none of you may be hardened by the deceitfulness of sin.¹⁴ For we have become partners of Christ, if only we hold our first confidence firm to the end.¹⁵ As it is said, “Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts as in the rebellion.”

¹⁶ Now who were they who heard and yet were rebellious? Was it not all those who left Egypt under the leadership of Moses?¹⁷ But with whom was he angry forty years? Was it not those who sinned, whose bodies fell in the wilderness?¹⁸ And to whom did he swear

^a Gk brothers

^b Other ancient authorities lack all

^c Gk his

^d Gk this one

^e Other ancient authorities add to the end

3.1–4.13: Summons to honor God’s word through trust and perseverance.

3.1–6: A second argument concerning Jesus’s superior status, this time in regard to Moses, mediator of the Old Covenant. Throughout Hebrews (8.6; 9.15; 12.24), Jesus is cast in the role of mediator, a person who grants clients access to a greater patron otherwise inaccessible to them. Because of Jesus’s proximity to God as Son, as ever at God’s right hand and as one who has never alienated God through sin, he surpasses all other valid mediators of God’s favor known from the author’s tradition (angels, Moses, Levitical priests). 1: Consider that Jesus . . . was, better, “consider Jesus . . . who was.” The Greek here does not invite reflection upon a proposition about Jesus, but rather reflection upon Jesus himself. Apostle, as God’s decisive messenger (1.2a). 3.2: Faithful in all God’s house, see Num 12.7–8. 6: If, emphasizing the believers’ responsibilities within the grace relationship (see also 3.14; 6.4–8; 13.13–16). Pride, or “boast,” “claim to honor.” The Greek denotes more here than a subjective feeling.

3.7–4.11: A homiletical application of the Num 14.1–35 episode to the situation of the addressees, who stand similarly at the threshold of “entering God’s rest” and are urged not to imitate those who failed to trust their divine patron and died in the wilderness under God’s servant, Moses. 7–11: Ps 95.7–11. 8: Rebellion . . . testing. The Septuagint translated the Hebrew place names “Meribah” and “Massah,” with the result that the psalm text refers no longer to three separate incidents (Ex 17.1–7; Num 20.1–13; Num 14.1–35), but principally to one (Num 14.1–35). 12–13: The author repeatedly urges the members of the Christian group to take communal responsibility for each individual member’s perseverance (see also 4.1; 6.10; 10.24–25, 32–34; 12.15–16). 15: Ps 95.7. 16–19: The rhetorical questions recall details of the incidents in Num 14. 18: Disobedience (see also 4.11) and that they would not enter his rest, if not to those who were disobedient?¹⁹ So we see that they were unable to enter because of unbelief.

4 Therefore, while the promise of entering his rest is still open, let us take care that none of you should seem to have failed to reach it.² For indeed the good news came to us just as to them; but the message they heard did not benefit them, because they were not united by faith with those who listened.³ For we who have believed enter that rest, just as God^b has said,

“As in my anger I swore,

“They shall not enter my rest,”

though his works were finished at the foundation of the world.⁴ For in one place it speaks about the seventh day as follows, “And God rested on the seventh day from all his works.”⁵ And again in this place it says, “They shall not enter my rest.”⁶ Since therefore it remains open for some to enter it, and those who formerly received the good news failed to enter because of disobedience,⁷ again he sets a certain day—“today”—saying through David much later, in the words already quoted, “Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts.”

⁸ For if Joshua had given them rest, God^b would not speak later about another day.

⁹ So then, a sabbath rest still remains for the people of God;¹⁰ for those who enter God’s rest also cease from their labors as God did from his.¹¹ Let us therefore make every effort to enter that rest, so that no one may fall through such disobedience as theirs.

¹² Indeed, the word of God is living and active, sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing until it divides soul from spirit, joints from marrow; it is able to judge the thoughts and intentions of the heart.¹³ And before him no creature is hidden, but all are naked and laid bare to the eyes of the one to whom we must render an account.

¹⁴ Since, then, we have a great high priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus, the Son of God, let us hold fast to our confession.¹⁵ For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but we have one who in every respect has been tested^c as we are, yet without sin.¹⁶ Let us therefore approach the throne of grace with boldness, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need.

5 Every high priest chosen from among mortals is put in charge of things pertaining to God on their behalf, to offer gifts and sacrifices for sins.² He is able to deal gently with the ignorant and wayward, since he

^a Other ancient authorities read it did not meet with faith in those who listened

^b Gk he

^c Or tempted

19: distrust toward God’s voice emerge as characteristics greatly to be avoided. 4.1: Seem, better “think it right.” At stake is a value judgment on the part of individual believers concerning what would be, for them, the more advantageous path, whether to persist in moving forward in their Christian commitment or shrink away from the unpopular group. 2: Those who listened, Joshua and Caleb, who believed God’s promises and urged the people to act upon them (Num 13.30; 14.6–10). 3: Ps 95:11. 4: Gen 2.2. 5: Ps 95.11. 8: That is, by leading the Hebrews in the conquest of Canaan. The author argues that, since David (the traditional author of the Psalms) speaks of entering God’s rest two hundred years after Joshua’s conquest of Canaan, the latter cannot be the ultimate land of promise (see also 11.9–10). 10: God’s rest, lit., “the one who entered his [God’s] rest has also himself rested from his works just as God did from his own.” This could be a statement about people in general or a specific, if elliptical, statement about Jesus, who has entered God’s presence (where God “rests”) as a forerunner for the many (6.19–20), and has completed his labors on behalf of his followers (10.11–14). 12–13: Laid bare, or, “with their throats exposed.” The author crafts a truly fearsome image here of human vulnerability before the divine pronouncement.

4.14–10.18: The “long and difficult word” about Jesus’s priestly work.

4.14–5.10: Exhortation and initial exposition. 14–16: Continuing to witness to the acts of God in Christ and to draw near to God, by persevering in drawing near to one another in worship, represents the author’s princi-himself is subject to weakness;³ and because of this he must offer sacrifice for his own sins as well as for those of the people.⁴ And one does not presume to take this honor, but takes it only when called by God, just as Aaron was.

⁵ So also Christ did not glorify himself in becoming a high priest, but was appointed by the one who said to him,

“You are my Son,
today I have begotten you”;

⁶ as he says also in another place,

“You are a priest forever,
according to the order of Melchizedek.”

⁷ In the days of his flesh, Jesus^a offered up prayers and supplications, with loud cries and tears, to the one who was able to save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverent submission.⁸ Although he was a Son, he learned obedience through what he suffered;⁹ and having been made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him,¹⁰ having been designated by God a high priest according to the order of Melchizedek.

¹¹ About this^b we have much to say that is hard to explain, since you have become dull in understanding.¹² For though by this time you ought to be teachers, you need someone to teach you again the basic elements of the oracles of God. You need milk, not solid food;¹³ for everyone who lives on milk, being still an infant, is unskilled in the word of righteousness.¹⁴ But solid food is for the mature, for those whose faculties have been trained by practice to distinguish good from evil.

6 Therefore let us go on toward perfection,^c leaving behind the basic teaching about Christ, and not laying again the foundation: repentance from dead works and faith toward God,² instruction about baptisms, laying on of hands, resurrection of the dead, and eternal judgment.³ And we will do^d this, if God permits.⁴ For it is impossible to restore again to repentance those who have once been enlightened, and have tasted the heavenly gift, and have shared in the Holy Spirit,⁵ and have tasted the goodness of the word of God and the powers of the age to come,⁶ and then have fallen away, since on their own they are crucifying again the Son of God and are holding him up to contempt.⁷ Ground that drinks up the rain falling on it repeatedly, and that produces a crop useful to those for whom it is cultivated, receives a blessing from God.⁸ But

^a Gk he

^b Or him

^c Or toward maturity

^d Other ancient authorities read let us do pal exhortation to the addressees. See also 10.19–25. 5.3: See Lev 9.7–22; 16.3–16. 4: Ex 28.1. 6: While other New Testament texts refer to Ps 110.1 (see Mt 22.44; Mk 12.36; Lk 20.42–43; Acts 2.24; 1 Cor 15.25), only this author extends his interest to Ps 110.4, reading this as God’s appointment of Jesus to an alternative priesthood. 7: Although often identified with the episode in Gethsemane (Mk 14.32–43), the language is typical for descriptions of fervent prayer among Jewish authors (2 Macc 11.6; 3 Macc 1.16; 5.7, 25). 8: Although he was a Son qualifies the preceding statement (“he was heard because of his reverent submission”) rather than the following one. The author will later argue that learning through discipline is inherent in being a son or daughter (see 12.5–11).

5.11–6.20: Digression. While technically an interruption of the argument, this passage underscores the author’s principal agenda of impressing upon the hearers the importance of maintaining their commitment to persevere in loyal witness and obedience to God, lest they bring disgrace upon Jesus by their defection and thereby retribution upon themselves. 5.11–14: The author appeals for a responsive and attentive hearing, challenging the hearers to measure up to his expectations that they would help reinforce for one another the value of maintaining commitment to the faith and practices of the Christian group. Milk . . . solid food, frequent images for stages of progress in learning, maturity, and skill (see 1 Cor 3.1–2; Epictetus, Diatribai 2.16.39; Enchiridion 51.1–2). 6.1–3: Exhortation to move forward on the Christian journey. Several elements of the addressees’ instruction in their new faith are of central importance to the author’s argument, particularly resurrection of the dead and eternal judgment. 4–8: Argument from the contrary (the consequences of falling away rather than persevering toward the goal) in support of exhortation. The author does not think here in terms of “losing salvation,” since “salvation” is, for him, what happens at Christ’s second intervention in human affairs (1.14; 9.28; cf. 1 Pet 1:5, 9; 2.2). Relinquishing one’s relationship with Christ through ingratitude and disloyalty means failing to persevere unto salvation. 6: On their own, or, “to their own detriment.” 7–8: The Greek makes explicit that these verses if it produces thorns and thistles, it is worthless and on the verge of being cursed; its end is to be burned over.

⁹Even though we speak in this way, beloved, we are confident of better things in your case, things that belong to salvation. ¹⁰For God is not unjust; he will not overlook your work and the love that you showed for his sake^a in serving the saints, as you still do. ¹¹And we want each one of you to show the same diligence so as to realize the full assurance of hope to the very end, ¹²so that you may not become sluggish, but imitators of those who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

¹³When God made a promise to Abraham, because he had no one greater by whom to swear, he swore by himself, ¹⁴saying, “I will surely bless you and multiply you.” ¹⁵And thus Abraham,^b having patiently endured, obtained the promise. ¹⁶Human beings, of course, swear by someone greater than themselves, and an oath given as confirmation puts an end to all dispute. ¹⁷In the same way, when God desired to show even more clearly to the heirs of the promise the unchangeable character of his purpose, he guaranteed it by an oath, ¹⁸so that through two unchangeable things, in which it is impossible that God would prove false, we who have taken refuge might be strongly encouraged to seize the hope set before us. ¹⁹We have this hope, a sure and steadfast anchor of the soul, a hope that enters the inner shrine behind the curtain, ²⁰where Jesus, a forerunner on our behalf, has entered, having become a high priest forever according to the order of Melchizedek.

7 This “King Melchizedek of Salem, priest of the Most High God, met Abraham as he was returning from defeating the kings and blessed him”;² and to him Abraham apportioned “one-tenth of everything.” His name, in the first place, means “king of righteousness”; next he is also king of Salem, that is, “king of peace.”³ Without father, without mother, without genealogy, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but resembling the Son of God, he remains a priest forever.

⁴See how great he is! Even^c Abraham the patriarch gave him a tenth of the spoils. ⁵And those descendants of Levi who receive the priestly office have a commandment in the law to collect tithes^d from the people, that is, from their kindred,^e though these also are descended from Abraham. ⁶But this man, who does not belong to their ancestry, collected tithes^d from Abraham and blessed him who had received the promises. ⁷It is beyond dispute that the inferior is blessed by the superior. ⁸In the one case, tithes are received by those who are mortal; in the other, by one of whom it is testified that he lives. ⁹One might even say that Levi himself, who receives tithes, paid tithes through Abraham, ¹⁰for he was still in the loins of his ancestor when Melchizedek met him.

¹¹Now if perfection had been attainable through the levitical priesthood—for the

^a Gk for his name

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities lack Even

^d Or a tenth

^e Gk brothers

provide a rationale for the preceding claim drawn from an agricultural analogy. Such metaphors are common in discussions of patron-client relationships (see Isa 5.1–7; Seneca, De beneficiis 1.1.2; 2.11.4–5; 4.8.2; 4.33.1–2; Pseudo-Phocylides 152), where an appropriate return of gratitude for a benefit given was an absolute. Thorns and thistles, see Gen 3.18. Blessing and cursed recall covenantal language (see Deut 28.1–14 and 15–68; 30.19). 9–12: The author reassures the audience, pointing to their investment in one another thus far as their grounds for being confident of having pleased God. Such care for one another is the “useful crop” (6.7) that constitutes a fair return to God for God’s benefits. 12: Those who through faith, such as Abraham (6.13–18), and also the many heroes discussed in 11.1–12.3. 13–20: An argument confirming the hearers’ cause for confidence. God’s promises can indeed be trusted as reliable bases for their investment of themselves. 13–14: Gen 22.16–18. 19: Inner shrine, the Holy of Holies, here of the heavenly Temple itself rather than the earthly model (see 8.1–6n). 20: The author closes his digression by returning to the topic and language of 5.10.

7.1–10.18: Exposition resumed: Superior access to God through Jesus.

7.1–28: Jesus’s superior mediation as high priest. See 3.1–6n. 1–2: Gen 14.17–20. 2: Righteousness and peace were qualities of the messianic age (see Isa 9.6–7; 11.1–9; 32.16–18). 3: Scripture’s silences about Melchizedek become eloquent here and in 7.5. 4: Gen 14.20. 5: Num 18.21–24; Deut 26.12–15. 11: Perfection here refers specifipeople received the law under this priesthood—what further need would there have been to speak of another priest arising according to the order of Melchizedek, rather than one according to the order of Aaron?

¹² For when there is a change in the priesthood, there is necessarily a change in the law as well. ¹³ Now the one of whom these things are spoken belonged to another tribe, from which no one has ever served at the altar.

¹⁴ For it is evident that our Lord was descended from Judah, and in connection with that tribe Moses said nothing about priests.

¹⁵ It is even more obvious when another priest arises, resembling Melchizedek, ¹⁶ one who has become a priest, not through a legal requirement concerning physical descent, but through the power of an indestructible life.

¹⁷ For it is attested of him,

“You are a priest forever,
according to the order of Melchizedek.”

¹⁸ There is, on the one hand, the abrogation of an earlier commandment because it was weak and ineffectual ¹⁹ (for the law made nothing perfect); there is, on the other hand, the introduction of a better hope, through which we approach God.

²⁰ This was confirmed with an oath; for others who became priests took their office without an oath, ²¹ but this one became a priest with an oath, because of the one who said to him,

“The Lord has sworn and will not change his mind,

‘You are a priest forever’”—

²² accordingly Jesus has also become the guarantee of a better covenant.

²³ Furthermore, the former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office; ²⁴ but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever. ²⁵ Consequently he is able for all time to save^a those who approach God through him, since he always lives to make intercession for them.

²⁶ For it was fitting that we should have such a high priest, holy, blameless, undefiled, separated from sinners, and exalted above the heavens. ²⁷ Unlike the other^b high priests, he has no need to offer sacrifices day after day, first for his own sins, and then for those of the people; this he did once for all when he offered himself. ²⁸ For the law appoints as high priests those who are subject to weakness, but the word of the oath, which came later than the law, appoints a Son who has been made perfect forever.

8 Now the main point in what we are saying is this: we have such a high priest, one who is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens, ² a minister in the sanctuary and the true tent^c that the Lord, and not any mortal, has set up. ³ For

^a Or able to save completely

^b Gk lacks other

^c Or tabernacle

cally to the complete and decisive cleansing of the conscience of the worshiper and the fitting of him or her to enter into the full and real presence of God. The strict limitations on access to God under the Old Covenant (9.6–10), which no number of sacrifices ever overcame (10.1–4), signaled to the author the ineffectiveness of those rituals. He celebrates Jesus’s death as the sacrifice that fits his followers to enter not just the earthly Holy of Holies but into God’s presence in heaven (6.19–20; 7.18–19; 10.19–25). 12: Priests were essential to the maintenance of the Old Covenant, but the covenant also regulated and authorized the priesthood. The author views the two as inseparable such that the removal of one means the removal of both. 14: Mt 1.2–3; Lk 3.33; Rev 5.5. 16: Requirement concerning physical descent, Num 1.47–53; 3.1–16; Deut 18.5; indestructible life, the word “forever” in Ps 110.4 becomes highly significant for the author here. 17: Ps 110.4. 18: The author is keenly aware that he is suggesting that a priesthood, covenant, and sacrificial system clearly ordained by divine decree are now surpassed. He is therefore intent on discovering those divine oracles that legitimate his claims in regard to each, hence the prominence of Ps 110.4; Jer 31.31–34; and Ps 40.6–8 in this central exposition. 19: Perfect, see 7.11n. 21: Because of, better, “through the agency of”; Ps 110.4. 27: See 5.3n.

8.1–13: Jesus’s location in a better sanctuary, mediating a better covenant. 8.1–6: Based on Ex 25.40, Jewish authors often viewed the earthly tabernacle as a model of the cosmos, with the Holy Places modeling heaven (see Wis 9.8; Rev 8.2–4; 11.19; 15.5–8; Philo, Moses 2.71–145; Josephus, Ant. 3.179–87). The author understands Jesus’s ascension to indicate his entrance into the cosmic, heavenly Holy of Holies where God lives. 1: See Ps every high priest is appointed to offer gifts and sacrifices; hence it is necessary for this priest also to have something to offer. ⁴ Now if he were on earth, he would not be a priest at all, since there are priests who offer gifts according to the law. ⁵ They offer worship in a sanctuary that is a sketch and shadow of the heavenly one; for Moses, when he was about to erect the tent,^a was warned, “See that you make everything according to the pattern that was shown you on the mountain.” ⁶ But Jesus^b has now obtained a more excellent ministry, and to that degree he is the mediator of a better covenant, which has been enacted through better promises. ⁷ For if that first covenant had been faultless, there would have been no need to look for a second one.

⁸ God^c finds fault with them when he says: “The days are surely coming, says the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah; ⁹ not like the covenant that I made with their ancestors, on the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; for they did not continue in my covenant, and so I had no concern for them, says the Lord.

¹⁰ This is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the Lord: I will put my laws in their minds, and write them on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

¹¹ And they shall not teach one another or say to each other, ‘Know the Lord,’ for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest.

¹² For I will be merciful toward their iniquities, and I will remember their sins no more.”

¹³ In speaking of “a new covenant,” he has made the first one obsolete. And what is obsolete and growing old will soon disappear.

9 Now even the first covenant had regulations for worship and an earthly sanctuary. ² For a tent^a was constructed, the first one, in which were the lampstand, the table, and the bread of the Presence;^d this is called the Holy Place. ³ Behind the second curtain was a tent^a called the Holy of Holies. ⁴ In it stood the golden altar of incense and the ark of the covenant overlaid on all sides with gold, in which there were a golden urn holding the manna, and Aaron’s rod that budded, and the tablets of the covenant; ⁵ above it were the cherubim of glory overshadowing the mercy seat.^e ⁶ Of these things we cannot speak now in detail.

⁶ Such preparations having been made, the priests go continually into the first tent^a to carry out their ritual duties; ⁷ but only the high priest goes into the second, and he but once a year, and not without taking

^a Or tabernacle
^b Gk he
^c Gk He
^d Gk the presentation of the loaves
^e Or the place of atonement

110.1. 4: That is, the priests in the line of Levi. 5: Shadow, a term denoting that which is less real because it is derivative; pattern, or perhaps better “archetype.” The author contrasts the heavenly temple, which he believes was shown to Moses on the mountain, with the earthly tabernacle and temple. The language of “shadow” and “archetype” is adapted from Plato: that which exists in the divine realm is more “real” than the copies seen on earth. 6: And to that degree, better, “to the degree that.” In other words, the quality of the covenant and the promises determine the quality of the ministry. 8.8–12: Jer 31.31–34. See 7:18n. 13: The author of Hebrews, like Paul in Galatians (3.19; 3.23–4.5), considers the first covenant to have been valid for a limited duration.

9.1–10.18: Jesus’s unique achievement, preparing all the people to enter God’s real presence. The author uses the covenant inauguration rite of Ex 24.1–8 and the Day of Atonement ritual of Lev 16 as templates for expressing the significance of Jesus’s death and exaltation as events that inaugurate the New Covenant and effect the decisive removal of sins promised under that covenant (Jer 31.31–34). 2: Lampstand . . . table . . . bread, see Ex 25.30–40. 3: Holy of holies, Ex 26.31–33. 4: The golden altar of incense was actually in the first tent, where it was regularly accessed by the priests as part of the daily offering (see Lk 1:9–10; Ex 30.1–8). 4: Ark . . . manna . . . rod, see Ex 16.30–34; 25.10–22; 37.1–9; Num 17.1–11. 7: But once a year, that is, on the Day of Atonement (see Lev 16). 9.6–10: See 7:11n.

the blood that he offers for himself and for the sins committed unintentionally by the people.⁸ By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the sanctuary has not yet been disclosed as long as the first tent^a is still standing.⁹ This is a symbol^b of the present time, during which gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot perfect the conscience of the worshiper,¹⁰ but deal only with food and drink and various baptisms, regulations for the body imposed until the time comes to set things right.

¹¹ But when Christ came as a high priest of the good things that have come,^c then through the greater and perfect^d tent^a (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation),¹² he entered once for all into the Holy Place, not with the blood of goats and calves, but with his own blood, thus obtaining eternal redemption.¹³ For if the blood of goats and bulls, with the sprinkling of the ashes of a heifer, sanctifies those who have been defiled so that their flesh is purified,¹⁴ how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit^e offered himself without blemish to God, purify our^f conscience from dead works to worship the living God!

¹⁵ For this reason he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, because a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions under the first covenant.⁹ ¹⁶ Where a will^g is involved, the death of the one who made it must be established.¹⁷ For a will^g takes effect only at death, since it is not in force as long as the one who made it is alive.¹⁸ Hence not even the first covenant was inaugurated without blood.¹⁹ For when every commandment had been told to all the people by Moses in accordance with the law, he took the blood of calves and goats,^h with water and scarlet wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the scroll itself and all the people,²⁰ saying, “This is the blood of the covenant that God has ordained for you.”²¹ And in the same way he sprinkled with the blood both the tent^a and all the vessels used in worship.²² Indeed, under the law almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins.

²³ Thus it was necessary for the sketches of the heavenly things to be purified with these rites, but the heavenly things themselves need better sacrifices than these.²⁴ For Christ did not enter a sanctuary made by human hands, a mere copy of the true one, but he entered into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God on our behalf.²⁵ Nor was it to offer himself again and again, as the high priest enters the Holy Place year after year with blood that is not his own;²⁶ for then he would have had to suffer again and again since the foundation of the world. But as it is, he has appeared once for all at the end of the age to remove sin by the sacrifice of himself.²⁷ And just as it is appointed for mortals to die once, and after that the judgment,²⁸ so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal with sin, but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him.

10 Since the law has only a shadow of the good things to come and not the true form of these realities, itⁱ can never, by the same sacrifices that are continually offered year after year, make perfect those who approach.² Otherwise, would they not have

^a Or tabernacle

^b Gk parable

^c Other ancient authorities read good things to come

^d Gk more perfect

^e Other ancient authorities read Holy Spirit

^f Other ancient authorities read your

^g The Greek word used here means both covenant and will

^h Other ancient authorities lack and goats

ⁱ Other ancient authorities read they

9: During which, better, “in which” or “in accordance with which.” The antecedent is either “tent” or “symbol,” but not “present time.” 9.2: Blood of goats and calves, Lev 16.14–16. 13: Ashes of a heifer, Num 19.1–10. 15–17: The author plays on the dual meaning of Gk diathēkē as “covenant” or “will.” 18–21: See Ex 24.3–8. 19: Scarlet wool and hyssop, see Lev 14.4; Num 19.6. 20: See Ex 24.8. 23: Lev 16.14–16. 24: See 8.1–6n. 28: See 1.14n. The sins of many, see Isa 53.12; Mk 10.45. A second time, Christ’s return may parallel the reemergence of the high priest from the Holy of Holies, completing the ritual act. 10.1–4: See 7.11n. 1: Shadow, see 8.5.

ceased being offered, since the worshipers, cleansed once for all, would no longer have any consciousness of sin?³ But in these sacrifices there is a reminder of sin year after year.⁴ For it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins.⁵ Consequently, when Christ^a came into the world, he said, “Sacrifices and offerings you have not desired,

but a body you have prepared for me;
⁶in burnt offerings and sin offerings
you have taken no pleasure.

⁷Then I said, ‘See, God, I have come to do your will, O God’ (in the scroll of the book^b it is written of me).”

⁸When he said above, “You have neither desired nor taken pleasure in sacrifices and offerings and burnt offerings and sin offerings” (these are offered according to the law),⁹ then he added, “See, I have come to do your will.” He abolishes the first in order to establish the second.¹⁰ And it is by God’s will^c that we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

¹¹And every priest stands day after day at his service, offering again and again the same sacrifices that can never take away sins.

¹²But when Christ^d had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, “he sat down at the right hand of God,”¹³ and since then has been waiting “until his enemies would be made a footstool for his feet.”¹⁴ For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are sanctified.¹⁵ And the Holy Spirit also testifies to us, for after saying,

¹⁶“This is the covenant that I will make with them
after those days, says the Lord:
I will put my laws in their hearts,
and I will write them on their minds,”

¹⁷he also adds,
“I will remember^e their sins and their lawless deeds no more.”

¹⁸Where there is forgiveness of these, there is no longer any offering for sin.

¹⁹Therefore, my friends,^f since we have confidence to enter the sanctuary by the blood of Jesus,²⁰ by the new and living way that he opened for us through the curtain (that is, through his flesh),²¹ and since we have a great priest over the house of God,²² let us approach with a true heart in full assurance of faith, with our hearts sprinkled clean from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water.²³ Let us hold fast to the confession of our hope without wavering, for he who has promised is faithful.²⁴ And let us consider how to provoke one another to love and good deeds,²⁵ not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the Day approaching.

^a Gk he

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Gk by that will

^d Gk this one

^e Gk on their minds and I will remember

^f Gk Therefore, brothers

4: The author’s claim is inconsistent with Lev 17.11, but in the tradition of the prophetic critique of animal sacrifices (e.g., Isa 1.11–13, 16–17; Jer 7.21–23). 10.5–7: Ps 40:6–8, following the Septuagint, which rendered the Hebrew “ears you have dug for me” with “a body you have prepared for me,” giving the author the opportunity to find a reference to Christ’s incarnation in the text. This becomes the scriptural warrant for the shocking human sacrifice of Christ’s body. See 7.18n. 10.12–13: Ps 110:1. 14: See 7.11n. 10.16–17: With the resumption of Jer 31.33–34, the author declares his case for Jesus inaugurating the new covenant and bringing about its better promises (decisive forgiveness of sins and cleansing of the conscience) proven. See 7.17n.

10.19–13.25: Exhortation to persevere in gratitude for the benefactions granted through Jesus.

10.19–39: Exhortations based on this new access, consequences, and past successes.

10.19–25: See 4.14–16n; 7.11n. 22: With our hearts sprinkled clean . . . and our bodies washed, or, “having sprinkled our hearts clean . . . and washed our bodies.” 24: Better, “let us keep holding one another in our thoughts, such that an explosion of love and good works results.” The purpose of “considering” the other is not to motivate the other to loving action, but to find one’s own motivation to love and serve the other. 10.25: This is the clearest expression of the pastoral problem addressed by the author. The Day of Christ’s second coming (see 9.28).

²⁶ For if we willfully persist in sin after having received the knowledge of the truth, there no longer remains a sacrifice for sins, ²⁷ but a fearful prospect of judgment, and a fury of fire that will consume the adversaries. ²⁸ Anyone who has violated the law of Moses dies without mercy “on the testimony of two or three witnesses.” ²⁹ How much worse punishment do you think will be deserved by those who have spurned the Son of God, profaned the blood of the covenant by which they were sanctified, and outraged the Spirit of grace? ³⁰ For we know the one who said, “Vengeance is mine, I will repay.” And again, “The Lord will judge his people.” ³¹ It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

³² But recall those earlier days when, after you had been enlightened, you endured a hard struggle with sufferings, ³³ sometimes being publicly exposed to abuse and persecution, and sometimes being partners with those so treated. ³⁴ For you had compassion for those who were in prison, and you cheerfully accepted the plundering of your possessions, knowing that you yourselves possessed something better and more lasting. ³⁵ Do not, therefore, abandon that confidence of yours; it brings a great reward. ³⁶ For you need endurance, so that when you have done the will of God, you may receive what was promised. ³⁷ For yet “in a very little while, the one who is coming will come and will not delay;

³⁸ but my righteous one will live by faith.
My soul takes no pleasure in anyone who shrinks back.”

³⁹ But we are not among those who shrink back and so are lost, but among those who have faith and so are saved.

11 Now faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen. ² Indeed, by faith^a our ancestors received approval. ³ By faith we understand that the worlds were prepared by the word of God, so that what is seen was made from things that are not visible.^b

⁴ By faith Abel offered to God a more acceptable^c sacrifice than Cain's. Through this he received approval as righteous, God himself giving approval to his gifts; he died, but

^a Gk by this

^b Or was not made out of visible things

^c Gk greater

10.26–31: Rationale for embracing the author's exhortation based on consideration of the contrary. 26: see 10.18. There were no provisions for intentional or “willful” sin under the law. 28: Deut 17.6; 19.15. 29: Spurned, better, “trampled upon.” The author underscores the grievous insult involved in valuing friendship with unbelieving neighbors over showing God, Christ, and the Spirit the loyalty and gratitude that their gifts merit. 30: Deut 32.35–36.

10.32–39: Exhortation to imitate former endurance and remain constant (show “faith”). 32–34: The converts' neighbors used the shaming techniques of their culture to pressure believers to return to their former allegiances and commitments. 32: Struggle, better, “contest.” The author uses an athletic image to cast the audience's past experience of being shamed in a more noble light as a competition in which winning comes through resisting. 34: Better and more lasting, see 1.10–12n. 35: Confidence, or “boldness.” The Greek word denotes more than a subjective feeling. The believers displayed such “boldness” in the face of their neighbors' pressure in 10.32–34 by their visible and vocal persistence in their new faith. 37–38: The author prefixes a few words from Isa 26.20 to a creative rendering of Hab 2.3–4 (LXX).

11.1–12.3: Encomium on faith. A recurring theme of the examples of faith-in-action is that people of faith chart their course through this life with a view to future realities (see 11.7,20–22,24–26,28) and to the invisible realities of the realm beyond this creation (see 11.3,10,13–16,27; 12.2), including God's power to give life to the dead (11.17–19,35–38; 12.2). 11.1: The Gk word translated as assurance could also be rendered “underlying essence” or even, in business dealings, “title deed.” The author's point is that throwing away trust in Christ means throwing away one's title to a place in the eternal realm. Similarly, conviction can signal more than an internal feeling, such as “evidence” or “proof.” Exhibiting faith is evidence to the world of the reality of God and God's promises. 3: Worlds, or “ages” (the present age and the “coming world,” 2.5). See 2 Macc 7.28. 4: Gen 4.3–10. Genesis gives no explanation for the rejection of Cain's sacrifice; this author joins other Second Temple period writers in speculating as to what was missing (see also Josephus, Ant. 1.53; 1 Jn 3.12).

through his faith^a he still speaks.⁵ By faith Enoch was taken so that he did not experience death; and “he was not found, because God had taken him.” For it was attested before he was taken away that “he had pleased God.”⁶ And without faith it is impossible to please God, for whoever would approach him must believe that he exists and that he rewards those who seek him.⁷ By faith Noah, warned by God about events as yet unseen, respected the warning and built an ark to save his household; by this he condemned the world and became an heir to the righteousness that is in accordance with faith.

⁸ By faith Abraham obeyed when he was called to set out for a place that he was to receive as an inheritance; and he set out, not knowing where he was going.⁹ By faith he stayed for a time in the land he had been promised, as in a foreign land, living in tents, as did Isaac and Jacob, who were heirs with him of the same promise.¹⁰ For he looked forward to the city that has foundations, whose architect and builder is God.¹¹ By faith he received power of procreation, even though he was too old—and Sarah herself was barren—because he considered him faithful who had promised.^b ¹² Therefore from one person, and this one as good as dead, descendants were born, “as many as the stars of heaven and as the innumerable grains of sand by the seashore.”

¹³ All of these died in faith without having received the promises, but from a distance they saw and greeted them. They confessed that they were strangers and foreigners on the earth,¹⁴ for people who speak in this way make it clear that they are seeking a homeland.¹⁵ If they had been thinking of the land that they had left behind, they would have had opportunity to return.¹⁶ But as it is, they desire a better country, that is, a heavenly one. Therefore God is not ashamed to be called their God; indeed, he has prepared a city for them.

¹⁷ By faith Abraham, when put to the test, offered up Isaac. He who had received the promises was ready to offer up his only son,¹⁸ of whom he had been told, “It is through Isaac that descendants shall be named for you.”¹⁹ He considered the fact that God is able even to raise someone from the dead—and figuratively speaking, he did receive him back.²⁰ By faith Isaac invoked blessings for the future on Jacob and Esau.²¹ By faith Jacob, when dying, blessed each of the sons of Joseph, “bowing in worship over the top of his staff.”²² By faith Joseph, at the end of his life, made mention of the exodus of the Israelites and gave instructions about his burial.^c

²³ By faith Moses was hidden by his parents for three months after his birth, because they saw that the child was beautiful; and they were not afraid of the king’s edict.^d ²⁴ By faith Moses, when he was grown up, refused to be called a son of Pharaoh’s daughter,²⁵ choosing rather to share ill-treatment with the people of God than to enjoy the fleeting pleas-

^a Gk through it

^b Or By faith Sarah herself, though barren, received power to conceive, even when she was too old, because she considered him faithful who had promised.

^c Gk his bones

^d Other ancient authorities add By faith Moses, when he was grown up, killed the Egyptian, because he observed the humiliation of his people (Gk brothers)

5–6: Gen 5.22–24. The author relies on the LXX, which rendered the Hebrew “walked with God” as “pleased God.” Pleasing God is further underscored in Heb 12.28; 13.16, 21. 7: Warned, Gen 6.13. Respected the warning, Gen 6.22. 8–9: Gen 12.1–8. Focusing on Abraham’s willingness to embrace the marginal life of a resident alien as a hallmark of his faith-in-action speaks to the hearers’ situation directly. 11: Gen 17.15–22; 21.1–7. 12: Gen 15.5; 22.17. 13: Strangers and foreigners, see Gen 23.4; 24.37. 15: A pointed application for the addressees, some of whom have been inclined to return (10.24–25). 16: Called their God, that is, “the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob” (e.g., Ex 3.6,15–16; Mt 22.32). 17: Gen 22.1–10. 18: Gen 21.12. 19: The author conjectures that since Abraham knew God’s promises could not fail, he believed that Isaac would be restored to life, becoming a prototype of faith in resurrection. See Gen 22.12–14. 20: Gen 27.27–29,39–40. 21: Gen 48, “bowing in worship,” Gen 47.31 (LXX). 22: Gen 50.24–25; Ex 13.19. 23: Ex 2.1–3; edict, Ex 1.22. 24: See Ex 2.11. Jewish tradition had by this time significantly embellished Moses’s proximity to the throne (Philo, Moses 1.13; Josephus, Ant. 2.232–34). Focusing on Moses’s willingness to leave honor and wealth behind as a mark of his faith in action speaks to the hearers’ ures of sin.²⁶ He considered abuse suffered for the Christ^a to be greater wealth than the treasures of Egypt, for he was looking ahead to the reward.²⁷ By faith he left Egypt, unafraid of the king's anger; for he persevered as though^b he saw him who is invisible.²⁸ By faith he kept the Passover and the sprinkling of blood, so that the destroyer of the firstborn would not touch the firstborn of Israel.^c

²⁹ By faith the people passed through the Red Sea as if it were dry land, but when the Egyptians attempted to do so they were drowned.³⁰ By faith the walls of Jericho fell after they had been encircled for seven days.³¹ By faith Rahab the prostitute did not perish with those who were disobedient,^d because she had received the spies in peace.

³² And what more should I say? For time would fail me to tell of Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah, of David and Samuel and the prophets—³³ who through faith conquered kingdoms, administered justice, obtained promises, shut the mouths of lions,³⁴ quenched raging fire, escaped the edge of the sword, won strength out of weakness, became mighty in war, put foreign armies to flight.³⁵ Women received their dead by resurrection. Others were tortured, refusing to accept release, in order to obtain a better resurrection.³⁶ Others suffered mocking and flogging, and even chains and imprisonment.³⁷ They were stoned to death, they were sawn in two,^e they were killed by the sword; they went about in skins of sheep and goats, destitute, persecuted, tormented—³⁸ of whom the world was not worthy. They wandered in deserts and mountains, and in caves and holes in the ground.

³⁹ Yet all these, though they were commended for their faith, did not receive what was promised,⁴⁰ since God had provided something better so that they would not, apart from us, be made perfect.

12 Therefore, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us also lay aside every weight and the sin that clings so closely,^f and let us run with perseverance the race that is set before us,² looking to Jesus the pioneer and perfecter of our faith, who for the sake of^g the joy that was set before him endured the cross, disregarding its shame, and has taken his seat at the right hand of the throne of God.

³ Consider him who endured such hostility against himself from sinners,^h so that you

^a Or the Messiah

^b Or because

^c Gk would not touch them

^d Or unbelieving

^e Other ancient authorities add they were tempted

^f Other ancient authorities read sin that easily distracts

^g Or who instead of

^h Other ancient authorities read such hostility from sinners against themselves

situation directly. 26: Abuse, better, “reproach,” “censure.” The author will urge the hearers to continue to make the same choice (13.13). 27: According to Ex 2.14–15, Moses left for Midian out of fear. This facet of the tradition was frequently rewritten (see, e.g., Josephus, Ant. 2.254–57). 28: Ex 12.7,13,21–30. 29: Ex 14.21–31. 30: Josh 6.12–21. 31: Josh 2.1–21; 6.22–25. See also Mt 1.5; Jas 2.25. 32: Gideon, Judg 6–8; Barak, Judg 4–5; Samson, Judg 13–16; Jephthah, Judg 11–12; David, 1 Sam 16–30; 2 Sam 1–24; Samuel, 1 Sam 1–12; 15.1–16.13. 33: Mouths of lions, Dan 6. 34: Quenched raging fire, Dan 3. 35: Women received their dead, 1 Kings 17.17–24; 2 Kings 4.18–37; tortured . . . a better resurrection, 2 Macc 6.18–7.42 (esp. 7.9,11,14,23,29). 36–38: Traditions about the prophets underlie these verses. Jeremiah was taunted (Jer 20.7–8), beaten (37.15), and imprisoned (20.1–3; 37.15–18). According to legend, Isaiah was sawn in two (Lives of the Prophets 1.1; Asc. Isa. 5.1–14), Jeremiah was stoned (Lives of the Prophets 2.1), and Uriah was slain with the sword (Jer 26.20–23). Presenting faith as a willingness to embrace a marginal existence in this world (represented by living in caves and wearing hides rather than textiles) speaks directly to the hearers’ situation. 39–40: The author understands the faithful righteous of Israel to arrive at the heavenly homeland together with the addressees, being perfected together by Jesus’s priestly mediation. The fact that the hearers are in the most privileged position, living on this side of Jesus’s mediation, should nurture a sense of greater responsibility to continue in faith themselves, as did earlier biblical figures. 40: Something better, Gk adds “concerning us.” 12.2: Of our faith, Gk lacks “our.” The author presents Jesus here as the ultimate example of faith, who has gone farther in and more completely demonstrated that virtue than anyone else. It is not a statement of how Jesus acts upon the believers’ faith.

may not grow weary or lose heart. ⁴In your struggle against sin you have not yet resisted to the point of shedding your blood. ⁵And you have forgotten the exhortation that addresses you as children—

“My child, do not regard lightly the discipline of the Lord, or lose heart when you are punished by him;
⁶for the Lord disciplines those whom he loves, and chastises every child whom he accepts.”

⁷Endure trials for the sake of discipline. God is treating you as children; for what child is there whom a parent does not discipline? ⁸If you do not have that discipline in which all children share, then you are illegitimate and not his children. ⁹Moreover, we had human parents to discipline us, and we respected them. Should we not be even more willing to be subject to the Father of spirits and live?

¹⁰For they disciplined us for a short time as seemed best to them, but he disciplines us for our good, in order that we may share his holiness. ¹¹Now, discipline always seems painful rather than pleasant at the time, but later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it.

¹²Therefore lift your drooping hands and strengthen your weak knees, ¹³and make straight paths for your feet, so that what is lame may not be put out of joint, but rather be healed.

¹⁴Pursue peace with everyone, and the holiness without which no one will see the Lord. ¹⁵See to it that no one fails to obtain the grace of God; that no root of bitterness springs up and causes trouble, and through it many become defiled. ¹⁶See to it that no one becomes like Esau, an immoral and godless person, who sold his birthright for a single meal. ¹⁷You know that later, when he wanted to inherit the blessing, he was rejected, for he found no chance to repent, ^a even though he sought the blessing^b with tears.

¹⁸You have not come to something^c that can be touched, a blazing fire, and darkness, and gloom, and a tempest, ¹⁹and the sound of a trumpet, and a voice whose words made the hearers beg that not another word be spoken to them. ²⁰(For they could not endure the order that was given, “If even an animal touches the mountain, it shall be stoned to death.” ²¹Indeed, so terrifying was the sight that Moses said, “I tremble with fear.”) ²²But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to innumerable angels in festal gathering, ²³and to the assembly^d of the firstborn who are enrolled in heaven, and to God the judge of all, and to the spirits of the righteous made perfect, ²⁴and to Jesus, the mediator of a new covenant, and to the sprinkled blood that speaks a better word than the blood of Abel.

²⁵See that you do not refuse the one who is speaking; for if they did not escape when

^a Or no chance to change his father's mind

^b Gk it

^c Other ancient authorities read a mountain

^d Or angels, and to the festal gathering²³ and assembly

12.4–29: Encouragement to confidence in the face of opposition and to grateful response to God. 4: In your struggle against sin, language suggestive of a wrestling match, continuing the athletic metaphor. 5–11: The author transforms the believers' neighbors' attempts to shame and harass them into an educative, formative process by means of which God shapes them as God's sons and daughters for citizenship in the eternal realm. 5–6: Prov 3.11–12. 7: Discipline, or “formative training.” The Gk word “paideia” referred to the process of creating virtuous, skilled, and cultured citizens. 11: The author's hearers would recognize the famous Greco-Roman educational maxim: “The roots of education are bitter but its fruits are sweet.” 12: Isa 35.3. 13: Prov 4:26. 15–17: See 3.12–13n. 15: See, the verb is plural, emphasizing the responsibility of all the members of the Christian group for the perseverance of each individual member. Fails to obtain the grace, or “falls short of the gift”; root of bitterness, see Deut 29.18, where this refers to idolatry within the community. 16–17: Esau's example reinforces the author's warnings (6.4–8; 10.26–31). 16: Sold his birthright, technically the right to a double share in the inheritance, Gen 25.29–34. 17: Blessing, Gen 27.30–34. 18–19: The author recalls the appearance of God at Sinai at the giving of the law (Ex 19.16–19; 20.18–21; Deut. 4:11–12,33,36 25; 5:22–27). 20: Ex 19.12–13. 21: Moses had said this in regard to the golden calf incident (Deut 9.19). 24: The blood of Abel, Gen 4.10. 25: Compare the warning they refused the one who warned them on earth, how much less will we escape if we reject the one who warns from heaven! ²⁶At that time his voice shook the earth; but now he has promised, “Yet once more I will shake not only the earth but also the heaven.” ²⁷This phrase, “Yet once more,” indicates the removal of what is shaken—that is, created things—so that what cannot be shaken may remain. ²⁸Therefore, since we are receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, let us give thanks, by which we offer to God an acceptable worship with reverence and awe; ²⁹for indeed our God is a consuming fire.

13 Let mutual love continue. ²Do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers, for by doing that some have entertained angels without knowing it. ³Remember those who are in prison, as though you were in prison with them; those who are being tortured, as though you yourselves were being tortured.^a ⁴Let marriage be held in honor by all, and let the marriage bed be kept undefiled; for God will judge fornicators and adulterers. ⁵Keep your lives free from the love of money, and be content with what you have; for he has said, “I will never leave you or forsake you.” ⁶So we can say with confidence,

“The Lord is my helper;
I will not be afraid.

What can anyone do to me?”

⁷Remember your leaders, those who spoke the word of God to you; consider the outcome of their way of life, and imitate their faith. ⁸Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever. ⁹Do not be carried away by all kinds of strange teachings; for it is well for the heart to be strengthened by grace, not by regulations about food,^b which have not benefited those who observe them. ¹⁰We have an altar from which those who officiate in the tent^c have no right to eat. ¹¹For the bodies of those animals whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high priest as a sacrifice for sin are burned outside the camp. ¹²Therefore Jesus also suffered outside the city gate in order to sanctify the people by his own blood. ¹³Let us then go to him outside the camp and bear the abuse he endured. ¹⁴For here we have no lasting city, but we are looking for the city that is to come. ¹⁵Through him, then, let us continually offer a sacrifice of praise to God, that is, the fruit of lips that confess his name. ¹⁶Do not neglect to do good and to share what you have, for such sacrifices are pleasing to God.

¹⁷Obey your leaders and submit to them, for they are keeping watch over your souls and will give an account. Let them do this with joy and not with sighing—for that would be harmful to you.

¹⁸Pray for us; we are sure that we have a clear conscience, desiring to act honorably in all things. ¹⁹I urge you all the more to do this, so that I may be restored to you very soon.

²⁰Now may the God of peace, who brought back from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, ²¹make you complete in

^a Gk were in the body

^b Gk not by foods

^c Or tabernacle

in 2.1–4. 26: Hag 2.6. In the author’s worldview, the eternal realm of God’s kingdom already exists, but remains invisible and inaccessible to his Son’s followers until the removal of the visible cosmos (see Heb 6.19–20; 9.8). See 1.10–12n. 28: Give thanks, or “show gratitude.” The response called for includes costly loyalty, bold confession, and diligent service (see 13:12–13,15–16). 29: Deut 4.24.

13.1–21: Specific advice for embodying gratitude. 1: Mutual love, Gk “philadelphia,” the love that exists between siblings, celebrated as the strongest kind of love in the ancient world, involving sharing of resources, solidarity, cooperation, and inviolable mutual commitment. 2: Entertained angels, Gen 18.1–8; 19.1; Tobit. 5–6: The author again reminds the hearers about their greatest asset, namely God’s patronage and protection, jeopardized when they long for their lost status and property. 5: Deut 31.6; Josh 1.5. 6: Ps 118.6. 11: Lev 16.27. 12: Mt 21.39; Jn 19.20. 13: Abuse, better “reproach.” The focus is on social shaming as the price of loyalty and obedience to God. 14: No lasting city, see 1.10–12n. 15: Sacrifice of praise, see Ps 50.14,23; Hos 14.2. 20: Great shepherd of the sheep, see Ezek 34.22–24; Jn 10.11–18; 1 Pet 2.25.

everything good so that you may do his will, working among us^a that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be the glory forever and ever. Amen.

²²I appeal to you, brothers and sisters,^b bear with my word of exhortation, for I have written to you briefly. ²³I want you to know that our brother Timothy has been set free;

and if he comes in time, he will be with me when I see you. ²⁴Greet all your leaders and all the saints. Those from Italy send you greetings. ²⁵Grace be with all of you.^c

^a Other ancient authorities read you

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities add Amen

13.22–25: Epistolary postscript. 23: Timothy is a prominent member of the Pauline team (see Acts 16.1–3; 17.14–15; 1 Cor 4.17; 2 Cor 1.1; Phil 1.1; 1 Thess 1.1; 3.2,6).

THE LETTER OF JAMES

NAME AND CANONICAL STATUS

The letter of James gets its name from the opening greeting (1.1) that identifies the author by the Greek name lakōbos (from the common Jewish name “Jacob”), translated into English as “James.”

The church historian Eusebius noted that the letter found slow acceptance into the Christian canon despite the fact that it was “regularly used in very many churches” as one of the “general’ epistles” (Hist. eccl. 2.23; 3.25). The Muratorian Canon (late second century) does not mention James, but the letter was included in Bishop Athanasius’s canon list (ca. 367 CE). Its canonicity was then largely secure until the Protestant Reformation in the sixteenth century, when Martin Luther moved it (along with Hebrews, Jude, and Revelation) to the end of the New Testament; in Luther’s view it lacked essential elements of the gospel. But John Calvin and Philip Melancthon, like the Council of Trent (1546), defended both the canonical status and the theological value of the letter.

AUTHORSHIP

From the earliest discussions of the letter in the third century, Christian tradition has held that the name “James” in the opening refers to a brother of Jesus (Mt 13.55; Mk 6.3; Gal 1.19) who was an early leader of the Jerusalem church (Gal 2.9) and according to Acts (see 15.13–21) played a decisive role in an apostolic directive stipulating what aspects of Torah observance should be required of Gentile believers. Some have even seen similarities in language between this letter and the apostolic letter in Acts 15.23–29. Yet scholars from ancient times to the present have questioned whether that James is the actual author. Jerome was aware of assertions the letter “was published under [James’s] name by another” (De Vir. Ill.: On Illustrious Men 2). The Greek literary style seems well beyond the capabilities of a Galilean villager. Between those who maintain direct authorship by Jesus’s brother and those who think the letter was only attributed to him, some have suggested that after James’s martyrdom (ca. 62 CE; Josephus, Ant. 20.200–203) his disciples reworked material originating from him to create the letter we know.

DATE AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

The only clues regarding the letter’s date stem from connections with other literature. The author presumes knowledge of not only the Jewish scriptures but also teachings by Jesus (as examples, compare 1.5 to Mt 7.11, and 2.5 to Mt 5.3) and Paul (compare 2.14–26 to Rom 3.27–4.22). Whether there was direct acquaintance with written materials such as the Q collection of Jesus’s sayings or Paul’s letters is a matter of continuing debate. If James’s statement a person is “not [justified] by faith alone” (2.24) is a direct response to the contrary assertion in Rom 3.28, this letter cannot be earlier than the late 50s CE. A latest possible date around 95 CE is suggested by evidence that 1 Clem. 29.1; 30.1–5 is dependent on Jas. 4.1–10, and 1 Clem. 30.3; 31.2 on Jas 2.14–26.

There are likewise no solid indications of the historical circumstances that prompted the letter. The symbolic address of the recipients as the “twelve tribes” raises the possibility that the language of “Dispersion” (1.1 and note) is likewise symbolic (see the conclusion regarding the need to bring back anyone who “wanders from the truth,” 5.19–20; but compare 1 Pet 1.1). Certainly the choice of these images together with the esteem for the “law” (Gk nomos, corresponding to Heb torah; 1.25; 2.8–12; 4.11), the reference to their “assembly” by the Gk synagōgēs (lit. “synagogue”; 2.2), and the use of the style and many examples from the Septuagint (LXX) convince most interpreters the letter was directed to ethnic Jews who believed Jesus was the Messiah/Christ (1.1; 2.1). Yet even these indicators are ambiguous. The Septuagint was scripture for both ethnically Gentile and Jewish followers of Jesus. Such writers as Ignatius, Hermas, Justin, Origen, and Eusebius used the terms synagōgēs and ekklēsia (“church”) both in parallel and interchangeably for exclusively Gentile communities well after the first century. Though each item may be inconclusive in itself, their cumulative presence in a letter identifying its author as Jacob/James makes it likely the letter originated with Jewish followers of Jesus.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

Many scholars have described the letter as a loosely organized collection of teachings similar to the book of Proverbs. More recent literary analyses using both ancient and modern approaches, however, have converged on an understanding of the letter's structure. Following its epistolary salutation (1.1), there is a twofold introduction (1.2–11; 1.12–21) that sets out in parallel fashion some major themes of the book (testing, wisdom, and consistency). Several longer units follow the introduction and develop specific themes: consistency of word and action (1.22–2.13); faith and works (2.14–26); proper speech (3.1–18); relations with others and God (4.1–12); and coming judgment (4.13–5.9). The letter concludes (5.10–20) with brief exhortations regarding the recipients' responsibilities toward other members of the community.

INTERPRETATION

Luther's treatment of the letter of James made it difficult to hear the letter on its own terms. While 2.14–26 may be a reaction against libertine readings of Paul's teaching that justification was "by faith apart from works" (Rom 3.28), both ancient and many modern scholars are less clear that James and Paul are in fundamental disagreement with each other. Both see faith primarily as trust in God (Rom 4.5; Jas 1.5–6), and both argue that faith should shape one's manner of life (Rom 2.13; Phil 2.12–13; Jas 2.18). Yet issues of justification do not pervade the letter as a whole. Reading James on its own terms requires seeing how the understanding of consistently living out "the implanted word" (1.21) developed in the first two chapters leads to the specific ethical teachings at both personal (1.19–21, 26; 3.13–18) and communal (2.2–4; 4.11–12) levels and to a strong stand in favor of social justice (1.27; 2.5; 5.4). Recent scholars have tended to focus on the relationships between "poor" and "rich" and the place of anointing and prayer for the sick (5.13–16).

Timothy B. Cargal

1 James, a servant^a of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ,
To the twelve tribes in the Dispersion:
Greetings.

² My brothers and sisters,^b whenever you face trials of any kind, consider it nothing but joy, ³ because you know that the testing of your faith produces endurance; ⁴ and let endurance have its full effect, so that you may be mature and complete, lacking in nothing.

⁵ If any of you is lacking in wisdom, ask God, who gives to all generously and ungrudgingly, and it will be given you. ⁶ But ask in faith, never doubting, for the one who doubts is like a wave of the sea, driven and tossed by the wind; ^{7, 8} for the doubter, being double-minded and unstable in every way, must not expect to receive anything from the Lord.

⁹ Let the believer^c who is lowly boast in being raised up, ¹⁰ and the rich in being brought low, because the rich will disappear like a flower in the field. ¹¹ For the sun rises with its scorching heat and withers the field; its flower falls, and its beauty perishes. It is the same way with the rich; in the midst of a busy life, they will wither away.

¹² Blessed is anyone who endures temptation. Such a one has stood the test and

^a Gk slave

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk brother

1.1: Salutation. Servant of God and . . . Christ, a unique dual designation in the New Testament, where identifications of people as "servant of God" (Titus 1.1; 1 Pet 2.16; Rev 7.3), "servant of (Jesus) Christ" (Rom 1.1; Eph 6.6; Jude 1), or "servant of the Lord" (2 Tim 2.24) are common. Twelve tribes, symbolic reference to the church as a new Israel (cf. Rev 7.4–8). Dispersion, scattered either geographically (cf. 1 Pet 1.1) or symbolically (5.19–20n.).

1.2–11: Trials and wisdom. 2: Trials, or "temptations" as in 1.12 (Gk "peirasmos"). Consider, in Greek either a command or a statement of usual practice ("you considered"). 3: You know . . . testing . . . produces endurance, common teaching of Jewish wisdom tradition (cf. Rom 5.3–4). 4–5: Lacking in nothing . . . lacking in wisdom, suggests against their view that wisdom is a gift from God rather than learned through "trials" (cf. 1 Kings 3). 6: Ask in faith, trusting God to give the "gift" (1.17) rather than temptation (1.13–14). 7–8: Double-minded, not knowing what God will do. 9–11: Reversal of fortunes between poor and rich (2.5; 5.1–3; cf. 1 Sam 2.7; Lk 6.20–26).

1.12–21: Life through the word. 12: Crown, victor's laurel wreath rather than royal diadem (cf. Rev 2.10).

will receive the crown of life that the Lord^a has promised to those who love him. ¹³No one, when tempted, should say, “I am being tempted by God”; for God cannot be tempted by evil and he himself tempts no one. ¹⁴But one is tempted by one’s own desire, being lured and enticed by it; ¹⁵then, when that desire has conceived, it gives birth to sin, and that sin, when it is fully grown, gives birth to death. ¹⁶Do not be deceived, my beloved.^b

¹⁷Every generous act of giving, with every perfect gift, is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom there is no variation or shadow due to change.^c ¹⁸In fulfillment of his own purpose he gave us birth by the word of truth, so that we would become a kind of first fruits of his creatures.

¹⁹You must understand this, my beloved:^b let everyone be quick to listen, slow to speak, slow to anger; ²⁰for your anger does not produce God’s righteousness. ²¹Therefore rid yourselves of all sordidness and rank growth of wickedness, and welcome with meekness the implanted word that has the power to save your souls.

²²But be doers of the word, and not merely hearers who deceive themselves. ²³For if any are hearers of the word and not doers, they are like those who look at themselves^d in a mirror; ²⁴for they look at themselves and, on going away, immediately forget what they were like. ²⁵But those who look into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and persevere, being not hearers who forget but doers who act—they will be blessed in their doing.

²⁶If any think they are religious, and do not bridle their tongues but deceive their hearts, their religion is worthless. ²⁷Religion that is pure and undefiled before God, the Father, is this: to care for orphans and widows in their distress, and to keep oneself unstained by the world.

2 My brothers and sisters,^e do you with your acts of favoritism really believe in our glorious Lord Jesus Christ?^f ²For if a person with gold rings and in fine clothes comes into your assembly, and if a poor person in dirty clothes also comes in, ³and if you take notice of the one wearing the fine clothes and say, “Have a seat here, please,” while to the one who is poor you say, “Stand there,” or, “Sit at my feet,”^g ⁴have you not made distinctions among yourselves, and become judges with evil thoughts? ⁵Listen, my beloved brothers and sisters.^h Has not God chosen the poor in the world to be rich in faith and to be heirs of the kingdom that he has promised to those who love him? ⁶But you have dishonored the poor. Is it not the rich who oppress you? Is it not they who drag you into court? ⁷Is it not they who blaspheme the excellent name that was invoked over you?

^a Gk he; other ancient authorities read God

^b Gk my beloved brothers

^c Other ancient authorities read variation due to a shadow of turning

^d Gk at the face of his birth

^e Gk My brothers

^f Or hold the faith of our glorious Lord Jesus Christ without acts of favoritism

^g Gk Sit under my footstool

^h Gk brothers

14–15: Desire . . . sin . . . death, certain progression of acting consistent with one’s corrupted will. 18: God’s opposite desire (purpose) to use the word of truth to give birth to a new will within us (cf. 1.21). 19: Need for self-control; cf. Sir 5.10–14. 20: Greek explicitly contrasts anger that originates in people (“orgē andros”) with righteousness that is from God (“dikaiosunēn theou”). 21: Consistency with God’s implanted word both checks improper action and saves one’s soul/life.

1.22–2.13: Consistency of word and action. Section framed by references to speech, actions, and God’s law. 1.22–25: Here the word that must be done is the “implanted word” (1.21) from God (Mt 7.24; Rom 2.13), not their own words. 24: Immediately forget in the sense that behavior will not change unless there is a unity of word and deed. 25: Perfect . . . law of liberty, God’s revealed will makes one “mature and complete” (1.4) and free from the lure of improper desire (1.14). 26: Bridle their tongues, now the focus shifts to consistency between their own speech and actions (2.16n.; 3.2). 27: Religion should assist others and thereby one’s self as well (cf. Mic 6.8). 2.1–4: Discriminatory actions rooted in socio-economic distinctions. 5: They claim to “believe” (see 2.1) that God chose the poor (see 1.9–10), but their actions reveal that they have chosen the rich. 6: Oppress you, see 5.1–6. 7: The excellent name, the “glorious Lord Jesus Christ” (2.1), invoked in their baptism.

⁸ You do well if you really fulfill the royal law according to the scripture, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.” ⁹ But if you show partiality, you commit sin and are convicted by the law as transgressors. ¹⁰ For whoever keeps the whole law but fails in one point has become accountable for all of it. ¹¹ For the one who said, “You shall not commit adultery,” also said, “You shall not murder.” Now if you do not commit adultery but if you murder, you have become a transgressor of the law. ¹² So speak and so act as those who are to be judged by the law of liberty. ¹³ For judgment will be without mercy to anyone who has shown no mercy; mercy triumphs over judgment.

¹⁴ What good is it, my brothers and sisters,^a if you say you have faith but do not have works? Can faith save you? ¹⁵ If a brother or sister is naked and lacks daily food, ¹⁶ and one of you says to them, “Go in peace; keep warm and eat your fill,” and yet you do not supply their bodily needs, what is the good of that? ¹⁷ So faith by itself, if it has no works, is dead.

¹⁸ But someone will say, “You have faith and I have works.” Show me your faith apart from your works, and I by my works will show you my faith. ¹⁹ You believe that God is one; you do well. Even the demons believe—and shudder. ²⁰ Do you want to be shown, you senseless person, that faith apart from works is barren? ²¹ Was not our ancestor Abraham justified by works when he offered his son Isaac on the altar? ²² You see that faith was active along with his works, and faith was brought to completion by the works. ²³ Thus the scripture was fulfilled that says, “Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness,” and he was called the friend of God. ²⁴ You see that a person is justified by works and not by faith alone. ²⁵ Likewise, was not Rahab the prostitute also justified by works when she welcomed the messengers and sent them out by another road? ²⁶ For just as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is also dead.

3 Not many of you should become teachers, my brothers and sisters,^a for you know that we who teach will be judged with greater strictness. ² For all of us make many mistakes. Anyone who makes no mistakes in speaking is perfect, able to keep the whole body in check with a bridle. ³ If we put bits into the mouths of horses to make them obey us, we guide their whole bodies. ⁴ Or look at ships: though they are so large that it takes strong winds to drive them, yet they are guided by a very small rudder wherever the will of the pilot directs. ⁵ So also the tongue is a small member, yet it boasts of great exploits.

How great a forest is set ablaze by a small fire! ⁶ And the tongue is a fire. The tongue is placed among our members as a world of iniquity; it stains the whole body, sets on fire the cycle of nature,^b and is itself set on fire

^a Gk brothers

^b Or wheel of birth

8: Lev 19.18 as hallmark of God’s reign revealed in Jesus (Mk 12.28–31; Jn 13.34; Gal 5.14). 10: Unity of the law in the command to love (Rom 13.8–9; cf. Deut 27.26; 4 Macc 5.19–21). 11: You murder, charge possibly based on actions in 5.6; cf. 4.2, 2.12: Summary conclusion of section. 13: Cf. Mt 6.14–15.

2.14–26: Faith and works. 14: Works, or “deeds,” a translation that avoids overstating differences between James and Paul (see Introduction). Can faith save, i.e., faith only spoken about but not acted on cannot make one spiritually alive (see 2.17, 26). 16: Keep warm and eat in Greek are passive verbs (“be warm and well fed”), expressing what one wants and expects God to do. Stating God’s desire for the needy, they fail to act on it (cf. 1.22). 18: James rejects separating faith and works, insisting on a both/and relationship between them. 21–22: Abraham’s works in offering Isaac (see Gen 22.1–19) may bring his faith . . . to completion by showing absolute trust in God’s promise Isaac was the heir (cf. Heb 11.17–19). 23: Quoting Gen 15.6. Friend of God, see 2 Chr 20.7; Isa 41.8, and contrast Jas 4.4. 25: Rahab also acted on faith in God’s promise (Josh 2.8–13; cf. Heb 11.31).

3.1–18: Proper use of speech is teaching God’s wisdom. 1: Judged with greater strictness, both for consistency between words and actions, and for mercy toward others (2.12–13). 2: Perfect, or “mature” as in 1.4 (Gk “teleios”). 3–4: Bits and rudder exercise control far beyond what might be expected from their size because they express the will of the pilot or rider. 5: The tongue likewise expresses the person’s will and directs one’s actions (Lk 6.45). 6: Tongue is . . . set on fire by hell, destructive impact of will and actions opposed to God’s will (cf. 1.14–15, 26–27).

by hell.^a ⁷For every species of beast and bird, of reptile and sea creature, can be tamed and has been tamed by the human species,⁸ but no one can tame the tongue—a restless evil, full of deadly poison.⁹ With it we bless the Lord and Father, and with it we curse those who are made in the likeness of God.¹⁰ From the same mouth come blessing and cursing. My brothers and sisters,^b this ought not to be so.¹¹ Does a spring pour forth from the same opening both fresh and brackish water?¹² Can a fig tree, my brothers and sisters,^c yield olives, or a grapevine figs? No more can salt water yield fresh.

¹³Who is wise and understanding among you? Show by your good life that your works are done with gentleness born of wisdom.¹⁴ But if you have bitter envy and selfish ambition in your hearts, do not be boastful and false to the truth.¹⁵ Such wisdom does not come down from above, but is earthly, unspiritual, devilish.¹⁶ For where there is envy and selfish ambition, there will also be disorder and wickedness of every kind.¹⁷ But the wisdom from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, willing to yield, full of mercy and good fruits, without a trace of partiality or hypocrisy.¹⁸ And a harvest of righteousness is sown in peace for^d those who make peace.

4 Those conflicts and disputes among you, where do they come from? Do they not come from your cravings that are at war within you? ²You want something and do not have it; so you commit murder. And you covet^e something and cannot obtain it; so you engage in disputes and conflicts. You do not have, because you do not ask.³ You ask and do not receive, because you ask wrongly, in order to spend what you get on your pleasures.

⁴Adulterers! Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Therefore whoever wishes to be a friend of the world becomes an enemy of God.⁵ Or do you suppose that it is for nothing that the scripture says, “God^f yearns jealously for the spirit that he has made to dwell in us”? ⁶But he gives all the more grace; therefore it says,

“God opposes the proud,
but gives grace to the humble.”

⁷Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you.⁸ Draw near to God, and he will draw near to you. Cleanse your hands, you sinners, and purify your hearts, you double-minded.⁹ Lament and mourn and weep. Let your laughter be turned into mourning and your joy into dejection.¹⁰ Humble yourselves before the Lord, and he will exalt you.

¹¹Do not speak evil against one another, brothers and sisters.⁹ Whoever speaks evil

^a Gk Gehenna

^b Gk My brothers

^c Gk my brothers

^d Or by

^e Or you murder and you covet

^f Gk He

^g Gk brothers

8: No one can tame, an implicit call to do the very thing said to be impossible. 9: Lord and Father, both titles referring to God. Likeness of God, human beings who should act as God’s agents (see Gen 1.26). 10: Blessing and cursing, another indication of “double-mindedness” (1.7–8; 4.8). 11–12: Cf. Mt 7.16–18. 13: Who is wise, teachers should be those whose good life shows both works of the word (1.22) and the gentleness of mercy (2.13) arising from God’s will born of wisdom (cf. 1.18). 15–16: Earthly, unspiritual, devilish, what some might call wisdom is proven by its effects (envy, selfish ambition, disorder, and wickedness) not to be wisdom at all. 17–18: Genuine wisdom is likewise proven by its origins (from above, see 1.5, 17) and effects (cf. these virtues and preceding vices with Gal 5.19–24).

4.1–12: Relations with God and others. 1: Your cravings, improper desire brings destruction to the community as well as the self (cf. 1.14–15). 2: Murder, probably hyperbole, although the charge is leveled three times in the letter (see 2.11; 5.6n.). 3: Ask and do not receive, here the problem is the purpose of the request (pleasures) rather than “doubt” (see 1.6–8). 4: Adulterers, Greek is feminine (“Adulteresses!”), recalling prophetic tradition of casting Israel as God’s unfaithful wife (Jer 3.6–10; Ezek 16.8–52; Hos 1–3; cf. Mk 8.38). Friend of the world . . . enemy of God, contrast 2.23. 5: Scripture says, either a general statement setting up the citation in the next verse or a quotation from an unknown source. 6: Quotation from Prov 3.34. 8: Purify your hearts, the seat of will and intellect (Mt 13.15; Jn 13.2), and so a correction to double-mindedness that results from nearness with God (cf. 1.7–8). 9–10: Repentance in anticipation of the great reversal at the last day (see 1.9–10). 11: Not a doer of the law against another or judges another, speaks evil against the law and judges the law; but if you judge the law, you are not a doer of the law but a judge. ¹² There is one lawgiver and judge who is able to save and to destroy. So who, then, are you to judge your neighbor?

¹³ Come now, you who say, “Today or tomorrow we will go to such and such a town and spend a year there, doing business and making money.” ¹⁴ Yet you do not even know what tomorrow will bring. What is your life? For you are a mist that appears for a little while and then vanishes. ¹⁵ Instead you ought to say, “If the Lord wishes, we will live and do this or that.” ¹⁶ As it is, you boast in your arrogance; all such boasting is evil. ¹⁷ Anyone, then, who knows the right thing to do and fails to do it, commits sin.

5 Come now, you rich people, weep and wail for the miseries that are coming to you. ² Your riches have rotted, and your clothes are moth-eaten. ³ Your gold and silver have rusted, and their rust will be evidence against you, and it will eat your flesh like fire. You have laid up treasure^a for the last days. ⁴ Listen! The wages of the laborers who mowed your fields, which you kept back by fraud, cry out, and the cries of the harvesters have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts. ⁵ You have lived on the earth in luxury and in pleasure; you have fattened your hearts in a day of slaughter. ⁶ You have condemned and murdered the righteous one, who does not resist you.

⁷ Be patient, therefore, beloved,^b until the coming of the Lord. The farmer waits for the precious crop from the earth, being patient with it until it receives the early and the late rains. ⁸ You also must be patient. Strengthen your hearts, for the coming of the Lord is near.^c ⁹ Beloved,^d do not grumble against one another, so that you may not be judged. See, the Judge is standing at the doors! ¹⁰ As an example of suffering and patience, beloved,^b take the prophets who spoke in the name of the Lord. ¹¹ Indeed we call blessed those who showed endurance. You have heard of the endurance of Job, and you have seen the purpose of the Lord, how the Lord is compassionate and merciful.

¹² Above all, my beloved,^b do not swear, either by heaven or by earth or by any other oath, but let your “Yes” be yes and your “No” be no, so that you may not fall under condemnation.

¹³ Are any among you suffering? They should pray. Are any cheerful? They should sing songs of praise. ¹⁴ Are any among you sick? They should call for the elders of the church and have them pray over them, anointing them with oil in the name of the Lord. ¹⁵ The prayer of faith will save the sick, and the Lord will raise them up; and anyone

^a Or will eat your flesh, since you have stored up fire

^b Gk brothers

^c Or is at hand

^d Gk Brothers

but a judge, the law properly rules over the readers (2.8; cf. 1.25). 12: God is able to save by changing one’s will (1.18, 21) or to destroy by being left to one’s “desire . . . sin . . . [and] death” (1.14–15).

4.13–5.9: Coming judgment. 4.14: You do not . . . know, Christ’s return “is near” (5.8–9), but the precise time is unknown (Mk 13.32). Mist that . . . vanishes, the impermanence of this age and its ways of life (1.11). 15: If the Lord wishes, actions are properly determined by God’s will and word (1.22). 17: Theologically termed “sins of omission” arising from failing to do what one knows God desires (2.16n.). 5.2–4: Gold and silver have rusted, while these metals do not rust or corrode, the imagery suggests deterioration (rotted, moth-eaten; cf. Mt 6.19–21) from lack of use by both the rich and those from whom they have been kept back by fraud (cf. 2.15–16). Wages were to be paid daily according to Jewish law (Deut 24.14–15). 6: Condemned and murdered the righteous one, possibly a reference to Jesus’s crucifixion but more likely to the general mistreatment of the poor by the rich as elsewhere in the letter (2.6b–7; 5.4; cf. Sir 34.26–27). 7: Precious crop, possibly a sign of hope that repentance by the rich may yet lead to their inclusion in the spiritual harvest (5.19–20; cf. Mt 9.37–38).

5.10–20: Closing exhortations. The letter ends with brief exhortations to fulfill responsibilities to other members of the community. 10–11: As in 1.2–5 and 1.12–18, God’s purpose during times of endurance is not to put people through “trials” or “temptations” but to be compassionate and merciful. 12: If one’s actions are consistent with one’s words there will be no need for an oath (cf. Mt 5.33–37). 13–16: Both prayer and praise are here placed in communal context. 15: Will save . . . will raise, these verbs can refer both to temporal physical healing and to who has committed sins will be forgiven.

¹⁶ Therefore confess your sins to one another, and pray for one another, so that you may be healed. The prayer of the righteous is powerful and effective. ¹⁷ Elijah was a human being like us, and he prayed fervently that it might not rain, and for three years and six months it did not rain on the earth. ¹⁸ Then he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain and the earth yielded its harvest.

¹⁹ My brothers and sisters,^a if anyone among you wanders from the truth and is brought back by another, ²⁰ you should know that whoever brings back a sinner from wandering will save the sinner's^b soul from death and will cover a multitude of sins.

^a Gk My brothers

^b Gk his spiritual salvation and resurrection at the end of the age; given other uses of save in the letter (1.21; 2.14; 4.12; 5.20), James probably intends both senses in this context. 17–18: Since Elijah (1 Kings 17.1; 18.41–45) was like us, he is a typical rather than extraordinary example (but see Jesus's remarks at Lk 4.25–27). 19–20: From wandering, lit., “from the error of his way,” recalling Rahab's actions in saving herself and the messengers (2.25). Sinner's, lit. “his,” referring either to one who wanders from the truth or to whoever brings back the wanderer. If Rahab provides the pattern, the ambiguity may be deliberate and express James's understanding of what the letter has accomplished.

THE FIRST LETTER OF PETER

NAME, AUTHORSHIP, AND DATE

The First Letter of Peter presents itself as a pastoral letter written by the apostle Peter from “Babylon,” where he is accompanied by Silvanus (= Silas) and Mark (5.12–13), to churches in five provinces of Asia Minor (1.1). Some scholars still treat Simon Peter as the letter’s author, with Silvanus as secretary (5.12); others consider Silvanus as the actual author, who wrote at Peter’s instruction. However, the situation that the letter indirectly describes points to a time after Peter’s death, which probably occurred in the early 60s CE. The high level of its Greek prose, the letter’s rhetorical sophistication, and familiarity with Hellenistic religious thought seem inappropriate for a Galilean fisherman and missionary to Jews (Gal 2.9). The lack of references to the life and teaching of the earthly Jesus, the christological emphasis on the cosmic Christ, and the address to Gentile Christians who had previously lived a sinful idolatrous life (1.14,18,21; 2.1,9–11,25; 4.3) all point to a later disciple of Peter writing in the name of the revered apostle. Thus most scholars interpret the document as a letter from the last decade of the first century CE, written in Peter’s name to support the claim that its teaching represented the apostolic faith.

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

The letter itself claims to be written by a presbyter (elder; 5.1) of the Roman church—the “Babylon” of 5.13 was a common cryptogram for Rome at the end of the first century (cf., e.g., Rev 17.5,9; 18.2,10,21). The references to Silvanus and Mark, both known companions of Paul (1 Thess 1.1; Philem 24), are part of a literary picture that combines elements of Pauline tradition with the figure of Peter. First Peter contains numerous points of contact with Paul’s letters (compare, e.g., 2.1–5 and Rom 12.1; 2.7–10 and Rom 9–11; 2.13–14 and Rom 13.1–7). The Pauline letter form, including its distinctive structure and expressions, is adopted by 1 Peter (see 1.1–2n.; 4.10n). The letter thus represents the combination of Pauline and Petrine traditions in the church of Rome at the end of the first century, set forth in a pastoral letter to churches struggling in difficult social situations.

STRUCTURE

The structure of First Peter is an adaptation of the Pauline letter form: epistolary greeting (1.1–2); thanksgiving (1.3–12); the body of the letter (1.13–5.11); epistolary conclusion (5.12–14). The body of the letter portrays the new identity of the people of God (1.13–2.10), Christian conduct in the given structures of society (2.11–3.12), and responsible suffering in the face of hostility (3.13–5.11).

CONTENTS AND INTERPRETATION

First Peter is a real letter, a cohesive composition, and not, as some scholars once thought, a baptismal homily to which epistolary elements were added secondarily. Recent rhetorical analyses highlight its literary unity as a form of deliberative oratory, intended to evoke a decision from the readers. The letter addresses a critical situation in the lives of the recipients, who once participated in the social and cultural life of their communities, but since their conversion to Christ have become marginalized and abused. The society to which they once belonged now considers them an unwelcome, even dangerous sectarian movement (cf. Acts 28.22—“this sect . . . that everywhere is spoken against”). While Christians are called to suffer “for the name” (4.15–16), the abuse is mostly verbal (2.22–23; 3.9–12,16). The positive attitude toward the state (2.13–17) suggests that there is as yet no overt government persecution, except perhaps for occasional arbitrary acts by lower-level officials. First Peter offers realistic encouragement and instruction to Christians attempting to live faithfully in such a situation.

The author has not composed a theological essay, but gives instructions that are based on theological reflection, expressed indirectly by the narrative chronology in the letter: God created the world (4.19), God chose an elect people (2.9–10), God sent Christ who was rejected by humans but exalted by God (2.4), God sent the Spirit and Christian evangelists who established a new people of God and converted the addressees (1.12), and God will send Christ in the near future to conduct the final judgment (1.7,13; 4.7). Christians live their lives in the time between Christ’s resurrection and return.

The christological pattern of suffering and rejection is foundational for the ethic 1 Peter commends: just as Christ was misunderstood and suffered unjustly for the sake of others, so Christians are now called to follow “in his steps” (2.21). Just as all Christians are instructed to respect the government authorities (2.13–17), so the most vulnerable Christians, slaves of unbelieving masters and wives of unbelieving husbands, are instructed to fit uncomplainingly into the given structures of society as a testimony to the faith (2.18–3.6). Such behavior may convert the oppressor (3.1–2), but if not following the example set by Christ will be vindicated soon at the last judgment (4.5–7).

M. Eugene Boring

1 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, To the exiles of the Dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, ²who have been chosen and destined by God the Father and sanctified by the Spirit to be obedient to Jesus Christ and to be sprinkled with his blood:

May grace and peace be yours in abundance.

³Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! By his great mercy he has given us a new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴and into an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ⁵who are being protected by the power of God through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time. ⁶In this you rejoice,^a even if now for a little while you have had to suffer various trials, ⁷so that the genuineness of your faith—being more precious than gold that, though perishable, is tested by fire—may be found to result in praise and glory and honor when Jesus Christ is revealed. ⁸Although you have not seen^b him, you love him; and even though you do not see him now, you believe in him and rejoice with an indescribable and glorious joy, ⁹for you are receiving the outcome of your faith, the salvation of your souls.

¹⁰Concerning this salvation, the prophets who prophesied of the grace that was to be yours made careful search and inquiry, ¹¹inquiring about the person or time that the Spirit of Christ within them indicated when it testified in advance to the sufferings destined for Christ and the subsequent glory. ¹²It was revealed to them that they were serving not themselves but you, in regard to the things that have now been announced to you through those who brought you good news by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven—things into which angels long to look!

¹³Therefore prepare your minds for action;^c discipline yourselves; set all your hope on the grace that Jesus Christ will bring

^a Or Rejoice in this

^b Other ancient authorities read known

^c Gk gird up the loins of your mind

1.1–2: Salutation. The author adapts the form used by Paul (see Rom 1.1–7n.). 1: An apostle is an authorized representative. Exiles of the Dispersion, applying images of Israel to Christians (see Jas 1.1n.). Pontus . . . Bithynia, Roman provinces in Asia Minor. 2: A proto-Trinitarian formula. Obedience and being sprinkled with Christ's blood are covenant language (see Ex 24.3–8).

1.3–12: Thanksgiving. As in 2 Cor 1.3 and Eph 1.3, the customary thanksgiving (see Rom 1.8–15n.) becomes a doxological expression of praise that constitutes the theological basis for the imperatives to follow. 3: Hope expresses the present confidence in the reality of future redemption founded on the resurrection of Jesus Christ. New birth is related to baptism (see 1.23; 2.2; 3.20–22; Jn 3.3–5). 5: Salvation ready to be revealed in the last time. The present experience has a future consummation. The believer does not go “up” to heaven, but “forward” to the future reward to be revealed at the end time. 8: The contrast is not between the author who has seen and the readers who have not, but is a statement about Christian faith as such (as in Jn 20.29; Rom 8.23–24; 2 Cor 4.18; 5.7; Heb 11.1–40). 12: The readers’ Christian lives, though beset with difficulties (1.6; 2.19–24; 3.14–15; 4.12–19; 5.10), represent the climax of God’s plan for the ages, which even the prophets and the angels could only long to share.

1.13–5.11: Body of the letter, calling the readers to disciplined thinking and action (1.13; 4.7; 5.8).

1.13–2.10: The new identity as the elect and holy people of God. The preceding indicative statements of God’s mighty acts lead to imperatives for the Christian life. 1.13: In the Greek text, the first imperative in the

you when he is revealed. ¹⁴ Like obedient children, do not be conformed to the desires that you formerly had in ignorance. ¹⁵ Instead, as he who called you is holy, be holy yourselves in all your conduct; ¹⁶ for it is written, “You shall be holy, for I am holy.”

¹⁷ If you invoke as Father the one who judges all people impartially according to their deeds, live in reverent fear during the time of your exile. ¹⁸ You know that you were ransomed from the futile ways inherited from your ancestors, not with perishable things like silver or gold, ¹⁹ but with the precious blood of Christ, like that of a lamb without defect or blemish. ²⁰ He was destined before the foundation of the world, but was revealed at the end of the ages for your sake. ²¹ Through him you have come to trust in God, who raised him from the dead and gave him glory, so that your faith and hope are set on God.

²² Now that you have purified your souls by your obedience to the truth^a so that you have genuine mutual love, love one another deeply^b from the heart.^c ²³ You have been born anew, not of perishable but of imperishable seed, through the living and enduring word of God.^d ²⁴ For

“All flesh is like grass and all its glory like the flower of grass.
The grass withers,
and the flower falls,

²⁵ but the word of the Lord endures forever.”

That word is the good news that was announced to you.

2 Rid yourselves, therefore, of all malice, and all guile, insincerity, envy, and all slander. ² Like newborn infants, long for the pure, spiritual milk, so that by it you may grow into salvation—³ if indeed you have tasted that the Lord is good.

⁴ Come to him, a living stone, though rejected by mortals yet chosen and precious in God’s sight, and ⁵ like living stones, let yourselves be built^e into a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. ⁶ For it stands in scripture:

“See, I am laying in Zion a stone,
a cornerstone chosen and precious;
and whoever believes in him^f will not be put to shame.”

⁷ To you then who believe, he is precious; but for those who do not believe,

“The stone that the builders rejected has become the very head of the corner,”

⁸ and

“A stone that makes them stumble, and a rock that makes them fall.”

They stumble because they disobey the word, as they were destined to do.

⁹ But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, God’s own people,^g in order that you may proclaim the mighty acts of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light.

¹⁰ Once you were not a people,
but now you are God’s people;
once you had not received mercy,
but now you have received mercy.

^a Other ancient authorities add through the Spirit

^b Or constantly

^c Other ancient authorities read a pure heart

^d Or through the word of the living and enduring God

^e Or you yourselves are being built

^f Or it

^g Gk a people for his possession letter is the command to hope for Christ’s triumphal appearance. 15: The second imperative to be holy means to live a life set apart for God’s service, though in the midst of the world. 16: Quoting Lev 11.44–45; 19.2; 20.7. 17–18: The third imperative is to live in reverent fear of God rather than of the oppressive culture (cf. 2.17; 3.14). 19: Lamb without . . . blemish, see Ex 12.5; Lev 23.12; Num 6.14; etc. 21: Christian faith is theocentric, in God who has acted definitively in Christ. 22: The fourth imperative is the command of love, unselfish caring for others (see Mt 22.34–40; Rom 13.8–10; 1 Cor 13). 24–25: Isa 40.6–8. 2.1–10: The fifth imperative is to long for the means of spiritual nourishment so that they may grow (2.2). After the new birth comes nurture that leads to maturity. 3: Ps 34.8. 4: Ps 118.22; Isa 28.16; Mt 21.42. 5–8: The imagery shifts from birth and growth to the construction of a spiritual house (temple) and then to a holy priesthood. The images of the Christian life are communal rather than individualistic. 6: Isa 28.16. 7: Ps 118.22. 8: Isa 8.14–15. 9–10: Hos 2.23; Ex 19.6. Biblical language for Israel is applied to the readers, who were formerly Gentiles (1.18).

¹¹ Beloved, I urge you as aliens and exiles to abstain from the desires of the flesh that wage war against the soul. ¹² Conduct yourselves honorably among the Gentiles, so that, though they malign you as evildoers, they may see your honorable deeds and glorify God when he comes to judge.^a

¹³ For the Lord's sake accept the authority of every human institution,^b whether of the emperor as supreme, ¹⁴ or of governors, as sent by him to punish those who do wrong and to praise those who do right.

¹⁵ For it is God's will that by doing right you should silence the ignorance of the foolish.

¹⁶ As servants^c of God, live as free people, yet do not use your freedom as a pretext for evil. ¹⁷ Honor everyone. Love the family of believers.^d Fear God. Honor the emperor.

¹⁸ Slaves, accept the authority of your masters with all deference, not only those who are kind and gentle but also those who are harsh. ¹⁹ For it is a credit to you if, being aware of God, you endure pain while suffering unjustly. ²⁰ If you endure when you are beaten for doing wrong, what credit is that? But if you endure when you do right and suffer for it, you have God's approval. ²¹ For to this you have been called, because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example, so that you should follow in his steps.

²² "He committed no sin, and no deceit was found in his mouth."

²³ When he was abused, he did not return abuse; when he suffered, he did not threaten; but he entrusted himself to the one who judges justly. ²⁴ He himself bore our sins in his body on the cross,^e so that, free from sins, we might live for righteousness; by his wounds^f you have been healed. ²⁵ For you were going astray like sheep, but now you have returned to the shepherd and guardian of your souls.

3 Wives, in the same way, accept the authority of your husbands, so that, even if some of them do not obey the word, they may be won over without a word by their wives' conduct, ² when they see the purity and reverence of your lives. ³ Do not adorn yourselves outwardly by braiding your hair, and by wearing gold ornaments or fine clothing; ⁴ rather, let your adornment be the inner self with the lasting beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit, which is very precious in God's sight. ⁵ It was in this way long ago that the holy women who hoped in God used to adorn themselves by accepting the authority of their husbands. ⁶ Thus Sarah obeyed Abraham and called him lord. You have become her daughters as long as you do what is good and never let fears alarm you.

⁷ Husbands, in the same way, show consideration for your wives in your life together, paying honor to the woman as the weaker sex,⁹ since they too are also heirs of the gracious gift of life—so that nothing may hinder your prayers.

⁸ Finally, all of you, have unity of spirit, sympathy, love for one another, a tender heart, and a humble mind. ⁹ Do not repay evil for evil or abuse for abuse; but, on the contrary, repay with a blessing. It is for this

^a Gk God on the day of visitation

^b Or every institution ordained for human beings

^c Gk slaves

^d Gk Love the brotherhood

^e Or carried up our sins in his body to the tree

^f Gk bruise

^g Gk vessel

2.11–3.12: Christian existence and conduct in society. Cf. Col 3:18–4:1; Eph 5:22–6:9; Titus 2:1–10; 1 Tim 2–3; 5:1–3. The Roman Empire, the institution of slavery, and the patriarchal family are accepted as the reality of the existing social order. They are given no divine legitimization, however, but are “human institutions” that are soon to pass away (see 1:17; 2:11; 4:7). 2.11–12: In the meantime, Christian conduct within social structures is to be a testimony to others. 13–17: Instructions to all on the proper attitude to God, the state, and each other. Governors, of provinces of the Roman empire. 17: Cf. Rom 13:7. 18–25: Instructions to slaves, leading to more general comments addressed to a wider audience (cf. 3.8–12n.). Though resembling the typical household codes of Hellenistic moralists, the author's instruction is based on the example of Christ who suffered unjustly, in words that reflect the suffering servant of Isa 53:5–12. 22: Isa 53:9. 3.1–7: Instructions to wives and husbands. 1: Unbelieving husbands may be converted without preaching or argument by the Christian example of their wives; cf. 1 Cor 7:12–16. 6: See Gen 18:12 (where NRSV translates the word for “lord” as “husband”). 8–12: Concluding instructions to all. The more vulnerable members of the church, slaves and wives, are examples of the

that you were called—that you might inherit a blessing.¹⁰ For “Those who desire life and desire to see good days, let them keep their tongues from evil and their lips from speaking deceit;

¹¹ let them turn away from evil and do good;
let them seek peace and pursue it.
¹² For the eyes of the Lord are on the righteous,
and his ears are open to their prayer.
But the face of the Lord is against those who do evil.”

¹³ Now who will harm you if you are eager to do what is good? ¹⁴ But even if you do suffer for doing what is right, you are blessed. Do not fear what they fear,^a and do not be intimidated,¹⁵ but in your hearts sanctify Christ as Lord. Always be ready to make your defense to anyone who demands from you an accounting for the hope that is in you;¹⁶ yet do it with gentleness and reverence.^b Keep your conscience clear, so that, when you are maligned, those who abuse you for your good conduct in Christ may be put to shame.
¹⁷ For it is better to suffer for doing good, if suffering should be God’s will, than to suffer for doing evil.¹⁸ For Christ also suffered^c for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, in order to bring you^d to God. He was put to death in the flesh, but made alive in the spirit,¹⁹ in which also he went and made a proclamation to the spirits in prison,²⁰ who in former times did not obey, when God waited patiently in the days of Noah, during the building of the ark, in which a few, that is, eight persons, were saved through water.²¹ And baptism, which this prefigured, now saves you—not as a removal of dirt from the body, but as an appeal to God for^e a good conscience, through the resurrection of Jesus Christ,²² who has gone into heaven and is at the right hand of God, with angels, authorities, and powers made subject to him.

4 Since therefore Christ suffered in the flesh,^f arm yourselves also with the same intention (for whoever has suffered in the flesh has finished with sin),² so as to live for the rest of your earthly life⁹ no longer by human desires but by the will of God.³ You have already spent enough time in doing what the Gentiles like to do, living in licentiousness, passions, drunkenness, revels, carousing, and lawless idolatry.⁴ They are surprised that you no longer join them in the same excesses of dissipation, and so they blaspheme.^h⁵ But they will have to give an accounting to him who stands ready to judge the living and the dead.⁶ For this is the reason the gospel was

^a Gk their fear

^b Or respect

^c Other ancient authorities read died

^d Other ancient authorities read us

^e Or a pledge to God from

^f Other ancient authorities add for us; others, for you

^g Gk rest of the time in the flesh

^h Or they malign you conduct required of the whole church, which is in a vulnerable position in a hostile society. The whole church is addressed as “slaves” who are nevertheless “free” (2.16). The point is not culture-conforming submission but faith-empowered mission. 10–12: Ps 34.12–16.

3.13–5.11: Responsible suffering in the face of hostility.

3.13–17: Suffering for doing good (= doing right). Following the example of Christ’s unjust suffering does not mean passivity, but actively doing good. 15: In word as well as action, Christians are to be able to give a defense (Gk “apologia”) for the Christian faith, here summarized as “hope” (1.2,13,21).

3.18–22: Christological grounding. 18: Put to death in the flesh means that Jesus really died in the human sphere; made alive in the Spirit does not refer to a “part” of Christ that survived death, but affirms that God raised Christ to a new life in the divine realm (cf. 1.3; 2.4; 3.21–22). 19–20: The precise meaning of this fragment of an ancient christological picture is unclear, but probably refers to Christ’s preaching to the imprisoned evil spirits after his resurrection to announce his own victory (cf. Gen 6.1–4 as interpreted in 1 Enoch 10.4–6). The picture is unrelated to 4.6 and the “descent to the world of the dead” of the Apostles’ Creed. 20: Noah, see Gen 6–8. Eight persons: Noah and his wife, and his three sons and their wives. 22: See Eph 1.20; Heb 1.3.

4.1–6: Application to the Christian life. 3: As in 2.9–10, the church is the continuing people of God, and outsiders are Gentiles. 6: The dead are probably Christians who heard the gospel while they were alive.

proclaimed even to the dead, so that, though they had been judged in the flesh as everyone is judged, they might live in the spirit as God does.

⁷The end of all things is near;^a therefore be serious and discipline yourselves for the sake of your prayers. ⁸Above all, maintain constant love for one another, for love covers a multitude of sins. ⁹Be hospitable to one another without complaining. ¹⁰Like good stewards of the manifold grace of God, serve one another with whatever gift each of you has received. ¹¹Whoever speaks must do so as one speaking the very words of God; whoever serves must do so with the strength that God supplies, so that God may be glorified in all things through Jesus Christ. To him belong the glory and the power forever and ever. Amen.

¹²Beloved, do not be surprised at the fiery ordeal that is taking place among you to test you, as though something strange were happening to you. ¹³But rejoice insofar as you are sharing Christ's sufferings, so that you may also be glad and shout for joy when his glory is revealed. ¹⁴If you are reviled for the name of Christ, you are blessed, because the spirit of glory,^b which is the Spirit of God, is resting on you.^c ¹⁵But let none of you suffer as a murderer, a thief, a criminal, or even as a mischief maker. ¹⁶Yet if any of you suffers as a Christian, do not consider it a disgrace, but glorify God because you bear this name. ¹⁷For the time has come for judgment to begin with the household of God; if it begins with us, what will be the end for those who do not obey the gospel of God? ¹⁸And

“If it is hard for the righteous to be saved, what will become of the ungodly and the sinners?”

¹⁹Therefore, let those suffering in accordance with God's will entrust themselves to a faithful Creator, while continuing to do good.

5 Now as an elder myself and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, as well as one who shares in the glory to be revealed, I exhort the elders among you ²to tend the flock of God that is in your charge, exercising the oversight,^d not under compulsion but willingly, as God would have you do it^e—not for sordid gain but eagerly. ³Do not lord it over those in your charge, but be examples to the flock. ⁴And when the chief shepherd appears, you will win the crown of glory that never fades away. ⁵In the same way, you who are younger must accept the authority of the elders.^f And all of you must clothe yourselves with humility in your dealings with one another, for

“God opposes the proud,
but gives grace to the humble.”

⁶Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, so that he may exalt you in due time. ⁷Cast all your anxiety on him, because he cares for you. ⁸Discipline yourselves, keep alert.⁹ Like a roaring lion your adversary the devil prowls around, looking for someone to devour. ⁹Resist him, steadfast in your faith, for you know that your brothers and sisters^h in all the world are undergoing the same kinds of suffering. ¹⁰And after you have suffered for a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal

^a Or is at hand

^b Other ancient authorities add and of power

^c Other ancient authorities add On their part he is blasphemed, but on your part he is glorified

^d Other ancient authorities lack exercising the oversight

^e Other ancient authorities lack as God would have you do it

^f Or of those who are older

^g Or be vigilant

^h Gk your brotherhood

4.7–11: Eschatological exhortation. 9: Cf. Heb 13.2; 3 Jn 5–8. 10: Gift is the distinctive Pauline word “charisma,” found outside the Pauline tradition only here in the New Testament.

4.12–19: Suffering in joy and hope. Suffering is to be a witness to the truth of the faith, not the result of one's own antisocial behavior. Fiery ordeal refers to persecutions (1.6–7). On the name Christian cf. Acts 11.26; 26.28. 18: Prov 11.31.

5.1–11: Concluding exhortation. 1: Elders, church officials (Acts 14.23; 20.17–38; 1 Tim 4.14; 5.17; Titus 1.5; Jas 5.14; 2 Jn 1; 3 Jn 1). 5: Prov 3.34.

glory in Christ, will himself restore, support, strengthen, and establish you. ¹¹To him be the power forever and ever. Amen.

¹²Through Silvanus, whom I consider a faithful brother, I have written this short letter to encourage you and to testify that this is the true grace of God. Stand fast in it. ¹³Your sister church^a in Babylon, chosen together with you, sends you greetings; and so does my son Mark. ¹⁴Greet one another with a kiss of love.

Peace to all of you who are in Christ.^b

^a Gk She who is

^b Other ancient authorities add Amen

5:12–14: Conclusion of the Letter. Silvanus and Mark were companions of Paul (Acts 15:22; 2 Cor 1:19; Philem 24). Babylon, a cryptographic name for Rome. 14: Cf. Rom 16:16; 1 Cor 16:20; 1 Thess 5:26.

THE SECOND LETTER OF PETER

NAME AND CONTENTS

Like some other New Testament letters, 2 Peter takes its name from the sender of the letter, along with the information in 3.1 that it is his second letter. Its contents can be outlined as follows:

- I. Letter opening: 2 Pet 1.1–15
 - A. Salutation: 1.1–2
 - B. Theme: 1.3–11
 - C. Occasion of letter: 1.12–15
- II. Letter body: 2 Pet 1.16–3.13
 - A. Two arguments that Jesus will come again: 1.16–2.10a
 1. First argument: 1.16–18
 2. Second argument: 1.19–2.10a
 - B. Critique of opponents: 2.10b–22
 - C. Purpose and argument of letter restated: 3.1–13
- III. Letter closing: 2 Pet 3.14–18

CANONICAL STATUS

The earliest list of New Testament documents, the Muratorian Canon (late second century CE), does not include 2 Peter. Likewise, Irenaeus and Tertullian, writing at about the same time, do not mention 2 Peter. Sometime later, Origen (ca. 253) puts 2 Peter in the category of doubtful writings. The earliest surviving copy of 2 Peter is in Papyrus 72, dating from about 300 CE. Copies of 2 Peter are also included in the biblical Codices Vaticanus and Sinaiticus, written about fifty years later. Athanasius (367) includes 2 Peter in his canon list. Since that time, 2 Peter has been accepted by Greek- and Latin-speaking Christians as part of the New Testament, but it was not accepted by Syriac-speaking Christians until the sixth century.

AUTHORSHIP, DATE OF COMPOSITION, HISTORICAL CONTEXT, AND LITERARY HISTORY

Second Peter identifies its author as Simeon Peter, who was the leader of the twelve apostles of Jesus. Several other details of 2 Peter are consistent with this identification. According to 1.14 Jesus has revealed that the author will soon die; in Jn 21.18–19 Jesus predicts the death of Peter. According to 1.16–18 the author witnessed the transfiguration of Jesus; in Mk 9.2–8 and parallels, Peter witnesses Jesus's transfiguration. In 3.1 the author says that he is writing a second letter, possibly referring to 1 Peter.

Nevertheless, most New Testament scholars do not think Peter is the actual author of 2 Peter. A possible explanation for the composition of the letter by someone other than Peter is that 2 Peter is a testament in letter form. In a testament, a leader says farewell to his followers and gives them ethical advice and/or revelations about the future to guide the followers after the leader's death. Such testaments are usually composed in the leader's name by someone else.

Second Peter may have been written about 125 CE. That date is suggested by the reference in 3.16 to "all" of Paul's letters that ignorant people misunderstand the way they do the "other scriptures." This implies that at the time 2 Peter was written, there existed a collection of letters of Paul that were regarded as scripture. This might have been true about 125 CE. Second Peter is probably the last writing of the New Testament to have been composed.

The author of 2 Peter has used the letter of Jude as a source. Specifically, 2 Pet 2.1–3.3 is a revision of Jude 4–18, using Jude's language but ordinarily avoiding direct quotation. However, 2 Pet 2.17b quotes Jude 13b, and 2 Pet 3.2–3 quotes Jude 17–18 with several changes.

INTERPRETATION

The argument of 2 Peter is that followers of Jesus should live virtuously as they await his second coming and the fulfillment of his promises. The author warns against false teachers who will scoff at the idea that Jesus will come again and consequently will not encourage virtuous living. In accord with the conventions of the testament form, the appearance of these false teachers is presented as a future problem, but it may be a problem already confronting the author and addressees.

After the salutation of the letter (1.1–2), the author begins by making this argument in general terms, maintaining that because Jesus has given his followers present benefits and the promise of future ones, it is necessary to live virtuously (1.3–11). After explaining that he writes so the addressees will always remember his teaching (1.12–15), the author directly rejects the argument that the second coming of Jesus is a matter of “cleverly devised myths” (1.16–2.10a) and criticizes the immoral behavior of the false teachers (2.10b–22). The author then resumes his argument against those who scoff at the expectation of Jesus’s second coming (3.1–13) and brings his testamentary letter to a close (3.14–18).

Second Peter has not been influential in Christian history. One element of it that has often been taken up by others, beginning with Cyril of Jerusalem and Ambrose of Milan, is its statement that followers of Jesus will become “participants of the divine nature” (1.4). Another is its expectation that in the end the world will be destroyed by fire (3.7, 10, 12).

Terrance Callan

2 Peter	Jude	2 Peter	Jude
2.1	4	2.13	12
2.4	6	2.15	11
2.6	7	2.17	12–13, 16
2.10a	7–8	3.2	17
2.10b–11	8–9	3.3	18
2.12	10

1 Simeon^a Peter, a servant^b and apostle of Jesus Christ,

To those who have received a faith as precious as ours through the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ:^c

² May grace and peace be yours in abundance in the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord.

³ His divine power has given us everything needed for life and godliness, through the knowledge of him who called us by^d his own glory and goodness. ⁴ Thus he has given us, through these things, his precious and very great promises, so that through them you may escape from the corruption that is in the world because of lust, and may become participants of the divine nature. ⁵ For this very reason, you must make every effort to support your faith with goodness, and goodness with knowledge,⁶ and knowledge with self-control, and self-control with endurance, and endurance with godliness,⁷ and godliness with mutual^e affection, and mutual^e affection with love. ⁸ For if these things are yours and are increasing among you, they keep you from being ineffective and unfruitful in the

^a Other ancient authorities read Simon

^b Gk slave

^c Or of our God and the Savior Jesus Christ

^d Other ancient authorities read through

^e Gk brotherly

^f Gk brothers

1.1–2: Salutation. The sender of the letter is Simeon Peter. Simeon, a variant of Simon, is the sender’s personal name; Peter is the nickname given him by Jesus (see Mt 16.17–18). The addressees are described as those who have received faith. If 3.1 means that 2 Peter is addressed to the same people as 1 Peter, the specification of addressees in 1 Pet 1.1 may be assumed here.

1.3–11: Theme. 3–7: This is a single, long sentence in Greek. His in v. 3 probably refers to Jesus. The sentence argues that because Jesus has given his followers the benefits mentioned in vv. 3–4, they should live the abundantly virtuous lives described in vv. 5–7. 8–11: The author supports the argument made in vv. 3–7 by arguing that virtuous living will lead to the addressees’ entering the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ (v. 11).

1.12–15: Occasion of letter. Jesus has told Peter that his death will come soon; this may refer to the saying of Jesus to Peter found in Jn 21.18. Peter writes so that people will be able to recall the teaching contained in his letter after Peter’s death.

knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.⁹ For anyone who lacks these things is short-sighted and blind, and is forgetful of the cleansing of past sins.¹⁰ Therefore, brothers and sisters,^f be all the more eager to confirm your call and election, for if you do this, you will never stumble.¹¹ For in this way, entry into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ will be richly provided for you.

¹²Therefore I intend to keep on reminding you of these things, though you know them already and are established in the truth that has come to you.¹³ I think it right, as long as I am in this body,^a to refresh your memory,¹⁴ since I know that my death^b will come soon, as indeed our Lord Jesus Christ has made clear to me.¹⁵ And I will make every effort so that after my departure you may be able at any time to recall these things.

¹⁶For we did not follow cleverly devised myths when we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we had been eyewitnesses of his majesty.¹⁷ For he received honor and glory from God the Father when that voice was conveyed to him by the Majestic Glory, saying, “This is my Son, my Beloved,^c with whom I am well pleased.”¹⁸ We ourselves heard this voice come from heaven, while we were with him on the holy mountain.

¹⁹So we have the prophetic message more fully confirmed. You will do well to be attentive to this as to a lamp shining in a dark place, until the day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts.²⁰ First of all you must understand this, that no prophecy of scripture is a matter of one’s own interpretation,²¹ because no prophecy ever came by human will, but men and women moved by the Holy Spirit spoke from God.^d

2 But false prophets also arose among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you, who will secretly bring in destructive opinions. They will even deny the Master who bought them—bringing swift destruction on themselves.² Even so, many will follow their licentious ways, and because of these teachers^e the way of truth will be maligned.³ And in their greed they will exploit you with deceptive words. Their condemnation, pronounced against them long ago, has not been idle, and their destruction is not asleep.

⁴For if God did not spare the angels when they sinned, but cast them into hell^f and committed them to chains^g of deepest darkness to be kept until the judgment;⁵ and if he

^a Gk tent

^b Gk the putting off of my tent

^c Other ancient authorities read my beloved Son

^d Other ancient authorities read but moved by the Holy Spirit saints of God spoke

^e Gk because of them

^f Gk Tartaros

^g Other ancient authorities read prits

1.16–18: First argument that Jesus will come again. Peter appeals to the transfiguration of Jesus as proof that expectation of Jesus’s power and coming does not derive from cleverly devised myths. The story of Jesus’s transfiguration is told in Mk 9.2–8, Mt 17.1–8, and Lk 9.28–36; according to these accounts Peter was one of three witnesses of the transfiguration. The words of the voice in 2 Pet 1.17b are close to the words of the voice in Mt 17.5b, which may be their source.

1.19–2.10a: Second argument that Jesus will come again. The author appeals at greater length to the prophetic message of scripture, implying that it predicts the second coming of Jesus. 1.19: The author supports this appeal by comparing the prophetic message to a lamp shining in a dark place, until the day dawns. Just as one relies on a lamp during the night, one should rely on scripture during the darkness of the present age. 2.1: The author acknowledges the existence of false prophets as well as true ones, and says there will similarly be false teachers among the addressees who will teach something different than the author and even deny the Master who bought them. The Master is probably Jesus; he bought the false teachers, and all of his followers, by means of his death and resurrection. The false teachers deny him especially by denying his second coming. 2.4–10a: The author summarizes three scriptural accounts of God’s punishment of the unrighteous, two of which also describe salvation of the righteous (vv. 4–8), and concludes that God knows how to rescue the godly and punish the unrighteous (vv. 9–10a). In this way scripture predicts that Jesus will come again to do both of these things. In 2.1–10a the author of 2 Peter rewrites Jude 4–8a to describe the false teachers (2 Pet 2.1–3) and make his argument from scripture (2 Pet 2.4–10a). 4: The angels ... sinned, see Gen 6.1–4; 1 En.6–12. Cast ... into hell (Gk “tartarōsas”). Tartaros is the prison of the Titans of Greek myth. 5: See Gen 6.5–9.29. Seven others, Noah’s wife and his three sons and their wives (Gen 6.18). 6–8: See Gen 18.20; 19.1–25.

did not spare the ancient world, even though he saved Noah, a herald of righteousness, with seven others, when he brought a flood on a world of the ungodly;⁶ and if by turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah to ashes he condemned them to extinction^a and made them an example of what is coming to the ungodly;^b and if he rescued Lot, a righteous man greatly distressed by the licentiousness of the lawless⁸ (for that righteous man, living among them day after day, was tormented in his righteous soul by their lawless deeds that he saw and heard),⁹ then the Lord knows how to rescue the godly from trial, and to keep the unrighteous under punishment until the day of judgment¹⁰—especially those who indulge their flesh in depraved lust, and who despise authority.

Bold and willful, they are not afraid to slander the glorious ones,^c whereas angels, though greater in might and power, do not bring against them a slanderous judgment from the Lord.^d These people, however, are like irrational animals, mere creatures of instinct, born to be caught and killed. They slander what they do not understand, and when those creatures are destroyed,^e they also will be destroyed,¹³ suffering^f the penalty for doing wrong. They count it a pleasure to revel in the daytime. They are blots and blemishes, reveling in their dissipation⁹ while they feast with you.¹⁴ They have eyes full of adultery, insatiable for sin. They entice unsteady souls. They have hearts trained in greed. Accursed children!¹⁵ They have left the straight road and have gone astray, following the road of Balaam son of Bosor,^h who loved the wages of doing wrong,¹⁶ but was rebuked for his own transgression; a speechless donkey spoke with a human voice and restrained the prophet's madness.

¹⁷These are waterless springs and mists driven by a storm; for them the deepest darkness has been reserved.¹⁸ For they speak bombastic nonsense, and with licentious desires of the flesh they entice people who have justⁱ escaped from those who live in error.¹⁹ They promise them freedom, but they themselves are slaves of corruption; for people are slaves to whatever masters them.²⁰ For if, after they have escaped the defilements of the world through the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled in them and overpowered, the last state has become worse for them than the first.²¹ For it would have been better for them never to have known the way of righteousness than, after knowing it, to turn back from the holy commandment that was passed on to them.²² It has happened to them according to the true proverb,

“The dog turns back to its own vomit,”
and,

“The sow is washed only to wallow in the mud.”

3 This is now, beloved, the second letter I am writing to you; in them I am trying to arouse your sincere intention by reminding you² that you should remember the words spoken in the past by the holy prophets, and the commandment of the Lord and Savior spoken through your apostles.³ First of all

^a Other ancient authorities lack to extinction

^b Other ancient authorities read an example to those who were to be ungodly

^c Or angels; Gk glories

^d Other ancient authorities read before the Lord; others lack the phrase

^e Gk in their destruction

^f Other ancient authorities read receiving

^g Other ancient authorities read love-feasts

^h Other ancient authorities read Beor

ⁱ Other ancient authorities read actually

2.10b–22: Critique of opponents. The author adapts Jude 8b–16 to elaborate the negative description of the false teachers presented briefly in 2 Pet 2.1–3. In both passages the accusations against the false teachers are conventional. They may not be simple descriptions of the false teachers' behavior, but mainly intended to communicate and encourage a negative evaluation of them. 15–16: See Num 22–24. 22: The first quotation is from Prov 26.11; the second is from The Story of Ahiqar 8.15/18.

3.1–13: Purpose and argument of letter restated. 1–4: The author rewrites Jude 17–18 as he predicts the coming of scoffers, probably another name for the false teachers mentioned in 2.1, who will doubt the second coming of Jesus. 5–13: The author offers various arguments against doubting the second coming of Jesus: the you must understand this, that in the last days scoffers will come, scoffing and indulging their own lusts ⁴ and saying, “Where is the promise of his coming? For ever since our ancestors died,^a all things continue as they were from the beginning of creation!” ⁵ They deliberately ignore this fact, that by the word of God heavens existed long ago and an earth was formed out of water and by means of water, ⁶ through which the world of that time was deluged with water and perished. ⁷ But by the same word the present heavens and earth have been reserved for fire, being kept until the day of judgment and destruction of the godless.

⁸ But do not ignore this one fact, beloved, that with the Lord one day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like one day. ⁹ The Lord is not slow about his promise, as some think of slowness, but is patient with you,^b not wanting any to perish, but all to come to repentance. ¹⁰ But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a loud noise, and the elements will be dissolved with fire, and the earth and everything that is done on it will be disclosed.^c

¹¹ Since all these things are to be dissolved in this way, what sort of persons ought you to be in leading lives of holiness and godliness, ¹² waiting for and hastening^d the coming of the day of God, because of which the heavens will be set ablaze and dissolved, and the elements will melt with fire? ¹³ But, in accordance with his promise, we wait for new heavens and a new earth, where righteousness is at home.

¹⁴ Therefore, beloved, while you are waiting for these things, strive to be found by him at peace, without spot or blemish; ¹⁵ and regard the patience of our Lord as salvation. So also our beloved brother Paul wrote to you according to the wisdom given him, ¹⁶ speaking of this as he does in all his letters. There are some things in them hard to understand, which the ignorant and unstable twist to their own destruction, as they do the other scriptures. ¹⁷ You therefore, beloved, since you are forewarned, beware that you are not carried away with the error of the lawless and lose your own stability. ¹⁸ But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be the glory both now and to the day of eternity. Amen.^e

^a Gk our fathers fell asleep

^b Other ancient authorities read on your account

^c Other ancient authorities read will be burned up

^d Or earnestly desiring

^e Other ancient authorities lack Amen

precedent of the flood in the time of Noah (vv. 5–7; cf. Gen 6.5–9.29), the different meaning of time for God and humans (v. 8; cf. Ps. 90.4), God’s provision of an opportunity for repentance (v. 9), and the unknown time of the second coming, the day of the Lord (vv. 10–13; cf. 1 Thess 5.2). 13: New heavens and a new earth, Isa 65.17; 66.22; Rev 21.1.

3.14–18: Letter closing. The author maintains that the letters of Paul agree with what he has said (vv. 15–16). His reference to ignorant and unstable people’s twisting of these letters to their own destruction (v. 16) suggests that the views he opposes may depend on a different interpretation of Paul’s letters.

THE FIRST LETTER OF JOHN

NAME

Ancient manuscripts title the work “the first letter of John” even though it does not follow the literary form of the ancient letter (see pp. 1611–12). It lacks an opening greeting identifying its author and addressees as well as the customary letter closing. The repeated references to writing (1.4; 2.1,7–8,12–14,21,26) and familiar address to its audience along with verbal similarities to two short letters (2–3 John) led scribes to use the title “letter.”

CANONICAL STATUS AND AUTHORSHIP

First John has an opening resembling that of the Gospel of John (cf. 1.1–14 and Jn 1.1–18). Its ethical teaching focuses on the command to love one another which Jesus gave the disciples at the Last Supper in the Gospel (Jn 13.31–35; 1 Jn 3.11–17,23; 4.7–21). It came into the Christian canon as an authoritative interpretation of the Gospel.

The anonymous author was identified as the fourth evangelist by the end of the second century CE (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.39.17; Muratorian Canon, lines 26–31; Irenaeus, Adv. Haer. 3.16.5). Since the Gospel was attributed to John the son of Zebedee, early Christian writers concluded that he wrote 1 John near the end of a long life (Jn 21.22–23). Modern scholars have a more complex view of the development of the Johannine community and its writings. The opening verses of 1 John employ a first-person plural “we” as witnesses to the truth revealed in Jesus (1 Jn 1.1–4). That “we” probably refers to a circle of teachers faithful to the apostolic testimony of the Beloved Disciple and the evangelist. A prominent member of that group composed this instruction as well as the letters 2 and 3 John.

DATE

The earliest allusions to 1 John occur in the mid-second century CE (Polycarp, To the Philippians 6.3; 7.1, compare 1 Jn 4.2–3; also by Papias according to Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.36.1–2). Irenaeus (ca. 180 CE) cites 1 John explicitly. The date of 1 John depends upon its relationship to the Gospel of John. Its author employs language and themes familiar from the Gospel but never quotes it. Therefore it is possible that the Gospel as we know it had not yet taken its final written form when 1 John was written. A date around 100 CE would be plausible. Some scholars focus on the fact that 1 John appears less theologically developed than the Gospel in some respects. Attributes such as “light” and “life” are associated with God rather than the Son. Concern for forgiveness of sin and salvation in the final judgment has not been transformed by the Gospel’s picture of the presence of eternal life in the believer. They conclude that 1 John should be dated earlier than the Gospel.

Yet although theological differences make 1 John appear to be earlier, the author’s concerns suggest a historical context later than that of the Gospel. Jews and their hostility to faith in Jesus as Son of God, a major element in the Gospel (see Jn 9.13–41; 10.31–39), have disappeared from the discussion as have quotations from the Hebrew Bible. Instead the community has been shaken by schism (1 Jn 2.18–19). Those who have departed from the fellowship are said to deny the reality of Jesus’s coming in the flesh (1.1–4; 4.1–3) and the saving significance of the death (“blood”) of Jesus (5.6). In addition, 1 John describes a communal discipline of prayer for members who sin (5.16–17). Therefore 1 John speaks to a historical setting later than the Gospel. A community that had once been unified in the face of exclusion from the synagogue and persecution by outsiders (see Jn 16.1–4a) has split over interpretation of Jesus and salvation. The author seeks to reassure readers that they possess the truth revealed through Jesus.

LITERARY HISTORY

The rhetorical power of 1 John stems from its appeals to received tradition shared by its author and readers. The phrase “what was from the beginning” (1.1) not only imitates the Gospel opening (Jn 1.1), it applies to the teaching which follows (2.7,21,24; 3.11). Since 1 John does not speak to specific details of the readers’ situation as letters usually do, or develop a sustained theological argument as Paul does in his letters, some scholars suggest that it was assembled from earlier written traditions. For example a core that concluded at 1 Jn 2.29 might have been supplemented with homiletic reflections on love and polemic against the dissidents in the remaining chapters. First John 5.13 concludes the work in a fashion similar to the Gospel. 1 John 5.14–21 appears to be an epilogue added to the completed work.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

First John lacks a clearly defined structure that carries its argument from the opening witness to shared tradition (1.1–4) to the concluding statement of purpose (5.13) and appended remarks (5.14–21). Fellowship with the author and other Johannine witnesses requires belief in the teachings presented, which alternate between truths about the coming of Jesus and ethical exhortations focused on holiness and love within the community. Both aspects of the tradition are threatened by dissidents, who are characterized as “antichrists” emblematic of the evils predicted for the last days (4.1–6). The author often concludes one reflection and begins the next in the same sentence, so it is not entirely clear how to divide units within the work even looking at verbal clues such as “I am writing,” “this is the message,” or direct address to the readers as “little children” or “beloved.” Another proposal finds the macrostructure of the Gospel in 1 John: prologue (1.1–4; Jn 1.1–18); God’s light, truth, and life present in darkness (1.5–2.29; Jn 1.19–12.50); the Father’s beloved children, love one another, and the Spirit abiding in the community (3.1–5.12; Jn 13.1–17.26); blood and water at the cross (5.6–8; Jn 19.34–35); conclusion (5.13; Jn 20.31); and epilogue (5.14–21; Jn 21).

INTERPRETATION

First John speaks only indirectly about the views of dissidents denying truths about Jesus as messiah (2.22–23), as coming in the flesh (4.2), and as bringing salvation through his death (5.6). The author treats their departure from the communion of Johannine believers as a violation of the love command equivalent to Cain murdering his brother (3.11–12). In addition 1 John corrects false understandings of sin, holiness, and forgiveness (1.5–2.6). Christians are reminded that their obligation to love one another is grounded not only in God’s command (2.7–17) but in God’s nature as love (4.7–12). At least some readers need to be reassured about their salvation on the day of judgment (3.18–24). The community is urged to rely on the Spirit it has received from God (2.26–27). Interpreters face the problem of how to fit these varied concerns into a framework. Should they all be considered as responses to the false teaching of dissidents? Or is the author speaking to diverse concerns? In the latter case, the schism may be viewed as a crisis that had undermined confidence in other areas that had not been challenged by false teachers.

Even if the false teachers had claimed the Spirit as basis for an interpretation of Jesus that in some way denied his humanity and his saving death, it remains difficult to decide how to situate such claims theologically. Irenaeus employed 1 John to refute the sharp divide between the Jesus of the Gospels and the Savior/Christ of various Gnostic teachers. Some scholars see the opponents of 1 John in the figure of Cerinthus (ca. 100 CE). He argued that the divine Christ descended upon the righteous man, Jesus, at his baptism and bestowed the Spirit, enabling Jesus to work miracles. Jesus also revealed a previously unknown Father, the true God, superior to the creator of Gen 1. Since the divine cannot suffer, he departed from Jesus prior to his death on the cross (see Irenaeus, Adv. Haer. 1.26.1). Such a theological position suits the hints that false teachers deny that Jesus is a messiah in the flesh as well as the comment that dissidents accept a coming in water (= baptism) but not “water and blood” (= cross). But if 1 John had a Gnostic such as Cerinthus in view, one would expect some opposition to the depiction of God as “unknown Father” distinct from the creator. Perhaps the best one can say is that the opponents’ views about Jesus and salvation must have been presented as a teaching based on the Fourth Gospel.

Even without quoting the Gospel, the thick texture of Johannine allusions in 1 John provides its readers with an authentic understanding of the evangelist’s message. But since the most important part of the Gospel for readers of 1 John is the Farewell Discourses (Jn 13–17), their emphasis on unity (15.1–10; 17.6–19) must have heightened the crisis of faith posed by a schism. Did the breakup among believers undermine the promise of eternal life through union with the Father and the Son at the heart of their faith? First John replies by denying that those who have left ever really belonged to the community. Their departure broke the mutual bond of love that lies at the heart of its union with God. The author also retrieved an apocalyptic tradition depicting the rise of false prophets, schism, and even false messiahs in a satanic attempt to delude the righteous in the last days (2.22; 4.3; cf. Mk 13.22). A number of other concerns found in 1 John, such as authenticating one’s faith so as to be confident in God's judgment, may reflect the consequences of the schism rather than the theological views which provoked it.

Use of 1 John in the cycle of Christian liturgical readings during the Christmas season focuses on the positive notes rather than polemic: Jesus as messiah come in the flesh, and the love command grounded in the love God has shown in the Son. This tradition of reading goes back to St. Augustine, who commented, "in it John speaks at length and almost the whole time about love" (In Epistolam Ioannis, prologue). First John 3:1–3 is a popular selection at funerals, particularly when the Gospel reading is from John, because it highlights another motif in the work, the confidence that believers should have in eternal life.

PHEME PERKINS

1 We declare to you what was from the beginning, what we have heard, what we have seen with our eyes, what we have looked at and touched with our hands, concerning the word of life—² this life was revealed, and we have seen it and testify to it, and declare to you the eternal life that was with the Father and was revealed to us—³ we declare to you what we have seen and heard so that you also may have fellowship with us; and truly our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ. ⁴ We are writing these things so that our^a joy may be complete.

⁵ This is the message we have heard from him and proclaim to you, that God is light and in him there is no darkness at all. ⁶ If we say that we have fellowship with him while we are walking in darkness, we lie and do not do what is true; ⁷ but if we walk in the light as he himself is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanses us from all sin.

⁸ If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. ⁹ If we confess our sins, he who is faithful and just will forgive us our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness. ¹⁰ If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

2 My little children, I am writing these things to you so that you may not sin. But if anyone does sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; ² and he is the atoning sacrifice for our sins, and not for ours only but also for the sins of the whole world.

³ Now by this we may be sure that we know him, if we obey his commandments. ⁴ Whoever says, "I have come to know him," but does not obey his commandments, is a liar, and in such a person the truth does not exist; ⁵ but whoever obeys his word, truly in this person the love of God has reached perfection. By this we may be sure that we are in him: ⁶ whoever says, "I abide in him," ought to walk just as he walked.

^a Other ancient authorities read your

1.1–4: Introduction. 1–2: From the beginning echoes the opening of John's Gospel (Jn 1.1–18) in which Jesus is the Word made flesh, life and light. Here beginning refers to the beginning of Christian faith. We, teachers in the community, charged with handing on the tradition. Heard, seen, looked at, touched insist on the human reality of the Son against false teachers (see Introduction). 3–4: Fellowship with the Father and the Son and abiding joy are signs of genuine Christian community in the Johannine tradition (Jn 15.11; 17.13).

1.5–10: Holiness in the community. 5: Light is a common symbol for the holiness and perfection of God (Ps 4.6; Isa 60.1–2). God's light guides the righteous (Ps 27.1). 6–7: No one can claim fellowship with God who does not follow God's commands (2.11; Jn 3.19). Jesus's death has brought forgiveness of sins (cf. Rev 1.5; 5.9). 8–10: False teachers, who reject the saving death of Jesus (see Introduction), may have claimed that true believers were sinless. Such teaching makes God a liar (v. 10). The wicked have false views about God and sin (Ps 53).

2.1–6: Christ our advocate. 1–2: A similar image of the risen Christ interceding for believers describes Christ as high priest in Heb 4.15–5.4. Here Christ is the advocate, who defends the faithful in the divine court (for the Holy Spirit as advocate see Jn 14.15–16). 3–5: Knowledge of God requires obedience to God's commandments (cf. Ezek 36.26–27). 6: Jesus exemplifies the love which is God's commandment (Jn 13.1; 15.11–13).

⁷ Beloved, I am writing you no new commandment, but an old commandment that you have had from the beginning; the old commandment is the word that you have heard. ⁸ Yet I am writing you a new commandment that is true in him and in you, because^a the darkness is passing away and the true light is already shining. ⁹ Whoever says, “I am in the light,” while hating a brother or sister,^b is still in the darkness. ¹⁰ Whoever loves a brother or sister^c lives in the light, and in such a person^d there is no cause for stumbling. ¹¹ But whoever hates another believer^e is in the darkness, walks in the darkness, and does not know the way to go, because the darkness has brought on blindness.

¹² I am writing to you, little children, because your sins are forgiven on account of his name.

¹³ I am writing to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning.

I am writing to you, young people, because you have conquered the evil one.

¹⁴ I write to you, children, because you know the Father.

I write to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning.

I write to you, young people, because you are strong and the word of God abides in you, and you have overcome the evil one.

¹⁵ Do not love the world or the things in the world. The love of the Father is not in those who love the world; ¹⁶ for all that is in the world—the desire of the flesh, the desire of the eyes, the pride in riches—comes not from the Father but from the world. ¹⁷ And the world and its desire^f are passing away, but those who do the will of God live forever.

¹⁸ Children, it is the last hour! As you have heard that antichrist is coming, so now many antichrists have come. From this we know that it is the last hour. ¹⁹ They went out from us, but they did not belong to us; for if they had belonged to us, they would have remained with us. But by going out they made it plain that none of them belongs to us. ²⁰ But you have been anointed by the Holy One, and all of you have knowledge.^g ²¹ I write to you, not because you do not know the truth, but because you know it, and you know that no lie comes from the truth. ²² Who is the liar but the one who denies that Jesus is the Christ?^h This is the antichrist, the one who denies the Father and the Son. ²³ No one who denies the Son has the Father; everyone who confesses the Son has the Father also. ²⁴ Let

^a Or that

^b Gk hating a brother

^c Gk loves a brother

^d Or in it

^e Gk hates a brother

^f Or the desire for it

^g Other ancient authorities read you know all things

^h Or the Messiah

2.7–11: The love commandment. 7: I am writing you repeats 2.1. Fidelity to Christ's new commandment to love one another (Jn 13.34) is freedom from sin. 8: The true light is already shining echoes Jesus as light of the world in John's Gospel (Jn 8.12; 9.5; 12.35–36).

2.12–17: Victory over evil. 12–14: A rhythmic series of phrases reminds all from the youngest (or newest) members to the most senior (little children . . . fathers . . . young people) that they share Christ's victory over the world and its ruling power, the evil one (see Jn 12.31; 16.11,33b). 15–17: Jesus came to save the world (2.2; Jn 3.16), but the world also represents false values, love of wealth or honor, and passions that separate people from God and one another (3.17).

2.18–29: Victory over false teaching. 18–23: Many antichrists have come refers to the secessionists as agents of the evil one, trying to deceive God's people (v. 18; 4.1–3). The appearance of such false prophets signals the last hour in apocalyptic texts (Mt 24.4–5,24; CD 5.20; T. Moses 7.4; Rev 20.10). The term “antichrist” occurs in the New Testament only in 1–2 John. It may be a variant of the “false messiah” (Gk “pseudochristos”) in the Synoptic apocalypse (Mk 13.22; Mt 24.24). The figure of an opponent of God who arises in the last days combines images of the mythical chaos monster defeated by God (Isa 27.1; 51.9; Ps 74.13; Job 26.12), the figure of Satan as an angelic adversary (Zech 3.1; Jub. 1.20; 1 QS 1.18; 3.20–21), a human ruler who embodies evil (Dan 8.25; Ezek 38.1; 39.6; 2 Macc 9.12; 2 Esd 5.6–13), and false prophets (Deut 13.2–6; 18.30). 24–27: The Holy Spirit (“the Holy what you heard from the beginning abide in you. If what you heard from the beginning abides in you, then you will abide in the Son and in the Father.²⁵ And this is what he has promised us,^a eternal life.

²⁶ I write these things to you concerning those who would deceive you.²⁷ As for you, the anointing that you received from him abides in you, and so you do not need anyone to teach you. But as his anointing teaches you about all things, and is true and is not a lie, and just as it has taught you, abide in him.^b

²⁸ And now, little children, abide in him, so that when he is revealed we may have confidence and not be put to shame before him at his coming.

²⁹ If you know that he is righteous, you may be sure that everyone who does right has 3 been born of him.¹ See what love the Father has given us, that we should be called children of God; and that is what we are. The reason the world does not know us is that it did not know him.² Beloved, we are God's children now; what we will be has not yet been revealed. What we do know is this: when he^b is revealed, we will be like him, for we will see him as he is.³ And all who have this hope in him purify themselves, just as he is pure.

⁴ Everyone who commits sin is guilty of lawlessness; sin is lawlessness.⁵ You know that he was revealed to take away sins, and in him there is no sin.⁶ No one who abides in him sins; no one who sins has either seen him or known him.⁷ Little children, let no one deceive you. Everyone who does what is right is righteous, just as he is righteous.⁸ Everyone who commits sin is a child of the devil; for the devil has been sinning from the beginning. The Son of God was revealed for this purpose, to destroy the works of the devil.⁹ Those who have been born of God do not sin, because God's seed abides in them;^c they cannot sin, because they have been born of God.¹⁰ The children of God and the children of the devil are revealed in this way: all who do not do what is right are not from God, nor are those who do not love their brothers and sisters.^d

¹¹ For this is the message you have heard from the beginning, that we should love one another.¹² We must not be like Cain who was from the evil one and murdered his brother. And why did he murder him? Because his own deeds were evil and his brother's righteous.¹³ Do not be astonished, brothers and sisters,^e that the world hates you.¹⁴ We know that we have passed from death to life because we love one another. Whoever does not love abides in death.¹⁵ All who hate a brother or sister^d are murderers, and you know that murderers do not have eternal life abiding in them.¹⁶ We know love by this, that he laid down his life for us—and we ought to lay down our lives for one another.¹⁷ How does God's love abide in anyone who has the world's goods and sees a brother or sister^f in need and yet refuses help?

^a Other ancient authorities read you

^b Or it

^c Or because the children of God abide in him

^d Gk his brother

^e Gk brothers

^f Gk brother

One," v. 20) present within the community ("anointing that you received") enables believers to distinguish true faith from lies about Jesus (Jn 14.26; 16.13). 28–29: At his coming refers to Christ coming in judgment. Those who remain true to the Johannine teaching have nothing to fear (cf. Jn 3.36).

3.1–10: God's children are holy. 1–3: As God's children, believers become like Christ (Jn 1.12–13; 13.15–16; 17.16–19). 4–6: Jesus's coming has taken away the sin of those who remain faithful (1.5–2.2). 7–8: Those who are deceived about sin (2.1) become children of the devil (cf. Jn 8.44). 9–10: God's seed: the Holy Spirit (2.26–27) and mutual love (Jn 13.35) distinguish God's children.

3.11–18: Moral examples. 11: See 2.7. 12: Cain shows that hating a brother leads to murder (Gen 4.8). 13–14: Though righteous like Abel, believers should expect to be hated by outsiders (Jn 15.18–19). 15: The phrase do not have eternal life abiding in them invites readers to apply this lesson to the secessionists. Their break with the community is equivalent to murder (4.5; cf. Mt 5.21–22). 16–18: Jesus's death is the supreme example of love (Jn 13.1; 15.9,13).

¹⁸ Little children, let us love, not in word or speech, but in truth and action. ¹⁹ And by this we will know that we are from the truth and will reassure our hearts before him ²⁰ whenever our hearts condemn us; for God is greater than our hearts, and he knows everything. ²¹ Beloved, if our hearts do not condemn us, we have boldness before God; ²² and we receive from him whatever we ask, because we obey his commandments and do what pleases him.

²³ And this is his commandment, that we should believe in the name of his Son Jesus Christ and love one another, just as he has commanded us. ²⁴ All who obey his commandments abide in him, and he abides in them. And by this we know that he abides in us, by the Spirit that he has given us.

4 Beloved, do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits to see whether they are from God; for many false prophets have gone out into the world. ² By this you know the Spirit of God: every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is from God, ³ and every spirit that does not confess Jesus^a is not from God. And this is the spirit of the antichrist, of which you have heard that it is coming; and now it is already in the world. ⁴ Little children, you are from God, and have conquered them; for the one who is in you is greater than the one who is in the world. ⁵ They are from the world; therefore what they say is from the world, and the world listens to them. ⁶ We are from God. Whoever knows God listens to us, and whoever is not from God does not listen to us. From this we know the spirit of truth and the spirit of error.

⁷ Beloved, let us love one another, because love is from God; everyone who loves is born of God and knows God. ⁸ Whoever does not love does not know God, for God is love.

⁹ God's love was revealed among us in this way: God sent his only Son into the world so that we might live through him. ¹⁰ In this is love, not that we loved God but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the atoning sacrifice for our sins. ¹¹ Beloved, since God loved us so much, we also ought to love one another. ¹² No one has ever seen God; if we love one another, God lives in us, and his love is perfected in us.

¹³ By this we know that we abide in him and he in us, because he has given us of his Spirit. ¹⁴ And we have seen and do testify that the Father has sent his Son as the Savior of the world. ¹⁵ God abides in those who confess that Jesus is the Son of God, and they abide in God. ¹⁶ So we have known and believe the love that God has for us.

God is love, and those who abide in love abide in God, and God abides in them. ¹⁷ Love has been perfected among us in this: that we may have boldness on the day of judgment, because as he is, so are we in this world.

¹⁸ There is no fear in love, but perfect love casts out fear; for fear has to do with punishment, and whoever fears has not reached perfection in love. ¹⁹ We love^b because he first loved us. ²⁰ Those who say, "I love God," and hate their brothers or sisters,^c are liars;

^a Other ancient authorities read does away with Jesus (Gk dissolves Jesus)

^b Other ancient authorities add him; others add God

^c Gk brothers

3.19–24: Love as confidence before God. 19–20: Love is the basis for God's judgment despite the doubts caused by the schism (2.28). 21–22: Jesus promised that God would answer believers' prayer (Jn 16.23–24). 23–24: Belief in the Son and love establish a permanent relationship between believers and God (Jn 16.26–27).

4.1–6: Testing spirits. 1–3: Since false teachers can appear genuine (cf. Mt 7.15–23), Christians must test their faith in Jesus (cf. 1 Cor 12.1–3). The dissidents have changed the Johannine tradition by denying that Christ has come in the flesh. 4–6: The Holy Spirit verifies 1 John as testimony to the true Johannine tradition (cf. Jn 16.13–14). 5: The world listens could imply that the dissident teachers have enjoyed more success than those in the Johannine circle (cf. Jn 15.19).

4.7–21: God's love as the basis of salvation. 7–9: Believers are to imitate the love God has shown in sending the Son to give life (3.16–22; Jn 3.16). 10–12: God's love has been shown in the death of Jesus (Jn 13.1). It is the basis of the love command (Jn 15.12–13). 12: See Jn 1.18; 6.46. 13–16a: See 3.23–24. 14: See Jn 4.42. 16b–18: God is love, 4.8; cf. Rom 8.32,39; 1 Cor 3.11. When Christian life corresponds to the nature of God (1.5–7), there is no reason to fear God's judgment (2.1–6,28; 3.18–20). 19: 4.7,11. 20: Love shown to others demonstrates true knowl-

for those who do not love a brother or sister^a whom they have seen, cannot love God whom they have not seen.²¹ The commandment we have from him is this: those who love God must love their brothers and sisters^b also.

5 Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ^c has been born of God, and everyone who loves the parent loves the child.² By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and obey his commandments.³ For the love of God is this, that we obey his commandments. And his commandments are not burdensome,⁴ for whatever is born of God conquers the world. And this is the victory that conquers the world, our faith.⁵ Who is it that conquers the world but the one who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?

⁶This is the one who came by water and blood, Jesus Christ, not with the water only but with the water and the blood. And the Spirit is the one that testifies, for the Spirit is the truth.⁷ There are three that testify:^d ⁸the Spirit and the water and the blood, and these three agree.⁹ If we receive human testimony, the testimony of God is greater; for this is the testimony of God that he has testified to his Son.¹⁰ Those who believe in the Son of God have the testimony in their hearts. Those who do not believe in God^e have made him a liar by not believing in the testimony that God has given concerning his Son.¹¹ And this is the testimony: God gave us eternal life, and this life is in his Son.¹² Whoever has the Son has life;

whoever does not have the Son of God does not have life.

¹³I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God, so that you may know that you have eternal life.

¹⁴And this is the boldness we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he hears us.¹⁵ And if we know that he hears us in whatever we ask, we know that we have obtained the requests made of him.¹⁶ If you see your brother or sister^f committing what is not a mortal sin, you will ask, and God^g will give life to such a one—to those whose sin is not mortal. There is sin that is mortal; I do not say that you should pray about that.¹⁷ All wrongdoing is sin, but there is sin that is not mortal.

¹⁸We know that those who are born of God do not sin, but the one who was born of God protects them, and the evil one does not touch them.¹⁹ We know that we are God's children, and that the whole world lies under the power of the evil one.²⁰ And we know

^a Gk brother

^b Gk brothers

^c Or the Messiah

^d A few other authorities read (with variations) There are three that testify in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit, and these three are one. ⁸And there are three that testify on earth:

^e Other ancient authorities read in the Son

^f Gk your brother

^g Gk he

edge and love for God (2.3–11; 3.23–24). 21: Those who love God must love their brothers and sisters is a Johannine formulation of the command to love God and neighbor (Mt 22.34–40 quoting Deut 6.5 and Lev 19.18).

5.1–13: Concluding appeal to keep the true faith. 1–3: Belief in Jesus as the messiah (the Christ) (4.2–3; Jn 1.12–13; 20.31) and mutual love (4.20–21; Jn 13.35) are the hallmarks of the true Johannine community. 2: We know that we love the children of God, when we love God reverses 4.12. It serves as polemic against the dissidents, since schism implies hating God's children (3.11–16). 4–5: See 2.12–14; 4.4. 6–8: One who came by water and blood refers to the death of Jesus as atonement for sin (1.7; 2.22; 4.10; Jn 1.29); see Introduction. 9–12: The true faith is not based on human testimony alone (1.1–4; Jn 1.7–8) but on God's as well (cf. Jn 5.31–38; 16.6–11). 13: I write . . . that you have eternal life echoes Jn 20.31.

5.14–21: Epilogue. Sin and forgiveness in the community. 14–15: God's children can be certain that God will hear their prayers (3.21–22; Jn 14.14–16; 15.16; 16.23–24; Mt 18.19–20). 16: Sin that is mortal distinguishes a category of sin that cannot be forgiven. Elsewhere such sin is denying that God's Spirit is working through Jesus (Mk 3.28–30) or apostasy (Heb 6.4–6). Here the expression probably refers to those who have separated themselves from the Johannine community. They no longer dwell with God or have the Spirit (2.19–25). 18: See 3.8–10. 19: See 2.12–15; 5.4–5. 20: Him who is true probably refers to knowledge of the true God as some manuscripts that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding so that we may know him who is true;^a and we are in him who is true, in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life.

²¹ Little children, keep yourselves from idols.^b

^a Other ancient authorities read know the true God

^b Other ancient authorities add Amen

suggest (see textual note a and cf. Jn 1.18; 14.9–10). Knowledge of the true God (Father and Son) confers eternal life (Jn 17.3). 21: In a general sense, keep yourselves from idols probably refers to the false gods of non-Christian neighbors (Jn 10.14). Traveling missionaries were instructed to reject hospitality from non-Christians (3 Jn 7). The polemic in 1 Jn probably intends the phrase to forbid any association with the secessionists (2 Jn 7–9).

THE SECOND LETTER OF JOHN

NAME, CANONICAL STATUS, AND AUTHORSHIP

Titled “the second (letter) of John” in ancient codices, this short letter belonged to a collection led by 1 John. By the fourth century CE (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 2.23–25) the Christian canon included three Johannine “letters” along with four others said to be written by apostles that were designated “catholic” or universal epistles. Some second-century Christians identified the “elder” (v. 1) with John the son of Zebedee, who was thought to be the author of both the Gospel and first letter of John (cf. Peter as “fellow elder” in 1 Pet 5.1). However, Papias distinguished between the evangelist John and the “elder” who wrote the Johannine letters. Most contemporary scholars accept this view. Some question the common authorship of all three Johannine letters.

DATE AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Since 2 John refers in v. 7 to the same dissident teaching as that opposed in 1 John, it must belong to the same period (ca. 100 CE). Because it warns against any association with those who hold these views, some scholars think that it was written before the schism that had split Johannine Christians into the separate communities indicated in 1 John. Others explain the difference as an indication that the schism that divided Christians in urban churches addressed in 1 John had not yet reached more distant rural areas.

STRUCTURE

Second John follows the conventions of a private letter: opening greeting identifies sender and addressees (vv. 1–3); letter body, beginning with an expression of joy at how recipients are faring, and concluding with future plans (vv. 4–12); final greeting from sender and associates to recipients (v. 13).

CONTENTS AND INTERPRETATION

The letter opens with a summary of the mutual love that was the hallmark of Johannine Christians (Jn 13.34–35). It serves the rhetorical function of enlisting the goodwill of one’s audience. The business of the letter follows, namely, a warning against false teachers and the demand that no one associate with them in any way (vv. 7–11).

The elder’s harsh treatment of false teachers strikes modern readers as contradicting the Johannine ethical teaching of mutual love. If the impact of the schism was as serious as the language of 1 John suggests when it treats false teachers as “antichrists,” then 2 John might represent a type of quarantine measure to protect other communities from this disease. Some scholars think that a copy of 1 John was sent along with this letter.

Pheme Perkins

¹The elder to the elect lady and her children, whom I love in the truth, and not only I but also all who know the truth, ²because of the truth that abides in us and will be with us forever:

³Grace, mercy, and peace will be with us from God the Father and from³ Jesus Christ, the Father's Son, in truth and love.

⁴I was overjoyed to find some of your children walking in the truth, just as we have been commanded by the Father. ⁵But now, dear lady, I ask you, not as though I were writing you a new commandment, but one we have had from the beginning, let us love one another. ⁶And this is love, that we walk according to his commandments; this is the commandment just as you have heard it from the beginning—you must walk in it.

⁷Many deceivers have gone out into the world, those who do not confess that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh; any such person is the deceiver and the antichrist! ⁸Be on your guard, so that you do not lose what we^b have worked for, but may receive a full reward. ⁹Everyone who does not abide in the teaching of Christ, but goes beyond it, does not have God; whoever abides in the teaching has both the Father and the Son. ¹⁰Do not receive into the house or welcome anyone who comes to you and does not bring this teaching; ¹¹for to welcome is to participate in the evil deeds of such a person.

¹²Although I have much to write to you, I would rather not use paper and ink; instead I hope to come to you and talk with you face to face, so that our joy may be complete.

¹³The children of your elect sister send you their greetings.^c

^a Other ancient authorities add the Lord

^b Other ancient authorities read you

^c Other ancient authorities add Amen

1–3: Letter opening. Elect lady refers to a local church. Love in the truth sets out the Johannine vision of the church as a community whose members are united by Jesus's command to love one another (vv. 4–6; 1 Jn 2.7–10; 3.23) and reject false teaching about the Son (vv. 7–9).

4–11: Letter body. 4–6: The new commandment to love one another was central to Johannine Christianity (Jn 13.34–35; 1 Jn 2.7–10). 7–9: False teachers do not abide in the teaching of Christ because they reject the humanity of Jesus (v. 7; see 1 Jn 4.2) and have destroyed Christian fellowship (1 Jn 2.19). False teaching is a sign that the antichrist is at work in the world (1 Jn 2.18–23n.; 4.1–3). 10–11: The severity of this demand, do not receive into the house church anyone connected with the secessionists, follows from the view that their activities are Satan's final effort against God's people.

12–13: Letter closing. Ancient letters frequently end with a notice of the sender's future travel plans (cf. Rom 15.22–32).

THE THIRD LETTER OF JOHN

NAME, CANONICAL STATUS, AND AUTHORSHIP

The title given in ancient manuscripts identifies this private letter with 1–2 John, which circulated more widely. Although included in canon lists from the fourth century CE, 3 John was not widely cited, perhaps because it is addressed to an individual rather than a community. Since its conclusion is nearly identical with that of 2 John, scholars presume that the same individual composed both letters. In antiquity all the Johannine letters were attributed to John the son of Zebedee, as was the Gospel. Modern scholars distinguish the author of 1–3 John from the evangelist.

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Third John reflects a social setting of a group of loosely associated churches of the Johannine tradition that is comparable to that of 1–2 John. But there is no hint here of the secessionist controversy that so troubled 1–2 John. The author appears to live in a city (perhaps Ephesus) that serves as a node from which emissaries were dispatched to other churches in the region. Such missionaries depended upon hospitality in the house churches when they traveled (cf. Rom 16.1–2). The elder is seeking support for his emissaries from a house-church leader, Gaius, because another well-known Christian leader, Diotrephes, refuses to accept anyone associated with the author.

STRUCTURE, CONTENTS, AND INTERPRETATION

Third John follows the standard model for a private letter: an opening greeting from sender to recipient followed by a wish for the recipient's health (vv. 1–4); letter body (vv. 5–12); conclusion with travel plans and additional greetings (vv. 13–15). Rhetorically the body opens with praise for the recipient's well-known hospitality to traveling Christians (vv. 5–8) before addressing the issue at hand (vv. 9–12).

In ancient diplomacy, refusing hospitality to an envoy was an insult to the sender. Third John does not indicate what led Diotrephes to prohibit members of his house church from having anything to do with persons sent by the elder (vv. 9–10). Some scholars have suggested a dispute between a charismatic teacher in the Johannine tradition, “the elder,” and Diotrephes, whose leadership was based on the beginnings of a monarchic episcopate (as in 1 Tim 3.1–7). Others observe that Diotrephes could have taken the elder's rule in 2 John 10 against giving hospitality to false teachers to its logical conclusion: do not welcome any outsiders. Though Gaius may have heard about the Diotrephes incident, he does not have any direct connection with that community.

Whatever caused Diotrephes to reject envoys from the elder, 3 John provides a glimpse into the early Christian mission ca. 100 CE. Personal networks of hospitality maintained by traveling envoys linked small house-church communities together. Travelers preferred the hospitality of believers to that of outsiders.

PHEME PERKINS

¹The elder to the beloved Gaius, whom I love in truth.

²Beloved, I pray that all may go well with you and that you may be in good health, just as it is well with your soul. ³I was overjoyed when some of the friends^a arrived and testified to your faithfulness to the truth, namely how you walk in the truth. ⁴I have no greater joy than this, to hear that my children are walking in the truth.

⁵Beloved, you do faithfully whatever you do for the friends,^a even though they are strangers to you; ⁶they have testified to your love before the church. You will do well to send them on in a manner worthy of God; ⁷for they began their journey for the sake of Christ,^b accepting no support from non-believers.^c ⁸Therefore we ought to support such people, so that we may become co-workers with the truth.

⁹I have written something to the church; but Diotrephes, who likes to put himself first, does not acknowledge our authority. ¹⁰So if I come, I will call attention to what he is doing in spreading false charges against us. And not content with those charges, he refuses to welcome the friends,^a and even prevents those who want to do so and expels them from the church.

¹¹Beloved, do not imitate what is evil but imitate what is good. Whoever does good is from God; whoever does evil has not seen God. ¹²Everyone has testified favorably about Demetrius, and so has the truth itself. We also testify for him,^d and you know that our testimony is true.

¹³I have much to write to you, but I would rather not write with pen and ink; ¹⁴instead I hope to see you soon, and we will talk together face to face.

¹⁵Peace to you. The friends send you their greetings. Greet the friends there, each by name.

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk for the sake of the name

^c Gk the Gentiles

^d Gk lacks for him

1–4: Letter opening and health wish. This opening follows the pattern found in routine private correspondence (contrast 2 Jn 1–3), indicating that the letter involves only the two individuals and is not to be read in the church community (contrast Philem 1–3). 4: My children is the elder's designation for Christians who share his teaching.

5–12: Letter body. 5–8: The elder uses a rhetorical strategy to enlist the goodwill of Gaius, whom he does not know personally, by praising Gaius for the reports that traveling missionaries give about his hospitality. It was an axiom in early Christian circles that those who offered hospitality shared in the good work of evangelization (see Phil 4.10–20; Mt 10.40–42). 9–11: The elder asks Gaius to supply his associates with the hospitality that Diotrephes has recently refused. 9: Does not acknowledge our authority is diplomatic language for not receiving the envoy sent by an authority. It does not mean that the elder himself claimed to have authority over Diotrephes or his house church. 12: A note of recommendation for Demetrius, who may have carried the letter (cf. Rom 16.1–2).

13–15: Letter closing. See 2 Jn 12–13.

THE LETTER OF JUDE

NAME AND CONTENTS

Like some New Testament letters, Jude takes its name from the sender of the letter. Its contents can be outlined as follows:

- I. Letter opening: (1–4)
 - A. Salutation (1–2)
 - B. Occasion of letter (3–4)
- II. Letter body: (5–23)
 - A. Critique of opponents by recalling five events or sets of events and explaining their application to the opponents (5–19)
 1. Three biblical precedents (5–8)
 2. Dispute about the body of Moses (9–10)
 3. Three more biblical precedents (11–13)
 4. Prophecy of Enoch (14–16)
 5. Predictions of the apostles (17–19)
 - B. Appeal (20–23)
- III. Letter closing: doxology (24–25)

CANONICAL STATUS

The earliest list of New Testament documents, the Muratorian Canon (late second century CE), includes the letter of Jude. Likewise, Tertullian, writing at about the same time, mentions Jude. Irenaeus, however, another contemporary writer, does not mention Jude, and sometime later Origen (ca. 253) puts Jude in the category of doubtful writings. The earliest surviving copy of Jude is in Papyrus 72, written about 300. Copies of Jude are also included in the biblical Codices Vaticanus and Sinaiticus, written about fifty years later. Athanasius (367) includes Jude in his list of New Testament writings. Since that time, Jude has been accepted by Greek- and Latin-speaking Christians as part of the New Testament, but it was not accepted by Syriac-speaking Christians until the sixth century.

AUTHORSHIP, DATE OF COMPOSITION, AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

The author of the letter identifies himself as Jude. The English “Jude” translates the Greek “Judas” (Ioudas), the rendering of Hebrew Judah (Yehudah). The New Testament mentions six men named Judas who are associated with Jesus or his early followers, including Judas Iscariot and another Judas included in Luke’s list of the twelve apostles (Lk 6.16). Since the author of Jude calls himself the brother of James, this Judas is most likely the one identified as a brother of Jesus, along with James, Joseph, and Simon (Mk 6.3).

Some scholars doubt that Judas the brother of James and Jesus is the actual author of the letter; others think there is no sufficient reason to deny this. If he is the actual author, the letter would have been written between 50 and 80 CE, during the probable lifetime of Judas the brother of James. If the letter is pseudonymous, it probably dates to the end of the first century, certainly before the composition of 2 Peter, which dates to the early second century and uses Jude. The letter does not indicate the geographical location of its author or addressees.

INTERPRETATION

Jude is an appeal to those it addresses to “contend for the faith” (v. 3) as they confront the influence of intruders who threaten that faith (v. 4). The author supports this appeal by implying that the intruders are destined to be punished by God like those who have behaved similarly in the past (vv. 5–8). The author also supports the appeal by criticizing the intruders as behaving differently than the archangel Michael (vv. 9–10) and behaving like notorious wrongdoers of the past (vv. 11–13). In addition, the appearance and destruction of these intruders were prophesied (vv. 14–19). In light of all this, the author urges the addressees to follow a different way of life than that of the intruders (vv. 20–23).

Apart from being used as a source for 2 Peter, Jude has not been influential. Martin Luther thought that Jude was a pseudonymous extract from 2 Peter and thus not an apostolic writing, but few have adopted this view.

Terrance Callan

¹ Jude,^a a servant^b of Jesus Christ and brother of James,

To those who are called, who are beloved^c in^d God the Father and kept safe for^d Jesus Christ:

² May mercy, peace, and love be yours in abundance.

³ Beloved, while eagerly preparing to write to you about the salvation we share, I find it necessary to write and appeal to you to contend for the faith that was once for all entrusted to the saints. ⁴ For certain intruders have stolen in among you, people who long ago were designated for this condemnation as ungodly, who pervert the grace of our God into licentiousness and deny our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ.^e

⁵ Now I desire to remind you, though you are fully informed, that the Lord, who once for all saved^f a people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed those who did not believe. ⁶ And the angels who did not keep their own position, but left their proper dwelling, he has kept in eternal chains in deepest darkness for the judgment of the great day. ⁷ Likewise, Sodom and Gomorrah and the surrounding cities, which, in the same manner as they, indulged in sexual immorality and pursued unnatural lust,^g serve as an example by undergoing a punishment of eternal fire.

⁸ Yet in the same way these dreamers also defile the flesh, reject authority, and slander the glorious ones.^h ⁹ But when the archangel Michael contended with the devil and disputed about the body of Moses, he did not dare to bring a condemnation of slanderⁱ against him, but said, “The Lord rebuke you!” ¹⁰ But these people slander whatever they do not understand, and they are destroyed by those things that, like irrational animals, they know by instinct.

¹¹ Woe to them! For they go the way of Cain, and abandon themselves to Balaam’s error for the sake of gain, and perish in Korah’s

^a Gk Judas

^b Gk slave

^c Other ancient authorities read sanctified

^d Or by

^e Or the only Master and our Lord Jesus Christ

^f Other ancient authorities read though you were once for all fully informed, that Jesus (or Joshua) who saved

^g Gk went after other flesh

^h Or angels; Gk glories

ⁱ Or condemnation for blasphemy

1–2: Salutation. The sender of the letter is Jude (= Judas), probably the man mentioned in Mk 6.3. The addressees are described as those who are called, etc.; this could apply to any followers of Jesus.

3–4: Occasion of letter. Intruders have stolen in among the addressees. These intruders are obviously followers of Jesus, but ones whose faith and life the author considers deficient. Saints, lit., “holy ones.” 4: The author anticipates the main themes of his argument against the intruders: their appearance and condemnation were predicted, and they deny . . . Jesus by behaving immorally.

5–8: Three biblical precedents. God punished the wilderness generation of the Israelites (v. 5; see Num 14.1–24), the angels who left their proper dwelling (v. 6; see Gen 6.1–4; 1 En. 6–12), and the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah (v.7; see Gen 18–19). 8: These dreamers who behave the same way (i.e., the intruders) can also expect to be punished.

9–10: Dispute about the body of Moses. The intruders slander whatever they do not understand, unlike the archangel Michael who did not slander the devil but instead quoted Zech 3.2 to rebuke him. The story of a dispute between Michael and the devil about the body of Moses is not found in the Bible and may come from an apocryphal document called The Testament of Moses.

11–13: Three more biblical precedents. 11: The intruders’ bad behavior, later described in a series of vivid images (vv. 12–13), is similar to that of Cain who murdered his brother Abel (see Gen 4.8), Balaam who prophesied rebellion. ¹² These are blemishes^a on your love-feasts, while they feast with you without fear, feeding themselves.^b They are waterless clouds carried along by the winds; autumn trees without fruit, twice dead, uprooted; ¹³ wild waves of the sea, casting up the foam of their own shame; wandering stars, for whom the deepest darkness has been reserved forever.

¹⁴ It was also about these that Enoch, in the seventh generation from Adam, prophesied, saying, “See, the Lord is coming^c with ten thousands of his holy ones, ¹⁵ to execute judgment on all, and to convict everyone of all the deeds of ungodliness that they have committed in such an ungodly way, and of all the harsh things that ungodly sinners have spoken against him.” ¹⁶ These are grumblers and malcontents; they indulge their own lusts; they are bombastic in speech, flattering people to their own advantage.

¹⁷ But you, beloved, must remember the predictions of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ; ¹⁸ for they said to you, “In the last time there will be scoffers, indulging their own ungodly lusts.” ¹⁹ It is these worldly people,

devoid of the Spirit, who are causing divisions. ²⁰ But you, beloved, build yourselves up on your most holy faith; pray in the Holy Spirit; ²¹ keep yourselves in the love of God; look forward to the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ that leads to^d eternal life. ²² And have mercy on some who are wavering; ²³ save others by snatching them out of the fire; and have mercy on still others with fear, hating even the tunic defiled by their bodies.^e ²⁴ Now to him who is able to keep you from falling, and to make you stand without blemish in the presence of his glory with rejoicing, ²⁵ to the only God our Savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, power, and authority, before all time and now and forever. Amen.

^a Or reefs

^b Or without fear. They are shepherds who care only for themselves

^c Gk came

^d Gk Christ to

^e Gk by the flesh. The Greek text of verses 22-23 is uncertain at several points for gain (see Num 22–24), and Korah who rebelled against Moses (see Num 16). 12: Love-feasts, lit., “loves.” This is the earliest instance in which the word “love” (Gk “agapē”) is used to designate the Christian fellowship meal.

14–16: Prophecy of Enoch. The author cites 1 En. 1.9 as a prophecy that will be fulfilled by the judgment of the intruders.

17–19: Predictions of the apostles. The author quotes a prediction of the apostles that is fulfilled by the presence of the intruders in the addressees’ midst. The source of this quotation is unknown.

20–23: Appeal. The author concludes by appealing to the addressees to avoid the intruders and their defective form of Christianity.

25–25: Doxology. The letter ends with one of the most elaborate prayers praising God found in the New Testament.

THE REVELATION TO JOHN

NAME

The Revelation to John is also known as the Apocalypse or the Apocalypse of John, from the Greek word apokalypsis meaning “disclosure” or “unveiling.” The book presents itself as a work of prophecy (1.3; 22.10). The word “apocalypse” is used to describe a large number of Jewish writings from as early as 250 BCE as well as for later Christian writings that share similarities with Revelation.

CANONICAL STATUS

With its vivid visions of the consummation of God’s divine plan of judgment and salvation, the book of Revelation brings the canon of the New Testament to a close. Though Revelation is not the only early Christian apocalypse, it is the only one that was included in the canon of the New Testament. The question of whether it should be considered orthodox and canonical was a matter of controversy in the early centuries of Christianity. Eusebius of Caesarea (ca. 263–339 CE), for example, writes that some reject Revelation but that others accept it as genuine (Hist. eccl. 3.25.4–5). The third-century writer Dionysius of Alexandria maintained that Revelation could be considered orthodox only if read allegorically.

AUTHORSHIP

The author of the book of Revelation identifies himself by name as John (1.1,4,9; 22.8). This distinguishes Revelation from other Jewish and Christian apocalypses, which are pseudonymous, that is, written in the name of some revered figure from antiquity (e.g., Apoc. Bar., Apoc. Zeph.). While some ancient authorities (e.g., Justin, Dialogue with Trypho 81.4) suggested that this author is the apostle John, the son of Zebedee (see Mk 3.17), internal evidence from the book itself is inconclusive. Among ancient interpreters, Dionysius of Alexandria maintained that Revelation could not have been written by the same John to whom the Gospel according to John was attributed.

The author’s familiarity with the Jerusalem Temple and its rituals and furnishings, the depth of his knowledge of the Hebrew Bible (of the 405 verses in Revelation, some 275 include allusions to passages in the Hebrew Bible, or to its Greek translation, the Septuagint), as well as his adoption of a literary genre that was familiar in late Second Temple Judaism, combine to suggest that the John of Revelation may have been a Jewish Christian who fled to the Diaspora as a consequence of the First Jewish Revolt against the Romans (66–73 CE). His self-identification to the “seven churches that are in Asia” (1.4) as “your brother who share with you in Jesus the persecution and the kingdom and the patient endurance” (1.9) suggests that he was well known to his audience, probably because he exercised a prophetic ministry among them (see 22.9). He mentions the twelve apostles as figures from the past (21.14), and does not refer to himself as one of them. This makes an identification of the John of the book of Revelation with the apostle of that name highly questionable, as is any connection of the John of the Revelation with the Gospel according to John or with the Letters of John.

DATE OF COMPOSITION AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

There are two main positions regarding the date of the Revelation to John. The first is that the book was composed between 64 and 70 CE, prior to the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple by the Romans in 70 CE, and was prompted by the persecution of Christians toward the end of the reign of the Roman emperor Nero (54–68 CE). The second view is that while the book of Revelation draws on traditional material and on sources written prior to the fall of Jerusalem (e.g., chs 11 and 12), it probably reached its final form toward the end of the reign of the Roman emperor Domitian (81–96 CE). The book is addressed to “the seven churches that are in Asia” (1.4), Christian communities in the Roman proconsular province of Asia, located in the western portion of present-day Turkey (see map on p. 1810). The book demonstrates its author’s familiarity with the specific situation of each of the seven communities, beginning with Ephesus, the administrative capital of the province. The seven cities were complex and diverse in economic, social, political, and religious terms. There is no clear evidence that Christians faced organized and widespread persecution sanctioned by Roman imperial authorities at the time the book was written. Yet, more locally, it seems that Christians in the province of Asia lived under the threat of oppression, even the danger of being “slaughtered for the word of God and the testimony they had given” (6.9). One such victim was Antipas, identified by name in the message to the church at Pergamum (2.13). John establishes his own solidarity with his audience’s predicament, sharing with them “the persecution and the kingdom and the patient endurance” (1.9), finding himself on the island of Patmos “because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus” (1.9). According to many commentators, including a number of early Christian writers (e.g., Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.18), John had been exiled to Patmos as punishment for his testimony to Jesus. However, because there is no evidence that Patmos served as a place of exile, others suggest that John simply traveled to Patmos in the course of his prophetic activity.

A variety of competing viewpoints vied for the attention of the late first-century communities to whom the book of Revelation was originally addressed. John exhorts them to stand firm in their convictions, to resist “with patient endurance” (2.2,19; 3.10) and at any cost the overwhelming pressures to accommodation and compromise with the dominant culture. The destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in 70 CE gave John ample cause to identify Rome as Babylon, recalling the Babylonian destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BCE. The breadth and depth of Rome’s political and economic power found religious expression in the widespread worship of the emperor in the provinces of Asia, with temples built in honor of the emperor and of Rome personified as the goddess Roma. The book of Revelation takes sides in a battle over sovereignty, where the Roman emperor competes with God and Christ in a contest for the allegiance of the faithful. Warning that those who worship the emperor, symbolized by “the beast” (13.1–10), will suffer ultimate defeat, the book urges its audience to “hold fast to the faith of Jesus” (14.12) and thereby to share in Jesus’s victory over death.

LITERARY HISTORY

Interpreters of the book of Revelation through the centuries have puzzled over how to explain the many parallel passages and apparent repetitions throughout the book. For example, the number seven figures prominently throughout the book as a way of ordering the sequence of the book’s visionary narratives: seven seals, seven bowls, seven trumpets. Some interpreters understand this as a matter of recapitulation, the repeated description of the same events from several different vantage points. Thus the series of seven trumpets (8.16–9.21; 11.14–19) and seven bowls (16.1–21) furnish two parallel perspectives on God’s cataclysmic judgment against the world and its inhabitants. Other interpreters have sought to unravel the complex literary structure of the Apocalypse by appealing to source theories, arguing that the book is a composite that reflects significant editorial work by a final author who drew on earlier material, including some written sources.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

The structure of the Revelation to John is widely debated, yet there is general agreement that it involves a series of parallel, interconnected, and yet ever progressing sections. It begins with a prologue (1.1–3), an epistolary salutation (1.4–8), and an inaugural vision (1.9–20), which are followed by messages to each of the seven churches (2.1–3.22). There follows (4.1–5.14) a vision of God enthroned and of Jesus depicted as a Lamb (5.6) having seven horns and seven eyes, who receives the seven-sealed scroll from the hand of God. A series of sevenfold visions commences at 6.1, beginning with the opening of each of the seven seals (6.1–8.5), followed by the sounding of each of seven trumpets (8.6–11.19). The sounding of the seventh trumpet is followed by the vision of the woman, the child, and the dragon (12.1–17), the vision of the two beasts (13.1–18), and a threefold vision of the victory, and vindication of the faithful (14.1–20). These are followed by a final sevenfold series, the outpouring of the bowls of divine wrath (16.1–21). 17.1–18.24 presents the vision of the fall of Babylon, followed by the great doxology of 19.1–10 that also looks forward to the eschatological victory (19.11–21), the defeat of Satan (20.1–10), the last judgment (20.11–15), and the vision of the new Jerusalem (21.1–22.5). The book concludes with an epilogue (22.6–21).

INTERPRETATION

Over the centuries, the book of Revelation has been understood from a wide variety of approaches, ranging from literal readings of the book as predictive prophecy to readings that recognize in its utopian language the promise of hope in the midst of present-day situations of suffering and oppression. There have been three main tendencies in the interpretation of Revelation: historical, predictive-prophetic, and symbolic. For those who interpret the book historically, Revelation refers to events that took place during the first century CE, taking a stance in opposition to the power and influence of the Roman Empire. The predictive-prophetic interpretation of the book reads Revelation for clues about the future, especially with regard to God's impending judgment on the world. Those who prefer a symbolic interpretation of the book understand the book neither as a window to the past nor as a visionary presentation of what is yet to come in the future, but instead as a work that offers to readers of every time and place the vision of a universe symbolically transformed.

Revelation is a work of extremes, ranging from soaring heights of hymnody inspired by biblical psalms and canticles to the gruesome language of plagues, warfare, and bloodshed. It uses the dualistic language characteristic of the apocalyptic genre to paint vivid portraits of the opposing sides in the eschatological conflict that will culminate in the definitive victory of God and the final defeat of all who oppose God. With its symbolic numbers and colors, animals, and angelic and demonic beings, replete with echoes and images drawn from the literature of the ancient Near East, the Jewish scriptures, Greece, and Rome, the book of Revelation is so notoriously complex that Jerome (345–420 CE) remarked that it contains as many mysteries as it contains words. Origen (185–254 CE) exclaimed, “Who can read the revelations granted to John without being amazed at the hidden depth of the ineffable mysteries, a depth apparent even to the person who does not understand what the text says?” (First Principles 4.2.4). Many centuries later, the English author D. H. Lawrence (1885–1930) wrote, “When we read Revelation, we feel at once there are meanings behind meanings.”

The symbolic visions of the book are hardly self-explanatory, and even John reports the need for the intervention of an angelic mediator to explain the meaning of the mystery disclosed to him (17:7). This characteristic, common in other works of the same literary genre, serves to emphasize that there are transcendent levels of meaning that must be carefully discerned. The true significance of events on earth is to be sought above and beyond what is immediately apparent, and it is ultimately to God that believers must turn to strengthen their resolve to resist accommodation and persevere in the face of adversity.

Jean-Pierre Ruiz

1 The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave him to show his servants^a what must soon take place; he made^b it known by sending his angel to his servant^c John, ² who testified to the word of God and to the testimony of Jesus Christ, even to all that he saw.

³ Blessed is the one who reads aloud the words of the prophecy, and blessed are those who hear and who keep what is written in it; for the time is near.

⁴ John to the seven churches that are in Asia:

Grace to you and peace from him who is and who was and who is to come, and from the seven spirits who are before his throne,

^a Gk slaves

^b Gk and he made

^c Gk slave

1.1–3: The prologue. The chain of transmission comes from God through Jesus Christ, as communicated to John by an angel (referred to again in 22.16). 1: Revelation (Gk “apokalypsis”; see Dan 2.28–30,45), a literary form in which a vision from God, often under the guidance of an angel, communicates in symbolic language God's hidden plan for history. Apocalypses often include visions of the heavenly realm. 2: The testimony of Jesus Christ can be understood both as testimony given by Jesus Christ and as testimony about Jesus Christ. 3: Blessed is . . ., the first of seven beatitudes in the book of Revelation (cf. 14.13; 16.15; 19.9; 20.6; 22.7,14) is pronounced on the reader of this prophetic book and on those who hear it read and who heed its message. In antiquity, texts were commonly read aloud even among those who were literate. The time is near (repeated in 22.10) motivates obedience by announcing the imminence of the accomplishment of God's plan.

1.4–8: Epistolary salutation to seven representative Christian communities in the Roman province of Asia (in western Asia Minor, present-day Turkey). Seven, a number associated with heavenly realities, suggests the divine authority of the message delivered by John. 4: Grace . . . and peace (see 2 Thess 1.2), combining the conventional Gk and Heb salutations, though John offers not his own greetings but those of God; is . . . was . . . is to come, literally (according to the idiosyncratic Gk usage of the book) “the being . . . the was . . . the coming.” The seven spirits are either a symbolic reference to the manifold energies of the spirit of God (Isa 11.2), or a reference to the seven principal angels of God (Tob 12.15; 1 En. 20.1–8). Seven, the number of completion (of the days of

⁵ and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead, and the ruler of the kings of the earth.

To him who loves us and freed^a us from our sins by his blood, ⁶and made^b us to be a kingdom, priests serving^c his God and Father, to him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.

⁷ Look! He is coming with the clouds;
every eye will see him,
even those who pierced him;
and on his account all the tribes of the earth will wail.

So it is to be. Amen.

⁸ “I am the Alpha and the Omega,” says the Lord God, who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty.

⁹ I, John, your brother who share with you in Jesus the persecution and the kingdom and the patient endurance, was on the island called Patmos because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus. ^d¹⁰ I was in the spirit^e on the Lord’s day, and I heard behind me a loud voice like a trumpet ¹¹saying, “Write in a book what you see and send it to the seven churches, to Ephesus, to Smyrna, to Pergamum, to Thyatira, to Sardis, to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea.”

¹² Then I turned to see whose voice it was that spoke to me, and on turning I saw seven golden lampstands, ¹³and in the midst of the lampstands I saw one like the Son of Man, clothed with a long robe and with a golden sash across his chest. ¹⁴ His head and his hair were white as white wool, white as snow; his eyes were like a flame of fire, ¹⁵his feet were like burnished bronze, refined as in a furnace, and his voice was like the sound of many waters. ¹⁶ In his right hand he held seven stars, and from his mouth came a sharp, two-edged sword, and his face was like the sun shining with full force.

¹⁷ When I saw him, I fell at his feet as though dead. But he placed his right hand on me, saying, “Do not be afraid; I am the first and the last, ¹⁸and the living one. I was dead, and see, I am alive forever and ever; and I have the keys of Death and of Hades.

¹⁹ Now write what you have seen, what is, and what is to take place after this. ²⁰ As for the

^a Other ancient authorities read washed

^b Gk and he made

^c Gk priests to

^d Or testimony to Jesus

^e Or in the Spirit

creation in Gen 1.1–2.4a; of a ritual in Lev 4.6; of divine punishment in Lev 26.27–28) or wholeness, is the most important symbolic number in the book of Revelation. 5: Faithful witness, Jesus is the model for Christians who died as “witnesses” (2.13; 11.7; 17.6). Firstborn . . . ruler of the kings, Ps 89.27. He loves continually; he freed us once for all by his death (Rom 6.10). 6: Kingdom, priests, the vocation promised to Israel (Ex 19.6; Isa 61.6) is extended to the followers of Jesus (1 Pet 2.9). Glory and dominion, Dan 7.14. 7: Dan 7.13; Zech 12.10–12. So it is to be. Amen, a formal affirmation of this prophetic oracle announcing the coming of Christ. 8: Alpha and Omega, the first and last letters of the Gk alphabet (like “A” and “Z” in English); hence, the beginning and end of all things (see v. 17; 22.13; Isa 44.6; 48.12).

1.9–20: Inaugural vision and commission on Patmos, an island in the Aegean Sea where John found himself (see Introduction), ca. 55 mi (90 km) southwest of Ephesus (see map on p. 1810). 10: In the spirit, in a temporary condition of altered consciousness, a state of prophetic ecstasy (also 4.2; Ezek 2.2). The Lord’s day, the weekly day of Christian worship, Sunday. 11: The seven churches, see 2.1–3.22. 12–16: In the midst of the churches (see v. 20) stands the exalted Christ, whose royalty, eternity, wisdom, and immutability are suggested by means of symbols; the effect is that of terrifying majesty (cf. v. 17 with Isa 6.5). Seven golden lampstands, reminiscent of those that stood in the wilderness tabernacle and in the Jerusalem Temple (cf. Zech 4.1–14). Son of Man (cf. 14.14; Mk 2.10), a title Jesus used of himself in the Gospels, had two meanings: a typical human being in accordance with a common extended meaning of “son of” (see Mt 5.45); and a reference to the heavenly figure of Dan 7.13–14 who was to embody God’s rule over the nations. 13–15: Golden sash, Dan 10.5; white . . . snow, Dan 7.10; eyes . . . fire, Dan 10.6; feet . . . bronze, Dan 10.6; sound of many waters, a frequent accompaniment of theophanies; see Pss 29.3; 93.4; Ezek 1.24; 43.2; cf. Dan 10.6. The figure is a combination of attributes of the heavenly messenger from Dan 10 and the Ancient One from Dan 7. From his mouth came a sharp, two-edged sword (cf. 19.15,21), the word of God (Isa 49.2; cf. Heb 4.12). 18: Hades, used here with its synonym Death, is the abode of the dead; Jesus has the keys to release those confined within its gates (Mt 16.18; Jn 5.25–29).

mystery of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand, and the seven golden lampstands: the seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.

2 “To the angel of the church in Ephesus write: These are the words of him who holds the seven stars in his right hand, who walks among the seven golden lampstands:

² “I know your works, your toil and your patient endurance. I know that you cannot tolerate evildoers; you have tested those who claim to be apostles but are not, and have found them to be false. ³ I also know that you are enduring patiently and bearing up for the sake of my name, and that you have not grown weary. ⁴ But I have this against you, that you have abandoned the love you had at first. ⁵ Remember then from what you have fallen; repent, and do the works you did at first. If not, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place, unless you repent. ⁶ Yet this is to your credit: you hate the works of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

⁷ Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To everyone who conquers, I will give permission to eat from the tree of life that is in the paradise of God.

⁸ “And to the angel of the church in Smyrna write: These are the words of the first and the last, who was dead and came to life:

⁹ “I know your affliction and your poverty, even though you are rich. I know the slander on the part of those who say that they are Jews and are not, but are a synagogue of Satan. ¹⁰ Do not fear what you are about to suffer. Beware, the devil is about to throw some of you into prison so that you may be tested, and for ten days you will have affliction. Be faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life. ¹¹ Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. Whoever conquers will not be harmed by the second death.

20: Mystery, hidden meanings that human beings cannot grasp without the assistance of divine revelation (Rev 1.20; 10.7; 17.5,7; Dan 2.29,45). Angel guardians are assigned to the seven churches, as also to nations (Dan 10.20–21; 12.1) and individuals (Dan 11.1).

2.1–3.22: The messages to the seven churches, each containing an address, a descriptive phrase referring to the risen Christ, a commendation or condemnation of the church addressed, an admonition, and a concluding promise and exhortation to the faithful. For the location of the seven churches, see The Seven Churches map.

2.1–7: The first message is appropriately addressed to followers of the Christian movement in the seaport city that was the administrative and commercial hub of the Roman province of Asia; Paul had labored there (Acts 19.8–10; 1 Cor 15.32; 16.8; cf. Eph 1.1). 1: Jesus walks among the churches (1.20). 2: Evildoers, compare the warning to the Ephesian elders in Acts 20.29–30; cf. 2 Cor 11.13. 6: To hate evil is the counterpart of the love of what God approves (Isa 61.8; Zech 8.17; 1QS 1.4). The Nicolaitans (probably not connected with the Nicolaus of Acts 6.5, contrary to Irenaeus, Adv. Haer. 1.26.3) are also mentioned in the message to the church in Pergamum (v. 15). What their works were, or what they may have taught, is unknown, though it is possible that they permitted some accommodation to the local religious practices that Revelation opposes. 7: What the Spirit is saying, speaking through Jesus to John, and through John to the churches (cf. 2.11,17,29; 3.6,13,22). Conquers, a military term, with the present tense suggesting continuous vigilance. Tree of life, Gen 2.9; 3.24; cf. Rev 22.2,14.

2.8–11: The second message commends followers of the Christian movement in Smyrna for their perseverance amid affliction and poverty. Smyrna (modern Izmir) was a port city 30 mi (50 km) north of Ephesus. 8: See 1.17–18; Isa 44.6; 48.12. 9: Rich, in spiritual things. Those who say that they are Jews and are not, this accusation reflects first-century CE struggles over identity, with some groups contesting the claims to Jewish identity made by other groups and claiming authentic Jewish identity for themselves. The word translated “Jew” (Gk “Ioudaios”) could refer both to someone from Judea, and to an adherent of Judaism whether from birth or by conversion. Synagogue of Satan (cf. 3.9) likewise reflects significant tensions (cf. Jn 8.44; 1QH 2.22 refers to apostate Jews as “a congregation of Belial”). Synagogue can refer to a congregation or to a meeting place for a congregation. 10: Ten days, a limited period of trial (Dan 1.12). Crown of life, the reward of eternal life (Jas 1.12; 1 Pet 5.4). 11: The second death, the final condemnation of the unfaithful (20.14).

Chs 2–3: The seven churches.

¹²“And to the angel of the church in Pergamum write: These are the words of him who has the sharp two-edged sword:

¹³“I know where you are living, where Satan’s throne is. Yet you are holding fast to my name, and you did not deny your faith in me^a even in the days of Antipas my witness, my faithful one, who was killed among you, where Satan lives. ¹⁴But I have a few things against you: you have some there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to put a stumbling block before the people of Israel, so that they would eat food sacrificed to idols and practice fornication.

¹⁵So you also have some who hold to the teaching of the Nicolaitans. ¹⁶Repent then. If not, I will come to you soon and make war against them with the sword of my mouth. ¹⁷Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To everyone who conquers I will give some of the hidden manna, and I will give a white stone, and on the white stone is written a new name that no one knows except the one who receives it.

^a Or deny my faith

2.12–17: The third message is directed to Pergamum, a city that was a noted center of Roman emperor worship ca. 60 mi (80 km) north of Smyrna. 12: Sharp two-edged sword, 1.16n. 13: Where Satan’s throne is (in contrast to God’s throne in ch 4), this may be a reference either to the temple of the Roman emperor or to the monumental altar of Zeus, both of which were located in Pergamum. Antipas is otherwise unknown; he is the only martyr named in the book. 14–15: The teaching of Balaam, here the author criticizes an opponent by comparing him to the diviner Balaam of Num 22.5–24.25. After Balaam’s oracles, the Israelites engaged in both sexual relations with outsiders and the worship of foreign gods (see Num 25; 31.16). To eat food sacrificed to idols meant either to participate in ritual banquets or to purchase and then consume meat that had been sacrificed in the temples of Pergamum (1 Cor 8; 10). Practice fornication can also be understood metaphorically, with unauthorized sexual conduct symbolizing religious infidelity (Wis 14.12). 15: Nicolaitans, see v. 6n. 17: Hidden manna, spiritual nourishment reserved exclusively for those who avoid food sacrificed to idols (Ex 16.33–34; Ps 78.24). White, the color symbolizing victory and joy. A new name, Isa 62.2.

¹⁸ “And to the angel of the church in Thyatira write: These are the words of the Son of God, who has eyes like a flame of fire, and whose feet are like burnished bronze:

¹⁹ “I know your works—your love, faith, service, and patient endurance. I know that your last works are greater than the first.

²⁰ But I have this against you: you tolerate that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophet and is teaching and beguiling my servants^a to practice fornication and to eat food sacrificed to idols. ²¹ I gave her time to repent, but she refuses to repent of her fornication. ²² Beware, I am throwing her on a bed, and those who commit adultery with her I am throwing into great distress, unless they repent of her doings; ²³ and I will strike her children dead. And all the churches will know that I am the one who searches minds and hearts, and I will give to each of you as your works deserve. ²⁴ But to the rest of you in Thyatira, who do not hold this teaching, who have not learned what some call ‘the deep things of Satan,’ to you I say, I do not lay on you any other burden; ²⁵ only hold fast to what you have until I come. ²⁶ To everyone who conquers and continues to do my works to the end,

I will give authority over the nations;

²⁷ to rule^b them with an iron rod,

as when clay pots are shattered—

²⁸ even as I also received authority from my Father. To the one who conquers I will also give the morning star. ²⁹ Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches.

3 “And to the angel of the church in Sardis write: These are the words of him who has the seven spirits of God and the seven stars:

“I know your works; you have a name of being alive, but you are dead. ² Wake up, and strengthen what remains and is on the point of death, for I have not found your works perfect in the sight of my God. ³ Remember then what you received and heard; obey it, and repent. If you do not wake up, I will come like a thief, and you will not know at what hour I will come to you. ⁴ Yet you have still a few persons in Sardis who have not soiled their clothes; they will walk with me, dressed in white, for they are worthy. ⁵ If you conquer, you will be clothed like them in white robes, and I will not blot your name out of the book of life; I will confess your name before my Father and before his angels. ⁶ Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches.

⁷ “And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write:

^a Gk slaves

^b Or to shepherd

2.18–29: The fourth message is addressed to Thyatira, a commercial center renowned for its many trade guilds, ca. 70 mi (110 km) north-northeast of Ephesus. Lydia, one of Paul’s converts, was a dealer in purple cloth from Thyatira (Acts 16.14–15). 18: Dan 10.6. 20: That woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophet, John’s characterization of an opponent at Thyatira is here identified contemptuously with the Phoenician wife of King Ahab, the queen who worshiped Baal and who opposed the prophet Elijah (1 Kings 16.31; 19.1–2). 22: I am throwing her on a bed, punishment with serious sickness is threatened for the Thyatiran Jezebel. Those who commit adultery with her are those who are complicit in her worship of other gods. In the Hebrew Bible marital infidelity is a frequent metaphor for worship of gods other than the Lord (Deut 31.16; Judg 2.17; 1 Chr 5.25; Jer 3.6–11); see also vv. 14–15n. 23: Her children, those who follow her teachings. 24: Deep things of Satan, a sarcastic reference to her teachings (contrast 1 Cor 2.10). 26–27: The conquerors will share in Jesus’s rule (Ps 2.8–9). 28: The morning star is Jesus himself (22.16; cf. Num 24.17).

3.1–6: The fifth message is addressed to Sardis, a prosperous city located ca. 55 mi (85 km) northeast of Ephesus that had been the capital of the kingdom of Lydia. 1: Seven spirits, see 1.4n. Seven stars, 1.20. You have a name, its commitment in faith was only nominal. 3: Received and heard, the gospel. Like a thief, just when unexpected (16.15; Mt 24.42–44; 1 Thess 5.2). 4–5: Soiled . . . white, not impurity/purity, but surrender/conquest (see 2.17n.). White robes are a frequent image; see 3.18; 4.4; 6.11; 7.9; 19.14; cf. Zech 3.3–5. 5: Book of life, the heavenly register containing the names of the redeemed (13.8; 17.8; 20.12,15; Ex 32.32; Ps 69.28; Dan 12.1; Mal 3.16; Lk 10.20).

3.7–13: The sixth message is addressed to the church in Philadelphia, a small town 80 mi (50 km) southeast of Sardis. 7: Key of David, a symbol of authority (Isa 22.22). 8: An open door, of opportunity (1 Cor 16.9; 2 Cor 2.12).

These are the words of the holy one, the true one,
 who has the key of David,
 who opens and no one will shut,
 who shuts and no one opens:

⁸“I know your works. Look, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut. I know that you have but little power, and yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name. ⁹I will make those of the synagogue of Satan who say that they are Jews and are not, but are lying—I will make them come and bow down before your feet, and they will learn that I have loved you. ¹⁰Because you have kept my word of patient endurance, I will keep you from the hour of trial that is coming on the whole world to test the inhabitants of the earth. ¹¹I am coming soon; hold fast to what you have, so that no one may seize your crown. ¹²If you conquer, I will make you a pillar in the temple of my God; you will never go out of it. I will write on you the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem that comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name. ¹³Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches.

¹⁴“And to the angel of the church in Laodicea write: The words of the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the origin^a of God’s creation:

¹⁵“I know your works; you are neither cold nor hot. I wish that you were either cold or hot. ¹⁶So, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I am about to spit you out of my mouth. ¹⁷For you say, ‘I am rich, I have prospered, and I need nothing.’ You do not realize that you are wretched, pitiable, poor, blind, and naked. ¹⁸Therefore I counsel you to buy from me gold refined by fire so that you may be rich; and white robes to clothe you and to keep the shame of your nakedness from being seen; and salve to anoint your eyes so that you may see. ¹⁹I reprove and discipline those whom I love. Be earnest, therefore, and repent. ²⁰Listen! I am standing at the door, knocking; if you hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to you and eat with you, and you with me. ²¹To the one who conquers I will give a place with me on my throne, just as I myself conquered and sat down with my Father on his throne. ²²Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches.”

4 After this I looked, and there in heaven a door stood open! And the first voice, which I had heard speaking to me like a trumpet, said, “Come up here, and I will show you what must take place after this.” ² At once I was in the spirit,^b and there in heaven stood a throne, with one seated on the throne!

³ And the one seated there looks like jasper

^a Or beginning

^b Or in the Spirit

9: Synagogue of Satan, see 2.9n. On tension between followers of Jesus and Jews in Philadelphia, see Ignatius, Philad. 6.1. Bow down before your feet, Isa 43.4; 60.14. 10: Despite its weakness (v. 8), the Philadelphian church will be safeguarded during the eschatological tribulation. 11: I am coming soon, 22.7,12,20. 12: A pillar, steadfast and permanent (Gal 2.9). New Jerusalem, 21.2. The name of my God, marking the one inscribed as God’s possession and as specially dedicated to God. The name of the city of my God, signifying citizenship in the new Jerusalem; see 21.2,10.

3.14–22: The seventh message is directed to the church in Laodicea, a wealthy city located near Colossae (Col 2.1; 4.13–16), 95 mi (155 km) east of Ephesus. 14: The Amen is Jesus Christ (2 Cor 1.20). The faithful and true witness, 1.5. This list of titles may derive from a Gk translation of Isa 65.16. The origin of God’s creation, Jesus Christ is the principle and source of all creation (Jn 1.3; Col 1.15,18). 15–16: Their lukewarm commitment is nauseating: spit you out of my mouth. 17: Complacent and self-satisfied, they are spiritually poverty-stricken (Hos 12.8). 18: Buy from me gold refined by fire, an idiom for removing sin from one’s life (Job 23.10; Prov 27.21). A commercial transaction is used here as a metaphor for accepting salvation. Eyes, Laodicea was noted for its manufacture of a medication for ophthalmic diseases. 19: God’s chastening has beneficent motives (Prov 3.12; Heb 12.5–11). 20: An invitation to participate in the messianic banquet in the coming age (cf. Mt 26.29). 21: A place with me, a promise of reigning with Jesus in glory (22.5; Lk 22.30).

4.1–5.14: Vision of God enthroned and of the Lamb. 4.1: The first voice, the voice of the exalted Jesus mentioned in 1.10. Come up, John is invited to ascend to heaven, to behold visions of God (Ezek 3.12; 8.3; 11.1). What must take place, Dan 2.29. 2: A throne, Ezek 1.26–28; Dan 7.9. 3: The glory of the divine presence is described and carnelian, and around the throne is a rainbow that looks like an emerald. ⁴ Around the throne are twenty-four thrones, and seated on the thrones are twenty-four elders, dressed in white robes, with golden crowns on their heads. ⁵ Coming from the throne are flashes of lightning, and rumblings and peals of thunder, and in front of the throne burn seven flaming torches, which are the seven spirits of God; ⁶ and in front of the throne there is something like a sea of glass, like crystal.

Around the throne, and on each side of the throne, are four living creatures, full of eyes in front and behind: ⁷ the first living creature like a lion, the second living creature like an ox, the third living creature with a face like a human face, and the fourth living creature like a flying eagle. ⁸ And the four living creatures, each of them with six wings, are full of eyes all around and inside. Day and night without ceasing they sing, “Holy, holy, holy,

the Lord God the Almighty, who was and is and is to come.”

⁹ And whenever the living creatures give glory and honor and thanks to the one who is seated on the throne, who lives forever and ever, ¹⁰ the twenty-four elders fall before the one who is seated on the throne and worship the one who lives forever and ever; they cast their crowns before the throne, singing,

¹¹ “You are worthy, our Lord and God, to receive glory and honor and power,
for you created all things, and by your will they existed and were created.”

5 Then I saw in the right hand of the one seated on the throne a scroll written on the inside and on the back, sealed^a with seven seals; ² and I saw a mighty angel proclaiming with a loud voice, “Who is worthy to open the scroll and break its seals?” ³ And no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth was able to open the scroll or to look into it. ⁴ And I began to weep bitterly because no one was found worthy to open the scroll or to look into it. ⁵ Then one of the elders said to me, “Do not weep. See, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered, so that he can open the scroll and its seven seals.”

⁶ Then I saw between the throne and the four living creatures and among the elders a Lamb standing as if it had been slaughtered, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent out into all the earth. ⁷ He went and took the scroll from the right hand of the one who was seated on the throne. ⁸ When he had taken the scroll, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell before the Lamb, each holding a harp and golden bowls full of incense, which are the prayers of the saints. ⁹ They sing a new song:

“You are worthy to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slaughtered and by your blood you ransomed for God

^a Or written on the inside, and sealed on the back in terms of precious gemstones; cf. Ex 24.10. 4: Twenty-four elders, attendants around God's heavenly throne, probably symbolizing the twelve tribes of Israel and the twelve apostles. 5: Flashes of lightning, expressive of the majesty of God (Ex 19.16; Ezek 1.13; Rev 11.19). Seven flaming torches, Zech 4.2–3. Seven spirits, 1.4. 6: A sea of glass, Ex 24.10; Ezek 1.22. Four living creatures, heavenly beings representing humankind and all animals (Ezek 1.5,10). Full of eyes, symbolizing unceasing watchfulness (Ezek 1.18). 8: Six wings . . . “Holy, holy, holy,” Isa 6.2–3. 10: Cast their crowns, an act of homage and submission, acknowledging that all power comes from God. 11: Our Lord and God, titles that were also attributed to the Roman emperor (Suetonius, Domitian 13). 5.1: A scroll, containing the divine plan of judgment and salvation (Ezek 2.9–10). Sealed, therefore both unalterable and unknown to others (Dan 12.4). 3–5: No created being is worthy to carry out God's plan; only the messiah can do so. Lion of . . . Judah, Gen 49.9–10. Root of David, Isa 11.1,10. Has conquered, the paradoxical victory of the cross and resurrection (Jn 16.33). 6–9: The Lamb . . . slaughtered, the crucified messiah, a reference to Jesus's death, by which God's purposes contained in the scroll are accomplished (Isa 53.7; Jn 1.29,36; 1 Pet 1.19). Seven horns, fullness of power (Deut 33.17; Ps 89.17; Dan 7.7–8.24; 1 En. 80.6–12,37). Seven eyes, Zech 3.9; 4.10; 2 Chr 16.9. Seven spirits, 1.4. 8: Harp and golden bowls, objects used in worship. The prayers of the saints on earth are joined with the worship rendered to the Lamb by the heavenly creatures. 9–10: A new song is sung because Jesus by his death has inaugurated a new era saints from^a every tribe and language and people and nation;

¹⁰ you have made them to be a kingdom and priests serving^b our God, and they will reign on earth.”

¹¹ Then I looked, and I heard the voice of many angels surrounding the throne and the living creatures and the elders; they numbered myriads of myriads and thousands of thousands, ¹² singing with full voice,

“Worthy is the Lamb that was slaughtered
to receive power and wealth and wisdom and might and honor and glory and blessing!”

¹³ Then I heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth and in the sea, and all that is in them, singing,

“To the one seated on the throne and to the Lamb be blessing and honor and glory and might forever and ever!”

¹⁴ And the four living creatures said, “Amen!”
And the elders fell down and worshiped.

6 Then I saw the Lamb open one of the seven seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures call out, as with a voice of thunder, “Come!”^c ² I looked, and there was a white horse! Its rider had a bow; a crown was given to him, and he came out conquering and to conquer.

³ When he opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature call out, “Come!”^c

⁴ And out came^d another horse, bright red; its rider was permitted to take peace from the earth, so that people would slaughter one another; and he was given a great sword.

⁵ When he opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature call out, “Come!”^c I looked, and there was a black horse! Its rider held a pair of scales in his hand, ⁶ and I heard what seemed to be a voice in the midst of the four living creatures saying, “A quart of wheat for a day’s pay,^e and three quarts of barley for a day’s pay,^e but do not damage the olive oil and the wine!”

⁷ When he opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature call out, “Come!”^c ⁸ I looked and there was a pale green horse! Its rider’s name was Death, and Hades followed with him; they were given authority over a fourth of the earth, to kill with sword, famine, and pestilence, and by the wild animals of the earth.

⁹ When he opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of those who had been slaughtered for the word of God and for ^a Gk ransomed for God from

^b Gk priests to

^c Or “Go!”

^d Or went

^e Gk a denarius

(14.3). New hymns of praise were composed to celebrate special occasions (Pss 33.3; 40.3; 96.1; 98.1; 144.9; 149.1; Isa 42.10). The Lamb is adored in terms similar to the adoration rendered to God (4.11). A kingdom and priests, see 1.6n. 11–12: The sevenfold praise of myriads (tens of thousands; Dan 7.10) in heaven honoring the sacrificed Lamb. 13: Universal praise to God and to the Lamb as equal in majesty.

6.1–17: The opening of the first six seals of the scroll, and the enactment of what is written in it.

6.1–8: Four seals of destruction. 1: Come! Addressed successively to each of the four riders (Zech 6.1–8) who accomplish God’s purposes. 2: The white horse symbolizes a conquering power that none can resist; in 19.11–13 the reference is to Jesus. The crown given to the rider as he is sent forth suggests a guarantee of victory. 4: The red horse symbolizes war and bloodshed. Permitted to take peace from the earth, effectively annulling the “pax Romana,” the self-congratulatory designation of Roman imperial rule as “the Roman peace.” 5: The black horse symbolizes famine, which follows upon war. 6: A quart of wheat . . . three quarts of barley, sold at exorbitantly inflated prices because of war and famine (cf. 2 Kings 6.24–25). The prohibition against harming the olive oil and the wine (neither olive trees nor grape vines are newly planted each year) suggests that the famine is limited. 8: The pale green horse symbolizes pestilence and death. Hades, the Greek god of the underworld; cf. 1.18. A fourth part indicates wide but not total devastation. Pestilence, Ex 9.3; 2 Sam 24.13; Ezek 5.12. Wild animals, Ezek 6.17; 29.5; 33.27.

6.9–8.1: Three seals of judgment.

6.9–11: The fifth seal describes the appeal for divine justice and retribution by the martyrs (v. 10) and the heavenly response to their plea (v. 11). 9: The souls of the martyrs are said to be under the altar because they

the testimony they had given;¹⁰ they cried out with a loud voice, “Sovereign Lord, holy and true, how long will it be before you judge and avenge our blood on the inhabitants of the earth?”¹¹ They were each given a white robe and told to rest a little longer, until the number would be complete both of their fellow servants^a and of their brothers and sisters,^b who were soon to be killed as they themselves had been killed.

¹² When he opened the sixth seal, I looked, and there came a great earthquake; the sun became black as sackcloth, the full moon became like blood,¹³ and the stars of the sky fell to the earth as the fig tree drops its winter fruit when shaken by a gale.¹⁴ The sky vanished like a scroll rolling itself up, and every mountain and island was removed from its place.¹⁵ Then the kings of the earth and the magnates and the generals and the rich and the powerful, and everyone, slave and free, hid in the caves and among the rocks of the mountains,¹⁶ calling to the mountains and rocks, “Fall on us and hide us from the face of the one seated on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb;¹⁷ for the great day of their wrath has come, and who is able to stand?”

7 After this I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, holding back the four winds of the earth so that no wind could blow on earth or sea or against any tree.² I saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun, having the seal of the living God, and he called with a loud voice to the four angels who had been given power to damage earth and sea,³ saying, “Do not damage the earth or the sea or the trees, until we have marked the servants^a of our God with a seal on their foreheads.”

⁴ And I heard the number of those who were sealed, one hundred forty-four thousand, sealed out of every tribe of the people of Israel:

⁵ From the tribe of Judah twelve thousand sealed, from the tribe of Reuben twelve thousand, from the tribe of Gad twelve thousand,

⁶ from the tribe of Asher twelve thousand, from the tribe of Naphtali twelve thousand, from the tribe of Manasseh twelve thousand,

⁷ from the tribe of Simeon twelve thousand, from the tribe of Levi twelve thousand, from the tribe of Issachar twelve thousand,

⁸ from the tribe of Zebulun twelve thousand, from the tribe of Joseph twelve thousand, from the tribe of Benjamin twelve thousand sealed.

⁹ After this I looked, and there was a great multitude that no one could count, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, robed in white, with palm were killed for the sake of Jesus (2.10; Mt 24.9; Phil 2.17; 2 Tim 4.6). 10: How long? is a cry for divine vindication pronounced by those who have suffered unbearable oppression (e.g., Pss 6.3; 13.2; 90.13; Zech 1.12–16). Avenge our blood, God is the one who takes up the cause of those killed for the sake of justice (Ps 79.10 [LXX]). 11: White robe, see 2.17n.; 3.4–5n.; 7.9n.

^a Gk slaves

^b Gk brothers

6.12–17: The opening of the sixth seal unleashes a great earthquake, and its catastrophic effects on the cosmos and on human society are described. 12: Black as sackcloth . . . , Joel 2.30–31. 13–14: Isa 34.4; Mk 13.25. 15–17: All classes of society seek to escape from the wrath of God (Isa 2.10,19). 16: Fall on us, Hos 10.8; Lk 23.30. 17: The great day of their wrath, the time of judgment (Joel 2.11).

7.1–17: An interlude between the sixth and seventh seals: two visions that provide assurance of divine protection for the faithful during the time of tribulation (vv. 1–8) and assurance of ultimate salvation (vv. 9–17). 1: The four winds are destructive forces to be unleashed by God (Jer 49.36). They correspond to the four horsemen in 6.1–8 (see Zech 6.5). 3: A seal (Ezek 9.4–6) marks those under God’s protection. Seals were used to signify ownership or authorship. 4: The symbolic number 144,000, which is the square of 12 multiplied by 1,000, has been interpreted variously as a reference to the faithful remnant of Israel; the church; the martyrs; the remnant of Christians who survive the eschatological turmoil; all the redeemed (14.1,3). Every tribe, but the tribes of Dan and Ephraim are not mentioned. 9: A great multitude (see Dan 7.14), in contrast with the 144,000 in v. 4 (5.9).

branches in their hands. ¹⁰ They cried out in a loud voice, saying,

“Salvation belongs to our God who is seated on the throne, and to the Lamb!”

¹¹ And all the angels stood around the throne and around the elders and the four living creatures, and they fell on their faces before the throne and worshiped God, ¹² singing,

“Amen! Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving and honor and power and might be to our God forever and ever! Amen.”

¹³ Then one of the elders addressed me, saying, “Who are these, robed in white, and where have they come from?” ¹⁴ I said to him, “Sir, you are the one that knows.” Then he said to me, “These are they who have come out of the great ordeal; they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

¹⁵ For this reason they are before the throne of God, and worship him day and night within his temple, and the one who is seated on the throne will shelter them.

¹⁶ They will hunger no more, and thirst no more; the sun will not strike them, nor any scorching heat;

¹⁷ for the Lamb at the center of the throne will be their shepherd, and he will guide them to springs of the water of life, and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes.”

8 When the Lamb opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. ² And I saw the seven angels who stand before God, and seven trumpets were given to them.

³ Another angel with a golden censer came and stood at the altar; he was given a great quantity of incense to offer with the prayers of all the saints on the golden altar that is before the throne. ⁴ And the smoke of the incense, with the prayers of the saints, rose before God from the hand of the angel. ⁵ Then the angel took the censer and filled it with fire from the altar and threw it on the earth; and there were peals of thunder, rumblings, flashes of lightning, and an earthquake.

⁶ Now the seven angels who had the seven trumpets made ready to blow them.

⁷ The first angel blew his trumpet, and there came hail and fire, mixed with blood, and they were hurled to the earth; and a third of the earth was burned up, and a third of the trees were burned up, and all green grass was burned up.

⁸ The second angel blew his trumpet, and something like a great mountain, burning with fire, was thrown into the sea. ⁹ A third of the sea became blood, a third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed.

¹⁰ The third angel blew his trumpet, and a great star fell from heaven, blazing like a torch, and it fell on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water. ¹¹ The name of the White robes and palm branches symbolize righteousness and victory (see 3.4–5n.; Dan 11.35). 12: A sevenfold ascription of praise to God. 14: The blood of the Lamb cleanses from sin (Jn 1.29; 1 Jn 1.7); in the symbolism of the book, blood (violent death) can make robes . . . white (lead to victory); cf. Isa 1.18. 15: Before the throne of God, in God’s presence because of their faithfulness. Their constant worship takes place in God’s temple in heaven. Shelter them, lit. “spread his tabernacle over them.” 16: Isa 49.10; Ps 121.6. 17: A paradox: The Lamb is a shepherd (Ps 23.1–2; Ezek 34.23–24; Jn 10.11). Springs of . . . life, 21.6; 22.1,17; Jn 4.10; 7.37. Wipe away every tear, 21.4; Isa 25.8.

8.1–5: The seventh seal is opened. The opening of the last of the seven seals (5.1; 6.1) leads to an awesome and reverent silence, as response to divine judgment (Hab 3.3–6; Zech 2.13–3.2). A return to “primeval silence” prior to the judgment appears in 2 Esd 7.30. 2: The seven angels stand before God ready to do God’s will (Tob 12.15). 3: Incense . . . prayers, Ps 141.2. 5: Ezek 10.2. The earthquake announces the divine judgment about to be executed; cf. 4.5.

8.6–9.21: The first six trumpets unleash new convulsions of nature, patterned after the plagues inflicted on Egypt in the book of Exodus (Ex 7.14–10.23).

8.6–13: Four trumpets of destruction. 7: Hail and fire, Ex 9.23–25; both destroyers of crops. A third, the devastation wrought by the trumpet plagues is partial, not total. 9: Ex 7.20. 11: Wormwood, a bitter herb, poisons star is Wormwood. A third of the waters became wormwood, and many died from the water, because it was made bitter.

¹²The fourth angel blew his trumpet, and a third of the sun was struck, and a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of their light was darkened; a third of the day was kept from shining, and likewise the night.

¹³Then I looked, and I heard an eagle crying with a loud voice as it flew in midheaven, “Woe, woe, woe to the inhabitants of the earth, at the blasts of the other trumpets that the three angels are about to blow!”

9 And the fifth angel blew his trumpet, and I saw a star that had fallen from heaven to earth, and he was given the key to the shaft of the bottomless pit; ²he opened the shaft of the bottomless pit, and from the shaft rose smoke like the smoke of a great furnace, and the sun and the air were darkened with the smoke from the shaft. ³Then from the smoke came locusts on the earth, and they were given authority like the authority of scorpions of the earth. ⁴They were told not to damage the grass of the earth or any green growth or any tree, but only those people who do not have the seal of God on their foreheads. ⁵They were allowed to torture them for five months, but not to kill them, and their torture was like the torture of a scorpion when it stings someone. ⁶And in those days people will seek death but will not find it; they will long to die, but death will flee from them.

⁷In appearance the locusts were like horses equipped for battle. On their heads were what looked like crowns of gold; their faces were like human faces, ⁸their hair like women’s hair, and their teeth like lions’ teeth; ⁹they had scales like iron breastplates, and the noise of their wings was like the noise of many chariots with horses rushing into battle. ¹⁰They have tails like scorpions, with stingers, and in their tails is their power to harm people for five months. ¹¹They have as king over them the angel of the bottomless pit; his name in Hebrew is Abaddon,^a and in Greek he is called Apollyon.^b ¹²The first woe has passed. There are still two woes to come.

¹³Then the sixth angel blew his trumpet, and I heard a voice from the four^c horns of the golden altar before God, ¹⁴saying to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, “Release the four angels who are bound at the great river Euphrates.” ¹⁵So the four angels were released, who had been held ready for the hour, the day, the month, and the year, to kill a third of humankind. ¹⁶The number of the troops of cavalry was two hundred

^a That is, Destruction

^b That is, Destroyer

^c Other ancient authorities lack four the waters into which it falls (Jer 9.15; 23.15). It is associated with the constellation Scorpio. 12: Ex 10.21–22; cf. Joel 3.15; Am 8.9. 13: An eagle announces impending judgment. The threefold woe refers to the plagues unleashed at the sounding of the next three trumpets.

9.1–11.19: Three trumpets of woe.

9.1–12: The plague of monstrous locusts, evokes the terrors of invading cavalry (perhaps a reference to the Parthians, an Iranian dynasty that ruled from Mesopotamia to India, at war with the Romans from the first century BCE to the second century CE). 1: A star . . . fallen from heaven, a heavenly being, possibly an angel, identified by name in v. 11 (cf. Isa 14.12; Lk 10.18). The bottomless pit is the underworld, the abyss from which the beast arises (11.7; 17.8). 3: Locusts, Ex 10.12–15; cf. Joel 1.4. 4: God’s servants are not to be harmed (7.3). 5: Five months, while this might be a reference to the life cycle of locusts, which are hatched in spring and live until the end of summer, the more likely significance of this time period is symbolic, indicating the limited time span of this plague. 6: Will seek death, in utter despair because of the torments (cf. Joel 3.21). 7–10: These are monstrous locusts, described in anthropomorphic terms (as in Joel 1 and 2), combining human features with the features of other creatures into a terrifying composite. Teeth like lions’, Joel 1.6; iron breastplates, of a soldier or war horse (Job 39.19–20; Tg. Nah. 3.17, compares armor of Assyrian soldiers to locusts). 11: The name Abaddon, which means “Destruction,” is a name for Sheol, the abode of the dead (see Job 26.6; Prov 15.11); here, as in Job 28.22, it is personified.

9.13–21: The plague of monstrous cavalry. 14: The Euphrates marked the eastern border of the Roman Empire, where invasion by its Parthian enemies threatened. 16–19: These fire-breathing, lion-headed, serpent-tailed million; I heard their number.¹⁷ And this was how I saw the horses in my vision: the riders wore breastplates the color of fire and of sapphire^a and of sulfur; the heads of the horses were like lions' heads, and fire and smoke and sulfur came out of their mouths.

¹⁸By these three plagues a third of humankind was killed, by the fire and smoke and sulfur coming out of their mouths. ¹⁹For the power of the horses is in their mouths and in their tails; their tails are like serpents, having heads; and with them they inflict harm.

²⁰The rest of humankind, who were not killed by these plagues, did not repent of the works of their hands or give up worshipping demons and idols of gold and silver and bronze and stone and wood, which cannot see or hear or walk. ²¹And they did not repent of their murders or their sorceries or their fornication or their thefts.

10 And I saw another mighty angel coming down from heaven, wrapped in a cloud, with a rainbow over his head; his face was like the sun, and his legs like pillars of fire. ²He held a little scroll open in his hand. Setting his right foot on the sea and his left foot on the land, ³he gave a great shout, like a lion roaring. And when he shouted, the seven thunders sounded. ⁴And when the seven thunders had sounded, I was about to write, but I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Seal up what the seven thunders have said, and do not write it down."⁵ Then the angel whom I saw standing on the sea and the land raised his right hand to heaven

⁶and swore by him who lives forever and ever,

who created heaven and what is in it, the earth and what is in it, and the sea and what is in it: "There will be no more delay, ⁷but in the days when the seventh angel is to blow his trumpet, the mystery of God will be fulfilled, as he announced to his servants^b the prophets."

⁸Then the voice that I had heard from heaven spoke to me again, saying, "Go, take the scroll that is open in the hand of the angel who is standing on the sea and on the land."⁹ So I went to the angel and told him to give me the little scroll; and he said to me, "Take it, and eat; it will be bitter to your stomach, but sweet as honey in your mouth."¹⁰ So I took the little scroll from the hand of the angel and ate it; it was sweet as honey in my mouth, but when I had eaten it, my stomach was made bitter.

¹¹Then they said to me, "You must prophesy again about many peoples and nations and languages and kings."

^a Gk hyacinth

^b Gk slaves

monsters are composite creatures, like the fire-breathing Chimera of Greek and Roman mythology; cf. the description of conquering soldiers in Jer 46.2–23. 20–21: The trumpet plagues fail to provoke the repentance that is their purpose. Compare the hardness of Pharaoh's heart despite the plagues (Ex 8.15,19). 20: Idols, Dan 5.23. 21: Murders . . . thefts, sins associated with the idolatrous worship of other gods, Wis 12.3–6.

10.1–11.13: An interlude between the sixth and seventh trumpets; two visions (10.1–11 and 11.1–13) present a renewal of John's prophetic commission (10.1–11) and describe what becomes of the two prophetic witnesses in the holy city (11.1–13).

10.1–11: The prophetic commission renewed. 1: Another mighty angel, in addition to the mighty angel in 5.2. 2: The little scroll is distinct from the seven-sealed scroll in the right hand of God in 5.1. This scroll is in the angel's left hand, since in 10.5 he raises his right hand to heaven to swear an oath (Dan 12.7). Sea and land indicate the scope of the angel's authority. 4: John is prohibited from disclosing what the seven thunders have said, but he "must prophesy again" (v. 11) after eating the little scroll. 5–6: See Deut 32.40; Ps 146.6. 6: There will be no more delay in the accomplishment of God's will—the sounding of the seventh trumpet is imminent. 7: The mystery of God, Rom 16.25–26; Eph 1.9; 3.3–9; Col 1.26–27. His servants the prophets, Am 3.7. 8–10: Ezek 2.9–3.3. 10: Sweet, because it contains God's words; bitter because it involves God's terrible judgments (Ezek 2.10). 11: You must, an inescapable obligation, in accord with the divine will, prophesy again; the second part of the book (chs 12–22) contains these prophecies. Peoples and nations and languages and kings (Dan 3.4,7 [LXX]; 7:14; Rev 5.9; 7.9) suggests the broad range of John's prophetic activity.

11 Then I was given a measuring rod like a staff, and I was told, “Come and measure the temple of God and the altar and those who worship there,² but do not measure the court outside the temple; leave that out, for it is given over to the nations, and they will trample over the holy city for forty-two months.³ And I will grant my two witnesses authority to prophesy for one thousand two hundred sixty days, wearing sackcloth.”

⁴These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands that stand before the Lord of the earth.⁵ And if anyone wants to harm them, fire pours from their mouth and consumes their foes; anyone who wants to harm them must be killed in this manner.⁶ They have authority to shut the sky, so that no rain may fall during the days of their prophesying, and they have authority over the waters to turn them into blood, and to strike the earth with every kind of plague, as often as they desire.

⁷When they have finished their testimony, the beast that comes up from the bottomless pit will make war on them and conquer them and kill them,⁸ and their dead bodies will lie in the street of the great city that is prophetically⁹ called Sodom and Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified.⁹ For three and a half days members of the peoples and tribes and languages and nations will gaze at their dead bodies and refuse to let them be placed in a tomb;¹⁰ and the inhabitants of the earth will gloat over them and celebrate and exchange presents, because these two prophets had been a torment to the inhabitants of the earth.

¹¹But after the three and a half days, the breath^b of life from God entered them, and they stood on their feet, and those who saw them were terrified.¹² Then they^c heard a loud voice from heaven saying to them, “Come up here!” And they went up to heaven in a cloud while their enemies watched them.¹³ At that moment there was a great earthquake, and a tenth of the city fell; seven thousand people were killed in the earthquake, and the rest were terrified and gave glory to the God of heaven.

¹⁴The second woe has passed. The third woe is coming very soon.

¹⁵Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and there were loud voices in heaven, saying,

“The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Messiah,^d and he will reign forever and ever.”

¹⁶Then the twenty-four elders who sit on their thrones before God fell on their faces

^a Or allegorically; Gk spiritually

^b Or the spirit

^c Other ancient authorities read I

^d Gk Christ

11.1–13: The measuring of the temple and the two witnesses. 1: The symbolic act of the measurement of the sanctuary and those who worship there emphasizes the protection and preservation of the faithful who are within (as in Zech 2.1–5; cf. Ezek 40.3–42.20). 2: The court outside, the court of the Gentiles. The holy city, Jerusalem (Neh 11.1; Isa 52.1; Mt 4.5; 27.53). Forty-two months = 1,260 days (v. 3) = 3 1/2 years, a number that symbolizes the period of eschatological tribulation (Dan 7.25; 9.27; 12.7,11–12). As half of seven, the number of completeness, it symbolizes radical incompleteness. 3: Although the two witnesses are unnamed here, they may be prophetic figures who were expected to return in the end-time, possibly Enoch (Gen 5.24) and Elijah (2 Kings 2.1–11; Mal 4.5), or Moses (Deut 18.15,18) and Elijah. They are clothed in sackcloth, a sign that their prophetic message was a call to repentance. 4: Two olive trees, supplying oil for the lamps in the temple (Zech 4.3–14). 6: Shut the sky, cause a drought, as did Elijah (1 Kings 17.1). Authority over the waters . . ., as did Moses and Aaron (Ex 7.17–21). 7: The beast, 13.1; 17.8. The bottomless pit, see 9.1n. Will make war on them, Dan 7.21. 8: The great city is identified here prophetically, i.e., metaphorically or spiritually rather than literally by its proper name. While the majority of interpreters identify this city as Jerusalem, others suggest that the city is Rome, as is Babylon in 17.1–6. The name Sodom, applied to Jerusalem in Isa 1.10; Jer 23.14; Ezek 16.46–56, alludes to that city’s legendary wickedness (Gen 18.16–19.29). Egypt is associated with idolatry and is the land from which God delivered the enslaved people of Israel. Where also their Lord was crucified, Jerusalem. 10: The prophets had been a torment, preaching an unpopular message of repentance. 11–12: The witnesses are brought back to life (cf. Ezek 37.5,10) and are taken to heaven (2 Kings 2.11). 12: Come up here, 4.1. 13: Gave glory to the God of heaven, a positive outcome of the great earthquake.

11.14–19: The seventh trumpet announces (v. 15) the consummation of God’s reign (10.7). 16: Elders, 4.4n.

and worshiped God, ¹⁷ singing, “We give you thanks, Lord God Almighty, who are and who were,
 for you have taken your great power and begun to reign.

¹⁸ The nations raged,
 but your wrath has come,
 and the time for judging the dead,
 for rewarding your servants,^a the prophets and saints and all who fear your name, both small and great,
 and for destroying those who destroy the earth.”

¹⁹ Then God’s temple in heaven was opened, and the ark of his covenant was seen within his temple; and there were flashes of lightning, rumblings, peals of thunder, an earthquake, and heavy hail.

12 A great portent appeared in heaven:
 a woman clothed with the sun, with the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars. ² She was pregnant and was crying out in birth pangs, in the agony of giving birth. ³ Then another portent appeared in heaven: a great red dragon, with seven heads and ten horns, and seven diadems on his heads. ⁴ His tail swept down a third of the stars of heaven and threw them to the earth. Then the dragon stood before the woman who was about to bear a child, so that he might devour her child as soon as it was born. ⁵ And she gave birth to a son, a male child, who is to rule^b all the nations with a rod of iron. But her child was snatched away and taken to God and to his throne; ⁶ and the woman fled into the wilderness, where she has a place prepared by God, so that there she can be nourished for one thousand two hundred sixty days.

⁷ And war broke out in heaven; Michael and his angels fought against the dragon. The dragon and his angels fought back, ⁸ but they

^a Gk slaves

^b Or to shepherd

17–18: A song of triumph. 19: Divine self-revelation concludes the vision of the seven trumpets and introduces the vision of ch 12. The ark of [the] covenant was constructed according to divine instruction at Mount Sinai (Ex 25.10–16) and eventually installed in the innermost room of the Temple by Solomon (1 Kings 8.1–12). It was presumably destroyed when the Babylonians captured Jerusalem in 586 BCE (but see 2 Macc 2.4–8).

12.1–17: The vision of the woman, the child, and the dragon is rich in symbolism drawn from mythological traditions found in ancient Babylonia, Egypt, Greece, and Rome, as well as in the Hebrew Bible. One well-known version of the story tells of the goddess Leto, pregnant with Apollo, who is menaced by the dragon Python, who pursues her because he knows that Apollo is destined to kill him (Hyginus, Fabulae 140). Here this material is reinterpreted in terms of Jewish traditions and expectations as the story of the birth of the messiah. 1: A great portent, a sign or omen in heaven that points to a momentous event on earth; see v. 3; 15.1; cf. Lk 21.11; Didache 16.6. The woman is unnamed, and her precise identity is uncertain. Many scholars understand her as the symbolic representation of Israel, from whom the messiah is born (v. 5); the twelve stars thus refer to the twelve tribes. Patristic and medieval Christian interpreters most often took her to be Mary the mother of Jesus, or sometimes the church. Elements of her description are characteristic of several ancient goddesses. 3: The dragon, identified in v. 9 as “the Devil” and “Satan,” is Leviathan, the great sea monster of Canaanite tradition and of the Hebrew Bible (Job 40.25; Isa 27.1), one name for the primeval watery chaos. Seven heads and ten horns, 13.1; 17.3; cf. Ps 74.13–14. These details are probably drawn from Dan 7.1–8, where they represent various empires and rulers; it is unclear what they symbolize here; cf. 17.9–10. 4: A third of the stars, a proportion analogous to the destruction caused by the trumpet plagues (8.7–9.19; Dan 8.10). Threw them to the earth, Dan 8.20. 5: Rule . . . with a rod of iron, an allusion to Ps 2.9, originally concerning the king of Israel, and interpreted as referring to a future anointed ruler (Pss. Sol. 17.23–24). The messianic child is snatched away and taken to God: The resurrection and exaltation of Jesus denies the demonic dragon victory over its prey. 6: The wilderness is a place where God provides refuge and sustenance amidst adversity (e.g., Gen 21.14–21; Deut 8.15–16; 29.5; 32.10; 1 Kings 17.1–2). One thousand, two hundred sixty days, the equivalent of “a time, and times, and half a time” (v. 14), “forty-two months” (cf. 11.2; 13.5), amounts to three and a half years. This symbolic number suggests a period of time limited by divine design. 7–12: The war in heaven and its outcome offers, in symbolic language, the reason for the persecution and oppression of believers (v. 17). 7: Michael, an archangel and the champion of Israel (Dan 10.13, 21; 12.1; Jude 9) engages in combat against the dragon and his angels (Dan 10.20). 8: Defeated . . .

were defeated, and there was no longer any place for them in heaven. ⁹The great dragon was thrown down, that ancient serpent, who is called the Devil and Satan, the deceiver of the whole world—he was thrown down to the earth, and his angels were thrown down with him.

¹⁰ Then I heard a loud voice in heaven, proclaiming,

“Now have come the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of his Messiah,^a for the accuser of our comrades^b has been thrown down,
who accuses them day and night before our God.

¹¹ But they have conquered him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, for they did not cling to life even in the face of death.

¹² Rejoice then, you heavens and those who dwell in them!
But woe to the earth and the sea,
for the devil has come down to you with great wrath, because he knows that his time is short!”

¹³ So when the dragon saw that he had been thrown down to the earth, he pursued^c the woman who had given birth to the male child. ¹⁴ But the woman was given the two wings of the great eagle, so that she could fly from the serpent into the wilderness, to her place where she is nourished for a time, and times, and half a time. ¹⁵ Then from his mouth the serpent poured water like a river after the woman, to sweep her away with the flood.

¹⁶ But the earth came to the help of the woman;
it opened its mouth and swallowed the river that the dragon had poured from his mouth.

¹⁷ Then the dragon was angry with the woman, and went off to make war on the rest of her children, those who keep the commandments of God and hold the testimony of Jesus.

¹⁸ Then the dragon^d took his stand on the 13 sand of the seashore. ¹ And I saw a beast rising out of the sea, having ten horns and seven heads; and on its horns were ten diadems, and on its heads were blasphemous names. ² And the beast that I saw was like a leopard, its feet were like a bear’s, and its mouth was like a lion’s mouth. And the dragon gave it his power and his throne and great authority. ³ One of its heads seemed to have received a death-blow, but its mortal wound^e had been healed. In amazement the whole earth followed the beast. ⁴ They worshiped the dragon, for he had given his authority to the beast, and they worshiped the beast, saying, “Who is like the beast, and who can fight against it?”

⁵ The beast was given a mouth uttering haughty and blasphemous words, and

^a Gk Christ

^b Gk brothers

^c Or persecuted

^d Gk Then he; other ancient authorities read Then I stood

^e Gk the plague of its death

in heaven, see 9.1–2. Both passages may allude to Isa 14.12–20. 9: Lk 10.18. That ancient serpent, see Gen 3.1–7; Isa 27.1. Satan means adversary, accuser (see Job 1.6–12; 2.1–7; Zech 3.1–2). The deceiver, 20.10. 10: The accuser, as in Job 1.9–11. 11: They have conquered, the paradoxical victory of the crucified Jesus (see 5.6–9n.) and of the martyrs, who were faithful unto death. 12: Rejoice, Ps 96.11; Isa 49.13. 14: Eagle, Ex 19.4; Deut 32.11. A time . . . half a time, see v. 6n. 15: Water . . . flood, the chaos of the primeval sea monster (Isa 27.1; Ps 74.13; see 12.3n.). 16: Earth helps the woman, as in Ex 15.12 the earth swallows up the pursuing Egyptian armies. 17: The frustrated dragon redirects its anger toward the rest of the woman’s children, namely, those who keep the commandments . . . and hold the testimony of Jesus (14.12).

12.18–13.18: The two beasts. 13.1–10: The beast from the sea combines the powers of the four beasts of Dan 7 and represents the Roman Empire, incited by the dragon (v. 2) to oppress the saints (v. 7). 1–2: Based on Dan 7.1–7; see also 12.3n. The sea, primeval chaos. Blasphemous names, Roman emperors were deified, and worshiped as gods. 3: Death-blow, perhaps an allusion to the assassination of Julius Caesar in 44 BCE, or a reference to the belief that the emperor Nero, who committed suicide in 68 CE, would be restored to life and rule (see 17.8n.). The mortal wound (to the beast as a whole) did not destroy the empire. Amazement, as of one captivated by a remarkable victory or portent (Jdt 11.16; 2 Esd 12.3). 5: The sovereignty of God, even amid the oppression of the

it was allowed to exercise authority for forty-two months.⁶ It opened its mouth to utter blasphemies against God, blaspheming his name and his dwelling, that is, those who dwell in heaven.⁷ Also it was allowed to make war on the saints and to conquer them.⁸ It was given authority over every tribe and people and language and nation,⁸ and all the inhabitants of the earth will worship it, everyone whose name has not been written from the foundation of the world in the book of life of the Lamb that was slaughtered.^b

⁹ Let anyone who has an ear listen:

¹⁰ If you are to be taken captive, into captivity you go;
if you kill with the sword,
with the sword you must be killed.

Here is a call for the endurance and faith of the saints.

¹¹ Then I saw another beast that rose out of the earth; it had two horns like a lamb and it spoke like a dragon.¹² It exercises all the authority of the first beast on its behalf, and it makes the earth and its inhabitants worship the first beast, whose mortal wound^c had been healed.¹³ It performs great signs, even making fire come down from heaven to earth in the sight of all;¹⁴ and by the signs that it is allowed to perform on behalf of the beast, it deceives the inhabitants of earth, telling them to make an image for the beast that had been wounded by the sword^d and yet lived;¹⁵ and it was allowed to give breath^e to the image of the beast so that the image of the beast could even speak and cause those who would not worship the image of the beast to be killed.¹⁶ Also it causes all, both small and great, both rich and poor, both free and slave, to be marked on the right hand or the forehead,¹⁷ so that no one can buy or sell who does not have the mark, that is, the name of the beast or the number of its name.¹⁸ This calls for wisdom: let anyone with understanding calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a person. Its number is six hundred sixty-six.^f

14 Then I looked, and there was the Lamb, standing on Mount Zion! And with him were one hundred forty-four thousand who had his name and his Father's name written

^a Other ancient authorities lack this sentence

^b Or written in the book of life of the Lamb that was slaughtered from the foundation of the world

^c Gk whose plague of its death

^d Or that had received the plague of the sword

^e Or spirit

^f Other ancient authorities read six hundred sixteen

faithful, is implied by the use of passive verbs here and in vv. 7:10,14,15 (cf. 6.4; see 17:17n.). Forty-two months, see 11.2n. 8: From the foundation of the world, this phrase would most naturally qualify slaughtered (see textual note b). A name can be removed from the book of life (3.5n.); later, judgment seems to depend on one's conduct of life (20.12). The translation here is a harmonization with 17.8. 10: Jer 15.2; 43.11; Mt 26.52. 11–18: The beast from the earth, associated with the false prophet (16.13; 19.20), enforces emperor worship (v. 12) and produces great signs (v. 13) or portents to deceive the people (v. 14); cf. Mt 24.24; 2 Thess 2.9–10. 14: The image, a statue of the deified emperor. 16–17: Marked in imitation of the sealing of God's servants (7.2–4). The mark of the beast (also 14.9,11; 16.2; 19.20; 20.4) is different from the seal of God with which the faithful are identified (7.3; 9.4). Those who do not bear the mark of the beast suffer economic oppression. Right hand . . . forehead, phylacteries or "tefillin" were worn on the left arm and forehead (Ep. Arist. 159; Josephus, Ant. 4.213). Egyptian Jews were branded by Ptolemy IV (3 Macc 2.28–29). 18: This calls for wisdom, Dan 12.10. The number of a person can be understood either as a number that stands for a specific person, or as a number that can be calculated by human beings, not a hidden number known only to God (cf. 21.17). In the ancient practice of gematria, the numerical equivalents of the letters of the Hebrew or Greek alphabets were added together, and the resulting sum was seen as giving a clue to the nature of the name. Thus the number of the beast (666) is the sum of the separate letters of its name. Of countless explanations, the most probable is "Neron Caesar" (in Hebrew letters), i.e., Emperor Nero, which, if spelled without the final "n", also accounts for the variant reading, 616 (see textual note f). +The number six represents what falls short of the number of completeness, seven.

14.1–20: A series of three visions intended to reassure the faithful of ultimate victory and vindication. 1–5: The Lamb and those redeemed from the earth; as in 7.4, the one hundred forty-four thousand is a symbolic expression. 1: Mount Zion, Jerusalem, the center of God's eschatological reign (Heb 12.22). Written on their foreheads, 7.3n.; 22.4.

on their foreheads. ² And I heard a voice from heaven like the sound of many waters and like the sound of loud thunder; the voice I heard was like the sound of harpists playing on their harps, ³ and they sing a new song before the throne and before the four living creatures and before the elders. No one could learn that song except the one hundred forty-four thousand who have been redeemed from the earth. ⁴ It is these who have not defiled themselves with women, for they are virgins; these follow the Lamb wherever he goes. They have been redeemed from humankind as first fruits for God and the Lamb, ⁵ and in their mouth no lie was found; they are blameless.

⁶ Then I saw another angel flying in midheaven, with an eternal gospel to proclaim to those who live^a on the earth—to every nation and tribe and language and people. ⁷ He said in a loud voice, “Fear God and give him glory, for the hour of his judgment has come; and worship him who made heaven and earth, the sea and the springs of water.”

⁸ Then another angel, a second, followed, saying, “Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great! She has made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.”

⁹ Then another angel, a third, followed them, crying with a loud voice, “Those who worship the beast and its image, and receive a mark on their foreheads or on their hands, ¹⁰ they will also drink the wine of God’s wrath, poured unmixed into the cup of his anger, and they will be tormented with fire and sulfur in the presence of the holy angels and in the presence of the Lamb. ¹¹ And the smoke of their torment goes up forever and ever. There is no rest day or night for those who worship the beast and its image and for anyone who receives the mark of its name.”

¹² Here is a call for the endurance of the saints, those who keep the commandments of God and hold fast to the faith of^b Jesus.

¹³ And I heard a voice from heaven saying, “Write this: Blessed are the dead who from now on die in the Lord.” “Yes,” says the Spirit, “they will rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them.”

¹⁴ Then I looked, and there was a white cloud, and seated on the cloud was one like the Son of Man, with a golden crown on his head, and a sharp sickle in his hand! ¹⁵ Another angel came out of the temple, calling with a loud voice to the one who sat on the cloud, “Use your sickle and reap, for the hour to reap has come, because the harvest of the earth is fully ripe.” ¹⁶ So the one who sat on the cloud swung his sickle over the earth, and the earth was reaped.

¹⁷ Then another angel came out of the temple in heaven, and he too had a sharp sickle.

¹⁸ Then another angel came out from the altar, the angel who has authority over fire, and he

^a Gk sit

^b Or to their faith in

2: Many waters, see 1.15n. 3: They, the one hundred forty-four thousand. New song, 5.8–10. Throne, 4.2n. Four living creatures, 4.6n. 4: They are virgins, a characterization of the one hundred forty-four thousand that may be understood metaphorically in terms of the sexual abstinence required before contact with the divine (Ex 19.15; Deut 23.10–14) and of warriors before battle (1 Sam 21.5; 2 Sam 11.9–13). These follow the Lamb, who is their shepherd (7.17). First fruits, Ex 23.19. No lie, cf. Zeph 3.13. 6–13: Three angels announce the coming judgment. 6: Flying in midheaven, 8.13. Eternal gospel, the message or proclamation that follows in v. 7, an announcement that God’s judgment is imminent. 7: Fear God, 15.4; Deut 10.12–15. Judgment, 16.7; 18.10; 19.2. Worship acknowledges God’s sovereignty over the cosmos as its Creator. 8: Fallen, fallen is Babylon (Isa 21.9) the great (Dan 4.30), an anticipation of 18.2. Babylon is a symbolic name for Rome (2 Esd 3.1–2). The association of the two is based on the destruction of Jerusalem by Babylon in 586 BCE and by Rome in 70 CE. The wine of the wrath, 18.3; Jer 51.7. 9–11: The sentence pronounced against those who worship the beast will be worse than what is suffered by those who do not worship it or bear its mark (13.15–17). 10: Wine of God’s wrath, Jer 25.15–16; 51.7. Unmixed, not diluted and therefore more potent (see 3 Macc 5.2). Wine was often mixed with water before being consumed. Fire and sulfur (19.20; 20.10; 21.8) are instruments of divine punishment (Gen 19.24; Ps 11.6; Ezek 38.22). Holy angels, Mk 8.38. 11: Smoke, 18.9,18; 19.3. 12: An exhortation to perseverance addressed to those against whom the dragon goes to make war in 12.17. 13: Blessed, see 1.3n. A promise assured by the Spirit. Their deeds, 2.2,19; 3.1,8,15. 14–20: The eschatological harvest, the final judgment of God (Joel 3.13), involves the ingathering of the saints by one like the Son of Man (vv. 14–16) and the assembling of the wicked for destruction (vv. 17–20). 14: White cloud . . . Son of Man, Dan 7.13; Mt 24.30; Mk 14.62. 15–16: A grain harvest. 18–20: A scene of the grape harvest and called with a loud voice to him who had the sharp sickle, “Use your sharp sickle and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for its grapes are ripe.”¹⁹ So the angel swung his sickle over the earth and gathered the vintage of the earth, and he threw it into the great wine press of the wrath of God.²⁰ And the wine press was trodden outside the city, and blood flowed from the wine press, as high as a horse’s bridle, for a distance of about two hundred miles.^a 15 Then I saw another portent in heaven, great and amazing: seven angels with seven plagues, which are the last, for with them the wrath of God is ended.

² And I saw what appeared to be a sea of glass mixed with fire, and those who had conquered the beast and its image and the number of its name, standing beside the sea of glass with harps of God in their hands.

³ And they sing the song of Moses, the servant^b of God, and the song of the Lamb:

“Great and amazing are your deeds,
Lord God the Almighty!
Just and true are your ways,
King of the nations!^c

⁴ Lord, who will not fear and glorify your name?
For you alone are holy.
All nations will come and worship before you,
for your judgments have been revealed.”

⁵ After this I looked, and the temple of the tent^d of witness in heaven was opened,
⁶ and out of the temple came the seven angels with the seven plagues, robed in pure bright linen,^e with golden sashes across their chests.

⁷ Then one of the four living creatures gave the seven angels seven golden bowls full of the wrath of God, who lives forever and ever;
⁸ and the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God and from his power, and no one could enter the temple until the seven plagues of the seven angels were ended.

16 Then I heard a loud voice from the temple telling the seven angels, “Go and pour out on the earth the seven bowls of the wrath of God.”

² So the first angel went and poured his bowl on the earth, and a foul and painful sore came on those who had the mark of the beast and who worshipped its image.

³ The second angel poured his bowl into the sea, and it became like the blood of a corpse, and every living thing in the sea died.

⁴ The third angel poured his bowl into the rivers and the springs of water, and they became blood.⁵ And I heard the angel of the waters say,

“You are just, O Holy One, who are and were,
for you have judged these things;
⁶ because they shed the blood of saints and prophets,

^a Gk one thousand six hundred stadia

^b Gk slave

^c Other ancient authorities read the ages

^d Or tabernacle

^e Other ancient authorities read stone

winemaking. 20: Metaphorically, wine is frequently associated with blood (Gen 49.11; Deut 32.14; Sir 39.26; 1 Macc 6.34). The enormous quantity of blood here suggests the vast extent of the divine judgment (cf. Isa 63.3–6). Mention of the horse’s bridle here foreshadows the combat in 19.11–21.

15.1–16.21: The seven bowls of the wrath of God.

15.1–8: The preparation for judgment. 1: Portent, a third heavenly sign (see 12.1n.,3). The wrath of God, 14.10,19; 15.1,7; 16.1; 19.15. Is ended, accomplished or come to its fulfillment. 15.2–4: Vision of the victorious martyrs in heaven (8.3–5). 2: Sea of glass, see 4.6n. 3–4: Song of Moses, see Ex 15.1–18; Deut 32. The hymn is actually a collage of phrases taken from many Jewish scriptures. 5: The temple of the tent of witness, the heavenly counterpart of the tent of witness that accompanied Israel’s journey through the desert (Num 9.15). Was opened, cf. 11.19. On opening the heavenly gates as a prelude to judgment, see 3 Macc 6.18–19. In Rome, the Temple of Janus was opened as a prelude to war (Virgil, Aeneid 1.294). 7: Golden bowls, libation vessels used in religious rituals. 8: Smoke, Ex 19.18; 40.34–35; Isa 6.1–4; cf. 1 Kings 8.10–11.

16.1–21: The pouring of the bowls (cf. chs 8–9, and the plagues inflicted on Egypt, Ex 7–12). 2: A foul and painful sore, Ex 9.8–12. 3–4: 8.8–9; Ex 7.14–24. 5–6: A judgment doxology; again it is a collage of phrases taken from different scriptures. 5: The angel that has control of the waters, implying a cosmology in which different angels preside over different elements of the universe (1 En. 60.10–22; Rev 7.1–2, winds; 14.18, fire). 6: Divine you have given them blood to drink.

It is what they deserve!”

⁷ And I heard the altar respond,

“Yes, O Lord God, the Almighty, your judgments are true and just!”

⁸ The fourth angel poured his bowl on the sun, and it was allowed to scorch people with fire; ⁹ they were scorched by the fierce heat, but they cursed the name of God, who had authority over these plagues, and they did not repent and give him glory.

¹⁰ The fifth angel poured his bowl on the throne of the beast, and its kingdom was plunged into darkness; people gnawed their tongues in agony, ¹¹ and cursed the God of heaven because of their pains and sores, and they did not repent of their deeds.

¹² The sixth angel poured his bowl on the great river Euphrates, and its water was dried up in order to prepare the way for the kings from the east. ¹³ And I saw three foul spirits like frogs coming from the mouth of the dragon, from the mouth of the beast, and from the mouth of the false prophet. ¹⁴ These are demonic spirits, performing signs, who go abroad to the kings of the whole world, to assemble them for battle on the great day of God the Almighty. ¹⁵ (“See, I am coming like a thief! Blessed is the one who stays awake and is clothed,^a not going about naked and exposed to shame.”) ¹⁶ And they assembled them at the place that in Hebrew is called Harmagedon.

¹⁷ The seventh angel poured his bowl into the air, and a loud voice came out of the temple, from the throne, saying, “It is done!” ¹⁸ And there came flashes of lightning, rumblings, peals of thunder, and a violent earthquake, such as had not occurred since people were upon the earth, so violent was that earthquake. ¹⁹ The great city was split into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell. God remembered great Babylon and gave her the wine-cup of the fury of his wrath. ²⁰ And every island fled away, and no mountains were to be found; ²¹ and huge hailstones, each weighing about a hundred pounds,^b dropped from heaven on people, until they cursed God for the plague of the hail, so fearful was that plague.

17 Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls came and said to me, “Come, I will show you the judgment of the great whore who is seated on many waters, ² with whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and with the wine of whose fornication the inhabitants of the earth have become drunk.” ³ So he carried me away in the spirit^c into a wilderness, and I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast that was full of blasphemous names, and it had seven heads and ten horns. ⁴ The woman was retribution (Isa 49.26). Blood to drink, cf. 17.6. 7: The altar, 6.9–11. 10: 8.12; Ex 10.21. Throne of the beast, 13.2. 12: Euphrates, see 9.14n. Kings from the east, perhaps a reference to the Parthians, who would be led by the Roman emperor Nero, whom it was thought would be restored to life; see 13.3n.; Sib. Or. 4.120,139. 13–14: Foul spirits like frogs, Ex 8.1–15. 14: Performing signs, 13.13. 15: Like a thief, see 3.3n. Blessed, see 1.3n. 16: They, the froglike spirits, emissaries of the demonic trio, that is, the dragon, the beast, and the false prophet. Harmagedon, spelled variously in the manuscripts with “gg” and/or “dd”; also “Armageddon.” This is likely an allusion to Megiddo, the site of several decisive battles in Israel’s history (Judg 5.19; 2 Kings 9.27; 2 Chr 35.22); in Heb “har Megiddo” means “the mountain of Megiddo.” Here it is the symbolic assembly point of the forces hostile to God as they prepare for the eschatological battle. 19: The great city, Rome. Great Babylon, 14.8. Wine-cup, 14.10. 21: Hail, 8.7; Ex 9.13–35; Wis 5.22.

^a Gk and keeps his robes

^b Gk weighing about a talent

^c Or in the Spirit

17.1–18.24: The fall of Babylon, which is Rome, the city on seven hills (17.9,18) and the leading persecutor of the saints (17.6).

17.1–18: The vision of the woman. 1: The great whore, a symbol that builds both on the fact that cities were grammatically gendered as feminine and on the Hebrew prophets’ metaphorical references to cities and nations as brides, wives, or harlots (e.g., Tyre in Isa 23.17–18). 2: Jer 51.7. Fornication, sexual misconduct applied metaphorically to the city’s international commercial and political dealings, which are judged illicit and unjust. 3: In the spirit, 1.10; 4.2; 21.10 (Ezek 2.2; 3.12,14,24). Into a wilderness, Isa 21.1–20. Scarlet beast, the Roman Empire (see 13.1n.). Blasphemous names, divine titles given to Roman emperors (see 13.1). 4: Gold and jewels and pearls, clothed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and jewels and pearls, holding in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the impurities of her fornication;⁵ and on her forehead was written a name, a mystery: “Babylon the great, mother of whores and of earth’s abominations.”⁶ And I saw that the woman was drunk with the blood of the saints and the blood of the witnesses to Jesus.

When I saw her, I was greatly amazed.

⁷ But the angel said to me, “Why are you so amazed? I will tell you the mystery of the woman, and of the beast with seven heads and ten horns that carries her.”⁸ The beast that you saw was, and is not, and is about to ascend from the bottomless pit and go to destruction. And the inhabitants of the earth, whose names have not been written in the book of life from the foundation of the world, will be amazed when they see the beast, because it was and is not and is to come.

⁹ “This calls for a mind that has wisdom: the seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman is seated; also, they are seven kings,¹⁰ of whom five have fallen, one is living, and the other has not yet come; and when he comes, he must remain only a little while.”¹¹ As for the beast that was and is not, it is an eighth but it belongs to the seven, and it goes to destruction.¹² And the ten horns that you saw are ten kings who have not yet received a kingdom, but they are to receive authority as kings for one hour, together with the beast.¹³ These are united in yielding their power and authority to the beast;¹⁴ they will make war on the Lamb, and the Lamb will conquer them, for he is Lord of lords and

King of kings, and those with him are called and chosen and faithful.”

¹⁵ And he said to me, “The waters that you saw, where the whore is seated, are peoples and multitudes and nations and languages.

¹⁶ And the ten horns that you saw, they and the beast will hate the whore; they will make her desolate and naked; they will devour her flesh and burn her up with fire.¹⁷ For God has put it into their hearts to carry out his purpose by agreeing to give their kingdom to the beast, until the words of God will be fulfilled.

¹⁸ The woman you saw is the great city that rules over the kings of the earth.”

18 After this I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority; and the earth was made bright with his splendor.² He called out with a mighty voice, “Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great!

It has become a dwelling place of demons,

a haunt of every foul spirit,
a haunt of every foul bird,
a haunt of every foul and hateful beast.^a

³ For all the nations have drunk^b of the wine of the wrath of her fornication,
and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her,

^a Other ancient authorities lack the words a haunt of every foul beast and attach the words and hateful to the previous line so as to read a haunt of every foul and hateful bird

^b Other ancient authorities read She has made all nations drink

18.16. 5: On her forehead, 13.16; 14.1; 20.4; 22.4. A mystery, indicating that the name is symbolic and that it requires interpretation, which the angel offers in vv. 7–18. Mother of whores, Hos 2.2–5. 6: Drunk with . . . blood, Ezek 39.19. Persecution took the form of exile (1.9), imprisonment (2.10), or death (2.10,13; 11.3). 8: The beast now probably represents the Roman emperor Nero, who was expected to return to life and power (v. 11). Was and is not and is to come, a parody of the designation of God in 1.4,8. Book of life, see 3.5n. 9: This calls for a mind that has wisdom, like the formula in 13.18, this expression introduces the interpretation of the symbolism of the preceding verses. The seven mountains are the seven hills of Rome. The seven kings are Roman emperors (cf. Dan 11.2; 2 Esd 12.22–26), whom interpreters have identified with various emperors from Julius Caesar to Domitian. 12: Ten horns represent subordinate or client rulers (Dan 7.7–8). 14: The eschatological victory of Jesus Christ. Lord of lords and king of kings, 19.16. 16: Ezek 23.26–29. 17: The ten kings are unwitting instruments of God’s will, fulfilling the divine plan (compare the passive verbs in 6.4; see 13.5n.). 18: An explicit identification of the woman of v. 1 as the great city, i.e., Rome.

18.1–24: Dirge over the fallen city (Rome), with echoes from the taunt songs in Isa 23–24; 47; Jer 50–51; Ezek 26–27. 1–3: Angelic announcement of judgment (14.8; Isa 21.9; Jer 50.39; 51.8). 1: The earth was made bright, Ezek 43.2. 2: A and the merchants of the earth have grown rich from the power^a of her luxury.”

⁴ Then I heard another voice from heaven saying,

“Come out of her, my people,
so that you do not take part in her sins, and so that you do not share in her plagues;

⁵ for her sins are heaped high as heaven,
and God has remembered her iniquities.

⁶ Render to her as she herself has rendered,
and repay her double for her deeds;
mix a double draught for her in the cup she mixed.

⁷ As she glorified herself and lived luxuriously,
so give her a like measure of torment and grief.

Since in her heart she says,

‘I rule as a queen;

I am no widow,
and I will never see grief,’

⁸ therefore her plagues will come in a single day—
pestilence and mourning and famine—and she will be burned with fire;
for mighty is the Lord God who judges her.”

⁹ And the kings of the earth, who committed fornication and lived in luxury with her, will weep and wail over her when they see the smoke of her burning; ¹⁰ they will stand far off, in fear of her torment, and say,

“Alas, alas, the great city,
Babylon, the mighty city!

For in one hour your judgment has come.”

¹¹ And the merchants of the earth weep and mourn for her, since no one buys their cargo anymore, ¹² cargo of gold, silver, jewels and pearls, fine linen, purple, silk and scarlet,
all kinds of scented wood, all articles of ivory, all articles of costly wood, bronze, iron, and marble, ¹³ cinnamon, spice, incense, myrrh, frankincense, wine, olive oil, choice flour and wheat, cattle and sheep, horses and chariots, slaves—and human lives.^b

¹⁴ “The fruit for which your soul longed has gone from you,
and all your dainties and your splendor are lost to you,
never to be found again!”

¹⁵ The merchants of these wares, who gained wealth from her, will stand far off, in fear of her torment, weeping and mourning aloud,

¹⁶ “Alas, alas, the great city, clothed in fine linen,
in purple and scarlet,
adorned with gold,
with jewels, and with pearls!

¹⁷ For in one hour all this wealth has been laid waste!”

And all shipmasters and seafarers, sailors and all whose trade is on the sea, stood far off ¹⁸ and cried out as they saw the smoke of her burning,

“What city was like the great city?”

¹⁹ And they threw dust on their heads, as they wept and mourned, crying out,

“Alas, alas, the great city, where all who had ships at sea grew rich by her wealth!

For in one hour she has been laid waste.”

²⁰ Rejoice over her, O heaven, you saints and apostles and prophets! For God has given judgment for you against her.

²¹ Then a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone and threw it into the sea,
saying,

“With such violence Babylon the great city will be thrown down,
and will be found no more;

²² and the sound of harpists and minstrels and of flutists and trumpeters
will be heard in you no more;
and an artisan of any trade

^a Or resources

^b Or chariots, and human bodies and souls dwelling place . . . a haunt, Isa 13.21–22. 4–8: Summons to God’s people to leave the doomed city; cf. Jer 51.45; Mt 24.16. 5: High as heaven, Jer 51.9. 6: Jer 50.29; cf. Isa 40.2. 9–20: Lamentations of those who have been enriched through their dealings with the corrupt city: kings (vv. 9–10), merchants (vv. 11–16), and mariners (vv. 17–20; cf. Ezek 27.29–36). 13: Slaves—and human lives, through the dehumanizing practice of slavery, the Roman imperial economy reduced people to mere commodities that could be bought and sold like any other merchandise. 20: Rejoice over her, Jer 51.48. 21–24: Symbolic action representing the total destruction of the city (Jer 51.63–64). 22: Sound will be found in you no more;

 and the sound of the millstone
 will be heard in you no more;
²³and the light of a lamp will shine in you no more;
 and the voice of bridegroom and bride
 will be heard in you no more;
 for your merchants were the magnates of the earth,
 and all nations were deceived by your sorcery.
²⁴And in you^a was found the blood of prophets and of saints, and of all who have been slaughtered on earth.”

19 After this I heard what seemed to be the loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, saying, “Hallelujah!
 Salvation and glory and power to our
 God, ²for his judgments are true and just;
 he has judged the great whore who corrupted the earth with her
 fornication,
 and he has avenged on her the blood of his servants.”^b
³Once more they said,
 “Hallelujah!
 The smoke goes up from her forever and ever.”
⁴And the twenty-four elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God who is seated on the throne, saying, “Amen. Hallelujah!”
⁵And from the throne came a voice saying, “Praise our God,
 all you his servants,^b and all who fear him, small and great.”

⁶Then I heard what seemed to be the voice of a great multitude, like the sound of many waters and like the sound of mighty thunder-peals, crying out,

“Hallelujah!
 For the Lord our God
 the Almighty reigns.

⁷Let us rejoice and exult and give him the glory,
 for the marriage of the Lamb has come,
 and his bride has made herself ready;

⁸to her it has been granted to be clothed with fine linen, bright and pure”— for the fine linen is the righteous deeds of the saints.

⁹And the angel said^c to me, “Write this:
 Blessed are those who are invited to the marriage supper of the Lamb.” And he said to me, “These are true words of God.”¹⁰Then I fell down at his feet to worship him, but he said to me, “You must not do that! I am a fellow servant^d with you and your comrades^e who hold the testimony of Jesus.^f Worship God! For the testimony of Jesus^f is the spirit of prophecy.”

¹¹Then I saw heaven opened, and there was a white horse! Its rider is called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he judges and makes war.¹²His eyes are like a flame of fire, and on his head are many diadems; and he has a name inscribed that no one knows but himself.¹³He is clothed in a robe dipped in^g

^a Gk her

^b Gk slaves

^c Gk he said

^d Gk slave

^e Gk brothers

^f Or to Jesus

^g Other ancient authorities read sprinkled with

of harpists, Jer 25.10; Ezek 26.13. 24: Blood of prophets, Mt 23.34–35; Lk 11.49–51; 13.33–34.

19.1–10: Doxology giving praise to God for the destruction of Rome (vv. 1–5) and for the marriage of the Lamb (vv. 6–9). 1: Hallelujah, Heb for “Praise the Lord,” as in Pss 104.25; 106.1; 111.1; etc. 3: Smoke . . . forever, i.e., destruction never to be rebuilt. 4: See 4.4, 6. 5: Ps 115.13. 7: His bride, the new Jerusalem (21.2, 9). 8: Fine linen, in contrast to the attire of Babylon (17.4). 9: Blessed, see 1.3n. 10: Only God is the appropriate object of worship (cf. 22.8–9).

19.11–21: The victory of Jesus Christ and the heavenly armies over the beast and its cohorts. 11: Heaven opened, Ezek 1.1. In righteousness he judges, Isa 11.4. 12: Many diadems, in contrast to the diadems of the dragon (12.3). A name . . . that no one knows, because the name stands for a person, knowledge of a name confers power over the person. That his name is known only to himself implies that Jesus’s power is sovereign and unlimited (cf. 2.17). 13: Robe dipped in blood, see Isa 63.1–3. As revealer of God Jesus is called The Word of God (Jn 1.1, 14). 14:

blood, and his name is called The Word of God.¹⁴ And the armies of heaven, wearing fine linen, white and pure, were following him on white horses.¹⁵ From his mouth comes a sharp sword with which to strike down the nations, and he will rule^a them with a rod of iron; he will tread the wine press of the fury of the wrath of God the Almighty.¹⁶ On his robe and on his thigh he has a name inscribed, “King of kings and Lord of lords.”

¹⁷ Then I saw an angel standing in the sun, and with a loud voice he called to all the birds that fly in midheaven, “Come, gather for the great supper of God,¹⁸ to eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of captains, the flesh of the mighty, the flesh of horses and their riders—flesh of all, both free and slave, both small and great.”¹⁹ Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth with their armies gathered to make war against the rider on the horse and against his army.²⁰ And the beast was captured, and with it the false prophet who had performed in its presence the signs by which he deceived those who had received the mark of the beast and those who worshiped its image. These two were thrown alive into the lake of fire that burns with sulfur.²¹ And the rest were killed by the sword of the rider on the horse, the sword that came from his mouth; and all the birds were gorged with their flesh.

20 Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven, holding in his hand the key to the bottomless pit and a great chain.² He seized the dragon, that ancient serpent, who is the Devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years,³ and threw him into the pit, and locked and sealed it over him, so that he would deceive the nations no more, until the thousand years were ended. After that he must be let out for a little while.

⁴ Then I saw thrones, and those seated on them were given authority to judge. I also saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for their testimony to Jesus^b and for the word of God. They had not worshiped the beast or its image and had not received its mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ a thousand years.⁵ (The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were ended.) This is the first resurrection.⁶ Blessed and holy are those who share in the first resurrection. Over these the second death has no power, but they will be priests of God and of Christ, and they will reign with him a thousand years.

^a Or will shepherd

^b Or for the testimony of Jesus

Armies, the angelic host (see Lk 2.13 note c). Fine linen, 19.8. 15: 1.16; 2.12,16; 19.21; Ps 2.9. 16: 17.14; Deut 10.17. 17–18: An angel summons the birds of prey (Ezek 39.4,17–20). 17: The great supper of God, in gruesome contrast to the “marriage feast of the Lamb” (v. 9). 19–21: The final battle between Jesus and the beast (anticipated in 16.13–16). 20: The beast, the first beast, introduced in 13.1–8. The false prophet is the second beast of 13.11–15. The lake of fire, see 14.10n.; 20.10,14–15; 21.8; Dan 7.11. Sulfur was well known in the ancient world as a noxious substance; it was used to render land infertile (Deut 29.23; Job 18.15), and burning sulfur symbolized God’s judgment (Gen 19.24; Ps 11.6; Ezek 38.22). See 9.17; 14.10; 20.10; 21.8. 21: The sword of the rider . . . the sword that came from his mouth, suggesting that the victory is won not by violence but by “The Word of God” (v. 13).

20.1–10: The defeat of Satan.

20.1–6: The temporary imprisonment of Satan and the reign of Christ and the martyrs. 1: Chain, 2 Pet 2.4; Jude 6. 2–3: The period of a thousand years is symbolic both here and in vv. 4–7, suggesting a temporary time of righteousness and tranquility before the final eschatological consummation. Cf. Ps 90.4; as the eternal time of blessing in Jub. 4:29–30; 23.27–30; a time far greater than the ten days during which the saints endured trials (2.10). 2: The dragon . . . serpent . . . Devil . . . Satan, 12.9n. 3: Satan is locked into the pit to prevent him from carrying out his demonic work as “the deceiver of the whole world” (12.9). After the thousand years, though, he must be let out for a little while, but even this limited period is under God’s control (Dan 7.25). 4: Thrones of judgment (Dan 7.9,22,27; Mt 19.28; Lk 22.30). Those . . . beheaded for their testimony, martyrs (in 6.9–10 the souls of the martyrs, under the altar, cry for vengeance). Its mark, 13.16–17; 14.9. Reigned with Christ a thousand years, this passage, which gave rise to Christian millennialism, suggests an interim messianic kingdom. 6: Blessed, see 1.3n. Priests, 1.6; 5.10; Ex 19.6. Second death, see 2.11n.; 20.14; 21.8.

⁷ When the thousand years are ended, Satan will be released from his prison ⁸ and will come out to deceive the nations at the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, in order to gather them for battle; they are as numerous as the sands of the sea. ⁹ They marched up over the breadth of the earth and surrounded the camp of the saints and the beloved city. And fire came down from heaven^a and consumed them. ¹⁰ And the devil who had deceived them was thrown into the lake of fire and sulfur, where the beast and the false prophet were, and they will be tormented day and night forever and ever.

¹¹ Then I saw a great white throne and the one who sat on it; the earth and the heaven fled from his presence, and no place was found for them. ¹² And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Also another book was opened, the book of life. And the dead were judged according to their works, as recorded in the books. ¹³ And the sea gave up the dead that were in it, Death and Hades gave up the dead that were in them, and all were judged according to what they had done. ¹⁴ Then Death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. This is the second death, the lake of fire; ¹⁵ and anyone whose name was not found written in the book of life was thrown into the lake of fire.

21 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. ² And I saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. ³ And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, “See, the home^b of God is among mortals.

He will dwell^c with them;

they will be his peoples,^d

and God himself will be with them;^e

⁴ he will wipe every tear from their eyes.

Death will be no more;

mourning and crying and pain will be no more,

for the first things have passed away.”

⁵ And the one who was seated on the throne said, “See, I am making all things new.” Also he said, “Write this, for these words are trustworthy and true.” ⁶ Then he said to me, “It is done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. To the thirsty I will give water as a gift from the spring of the water of life. ⁷ Those who conquer will inherit these things, and I will be their God and they will be my children.

⁸ But as for the cowardly, the faithless,^f the polluted, the murderers, the fornicators, the sorcerers, the idolaters, and all liars, their

^a Other ancient authorities read from God, out of heaven, or out of heaven from God

^b Gk the tabernacle

^c Gk will tabernacle

^d Other ancient authorities read people

^e Other ancient authorities add and be their God

^f Or the unbelieving

20.7–10: The release of Satan and the final conflict. Gog and Magog, gathering with the nations for war against Israel in Ezek 38–39 (a prophecy alluded to in 16.14–16 and 19.17–21). 9: The beloved city, Jerusalem (Sir 24.11) or the city representing the whole land (Ezek 38.11 [LXX]). Fire, Ezek 38.22; 39.6; 2 Kings 1.9–12. 10: Was thrown into the lake of fire, the final overthrow of Satan (T. Jud. 25.3).

20.11–15: The last judgment. 11: The great white throne, 4.2; 20.4. 12: Books of deeds, ledgers that record what everyone has done (Dan 7.10). The book of life is distinguished from the books of deeds just opened (see 3.5n). Judged according to their works, Mt 16.27; Rom 2.6; 2 Cor 5.10. 13–14: Personified Death and Hades (see 1.18n.; 6.8n.) are the last enemies to be defeated. 14: The second death, see 2.11n.; Mt 25.41.

21.1–22.5: Vision of the new Jerusalem.

21.1–8: The renewal of creation. 1: A new heaven and a new earth, Isa 65.17; 66.22. All creation will be renewed, freed from imperfections, and transformed by God (Rom 8.19–21). The sea, the primeval force of turbulence and unrest (Gen 1.2; Ps 29.3,10), ceases to exist. 2: New Jerusalem, 21.9–10; Heb 11.10. Coming down out of heaven, 3.12; Gal 4.26; 2 Esd 13.35–36. Prepared as a bride, 19.7–9; Isa 61.10. The image of the eschatological Jerusalem as a bride contrasts with the image of Rome as the whore Babylon in chs 17–18. 3: Ezek 37.27. 4: 7.16; Isa 25.8; 35.10. 5: The speaker here is God (1.8). 6: Alpha and Omega, see 1.8n. Water of life, Isa 55.1; Jn 4.13; 7.37. 7: Those who conquer, compare the concluding words of each of the seven messages in chs 2 and 3. 8: Polluted, . . .

place will be in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death.”

⁹ Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls full of the seven last plagues came and said to me, “Come, I will show you the bride, the wife of the Lamb.”

¹⁰ And in the spirit^a he carried me away to a great, high mountain and showed me the holy city Jerusalem coming down out of heaven from God. ¹¹ It has the glory of God and a radiance like a very rare jewel, like jasper, clear as crystal. ¹² It has a great, high wall with twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and on the gates are inscribed the names of the twelve tribes of the Israelites; ¹³ on the east three gates, on the north three gates, on the south three gates, and on the west three gates. ¹⁴ And the wall of the city has twelve foundations, and on them are the twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

¹⁵ The angel^b who talked to me had a measuring rod of gold to measure the city and its gates and walls. ¹⁶ The city lies foursquare, its length the same as its width; and he measured the city with his rod, fifteen hundred miles;^c its length and width and height are equal. ¹⁷ He also measured its wall, one hundred forty-four cubits^d by human measurement, which the angel was using. ¹⁸ The wall is built of jasper, while the city is pure gold, clear as glass. ¹⁹ The foundatations of the wall of the city are adorned with every jewel; the first was jasper, the second sapphire, the third agate, the fourth emerald,²⁰ the fifth onyx, the sixth carnelian, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chryso-prase, the eleventh jacinth, the twelfth amethyst. ²¹ And the twelve gates are twelve pearls, each of the gates is a single pearl, and the street of the city is pure gold, transparent as glass.

²² I saw no temple in the city, for its temple is the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb.

²³ And the city has no need of sun or moon to shine on it, for the glory of God is its light, and its lamp is the Lamb. ²⁴ The nations will walk by its light, and the kings of the earth will bring their glory into it. ²⁵ Its gates will never be shut by day—and there will be no night there. ²⁶ People will bring into it the glory and the honor of the nations. ²⁷ But nothing unclean will enter it, nor anyone who practices abomination or falsehood, but only those who are written in the Lamb’s book of life.

^a Or in the Spirit

^b Gk He

^c Gk twelve thousand stadia

^d That is, almost seventy-five yards murderers . . . idolaters, a list of vices, commonly associated with idolatry (Ps 106.36–38), which also threaten the churches (2.14,20–21). The second death, contrasted to the water of life in v. 6 (see 2.11n.).

21.9–27: The measuring of the city. Cf. Ezek 40–42. The measurements of the city (which are multiples of 12) are symbolic. 9: The seven bowls, see ch 16. The bride, the wife of the Lamb, 19.7; 21.2. Israel is portrayed as the bride of God in Isa 54.5; Hos 2.19–20; the antithesis of Babylon in 17.1–3. 10: In the spirit, see 1.10n. High mountain, Ezek 40.2. Jerusalem . . . out of heaven, v. 2n. 11: Jasper, 4.3; glory of God (Ezek 43.2–5). 12: Ezek 48.30–34. 14: See Eph 2.20. Twelve apostles added to the twelve tribes of Israel yields the symbolic number twenty-four (4.3–4). 15–18: The city that lies foursquare, i.e., with streets that intersect at right angles, unlike the irregular walls of many ancient cities (Ezek 42.20). The cube is a perfect, symmetrical shape (for the ideal Temple as a square, see Ezek 40.5; 45.1–5). This description of a city with a river running through it resembles ancient accounts of Babylon (Herodotus, Hist. 1.178–79). The precious stones, with the names of the twelve tribes, adorned the high priest’s breastplate (Ex 28.17–20). 19: Isa 54.11–12. 21: The street of the city is pure gold, even more impressive than stone-paved Roman roads. 22–23: Unlike the cities of the Roman province of Asia, where monumental temples to the deified emperor reminded the population of the pervasive power of the distant imperial capital, in the new Jerusalem no temple . . . no . . . sun will be needed because the presence and glory of God pervade the entire community (Isa 24.23; 60.1,19; 2 Esd 7.39–42). Its lamp is the Lamb, Ps 132.17. 25: City gates would be closed at night and at the approach of enemies; perpetually open gates symbolize complete safety and security; see Isa 60.11; Zech 14.7; 1QM 12.13–15. 27: Book of life, see 3.5n.

22 Then the angel^a showed me the river of the water of life, bright as crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb² through the middle of the street of the city. On either side of the river is the tree of life^b with its twelve kinds of fruit, producing its fruit each month; and the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations.³ Nothing accursed will be found there any more. But the throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants^c will worship him; ⁴ they will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads.⁵ And there will be no more night; they need no light of lamp or sun, for the Lord God will be their light, and they will reign forever and ever.

⁶ And he said to me, “These words are trustworthy and true, for the Lord, the God of the spirits of the prophets, has sent his angel to show his servants^c what must soon take place.”

⁷ “See, I am coming soon! Blessed is the one who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book.”

⁸ I, John, am the one who heard and saw these things. And when I heard and saw them, I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who showed them to me; ⁹ but he said to me, “You must not do that! I am a fellow servant^d with you and your comrades^e the prophets, and with those who keep the words of this book. Worship God!”

¹⁰ And he said to me, “Do not seal up the words of the prophecy of this book, for the time is near. ¹¹ Let the evildoer still do evil, and the filthy still be filthy, and the righteous still do right, and the holy still be holy.”

¹² “See, I am coming soon; my reward is with me, to repay according to everyone’s work. ¹³ I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end.”

¹⁴ Blessed are those who wash their robes,^f so that they will have the right to the tree of life and may enter the city by the gates. ¹⁵ Outside are the dogs and sorcerers and fornicators and murderers and idolaters, and everyone who loves and practices falsehood.

¹⁶ “It is I, Jesus, who sent my angel to you with this testimony for the churches. I am the root and the descendant of David, the bright morning star.”

¹⁷ The Spirit and the bride say, “Come.” And let everyone who hears say, “Come.” And let everyone who is thirsty come. Let anyone who wishes take the water of life as a gift.

^a Gk he

^b Or the Lamb. ²In the middle of the street of the city, and on either side of the river, is the tree of life

^c Gk slaves

^d Gk slave

^e Gk brothers

^f Other ancient authorities read do his commandments

22.1–5: The river and the tree of life. 1: The river, cf. Gen 2.10; Ps 46.4; Ezek 47.1; Zech 14.8. 2: The tree, a collective reference to many trees on either side of the river (Ezek 47.12; see 2.7n.). 3: The throne of God and of the Lamb is one throne, 3.21. 4: To see God’s face, full awareness of God’s immediate presence (Job 33.26; Ps 10.11; 42.2), an eschatological blessing (Ps 84.7; Mt 5.8; 1 Jn 3.2). On their foreheads, see 7.3n.; 14.1; contrast 13.16; 17.5. 5: Those who worship God (v. 3) will reign with God in eternal triumph (Dan 7.18,27).

22.6–21: Epilogue, consisting of warnings and exhortations. 6: He said, an angel (v. 8), perhaps the one referred to in 1.1. These words, the contents of this book. The God of the spirits of the prophets, the one who inspired the spirits of the prophets (1QH 20.11–13). 7: A parenthesis, reporting the words of Jesus (cf. 16.15). Blessed, see 1.3n. 8–9: 19.10. 10: Do not seal, cf. Isa 8.16; Dan 12.4. This book is to remain unsealed because the end is imminent. 12: My reward is with me, Isa 40.10; Jer 17.10. 13: Jesus applies God’s title to himself (see 1.8n.). 14: Blessed, the seventh beatitude of the book; see 1.3n. Wash, 7.14. The city, the heavenly Jerusalem. 15: A list of those who are not permitted to enter the city, characterized generally as everyone who loves and practices falsehood. 16: Root . . . of David, Isa 11.1,10; Mt 1.1. Morning star, see 2.28n. 17: The bride, 21.2,9. Come, singular in Gk, is addressed to ¹⁸ I warn everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: if anyone adds to them, God will add to that person the plagues described in this book; ¹⁹ if anyone takes away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God will take away that person's share in the tree of life and in the holy city, which are described in this book.

²⁰ The one who testifies to these things says, "Surely I am coming soon."

Amen. Come, Lord Jesus!

²¹ The grace of the Lord Jesus be with all the saints. Amen.^a

^a Other ancient authorities lack all; others lack the saints; others lack Amen

Jesus, as in v. 20. 18–19: A stern warning against altering the teachings of this book (cf. Deut 4.2; 12.21). 20: The one who testifies, Jesus Christ; see 1.2. Amen. Come, Lord Jesus, a response, with liturgical echoes (1 Cor 16.22), to surely I am coming soon. 21: An epistolary postscript, corresponding to the epistolary salutation in 1.4–8.

ESSAYS

TABLES

BIBLIOGRAPHY

GLOSSARY

INDEX

THE CANONS OF THE BIBLE

THE HEBREW BIBLE

Different religious communities have different Bibles. Most significantly, the Christian Bible includes the New Testament while the Jewish Bible does not. But even collections that at first seem shared between communities, upon closer inspection are not. For example, the Jewish Hebrew Bible and the Christian Old Testament are not identical, and different Christians have different Old Testaments (see chart on p. 1839). The following discussion will explain, within the limits of what scholars now know, how the Bible came into being within the Jewish and Christian communities.

DEFINITIONS

“Canon,” a Greek word meaning “reed,” came to refer to any straight stick that could be used for measuring. This basic meaning was extended to refer to any rule or standard by which things could be compared or judged. The Alexandrian grammarians, classical Greek writers from Alexandria, Egypt, who were also literary critics, used “canon” as their term for the list of standard or classic authors who were worthy of attention and imitation (e.g., Homer’s Iliad and Odyssey). This was not a closed category, and ancient authorities debated adding or removing works from the list. Inclusion on a list recognized a work’s quality or central importance, but did not confer upon it any new status.

When used with reference to the Bible, canon has come to have a different connotation: It marks a closed, unchangeable set of texts of central religious significance. Other, noncanonical texts are relegated to a lesser role. A more radical notion of religious canon, expressed in a rabbinic comment on Eccl 12.12, suggests that the Bible (with its interpretation) is the single sufficient text for the religious community. The biblical text reads:

Of anything beyond these [Heb mehemah], my child, beware. Of making many books there is no end.

The rabbinic comment states:

Those who bring more than twenty-four books [the standard number in the Hebrew Bible; see below] into their house introduce confusion [Heb mehumah] into their house (Ecclesiastes Rabbah 12.12).

THE HEBREW BIBLE

Unlike the canonization of the New Testament, which took place at a series of councils or synods, the process of the canonization of the Hebrew Bible is obscure and unattested in contemporaneous sources. Much of the material from early Jewish sources (for instance, the Dead Sea Scrolls, the first-century CE historian Josephus, and rabbinic texts,) and early Christian sources (for instance, the New Testament and church fathers) is ambiguous and conflicting, and does not offer a clear picture of how the Hebrew Bible came into being. Until the mid-twentieth century, many scholars thought that the Hebrew Bible was canonized in the same fashion as the New Testament, and they posited an early rabbinic council at Jabneh (Jamnia), a city near the Mediterranean coast, west of Jerusalem, which was a center of Jewish learning after the destruction of the Second Temple (70 CE). According to this theory, a group of rabbis met there in about 90 CE and voted on whether certain books were canonical; at the end of this meeting, the official contents of the Hebrew Bible were established for perpetuity. This reconstruction is now recognized as based on a misunderstanding of rabbinic texts and an improper analogy between how the New Testament and the Hebrew Bible canons were formed. In fact, some scholars prefer not to use in reference to the Hebrew Bible the word “canon,” which derives from New Testament studies, preferring to speak instead of how the Hebrew Bible became the Hebrew Bible. Scholars have also emphasized that it is improper to speak of the (Hebrew) Bible until after it was firmly and finally canonized; for that reason, the remainder of this essay will use quotation marks around “(Hebrew) Bible” when referring to the early centuries of the Common Era; this is as a shorthand to refer to the books or the collection that later became the Hebrew Bible.

The Hebrew Bible did not develop at a single moment in time but rather in stages. Most scholars agree that the Torah or Pentateuch (the five books from Genesis through Deuteronomy) functioned as the earliest Jewish “Bible,” though exactly when this happened is uncertain. Many scholars had associated this development with Ezra, and they saw the “law of your God” (Ezra 7.14), with which Ezra was entrusted in the fifth century BCE, as the Pentateuch. We now recognize, however, that this assertion goes beyond the evidence. Though the Jewish community had recognized the Torah as central by the Persian period (sixth to fourth centuries BCE), a conclusion suggested by citations of Torah material in “biblical” books from this period (e.g., Chronicles, Ezra-Nehemiah), it is unclear exactly how this happened, or whether this development should be associated primarily with a single individual such as Ezra, or should be seen as part of a larger, more complicated process.

According to rabbinic tradition, the Torah is the first part of a tripartite (three-part) canon, followed by Nevi'im (prophets) and Ketuvim (writings), forming a work that much later was known by the acronym Tanak(h), Torah, Nevi'im, Ketuvim. Nevi'im is composed of Joshua, Judges, Samuel (seen as one book), Kings (seen as one book)—historical works known as “the former prophets”—and “the latter prophets,” consisting of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve minor (i.e., shorter) prophets (Hosea through Malachi, seen as one book). The order of these eight books has been relatively stable. Ketuvim is comprised of the following eleven books, which, by contrast, appear in a wide variety of orders in various book lists and biblical manuscripts: Psalms, Proverbs, Job; the “five scrolls” (“Megillot”) whose order has been especially variable, Ruth, Song of Solomon, Ecclesiastes, Lamentations, and Esther; Daniel, Ezra-Nehemiah (seen as one book), and Chronicles (seen as one book). The number of canonical books according to traditional Jewish sources is thus twenty-four (five in the Torah, eight in Nevi'im, eleven in Ketuvim).

The origin of the tripartite canon has been a topic of debate, with several scholars suggesting that it developed from a two-part structure comprised of the Torah and other works. This bipartite structure may be reflected, e.g., in Mt 7.12 (cf. 11.13), which refers to “the law and the prophets,” where the later category may refer to all books outside the Torah. On the other hand, evidence for the tripartite canon may appear in such sources as Lk 24.44, which refers to “the law of Moses, the prophets, and the psalms,” where “psalms” may be shorthand for Ketuvim, and in a possible parallel expression in the Dead Sea Scrolls. The tripartite canon may reflect the canonization process, with Nevi'im canonized before Ketuvim. This would explain why the Ketuvim contain the book of Daniel (dating from the second century BCE), and several late historical books, such as Ezra-Nehemiah and Chronicles, which would seem more appropriately to belong with similar works such as Joshua and Kings. According to this model, the Torah was canonized in the Persian period, followed by the canonization of Nevi'im in the late Persian or early Greek period, while the Ketuvim were canonized last, perhaps around the time of the destruction of the Second Temple (70 CE).

Different canons, and different organizations of the canon, existed in the first centuries of the Common Era. Josephus refers to twenty-two biblical books (Ag. Ap. 1.42). It is not clear if he simply had a smaller canon or if, instead, his canon had the texts in a different order, combined in different ways, perhaps following a tradition found in the Septuagint (see “Canons of the Bible,” on the Greek Bible, p. 1840), which places Ruth after Judges and Lamentations after Jeremiah, treating these smaller books as appendixes to the ones they follow. Such an arrangement would yield twenty-two books, a number that conveniently corresponds to the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet. According to this tradition, mentioned by some early church fathers and reflected in the arrangement of the earliest comprehensive Septuagint manuscripts (fourth century CE), the Hebrew Bible is divided into four parts: Torah, Histories, Poetical and Wisdom Books, and Prophets (see the Introduction to the Poetical and Wisdom Books, p. 729). This order continues to be used by Christians in their organization of the Old Testament. Older scholarship spoke of this four-part, twenty-two-book arrangement as the Alexandrian canon, in contrast to the tripartite, twenty-four-book Palestinian canon, but the association of this structure specifically with the Jewish community in Alexandria is now disputed.

It is difficult to know if the Dead Sea Scroll community had a conception of Bible—they do not, for example, use the earliest rabbinic term for the Bible, “holy writings” (cf. Rom 1.2). No copy of Esther has survived among the thousands of fragments discovered there, while many manuscripts of Jubilees, a reworking of Genesis and part of Exodus, have survived. Given this work’s affinities with the practices of the Dead Sea community, and the fact that it is cited in the same way that texts that would later be biblical are cited, it probably had within that community the same status as “biblical” books. Within rabbinic literature, the Wisdom of Jesus ben Sirach (Sirach or Ecclesiasticus) is sometimes cited with the same formula used for texts that we consider biblical texts, suggesting that it had the same status for some rabbis as those texts; Sirach is also found at Qumran and Masada. This evidence all implies that Judaism writ large did not have a single canon at this period, and that at least through the early first millennium CE, different Jewish groups had different “Bibles,” with different contents in different orders. It is even possible that the Jewish canon was finalized after the Christian canon was determined, in reaction to that development.

This flexibility was not only in what comprised “the Bible” but in what the biblical text itself looked like. Manuscripts from Qumran, from translations of the Hebrew Bible in the Septuagint and elsewhere, and to a lesser extent from early rabbinic citations, differ from each other and from the later “official” Hebrew Bible text, the Masoretic Text (MT). These differences are sometimes small, such as variant spellings, but are often major and affect the meaning of the text. Some books are found in two or more different recensions—identifiably different versions, which may vary the order of materials, may exhibit fundamentally different text-types (e.g., short types

CANONS OF THE HEBREW BIBLE
JEWISH CANON	PROTESTANT CANON	ROMAN CATHOLIC/ORTHODOX CANON
Torah (LAW)	PENTATEUCH	PENTATEUCH
Genesis	Genesis	Genesis
Exodus	Exodus	Exodus
Leviticus	Leviticus	Leviticus
Numbers	Numbers	Numbers
Deuteronomy	Deuteronomy	Deuteronomy
Nevi'im (PROPHETS)	HISTORIES	HISTORIES
FORMER PROPHETS	Joshua	Joshua
Joshua	Judges	Judges
Judges	Ruth	Ruth
Samuel (1 & 2)	1 & 2 Samuel	1 & 2 Samuel
Kings (1 & 2)	1 & 2 Kings	1 & 2 Kings
	1 & 2 Chronicles	1 & 2 Chronicles
LATTER PROPHETS	Ezra	Ezra
Isaiah	Nehemiah	Nehemiah
Jeremiah	Esther	Tobit
Ezekiel		Judith
The Twelve	POETICAL/WISDOM BOOKS	Esther
Hosea	Job	1 & 2 Maccabees
Joel	Psalms
Amos	Proverbs	POETICAL/WISDOM BOOKS
Obadiah	Ecclesiastes	Job
Jonah	Song of Solomon	Psalms
Micah		Proverbs
Nahum	PROPHETS	Ecclesiastes
Habakkuk	Isaiah	Song of Solomon
Zephaniah	Jeremiah	Wisdom of Solomon
Haggai	Lamentations	Sirach
Zechariah	Ezekiel
Malachi	Daniel	PROPHETS
	Hosea	Isaiah
Ketubim (WRITINGS)	Joel	Jeremiah
Psalms	Amos	Lamentations
Proverbs	Obadiah	Baruch
Job	Jonah	Ezekiel
(Five Scrolls):	Micah	Daniel
Song of Solomon	Nahum	Hosea
Ruth	Habakkuk	Joel
Lamentations	Zephaniah	Amos
Ecclesiastes	Haggai	Obadiah
Esther	Zechariah	Jonah
Daniel	Malachi	Micah
Ezra-Nehemiah		Nahum
Chronicles (1 & 2)	THE APOCRYPHA	Habakkuk
	1 & 2 Esdras	Zephaniah
The Hebrew Bible has no Apocrypha	Tobit	Haggai
	Judith	Zechariah
	Esther (with additions)	Malachi
	Wisdom of Solomon
	Ecclesiasticus (Sirach)	Orthodox Canons generally include
	Baruch	1 & 2 Esdras
	Letter of Jeremiah (Baruch ch 6)	Prayer of Manasseh
	Prayer of Azariah and Song of Three	Psalm 151
	Daniel and Susanna	3 Maccabees
	Daniel, Bel, & Snake	4 Maccabees (as an Appendix)
	Prayer of Manasseh
	1 & 2 Maccabees

versus expansive types, as with the text of Jeremiah; see the Introduction to Jeremiah, p. 1069), and may contain blocks of material not found in the MT (e.g., the Greek versions of Esther and Daniel). The types of rabbinic exposition that paid a great deal of attention to the exact spelling of the individual word would eventually bring about textual stability, though here too this was a gradual process, and the means by which it was accomplished—through which “alternative” versions were suppressed—are largely unknown.

Canonization is fundamentally a process of selection, but we cannot reconstruct why particular texts were canonized while others were not. The Hebrew Bible itself mentions more than twenty books that are no longer extant, such as The Book of the Wars of the Lord and the Book of Jashar; many others, not mentioned in the Bible, certainly existed as well. Perhaps some excluded texts were seen as too heterodox, while others were seen as too recently composed. Many more texts were excluded than included; some of the former were translated in the Septuagint and were therefore canonized in the Christian community (see “Canons of the Bible,” on the Greek Bible, p. 1840); others were lost, or survived as pseudepigrapha (writings falsely attributed to major biblical figures), or were preserved (typically in fragmentary form) in the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Whether a book or group of books is canonized is often discussed in terms of the community’s views on their centrality, authority, sacredness, and inspiration. These terms are not identical, and each is murky. Sometimes these characteristics became connected. The Song of Solomon, for instance, was originally an erotic love poem; by the early rabbinic period, it came to be interpreted allegorically as a love poem between God and Israel. It was also seen as the inspired composition of Solomon himself. Was it canonized before it was seen as a holy, allegorical text? In that case, its canonization might reflect a central role that it held in culture or ritual. Or was it canonized only after it was viewed as allegorical and as a composition of Solomon? In that case its significance, whether of authorship or of ideas, could have played a more important part. It is impossible to judge between these two paths to canonization that more broadly reflect the problems in dealing with issues of canonization in general.

Despite such major uncertainties in our understanding of the process of canonization, however, several points seem likely. The destruction of the Second Temple in 70 CE played an important role in Jews becoming the people of the Book. Second, it is unlikely that canonization represents a purely top-down process, through which a small group of leaders (rabbis) determined the canon; instead, the formation of the Hebrew Bible was more likely the official recognition of the works that a large or influential segment of the community had already held to be central, holy, or authoritative. Finally, the act of canonization was remarkably inclusive, creating a body of works richly textured by a wide variety of genres, ideologies, and theologies. This is, fundamentally, a typical ancient Near Eastern process: Instead of creating a small, highly consistent text, as we perhaps might now do, those responsible for the process included many of the viewpoints in ancient Israel, incorporating differing and even contradictory traditions into this single, and singular, book—the Hebrew Bible.

Marc Z. Brettler

THE CANONS OF THE BIBLE

THE GREEK BIBLE

THE GREEK BIBLE

When Christian writings began to circulate, during the second half of the first century CE, the Bible that the early Christians used for reading and quotation was a Greek translation and expansion of the Hebrew Bible produced in Alexandria and other Diaspora communities for the use of Greek-speaking Jews. This Greek version is commonly referred to as “the Septuagint” (“seventy”; LXX) after the seventy-two translators sent to Alexandria from Jerusalem to provide its famous library with an authentic version of the Jewish Torah in Greek. According to legend all seventy agreed, providing divine confirmation of their work (Letter of Aristeas). Greek translations of other writings in the Hebrew scriptures followed. Probably as a result of the as yet unsettled matter of which works were canonical for the Jewish community, the Septuagint included further works: historical books (1 and 2 Maccabees, 1 Esdras); wisdom writings (The Wisdom of Solomon, The Wisdom of Jesus Ben Sirach); short works of fiction, or novellas (Tobit, Judith); an apocalypse (2 Esdras); historical legend (3 Maccabees); philosophical diatribe (4 Maccabees); an addendum to Jeremiah (Baruch and the Letter of Jeremiah); and expansions to Esther, Daniel (the Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews, Susanna, Bel and the Dragon), and Psalms (Prayer of Manasseh and Psalm 151).

Greek-speaking Jews in the Diaspora granted this Greek Bible an authority equivalent to that of the Hebrew texts. The legend that God had directly inspired its seventy translators was familiar to Alexandrian Jews (Philo, Life of Moses, 2.40). Manuscripts discovered at Qumran include Greek texts as well as a Hebrew text closer to the Septuagint than to the Masoretic Text (e.g., 4QSam^a; 4Q121 Num 3.30–4.14; see “Textual Criticism,” The Hebrew Bible: Texts and Versions, p. 1845, for information about the Masoretic Text). Toward the end of the first century BCE, some books of the Septuagint were revised in Palestine to bring them closer to the known Hebrew text. Some New Testament citations whose wordings are between the Greek and Hebrew texts that we have today may also reflect local revisions.

Evidently the various Jewish communities in the Greek-speaking Diaspora knew their Greek Bible in different versions. Jewish revisions in the second century CE sought to bring the Greek text closer to the Hebrew and in some cases to replace terms that Christians had seized upon in disputes with Jews, such as “virgin” in Isa 7.14. The Theodotion version of the second century CE forms the text of most surviving manuscripts. Citations in Christian writers of the fourth century CE, as well as the Old Latin versions, suggest that there were Christian recensions of the Greek Bible during this period as well. The Septuagint, therefore, is really an anthology of translations and revisions.

Although some early Christians were aware that the Greek Bible they used was more extensive than the Hebrew Bible, its authority remained intact. Origen (185–254) recommended Judith, Tobit, and Wisdom to beginning Bible readers before the Gospels and Epistles. Athanasius (296–374) may have shared this view: He includes Wisdom, as well as the Didache and the Shepherd of Hermas (two noncanonical early Christian writings) in his list of works to be used in the instruction of catechumens. Jerome (ca. 345–420) continued to cite the Greek Bible, though arguing for the superiority of the Hebrew text and canon. It was Jerome who first separated these additional works in the Greek Bible from those for which he had Hebrew originals, placing them at the end of the Old Testament.

The result of this history was that the Christian church ended up with a set of writings for its Old Testament that differed from those that for Jews formed the Hebrew Bible. Without definitive specification, Christians in the Western (Latin, later Roman) and Eastern (Greek, later Orthodox) churches used not only works regarded as canonical by the Jewish community but also those additional works, or a selection of them, included in the Septuagint. Most Christians naturally were unaware of the differences among the biblical books; most were illiterate, and of the literate, very few could read Hebrew, the language of the original texts. The Christian churches therefore entered the second millennium with an expanded Old Testament, whose books were in an order different from that of the Hebrew Bible.

The Protestant Reformation coincided with a greatly increased interest in the study of ancient languages other than Latin. Among the leaders of the Reformation churches there was, along with a desire to make the Bible itself the standard of theological inquiry, a heightened effort to go behind the Latin text to the original languages in which the Bible had been written, since the Bible alone, and not the Bible plus its traditional interpretation, was being given much more importance in Reformation thought. This effort reopened the issue of the status of those Old Testament books that were not accepted by the Jews and did not have original Hebrew texts. The result was a sharp demarcation between those texts in the Hebrew Bible and all the others, with the reformers granting clear privilege to the Hebrew texts—though retaining the order of the Septuagint for listing them. In Martin Luther’s translation, the additional works were assigned a separate section, as Jerome had originally intended, between the Hebrew Bible (Old Testament) and the New Testament. Luther wanted these texts to be available for reading and meditation, but he did not regard them as scripture. The position of the Calvinist reformers was even more definitive: None of these additional works were acceptable, and therefore they were excluded from the Bible entirely. The Anglican church, while retaining most of them (and using some in lectionary readings and services of prayer and worship), also held that though these additional books were valuable for reading and study, they could not be used to establish doctrine.

In response to this critique of their canonical status, the Roman Catholic Counter-Reformation position was to declare these works definitively a part of the Bible. The Catholic church to this day maintains the canonical status of Tobit, Judith, the longer version of Esther, 1 and 2 Maccabees, the Wisdom of Solomon, Sirach, Baruch (including the Letter of Jeremiah), and the Additions to Daniel. The Orthodox churches also maintained the canonical status of these works, and in addition regarded some or all of the following books as canonical: 1 Esdras, the Prayer of Manasseh, Psalm 151, 3 Maccabees, 2 Esdras, and (in an appendix) 4 Maccabees. The NRSV includes headings within the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books calling attention to the varying canonical status of these works.

THE NEW TESTAMENT

The early Christian community soon began to produce writings dealing with its own history, beliefs, and traditions. By the end of the first century CE and the beginning of the second, various gospels, narratives, letters, didactic discourses, and apocalyptic writings circulated among regional Christian communities. The practice of reading from these works, along with selections from the Greek version of the Jewish scriptures, soon arose in Christian worship. Use in this public setting initiated the process of attributing to these Christian writings an authority analogous to that of the Jewish scriptures. When disputes broke out, as they inevitably would, about beliefs or traditions, the canonical or noncanonical status of the various Christian writings became important.

The authority of smaller collections, the four Gospels and a ten-letter compilation of Pauline letters, was accepted by the second century CE. Other writings, Acts, Hebrews, Revelation, 2 and 3 John, Jude, and 2 Peter are not as widely attested in the early period. Still other Christian writings also appear as authorities in the second and third centuries. Official lists appear only in the fourth century CE as a consequence of theological debates (see Athanasius, Festal Letter 39; Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.3.5; 3.25.3–4). Christian canon lists remained fluid through the sixth century with such inclusions as the Shepherd of Hermas or the spurious Epistle to the Laodiceans among the Pauline letters. The Muratorian canon, whose date and provenance are disputed (second-century Rome to fourth-century East), includes Wisdom of Solomon in the New Testament. Other collections omit Hebrews. (See the chart for a comparison of three New Testament canon lists, p. 1839.)

Arguments over apostolic authorship emerge as a consequence of second-century CE challenges to general Christian practice. Valentinus and other Gnostics—who taught an esoteric form of Christianity—asserted that the Jewish God was ignorant of the highest divine realms, and that therefore both the Jewish scriptures and Christian writings, based on them, mislead naïve believers. Such teachers claimed to possess esoteric wisdom that Jesus had given to a few disciples including Peter, Thomas, James the brother of Jesus, and Mary Magdalene. In the second and third centuries, Gnostics produced several works said to contain that secret apostolic teaching. Another second-century teacher, Marcion, established a church that excluded the Old Testament claiming that its God was not the father of Jesus. He proposed a “New Testament” comprised of the Gospel of Luke and ten Pauline epistles that opened with Galatians, evidence for the difference between the Law and the gospel. Marcion’s texts of the gospel and epistles were edited to eliminate passages contrary to his theological perspective. Against both Gnostics and Marcionites, Irenaeus argued that the Spirit poured out on the Church enabled her to write scripture (Adv. Haer. 3.21.3–4) and affirmed the unity of the Old Testament and New Testament (Adv. Haer. 4.28.1–2). Tertullian refers to reading the “books of God” in Christian worship with no differentiation between Jewish and Christian writings (Apology 39.3).

Besides disputes, in which different contents of authoritative writings clearly reflected underlying theological differences, the physical character of Christian texts contributed to the emergence of canon. From the beginning Christians used the codex (pl. codices) format—a bound volume of pages, similar to a present-day book—rather than the more traditional scroll for their writings. In antiquity codices were the medium of early drafts, assembled notes, and the like. Finished literary works and sacred texts like the Torah were copied onto scrolls. Scholars disagree over whether early Christian use of codices reflects the moderate socioeconomic status of most Christians, or makes a statement about their contents. Perhaps the first- and second-century Christians thought that their writings had a different authority from that of the Torah and the prophets. Use of the codex made possible the smaller groupings that were combined in the larger canon of twenty-seven writings at the end of the fourth century CE. Early collections of Paul’s letters were initially seen as specifically directed to individual churches. Gospel collections were viewed as representative of the oral teaching of the apostles, not as formal literary compositions. The codex would have been an appropriate form for such writings. Use of readings from the Gospels along with the prophets in Christian worship indicates that the Gospels came to enjoy equal authority with the Torah and the prophets by the mid-second century (see Justin Martyr, 1 Apology 67.3–5).

Scrolls were made of papyrus or leather pieces glued or sewn together, and lengthy ones became inconvenient to handle: The average length is about 20–26 ft (6–8 m), though longer scrolls are known. The codex can accommodate much more text, so that several writings could be bound into one volume. Codices containing the Old Testament and later the entire Christian scripture were produced from the fourth century CE on. There was not a uniform number of books or a uniform order of presentation in the earliest codices, however. Individual Christian congregations may not have possessed copies of all writings included in canon lists. It would have been difficult to distinguish these official texts from other early Christian writings also found in codices. Some Christians turned over apocryphal writings to imperial officials charged with destroying “sacred books” during the Dioclitian persecution (303 CE). Confusion over unofficial and authorized writings in Christian worship persisted into the mid-fourth century CE. Canon 59 of the Synod of Laodicea (360 CE) decreed, “Private psalms should not be read in church, neither uncanonized books, but only the canonical ones of the new and old covenant.”

Origen’s advice to those privately reading scripture presumes that the educated Christian elite had copies of deuterocanonical writings, Gospels, epistles, psalms, and the Torah. He proposes an order of reading designed to overcome the difficulty of approaching biblical literature. First, he suggests, Esther, Judith, Tobit, or Wisdom. Then, the Gospels, epistles, and Psalms. Finally, the reader can tackle books that are difficult or seemingly without reward, such as Leviticus or Numbers (Homilies on Numbers 27.1). The biblical codices of the fourth and fifth centuries CE include different selections of Jewish apocrypha. In Codex Sinaiticus one finds Tobit, Judith, Wisdom, Sirach, 1 and 4 Maccabees; in Codex Vaticanus, Baruch, Letter of Jeremiah, Wisdom, Sirach, Judith, Tobit; in Codex Alexandrinus, Psalms of Solomon, 3 and 4 Maccabees. Athanasius’s Festal Letter 39 omits the deuterocanonical writings from the Old Testament but accepts them for private reading. Though Athanasius includes all twenty-seven New Testament writings, the issue was not settled everywhere. Gregory of Nazianzus (d. 389) omits Revelation from his catalogue as do the lectionaries of the Eastern church. Didymus of Alexandria omits 2 and 3 John but cites the apostolic fathers as authoritative. Such evidence indicates that despite consensus on the four Gospels and Pauline epistles, regional variations about the rest persisted.

By the end of the fourth century, however, there was widespread agreement about which books had scriptural status. Among the large number of early Christian writings in a diversity of genres, including gospels, letters, acts, apocalypses, and didactic treatises, a smaller number had come to be widely accepted. The criteria that were implicitly, and sometimes explicitly, operative were apostolic authority—that a work was written by or attributed to one of the first generation of Christian leaders, especially Paul and the twelve apostles—and consistency with their teaching, especially as determined by ecclesiastical authorities in major centers like Rome, Alexandria, Ephesus, and Byzantium. As a result, some of the writings that had come to be considered noncanonical were lost and rediscovered only in the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

PHEME PERKINS

TEXTUAL CRITICISM

THE NEED FOR TEXTUAL CRITICISM

No original manuscript of any biblical book has survived. This situation, which may seem unusual to us, is actually quite normal for ancient writings, and even for those from only a few centuries ago. For instance, none of Shakespeare’s plays is available in the original manuscript from Shakespeare’s hand, and for most of them there are two or more early printed versions with many differences between them. For the biblical books, numerous copies or partial copies, varying greatly in age and quality, have been preserved in various parts of the world. Occasionally, as with the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls (the Qumran documents) in the mid-twentieth century, new copies turn up. Nevertheless, for the entire text of the Bible, scholars are faced with a situation in which they have multiple manuscripts that have been copied by hand so that each is a unique product, unlike a modern printed or electronic book, and therefore the copies differ among themselves in many places, some differences being trivial and some important. Given this situation, scholars have had to develop a methodology for deciding which wording should be followed in cases where the copies disagree. This methodology is called “textual criticism” because it is a way of assessing a text through critical comparison of its different copies.

Textual criticism is not used only on religious writings. Any important text where there is not a definitive, printed edition backed up with an author’s manuscript or corrected by the author may need to undergo textual criticism. Confused letters, omitted words, even graphic elements like incorrect indentions of poetic lines, can all mean that a text does not reflect the original author’s intentions completely. The methods may have to be adapted to differing circumstances, but the principles have been developed over centuries and have been checked when manuscripts have been found that can confirm or refute reconstructions of a text. Most important, there is widespread agreement among textual scholars on the methods and procedures that should be used, even when the results remain in dispute.

DEFINITIONS

Establishing a critical edition of the biblical text involves the collection of all the differences between manuscript copies of any text, and the publication of all significant ones. The manuscripts are in the form of collections of biblical books, usually bound leaves, called codices (the plural of codex); scrolls, or long strips of papyrus or parchment rolled up, of individual books, such as those found at Qumran near the Dead Sea; lectionaries, or passages excerpted from texts in order to be read in worship services; and citations, or quotations in ancient works, such as the Dead Sea Scrolls, rabbinic literature, and early church writings. These sources, taken all together, are called witnesses or authorities, and the differences among them are called variant readings or simply variants. Also important are ancient translations, or versions, of the Bible, which provide indirect evidence for the original text. More details on these different forms of the texts are given below under the specific discussion of the texts for the Hebrew Bible, the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books, and the New Testament.

REASONS FOR VARIANTS

Variants can be of several kinds. The copyist may have misseen or misheard a word, producing a simple spelling error, or perhaps a different word. For example, in Eph 4.32 (cf. 5.2), the variants alternate between the pronouns “us” and “you.” In Greek these two words are quite close (hēmin and humin), differing by only one letter, and when pronounced aloud they are almost indistinguishable. In other places, the copyist’s eye may inadvertently have skipped a phrase or sentence, thereby leaving out a sequence of words. In Sir 30.11–12, for example, some manuscripts omit two lines ending “... in his youth,” possibly because the immediately preceding line also ends “... in his youth” and the copyist picked up after the second occurrence, omitting what came in between. Conversely, the copyist may inadvertently have gone over a phrase twice, producing a repetition. Although it may be difficult to determine when these errors took place in particular instances, there is nothing complex about them, and many variants are of this kind.

Sometimes, however, copyists seem to have tried to improve the text they were reproducing. They might have done this in several ways. They may have tried to change a word or phrase that was unacceptable for one reason or another by substituting a more acceptable word or phrase. At 1 Tim 5.16, for example, the text reads “believing woman,” and the translators’ note says that some manuscripts have “believing man or woman,” others “believing man.” Here the translators have chosen the variant that is the most unusual, assuming that a copyist would more likely expand the phrase, or substitute “man” for “woman,” rather than the reverse, in a cultural context that tended to treat women as less important than men. Copyists might also have been aware of a similar passage in another biblical book, and tried to make the passage they were copying conform to that. For example, Lk 11.2, the beginning of the Lord’s Prayer, has variant readings that are probably an effort to make it conform to Mt 6.9. Copyists might also have tried to make the text support a particular theological view or belief. For instance, at Deut 32.8, some manuscripts read “according to the number of the sons of God” (NRSV “the gods,” a paraphrase), while others read “according to the number of the sons of Israel” (NRSV “Israelites”). There is general agreement that the second variant was introduced by a scribe trying to avoid a polytheistic wording. Copying a manuscript was not simply a mechanical process, but could involve deliberate changes for a number of reasons.

ANCIENT TRANSLATIONS

These methods of trying to determine the correct reading do not always provide enough evidence, or it may be that none of the existing manuscripts seems to have preserved the exact wording of the original author. Another source of information that scholars turn to is very early translations of the Bible. These early translations are often called “versions,” and they were in use among Jews or Christians whose primary languages were other than the ones used in the original writings. They include translations of the Hebrew Bible into Greek (for instance, the Septuagint or LXX), Aramaic (translations and paraphrases called “Targums”), Syriac (the Peshitta), and Latin (the Vulgate), and translations of part or all of the Christian scriptures into Syriac, Coptic, and other languages.

These versions are useful to translators because the early stage at which they were made provides insight into forms of the biblical text that may be closer to the original writings. They can therefore be consulted for help in determining what is more likely to be an original reading, or when the best manuscripts of the original language texts have gaps or obvious errors. In many translations, including the NRSV, these ancient versions are cited in the footnotes to explain where and why the translators have chosen an alternative reading or translated something other than the text that has come down to us. For readers unfamiliar with the nomenclature of these ancient documents, however, such notes may not convey very much information.

THE PROCESS OF TEXTUAL CRITICISM

In order to establish the best possible text, scholars must first collect all of the significant variants and information about the manuscripts in which they occur. As a practical matter, a critical text—one with a version of the Greek or Hebrew on the page and an apparatus, usually footnotes giving variants and their source manuscripts—is published. Scholars must then determine whether they will accept the readings in the text or adopt instead one of the alternatives.

They may first rely on external evidence. This would include matters such as the age of the manuscript in which the variant occurs, since older manuscripts are generally closer to the original than later ones; or whether the variant occurs in manuscripts from only one region or in those from widely different regions. They will also use internal evidence: In general, shorter readings are preferable to longer ones, since scribes are more likely to add to a text than to delete materials (though, in the case of offensive or theologically challenging texts, deletion must be considered); difficult readings, including awkward phrases, coarse words, and poor grammar, are preferable to smoother ones, since scribes might try to correct such difficulties; and stylistic considerations can help judgments about how a particular author would have written.

The task would be difficult enough if scholars could be sure that the original wording in any place with a variant reading was preserved in at least one manuscript; but even that is not necessarily the case. There are instances where no existing manuscript is likely to preserve the original wording: where none of the variants seem to be right, or where the original text does not make sense as far as current scholarship can determine. In such cases scholars must assume that the original wording of the text has been lost or distorted in the course of the copying process. They then have several options open to them. One (called “conjectural emendation”) is to conjecture, based on the text as it now stands, what the original wording might have been. This can often be based on a scholar’s general knowledge of the ancient languages, just as an English speaker can notice, and mentally correct, a typographical error in a modern book without having access to the author’s manuscript. Another possibility is to consult the ancient versions. Finally, scholars may have to admit defeat and acknowledge that, given the current state of our knowledge, it is impossible to determine what the original wording might have been. For instance, at 1 Sam 13.1, the translation shows, by the use of ellipsis, that a word (the age of Saul when he began to reign) is missing. The translators’ note points out that this number is not in the Hebrew text, and that the obvious second place to look for it, the ancient Greek translation known as the Septuagint, does not include any part of the verse. It is therefore impossible to recover the original wording unless some other ancient manuscript source is discovered.

The translators’ notes in the NRSV call attention to all of these matters and many others as well. These notes, printed in italic type and keyed to the text by superscript letters, can be found at the bottom of the right-hand column of the translation on each page. The abbreviations used in these notes are given in the discussion below, and are listed on p. xxi.

THE HEBREW BIBLE: TEXTS AND VERSIONS

The Masoretic Text

The basic text for the Hebrew Bible today is called the Masoretic Text (MT), an edition of the Hebrew that was standardized in the fifth to tenth centuries CE by rabbinic scholars (called masoretes, from Heb massorah, probably “what is handed down,” that is, “tradition”). The Masoretic Text accomplished two things: It settled upon a consonantal text, that is, it established specific choices for the consonants of the Hebrew words in the text; and it “pointed” those letters with a system of markings that indicated which vowels should be read with the Hebrew letters. This two-part decision was necessary because classical Hebrew writing was in effect a system of consonants, with only a few ways of indicating vowel sounds. Words with the same consonants but different vowels would look the same, as would the English words “untrained” and “interned” if they were both spelled “ntrnd.” In the notes to the Hebrew Bible of the NRSV, “Heb” may refer to the consonantal (unpointed) Hebrew text, and MT to the same text with the vowel pointings included. The distinction is an important one, because the consonants are more likely to represent the original text than are the vowel sounds, which were added later, though based on older traditions. If the same consonants will make more sense with different vowels, the NRSV (and most other modern translations) will assume that those different vowels yield a word that is closer to the original text.

When ancient scholars had gotten the Masoretic Text into its final form, it became the standard text-form and alternative text-traditions were lost. Therefore, all copies of the Hebrew Bible that were known were based upon this Masoretic Text, and although there were variants among the different copies, there was no way to check independently on the textual basis of most of the Hebrew Bible. With a few exceptions, this remained the case until the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls (the library of the Qumran community) in 1947. Among the scrolls were manuscripts of most books of the Hebrew Bible that were more than a thousand years older than the oldest manuscripts available up to that point. These more ancient copies of the Hebrew text have shed light on some passages in the traditional form of the biblical text. For example, at 1 Sam 10.27–11.1 in the traditional text there is no indication of the background to the conflict between King Nahash of Ammon and the men of Jabesh-gilead. But in a Qumran manuscript of 2 Samuel there is a continuation of 10.27 and an opening phrase for 11.1 that explains the context, and the NRSV includes them.

Ancient Versions of the Hebrew Bible

In cases where no form of the Hebrew text gives a reading that is satisfactory, scholars can turn to the ancient versions. The assistance these ancient versions give to textual critics and translators is partly due to the situation with regard to the text of the Hebrew Bible explained above. These early translations were made from Greek or Hebrew texts that, for the most part, are earlier than those copies of the Masoretic Text that have survived to the present. They therefore can give guidance to scholars about the state of the text, and even choices of wording, that are not represented in existing manuscripts. They can also confirm readings as being more likely. Of course, these ancient translations are themselves preserved only in copies, so that all of the considerations that apply to the original language texts of the Bible also apply to them: It is necessary to establish a critical text for them by comparing variant readings. They must therefore be used with caution, and they cannot be relied upon absolutely. This is, of course, a standard of comparison at one remove from the text itself: Scholars must look at the Greek, for instance, in the Septuagint, and conjecture or assume what the Hebrew would have been in order to result in a particular rendition into Greek. Nevertheless, it is a valuable source of clues.

For example, at 1 Sam 10.1, the text of the Septuagint is longer than that of the Hebrew Bible. In examining the difference, scholars have theorized that a copyist of the Hebrew text inadvertently omitted part of the verse because the same phrase occurs twice in it, and the copyist went directly from one to the other, omitting what was in between.

Names and Character of the Ancient Versions

The ancient versions of the Bible are referred to in a variety of ways by scholars. Following is a list, by language, of the chief versions.

Greek: The most prominent Greek version, and the oldest surviving translation of the Hebrew Bible, is the Septuagint, which was translated beginning in the third century BCE for use of Jews who were living in the Diaspora in Alexandria, Egypt, and other places around the Mediterranean after the conquests of Alexander the Great, and who therefore spoke Greek. The Septuagint, from a word meaning “seventy” because of a legend that seventy or seventy-two scholars worked on it, is abbreviated LXX (the Roman numeral for seventy) and, in the notes to the NRSV of the Hebrew text, is referred to as “Gk.” Three later Greek versions—by Aquila, Symmachus, and Theodotion—were produced for the use of Jews after Christians had adopted the Septuagint as their scripture, and the increasing conflict between Jews and Christians about the interpretation of the Jewish scriptures had led Jews to stop using the Septuagint. These versions are also sometimes used by translators, but none of them has survived in its entirety.

Aramaic: Aramaic was the official language of the Persian Empire, and the Jewish people who lived under Persian domination spoke Aramaic, which eventually supplanted Hebrew as the ordinary language of Jews. Aramaic is a Semitic language closely related to Hebrew, and shares some vocabulary with it, but Aramaic speakers cannot easily understand Hebrew. It was therefore necessary to provide translations of the Hebrew Bible for Aramaic speakers. Read aloud in liturgical contexts, after the Hebrew had been read (see Neh 8.7 for an early example), these translations, called Targums, are often more paraphrases than literal translations. Most date to the early centuries of the Common Era. They nevertheless provide useful information about earlier forms of the Hebrew text. In the NRSV notes they are abbreviated “Tg.”

Syriac: The Syriac language is a form of Aramaic and was spoken by Jews in northern Syria who translated their Bible into it. The Peshitta (which means “simple,” that is, a plain translation without textual comments) was prepared for the use of Jews and later adopted by Syriac-speaking Christians, who added a Syriac version of the New Testament to it. In the NRSV notes it is abbreviated “Syr.” There is also a Syriac translation of the Septuagint that was part of a “hexapla” or “sixfold” Bible; in the NRSV notes this is abbreviated “Syr H.”

Latin: Two Latin translations are used by scholars. The first, the Old Latin version, was actually a Latin translation of the Septuagint and of the New Testament dating from before the fourth century CE. More useful is the Vulgate, the translation prepared in the fourth century by the great Christian biblical scholar Jerome. Jerome, in translating his Old Testament, worked directly from the Hebrew text of the time, and his version therefore can be helpful in determining original readings in that text. In the NRSV notes the Old Latin version is abbreviated “OL,” and the Vulgate is abbreviated “Vg.”

THE APOCRYPHAL/DEUTEROCANONICAL BOOKS: TEXTS AND VERSIONS

For most of the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books, the translational basis is the Septuagint text. Various manuscripts of the Septuagint have survived, and the complete text is available in a critical edition prepared by Alfred Rahlfs and published in 1935. A newer critical text is in process of publication—the Göttingen Septuagint project—but it is not yet complete. The NRSV used the newer text when it was available, for example in Esther and Sirach. The translators used Theodotion's version for the Additions to Daniel. For the Wisdom of Jesus ben Sira (Sirach or Ecclesiasticus), Hebrew manuscripts of large parts of the text have been discovered, and the NRSV therefore used the Hebrew text instead of the Greek when it seems to offer a better alternative; in addition, there are Syriac and Latin versions of this book that also shed light on the text. For 2 Esdras, scholars agree that the best text is the Latin; they also consult versions in Syriac, Ethiopic, Arabic, Armenian, and Georgian.

THE NEW TESTAMENT: TEXTS AND VERSIONS

New Testament Manuscripts

Text critics must evaluate the evidence of thousands of manuscripts in order to establish the wording of the Greek New Testament. (See “Textual Criticism,” p. 1844.) This is a very large number of surviving copies for a collection of ancient documents; many classical texts survive in only a few copies. The overwhelming majority of these New Testament manuscripts (ca. 2,400) contain full or partial Gospel texts, followed by texts containing all or portions of the Pauline epistles (ca. 800). Revelation survives in only 287 copies. The manuscripts consist of papyrus fragments (some of only a few pages, some even shorter, preserving only a few verses); uncials, very early manuscripts written in letters unconnected to each other and similar to uppercase letters; and minuscules, later manuscripts written in a script that connects the letters and in which lowercase letters predominate. In addition to manuscript evidence, citations in Christian writers, lectionaries (excerpted passages for liturgical reading), and translations into other languages may shed light on the earliest wording of the text. With such a wealth of evidence, there is no phrase in the New Testament for which there is not some variant. Most involve issues of grammar, style, or copyists' corrections. Textual variants that affect the theological meaning of the text are fewer.

With such a wealth of information about the New Testament text, scholars have had to develop ways of classifying not only individual manuscripts but groups of copies so that they can more readily deal with all of the variants. If they can determine, for example, that a group of copies all descended from a common ancestor, they can assess the variants for that group together and compare them with other groups that descend from different early copies. Variants that occur in two or more of these distinct “families” have a much higher probability of being original than variants that may have arisen within only one group, for instance.

Most of the known variants to the text of the New Testament originated in the first two centuries of its existence. As Christianity spread throughout the Mediterranean, different groups had their own copies of the various New Testament documents, in some cases excluding books that are now included, or including books that are now excluded (see the essay on “The Canons of the Bible,” p. 1837). In addition, as the Greek copies began to diverge, they were being translated into other languages: Latin, Syriac, and Coptic. The Latin text, because of the dominance of the Latin language in the western Roman Empire, became the most prevalent, and the Greek text was used consistently only in the east, in the area around Constantinople (modern Istanbul). This Greek text, preserved and copied in the Orthodox churches of the East, became known as the Byzantine text, and for many centuries it was the only or main version of the Greek text available. Beginning in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, however, scholars began to discover other early texts. Early in the twentieth century, text critics proposed families or text-types linked to the major regions of Christianity: Alexandria in Egypt, to the south; the east represented by Caesarea, on the eastern coast of the Mediterranean; and the west represented by Italy/Gaul and Africa. At first scholars assumed that the Byzantine text resulted from combinations of these types, but such a genealogy of the various text-types could not explain the mixture of readings found in the papyrus and the oldest surviving codices. The so-called Alexandrian tradition, texts from the area of Egypt that included many of the most ancient papyrus copies (preserved in the very dry climate of that area), became in the nineteenth century a favored basis for establishing original readings. But the complexity of variants has increasingly made this approach untenable.

Since papyri evidence from the earliest centuries represents only individual books of the New Testament, it is likely that the fourth-century scribes charged with producing codices containing the entire Bible had a variety of different text-types for the individual books. No single codex, therefore, is of uniform reliability. Codex Alexandrinus (early fifth century CE) is, as it turns out, a poor witness for the Gospels, but many critics consider it the best text of Revelation, even superior to a third-century papyrus copy. The age of a manuscript, therefore, does not necessarily determine the value of its readings, although it is one factor among many that scholars take into account. Revelation and the shorter catholic epistles (2 and 3 John; Jude; 2 Peter), which were not widely used as scripture until the fourth century, have a different textual tradition than the Gospels and the Pauline epistles.

Consequently, most text critics do not begin with a particular manuscript and correct it to establish the text. Instead, the wealth and diversity of manuscript evidence have enabled critics to produce a Greek text based on eclectic principles: choosing the best readings from a variety of manuscript sources. This range of choice has also meant that New Testament scholars do not need to make conjectural emendations of the text, a practice common in the editing of other ancient texts, including the Hebrew Bible, where few early manuscripts are available. The best text for a particular passage requires detailed study of all preserved variants. Internal principles of textual criticism include consideration of readings that are more likely to be scribal corrections or errors, that fit the theological biases of an author or later editors, or that could have given rise to the other known variants.

The NRSV translation is based on a modern eclectic edition of the Greek text, Nestle-Aland 26th ed. (or the equivalent United Bible Societies Greek New Testament 3rd ed., but incorporating information from the 4th ed. as well). Textual variants in wording, both stylistic and theologically significant, are indicated in the translators' notes as "other ancient authorities." In order to understand the basis for these alternative translations, readers should consult the text-critical notes in the Greek text or a commentary on the Greek text.

Versions of the New Testament

The early Christian focus on the written word led to translation of the Bible into other languages for converts who did not speak Greek. Evidence from Old Latin, Syriac, and Coptic translations from the late second and third centuries CE figures in text criticism. Ethiopic (mid-fourth century), Armenian (early fifth century), and Old Slavonic (late ninth century) translations form key moments in the cultural life of the people. Many of the apocryphal writings are preserved in Syriac, Coptic, and Armenian, thus providing a wider literature associated with the Bible.

Often manuscript evidence for the earliest translations is scanty or only derived from quotations. Tertullian's quotations appear to be his own translation into Latin, so the first evidence for the Latin text appears in Cyprian (250 CE). Augustine and Jerome both complain about the large number of poor translations in circulation. Jerome was commissioned by Pope Damasus to produce a Latin Bible (ca. 383). His revised Gospels and translation of the Hebrew Bible were combined with other translations for the remaining books of the Old and New Testaments to produce a Latin version known as the Vulgate. The Vulgate enjoyed wide circulation from the seventh century CE ON and was officially promulgated as the text of the Roman Catholic Church by Pope Sixtus V (1590). A neo-Vulgate with alterations in the text, style, and corrections to bring the translation closer to the Greek text was promulgated by Pope John Paul II (1979).

The earliest evidence for the Syriac New Testament comes from a harmony of the Gospels, The Diatessaron, composed by Tatian in the second century CE. It is the source of citations in the commentary by Ephraem (310–373). Texts from Antioch contributed to revisions of the Syriac New Testament, the Peshitta or common version (earliest manuscripts from the mid-fifth century), and a translation by Philoxenus (507/508). The oldest versions of the New Testament translated into the Sahidic dialect of Coptic emerge in the third century. In the fourth century the whole Bible was translated into the Bohairic dialect, which became the official language of Coptic Christianity. A number of manuscripts found in the twentieth century remain to be assembled, catalogued, and incorporated into editions of the Coptic text.

Michael D. Coogan and Pheme Perkins

LANGUAGES OF THE BIBLE

The languages of the Bible as it exists today for Jews and Christians are Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek. This article will first discuss the languages themselves, and then consider them as they are found in the Hebrew Bible, the Apocrypha, and the New Testament.

THE LANGUAGES

Hebrew

Hebrew, the predominant language of the Hebrew Bible, is a member of the Semitic language family. This family is divided into eastern and western branches. Hebrew is part of the northwestern subgroup, related to Phoenician, Ammonite, Edomite, Moabite, and more distantly to Ugaritic. Nonbiblical inscriptional evidence indicates that Hebrew was a written language as early as the tenth century BCE (the Gezer Calendar). Other inscriptional evidence for Hebrew in the Iron Age includes the Kuntillet Ajrud pithoi (large ceramic jars), the Khirbet el-Qom tomb inscriptions, the Samaria ostraca, and the Siloam Tunnel inscription (all from the eighth century BCE); the Arad letters and the Lachish letters from the sixth century BCE; and seals and seal impressions from the eighth to the sixth centuries BCE. The oldest fragment of a text containing verses now in the Bible is a silver amulet dating to the sixth century BCE from a burial cave at Ketef Hinnom outside Jerusalem, which contains a version of the priestly blessing from Num 6.24–26. Hebrew continued to be both spoken and written through at least the second century CE, after which it became a language of worship and scholarship, referred to as “the holy language” (“leshon haqqodesh,” m. Sot. 7.2). In the nineteenth century, Hebrew was revived as a spoken language by the Zionist movement in Europe and Palestine, and is now one of the official languages of the modern State of Israel.

In the Hebrew Bible the language is referred to as yehudit (“Judahite”; 2 Kings 18.26//Isa 26.13; 2 Chr 32.18; Isa 36.11; Neh 13.24). In Isaiah 19.18 the term “language of Canaan (lit., “lip of Canaan)” is used. The earliest use of the term “Hebrew” for the language is found in the (Greek) prologue to Sirach (late second century BCE).

All Hebrew inscriptions from the Iron Age are written in the ancient Israelite script, often called Paleo-Hebrew. This script was written from right to left, using twenty-two consonants and without vowels. This script largely fell out of use in the Persian period with the rise of the Aramaic square script (see Hebrew Bible, p. 1850), but it was revived in the nationalistic fervor surrounding the Maccabean revolt in the second century BCE. Among the Dead Sea Scrolls from Qumran are fragmentary manuscripts of the books of the Torah and Job written in Paleo-Hebrew script. Coins of the Hasmonean period are also inscribed in Paleo-Hebrew, as are coins of the First Jewish Revolt against Rome (66–73 CE) and the Bar Kokhba revolt of 132–35 CE.

The ancient Israelite script also continued in use after the Iron Age in the northern Israelite community, which came to be known as the Samaritans. Inscriptional evidence from Mount Gerizim, where a Samaritan sanctuary stood until the late second century BCE, shows the use of the ancient Israelite script in the fifth and fourth centuries BCE. The Samaritan Pentateuch, the canonical text of the Samaritan community, is copied in a Paleo-Hebrew script dated to the second century BCE.

Aramaic

Aramaic is a northwest Semitic language closely related to Hebrew; it was the main chancery language of the Persian Empire (sixth–fourth centuries BCE) and became the language of governance, commerce, and day-to-day interaction among its subject peoples, including the Jews. Surviving in multiple dialects, Aramaic continued to be used as the common language of Syria-Palestine until the Muslim conquest when it was replaced by Arabic, although it survives as a spoken language in isolated pockets in Syria, Turkey, and Iraq. There is much nonbiblical evidence for Aramaic as a common language among Jews from the Persian period on; the earliest is the fifth-century BCE archive of the Jewish military colony at Elephantine, an island in the Nile near Aswan. Approximately fifteen percent of the Qumran scrolls are in Aramaic, including the Enoch corpus, the Genesis Apocryphon, and the Aramaic Levi Document. Other Judean Desert texts written in Aramaic include the archives of Babatha and Salome Komaise, demonstrating that Aramaic continued as the preferred legal language among Palestinian Jews in the second century CE.

Because it was the common spoken language among Jews beginning in the Persian period, Aramaic is extremely important for the study of the Hebrew Bible. Aramaic is found in short passages in Daniel and Ezra (see Hebrew Bible, p. 1850); more importantly, two of the major ancient translations of the books of the Hebrew Bible were made into Aramaic: the Jewish Targums and the Syriac (a dialect of Aramaic) Peshitta. The necessity for translation into Aramaic may have been felt by the Jewish community as early as the fifth century BCE; according to Neh 8.7–8, when Ezra reads the book of the law at the Water Gate, “the Levites helped the people to understand the law, while the people remained in their places. So they read from the book, from the law of God, with interpretation. They gave the sense, so that the people understood the reading.” This may imply translation into Aramaic. The oldest known Targum is of the book of Job from the early first century CE, discovered in Qumran Cave 11.

Jesus and his disciples, according to the Gospels, spoke Aramaic, and Aramaic words survive in some sayings of Jesus (see Hebrew Bible). Arguments have occasionally been made that some parts of the New Testament were translated from Aramaic; even if this is not the case, they are strongly influenced by Aramaic in their diction. Many early Christians in the eastern Roman Empire were Aramaic speaking, and their literature survives in the corpus of Syriac Christian literature.

Aramaic was written in what is called “Aramaic [or “Assyrian”] square script,” an alphabet consisting of twenty-two consonants without vowels, and written from right to left. It was adopted as the common script for manuscripts of the books of the Hebrew Bible by the Hellenistic period; the earliest Qumran manuscripts, 4QSam^b and 4QExod-Lev^f (mid-third century BCE) are both written in Aramaic square script. The square script continued as the chosen script for the sacred text; today all Hebrew manuscripts of the Jewish canon are copied in the Aramaic square script with the addition of the Masoretic vowels (and cantillation marks).

Greek

Greek is an Indo-European language originating in the Aegean region; it became the language of the Hellenistic empires that controlled the ancient Near East after the conquests of Alexander the Great in the late fourth century BCE. The territories of biblical Israel were conquered by Alexander the Great and ruled by his successors, first by the Ptolemies in Egypt (fourth to third centuries BCE) and then by the Seleucids in western Asia (third to late-second centuries BCE). Under the Hellenistic rulers, Greek was introduced as the language of government, diplomacy, and commerce, and became the second most common spoken language in Jewish territories after Aramaic during the Hellenistic and Roman periods.

The form of Greek used in this period is called “Koinē” (“common”) Greek. Koine Greek became the primary spoken and written language of the Jewish diaspora in both Egypt and Syria after the establishment of the Hellenistic kingdoms, and was also used in Palestine. Inscriptional evidence for the use of Greek in the Jewish community in Palestine includes the “Temple Warning” inscription, discovered in the late nineteenth century. It warns non-Jews (who would not have spoken or read Hebrew) that they were not allowed beyond the balustrade surrounding the Temple and its enclosure.

By the time of Jesus, Greek had become a common spoken language, at least among the educated elites. The majority of inscriptions on Jewish ossuaries found in Palestine from the first century CE, for example, are in Greek rather than Hebrew or Aramaic. Further, it is clear that most Jews, even those from the lower classes including Jesus and his disciples, spoke at least some Greek in addition to Aramaic and Hebrew. The language of the early church centered in Asia Minor and Greece proper was Greek, and the early church fathers wrote in Greek. After the Muslim conquest in the seventh century CE, Greek, like Aramaic, was replaced by Arabic. However, the Greek Orthodox Church preserves its liturgy in the Greek of the Byzantine Empire.

HEBREW BIBLE

Hebrew is the principal language of all the books of the Hebrew Bible. Scholars have attempted to identify different periods of the language within the books of the Hebrew Bible, although they disagree about whether real differentiations can be made. Exodus 15, Judges 5, and Psalm 68, for example, are thought to be written in a more archaic form of Hebrew. Most of the Torah and the prophets are composed in what is known as Classical Hebrew (i.e., the Hebrew of the preexilic period); a few books (e.g., Esther, Ecclesiastes) are composed in the late biblical Hebrew of the Persian period. The book of Job is a special case, being composed in a rare dialect of Hebrew.

Small portions of the Hebrew Bible are actually in Aramaic. The largest is Dan 2.4–7.28, about half of the book of Daniel. The text signals the change to Aramaic at 2.4 by including the word aramit (“Aramaic”), followed by an empty space before the first Aramaic word, but does not signal the change back to Hebrew at the end of ch 7. Daniel in its canonical form consists of two parts: the royal courtier tales in chs 1–6 and the apocalyptic visions in chs 7–12. It is generally held that the royal courtier tales were originally composed in Aramaic as part of a larger cycle of Daniel tales, while the apocalyptic visions were composed in Hebrew. As the book presently stands, however, the language division does not correspond to the content division.

Other Aramaic passages in the Hebrew Bible include Ezra 4.8–6.18, which contains a series of royal decrees reportedly from the Persian royal archives. Ezra 4.7 indicates the change to Aramaic by saying, “The letter was written in the Aramaic script and set forth in the Aramaic language.” The change back to Hebrew in 6.19 is not marked linguistically, although the Masoretic Text contains a paragraph marker. Ezra 7.12–26 is also purportedly a copy of an Aramaic letter from King Artaxerxes. The change from Hebrew to Aramaic and back again is not marked, except by paragraph markers.

Jeremiah 10.11 is a single verse in Aramaic. Genesis 31.45 contains two words in Aramaic, spoken by Jacob’s Aramean uncle Laban.

Loan words from other ancient Near Eastern languages also appear in the Hebrew Bible. Since Hebrew shares common ancestry with the Semitic languages, it is important to distinguish between words that occur across the Semitic family and have a shared etymology, and actual loan words. From Akkadian (the language of Assyria and Babylonia) words having to do with government or commerce are likely to be actual loans, such as “saris” (a high official or “eunuch”; e.g., Gen 37.36; Dan 1.3), and “rab shaqeh” (a high-ranking army officer; e.g., 2 Kings 18.17//Isa 36.2). A loan word that comes into Hebrew from the language of the Philistines is “seren,” meaning “tyrant, lord.” It refers to the rulers of the five Philistine cities on the southwest coast of Canaan (e.g., Josh 13.3). Persian loan words occur in later biblical books. The word “dat” (“law, decree”) appears only in books with a Persian setting, i.e., Esther and Ezra (both Hebrew and Aramaic). The word pardes (a term for a planned garden or park; cf. English “paradise”) is used in Neh 2.8; Song 4.13; and Eccl 2.5. A Persian coin, the daric, appears in 1 Chr 29.7 and Ezra 8.27.

Greek loan words appear sporadically in the Hebrew Bible. The word for ethnic Greeks, Yawan (cf. “Ionian”), appears in Gen 10.4; Ezek 27.13; and Joel 4.6, while Dan 8.21 identifies Alexander the Great as “the king of Yawan.” Dan 3.5–7 mentions four Greek instruments, kithara, sambykē, psaltērion, and symphōnia. A type of Greek coin, the drachma (Neh 7.69–71), is also mentioned.

Beginning in the third century BCE with the five books of the Torah, the Hebrew Bible was translated into Greek, the language of the Jewish diaspora. According to the Letter of Aristeas, a Jewish literary work from the second century BCE, this translation was done by scribes sent to the Egyptian king by the high priest in Jerusalem. Although Aristeas is historical fiction, it does testify to a high level of Greek knowledge among Jewish elites in the third century BCE. Collectively this translation of the Hebrew scriptures is known as the Septuagint (LXX), and it became the scriptural text of the nascent Christian community in the first century CE.

APOCRYPHA

The books of the Apocrypha are preserved in Greek, since they are all part of the Septuagint, the Greek translation of Jewish religious texts. However, some were composed not in Greek but in Hebrew or Aramaic. The books composed in Greek are the Wisdom of Solomon, 2 Maccabees, the Prayer of Manasseh, 3 Maccabees, the parts of 2 Esdras known as 5 Ezra (chs 1–2) and 6 Ezra (chs 15–16), and 4 Maccabees.

For several books, manuscripts in Hebrew or Aramaic are known.

- Manuscripts of Tobit in both Aramaic (its language of composition) and a Hebrew translation were found in Qumran Cave 4.
- The LXX version of Esther is a translation of a Hebrew text close to the Hebrew text of Esther found in the Masoretic Text. LXX Esther also contains six large Additions, A–F. Additions A, C, D, and F are most likely translations from a Semitic original, while Additions B and E were composed in Greek.
- The Wisdom of Jesus the son of Sirach is, by its own testimony, a translation from Hebrew into Greek (see The Prologue). Hebrew fragments were found in Qumran Cave 2 and at Masada, and six later Hebrew manuscripts were recovered from the Cairo Genizah.
- Psalm 151 has been discovered in a Hebrew Psalms scroll from Qumran (11QPs^a).

Finally, seven apocryphal books may have had Semitic originals, although no manuscript evidence currently exists. These are Judith (Hebrew, although Jerome claimed to have translated an Aramaic text), Baruch (Hebrew), the Letter of Jeremiah (Hebrew or Aramaic), the Additions to Daniel (Hebrew), 1 Maccabees (Hebrew), 1 Esdras (Hebrew), and chapters 3–14 of 2 Esdras, known as 4 Ezra (Hebrew).

NEW TESTAMENT

The New Testament books were all written in Koine Greek, the language of the Greco-Roman Jewish diaspora and the eastern Gentile population in which the Christian message first took hold. Although the language of the western Roman Empire was Latin, no NT books were written in it, not even Paul’s Letter to the Romans. The only possible exceptions are Matthew, which one early church tradition (Papias in Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.39.16) held was originally written in Hebrew, and the book of Revelation. Although Matthew’s Greek shows Semitic influence, most scholars now agree that it is not a translation but was composed in Greek. There is still disagreement concerning Revelation. Many of the New Testament books are written in a sophisticated Koine, including the letters of Paul, James, and the letter to the Hebrews. On the other hand, the book of Revelation is written in a very poor Greek, containing many Semitisms.

Some Aramaic words survive in the Gospels, preserved in sayings of Jesus, whose native language was Aramaic. These include:

- “Talitha cum” (“Little girl, get up!), Mk 5.41
- “Ephphatha” (“Be opened”), Mk 7.34
- “Abba” (“Father”), Mk 14.36; see also Rom 8.15; Gal 4.6
- “Eloi, Eloi, lema sabachthani” (“My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?”), Mk 15.34 //Mt 27.46. This is Jesus’s cry from the cross, echoing Ps 22.1.
- “Raca” (an obscure term of abuse), Mt 5.22.

In addition, 1 Cor 16.22 preserves the Aramaic phrase “Maranatha” (“Our Lord, come!”), an opening or closing prayer formula of the early church, also found in Rev 22.20.

Finally, there are Latin loan words found in the Greek New Testament, as might be expected from texts that date to the period of the Roman Empire. Many of these words have to do with either commerce or government. The word “denarius,” a Roman unit of money, is one example from the language of commerce, while “centurion,” “census,” and “legion,” are words originating in the Roman administration, whether civil or military.

Sidnie White Crawford

TRANSLATION OF THE BIBLE INTO ENGLISH

PRINCIPLES OF TRANSLATION

Bible translation, though in principle the same as any other translation, is distinguished from it by two considerations: First, the reverence in which adherents of Judaism and Christianity hold the text, leading to concerns whenever a new translation is published that the text be treated with the respect it deserves; and second, the great popularity of the Bible, which has led to the proliferation of translations to meet every conceivable need and audience. In order to find one's way among the great variety of Bible translations available today, it is important to understand the principles underlying all efforts at translation.

In any translation from one language to another—the source language, or the original, and the target language, or the translation—two basic approaches define the limits at either end of a continuum of methods. The technical names for these translation approaches are “formal equivalence” and “dynamic equivalence.” Formal equivalence is usually explained as word-for-word translation, and dynamic equivalence as sense-for-sense or meaning-for-meaning. In general, formal equivalence places more importance on the qualities of the source language, and dynamic equivalence is more concerned with readability in the target language.

Except where the source and the target languages are closely related, however, a purely word-for-word approach would be almost unreadable. Such is the case with translations of the Bible: ancient Hebrew, Aramaic, Greek, and Latin (the languages of the original texts) are very different from modern English. Here, for example, is Mt 6.9–10 in a word-for-word rendering of the original Greek:

Father of us who in the heavens, be holy the name of you;
come the kingdom of you;
become the will of you as in heaven and upon earth.

While it would be possible to puzzle out some meaning from this, it is clearly not English, and an entire Bible translated along these lines would never be read. Most translations, therefore, move in the direction of dynamic equivalence, at least far enough to make sure that their representation of the original text makes sense in English. Some are more strict, for example always trying to use the same English word to translate a given Greek or Hebrew word (a characteristic known as “consistency”); some are freer, trying to achieve a more colloquial English style and using what seems to be the best English word for a Greek or Hebrew word in each separate context, regardless of how the same Greek or Hebrew word might be translated elsewhere. The result is a great range of translation choices for the Bible in English, from those suited to close study to those designed for readability, and readers can usually find a translation that fits their needs.

In the case of ancient documents, and especially those of religious significance like the Bible, there are further complicating factors. Translations must find ways to deal with cultural differences between the worlds of the ancient writers and modern readers; they often try to accommodate traditional phrasing or translations, especially in key passages; and they must take into account the actual uses to which the translation will be put, including uses on formal and significant occasions.

Cultural differences come into consideration when a passage to be translated presents, not a puzzle about the dictionary definition of a word, but one about the way the word was used in its original cultural environment. An example occurs in the following passages: “the two kidneys with the fat that is on them” (Lev 3.4); “he slashes open my kidneys” (Job 16.13); and “In the night also my heart instructs me” (Ps 16.7). The word translated “heart” in the psalm and “kidneys” in Leviticus and Job is the same Heb word, kelayot (or kilyotay, “my kidneys”). Literally it means the bodily organs, and in the passage from Leviticus that is clearly its meaning: The passage is discussing which parts of an animal will be burnt as a sacrifice. As a metaphor, however, it means the inner life of the human person, and that meaning is represented in the psalm. The verse from Job falls somewhere in between. In its context, it is part of a catalogue of images of physical torture, intended to express spiritual or psychological suffering, many of which cannot be taken literally. There is a question whether it should be translated literally here. An ancient Israelite listening to these passages would have differentiated among this range of meanings, just as we would differentiate among “stomach trouble” and “I have no stomach for that job,” or “heart surgery,” “My heart stood still,” and “Have a heart.” In the case of the Hebrew word, the translation has to make that distinction for us, since the literal rendering “kidneys” in the passage from Psalms would make no sense, or the wrong sense, to a modern reader.

A related problem sometimes arises when translators have to consider whether to add a word to the text to make something clear to a modern reader that the ancient audience would have understood without explanation. For example, in 2 Pet 2.14, the literal translation “children of a curse” is rendered in the NRSV as “Accursed children!” This conveys the correct meaning in idiomatic English, but it does not convey to the modern reader what ancient hearers would assume, that the curse is from God. The New English Bible translation does this effectively by adding a word to make this implicit meaning explicit: “God’s curse is on them.”

An example of a translation trying to accommodate traditional understanding occurs in Jn 1.18, where the NRSV translates a Greek phrase as “God the only Son,” and a footnote calls attention to two other possibilities. The Greek in actuality has three textual variants: monogenēs theos, “only God”; ho monogenēs theos, “the only God”; and ho monogenēs huios, “the only Son.” The translators first must decide how to render the Greek adjective monogenes. Older versions translate it as “only-begotten,” but it really means something like “only one of its kind,” i.e., “unique.” Then they must determine which noun—“God” or “Son”—this adjective is supposed to modify. The manuscript evidence tends to support “God,” since that variant appears in two papyri from the early third century CE, and also in manuscripts and citations from the fourth century. The variant “Son” appears only in the fifth century, in Codex Alexandrinus, and in later manuscripts. Since “only God” is present earlier, closer to the original time of writing, and since it is awkward, whereas “only Son” could be an effort to smooth out the text, “only God” seems to be the original reading. The NRSV effort to combine the two phrases is probably not correct.

Variety of use affects Bible translation particularly because many translations are intended for audiences outside the classroom or the scholar’s study. In particular, Bible translations are intended to be read aloud in worship services, and bearing this in mind, many translators will try to use an English style that is sometimes more formal or elevated than that in the underlying text. Passages from the Bible are used in ceremonies marking significant life events, like marriage; on important national occasions, like the inauguration of a president; and to help express and channel great communal emotions, as in the funeral of a national leader. A translation that is too colloquial would seem jarring in such contexts.

Translations, thus, rather than being static, fixed creations that plug in one word in English for one word in the original language, are dynamic mediations between different and sometimes opposing tendencies. Insofar as they take the original language seriously as a controlling factor, they will tend to be word-for-word renderings; insofar as they take English seriously, they will tend more toward a meaning-for-meaning approach. They will try to represent not just the language, but the thought and cultural background of the original writers and audiences; but they must also be sensitive to, and aware of, the great variety of needs among contemporary readers.

ENGLISH VERSIONS OF THE BIBLE

Prior to the sixteenth century, translations of the Bible into English were made from the Latin Vulgate instead of from Hebrew or Greek, and existed only in manuscript copies. The first English versions of the entire Bible were the two associated with John Wycliffe, translated from the Vulgate between 1380 and 1397. Part of the work on the first version was done by Wycliffe himself, and the rest, including all of the second, by his immediate associates. Nicholas Hereford was largely responsible for the first version, which was completed before Wycliffe’s death. John Purvey, Wycliffe’s secretary, was responsible for the second version, which was completed by 1397. In the “General Prologue” to the second version Purvey states that it is best “to translate after the sentence and not only after the words, so that the sentence be as open, or opener, in English as Latin”—that is, so that the meaning be as clear, or clearer.

The sixteenth century brought the Bible in English to the common people as a printed book. The first English version directly translated from the Hebrew and Greek was the work of William Tyndale: the New Testament was published in 1526, the Pentateuch in 1530, and Jonah in 1531. In 1534 and 1535 he published revised versions of the New Testament, which were the basis of all later revisions and the main source of the authorized versions of the New Testament in English. Tyndale was finally accused of heresy for his opposition to King Henry VIII’s annulment of his marriage to Catherine of Aragon, and in October 1536 was strangled and burned at the stake.

Miles Coverdale’s translation appeared in 1535, the first complete Bible in English. It was not a direct translation from the original languages, but was based on two Latin versions and the translations by Tyndale into English, and by the European reformers Luther and Zwingli into German. In 1537 Matthew’s Bible was published. “Thomas Matthew” was a pseudonym of John Rogers, a friend of Tyndale, who took Tyndale’s manuscript translations of the books of the Old Testament from Joshua to 2 Chronicles, together with Tyndale’s printed translations of the Pentateuch and the New Testament, and published them in this one volume, which he completed by adding Coverdale’s version of the rest of the Old Testament and the Apocrypha. In 1539 Richard Taverner, a layman and a lawyer, published a revision of Matthew's Bible, one edition of which was issued in parts so that people who could not afford to purchase the whole Bible might buy one or more parts. Taverner was a good Greek scholar and made some changes in the translation of the New Testament that have been kept in later versions. Meanwhile at Paris, in early 1538, Miles Coverdale had begun a new revision of Matthew's Bible, which had been commissioned by Sir Thomas Cromwell, Secretary to King Henry VIII and Vicar General. The Great Bible, as this was called, was published at London in 1539. It was the first authorized English version, and a copy was ordered to be placed in every church. Until very recently, the Psalms in the Book of Common Prayer were from this translation. A revision of the Great Bible under the auspices of the Anglican bishops, the Bishops' Bible, was published in 1568 and revised in 1572. This revised edition was to become the basis of the King James Version.

Under the Roman Catholic Queen Mary the printing of the English Bible ceased, and its use in the churches was forbidden. Many English Protestants sought refuge on the Continent, and a group in Geneva undertook the revision of the English Bible. The Geneva version appeared in 1560. It was a convenient size not an unwieldy folio, and was the first English version to use numbered verses, each set off as a separate paragraph. The Geneva Bible was never authorized, but it became the household Bible of the English-speaking nations for three-quarters of a century. It was the Bible of Shakespeare, John Bunyan, and the Puritans.

In 1582 an English translation of the New Testament was published at Rheims in France, made from the Latin by Roman Catholic scholars who had been forced to leave England led by Gregory Martin, who had been trained at Oxford University. A similar translation of the Old Testament was published at Douay in France in 1609.

On February 10, 1604, after a conference "for hearing and for the determining things pretended to be amiss in the church," King James I ordained: "That a translation be made of the whole Bible, as consonant as can be to the original Hebrew and Greek; and this to be set out and printed without any marginal notes, and only to be used in all churches of England in time of divine service." He appointed fifty-four translators, forty-eight of whom are named in the surviving records. They worked in six companies, to each of which was assigned a section of the Bible. Two companies met at Oxford, two at Cambridge, and two at Westminster. Each company would consider the work of the other companies, and differences would be resolved by correspondence if possible, and if not, be referred to the general meeting at the end. This was a meeting at London of a committee of six, made up of two representatives from the companies at each of the three centers, which devoted nine months to final editing. Dr. Myles Smith, of Oxford University, wrote an informative preface, "The Translators to the Reader." This Bible, with a dedication to King James, was published in 1611.

An outstanding merit of the King James Version is the music of its cadences, the result of a sure instinct for what would sound well when read aloud. For example, here are the successive translations of Prov 3.17, in praise of wisdom, where Coverdale, the Great Bible, and the Bishops' Bible agree in reading: "Her wayes are pleasant wayes and all her paths are peaceable." The Geneva Bible has: "Her wayes are wayes of pleasure and all her pathes prosperitie." The King James Version gives to the verse a perfect rhythm: "Her wayes are wayes of pleasantnesse, and all her pathes are peace."

The English Bible owes more to William Tyndale than to anyone else because the basic structure of his translation has endured. It has been estimated that about sixty percent of the text of the English Bible achieved its final literary form before the King James Version appeared, and that in the King James Version at least one-third of the New Testament is worded exactly as in Tyndale's New Testament, while the sentences of the remaining two-thirds follow Tyndale's general pattern.

For two and a half centuries the King James Version maintained its place as the Authorized Version of the English-speaking peoples, without any serious consideration of its revision, but in 1870 the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury appointed a committee to undertake a revision. The Revised Version of the New Testament was published in 1881, the Old Testament in 1885, and the Apocrypha in 1895. The American Standard Version, containing the renderings preferred by the American scholars who had cooperated in the work of revision, was published in 1901. In 1928 the copyright of the American Standard Version was acquired by the International Council of Religious Education, and thus passed into the ownership of the churches of the United States and Canada that were associated in this Council through their boards of education and publication. The Council appointed a committee of Protestant scholars to have charge of the text of the American Standard Version and to undertake inquiry as to whether further revision was necessary. After more than two years of study and experimental work, this committee decided that there was need for a thorough revision of the version of 1901, which would stay as close to the King James tradition as it could in the light of present knowledge of the Hebrew and Greek texts and their meaning on the one hand, and present usage of English on the other. In 1937 the revision was authorized by the Council. The Revised Standard Version of the New Testament was published in 1946, the Old Testament in 1952, and the Apocrypha in 1957. The Revised Standard Version took full account of the new knowledge of the history, geography, religions, and cultures of Bible lands, and of rich new resources for understanding the vocabulary, grammar, and idioms of the ancient languages. It also returned to the basic structure and more natural cadence of the Tyndale-King James tradition.

The second half of the twentieth century and the early twenty-first century saw the publication of many translations and revisions of the English Bible. In fact, between 1952 and 1990, when the New Revised Standard Version was published, no fewer than twenty-six different renderings of the complete English Bible were issued, with twenty-five additional translations and revisions of the New Testament. Among these are the following Jewish, Protestant, and Catholic translations are of special note.

In 1955 the Jewish Publication Society, whose first translation of the Hebrew scriptures had appeared in 1917, initiated a new translation. The Torah, The Five Books of Moses, was published in 1962, The Prophets (Nevi'im) in 1978, and The Writings (Ketuvim) in 1982. These three volumes, with revisions, were brought together in 1985 under the title Tanakh, A New Translation of the Holy Scriptures According to the Traditional Hebrew Text. The Tanakh has useful footnotes of three kinds—textual, translational, and explanatory—and is notable for its perceptive handling of Hebrew vocabulary and syntax in contemporary English.

A newer rendering of the Hebrew Bible, still in process, is that of Everett Fox, which tries to preserve as much as possible of Hebrew idiom in its English style. Portions that have so far appeared are Genesis (In the Beginning), 1983; Exodus (Now These are the Names), 1986; Torah (The Five Books of Moses), 1995; 1–2 Samuel (Give Us a King! Samuel, Saul, and David), 1999; Early Prophets (Joshua, Judges, Samuel and Kings), 2014.

In the year that the RSV New Testament was published (1946), British Protestant churches embarked on a totally new translation of the scriptures, The New English Bible; the New Testament appeared in 1961, and a revised New Testament, along with the Old Testament and Apocrypha, in 1970. At that time, C. H. Dodd, director of the enterprise and chairman of the New Testament translation panel, stated that this was “not another revision of an old version, but a genuinely new translation of the original, which should be frankly contemporary in vocabulary, idiom, style and rhythm—not to supersede the Authorized Version, but as a second version alongside it.” The rendering is free and vigorous, tending at places to be periphras-

tic. Here and there the translators have rearranged the sequence of verses and sections of the text. A revision, under the chairmanship of W. D. McHardy, was published as the Revised English Bible in 1989.

The first English Bible made from the original Hebrew and Greek languages that received Roman Catholic approval was The Revised Standard Version Catholic Edition, of which the New Testament was published in 1965 and the complete Bible in 1966. In it the Deuterocanonical Books were placed among the Old Testament books in accord with the Catholic canon. It was prepared by the Catholic Biblical Association of Great Britain with the consent of the Revised Standard Version Bible Committee and the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. There are no changes in the Old Testament text; the sixty-seven changes in the New Testament, made for liturgical and theological reasons, are carefully noted in an appendix. A significant further advance toward a Common Bible was achieved with the publication of the RSV without any changes whatever in the Oxford Annotated Bible with the Apocrypha (1966), to which Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston granted the imprimatur.

The first English translation of the Bible made from the original languages by Catholic scholars was The Jerusalem Bible, published in 1966. With close comparison with the Hebrew and Greek, it is based on the French translation made under the direction of l'École Biblique of Jerusalem by a committee of scholars headed by Père Roland de Vaux, O.P., and popularly known as La Bible de Jérusalem. The English translation was made by a British Committee headed by Alexander Jones, L.S.S., of Christ's College, Liverpool. The translation is well done and has been warmly received. At the same time it must be acknowledged that occasionally French idiom intrudes. “Yahweh” is used instead of the substitute, the LORD. The volume is provided with useful introductions and notes, and “thee,” “thou,” and “thine” disappear from the text. A full revision was published in 1985 as The New Jerusalem Bible under the supervision of Henry Wansbrough of Ampleforth Abbey, York.

The New American Bible, a translation by members of the Catholic Biblical Association of America sponsored by the U.S. Bishops' Conference, was published in 1970, which rendered the text into modern American English. A revision of the New Testament appeared in 1986, and of the Psalms in 1991. The rest of the Old Testament (including yet another revision of Psalms) and the Apocrypha were published as The New American Bible Revised Edition in 2011.

For readers new to English, the American Bible Society issued “Good News for Modern Man,” a translation of the New Testament by Robert G. Bratcher, in 1966. Also called Today's English Version, it uses simplified syntax and a limited vocabulary. The Old Testament, prepared by a committee, came out in 1976, and the Deuterocanonical/Apocryphal books in 1979. The popularity of the Good News Bible spurred the preparation of another modern-speech Bible. This is the New International Version, sponsored by the New York Bible Society (subsequently the New York International Bible Society). The New Testament was published in 1973 and the complete Bible in 1978. Less colloquial than Today's English Version, and more literal than the New English Bible, the version was prepared by twenty teams of translators from evangelical Protestant traditions in the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and Great Britain. In 2005, a revision known as Today's New International Version appeared, to be superseded in 2011 by a new revision of the original New International Version. In 2013 a new translation in colloquial English, The Common English Bible, appeared. It was sponsored by a consortium of American Protestant publishers.

The ecumenicity of our times is in various degrees represented in these newer translations, but perhaps most of all in the New Revised Standard Version. The committee that produced the Revised Standard Version is a continuing committee, holding meetings at regular intervals and having charge of the RSV text, and it has become both international and ecumenical, with the appointment of Catholic and Protestant members from Great Britain, Canada, and the United States. Since 1946 an American Jewish scholar had been a member of the Old Testament section. More recently a Greek Orthodox scholar joined. In 1974 the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of Churches directed that the Committee undertake a revision of the RSV Bible with the Apocrypha, mandating that necessary changes be made (1) in paragraph structure and punctuation; (2) in the elimination of archaisms while retaining the flavor of the Tyndale-King James Bible tradition; (3) in attaining a greater degree of accuracy, clarity, and euphony; and (4) in eliminating masculine-oriented language relating to people, so far as this could be done without distorting passages that reflect the historical situation of ancient patriarchal culture. Within the constraints set by the original text and the mandates given by the Division, the committee followed the maxim, "As literal as possible, as free as necessary." As a consequence, the New Revised Standard Version (1990) remains essentially a literal translation. Paraphrastic renderings were adopted only sparingly, and then chiefly to compensate for the lack of a common-gender third-person singular pronoun. The NRSV contains all of the books that are regarded as authoritative by Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Eastern Orthodox churches.

Michael D. Coogan and Pheme Perkins

THE INTERPRETATION OF THE BIBLE THE HEBREW BIBLE'S INTERPRETATION OF ITSELF

The typical terms used to describe how the Bible interprets itself—inner-biblical interpretation or inner-biblical exegesis—are misleading. They suggest that one text in the Bible is interpreting an earlier biblical text. Newer understanding of canon, however, suggest that it is problematic to speak of "the Bible" until the early centuries of the common era (see "The Canons of the Bible," 2238). Thus, when we speak of Deuteronomy interpreting Exodus or of Daniel interpreting Jeremiah, for example, this is only inner-biblical interpretation from our later perspective; for the author of Deuteronomy, Exodus was not Bible nor was Jeremiah Bible for the author of Daniel—the term, and perhaps even the concept Bible is anachronistic for the authors or Deuteronomy or Daniel.

These are instead cases of later texts that were eventually incorporated into the biblical canon (e.g., Daniel interpreting earlier texts (e.g., Jeremiah) that were eventually incorporated into the biblical canon.

In other words, since the different books that make up the Bible were written at various times, later books refer in various ways to earlier ones. Typically, these earlier works are not merely quoted, but interpreted. This is a natural process; texts, especially religious texts, are not read purely in the abstract, since religious communities bring their lives and experiences to the text and often attempt to bring the text closer to their lives. It is thus not surprising that according to Neh 8.8, when sections of the biblical text were read to the postexilic community in the fifth century, "They read from the book, from the law of God, with interpretation. They gave the sense, so that the people understood the reading." Like any book, the text read by Ezra and his assistants required interpretation. Since "the law of God" suggested legal norms or common stories that the community should share, the people needed to hear not only the text itself but also its correct interpretation. This was because the text is at points ambiguous, like most other literary works, or self-contradictory, like other books that are anthologies.

The covenant-making ceremony alluded to in Neh 8 occurred in the fall, and that text suggests that the reading from the Torah included some form of Lev 23.33–43, which outlines the commemoration of the fall harvest festival of booths (Sukkot), beginning on the fifteenth day of the seventh month (counting from Nisan, in the spring). According to Lev 23.40, proper commemoration of the festival includes the following: "On the first day you shall take the fruit of majestic trees, branches of palm trees, boughs of leafy trees, and willows of the brook; and you shall rejoice before the LORD your God for seven days." This passage is ambiguous on at least two points: What should the worshipers do after they "take" these various greens? And what is meant by "the fruit of majestic trees" and "boughs of leafy trees," which are interspersed with very specific tree names ("palm," "willow")?

The treatment of Lev 23.33–43 in the later passage in Neh. 8.14–15 shows how this postexilic community interpreted Leviticus, resolving these ambiguities: "And they found it written in the law [Heb torah], which the LORD had commanded by Moses, that the people of Israel should live in booths during the festival of the seventh month, and that they should publish and proclaim in all their towns and in Jerusalem as follows, 'Go out to the hills and bring branches of olive, wild olive, myrtle, palm, and other leafy trees to make booths, as it is written.'" Thus, the term "take" from Lev 23.40 is interpreted in the context of the immediately following legislation (v. 42)—"You shall live in booths for seven days"—to mean "take" for the construction of "booths." Furthermore, the ambiguous trees are stipulated as olive trees and myrtles. The way in which this later text clarifies how the earlier text should be understood is not at all remarkable: The types of branches to be used are clarified and, naturally enough, the broader context of the fall festival laws of Lev 23 is used to explicate the purpose for which these branches are taken.

The process of interpretation, where a later text interprets an earlier one, began before the Bible was canonized, as noted earlier. It is especially obvious in Deuteronomy, which in both its legal and its narrative sections reuses and interprets earlier traditions now found in Exodus and Numbers. One example from each genre will illustrate the pervasive interpretive nature of Deuteronomy.

The law of a Hebrew slave is found in Ex 21.2–11, the Covenant Collection (or Covenant Code), in Deut 15.12–18 as part of the Deuteronomic Law Collection, and in Lev 25.39–43. A quick glance indicates that the texts in Exodus and Deuteronomy are closely related and interdependent. Moreover, biblical scholars agree that the Deuteronomic Law Collection (D) is later than the Covenant Collection (C); this means that that slave law in Deuteronomy is dependent on that in Exodus. It is thus significant that the words "without debt" from Ex 21.2, concerning the release of the slave at the seventh year, are missing in D's retelling of this law. Instead we find the following, which, based on its placement and context, is most likely D's interpretation of C's "without debt": "And when you send a male slave out from you a free person, you shall not send him out empty-handed. Provide liberally out of your flock, your threshing floor, and your wine press, thus giving to him some of the bounty with which the LORD your God has blessed you" (Deut 15.13–14). The Deuteronomist has naturally subsumed C into his own intellectual framework, which includes the idea that the underprivileged must be looked after carefully. Thus for the Deuteronomist, "without debt" could not be interpreted literally and narrowly; instead it suggested that slaves must be released with resources to enable them to be self-sufficient so that they will not immediately find themselves in debt again—thus they must be provided for. While this is not an obvious interpretation of Exodus and is not what the author of Exodus intended by the phrase, it offers a good example of how a word may be reinterpreted by a later writer to fit a later ideological worldview.

This particular reinterpretation is mild when compared with other, more radical reworkings in Deuteronomy of the earlier law, including that the same law applies to both male and female slaves, in contrast to Ex 21.2–6,7–11. The ear-piercing ceremony, which transpires if the slave opts to stay with the master, must take place at the owner's house (Deut 15.17), while Exodus suggests that it happens "before God," namely at the local shrine (Ex 21.6). This change is motivated by Deuteronomy's fundamental assumption that the local shrines were illegitimate, and worship was permitted only at the Jerusalem Temple—thus an originally sacred ritual becomes a profane one, accomplished at home. This suggests that later writers, facing differing circumstances, did not always feel bound by the letter of earlier laws and could "interpret" them into new laws that the earlier legislators would hardly have recognized.

These same tendencies can be seen in Deuteronomy's reinterpretation of earlier narratives. Both Ex 18 and Deut 1.9–18 narrate the establishment of a judicial system in ancient Israel so that Moses would not be responsible for all legal cases. The theme and vocabulary of the two stories are so similar that it is clear that Deuteronomy has created its story by interpreting Exodus. Some of this interpretation is quite reasonable; for example, Deut 1.17, "Any case that is too hard for you," clarifies the somewhat ambiguous "every important [lit., "great"] case" of Ex 18.22. However, the change of Ex 18.21, "able men ... who fear God, are trustworthy, and hate dishonest gain" to Deut 1.13, "individuals who are wise, discerning, and reputable," is not based on a straightforward interpretation of the earlier text. It is as if the author of this passage in Deuteronomy thought: Is it reasonable that righteousness in religious observance is the most important quality of judges? Surely not. Surely Jethro, Moses's father-in-law, meant "wise" when he said "men who fear God"! Other cases of interpretation in this passage by the Deuteronomist are more radical; he, for example, ignores the fact that this judicial system was set up at the instigation of Jethro and transfers the initiative to Moses, the central character of Deuteronomy. Like any reader, the Deuteronomist interprets the story within his own framework, even if this means that a new story, distinct from the original, is created.

The previous illustrations show how ambiguities in texts are resolved, and how a text can be (consciously or unconsciously) reinterpreted within the framework of the later reader's context and beliefs. They reflect cases where the later interpreters are acting as readers, and thus interpreters of texts. These readings, though at points radical, have parallels to the way contemporary readers might engage secular works, often reading or interpreting them in a manner that differs from their original context or meaning. As a composite canonical text, however, the Bible presents challenges of interpretation that are different from contemporary literary works. In particular, the Bible contains diverse traditions that are ultimately incorporated into a single work and thus somehow need to be reconciled. Additionally, particular parts of the Bible, especially some prophetic texts, present themselves as divine truths; when these seem not to have come true, they must be reinterpreted.

A simple case where laws contradictory laws are reconciled occurs in the legislation concerning the cooking of the Passover lamb. Exodus 12.8–9 notes, "They shall eat the lamb that same night; they shall eat it roasted over the fire with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. Do not eat any of it raw or boiled in water, but roasted over the fire, with its head, legs, and inner organs." Deuteronomy 16.7, however, insists, "You shall boil it [NRSV "cook it" reflects an incorrect attempt at harmonizing the various laws] and eat it at the place that the LORD your God will choose." These differences are not at all surprising within a source-critical model, which suggests that they reflect different practices of different groups at different times. But what should be done when both texts become part of the same Torah?

This problem was already felt, for example, in the postexilic book of Chronicles, for which the Torah (more or less in the form that we know it) was an authoritative legal text. The Chronicler depicts the Passover celebration under King Josiah (2 Chr 35.13): "They boiled the passover lamb with fire according to the ordinance" [a literal translation; NRSV is harmonistic and inaccurate]. The Chronicler has thus reconciled the two traditions by choosing elements from both: The offering is "boiled," following Deut 16.7, but "with fire" reflects the "roasted over the fire" of Ex 12.8–9. Through the brilliant (but problematic) expression "boiled ... with fire," the two variant traditions are retained, and in some sense reconciled.

The manner in which various problematic prophecies are already interpreted within books that became part of the Bible, so that they become true, is remarkable. The clearest example of this is from one of the latest texts of the Hebrew Bible, Dan 9. The background of this text is the earlier prophecy in Jer 25.11, which suggests that Babylon will be given dominion over the world for seventy years; Jer 29.10 builds upon that prophecy, suggesting that after these seventy years are completed, Israel will be restored. This presented a serious problem for the author of Dan 9, living during the reign of the (Seleucid) Greek king, Antiochus IV Epiphanes, who persecuted the Jews and forbade them to follow the most fundamental laws (see Introduction to Daniel, p. 1249). In this period, between 167 and 164 BCE, it seemed that Jeremiah's word, which claimed that a complete restoration would transpire, was false. But also by that time it is likely that Jeremiah was already considered a true prophet, and his book circulated widely. How could this true prophet utter an oracle that was so patently and painfully false?

This explains why Daniel "intensively consulted [NRSV "perceived in" is inaccurate] the books concerning the number of years that, according to the word of the LORD to the prophet Jeremiah, must be fulfilled for the devastation of Jerusalem, namely, seventy years" (9.2). Because Jeremiah's prophecy seemed not to be true, intensive consultation was needed, so that the real meaning, the proper interpretation of the seemingly unambiguous "seventy years" [Heb shib im shanah] could be deciphered. The angel Gabriel (v. 21) finally offers Daniel the correct interpretation (v. 24): “Seventy weeks [Heb shabu im shib im] are decreed for your people and your holy city: to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place.” The consonants of Jeremiah’s shib im (“seventy”), are read twice, first as shabu im, (“weeks”), then, as shib im (“seventy”). (In the period when Daniel was written, Hebrew was written with consonants only, so the same word could be pronounced, and understood as, different words with different vowel sounds.) The result of this intensive consultation is that Jeremiah’s “seventy” means “seventy weeks of years”: seventy times seven or four hundred and ninety years. Thus, Daniel updated the prophecy and gave Jeremiah a four-hundred-twenty-year extension so that his prophecy could still be true, as it was awaiting fulfillment after Daniel’s time.

The author has here engaged in what has been called (in reference to similar rabbinic texts) “creative philology,” reading and interpreting words in a highly creative fashion. Here, as in later rabbinic texts, this is not done to maintain the status of Jeremiah and his prophecies. Closely related to creative philology is “creative historiography,” where an interpreter revises or adds to earlier texts, thereby creating a fundamentally new historical tradition. This may be seen very often in Chronicles, which frequently and ingeniously reworks or adds to its sources, typically the books of Samuel and Kings. A classic example of this type of interpretation through creative historiography may be seen in 2 Chr 8.2, which claims that “Solomon rebuilt the cities that Hiram [a variant spelling of Hiram] had given to him, and settled the people of Israel in them.” This is an imaginative revision, indeed a reversal of 1 Kings 9.11–12, which tells of cities that Solomon gave to Hiram! The Chronicler read his source within his own interpretive framework and theology, which included the notion that the righteous Solomon could not possibly give away cities from the holy land of Israel; 2 Chr 8.2 is an interpretive attempt to deal with this theological problem.

These examples illustrate how later passages interpret earlier passages. Many other examples from almost every biblical book could be offered, including more subtle cases where the interpretation is accomplished through textual juxtaposition, or the interpretive tradition is not found in a separate text (like Chronicles), but has entered as a type of gloss in the original text that it is interpreting. The examples cited are meant to illustrate the range of inner-biblical interpretations; some are rather straightforward, clarifying ambiguities, while others are remarkably radical, transforming legal or narrative traditions in an extreme fashion. Finally, when seen in combination with the essay on Jewish interpretation in the Premodern Era (p. 1863), these illustrations highlight the continuity between inner-biblical interpretation and early rabbinic interpretation.

Marc Z. Brettler

THE INTERPRETATION OF THE BIBLE THE NEW TESTAMENT INTERPRETS THE JEWISH SCRIPTURES

SCRIPTURE IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

The second-century CE satirist Lucian of Samosata, in Asia Minor, attacked the early Christian movement in the person of a charlatan prophet, Peregrinus. Peregrinus feigned conversion, rose to the position of local bishop, and gained considerable prestige among his naïve coreligionists when he was imprisoned for the faith, before assuming another career. How did Peregrinus achieve his exalted position? According to Lucian, “He interpreted and explained some of their books and even composed many and they revered him as a god, made use of him as a lawgiver” (On the Death of Peregrinus 11). By the mid-second century CE, then, Christians could be mocked for their preoccupation with interpreting sacred texts as well as for composing their own writings. At least in part, such interpretation was understood to involve rules for Christian conduct. Whether “a lawgiver” pronounced legal rulings on community discipline or codified ethical norms is not clear. From the point of view of the educated elite, Christians who followed unlearned bishops could be duped because they, as well as their leaders, lacked the advanced rhetorical training required for the interpretation of texts.

Similar objections are expressed within the New Testament. In the Gospel of John, local Pharisees scorn the blind man’s confession that Jesus is from God, on the grounds that he has no standing to interpret the Torah (Jn 9.24–34). Matthew has the scribe trained for the kingdom of heaven able to bring from his storehouse both new things and old ones (Mt 13.52). He defends Jesus’s understanding of the Torah and the prophets as attending to the substantive matters—justice, mercy, and faithfulness—rather than making burdens of details about tithing as the Pharisees do (Mt 23.23–24). Paul insists that the true meaning of the law remains veiled, like Moses’s face, from his fellow Israelites. They can understand its meaning only by turning to Christ (2 Cor 3.7–18).

Thus, most biblical interpretation in the New Testament serves a polemical or apologetic purpose: to defend Christian claims about Jesus. Neither the assertions themselves nor the presuppositions employed to derive them from scripture would be acceptable to those who did not share Christian beliefs. Nevertheless, the interpretative methods used, especially by Matthew and Paul, have much in common with those used by other Jews in the same period.

Though mid-second century Christians began to treat their own writings as sacred texts, that was not yet true in the first century. Only the latest of the New Testament texts, 2 Peter, suggests that a collection of Paul’s letters was regarded as authoritative (2 Pet 3.15–16). Thus, whenever a New Testament writer refers to or quotes scripture, he is interpreting texts so regarded by the Jewish community. The scriptures were not known to these writers in their original Hebrew, but in Greek translation, the Septuagint (see “Textual Criticism,” The Hebrew Bible: Texts and Versions, p. 1845 and “Canons of the Bible,” the Greek Bible, p. 1840). In many cases, the text that a New Testament author quotes or interprets differs from that found in a modern translation of the Hebrew Bible. We cannot tell if the author is quoting from memory, misquoting, or altering the text to suit his argument until we have compared it with the Septuagint as well as the Hebrew.

Scripture for the New Testament writers consists of those writings that they held in common with Diaspora Jews: the Torah, prophets, Psalms, and assorted texts from the Writings. In frequency of quotation and allusion in the New Testament, Psalms and Isaiah predominate, followed by Deuteronomy and other passages from the Torah. Some are introduced with a formula such as “it is written” (Mt 2.5; Lk 20.17; Acts 15.15–18) or “it was said” (Mt 5.21). In other cases, the expression “that is” combined with application of the text to reading the community’s experience as part of God’s eschatological plan resembles the interpretation of prophetic passages in the interpretive commentaries (“pesharim”) among the Dead Sea Scrolls from Qumran (e.g., Mt 3.3; 11.10; Jn 6.31,50; Acts 2.16; 4.11; Rom 9.7–9; 10.6–8; Heb 7.5; 1 Pet 1.24–25; see 1 QpHab 12.6; CD 7.14–15; 4Q174 1.11–14). Use of an adversative expression to correct a prior tradition of interpretation, as in Matthew’s “you have heard . . . but I say” (Mt 5.21–22,27–28,31–32,33–34,38–39 43–44) resembles a rabbinic formula (Midr. Pss. 119.26). Matthew does not continue in the rabbinic mode, however, which would require that Jesus establish his interpretation by appealing to other texts from scripture.

CHRISTOLOGICAL READING OF SCRIPTURE

The primary focus of New Testament biblical interpretation is the belief that Jesus is God’s messiah, the agent of God’s eschatological salvation. Some texts are repeatedly interpreted with a strong messianic meaning: Ps 2; 8; 110; Deut 18.15,18–19; and 2 Sam 7.14. Prophecies from Joel 2–3 (Acts 2.16–21), Zech 9–14 (Mk 11.1–2; Heb 10.19), Dan 7 (Mk 13.26), and Dan 12 (Jn 5.29) play a major role in understanding the risen and exalted Jesus as the one who has inaugurated the end-time. Daniel 7.13–14 lies behind the Christological confession of Jesus as the Son of Man who will come in judgment (see Mk 14.62). In many cases, the reference to Daniel is not explicitly marked. Readers who do not recognize the allusion—or are not aided by the notes found in a modern edition—may miss the use of allusions or partial quotations to support a claim about Jesus.

Even when the text being employed is evident, one cannot always determine whether the author is using the passage as an isolated proof-text or intends readers to incorporate elements from its larger biblical context into the interpretation. Among the Qumran texts, testimony collections gather biblical passages on a particular topic. Some combine references to a future prophet (4Q175: Deut 5.28–29; 18.18–19; 33.8–11; Num 24.15–17; 4Q174: 2 Sam 7.10–14; Ps 1.1; 2.1–2). If early Christians used similar collections of texts on a theme, the larger context of any quotation (which would not have been given in the collection) is irrelevant. When the same texts are quoted in the same combination by different authors, such a source may well be behind all of them. Christ as the stumbling stone based on Isa 8.14; 28.16; and Ps 118.22 appears in several places (Mt 21.42; Acts 4.11; Eph 2.20; 1 Pet 2.6). A collection of proof-texts may have been the source of Matthew’s set of fulfillment quotations, which assert that events in the life of Jesus were foretold by the prophets: 1.23 (Isa 7.14; 8.8); 2.6 (Mic 5.2), 18 (Jer 31.15), 23 (source uncertain; see Judg 13.5,7; Isa 11.1; 53.2); 4.14 (Isa 9.1–2); 8.17 (Isa 53.4); 12.17–21 (Isa 42.1–4); 21.4–5 (Zech 9.9). They exemplify the particular significance of Isaiah in early Christian understanding of the suffering and death of Jesus.

Christians, using the Septuagint translation, were able to read Isaiah’s original reference to a young woman who will soon bear a child as a reference to the miraculous birth of God's messiah from a virgin (Isa 7:14). When Matthew embedded this text into the story of Jesus's birth, he fixed its Christian interpretation in the imagination. Similar reinterpretations arose in dealing with the end of Jesus's life: The necessity of explaining how Jesus's death fit into God's plan drew Christian attention to passages describing God's suffering righteous one. Early interpretation matched details in the story of Jesus's passion to passages in Isaiah (for example, abuse of the prisoner from Isa 50:6 and 53:5; see Mt 27:67–68). Some scholars think that Jesus himself may have begun this process by applying texts concerning the suffering righteous one and the coming "son of man" (Dan 7:13–14) to his ministry.

Isaiah's prophecies about the salvation that is coming to Zion also play an important role in the Gospel narratives. The announcement of salvation to the suffering ones in Isa 61:1–3 has been embedded in an inaugural speech of Jesus (Lk 4:17–19). The same passage is reflected in Matthew's Beatitudes (Mt 5:3–12). Images of the day of salvation from Isaiah dominate the Christian liturgical celebrations of Advent, Christmas, Lent, and Easter. So firmly are these passages fixed within a Christological interpretive tradition that many Christians find it impossible to imagine that they could refer to anything other than the coming of salvation in Jesus.

As Christians came to articulate claims about Jesus's identity as the unique Son of God, they used biblical texts to support this view in a more polemical way. Jesus is shown to prove his own superiority to the human descendants of David with a clever twist on Ps 110:1 (Mk 12:35–37): David himself (the presumed author of the Psalm) uses the title "Lord" of the messiah. Hebrews 1:5–14 attaches other Psalm texts to Ps 2:7 as evidence that Jesus is God's Son and as such exalted above the angels. John 10:31–39 has Jesus cite Ps 82:6 in self-defense when he is accused of blasphemy for claiming to be the unique representative of God. In all of these examples, interpreting the Bible is not pursued for its own sake. Rather, Christian beliefs about Jesus are prior to the biblical passages produced to support them. The result, however, is that many passages from the prophets and Psalms have become so embedded in the gospel narrative that for the Christian imagination they belong to the story of Jesus.

SCRIPTURE AND CHRISTIAN PRACTICE

Matthew 5:17–20 defends the teaching of Jesus against the charge of dissolving the Torah and the prophets. The Torah is identified with the exact words of the written Hebrew, and Matthew affirms its divine authority in every particular. The Christian understanding represents the fulfillment of the Torah and prophets by establishing a righteousness superior to that taught by scribes and Pharisees. What principle underlies the adversative readings that follow in Mt 5:21–28? A common explanation attributes to Jesus the authority of a messianic interpreter of the law. He can determine its intent with an authority greater than that of those Jewish interpreters who appeal to the oral tradition that was said to have been given by Moses. Disputed points are to be resolved once and for all based on the "prophet like Moses" of Deut 18:15–18 (see Jn 4:19,25). In what follows, Jesus and his followers are to do more, not less, than the Torah requires. The debate over divorce in Mt 19:3–13 employs a related argument. Though the Torah contains provisions for granting a divorce (Deut 21:1), Jesus claims that Moses introduced such stipulations as a concession. They do not reflect the will of God as revealed in Gen 1:27. The Genesis text also figures in a critique of social laxity about divorce in the Dead Sea Scrolls (see CD 4:19–21). Thus it was used to indicate God's intention concerning marriage prior to the time of the Qumran community (second century BCE through first century CE). The Qumran tradition, however, does not use it, as the New Testament does, to negate the legal standing of another text of the Torah. This passage from Matthew implies that the point of "messianic" interpretation is to restore the intention of the original lawgiver, namely God. Matthew 5:48 concludes on a similar note: Righteousness implies assimilation to God's own perfection.

New Testament authors do not interpret the details of legal traditions found in the Jewish scriptures. Rather, a series of "summary principles" serves to demonstrate that the intention of the Torah has been realized in the Christian community. Matthew 7:12 uses the "golden rule" as such a summary, for instance. The most common Christian summary focuses on the injunction to love God and neighbor, the love command (see Mk 12:28–34; Jn 13:34–35; Rom 13:8–10; Gal 5:14; Eph 5:1–2; 1 Thess 4:9–10; Heb 13:1; Jas 2:8). Matthew 23:23–24 employs the distinction between attention to observance of detailed precepts concerning tithing and the "weightier matters"—justice, mercy, and faithfulness. This passage has, apparently, been reformulated from Matthew's Jewish-Christian perspective, since it presupposes the development of the law on tithing (Deut 14:22–29, later taken to include dill and cumin). The parallel in Lk 11:42 fits the more common New Testament pattern. Those condemned fail in justice and love of God, that is, the obligation to love God and neighbor. Though the text is not quoted exactly, Matthew's formula probably reflects Mic 6:8.

Christians also presume that the stories concerning Israel provide instructional examples for their community. Tales of unfaithfulness or grumbling in the wilderness were particularly popular (see 1 Cor 10.1–13; Heb 3.7–4.13). Abraham serves as an example of the works (such as hospitality) appropriate to faith (Jas 2.21–26 includes Rahab as an example). The heading “faith” introduces a catalogue of biblical models in Heb 11.1–40, which serves as a summary of the biblical story from Abel through the prophets. Though “by faith” has been inserted into each example, the particular story that follows does not always represent faith, at least not in the same way. The Christological exegesis by which Hebrews argued that Jesus as exalted Son of God was foreseen by the Psalms and prophets and that the sacrificial death of Jesus ended the need for Jewish sacrificial rituals (Heb 7.1–10.18) shapes this catalogue as well. Each of the heroes in the catalogue merits a promised reward for fidelity to God, which has been deferred until the establishment of a heavenly people of God through Jesus (11.13–16).

SCRIPTURE IN CHRISTIAN POLEMIC

The Christian conviction that scripture spoke to and about their community even when it was made up largely of Gentiles (as in 1 Pet 1.10–23) resulted in polemical use of the biblical text against a simplistic, literal reading. The strategies employed in several striking rereadings became fixed principles of early Christian exegesis: typology, allegory, and the distinction between the “spirit” and the “letter” of the text. Typology is a method of reading a text that sees characters, incidents, or themes within it as representing “types,” or impressions, of a central form, the “antitype.” When a coin or medallion was struck, the copies produced were called types, and the name therefore came to signify all of the related images based on one master design. Typological readings already occurred in the Hebrew Bible; the prophet known as Second Isaiah, for instance, interpreted the return from exile typologically as a second Exodus (Isa 48.20–21, alluding to Ex 17.1–7). In the New Testament, interpreting a biblical text typologically presumes that persons or events in the narrative provide a pattern of Christian experience; for instance, Israel’s passage through the Red Sea and eating manna foreshadow Christian baptism and Eucharist (1 Cor 10.1–4). In other cases, the relationship of the Christian person, idea, or event may be antithetical to the person, idea, or event found in scripture; for instance, Paul contrasts Adam and Christ (Rom 5.12–21), part of Paul’s argument for faith rather than observance of the law as the principle of salvation.

Paul’s use of the Abraham story to defend the thesis moves into terrain foreign to the apparent meaning of the story. Genesis 15.6 is taken to mean that Abraham’s righteousness depends only on faith (Rom 4.1–25). Some scholars call this type of argument “midrash,” a traditional Jewish form of interpretation, in which one text is supplemented by others to extract a further meaning. Psalm 32.1–2 plays this role in Rom 4.7–8. John 6.30–51 contains a lengthy dispute in which the incarnate Christ is said to be the meaning of Exodus. Biblical references in the Fourth Gospel are notoriously indefinite. John 6.31 reflects some combination of Ex 16.4,15; Ps 78.24; and Wis 16.28. Such typologies do not deny that scripture refers to persons and events that belong to Israel’s past. Their significance in God’s plan of salvation, however, requires that they be recognized as prefiguring the Christian reality.

Paul’s treatment of the Abraham story in Gal 4.21–31 moves beyond simple typology to a method of interpretation that becomes more prevalent in later Christian writers: allegory. Allegory in its pure sense is an extended comparison between two different levels, usually a narrative level and a psychological or spiritual level, in which the writer, speaking directly about the narrative incidents and characters, intends and is understood to mean to speak about the symbolic level. This kind of reading had already been adapted from Greek interpretive practice by the Jewish writer Philo of Alexandria (ca. 15 BCE–50 CE). In Galatians, the son born of a slave woman is rather shockingly associated with the Sinai covenant and all those who seek to be bound by it. Descendants of Isaac are not physical descendants of Abraham but children of a promise. Paul concludes that since Gen 21.10 permits the slave woman and her son to be cast out, his audience should do the same to any Christians who insist upon belonging to Israel “according to the flesh.” Even in what appears a blatant misreading of the Abraham story, Paul presumes that the text has a literal sense as well. Abraham, Isaac, Sarah, and Hagar are not merely symbolic figures representative of the two parties to the conflict in Galatia.

Later theories of allegorical meaning found support in Paul’s distinction between “the letter that kills” and the life-giving “Spirit” in 2 Cor 3.6. The polemical context of this passage sets Paul and his preaching over against what appear to have been Jewish Christian missionaries. Again Paul’s version of Ex 34.28–35 in the argument which follows inverts the Jewish traditions of the Targums. The standard Jewish explanations of this passage assume that the splendor on Moses’s face either remained permanently or increased. For Paul’s Jewish contemporaries the glory on Moses’s face and the eternity of the Sinai covenant are closely associated (see Pseudo-Philo, Biblical Antiquities 11.5; 19.10–16; 32.7; 1Q34 2.5–8). Israel’s sin makes it impossible for the people to look upon the glory reflected in the face of Moses. Paul instead assumes that the veiling of Moses's face was a means of hiding the evidence of a fading glory, that is, an impermanent covenant. He asserts that he is the servant of a new, eternal covenant established through the Spirit (Jer 31.18,33; Ezek 36.26), not the letters carved on the tablets of stone.

With the Latin rendering of Greek gramma ("letter") as littera, its identification with the carved tablets of Torah gave way to "letter" as meaning the entire written text. Paul's antithesis of Spirit and letter was taken to be a hermeneutical principle rather than a polemical attack on the eternity of the law (also see Rom 2.27–29; 7.6). From this perspective, a literal reading of the text fails to convey its deepest truth. Only the spiritual interpretation that associates scripture with the revelation of God in Christ conveys life. Israel may then stand for any persons who are trapped by the literal sense of the text and who therefore fail to interpret all of the scriptures in light of Christ.

PHEME PERKINS

THE INTERPRETATION OF THE BIBLE JEWISH INTERPRETATION IN THE PREMODERN ERA

There are many points of continuity between the inner-biblical interpretation of the Hebrew Bible (see "The Hebrew Bible's Interpretation of Itself," p. 1856) and its interpretation in later Jewish tradition. The later interpreters faced the same issues as those from the end of the biblical period: the ambiguity of many words and the desire to bring the text closer to Jewish life. In addition, most faced a new reality: the Bible was canonized as a fixed set of books, closed to further additions. Not surprisingly these later interpreters adopted and adapted many earlier solutions, especially the use of creative philology and creative historiography, in order to give the closed canon greater elasticity. Some interpretive innovations appeared at particular periods, either as creative breakthroughs within the Jewish tradition or as a response to outside influences. For example, some Jewish interpreters reacted against Christological biblical interpretations, while others were influenced by the Muslim interpretation of the Qur'an and the interpretation of the Bible by the Karaite community, which accepted the Hebrew Bible but not its Talmudic interpretation.

Although the practice of interpreting the text by re-writing it, as reflected (e.g., in Chronicles), continued after the canonization of the Hebrew Bible, for example in the second century BCE pseudepigraphic composition Jubilees, a retelling of Genesis through part of Exodus, it was largely replaced by commentaries of various sorts. Commentary, which by definition differentiates between text and interpretation, is fundamentally different from inner-biblical interpretation. For clear theological reasons, these commentaries were interested in differentiating between the canonical biblical text and its interpretation—the text cited and the commentary offered have different statuses.

TRANSLATION AS INTERPRETATION

The earliest postbiblical interpretive traditions, however, are found in another new genre, Bible translation. Aramaic was the lingua franca of the postexilic period, and many Jews were no longer fluent in Hebrew; the Bible was therefore translated into Aramaic. Though these earliest translations are no longer extant, we do have later Aramaic translations of sections of the Bible that predate the destruction of the Second Temple (70 CE) from the Dead Sea community of Qumran, as well as a set of Aramaic translations, called Targums, that crystallized in both Babylon and Palestine. In addition, the Bible was translated into Greek in Alexandria, Egypt, beginning in the third century BCE. This translation, called the Septuagint (the translation of the seventy—abbreviated using the Roman numeral LXX), is of great value and is supplemented by a variety of other Greek translations, some of which were found at Qumran, dating from the first century BCE and later (See "Textual Criticism," p. 1843.)

These translations illustrate the truism that all translations are interpretations. More particularly, they demonstrate the range of translation approaches, from literal interpretation to free paraphrase. (See "Translation of the Bible into English," p. 1852, for a discussion of translation approaches.) For example, the Septuagint and the Aramaic translation called Targum Onqelos are typically word-for-word, literal versions, as far as that is possible between languages. Yet even these literal translations show nonliteral tendencies at points. For example, Onqelos was aware of the fact that the biblical verse, “You shall not boil a kid in its mother’s milk” (Ex 23.19; 34.26; Deut 14.21), was generalized in early Jewish tradition and served as the basis for the prohibition of eating dairy products and meat together. For this reason, Onqelos renders the biblical text, “Do not eat meat with milk.” The interpretive nature of the Septuagint is especially obvious in the longer superscriptions that this version adds to psalms. Following an interpretive tendency that already existed in the Hebrew Bible, whereby several psalms were given (secondary) historical superscriptions that contextualized them in the life of David (e.g., Ps 51, “To the leader. A Psalm of David, when the prophet Nathan came to him, after he had gone in to Bathsheba”), superscriptions were added to many additional psalms (e.g., Ps 27, introduced in the Septuagint with “A Psalm of David, before he was anointed”). Thus, a biblical model was followed, and new introductions, which provided new interpretive “Davidic” frameworks for these psalms, were composed and appended to the biblical text.

In other cases, nonliteral translations were offered because the theology of the translator and his community disagreed with what the text explicitly said; this is the theological equivalent of the translation by Onqelos of “You shall not boil a kid in its mother’s milk” as “Do not eat meat with milk.” For example, Num 12.8 says of Moses, “he beholds the form of the LORD,” a notion that was very disturbing to the translator of the Septuagint, for whom the predominant image of Deuteronomy, that God has no form (see esp. Deut 4.12,15), was normative. The translator thus assimilated what the text explicitly says into his theology, which more closely matched the Priestly notion that God is manifest through his “glory,” and rendered this section of the verse as “and he saw the glory of the LORD.” This was the same sort of change discussed in the essay “The Hebrew Bible’s Interpretation of Itself” (p. 1856) when both Deuteronomy and Chronicles rewrote (rather than translated) earlier texts, changing them so that they conform to a later theology.

These cases of nonliteral, exegetical translations are rather tame when compared to some of the highly expansionistic translations seen in the Targums, especially those originating in Palestine. Most remarkable is the case where the Targums “translate” the Akedah or the binding of Isaac (Gen 22). In the biblical account, Isaac has a relatively minor role and is a character who is acted upon rather than one who acts. Many of the Targums, however, interpret the story in such a way that Isaac now plays a major role. For example, Targum Pseudo-Jonathan glosses v. 10 (“And Abraham picked up the knife to slay his son”) as follows: “Abraham put forth his hand and took the knife to slaughter his son. Isaac spoke up and said to his father: ‘Tie me well lest I struggle because of the anguish of my soul, with the result that a blemish will be found in your offering, and I will be thrust into the pit of destruction.’ The eyes of Abraham were looking at the eyes of Isaac, and the eyes of Isaac were looking at the angels on high. Isaac saw them but Abraham did not see them. The angels on high exclaimed: ‘Come, see two unique ones who are in the world; one is slaughtering, and one is being slaughtered; the one who slaughters does not hesitate, and the one who is being slaughtered stretches forth his neck’” (Targum Pseudo-Jonathan: Genesis [trans. Michael Maher; Collegeville, MN: Liturgical, 1992] p. 79). (The translation in Targum Neofiti, another Palestinian Targum, is similar.)

The Targum to Song of Solomon is even more remarkable in the way in which it assimilates the text to its general understanding that the book should be interpreted as a historical allegory. Thus, its “translation” of 1.2, “Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth! For your love is better than wine,” reads: “Solomon the prophet said: ‘Blessed be the name of God who gave us the law via Moses the scribe, a law inscribed on two tablets of stone, and six orders of the Mishnah and the Talmud by oral tradition, and spoke to us face to face as a man kisses his companion, from the abundance of the love with which he loved us, more than the seventy nations’” (Marvin Pope, Song of Songs [Anchor Bible]; New York: Doubleday, 1977) p. 299). A similar, very expansionistic translation of Genesis may also be seen in the much earlier Aramaic Genesis Apocryphon, found among the Dead Sea Scrolls; for example, it fills in the laconic biblical notice of Sarah’s beauty with a long description of her attractive attributes.

PESHARIM

The type of rabbinic commentary that typically separates the biblical text from its interpretation did not originate with the rabbis, but shows much continuity with one form of postbiblical interpretation seen in the Dead Sea Scrolls. This genre is called Peshar literature; the name of the genre, “Peshar,” derives from the word it frequently uses, which means “actualized interpretation.” Peshar literature is distinct, however, from rabbinic literature (though not from the type of Jewish interpretation evidenced in much of the New Testament) in that it typically applies (mostly prophetic) texts to the author’s current situation with the assumption that the biblical text, though written long ago, refers to the later author’s time period. For example, Peshar Habakkuk quotes (in a slightly different form than the standard Hebrew text) the words of the seventh-century prophet Habakkuk (2.15), “Alas for you who make your neighbors drink, pouring out your wrath until they are drunk, in order to gaze on their nakedness,” and then continues: “Its interpretation concerns the Wicked Priest who pursued the Teacher of Righteousness [the leader of the Qumran community] to consume him with the ferocity of his anger in the place of his banishment, in festival time, during the day of Atonement. He paraded in front of them, to consume them and make them fall on the day of fasting, the sabbath of their rest (trans. Florentino García Martínez and Elbert J. C. Tigchelaar, The Dead Sea Scrolls Study Edition [Leiden: Brill, 1977], vol. 1, pp. 19,21). After quoting a section of the biblical text, it updates it by applying it to its own time period.

An example of (proto)rabbinc interpretation of legal material already found in this pre-rabbinc Qumran community is illustrated by the following interpretation from the Damascus Covenant, another key text of the Qumran community: “No one should do work on the sixth day, from the moment when the sun’s disc is at a distance of its diameter from the gate [= the horizon], for this is what it says [Deut 5.12], ‘Observe the sabbath day and keep it holy’” (CD X.15) (Dead Sea Scrolls Study Edition, pp. 567, 569). This legal text is quoting the Decalogue from Deuteronomy, and is interpreting the first word, shamor, “observe,” in a more literal sense as “guard”; it continues by suggesting that the way in which one guards the sabbath day is by ceasing from work a bit before the sabbath actually begins, the time when the sun is one diameter away from setting. This would, of course, help to prevent violation of the sabbath, which, according to the Bible, is a capital offense. Yet such stringent observance is never actually required by the biblical text; rather, it is “found” in the text by using (only mildly) creative philology on the Hebrew word shamor, “observe,” which is understood as “guard.” The same regulation is found in rabbinic literature, though it is derived differently.

CREATIVE HISTORIOGRAPHY

Pre-rabbinc texts are also useful in terms of tracing the notion of “creative historiography” from the late biblical through the early rabbinic periods. Jubilees, a pseudepigraphic book written in the second century BCE, at about the same time as Daniel, is filled with examples of creative historiography. For example, in retelling the creation story, Jubilees supplements the biblical text, noting among other additions that angels are fashioned on the first day of creation. Law is of paramount importance for this author, and he therefore retrojects many legal obligations from Exodus-Deuteronomy into his retelling of the book of Genesis, so that Genesis would not be merely a narrative work. (This shows, incidentally, that the emphasis on “law” was not a rabbinic or Pharisaic innovation.) For example, he inserts laws from outside of Genesis into the sabbath narrative of Genesis 2.2–3 (see Jub. 2.26–30). In addition, because the Torah was canonical for the author of Jubilees, the two different creation stories, which critical scholars see as separate (Gen 1.1–2.4a; 2.4b–3.24), are read canonically as a single story by one divine author. As a result, the second (Yahwistic) story is used to fill in the details of the more laconic first (Priestly) story; for example, Eve, only created in the second story, becomes the woman created in the first (Jub. 3.8). There is nothing remarkable about this development: once the Bible is read canonically and the existence of sources forgotten, it becomes natural to interpret the stories in this fashion.

Josephus, a Jewish historian of the first century CE, also offers many examples of creative historiography in his Jewish Antiquities. He often remolds biblical characters so that they better fit the ideals of his Greco-Roman audience. He also restructures biblical texts, so that problems inherent in the text as it is currently ordered are resolved. For example, Gen 10 contains a genealogical description of the nations of the world that recounts their dispersion. Yet this is followed by the Tower of Babel story, which begins with the geographical unity of humanity. In his retelling of the Torah, Josephus brilliantly solves this problem by reversing the order of these chapters, putting the genealogies after the story of the Tower of Babel. This is an early example of what would later become a fundamental principle of Jewish interpretation, that the narrative order of the biblical text does not necessarily represent the chronological order of the events it is depicting.

Jubilees and Josephus are also important because they offer explicit justifications for their radical rewriting of earlier traditions. Jubilees presents itself as revealed to Moses on Sinai with the help of a mediating angel. Josephus notes in the introduction to Antiquities: “The precise details of our Scripture records will, then, be set forth, each in its place, as my narrative proceeds, that being the procedure that I have promised to follow throughout this work, neither adding nor omitting anything” (Josephus, Ant., Proem 3 trans. Henry St. John Thackeray [Loeb Classical Library 242; Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 1967] p. 9). If these two ideas may be combined, we have much of the basis for the rabbinic interpretation of the Bible, which understood itself as (1) the legitimate (oral) law revealed to Moses on Sinai, which was passed down from generation to generation; and (2) the authoritative law, which might differ from the literal phraseology of the biblical text, but is, in reality, “neither adding nor omitting anything.”

Jubilees, Josephus, the Septuagint, and the Dead Sea Scrolls were not the only pre-rabbinic interpreters of the Bible. The prolific interpretations of Philo of Alexandria (ca. 20 BCE–ca. 50 CE) are characterized by his allegorical understanding of both biblical narrative and law; this tendency is later followed by Paul, who was Jewish. This may be seen as an additional form of creative historiography. Such radicalizing allegorization played a minimal role in later rabbinic texts, in part as a reaction against the early Christian allegorical interpretation of the Old Testament. But Jewish allegorical interpretation of the laws and narratives of the Bible would reemerge in the Middle Ages. In contrast to Christian allegory, Jewish allegorical interpretations of laws never replaced keeping the law, but complemented that observance by referring to the law's deeper meaning.

RABBINIC INTERPRETATION

There is a final, crucial assumption of the classical rabbinic world, which is best represented by the Mishnah (codified ca. 200 CE), the Babylonian Talmud (ca. 500), and the slightly earlier Jerusalem Talmud, as well as the various Midrashim (commentary or homily collections) from these periods: the Bible is divine speech, and as such should not be limited to the normal rules of human speech. The interpretation of Jer 25:11 in Dan 9 (see p. 1858) already partakes in this idea. It was likely fostered already by the creation from various sources of a “unified” Torah. How else but through the assumption that divine speech is fundamentally different from human speech can we explain, for example, why the two versions of the Decalogue (Ex 20, Deut 5) are different? God, and only God, can speak two things simultaneously! How else can we explain the fact that there “seems” to be a contradiction between various texts concerning slavery, about whether a Hebrew slave may remain a slave forever, or must be released at the jubilee (see next column). Obviously, this apparent contradiction must be reconciled by creative reinterpretation, based on the assumption that God does not use words in the same way we do.

The rabbis, in expressing this assumption, typically insisted that there is a superconcentration of meaning in the Bible as divine word. This meant for them that it cannot be interpreted as a “normal” text, which might have a stable meaning; rather, it has seventy (an indeterminate, but large, number of) “faces” or meanings. The rabbis also compare interpretation to striking a rock with a hammer: many different types of pieces, each of which is a legitimate part of the whole, are broken off. Also, as divine speech superendowed with meaning, it contains no extra words, nor, for some, not even extra letters—all is significant as the word of God.

Not all rabbis subscribed to these views to the same degree, and it is possible to isolate a group who saw the Bible as composed in more normal language. As a result, a tension developed that continued throughout later Jewish interpretation between the desire to take the text at its face value and the desire to see it as overendowed with meaning. Yet all agreed that as a divine text, the Bible should not be interpreted just like any other text. This is true whether the rabbinic comments are found in a Midrash (Midrashim, pl.), where they are organized around a particular text, or whether they are found in the Talmud and thus are organized (more or less) according to legal topics.

A particular interest of classical rabbinic interpretation was reconciling what critical biblical scholars would consider divergent legal traditions found in the Torah, and expanding the Torah through creative interpretation. This expansion allowed ambiguities to be clarified and the text to be contemporized despite its antiquity. For example, a Midrash to Ex 21:6, which states that the Hebrew slave under some circumstances shall stay with his master “for life,” is glossed “until the jubilee year.” The Midrash is almost forced into this reading, using creative philology, because Lev 25:40 says: “They shall serve with you until the year of the jubilee.” The Torah, as the unified word of God, cannot contain different ideas of when a slave is released, so the “forever” of Ex 21:6 must really mean until the jubilee. Again, though this interpretation might seem forced to us, it is almost natural within the framework of a society that reads the Torah as a unified, divine work.

As noted earlier, the rabbis also often extend and clarify biblical laws. Thus, the biblical text states that “work” is prohibited on the sabbath day, and anyone who works has committed a capital offense (e.g., Ex 31:14–15). But what is work? The problem is the same as that discussed earlier in reference to the festival of booths, where Lev 23:40 says that you must “take” branches of various trees but does not explicitly say what should be done with them (see p. 180). In the case of the branches, the context was used to provide the answer, and thus Neh 8:15 suggested that the branches should be taken to build booths, most likely based on the fact that the booth legislation (Lev 23:42) immediately follows the branch legislation. Similarly, Ex 31:12–17, which concerns the general sabbath prohibition, is found immediately after the instruction to construct the tabernacle; the classical rabbis adduced from this juxtaposition that “work” is any type of labor involved with the construction of the tabernacle, thereby creating thirty-nine categories of prohibited work. This is a reasonable, though not fully compelling, interpretation, which takes the text in its final form very seriously, where the juxtaposition of adjacent units yields meaning.

The vast literature of the classical rabbinic period is replete with examples of creative historiography, many of which are based on what some might consider over-reading the biblical text; but of course it is impossible to read a divine text too carefully. For example, the binding of Isaac opens with the phrase, “After these things God tested Abraham” (Gen 22.1). Most modern critical commentators see the phrase “After these things” as a type of filler, or paragraph marker, but this was an unlikely choice within the rabbinic mindset. This created a problem, since Gen 22 is not obviously related to the previous chapter. Thus, “these things” must be discovered through creative historiography. As is typical, there is no single rabbinic answer to what “these things” were. Various Midrashim, preserved both in Midrashic collections like Genesis Rabbah and in the Babylonian Talmud, create a dialogue between Isaac and Ishmael in which Ishmael boasts that he endured the pain of circumcision at the age of thirteen (Gen 17.25), while Isaac was circumcised at eight days; Isaac counters by saying that Ishmael just gave a single organ to God, whereas he, Isaac, is willing to give all of his organs to God. It is, according to this view, “after these things,” namely after Isaac expressed his willingness to be sacrificed, that God tested Abraham. Another view creates a dialogue between God and Satan, in which God says that Abraham would even be willing to sacrifice his son. This brings Genesis closer to the dialogue between God and the Satan (adversary) in Job 1–2; indeed, it is common for the rabbis to use one canonical story to fully explore the meaning of another based on their belief that the entire Hebrew Bible is a unified whole. These two different expansions of Gen 22.1 are not merely silly, nor do they simply “fill in” the details lacking in the original story; they both help explain the major problem of the text: How could a good God make such a request of Abraham?

Although the Midrashic inclination was deeply attuned to the text and its connection to the life of the community, it accomplished these goals with some violence to the context of the text. Thus, many rabbinic interpretations concentrate on the meaning of the individual word and the significance of the single letter (for example, the comments in the Midrash Genesis Rabbah, which explain why the Bible opened with a “bet” (Bereshit), the second letter of the Hebrew alphabet), so that the broader contextual story is often lost. The eleventh century saw a reaction against this type of interpretation in the development of the peshat school of interpretation.

MEDIEVAL COMMENTATORS

Beginning in the ninth century, medieval Jewish biblical commentary is often characterized by peshat, a notoriously difficult term to define, which often changes meaning depending on the commentator involved. For Rabbi Solomon (Heb Shelomoh) son of Isaac, or Rashi, who lived in France from 1040 to 1105, peshat (or more precisely, the related phrase he preferred: peshuto shel miqra, the peshat of the biblical text) meant “contextual meaning.” Rashi’s commentary, covering almost the entire Hebrew Bible, is a type of medieval Reader’s Digest of classical rabbinic interpretation. Little in Rashi is original; his brilliance, and extreme popularity (Rashi on the Torah was the first Hebrew book printed, before the Torah itself!) lay in his ability to select and rework rabbinic traditions, largely ignoring many that overly strained the context of the text and those which used the text as a type of peg on which to hang various ideas that are not at all connected to the context. More than that, the traditional Midrashim were so atomistic and filled with diverse opinions that it is almost always impossible to answer a simple question of how the Midrash understood the text. Rashi, through his judicious selection process, chose Midrashim that were relatively close to the text and were mutually reinforcing. Thus, this created a somewhat consistent reading of the larger unit. The commentary of Rashi, especially on the Torah, is broadly considered one of the most important postbiblical Jewish texts; it profoundly influenced Jewish understanding of the Bible, especially in European communities, as well as that of medieval Christians, for whom Rashi epitomized Jewish exegesis.

The method of peshat was taken one step further by Rashi’s son-in-law, Rabbi Samuel (Heb Shmuel) son of Meir, or Rashbam (1080–1174), who understood peshat in a more radical sense as the simple meaning of the text. Rashbam, though a leading scholar of Jewish law, felt free to offer interpretations of the text in his commentary on the Torah that disagreed with rabbinic law. For example, in contrast to his father-in-law who, following the rabbinic tradition, interprets the words “for life” concerning the Hebrew slave in Ex 21.6 as until the jubilee year, Rashbam glosses “according to the peshat, all the days of his life.” It remains unclear how Rashbam would have reconciled this peshat with what he understood to be the requirements of rabbinic law. In any case, the type of very literal, non-Midrashic way of reading the text, which characterized Rashbam, found new followers.

Rashbam is also noteworthy for the way in which some of his comments are clearly the product of a reaction against Christians, especially the persecution of Jews during the Crusades. Though some mild anti-Christian polemic is found in Rashi, the Crusades, which marked a significant change in the status of the Jews in medieval Europe, would leave a deep impact on many later commentators. Nevertheless, Jewish commentary should not be seen as predominantly reactive.

Much of the rest of medieval Jewish interpretation may be understood within the context provided above, as a continuum on which the classical atomistic Midrashim and the search for peshat existed as opposite poles. Several additional influences are noteworthy. Especially in countries where Arabic was spoken, a new serious study of the Hebrew language was begun, likely in an effort to counter the Muslim claim that the Arabic of the Koran is the most beautiful language. The best-known scholars in the Arab orbit include Sa'adya (882–942) in Babylon and Abraham ibn Ezra (1089–1164) in Spain and elsewhere; their commentaries were more philological in nature, exploring the meaning of grammatical forms and lexical terms. The early modern thinker Spinoza offers a picture of ibn Ezra as a medieval radical. In reality, despite some atypical positions that include doubting the Mosaic origin of some verses in the Torah and the suggestion that Isa 40–66, what scholars now call Second and Third Isaiah, are not by the same author as chs 1–39, ibn Ezra was traditional in his outlook and deeply philological in his perspective. Rabbi David Kimchi (Radak), who lived in Provence from 1160 to 1235, systematized many of these interpretations, and his understanding of biblical grammar was deeply appreciated by the later Christian Hebraists, and continues to have a major influence on the scientific study of Hebrew. More than any other medieval exegete, Radak also showed a deep interest in what would later be called textual criticism, namely deciding what the correct text of the Bible was, and many of his views in this area are remarkably modern.

The world of premodern interpretation is, of course, much richer than indicated here. It included a very significant strain of mystical interpretation, exemplified in the Zohar (late thirteenth century), and in the commentary of Nachmanides, Rabbi Moses son of Nachman (active in the thirteenth century). Philosophical interpretations also developed; most notable are those found in The Guide to the Perplexed by Maimonides (1135–1204). With the Renaissance, Jewish scholars were influenced by the new science; this is especially seen in the extremely lengthy commentary by Don Isaac Abravanel (1437–1508), who also synthesizes and to an extent harmonizes the many commentators of all types and from various geographical locations who preceded him.

Postbiblical Jewish exegesis does not neatly divide into the schools through which medieval Christian interpretation is often defined, and is essentially different from much of the work of its Christian counterparts. Part of this is because they were studying different works: the Hebrew Bible studied alone, or in relation to rabbinic traditions, is significantly different from the Old Testament as part of a larger Bible including the New Testament. Each community also studied the Hebrew Bible or Old Testament in different languages; only the Jewish community studied it in its original language, allowing interpretations based on close engagement with Hebrew to develop. The allegorical and especially the typological methods, which had a very significant role in Christian interpretation, played a much less weighty role in Jewish interpretation.

Despite these differences, which are very significant, most premodern Jewish and Christian interpretation shares a set of basic assumptions that make them fundamentally premodern. These include the idea that the Bible is an authoritative canonical work, which is revealed divine speech, and, as such, must be interpreted in a special way. Though set in history, it is in a sense timeless, speaking to every generation and to every individual. Although several medieval interpreters cast some small doubts on one aspect or another of these premises of interpretation, only in the seventeenth century would these shared assumptions begin to erode, paving the path for the slow movement from premodern to modern biblical interpretation.

Marc Z. Brettler

THE INTERPRETATION OF THE BIBLE

CHRISTIAN INTERPRETATION IN THE PREMODERN ERA

As the essay, “New Testament interprets the Jewish Scriptures” (p. 1859) indicates, Christian interpretation of scripture begins in the New Testament. The New Testament writers developed two of the interpretive approaches that remained central to Christian biblical interpretation until the rise of modern historical criticism: (1) a Christocentric focus, that is, a tendency to interpret Hebrew Bible texts, especially prophetic texts and the Psalms, as referring to Christ; and (2) typology, the recognition of a person or event in the Hebrew Bible as a type or figure of Christ or Christian salvation. A third approach, allegory, is also present in rudimentary form.

In order to understand the development of early Christian interpretation, it is important to consider the contexts within which and the purposes for which Christians interpreted the scriptures. First, teaching and pastoral care of Christian communities was one important focus, and much early interpretation occurs in the context of sermons and pastoral letters (e.g., the letters of Ignatius [ca. 35–ca.107 CE] and the homilies of Melito [d. ca. 190]). Second, missionary activity and Christian apologetics (the defense of Christianity before pagan detractors) provided a quite different context. In this situation the biblical writings had to be interpreted to an audience that often found these texts crude and out of keeping with the intellectual tastes of Greek-speaking culture. This fostered a strong impetus to interpret the scriptures in a way that would enhance their intellectual respectability. For this purpose Christian apologists used the tradition of allegorical interpretation that had been developed within Greek philosophical circles as a means of interpreting Homer and the other early Greek poets. Even before the rise of Christianity, the Jewish philosopher Philo of Alexandria (ca. 20 BCE–42 CE) had undertaken a detailed nonliteral interpretation of Jewish scriptures, including both typological and allegorical exegesis. Philo’s influence upon the Alexandrian school of Christian interpreters was profound.

A third context for interpretation emerged from Christianity’s attempts to define itself in comparison to Judaism. Since both religions laid claim to the same body of scripture, Christian interpretation addressed itself to the competing interpretations made by Judaism and Christianity. The harshly polemical Epistle of Barnabas (early second century) rejects the claims of Judaism to the covenant and so does not even begin to struggle with the interpretive problem that engages other Christian writers of the early centuries, the problem of the nature of the relationship between the old and new covenants, and the scriptures that witness to them. Much richer and more reflective is Dialogue with Trypho the Jew by Justin Martyr (ca. 100–165). The work takes the form of a long conversation between Justin and Trypho, a learned Jew, each of whom tries to persuade the other of the superiority of his claims and the interpretation of the scriptures upon which they are based. Justin attempts to establish a unity for the Old and New Testaments by arguing that the eternal Logos, fully revealed as Christ in the New Testament, was already the revealer of God’s will to the prophets. Though the old covenant was valid, Justin claims that the Jewish scriptures themselves foresee its being superseded by a new covenant. Justin’s approach, which anticipates the classic Christian understanding of the Old Testament, exhibits a historical perspective absent from Barnabas, but it is equally Christocentric.

The fourth context for early Christian interpretation was provided by disputes among Christians. For early Christian communities, two questions above all others exercised exegetical and theological thought: how does Jesus relate to God, and subsequently, how does Jesus’s relationship to God affect his status as a human being? Since many biblical texts seem to present quite different answers to these questions, interpreters pored over any hint at a theological solution. The debate surrounding the former question, termed the “Trinitarian controversy,” centered on analyzing and systematizing texts that mention God, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit at the same time, such as Jesus’s baptism in Mk 1.10–11, for instance, and in triadic formulations such as in 2 Cor 13.13 and Mt 28.19. Justin Martyr argued that, according to biblical texts, Jesus was “another God and Lord,” thus sacrificing clear monotheism to preserve Jesus’s divinity. By contrast, monarchianists such as Callistus (d. ca. 222) and adoptionists such as Theodotus of Byzantium (late second century) emphasized biblical texts that supposedly revealed Jesus’s humanity in order to protect monotheism.

For the most part, early Christian theologians worked with a clear assumption of a unified and coherent witness of the entire canon of scripture as well as an expectation that exegesis results in necessarily logical and systematic doctrine. These hermeneutical guidelines, inherited in part from Jewish sources, enabled early Christian exegetes to resolve the various discrepancies found in the disparate texts within and between both Old and New Testaments. For example, early Christians recognized that a coherent doctrine of God and a definitively unambiguous statement of Jesus's relationship to God are not found in the Bible. Thus, the Bible's various ways of presenting God, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit were reconciled by formulations hammered out by the councils of Nicaea (325 CE), Constantinople (381 CE) and Chalcedon (451 CE). From its very beginnings, Christian biblical interpretation thus became the driving force of theological reflection throughout the history of Christianity.

Although Christian theological disputes often focused upon biblical interpretation, other arguments focused on the extent of scripture itself. One challenge was posed by Marcion (mid-second century), who rejected the Hebrew Bible entirely, claiming it was the revelation of a lesser god, and accepted only the Gospel of Luke and ten Pauline epistles as the authentic "Gospel and apostle." Even these texts, he insisted, were corrupted by interpolations. To argue his case, Marcion invoked the principles of text criticism developed for the study of Greek poets. He also argued for a literal rather than an allegorical interpretation of the Old Testament (especially Genesis) in his attempts to discredit it as a crude and offensive book. Even more than the debate with Judaism, Marcion's claims required the church to articulate clearly its understanding of the revelatory significance of the Old Testament and its relationship to the New. A further challenge was posed by various Gnostic Christians. In contrast to Marcion, they engaged in highly developed forms of allegorical and typological interpretation of the Old Testament, which appealed strongly to one type of Hellenistic intellectualism.

Some of the liveliest of early Christian writings are those composed to refute Marcion and the Gnostics. The most notable is Against Heresies (Adv. Haer.) by Irenaeus (ca. 130–ca. 200). Irenaeus argued for the validity of the revelation of God in the Old Testament and its law but also claimed that in the New Testament God is revealed in a new way. He demonstrated the unity of the scriptures by means of typology, so that the Old Testament serves as a witness to the New. Irenaeus also attacked the interpretive methods of his Gnostic opponents, especially the Ptolemaic Gnostics, objecting that they ignored the context of passages, overlooking the clear and obvious in favor of the obscure, and reading into the text their fanciful theories. Significantly, Irenaeus not only argued on the basis of interpretive principles belonging to ancient literary and rhetorical theory but also invoked what comes to be known as "the rule of faith." As a defense against an anarchy of interpretation, Irenaeus claimed that a standard of correct interpretation has been preserved in those churches that stand in the apostolic succession. Interpretation that differs from that of the apostolic churches cannot be deemed true.

The argument for the authoritative interpretation of the church was definitively established by Tertullian (ca. 160–ca. 225) in the early third century in The Prescription against Heretics (De praescriptione haereticorum). In making orthodoxy the norm for the interpretation of scripture, Tertullian may have thought that he was establishing a narrow and simple standard. But even as the threat from heretical interpretation receded, philosophically oriented Christian interpreters, such as Origen (ca. 185–ca. 254) and Augustine (354–430), developed more profound and supple understandings of the nature of interpretation and the relation of scripture to orthodox theology.

Questions also arose concerning the definitive and authoritative version of the biblical texts. In the second century, some theologians worried about the conflicting accounts of the four canonical gospels; one popular solution was the creation of Gospel harmonies. For example, Tatian's Diatesseron (ca. 150) was a second-century synthesis of the four canonical gospels so as to present one unified story. While Tatian's harmony was very popular in the East through the fifth century, other early Christian exegetes such as Irenaeus urged Christians to hold to all four canonical gospels. Retaining the separate works requires exegetical energy, since the conflicts must be explained in some way, but the tradition of four separate gospels continues to this day.

Another conflict developed concerning the textual source from which one should translate the Bible. Until the last decades of the fourth century, most early Christian interpreters assumed the priority of the Greek Septuagint and its derivative translations. When Jerome moved to Palestine about 390 CE, he decided to retranslate his Latin version of the Old Testament from the Hebrew text instead of the Greek, reasoning that the Hebrew text was closer to the original version, and thus was more authoritative. In response, Augustine confronted him with a series of letters imploring him to retain the Greek text as his source, since switching texts could cause great theological confusion, disrupt the seeming prophetic continuity of Old and New Testaments, and perhaps cause a schism between Greeks and Latins within the Church. Jerome retained his view that his translation gained access to the "Hebrew Truth" (Latin Hebraica veritas) and eventually his new version, known as the "Vulgate," rose to prominence in the Latin West. Though Jerome often relied upon the Greek version of traditionally Christological texts in his new, and ostensibly Hebrew-based, translation (cf. Isa 7 and Job 19.25–27), the Vulgate required that at least nominal deference be paid to the Hebrew text as the “true” text of the Hebrew Bible.

In addition to looking at early Christian biblical interpretation in the light of various contexts for interpretation, one should also take into account the different modes of interpretation that existed during the early Common Era. As noted earlier, the sophisticated intellectual environment of Alexandria was already home to a lively tradition of allegorical exegesis before the emergence of Christianity. Thus it was not surprising that Christians would adapt this method of interpretation to their scriptures. Among the most eminent of the Alexandrian exegetes were Clement (ca. 150–ca. 215) and Origen. Allegorical interpretation reads a text as if the narrative incidents, characters, and other elements of its literal meaning are all intended to convey to the reader, by means of an extended comparison, another level of meaning entirely, usually a moral or spiritual one. Although many different types of interpretation may be called allegorical, all share a conviction that the authoritative text being interpreted has a deeper meaning than what appears on the surface, the literal reading. Thus allegory assumes that a text has multiple meanings, though interpreters may differ as to their worth. (Origen, for example, distinguished among literal, moral, and spiritual meanings.) Typically, allegorical interpretation shows little interest in meanings that are historically specific, preferring those that disclose timeless truths. Allegory is often invoked as an interpretive method when an ancient text that is undeniably authoritative has come to seem alien to the cultural sensitivities, moral standards, or understandings of God of a later age. Since the revered text must contain truth (which is often unconsciously equated with the highest and best values of the interpreter’s own time), a method must be employed that will allow those truths to be found in the text. In this manner the Christian allegorists of the Alexandrian school interpreted those aspects of the scriptures that seemed morally offensive, obscure, or simply of little literal interest. Thus Origen could interpret the narrative of the Exodus as an allegory of the journey of the soul as it leaves the sensual world (Egypt) and journeys toward the promised land of blessedness (Canaan). Origen was among the most sophisticated of the allegorists. Moreover, he was one of the first Christians to compose what can properly be called a commentary on a biblical book, a mode of interpretation that flourished in the fourth and fifth centuries.

Despite the prestige that allegorical exegesis enjoyed in some circles, it was also the subject of strong criticism. In part, it attracted suspicion because it was the method of interpretation favored by Gnostics. But allegory was also vulnerable to the charge that it was arbitrary and obscure. Some of the strongest critiques of the allegorical method came from exegetes associated with the Syrian city of Antioch. Like Alexandria, Antioch was also heir to a long tradition of Hellenistic scholarship. But Antioch was influenced more by Aristotelian traditions and by Jewish rabbinic exegesis. Thus, even though the Antiochene interpreters sought a spiritual meaning in the text, they also emphasized a grasp of the historical context within which the texts were written, as well as an appreciation of the literal sense of the text. Diodore of Tarsus (d. ca. 390), for example, sought to arrange the Psalms in historical sequence, using information found internally and in their titles. Similarly, he understood the Song of Songs as love poetry written by Solomon for the queen of Sheba.

The most radical and most creative interpreter of the school of Antioch was Theodore of Mopsuestia (ca. 350–428). Theodore challenged the inspired character of several books of the canon, including Job, Song of Songs, Chronicles, and Ezra-Nehemiah, claiming that they reflected only human wisdom and learning. Unfortunately, the Second Council of Constantinople, in 553, ordered his exegetical works to be burned, so his work is not known in detail. At times suspicion surrounded Antiochene exegesis because several church leaders judged heretical, most notably Nestorius (d. ca. 451), were associated with it. Despite opposition to the more radical interpreters, however, many of the insights and understandings of the Antiochene approach were popularized by the influential sermon collections of the moderate John Chrysostom (ca. 347–407) and by the manuals of biblical interpretation written by Adrian (425) and Junilius Africanus (550).

The figurative and literal modes of interpretation were not mutually exclusive, and many interpreters employed both methods. Jerome, the translator of the Vulgate, used allegory early in his career but increasingly preferred a more literal interpretive method. Even so, he never entirely abandoned allegory in his writings. Similarly, Augustine was troubled by the Manichean use of a literal-historical approach to discredit the Jewish scriptures on the grounds that they contained immoralities. He was unable to embrace Christianity until he saw how the allegorical method could provide a spiritual interpretation for such troubling passages. Like Jerome, however, Augustine moved beyond allegory to a more nuanced position that recognized the place of allegory but required the interpreter to distinguish between passages that can be understood in a literal interpretation and those requiring a figurative one. Moreover, all interpretation must be guided by the rule of faith and the law of love: “If it seems to anyone that he has understood the divine scriptures, or any part of them, in such a way that by that understanding he does not build up that double love of God and neighbor, he has not yet understood” (On Christian Teaching, 1.36.40; cf. Mt 22.35–40 par.).

Examples of early Christian biblical interpretation are also evident well beyond the writings of professional theological exegetes. From the production of visual art, liturgy, and music to the realms of ethics, politics, and legal theory, biblical interpretation in some sense undergirded, was filtered through, and occurred within almost every cultural practice of the Christian movement from its inception until the early modern period. For example, early Christian visual art generally depicts biblical narratives, characters, and themes, and as such reflects the basic typological and Christological patterns explored by biblical exegetes. While Christian images often reveal common interpretive motifs, at times fresh exegetical thought emerges from creative iconographic juxtapositions. It is clear that Christians employed images exegetically as early as the second century, when Clement of Alexandria exhorted Christians to choose pagan iconographies carefully, presumably in order to attribute biblical themes to the generic motifs. In one classic example, the pagan iconography of the “Good Shepherd” provided an easily recognizable but also inconspicuous mode of presenting the Johannine theme of Christ as the Good Shepherd. Around the year 200 CE, Christians in Rome developed the earliest known identifiably Christian art as they began to paint the walls of their newly acquired catacombs. Generally, they juxtaposed elements from a limited catalogue of pagan images, scenes from the Old Testament, and imagery derived from the New Testament. A third-century mosaic in the necropolis underneath St. Peter’s Basilica in Rome depicts a beardless Christ with a cross-nimbus imaged as Helios, the sun god, driving a chariot surrounded by grape vines. Surrounding this figure are an image of a shepherd with a sheep around his neck, an image of Jonah emerging from the belly of the fish, an image of fish and fishing lures, and another image of Christ telling Peter to “fish for people” (Mt 4.19). Together, these images offer a complex network of biblical exegesis, theology, and pastoral care. The pagan theme of the sun-chariot’s daily ascent from the realm of darkness at daybreak recalls Christ’s resurrection and ascension, as does Jonah’s deliverance from the fish’s belly. The good shepherd invokes Christ’s mission to find and care for the lost, while the vines of Dionysius are implicitly reinterpreted as the vine of Christ (Jn 15). In the funerary context of the catacomb, this program of images offers hope for the deceased in the final resurrection by depicting biblical themes, characters, and narrative scenes. While extant images from the first few centuries of the Christian era are rare, Christian art quickly became widespread after the imperial sponsorship of Christianity by Constantine the Great in the fourth century.

Similarly, early Christian liturgy relied upon biblical exegesis for the production and justification of its practices while offering interpretations of the Bible within its rites. By the second century, there are well-established manuals for church leadership and liturgy, such as the Syrian Didache; its baptismal liturgy, for example, is a pastiche of biblical texts designed to interpret, legitimate, and actualize the baptismal act. Like the ubiquitous Christian act of writing hymns, liturgy has also been an important space for reenacting and recontextualizing biblical texts, thus offering new meanings for various communities.

THE MIDDLE AGES

During the early Middle Ages scholars of the Bible not only preserved and transmitted the understandings of earlier centuries but also developed their own. In the West most interpreters were no longer able to read Greek, the Irish scholar John Scotus Erigena (ca. 810–ca. 877) being a noteworthy exception. Moreover, there was no significant interchange with Jewish interpreters, such as had been possible at Antioch and Alexandria and in the Holy Land. The works of Jerome, Augustine, and other patristic writers, however, were widely studied. As in earlier centuries, both literal and allegorical exegesis was practiced. Most commonly, four senses of scripture were recognized: the literal or historical, the allegorical, the anagogical (a mystical sense signifying heaven, the afterlife, or communion with God), and the moral or tropological. Thus “Jerusalem” could signify, literally, the historical city; allegorically, the church; anagogically, the heavenly city; and morally, the human soul. The influence of this four-level interpretive method extended beyond scriptural interpretation; most notably, Dante deliberately constructed his Divine Comedy in order to allow, as far as possible, all four levels of interpretation to be applied to it.

The primary institutional context for the study of the Bible in the early medieval period was the monastery. Among the early monastic scholars the most prominent was the Venerable Bede (ca. 673–725) in England, who composed commentaries and biblical aids as well as his influential Ecclesiastical History. An important impetus to the study of the Bible came from the religious and educational reforms sponsored by the Carolingian monarchs. Charlemagne (ca. 742–814) and his grandson Charles the Bald (d. 877) attracted the best scholars of the day, including Alcuin (ca. 735–804) and John Scotus Erigena (ca. 810–ca. 877), to supervise education at the palace and cathedral schools. The growth of such schools created a demand for resources, and the scholars of the Carolingian renaissance produced an impressive number of biblical manuscripts, annotations and aids to study, commentaries, and historical works, largely digests and compilations of glosses on the biblical text drawn from writings produced in late antiquity by the Latin fathers. The culmination of this type of scholarship was the production of the Glossa ordinaria, compiled by Anselm of Laon (d. 1117) in collaboration with other scholars.

The twelfth and thirteenth centuries saw the beginning of a more creative phase of medieval biblical scholarship, located first in the cathedral schools and subsequently in the universities. One important innovation was the division of the biblical books into chapters, first developed in England by Stephen Langton (d. 1228). (The numbering of the verses, or smaller units within the chapters by both Jewish and Christian scholars, followed in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.) This system was used in another innovation, the production of concordances or alphabetical indexes of words in the Bible, the most influential of which was that prepared by the Dominicans of St. Jacques in Paris, under the supervision of Hugo of St. Cher (ca. 1195–1263). Perhaps the most important of the cathedral schools was that of the Abbey of St. Victor, also in Paris, where a series of influential scholars taught during the twelfth century. The school, which was known for the rigor of study under the direction of its founder, Hugh of St. Victor (d. 1142), fostered both literal and allegorical (or mystical) exegesis. Later teachers tended to emphasize one or the other, Richard of St. Victor (d. 1173) developing allegorical interpretation, and Andrew of St. Victor (d. 1175) emphasizing the careful investigation of the literal and historical sense. Significantly, Andrew knew Hebrew and was influenced by Jewish scholars and traditions of Jewish exegesis. During the following centuries, an appreciation of the importance of such knowledge became more common among Christian exegetes of the Bible. Although the presence of significant Jewish communities in the major medieval cities made the study of Hebrew and Jewish exegesis somewhat more accessible, such knowledge was rare among Christian biblical scholars until the Renaissance. Greek was still relatively little known at this time, although Robert Grosseteste (ca. 1175–1253) translated several works, including the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs, from Greek into Latin.

Along with the development of important schools in the twelfth century, there was also a shift in the form in which biblical study was presented. In contrast to the earlier compendia of glosses, which were organized as running comments on the text of the Bible itself, in the twelfth century a different form of commentary developed, one that was organized according to theological topics and issues. This change in literary form both signaled and facilitated a closer relationship between the study of scripture and the development of theological doctrine. The most significant of these works, the Sentences of Peter Lombard (ca. 1100–1160), eventually became the standard theological textbook during the Middle Ages.

The establishment of universities in the thirteenth century marks an important shift in the social location of biblical study. Biblical interpretation became more specialized and was drawn even more closely into dialogue with theology and philosophy. Although some scholars continued to engage in allegorical exegesis, both the prominence of Aristotelian thought in the universities and the emphasis on doctrinal theology pushed biblical interpretation more strongly in the direction of literal exegesis. Albertus Magnus (1193–1280) and especially Thomas Aquinas (ca. 1225–1274) were the most eminent of these Aristotelian-influenced scholastic theologians and biblical interpreters. The harvest of this form of literal biblical exegesis can best be appreciated in the Postilla literalis of Nicholas of Lyra (ca. 1270–1349), which covers the entire Bible. Lyra's knowledge not only of biblical Hebrew, but also of the commentaries of Rashi (1040–1105) and other Jewish scholars (see "Jewish Interpretation in the Premodern Era"), gives his work a linguistic and exegetical precision lacking in most other medieval commentaries.

THE RENAISSANCE AND REFORMATION

The emphasis on original languages and a respect for the role of reason in interpretation, which had already become influential in late medieval scholarship, became the hallmarks of the new humanistic learning of the Renaissance. These values, however, which had previously been invoked in the service of scholastic theology in the Middle Ages, led in some rather different directions in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The scholar Erasmus (ca. 1466–1536) is something of a transitional figure. Though he used his incomparable humanistic knowledge to produce a new edition of the Greek New Testament and drew on classical Roman rhetorical traditions in his interpretation of Ecclesiastes, he also defended allegorical interpretation of scripture and had a high regard for scholastic theology, that of Thomas Aquinas in particular.

For the most part, the Christian humanist scholars did not set out to challenge the authority of the church. Yet sometimes the claims of reason brought them into conflict with church authority and traditions. In 1440 Lorenzo Valla (1407–1457) published his Declamation on the Donation of Constantine, in which he used reason to argue that the so-called donation of Constantine, which had underwritten papal authority in Rome, was in fact a forgery. Similarly, he demonstrated that a letter supposedly written by Jesus to Abgar, king of Edessa, which had been considered genuine at least since the fourth century, was in fact spurious. His approach to such ancient documents, and to the New Testament itself in his other writings, anticipated the critical study of the Bible that was to develop in later centuries. The audience for such critical works on the text of the New Testament text was facilitated by the publication of several Greek grammars between 1495 and 1520.

Fueling the explosive growth in Renaissance scholarship was the new availability of texts and critical works made possible by the development of the printing press. Following the publication of Johannes Gutenberg's Latin Bible in 1454, a wide range of books became available, not only in Latin and vernacular languages but in Greek and Hebrew as well. During the early sixteenth century several polyglot Bibles were published, that is, Bibles in which Greek, Latin, Hebrew, and Aramaic texts of the Bible were printed side by side to facilitate critical comparison.

The characteristic Renaissance interest in ancient languages and texts led some scholars, such as Giovanni Pico della Mirandola (1463–1494), Johannes Reuchlin (1455–1522), and Guillaume Postel (ca. 1510–1581), to explore the esoteric traditions of Jewish kabbalistic mysticism. Postel even translated the Bahir and the Zohar into Latin. These Christian kabbalists drew together elements of Jewish mysticism, Neoplatonic philosophy, Christian theology, and the Renaissance interest in the occult into a spiritual synthesis, which, not surprisingly, was condemned by church authorities. Reuchlin, however, can be called the father of Christian Renaissance study of Hebrew. He published an influential Hebrew grammar, based on the work of the medieval Jewish Rabbi David Kimchi (Radak) (see "Jewish Interpretation in the Premodern Era," p. 1863), and other aids that facilitated the increasing interest in the study of Hebrew by some Christians. Reuchlin also played an important role in resisting some attempts by the church to suppress Jewish writings, including the Talmud.

With the Reformation, biblical interpretation increasingly took place within an intense debate about the role of scripture in relation to Christian faith. To a large extent, however, both the early Protestant reformers and the scholars who remained within the Catholic tradition, such as Erasmus, incorporated the new linguistic and philological training in their interpretation of the Bible. Though Martin Luther (1483–1546) was not the first to argue that the Bible is the ultimate authority in matters of doctrine, the Protestant movement is distinctive in insisting that the Bible is the sole foundation for faith, doctrine, and church practices. In their refutation of the Protestants, Catholic scholars also appealed to biblical exegesis in support of the authority of the church and the papacy. Thus in the sixteenth century biblical interpretation reflects both the rich legacy of Renaissance humanism's linguistic and philological knowledge and a context of highly charged theological argument.

Although Protestant biblical interpreters in general rejected allegory in favor of the literal-historical sense, their interpretation of the Hebrew Bible was usually Christological and typological. Luther, for example, attended both to the literal-historical sense and to the literal-prophetic sense of scripture (i.e., the typological meaning foreshadowed in the text). Thus, since David was considered to be a prophet, the Psalms referred not only to David's life and circumstances but also to Christ who was to come. Luther's writings also reflect both continuity and discontinuity with the medieval tradition in his treatment of the tropological or moral meaning of scripture. Traditionally, this concern had been with the way in which the text addressed the nature and practice of the virtue of love. For Luther, the moral meaning is that aspect of the text that has to do with the nurture of faith, that is, trust in God's promises. Other Protestants, however, such as Zwingli and Bucer, follow Erasmus in understanding the moral meaning of scripture as providing paradigms for human behavior.

The issue of the relation of the two testaments also provoked a variety of responses among Protestant interpreters. Given Luther's theological distinction between law and gospel, his interpretation tends to posit a significant degree of tension between the testaments. In contrast, many other Protestant theologians saw an essential continuity between the testaments. Henrich Bullinger (1504–75), for example, treated covenant as a hermeneutical principle that unifies the scriptures. Before the advent of Christ the sign of the covenant is circumcision; after the advent, baptism. But the covenant is one and the same, the New Testament only presenting it with greater clarity. The nature and extent of the canon of the Old Testament also became an issue of controversy between Protestants and the Roman Catholic Church. Like

Jerome before them, the Protestant reformers argued that the church's Old Testament canon should be that of the Hebrew scriptures, that is, without the Apocrypha. At the Council of Trent (1546), the Roman Catholic church reaffirmed the inspired nature of some of these books, which were termed "deuterocanonical." The term does not denote a difference in status from the "protocanonical" books but signifies that their canonical status was clarified at a second stage. (See the essay "The Canons of the Bible," p. 1840, and the introductions to individual books among the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books for more details on the canonical status of particular books and the development of the differing canons of the Old Testament among the various Christian communities.)

Concern for historical context and for an understanding of biblical rhetoric was also prominent in early Protestant interpretation. The biblical interpretation of John Calvin (1509–64), who had legal training, was influenced by Renaissance humanism's approach to clarifying ancient law by means of an appeal to the original historical contexts and the intentions of the authors. As Calvin observes in the dedicatory preface to his commentary on Romans, "almost [the commentator's] only task [is] to unfold the mind of the writer whom he has undertaken to expound." Calvin's interpretation thus tends to be contextual rather than atomistic and attends not only to history but also to the cultural institutions and background of biblical texts and to the rhetorical forms in which biblical language expresses itself. Indeed, disagreement over a proper understanding of biblical rhetoric lies at the heart of one of the most important doctrinal disputes within early Protestantism. Luther contended that the word "is" in the biblical phrase "this is my body" (Mt 26.26) is to be interpreted literally, whereas Zwingli (1484–1531) argued that its natural sense must be understood rhetorically as nonliteral, "this signifies my body." Out of that interpretive dispute emerged two different theological understandings of the Eucharist.

Although Protestant theology's emphasis on scripture as the sole foundation of belief provided the impetus for intense interpretive activity, Roman Catholic scholars also produced a large amount of biblical scholarship, some provoked by controversies with Protestants and some not. Cardinal Cajetan (Thomas de Vio, 1469–1534) shared several views with Protestants, such as the preference for the Hebrew text over the Vulgate, the advocacy of a shorter canon (excluding the Apocrypha), and a literal form of interpretation. But much of his exegetical work was devoted to demonstrating biblical support for papal authority and traditional church doctrine.

The spread of literacy, the increased availability of translations of the Bible into European languages, and the Protestant emphasis on the sufficiency of scripture alone contributed to the spread of biblical interpretation not only among those trained in theological institutions and having linguistic skills but also among laity with modest training or only a bare literacy. Thus in the sixteenth century and beyond one begins to see an increase in nonscholarly interpretations, often of a millenarian slant. Although Luther and the other reformers had believed that the Bible was so clear that all reasonable readers would agree as to its meaning, as matters actually developed the democratization of interpretation led to a bewildering array of readings of scripture, nowhere more so than in England in the late sixteenth century. From the plowmaker Matthew Hamond to the clerk John Hilton, those who claimed that the New Testament was "a mere fable" were seen as a threat to decency and social order. Later, during the English Revolution and the period of the Commonwealth (1640–60), biblical interpretation became a primary mode of political argument among partisans of all factions.

THE SEVENTEENTH AND EIGHTEENTH CENTURIES

At the same time that Protestant orthodoxy was developing a complex and minute exegesis of the Bible in support of various church doctrines, rationalists of diverse theological allegiances were developing ideas that many saw as challenging traditional understandings of the Bible. Both the new scientific discoveries and those resulting from the exploration of previously unknown lands raised questions about how this new knowledge was to be understood in relation to the Bible. The conflict between the astronomer Galileo Galilei (1564–1642) and the Roman Catholic Church over the heliocentric view of the universe is only the most famous example. The perplexing problem of how to account for the existence of nations and peoples not mentioned by the Bible prompted the French reformer Isaac de la Peyrère (ca. 1596–1676) to suggest that Adam was not in fact the first human but was only the ancestor of the Israelites (The Pre-Adamites . . . By which are prov'd that the first men were created before Adam). At about the same time, along with others the philosopher Thomas Hobbes in Leviathan (1651) questioned Moses' authorship of the entire Pentateuch and in general emphasized the human mediation between God's word and the scriptures as they are available to be read in the Bible. The French Catholic scholar Richard Simon (1638–1712), often called the father of modern biblical scholarship, wrote a Critical History of the Old Testament (1678), in which he discussed the various versions of the Bible with respect to their relationship and authority.

Empirical in his approach, Simon also denied Moses' authorship of the Pentateuch and suggested that national archives preserved by prophets and scribes provided the sources from which the biblical books were composed long after the date of the events described in them. A similar rationalist criticism of the Bible was developed by the Jewish philosopher Baruch (Benedict) Spinoza (1632–77).

Moral criticism of the Bible, which had in part given rise to the allegorical method of interpretation in antiquity, was also practiced. Pierre Bayle (1647–1706), a French Protestant, published a highly influential historical and critical dictionary that contained an article on David widely perceived as scandalous, since it drew attention to the themes of adultery, murder, treachery, and injustice in the story of the “man after God's own heart” (see 1 Sam 13.14). Both moral and rational criticism of the Bible, including a critique of the claims to miraculous events, is found to varying degrees in the Deists of the eighteenth century, some of the more radical of whom challenged even the resurrection of Christ. In France, Voltaire (1694–1778) popularized some of the more extreme notions concerning the Bible and its claims, and a similar radical stance was taken by the American Thomas Paine (1736–1809).

Although discussion and interpretation of the Bible was conducted by intellectuals of every stripe, as well as at a more popular level, the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries saw an enormous development of technical biblical scholarship, which was almost always related to theological and cultural debates. For instance, the controversy as to the date and origin of the vowel points in the traditional Hebrew text of the Bible was fueled largely by disputes concerning the inspiration of the Bible and the relative reliability of the Hebrew text versus the Septuagint and the Vulgate. The study of text criticism was significantly advanced by the publication of the London Polyglot (1655–57), which included Hebrew, Greek, Vulgate, Syriac, Ethiopic, Arabic, and Persian versions, the Samaritan Pentateuch, and several Targums, along with a wealth of critical notes and aids. A large number of critical and historically oriented commentaries were published during the seventeenth century.

The eighteenth century saw the initial development of modern criticism of the Bible. The theory of the composition of the Pentateuch from a number of still identifiable sources, an idea that has been central to modern criticism, was first advanced by French scholar Jean Astruc (1684–1766). Bishop and Oxford professor Robert Lowth (1710–87) in England developed an analysis of the nature of Hebrew poetry, which is still widely accepted. But it was German scholarship that systematized and gave a distinctively modern character to historical-critical study of the Bible. Two landmarks of this emergent discipline were J. D. Michaelis's (1717–91) introduction to the New Testament and J. G. Eichhorn's (1752–1827) introduction to the Old Testament.

Carol A. Newsom

THE INTERPRETATION OF THE BIBLE FROM THE NINETEENTH TO THE MID-TWENTIETH CENTURIES

THE HISTORICAL-CRITICAL METHOD

The philosophical developments of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries had prompted an approach to the Bible that is often characterized as critical. It was critical not in a negative sense, although that sometimes seemed to be the case, but in the sense that it was free of presuppositions, especially those derived from either theology or tradition. To fully understand the Bible, scholars increasingly adopted an inductive approach, interpreting the Bible in an almost secular way, setting aside received views of its authority and authorship. This critical approach, an outgrowth of attitudes fostered during the Enlightenment, was very much in the spirit of the times and, like other legacies of the Enlightenment, was influenced by larger intellectual currents, such as Romanticism and the theory of evolution.

The overriding goal was historical: to determine what had actually taken place, and to recover the actual persons and events of the Bible as they had been preserved in the various stages of biblical tradition. The nature and development of these stages were to be understood through critical scholarship. This was the aim of “higher criticism,” as distinguished from “lower,” or textual criticism, and this higher criticism was essentially the historical-critical method.

With its many subdisciplines, the historical-critical method dominated biblical interpretation through the mid-twentieth century, and it continues to be influential. The scholars whose work is surveyed in the following pages were immensely learned, often experts in a variety of fields, including philology, textual criticism, comparative literature, and the study of ancient cultures contemporaneous with the biblical traditions. Moreover, also in keeping with the intellectual mood of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, they were optimistic, in retrospect even overconfident, operating on the assured conviction that with sufficient data and careful analysis of the data an objective, accurate, and complete understanding of the Bible was possible.

SOURCE CRITICISM

The critical study of the Bible had been begun in the seventeenth century by Hobbes, Spinoza, and Richard Simon, and it continued to gain momentum during the Enlightenment. In many respects the conclusions of scholars working on the Hebrew Bible were paralleled by those who worked on the New Testament, and the methods and preoccupations of both were similar to those of classical scholarship. In all three disciplines there was a concentration on historicity. And scholars in all three disciplines recognized that historical reconstruction needed to begin with a careful analysis of sources.

This was true first of all of the analysis of the Pentateuch into several literary strands. Jean Astruc had proposed in 1753 that the different names used for God in different parts of the book of Genesis were due to different sources that were used (by Moses) in writing it. Astruc’s insight was elaborated and refined in the nineteenth century mainly by German scholars, especially W. M. L. de Wette and K. H. Graf, who extended the analysis of sources to the rest of the Pentateuch (and in some cases to the book of Joshua, leading to the term “Hexateuch”; see “Redaction Criticism” on p. 1880).

The results of more than a century of this source criticism were brilliantly synthesized in 1878 by the German Old Testament scholar Julius Wellhausen in his book (Prolegomena to) The History of Israel. Wellhausen’s goal was to write a history of ancient Israel, especially its religion, and he followed an evolutionary model. The religion of Israel, Wellhausen argued, had developed in three stages: a primitive, spontaneous phase in the era before the monarchy; an ethical monotheism expressed especially by the preexilic prophets; and a sterile legalism characteristic of the Second Temple period. To support this reconstruction, he engaged in a careful analysis of the biblical traditions and, drawing especially on the earlier work of de Wette and Graf, gave the classic formulation to what is called the Documentary Hypothesis. According to the Documentary Hypothesis as elaborated by Wellhausen, the Pentateuch was an unreliable source for reconstructing the history of the time periods it narrated, but the traditions that comprised it, identified as J, E, D, and P, were datable and important evidence for the periods in which they were compiled. (See further “Introduction to the Pentateuch,” p. 3). These “documents” are hypothetical, that is, they do not actually exist, but they are the best explanation of the evidence—the parallels, repetitions, and inconsistencies in the final form of the Pentateuch.

Wellhausen’s historical reconstruction is clearly a product of its time, and it reflects the biases of the late nineteenth century. His view of early Israel as a fresh, undefiled religious spirit has a Romantic flavor, and his characterization of postexilic Judaism as a decline into dead legalism has an anti-Semitic cast. But his formulation of the Documentary Hypothesis became a classic statement, the theory that subsequent scholars up to the present have built upon, accepted, modified, or rejected. Despite initial and continuing conservative opposition, and, in the case of Roman Catholics especially, institutional interdict, it was widely adopted by liberal Protestant scholars and eventually by Roman Catholic and Jewish scholars as well, resulting in a large consensus that prevailed until late in the twentieth century.

Source criticism (often misleadingly called “literary criticism”) was not an end in itself but a method to be used in historical reconstruction. It recognized the inherent complexity of biblical traditions, and attempted to disentangle the prior stages of their development. Among the many significant results of source criticism was the recognition that the book of Isaiah is a composite work. The isolated insights of earlier scholars, including Rabbi Ibn Ezra in the twelfth century, and J. G. Eichhorn and others in the eighteenth, were expanded and elaborated in the commentary on Isaiah by Bernhard Duhm in 1892. The book of Isaiah, Duhm argued, was in effect an anthology spanning several centuries. First Isaiah (chs 1–39) was largely a product of the preexilic period and was itself a composite, including authentic oracles of the eighth-century BCE prophet Isaiah of Jerusalem, additions to those oracles and biographical materials added by his disciples, and historical narratives spliced in from 2 Kings. Chapters 40–55 (Deutero- or Second Isaiah) were a product of the mid-sixth century BCE, as the historical references in those chapters indicated. And the remainder of the book (Third Isaiah, chs 56–66) was to be dated a century or more later, despite similarities of language and themes to chs 40–55. In the Romantic spirit, Duhm was motivated to distinguish the genuine words of Isaiah himself, as well as those of the anonymous prophets responsible for the latter two divisions of the book, especially the author of the “Servant Songs” (Isa 42.1–4; 49.1–6; 50.4–9; 52.13–53.12).

Similar preoccupations and approaches characterized the study of the New Testament. Drawing on the work of earlier scholars, especially Richard Simon (again!) and H. S. Reimarus, in 1835 David F. Strauss published his “life of Jesus critically examined,” soon after translated from German into English by George Eliot, in which he attempted to strip the Gospels of the miraculous and mythical in order to recover the “real” Jesus. This inaugurated a “quest” for the historical Jesus that continued in the work of Ernst Renan in the mid-nineteenth century and Albert Schweitzer at the beginning of the twentieth, and that remains unfulfilled, as current lack of consensus demonstrates.

This quest was accompanied by a source-critical analysis of the Synoptic Gospels. While debate about which Gospel was written first was never fully resolved, the literary priority of Mark was argued by a succession of scholars in the nineteenth century. According to this view, held by a majority of New Testament scholars today but by no means all, Mark was used as a source by both Matthew and Luke (or, more properly, the authors of the Gospels to whom those names are traditionally given). Many passages in Matthew and Luke other than those based on Mark also share a verbatim correspondence, and another source was hypothesized for them. Known as Q, from the German word Quelle (“source”), it consists almost entirely of sayings of Jesus and, though hypothetical, is the earliest source for the life of Jesus. This “Two-Source Hypothesis” was given classic formulation in English by B. H. Streeter in 1924. (See further “Introduction to the Gospels,” p. 1379.)

Source criticism in the New Testament was also applied to the Gospel of John and the Acts of the Apostles. Careful analysis of the letters attributed to Paul led to the conclusion that some of them, especially the “Pastoral Epistles” (1 and 2 Timothy and Titus), and probably Ephesians and 2 Thessalonians as well, had not been written by Paul himself, and that others (such as 2 Corinthians) may be combinations of two or more originally distinct writings.

THE RECOVERY OF THE ANCIENT WORLD

The recovery of extensive written remains from the ancient Near East, and also to a lesser extent from the classical world, the latter especially in the form of papyri that document ordinary life, coincided with the development of the disciplines of anthropology, sociology, linguistics, and folklore. Both new data and new methods were applied to the biblical communities, resulting in works of extraordinary insight and, in retrospect, often of considerable naïveté. Biblical studies, however labeled, became a subject not just in denominational, seminary curriculums but a discipline recognized in larger university contexts as well, often as part of religious studies or the history of religion.

The process of recovery began with the decipherment of ancient Egyptian hieroglyphic writing in the early nineteenth century, which was made possible when a member of Napoleon’s army discovered the Rosetta

Stone in Egypt in 1799. This opened up the vast literature of Egypt, including valuable historical texts that provided synchronisms with biblical data relating especially to the first millennium BCE, and provided the basis for what would eventually be a comprehensive absolute chronology of the ancient Near East. Egyptian literature also provided parallels to such biblical genres as love poetry and wisdom literature.

In the mid-nineteenth century, British and French explorers began to unearth hundreds of thousands of cuneiform texts in Mesopotamia, and these too were rapidly deciphered, giving access to the literature and written remains of ancient Babylon, Assyria, and Persia. Like the Egyptian texts, they could often be correlated with biblical history, but their impact on biblical studies was more profound. In 1872 George Smith, working in the British Museum, discovered on one of the tablets that had been sent to London a flood narrative remarkably similar to the account in Genesis. While some took this as a simple historical confirmation of the Flood, it soon became clear that the biblical account was a literary descendant of earlier Mesopotamian accounts. Further discoveries provided many other parallels between Babylonian and Israelite literature, law, institutions, and beliefs, and in most cases Babylon again appeared to be the source. Sparked by a series of lectures by the German Assyriologist Friedrich Delitzsch in 1902–04, a heated controversy developed, pitting “Babel” against the Bible. Ultimately many of the simplistic conclusions concerning the priority, and the superiority, of the traditions of “Babel” were rejected, and in retrospect they seem clearly anti-Semitic. But the controversy not only marks the emergence of Assyriology (the study of the cultures of ancient Mesopotamia) as an independent discipline but also established the importance of nonbiblical materials for the understanding of the Bible.

For the study of the New Testament, the most important discovery was the Oxyrhynchus Papyri, a large collection of documents dating to the early centuries of the Common Era. Among the thousands of mostly Greek texts excavated between 1897 and 1934 were fragments of very early manuscripts of parts of the New Testament, along with three collections of sayings of Jesus, some of which, though not found in the canonical Gospels, are apparently authentic. The latter were of considerable importance in the debate about the prehistory of the Gospels, that is, the reconstruction of the stages between Jesus himself and the earliest written traditions about him. The papyri also included hundreds of documents from ordinary people, illuminating both the form of Greek used in the New Testament and the social world of its writers and audiences.

FORM CRITICISM

While source criticism became a dominant interpretive method, the influx of nonbiblical data prompted a more nuanced investigation of the prehistory of the written biblical traditions. The pioneer in this work was the German scholar Hermann Gunkel (1862–1932), perhaps the most influential biblical interpreter of the twentieth century. While accepting Wellhausen’s analysis as valid, Gunkel incorporated evidence both from Babylonian literature and from comparative folklore to propose a shift in emphasis from history to the history of literature. He proposed that to the formation of the Pentateuchal “documents,” there was discernible a long process of development and transmission of “forms,” or genres, which had parallels in nonbiblical sources. These forms, which have their own history and chronological and cross-cultural continuity, were also vehicles for preserving very ancient traditions.

Central to the study of these forms, known as “form criticism,” was the identification of their Sitz im Leben (“setting in life”), the original and subsequent contexts in which they were developed and used. Gunkel first applied form criticism to the book of Genesis in his commentary published in 1901, in which he isolated such forms as saga, legend, taunt, curse, hymn, etiology, and proverb. His studies on the Psalms (1928–33) were also groundbreaking, setting the terms of the discussion for the rest of the century by his classification of the various genres (hymn, individual and communal laments, individual and communal thanksgivings, royal psalms, wisdom psalms, etc.). Although there is a kind of idealism about the definition of the forms, parallels from outside the Bible confirmed their applicability and enhanced the understanding of smaller units in the Bible.

Gunkel had not hesitated to apply his insights to the New Testament, as in his important monograph on creation and chaos as central themes in prophetic and especially apocalyptic literature, including the book of Revelation. Two of his students, Martin Dibelius and Rudolf Bultmann, applied the principles of form criticism more systematically to the Gospels. They refined the definitions of forms such as parables and miracle stories, and Bultmann especially identified similar forms in other ancient sources. Although the question of the historical Jesus was still an issue, New Testament form criticism moved beyond what could be hypothesized about the original setting in the life of Jesus himself and focused more on the role that the forms played in various settings in earliest Christianity.

ARCHAEOLOGY

Serious exploration of the Levant began in the early nineteenth century, and notable advances were made in mapping the region and identifying ancient sites. In the decades before World War I, extensive and, by the standards of the time, scientific excavations were undertaken by British, German, French, and American archaeologists. In Palestine attention was focused on the major cities of ancient Israel, as Jerusalem, Samaria, Megiddo, Shechem, Jericho, Taanach, and Gezer were all partially excavated. An overriding preoccupation of the excavators was historical, even apologetic: to verify, by independent data, the historicity of biblical traditions.

In the 1920s and 1930s many more projects were initiated, and excavation techniques were improved. Greater accuracy in dating excavated remains was made possible through the refinement of ceramic typology, especially as elaborated by the American scholar W. F. Albright in his excavations at Tell Beit Mirsim. But very little of the vast amount of material that was excavated and published could be related directly to the Bible, and debates often ensued about how to synthesize archaeological and biblical data.

When work resumed after World War II in the 1950s and 1960s, new projects were undertaken and many sites that had been earlier—and fortunately only partially—excavated were redug, especially by British, American, and Israeli archaeologists. In part because of the flood of material from periods long before and after biblical times or having little direct relevance to the Bible, archaeology began to develop as an independent discipline, as had already happened in the classical world. More attention was given to what archaeologist actually found, the material culture of the region in various periods, and in some circles there developed a theoretical tension between archaeology and biblical studies, for many earlier archaeologists were also biblical scholars. Now, more and more archaeologists were acquiring interest and expertise in periods and regions not directly relevant to biblical history. The result, by the late twentieth century, was that some archaeologists lacked sufficient expertise to connect what they excavated with the written sources, and many biblical scholars simply ignored the potential contributions of archaeology to the interpretation of the Bible. This was especially true in the case of the New Testament. Apart from continuing efforts since the late nineteenth century to identify sites associated with the life of Jesus, until the 1970s the study of the New Testament was largely restricted to texts, with little attention to the growing body of information about Palestine and the entire eastern Mediterranean world derived from archaeology.

ETHNOGRAPHY, SOCIOLOGY, AND ANTHROPOLOGY

As explorers and archaeologists began to make the ancient Near East known, they also observed those living there in the present. While many of the descriptions published were little more than naïve catalogues of perceived parallels between Arab customs and details of life in biblical times, there were serious works of scholarship, including W. Robertson Smith's Lectures on the Religion of the Semites (1889) and Gustaf Dalman's extensive survey of Palestinian social life and customs (Arbeit [work] und Sitte [customs] in Palästina, 1928–39). At the same time, the disciplines of sociology and anthropology were becoming more sophisticated. An early sociological interpretation of the Hebrew Bible was Max Weber's Ancient Judaism (1917–19), and there were sporadic applications of sociological method to early Christianity as well. Not until the later twentieth century, however, would it become important in biblical interpretation.

Anthropological research had a more immediate impact. Typical of early efforts was the encyclopedic work of James G. Frazer. In The Golden Bough: A Study in Comparative Religion (1890; revised and abridged by Theodor Gaster in 1959) and subsequent works such as Folk-lore in the Old Testament (1919), Frazer organized a staggering amount of data in support of his understanding of the evolution of society from primitive beginnings to civilization. His principal focus was on myth and rituals, especially the essential role of the king in the welfare of the larger society, and he included both the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament in his analysis.

While Frazer's work was subsequently criticized for its failure to pay sufficient attention to specific cultural contexts and for his cavalier treatment of data to fit his theories, his influence was considerable. In particular, British and Scandinavian scholars developed and refined his approach, developing what has been called a "myth and ritual" school. The work of Sigmund Mowinckel of Norway is representative. Using form criticism as a method (he had been Gunkel's student) and the function of the king as an organizing principle, and drawing heavily on Babylonian sources, his study of the Psalms (1921–24) focused on their use in what he suggested was an annual enthronement festival of Yahweh, like the Babylonian New Year festival. He also identified the individual speaker in many of the psalms as the king himself, and found evidence for prophets giving oracular messages to the king or to the community as part of the New Year ceremony. In He That Cometh (1951), Mowinckel examined the reuse of these royal ritual traditions in postexilic Judaism and in the New Testament.

REDACTION CRITICISM

The impression left by source criticism was that the final forms of the Pentateuch and other biblical books or collections for which multiple sources were hypothesized were pedestrian compilations with little literary merit. Beginning in the 1930s, again mainly in Germany, attention began to be paid to the larger units as creative works in their own right. In several influential essays, and in his commentaries on Genesis and Deuteronomy, Gerhard von Rad argued that the Hexateuch (the Pentateuch plus Joshua) was itself a literary form. Its Sitz im Leben was the feast of weeks (see Deut 16.9; 26.1–2), where the key events of the nation’s “salvation history”—the Exodus, the conquest of the land, and the covenant—were recited and reenacted. The Hexateuch for von Rad is the final, literary product of a long development of such narrative creeds, earlier forms of which are found in such texts as Deut 26.5–9; Ps 136; Ex 15.

One reason that von Rad included the book of Joshua in his analysis was that the promise of the land, a central theme especially in J and P, was unfulfilled in the Pentateuch. Martin Noth took another approach. The original conclusion to the Pentateuch, he proposed, had been replaced by a “Deuteronomistic History.” With the book of Deuteronomy as a kind of theological preface, the books of Joshua through 2 Kings comprised a carefully written history of Israel in the Promised Land. Since 2 Kings ended with the destruction of Jerusalem and the end of Israel’s autonomy, Noth argued that this history was an exilic composition, which explained the catastrophe as the inevitable result of Israel’s failure to live up to the obligations of its covenant with God as detailed in Deuteronomy. Subsequent scholars revised Noth’s views, suggesting that while the final form of the Deuteronomistic History was, as he had suggested, a product of the mid-sixth century BCE, it had its own literary history and had existed in one or more editions during the monarchy before the exile. But his essential insight concerning the underlying unity of the books of Deuteronomy through 2 Kings remained the foundation for subsequent interpretation of the historical books.

Attention to larger units developed in the study of the New Testament as well, beginning in the 1950s. In important commentaries on Matthew and Mark, Günther Bornkamm and Willi Marxsen understood those Gospels as creative literary works, with distinctive theologies and themes. In his study of the theology of Luke, Hans Conzelmann showed how the Gospel of Luke and the book of Acts together formed a carefully composed narrative, with thematic unity provided by an understanding of the life of Jesus as the center of history and Jerusalem as the geographical center of the story. Similar approaches were undertaken for the Gospel of

John and the letters of Paul, and for both the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament, redaction criticism’s focus on larger units anticipates the methods of literary criticism and canonical criticism later in the twentieth century.

DISCOVERIES OF TEXTS BETWEEN THE WORLD WARS

The discovery and decipherment of cuneiform texts of ancient Assyria and Babylon during the second half of the nineteenth century had profoundly changed the understanding of the Hebrew Bible. On the historical level, the repeated references especially in Assyrian annals to kings of Israel and Judah and to events mentioned in the Bible enabled the construction of a detailed chronology. But for the most part, connections between the cuneiform texts and biblical traditions were indirect. This is not surprising, given the distance and often the time that separated those Mesopotamian cultures from ancient Israel. And apart from a scattering of inscriptions in Hebrew, Phoenician, Aramaic, and Moabite, there were no significant written remains from Israel itself or its most immediate neighbors. That changed in the 1920s and 1930s, as excavations uncovered more collections of ancient texts, and further decipherment shed light on such groups as the Sumerians, the Hittites, and the Hurrians. While there were seldom direct correlations with the Bible, the tablets from Nuzi in northern Iraq and Mari and Ugarit in northern Syria were especially important in expanding the knowledge of the larger world to which ancient Israel belonged.

In many respects the mythological texts from Ugarit, on the Mediterranean coast of Syria, are the most important because of their geographical proximity to ancient Israel and the direct light they shed on the Hebrew Bible. Written in a previously unknown Semitic language belonging to the same subfamily as Hebrew, they are composed in poetry that is often remarkably close in diction and in form to biblical poetry. The myths feature gods and goddesses such as El, Baal, and Asherah, all frequently mentioned in the Bible but hitherto incompletely known, largely because of the biblical writers’ antagonism toward gods other than Yahweh. Moreover, similar motifs—for example, the childless patriarch, the theophany of the storm god, the council of the gods, the sacred mountain—and innumerable smaller details illustrate the shared culture of Israel and its neighbors. Despite undeniable chronological and geographical discontinuities, the literary, religious, and institutional traditions of the Levant, including ancient Israel, are best understood as part of a cultural continuum that, allowing for local particularities, is remarkably consistent and pervasive.

THE DEAD SEA SCROLLS

Another discovery that sent scholarship in new directions was that of a cache of manuscripts in caves near Qumran at the northwest corner of the Dead Sea. Over the course of several years, beginning in 1947, the remains of hundreds of manuscripts were discovered, first by local Bedouin and subsequently by archaeologists. Some of the manuscripts were largely intact, including an almost complete scroll of the Hebrew text of the book of Isaiah, and others were preserved only in fragments. Written mostly in Hebrew and Aramaic, with a few in Greek, they are generally agreed to have been a library deposited in the caves for safekeeping during the First Jewish Revolt (66–73 CE) by the inhabitants of the nearby settlement. Most scholars identify these inhabitants as Essenes, one of the major groups within Judaism in the Roman period, according to the first-century CE Jewish historian Josephus. Among many important aspects of the scrolls, three may be highlighted here. First are the manuscripts of the Hebrew Bible, more than a thousand years older than any previously known, giving new impetus to textual criticism (see p. 1843). Second is their contribution to the understanding of both Hebrew and Aramaic in the Roman period. And third is the glimpse they provide—especially in what have been termed “sectarian documents,” that is, various community regulations, hymns, eschatological texts, and biblical commentaries (pesharim; see p. 1864)—of one group within Judaism around the turn of the era. What had earlier been oversimplified as a kind of monolithic Judaism is now, on the basis of these texts and other sources reexamined in their light, understood rather as a complex spectrum of various “Judaisms,” one of which was earliest Christianity. And while there are no direct links between the Dead Sea Scrolls and the New Testament, they do reveal a rich and complicated background for the emergence of Christianity as well as for the development of rabbinic Judaism after 70 CE.

THE NAG HAMMADI TEXTS

In 1945 at Nag Hammadi, some 300 mi (500 km) south of Cairo, Egyptian peasants unearthed a large jar containing thirteen codices. Most of the texts contained within these volumes were Christian Gnostic texts, and although written in Coptic many had been translated from Greek. One of the most important was The Gospel of Thomas, a collection of the sayings of Jesus perhaps originally compiled before the end of the first century CE. Fragments of The Gospel of Thomas had earlier been found among the Oxyrhynchus Papyri (see “The Recovery of the Ancient World”, on p. 1878). Less than half of the sayings attributed to Jesus in this text are paralleled in the New Testament, and the Gospel of Thomas thus provides both an important independent source and an example of how earliest Christian tradition was collected and expanded by a particular writer within a specific community, a process more and more recognized in the study of the canonical Gospels.

CONCLUSION

With few exceptions, until after World War II historical-critical scholarship was engaged in by Protestant scholars. With the promulgation of the papal encyclical Divino Afflante Spiritu in 1943, Roman Catholic scholars began to become practitioners as well. Likewise, both in the United States and in Israel, with the development there of the Hebrew University and later other institutions of higher education, Jewish scholars also made significant contributions. Facilities at major denominational graduate centers increasingly recruited scholars without regard to their religious affiliations. By the mid-twentieth century it was possible to speak of a consensus of interpretation: a general agreement on methods and results that largely transcended national and confessional differences. That consensus was evidenced in important ecumenical endeavors, especially in the United States, including several ongoing translation and commentary projects. In the next several decades that consensus would begin to unravel.

Michael D. Coogan

CONTEMPORARY METHODS IN BIBLICAL STUDY

In its development during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, biblical scholarship was often in conversation with other disciplines, including linguistics, anthropology, the history of religion, sociology, philosophical hermeneutics, and literary aesthetics, as well as with theology. Yet as biblical studies became a discipline in its own right, it developed a set of methods and questions that set the parameters for research. These were largely concerned with the history of the text and of the cultures that produced the texts. The consensus that these were the relevant questions and the methods by which they should be pursued lasted until well after the middle of the twentieth century. Since the 1970s, however, many biblical scholars have questioned the adequacy of an almost exclusive orientation to questions with a historical focus. Also, in keeping with a trend characteristic of most of the humanities and social sciences, there has been a strong movement toward interdisciplinary conversation. Although it is difficult to give a simple overview of the proliferating approaches to biblical studies since the 1970s, they can be roughly grouped under the categories of literary, social-scientific, and cultural hermeneutical approaches.

LITERARY APPROACHES

A popular appreciation of the narrative art of the Bible has always existed. Its stories were represented in the sculpture and stained-glass windows of medieval churches, and Western literature has been profoundly influenced by its characters, themes, and symbols. In both Judaism and Christianity the reading and retelling of some biblical stories in devotional and liturgical contexts made them deeply familiar. Yet even though biblical Hebrew poetry had been the subject of academic study since the eighteenth century (most notably in Bishop Robert Lowth's Lectures on the Sacred Poetry of the Hebrews), little attention had been paid to the poetics of biblical narrative. One impetus to the interest in biblical narrative that developed in the 1970s can be traced to a development in American higher education: the creation of departments of religious studies in nondenominational colleges and public universities in the 1960s and 1970s. In such contexts the study of the Bible "as literature" was deemed especially appropriate to a secular curriculum. Such interest was not restricted to scholars in secular contexts, however. In 1968 James Muilenberg, who for much of his career had been a professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York, delivered a presidential address to the Society of Biblical Literature titled "Form Criticism and Beyond." Here he called for a type of literary-theological approach to the poetry and prose of the Bible, which he referred to as "rhetorical criticism." Giving further impetus to literary study of the Bible was the work of several scholars of English and comparative literature, who extended their expertise in the analysis of literature to biblical texts. Most prominent were Northrop Frye (The Great Code: The Bible and Literature), Robert Alter (The Art of Biblical Narrative and The Art of Biblical Poetry), and Frank Kermode (The Genesis of Secrecy, a study of the Gospel of Mark). Alter and Kermode later collaborated to edit The Literary Guide to the Bible.

This literary approach differed from historical study in significant ways. Whereas historical study tended to be concerned with the prehistory of the text (oral traditions and written source materials) and with its development through successive redactions, literary study focused on the final form of the text. Whereas historical study was interested in the world referred to by the text, literary study directed its attention to the world constructed in the text. Nevertheless, there have continued to be historical dimensions to this work on biblical literature. Both Alter and Meir Sternberg attempted to isolate distinctive features of ancient Israelite narrative art (e.g., modes of characterization, the use of type-scenes, techniques of repetition, forms of plot development), which were not necessarily the same as the techniques used in modern Western narrative. More recently scholarship has again turned to comparative analysis of ancient literatures to identify the development of distinctive elements of ancient Israelite narrative and poetry. Similarly, New Testament literary study has included a strong interest in the comparative analysis of Greco-Roman literary genres and techniques and those used in the Gospels, Acts, and early noncanonical Christian literature.

Much of the early literary study of the Bible was influenced by the "New Criticism," an approach that had dominated Anglo-American literary scholarship from the 1930s through the 1950s. In New Criticism the literary text was considered an autonomous work of art, to be studied independently of its author's intentions and of the sociopolitical currents of the time in which it was produced. New Criticism was a reaction both to a methodology arising out of the history of literature, in which new literary movements are seen as developing from those of previous eras, and to biographical criticism, which reads literary texts as expressions of the life experiences of the writers. The focus in New Criticism is rather on the way in which the text itself is structured so as to produce the observed or expected effects and understandings. Thus, the plot, characters, setting, point of view, and other aspects of the story's rhetoric and structure are analyzed. As the literary study of the Bible was gaining ground, however, rapid changes were taking place in the larger field of literary study, changes that were reflected in biblical studies.

Structuralism was the first of these new movements to make an impact. The origins of structuralism are in the work of the early twentieth-century linguist Ferdinand de Saussure, who attempted to analyze the system of relationships within a language that make acts of speech possible. In particular, he stressed that meanings are produced not so much by simple definition as by a network of contrasts (e.g., a tree is a woody plant that is not a bush or a shrub). In a parallel development A. J. Greimas attempted to use Saussure's insights to develop a "grammar" of narrative in much the same way as Saussure attempted to develop a grammar of sentences. Biblical scholars, anthropologists, and literary theorists were quick to apply these approaches to the Bible. The mythic narratives and genealogical accounts of Genesis, the symbolic geography of the Gospel narratives, and even the theological vocabulary of Paul offered opportunities for analyzing the patterns of binary opposition that structuralists argued were the key to the meaning of the texts.

Even as structuralism was being adapted for the study of biblical literature, its assumptions and claims were being challenged in the wider world of philosophical and literary studies. Structuralism claimed that the binary oppositions that structure human thought are essentially universal and unaffected by culture or history. Though the surface features of texts might vary with different societies and over time, the underlying structures did not. Such claims proved difficult to sustain. Just as structuralism dispensed with history, so it also had no place for the reader in the production of meaning. Structuralism understood itself as a kind of scientific method. Yet different readers regularly reached different understandings of the same text. Finally, although structuralism seemed to lend itself well to myths, folktales, and highly formulaic narratives, it seemed unable to deal with more complex narratives.

Against the focus on a supposedly objective and stable text in narrative criticism and against structuralism's focus on impersonal and universal codes, reader-response criticism argued for the essential role of the reader in the process of making meaning. Structuralism tended to display its results in terms of charts, an implicitly spatial understanding of the text. But reader-response theory insisted that reading is essentially a temporal affair. In reading, one only gradually gathers information that is progressively organized and reorganized by the reader to produce meaning. Moreover, the text often contains "gaps" that the reader, consciously or unconsciously, fills in (e.g., details concerning characters, aspects of motivation or causality, connections between events). As the reader becomes actively involved in the process of reading, what the reader engages is not simply the issues of plot and character but also matters of norms and values, which the reader may embrace or resist. Reader-response criticism thus accounts for the different understandings of and reactions to the "same" text by different readers by claiming a necessary place for the subjective element in reading. Subjectivity is limited, however, by what the reader's community considers to be a plausible or implausible inference. Thus it is not so much individual readers as "interpretive communities" who set the parameters according to which interpretation takes place.

Although important reader-response studies of Hebrew Bible texts have been produced, the method found its most enthusiastic reception in the study of the New Testament Gospels and Acts. Yet it has remained controversial. Historical critics oppose narrative approaches for neglecting the intentions of the author and the horizon of the original audience. From the opposite end of the methodological spectrum, postmodern critics object to its failure to break decisively with such historical assumptions as the understanding of the text as a stable "object" opposed to the readerly "subject." One positive consequence of reader-response criticism's focus on the role of interpretive communities, however, has been a renewed appreciation for the forms of interpretation practiced by Jewish and Christian communities before the rise of modern biblical studies during the Enlightenment. Instead of seeing such traditional readings as naive or simply wrong, interpreters began to ask about the assumptions and values that governed the reading practices of Christian typological and allegorical exegesis and of Rabbinic midrash. In recent years a broad interest in the reception of the Bible from antiquity to contemporary culture has become one of the most prominent new directions for scholarship. This area of research is no longer distinctively "literary" in its approach but perhaps can be seen as a logical extension of tradition criticism, that is, the interest in how older traditions are reworked to meet changing needs of religious communities. Although the eventual fixing of the canon meant that traditions were no longer reworked within the text of the Bible, new forms of reception (commentary, extra-biblical narrative, liturgy, art, etc.) provided a context for transforming received traditions.

SOCIAL-SCIENTIFIC CRITICISM

If reader-response criticism represented one reaction to the limitations of traditional narratology and to structuralism, a more pervasive criticism emerged under the rubric of poststructuralism, or deconstruction. This movement, associated with the French philosopher Jacques Derrida, is above all a critique of the metaphysical assumptions of Western philosophy, and only secondarily an analysis of the nature of texts and the interpretive process. Derrida noted the attempt of philosophy to posit a central term (God, reason, the human being) in relation to which all of reality can be organized. This organization characteristically takes place by means of binary oppositions (e.g., rational/irrational, oral/written, presence/absence), in which the first term is accepted as superior to the second. Deconstruction attempts to dismantle such structures in order to show their artificiality and the inevitable ways in which any such structure of thought implicitly “decenters” its central term and undermines itself through internal inconsistency and contradiction. When applied to texts, deconstruction begins with the perception that language is inevitably incomplete and surprisingly fluid and unstable. It then analyzes how even a text’s ostensible argument is rendered problematic, if not outright self-contradictory, by extraneous details or slippages in meaning that at first appear peripheral and unimportant. For deconstruction the point of reading is not to restate the meaning intended by the author but to engage the text in creative thought, often by means of punning play with the text. Deconstruction’s very style serves to undermine the binary opposition serious/frivolous, for its aim is in part to uncover the ways in which various forms of thought attempt to inscribe power and privilege.

The perspectives of deconstruction have been combined with other intellectual currents (most notably Freudianism and Marxism) to produce a variety of related approaches that are often referred to comprehensively by the term “postmodernism.” Along with Derrida’s deconstruction, Michel Foucault’s study of the complex nature of power and truth and Fredric Jameson’s neo-Marxist analysis of ideology have been deeply influential on postmodernism in biblical studies. For an overview of these trends as well as other forms of postmodernism, see The Postmodern Bible by The Bible and Culture Collective. Since one feature of postmodernism is its tendency to dissolve boundaries, it is scarcely surprising that its characteristic approaches have combined with a wide variety of other currents within biblical studies, most notably feminist criticism, but also various forms of ideological criticism (see Cultural Hermeneutics, p. 1887).

Social-scientific criticism applies insights and methods from the fields of sociology, anthropology, and psychology to describe aspects of ancient social life manifested in the biblical texts and to reconstruct the social worlds behind the text. To some extent historical criticism has always had a social dimension, since the objects of its interest included nations, states, social groupings, and religious movements. Yet self-conscious social-scientific investigation, though not unknown in earlier stages of biblical studies, has come into its own since the 1960s.

As early as the Renaissance, students of the Bible sought to make cross-cultural comparisons between ancient Israel and the nations of the ancient Near East. With the development of critical biblical study in the nineteenth century, this interest in cross-cultural study focused particularly on the comparison between Israel and the pre-Islamic Bedouin Arabs, as well as with contemporary Bedouin society, especially in the work of Julius Wellhausen and William Robertson Smith. Similarly, Martin Noth compared Israel’s premonarchical tribal confederacy with ancient Greek leagues of cities called amphictyonies. In retrospect, these early attempts at social-scientific analysis were hampered by a lack of rigorous method, by erroneous assumptions about the economic and social organization of ancient Israel, and by an overly static model of ancient culture. More sophisticated was the work of the sociologist Max Weber, whose Ancient Judaism (compiled from lectures given in 1917–19) attempted to incorporate the dimensions of historical and institutional change in his account of the social organization of ancient Israel. Sociological investigation was not as prominent in New Testament studies, although the Chicago school of social analysis (leaders of which were Shailer Mathews and Shirley Jackson Case) did investigate the social location of early Christians and attempted to account for the success of Christianity among Gentiles but not among Jews.

These early attempts at social-scientific criticism were largely displaced by interest in other questions and methods, and for almost forty years little was published in this field. By the 1960s and 1970s, however, interest in it revived. Since the issues posed by Hebrew Bible and New Testament materials are significantly different, each literature will be discussed separately. In studies concentrating on the Hebrew Bible, several areas have proven fruitful for analysis. The first issue to be examined, and one still sharply debated, is that of the socioeconomic and political nature of the formation of the Israelite tribal confederacy. Social historians rejected the conquest model of Israel’s entry into Canaan as it is described in the book of Joshua. Both George Mendenhall and Norman Gottwald argued that Israel's origins were to be sought instead in a peasant revolt against urban Canaanite overlords. This revolt was against the hierarchical socioeconomic structure and developed as a retribalization along egalitarian lines in the central highlands. What differentiated Mendenhall and Gottwald, however, was Gottwald's explicit use of Marxist social theory. Although both of their proposals have been sharply criticized for reliance more on presupposed models than on textual or material evidence, they served to open the question of Israel's origins for fresh investigation. Since the 1970s archaeology has also generated increasing information about social organization, population patterns, domestic architecture, agricultural practices, and trade patterns for the period preceding the monarchy. This information, together with a wider array of possible comparative models for the development of noncentralized peasant societies, has begun to generate new ways of understanding early Israel, though none has yet achieved consensus.

Similarly, attempts to understand the movement from a loose tribal confederation to the eventual formation of royal states has been aided by comparative social analysis. Social anthropologists have documented the development of chieftainships as an intermediate stage between these two forms of social organization. A chiefdom is a hierarchically organized society that lacks the strong central governmental apparatus characteristic of a true state. Though some aspects of the process are still debated, it is now widely thought that Saul's "kingship" and at least the early stages of David's rule should be thought of as chieftainships.

Prophecy is another area of Israel's religious and social life that has proven fruitful for social-scientific analysis. Apart from texts of prophetic oracles recovered from neighboring nations, archaeology does not contribute to this question. Rather, the biblical texts are analyzed in light of sociological models and comparative ethnographic evidence. Though the limited evidence makes many conclusions elusive, it has been possible to clarify the social location of the prophets and their relationship or nonrelationship to established religious institutions and to the monarchy. How a prophet secures legitimation, the role of ecstasy and other phenomena of abnormally heightened consciousness, and the relation of oral and written communication have all been examined in social-scientific perspective. The later development of apocalypticism and the question of its social location—whether it was, for example, an outgrowth of prophecy, a scribal phenomenon, or a movement of the social margins or of the priestly elite—has been debated as the biblical texts are reread in light of apocalyptic and millenarian movements in the medieval and modern periods.

The biblical text also contains significant information about purity laws and kinship and family patterns, topics that lend themselves to comparative social analysis. In the 1960s the anthropologist Mary Douglas pioneered such studies with her analysis of the food laws in Leviticus, interpreting them as a symbolic system for organizing the world and correlating purity laws in general with the social concern for boundaries. Subsequently, the ritual texts in Leviticus and the Israelite sacrificial system more generally, have been important areas for the use of anthropological approaches. Similarly, the genealogies and ancestral narratives in Genesis, the family laws in Deuteronomy, and the reports on the postexilic community in Ezra–Nehemiah have been investigated in an attempt to discern the basic structures of family organization, as well as changes over time in the patterns of family life. As modern interest in gender constructs and roles has grown, so has the investigation of such issues in ancient Israel. Although the resources are mainly the texts of the Hebrew Bible, attempts have been made to use the findings of archaeology to determine the patterns of life and activity characteristic of males and females in biblical times (see especially C. Meyers, Rediscovering Eve: Ancient Israelite Women in Context).

In the field of New Testament, insights from sociology were first used in the 1970s to analyze the nature of the early Christian movement. The anthropological study of millenarian movements and sociological typologies of sects were employed to clarify the dynamics of the Christian communities that emerged in the first two centuries of the era. One of the watershed in the use of sociological and anthropological perspectives in New Testament studies was the publication of The First Urban Christians by Wayne Meeks, which was a comprehensive attempt to describe the social context and organization of the early Pauline communities. Also significant was the application to biblical texts of cultural anthropological studies of the roles of honor and shame in Mediterranean societies, and the functioning of patron–client forms of social relations. These studies not only illuminated structural aspects of early Christian society and its context but also showed how aspects of discourse and categories of thought were organized in characteristic patterns that reflected these social values and assumptions. In such cases social-scientific and traditional theological investigation of the New Testament may converge, as the latter recognizes the need to understand the meaning and context of key terms by means of social-scientific analysis.

The rich comparative material available from the classical world has facilitated many types of sociological investigation. Slavery, as social phenomenon and as metaphor, has been an important topic, as has the roles of prophets and prophecy, the practice of magic, and the class status of early converts to Christianity. As in the field of Hebrew Bible, the social study of family structures and gender roles has yielded important insights.

Since much early Christian literature is self-consciously theological or ideological, cultural anthropology and the sociology of knowledge have proven particularly fruitful. Both of these approaches pay attention to the way in which societies create “symbolic universes” by which to negotiate issues of identity, legitimacy, and the creation or resolution of conflict. In recent years developments in the fields of anthropology, social psychology, cognitive theory, and neuroscience have also opened up new ways to study the intersection between the public construction of symbolic universes and the nature of religious experience, along with changing understandings of the body and the sense of self.

CULTURAL HERMENEUTICS

Classical biblical studies, as it emerged from its Enlightenment roots, understood itself as a form of critical analysis that was objective, disinterested, and “scientific.” Though biblical theology might make normative claims, even those claims were based on a preliminary act of interpretation that was grounded in objective scholarship. In recent years the claim of classic biblical scholarship to be a scientific enterprise has been questioned by those who insist that the enterprise of historical criticism of the Bible is unconsciously shaped and informed by cultural assumptions specific to the time and place in which that method was developed. Pure objectivity is an illusion. In the interpretation of texts and cultures there is no “view from nowhere.” All interpreters, whether or not they are aware of it, frame their questions and perceive the data from some perspective, which helps to shape their understanding of the text or culture in question. Rather than seeing the influence of the interpreter’s social and cultural location as a problem, some have claimed it as a positive value. Thus the term “cultural hermeneutics” serves as an umbrella term for a variety of approaches to biblical interpretation (e.g., liberationist, feminist, postcolonial) in which the social location of the interpreter is not only made explicit but serves as a normative principle in interpretation. The primary categories that have figured in such interpretation are those of class, ethnicity, and gender.

The earliest and most methodologically self-conscious of these approaches is that of Latin American liberation theology, which emerged in the 1960s and 1970s. This approach did not begin as an academic perspective but rather emerged out of the concrete experience of the poor and of those pastors and other religious professionals who lived and worked with them. They insisted that the starting point for reading and interpreting the Bible must not be a stance of “objectivity” but rather the experience of the crushing poverty and oppression of the lowest social classes. Interpreted from the perspective of material poverty, the Bible discloses itself as a text of liberation and serves to further a revolutionary process of emancipation.

Much of the work of liberation hermeneutics took place in the Bible studies of Roman Catholic base-communities, in which groups of the poor were encouraged to read and interpret the Bible for themselves, with the assistance of a priest or teacher. Although this oral interpretation was seldom recorded, Ernesto Cardenal’s The Gospel in Solentiname provides an example. The interpretation developed in the base communities was paralleled by the work of theologians and biblical scholars, who articulated the principles of liberation hermeneutics in a series of important studies (see, especially, L. Boff and C. Boff, Introducing Liberation Theology; and J. Severino Croatto, Biblical Hermeneutics: Toward a Theory of Reading in the Production of Meaning). Liberation theology has tended to place special emphasis on specific portions of the Bible as the story of the Exodus, the social criticism of the prophets, the figure of Mary (as singer of the Magnificat, with its imagery of social transformation; Lk 1), Jesus’s preaching of the kingdom of God in the Gospels, the depiction of the liberating Christian community in Acts, and the struggle against evil in its imperialist and cosmic guise in the book of Revelation.

In the wake of Latin American liberation hermeneutics, religious communities and academics in countries of Africa and Asia have developed analogous forms of biblical interpretation that work from the particular experiences of those nations. A related movement, which is indebted to liberation hermeneutics but which also draws on other sources, is postcolonial hermeneutics (see, e.g., R. S. Sugirtharajah, ed., Voices from the Margin: Interpreting the Bible in the Third World). As European countries colonized various parts of the globe from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries, the Bible was an important aspect of the sometimes forced assimilation of indigenous peoples to European cultural values. The desire of European churches to spread Christianity meant that the Bible, as interpreted by Europeans, accompanied the colonizers. Where conversion took place, the Bible displaced indigenous traditions, even as it buttressed European dominance. In recent years biblical scholars in the developing world (and increasingly in Europe and North America) have examined this complex history and heritage. They have attempted to analyze the roles that the Bible and its interpretation have played in these colonized countries. Not only have the colonizers’ interpretations been examined and critiqued (e.g., the use of the Exodus/Conquest story in North America and South Africa to justify the displacement of the indigenous peoples), but increasingly, attempts have been made to recover the forms of interpretation developed by the newly Christianized indigenous peoples themselves. Elements of “hybrid interpretation,” that is, the mixing of indigenous traditions with Christian biblical narratives, are not only identified but often encouraged as a continuing creative practice. Thus, part of the resistance to the effects of the colonization experience is to read the Bible along with rather than above other religious and cultural traditions.

Within North America several ethnic communities, including Latinos/Latinas, Asian Americans, and Native Americans, have also developed self-conscious traditions of biblical interpretation. The earliest and most developed of these is African American biblical hermeneutics. The Bible has played a particularly significant role in the African American community, and popular forms of African American biblical interpretation have been embedded in the songs and sermons of the community for centuries. In the 1960s and 1970s, as the Black Theology movement developed, African American biblical scholars began to turn their attention both to the recovery and analysis of this traditional interpretation and to the development of a critical, academic form of African American biblical interpretation (see C. H. Felder, ed., Stony the Road We Trod: African American Biblical Interpretation). Afrocentric interpretation has drawn attention to the historical role played by African countries (especially Egypt and Ethiopia) and by Africans in the biblical text. But African American biblical hermeneutics has also attended to texts and issues that have been important to the lives of the African American community: for instance, the Exodus narratives, the place of slavery in Israelite and early Christian reflection, and the preaching of Jesus. African American biblical studies has also been marked by a deep reflection on the nature of interpretation itself, especially the ways in which an oppressed community appropriates for its own liberation a text that also serves as the authorizing document of the society within which its members have been oppressed.

Whereas the various perspectives discussed so far under the rubric of cultural hermeneutics are distinctively Christian, the same cannot be said for feminist biblical hermeneutics. Here, although Christian feminist biblical interpretation emerged slightly earlier, Jewish and Christian feminist interpretation has largely developed in tandem, and the critical conversation between Jewish and Christian feminists has been one of the distinctive features of this movement. In the 1950s and 1960s Protestant seminaries began to admit women in significantly larger numbers than before, followed soon after by an increase in the number of Catholic and Jewish women pursuing theological education. The emergence of the women’s movement in the 1960s and its criticism of the role of the Bible in the oppression of women posed a challenge to those who identified themselves as both Christian or Jewish and feminist. One early position, which still continues to be important in the Christian evangelical community, is to affirm that the Bible, when correctly interpreted, affirms women’s full humanity. Other feminists, such as Phyllis Trible and Phyllis Bird, more critical of the Bible, have attempted to expose and analyze the patriarchal elements in the biblical text itself in order to show that these patriarchal values can be separated from the essentially liberating values that form the primary message of scripture. More radical feminists, such as Elisabeth Schüssler Fiorenza, however, have rejected the biblical traditions as thoroughly and irredeemably antifeminist.

Feminist interpretation of the Bible has embraced a variety of methodologies. They include the approaches of historical-critical and sociological biblical scholarship, since it attempts to recover and reconstruct the historical reality of women’s lives in ancient Israel and in the Greco-Roman world of early Christianity and early Judaism. Some Christian feminists, in an attempt to make a case for the liberating nature of early Christianity, did so in ways that played off the egalitarian message of Jesus against his Jewish background. Jewish feminists challenged the accuracy of the representation of Judaism, and as a result considerably more nuanced pictures of gender relations in both early Christianity and Judaism have been developed.

Not all feminist interpretation has been concerned with historical reconstruction, however. A significant strand of feminism has used literary methods, exploring the ways in which biblical texts construct and represent an image of women that function in the service of various ideologies. In many instances this literary approach has involved reading against the grain of the text. For instance, a character, often nameless, whom the text treats as a subsidiary character may become for feminist analysis the central character of the text (e.g., Jephthah’s daughter in Judg 11 or the Levite’s concubine in Judg 19). A particular concern to feminists has been the issue of women and violence, for many of the biblical texts do represent violence against women, and a smaller but significant number represent women engaged in violence. While much of this literary work has also had a historical focus, in that it has been concerned with how the ancient texts have represented women, increasingly attention has been drawn to what is called cultural studies, that is, how Western traditions in art and, more recently, film have themselves depicted the biblical representations of women.

Since feminism made women aware of their own particular perspective as women in the process of interpretation, it is not surprising that feminism has also become aware that individual women occupy very different positions in society, depending on their social and economic class and their ethnicity. Consequently, it has become more problematic to refer to a single “feminist” movement, for women of color and women of the developing world have insisted that gender, class, and ethnicity must all be considered in their complex interrelationships. African American women, for instance, have complicated the Anglo-European interpretation of the Abraham/Sarah narratives by focusing on the character of Hagar—the ethnic outsider, the slave, the surrogate mother—and her role in creating the narrative’s moral complexity. Similarly, Latina, African, and Asian women have taken up the challenge of understanding the ways in which the practices of reading and interpreting the Bible serve to constrain or to emancipate women in their particular social and cultural contexts. Feminism’s challenge to biblical studies has also generated a broader interest in gender and sexuality. Queer hermeneutics is an important twenty-first-century example.

Finally, two different types of theological interpretation of the Bible can also be classified as forms of cultural hermeneutics, since they foreground the community context of the formation and interpretation of the Bible. The first of these is canonical criticism. Though the forms of canonical criticism developed by its two major proponents, Brevard Childs and James Sanders, differ, they both focus on how scripture’s final form was created within a believing community and how the meanings created by that final form continue to guide the reading practices of the community. The canonical shaping of the Jewish Bible, for instance—which places the Writings in the final position and usually concludes with the call of 2 Chronicles for the exiles to go up to Jerusalem to rebuild the Temple—tells a different story from that produced by the shaping of the Christian Old Testament, which places the prophets last and concludes with Malachi’s reference to the return of the prophet Elijah to announce the coming Day of the Lord.

In one sense canonical criticism is an extension of interest in the development of traditions as it is manifested in tradition criticism and the history of reception. But in contrast to history of reception, which is largely a descriptive activity, canonical criticism is explicitly theological. Similarly, though tradition criticism tends to investigate the earliest stages of development, canonical criticism explicitly privileges the latest stage, the canon in its final form. This concern with reading the text of scripture in its final form gives canonical criticism some similarity to the literary approaches of the “New Criticism.” Thus, where historical criticism, reading the book of Isaiah, tries to distinguish which materials come from the eighth-century prophet, the sixth-century prophet, and the fifth-century prophet, literary and canonical critics focus on how the final form of the book has created the context within which all of its materials are now to be read, as a movement from judgment to salvation. While canonical criticism’s self-conscious attention to what it means to read scripture as a member of a religious tradition links it with cultural hermeneutics, it also differs from some of the other forms of cultural hermeneutics discussed earlier. Just as those forms of interpretation make repeated reference to the specific experience of the reader as a guide to interpretation, canonical hermeneutics finds the clues to a proper reading in the ways in which the text of scripture was shaped by the believing community at the time its canon was fixed.

Perhaps closer to other forms of cultural hermeneutics is the type of theological interpretation often called “postcritical.” Like canonical criticism, it is a reaction against historical criticism’s inability to articulate the meaning of scripture for a believing community. In contrast to canonical criticism, which focuses on the final stages of the composition of the biblical text and the meaning of the biblical books in that context, postcritical interpretation orients itself to the early interpretive practices of rabbinic Judaism and patristic Christianity. Thus rabbinic midrash and Christian allegorical and typological exegesis are reclaimed as valid ways of understanding the biblical texts as scripture. These traditional interpretive practices are also used as patterns for the development of new postcritical ways of reading and interpreting scripture, as one can see in Peter Ochs’s The Return to Scripture in Judaism and Christianity.

In the Christian tradition postcritical interpretation is also deeply influenced by Hans Frei’s The Eclipse of Biblical Narrative and George Lindbeck’s The Nature of Doctrine. Both authors claim that before the rise of historical criticism the normative way of reading scripture in Christianity was as a grand narrative from Genesis to Revelation, with the Old Testament related to the New not only by plot but also by forms of typological interpretation that linked figures and events. Thus scripture does not simply tell a story but is rather a master narrative, that is, a narrative within which persons can live and by means of which they understand reality. The forms of postcritical interpretation that attempt to recover this way of reading scripture not only are selfconsciously literary in orientation but also draw on ethnographic models. Lindbeck characterizes his approach as “cultural-linguistic.” That is to say, one learns to enter the world of scripture naturally, as one learns to speak a language or to live in another culture. What makes this approach to scripture postcritical and postmodern is that the symbolic worlds of classical Judaism and Christianity are no longer the native worlds even for most believers. Modernity, with its different forms of critical understanding, has displaced them. The retrieval and reappropriation that is the goal of postcritical interpretation occur self-consciously in the shadow of modernity. Moreover, as Lindbeck’s cultural-linguistic analogy suggests, postcritical interpretation is not simply about interpretation but also about participation in the practices of a living religious community shaped by the symbolic world of scripture.

If anything ties together the various strands of emerging approaches to biblical interpretation, it is a concern for the relationship of power to language and meaning. More historically oriented literary and social methods increasingly examine the ways in which issues of conflict and access to power can be traced in the texts of the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament. Cultural hermeneutics, though not uninterested in historical reconstruction, also focuses on the ways in which access to the power to interpret the text and construe its meaning serves to empower those who have traditionally been marginalized. And postmodernism has attempted to underscore the ironies of all such interpretive strategies, since in its view a stable and definitive meaning always eludes the interpreter. Yet its very skepticism about any final and objective understanding is what opens up space for a reappropriation of traditional forms of interpretation that attempt to challenge the interpretive power of modernity itself.

Carol A. Newsom

THE GEOGRAPHY OF THE BIBLE

The geographical territory encompassed by the Bible (if one includes all identifiable places that are mentioned in it) includes most countries that border the Mediterranean Sea as well as those to its east. Most narratives of the Hebrew Bible and the Apocrypha, as well as the Gospels in the New Testament, are set in that subregion of the Middle East known as the Levant and now comprising Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Israel, and Palestine. Egypt to the southwest, Asia Minor (modern Turkey) to the north, and Mesopotamia (largely modern Iraq) and Persia (Iran) to the northeast are also part of the biblical landscape.

In Mesopotamia—the Greek term for the region between the Euphrates and Tigris Rivers (see color Maps 6 and 14 at the end of this volume)—as in Egypt, urban civilization developed by the fourth millennium BCE in the river valleys that provided the essential water for a region where rainfall was at best seasonal and at worst, especially in the case of Egypt, insufficient for agriculture. The regular summer flooding of the Nile Valley enabled the early and continuous existence of a remarkably long-lasting culture in Egypt, which because of its proximity to the Middle East was an important player in that region’s history and the locale for several episodes in biblical narrative, most notably the Exodus. In Mesopotamia the inhabitants had harnessed the two rivers to provide, by means of an elaborate irrigation system, sufficient water for agriculture as well as for consumption. The successive imperial powers that originated in Mesopotamia were able to use this productive region as a base for expansion, especially to the west, over which they exercised control throughout most of the first millennium BCE, until the Hellenistic period.

Although surrounded by vast deserts, there is a narrow stretch of land where agriculture can flourish, which extends from the Nile Valley around to the Persian Gulf. The western part of this “fertile crescent,” the Levant, has the same environment as much of the rest of the region adjacent to the Mediterranean, which today as for the last several thousand years is characterized by almost ideal growing conditions for grapes and olives and for raising sheep and goats; grains and legumes and other fruits can also be grown in much of the region. Its climate is moderate, without excessively high or low temperatures for the most part, and with abundant rainfall that occurs mainly during the winter months. Jerusalem, for example, receives on average about 22 in (550 mm) of rain annually, most of it falling between November and February, with January being the rainiest month. Higher elevations to the north receive still more rainfall, and the southern and easternmost regions considerably less.

Within the Levant itself, there is a wide variety of environments, the result of the geological substructure of the region, which presents dramatic changes in a relatively small area. Moving from west to east, the Mediteranean coast is occupied by a coastal plain that is about 15 mi (25 km) wide in the south but narrows as one moves north. It is interrupted by Mount Carmel, which juts into it, and virtually disappears in northern Israel and Lebanon. The coast itself has several excellent harbors in the north, from which the Canaanites and their successors the Phoenicians conducted a flourishing maritime trade. Farther south the coast is relatively even, and there are few natural harbors. Phoenician influence eventually extended to such port cities as Acco, Dor, Joppa, and Ashkelon, and in the late first century BCE Herod the Great constructed an impressive artificial harbor at Caesarea. Along the coastal plain was a major route used by traders and by armies of conquest between Egypt and Damascus. This route ran to the point where the coast narrows below Mount Carmel, from which passes led from the coastal plain to the Jezreel (Esdraelon) Valley; from there, several routes could be taken to the northeast.

Adjacent to the coastal plain in the south is an uplift of smaller, gentler hills called “the Shephelah” (“lowland”). As the natural western boundary of the kingdom of Judah in the Iron Age, and of other entities in the same region before and after, it was protected by such important cities as Lachish and Gezer. The Shephelah forms the foothills of the mountainous region immediately to its east. This is the “hill country” of the biblical writers, with higher elevations to the north. For example, Jerusalem, about 35 mi (55 km) east of the Mediterranean, is 2,500 ft (760 m) above sea level, and many mountains in northern Galilee have elevations of over 3,300 ft (1,000 m). The highest peak in the region is Mount Hermon, which at 9,200 ft (2,800 m) is snow-covered year-round. The hill country is the setting for many of the key locales in biblical narrative, including the relatively inaccessible sites of Jerusalem, the capital of the kingdom of Judah (later Judea), and Samaria, the capital of the Northern Kingdom of Israel and later of the province with the same name. This central mountainous ridge is bisected by the broad, fertile Jezreel Valley, the major route to the interior and hence the location of important ancient cities, including Jokneam, Megiddo, Taanach, Ibleam, and Jezreel. Mount Tabor rises from the floor of the Jezreel Valley in splendid isolation to an elevation of 1,929 ft (588 m) above sea level. The village of Nazareth, Jesus’s hometown, is in the hills on the northern side of the valley.

To the north of the Jezreel Valley lies Galilee. Because of its abundant springs, Galilee was dotted by settlements from prehistoric times, but it plays little role in biblical narratives until the end of the first millennium BCE, when it is the setting both for some of the campaigns of the Maccabees and, in the early first century CE, of the ministry of Jesus in the Gospels.

Just east of this central mountainous region is the Rift Valley. This major depression in the earth’s crust extends from southern Turkey into East Africa; in Israel and Jordan it is almost entirely below sea level. Included in it are the Huleh Basin in northern Galilee, 230 ft (70 m) above sea level, where the site of Hazor was a major fortified city from early in the second millennium BCE until its destruction by the Assyrians in 732 BCE. Some 12 mi (20 km) south of Lake Huleh is the Sea of Chinnereth, or the Sea of Galilee (also called the Sea of Tiberias and the Lake of Genesaret), a large freshwater lake about 12 mi (20 km) long that fills the valley. It lies 210 m (700 ft) below sea level, and is fed by the Jordan River, which flows into it from the north. It is habitat to nearly two dozen species of fish, and the fishing industry has been an important part of the local economy since prehistoric times. Many of the events narrated in the Gospels are set in the many towns and cities near the lake; the region was a center of resistance against the Romans during the First Jewish Revolt of 66–73 CE.

The Jordan River continues its flow south from the Sea of Galilee 65 mi (105 km) to the Dead Sea. The valley itself is about 12 mi (20 km) wide and is entirely below sea level, with a semitropical climate that produces lush vegetation, even though because of its low elevation it receives relatively little rain. Important cities in the valley include Beth-shan (later Scythopolis) in the north and Jericho in the south. The valley was another important north-south route, especially during the Roman period, when Jews often avoided the district controlled by the Samaritans between Galilee and Judea.

The Dead Sea, lying 1,300 ft (400 m) below sea level, is the lowest point on the land mass of the earth. Because of evaporation due to high temperatures (a record 124°F [51°C] was measured here), the composition of the water is about 25 percent salt and other minerals, making organic life impossible and giving this lake its ancient name, “the salt sea” (Num 34.3,12; NRSV “Dead Sea”). The desolate region that surrounds it is the narrative setting for the legendary cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. On its western shore are Qumran, where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found, and Masada, a palace constructed by Herod that was the last Jewish outpost to be captured in the First Jewish Revolt.

East of the Rift Valley there is a rapid rise to the relatively level Transjordanian plateau to the east, with the elevation of modern Amman (ancient Rabbah, later Philadelphia) at ca. 2,700 ft (820 m) about average. This region also receives sufficient rainfall to sustain agriculture and, moreover, is watered by two tributaries of the Jordan, the Yarmuk and the Jabbok, and by the Arnon, which flows into the Dead Sea. The northern part of the plateau, biblical Bashan, was famous for its cattle and for its oak forests, and in the Hellenistic and Roman periods was the location of several of the cities of the Decapolis. Traversing the Transjordanian plateau from south to north is another major route, called in the Bible the “King’s Highway” (Num 20.17), used throughout antiquity as a conduit for the incense and spice trade from Arabia to Damascus. East of the plateau is a vast desert region, a continuation of the Arabian desert that extends northward to the Euphrates Valley, and thus limiting the Fertile Crescent on both east and west. Apart from a few oases, especially Tadmor (later Palmyra) northeast of Damascus, this desert was mostly uninhabited in historic times.

South of the hill country of Judah lies the Negeb, a region of limited rainfall and hence marginal agriculture. The city of Beer-sheba is located in the extreme northern Negeb, just south of the Judean hill country. The Negeb merges into the Sinai peninsula, which is formed by the two northern arms of the Red Sea, separating the Sinai from the North African desert to its west and the Arabian desert to its east.

The small size of this region is out of proportion to its importance in ancient times and to the importance of the biblical texts that are set in it. West of the Jordan, the traditional limits of ancient Israel were Dan in the north and Beer-sheba in the south, some 150 mi (240 km) apart. Between these two cities, and between the Mediterranean and the Rift Valley, is a region with an area approximately the same as that of Belgium or the state of Vermont. From another perspective, Jerusalem is about 35 mi (55 km) east of the Mediterranean and 16 mi (25 km) west of the Dead Sea. In the right conditions, both bodies of water are visible from Jerusalem’s hills.

Michael D. Coogan

CULTURAL CONTEXTS

THE ANCIENT NEAR EAST AND ANCIENT ISRAEL TO THE MID-FIRST MILLENNIUM BCE

BEGINNINGS

By the time Israel appeared on the stage of the ancient Near East, civilization and the patterns of empires and of the larger shared culture of the Levant were already well established. Before the end of the fourth millennium BCE, full urbanization had developed in the great river valleys of Egypt and Mesopotamia. The development of technology to exploit the flooding of the Nile and to channel the waters of the Euphrates and Tigris enabled the production of regular food supplies and led to regional hegemonies. In Egypt, centered in the Nile Valley and oriented according to the south-to-north direction of the Nile’s flow, this culminated in the unification of Upper (southern) and Lower (northern) Egypt at the beginning of the Early Dynastic Period toward the end of the fourth millennium. In southern Mesopotamia the kings of Sumer ruled that region from a succession of dominant city-states beginning at about the same time.

The stages that preceded urbanization are prehistoric in the sense that they antedate the development of writing. Archaeologists have been able to trace the slow, and often independent, progress from hunter-gatherer economies throughout the Near East to stable cultures that relied on domesticated crops and animals for their sustenance. Dependable supplies of food led to increases of population and eventually to competition for resources. These factors combined to necessitate specialization of tasks, centralized control, and record-keeping. For these purposes, writing was invented, again toward the end of the fourth millennium and, once introduced, was widely adopted (although using different systems) in Egypt and Mesopotamia. By 3000 BCE, then, written history may be said to have begun.

One result of more than two centuries of discovery, excavation, and decipherment of ancient texts is that a detailed chronology of the ancient Near East has been established. While there are occasional gaps in the sequence of rulers for Egypt and for the various Mesopotamian city-states, those sequences are relatively complete. For regions peripheral to the centers of power the historical record is more spotty, but still substantial. Allowing for minor scholarly disagreements, the chronology is secure and provides a framework for the history of the entire ancient Near East, including Israel. Although there remain some small groups of undeciphered texts, including a few in what is apparently the Philistine language, and although much of cuneiform literature is still underground, it is unlikely that new discoveries will require substantial revision of our current understanding of the essential chronology of the ancient Near East.

Nor is the knowledge of the historical record restricted to kings and princes. Hundreds of thousands of nonelite texts have been found. These are not great myths and royal inscriptions but mundane business and commercial records, which shed valuable light on the lives of ordinary men and women, and which have made possible a reconstruction of the social world of the ancient Near East.

Ancient cultures were as intrigued as we are by beginnings, and they constructed elaborate myths to explain their own prehistory. The establishment of the natural and social orders is typically presented in these myths as the work of a deity, usually the principal god or goddess of the political entity in which they were written. Both Egyptian and Mesopotamian literatures have many such creation myths, features of which have parallels in biblical traditions. Like their more powerful neighbors to the southwest and northeast, the ancient Israelites had their own accounts of origins, some of which were ultimately collected and edited in the book of Genesis. The early chapters of Genesis deal with prehistory and are largely mythical. In these Israelite expressions of the origins of the world, of society, and of civilization, the principal agent is the god of Israel. And although intended as the prologue to a larger historical narrative, they are not historical in any modern sense; that is, they do not accurately represent what the archaeological record shows to have taken place, whether in terms of chronology, or the origin of species, or a universal flood.

Egypt and Mesopotamia have their own complex histories during the third millennium, now relatively well known thanks to textual and archaeological data. In the Levant this is the period known as the Early Bronze Age, when northern Syria was largely in the orbit of Mesopotamia, and Egypt exercised direct control over southern Canaan, the region directly northeast of Egypt. For complex reasons not fully understood, toward the end of the third millennium Egypt experienced some internal disruption, reflected in the decline of city-states in southern Canaan but not in Syria farther to the north. By 2000 BCE, however, centralized control had been reestablished, and the textual and artifactual evidence is abundant. Trade flourished, as is indicated by both the archaeological record and commercial and diplomatic correspondence among larger urban centers, and between them and Mesopotamia and Egypt. The Levant was spanned by a cultural continuum, with Syria and northern Canaan being more closely linked with Mesopotamia, and southern Canaan with Egypt. Canaan itself had a relatively homogeneous culture, and its inhabitants, especially in rural and village settings, went about their lives with relatively few changes despite the struggles of the urban centers with each other. From as far back as the end of the fourth millennium, and into the first, there appears to have been continuity of population, whose patterns of material culture develop rather than being replaced by successive waves of invaders, as earlier historical reconstructions suggested.

It is in this larger context that Israel placed its own beginnings, centered on the lives of four generations of ancestors, the families of Abraham and Sarah, of Isaac and Rebekah, and of Jacob and Leah, Rachel, Bilhah, and Zilpah, and their offspring.

THE HISTORICITY OF THE ANCESTRAL NARRATIVES IN GENESIS

In the biblical account of the origins of Israel, narratives concerning Israel's ancestors in Gen 12–50 follow the mythic material in chs 1–11. According to the biblical writers, the time when the ancestors lived is the early second millennium BCE, but there are no direct connections between the biblical traditions and nonbiblical sources. No person or event known from Egyptian, Mesopotamian, or other sources is even mentioned in the book of Genesis. At the relatively few points where the Bible does name rulers (as in Gen 14; 20.2; 26.8), none of them are found in any nonbiblical sources. Moreover, at many points in the narrative the Bible is tantalizingly vague. For example, if the biblical writers had just given the name of the pharaoh who took Sarah into his house (Gen 12.15), or of the pharaoh in whose court Joseph rose to power (Gen 41), we would know when the biblical writers thought those events took place, and could correlate them with Egyptian chronology.

The biblical narratives themselves are the result of a lengthy and complicated process of formation, transmission, and editing (see "Introduction to the Pentateuch," p. 3). Although the reconstruction of that process is hypothetical, there is no doubt that the process itself has caused the inclusion of many anachronisms. These reflect the times when the transmission and editing took place rather than the times in which the narratives are presumably set.

Because of these factors, not surprisingly, scholars are divided on the question of historicity, with proposed dates for the ancestors of Israel, if in fact they even existed, spanning the entire second millennium BCE. A cautious positive assessment would be at best a convergence of possibilities. Allowing for anachronisms, the data are not inconsistent with the Middle to Late Bronze Ages (ca. 2000–1200), with some clues pointing to earlier rather than later in that time span. These clues are admittedly indirect, and include the forms of personal names used and the identification of the god of the ancestors as El (see Ex 6.3), also known in texts from Ugarit in northwest Syria as the head of the Canaanite pantheon from Ugarit. The account of Joseph's elevation to a position of prominence in the Egyptian court is not incompatible with the rise to power of the Hyksos, the Fifteenth Dynasty rulers of Semitic origin who controlled much of Lower Egypt at the end of the Middle Bronze Age (ca. 1650–1550).

Yet most of the details of the lives of the ancestors of Israel, both as pastoral seminomads and as periodically migrating to Egypt, fit not only the mid-second millennium but other times as well. Biblical writings probably do preserve some authentic historical memories, but these have been so refracted by the processes of transmission and the idealization of the ancestors that it is impossible to designate any of the individuals mentioned in Genesis as historical or to establish anything resembling a precise chronology.

THE HISTORICITY OF THE EXODUS FROM EGYPT

As with the ancestral narratives in Genesis, there is no direct connection between biblical traditions about the Exodus from Egypt and other ancient sources. Egyptian records make no mention of the major individuals and events of the narrative in Ex 1–15: Moses, Aaron, the plagues, and the defeat of the Egyptian army at the sea are completely absent from the extensive documentation we have for ancient Egypt. Again, the biblical sources are frustratingly unspecific. Neither the pharaoh “who did not know Joseph” (Ex 1.8) nor the pharaoh of the Exodus itself (Ex 5–15) is named. The only precise detail in the narrative is the store cities named in Ex 1.11, but their precise location and the dates when they were founded and occupied are uncertain, and their inclusion could also be anachronistic. In addition, biblical chronology is both vague and inconsistent. Moreover, as with the ancestral narratives in Gen 12–50, the narrative has been shaped by centuries of transmission and redaction. Finally, although the importance of the Exodus is evident from the amount of space devoted to the generation of the Exodus (the books of Exodus through Deuteronomy), the narrative framework was supplemented by the attachment of large chunks of legal and ritual material from subsequent periods. Once again, then, it is hardly surprising that scholars have divergent views about the date and even the historicity of the Exodus and of its principal characters. And, again, we do best to speak of a convergence of probabilities based on indirect evidence.

The first fixed datum, one of great importance, is a victory stele of Pharaoh Merneptah (1213–1203). In it he claims to have defeated various enemies in Canaan, including the identifiable cities of Gezer, Yanoam, and Ashkelon, and in the same geographical region, a group identified as Israel. Whether or not the victory celebrated on the stele is as complete as claimed, clearly by the end of the thirteenth century BCE the Egyptians knew of the existence of a geopolitical entity called Israel in the land of Canaan. Thus, the Exodus, or some movement of Hebrews out of Egypt, and their entry into Canaan, where they formed at least part of the group that called itself Israel, must have occurred before that date.

The biblical narrative is composite, and when critically analyzed suggests that what the Bible presents as a single episode may in fact have been several, and that more than one group of “Hebrews” eventually moved from Egypt to Canaan, probably entering it at several different places. Most of the details of the account of the forced labor of the Hebrews and of the glimpses of the Egyptian court that we get in the narratives would fit almost any period in ancient Egyptian history.

A majority of modern scholars, but by no means all, date the central episode, associated with Moses, to the thirteenth century, during the reign of Rameses II (1279–1213). An earlier date, toward the beginning of the Late Bronze Age, would link the Exodus with the expulsion of the Hyksos Dynasties from Egypt in the mid-sixteenth century and better fits the chronology in the biblical text, which dates the Exodus to 480 years prior to the construction of the Solomonic Temple in the mid-tenth century (1 Kings 6.1). This correlation was first proposed by the first-century CE Jewish historian Josephus, and continues to have modern adherents. Among the arguments against it is the absence of any mention of Israel in the land of Canaan before the Merneptah inscription. This is especially true in the case of the Amarna Letters, which are diplomatic correspondence from the fourteenth century between the Egyptian court and the rulers of city-states in Canaan. Furthermore, the biblical accounts of the period after the entry into the land found in the books of Joshua and Judges (see text that follows.) contain no hint of Egyptian presence in the land, although both archaeological and written sources indicate that it was significant throughout the Late Bronze Age. It is thus more likely that the (or an) Exodus took place during the thirteenth century.

That some Exodus took place is a responsible inference, given the persistence of the Exodus tradition in the Bible and its presence in the earliest biblical poetry (notably Ex 15), and some smaller details, such as the Egyptian names of Moses, Aaron, and Phinehas. The event must have involved fewer people than the exaggerated biblical numbers (see Ex 12.37) indicate, and may have constituted little more than the escape of a relatively small group of Hebrews from forced labor in the eastern Nile delta in the thirteenth century BCE. Given the lack of historical data it is impossible to say more.

That group, whatever its size, interpreted its escape as the direct intervention of the deity Yahweh on its behalf, to be celebrated in hymns and magnified in importance as it was told and retold. When the group eventually entered Canaan, at a time when there was no centralized power to oppose it, it joined with others and eventually became the twelve-tribe confederation of Israel.

THE EARLY HISTORY OF ISRAEL IN THE LAND OF CANAAN

Perhaps no period in the history of Israel is more controversial than the first two centuries of the Iron Age. The beginning and end of this era are framed by two synchronisms: the mention of Israel in the Merneptah Stele in the late thirteenth century, and the campaign of Pharaoh Shishak in the southern Levant in 925, an event documented both in Egyptian sources and in the Bible. During the intervening three centuries, according to a majority of scholars, Israel developed from a loose confederation of tribes into a relatively stable dynastic monarchy. But of the principal events and individuals that figure in biblical narratives, none occur in other sources. Once more, historical reconstruction must be inferential.

One reconstruction of the beginning of this period that was dominant from the early to the mid-twentieth century is that of conquest. The book of Joshua describes how the large group of Israelites crossed the Jordan under the leadership of Joshua and, in a series of swift and relentless campaigns, defeated the kings of the major Canaanite cities and annihilated most of the indigenous population. This view seemed to be confirmed by the presence of destruction layers at key sites, all dated to the very end of the Late Bronze Age.

Reexcavation of many of those sites and more refined ceramic chronology, however, made it clear that some of the sites had not in fact been occupied at that time, and that the destructions were not all contemporaneous. Moreover, the opening chapters of the book of Judges present a very different picture. While some Israelite groups may have succeeded in defeating their Canaanite neighbors, many others coexisted alongside them. This is apparently confirmed even in the book of Joshua, where such Canaanite groups as the family of Rahab (Josh 6.25) and the Gibeonites (Josh 9) were incorporated into Israel. Thus the conquest model has largely been abandoned by scholars, but no other reconstruction has gained general acceptance.

One plausible scenario is to combine elements of various models to suggest that Israel as a sociopolitical entity emerged in the land of Canaan and was made up of diverse groups. One of these was the Exodus group, whose allegiance to the god who had brought them out of Egypt, Yahweh, would become the central religious tenet of the Israelite confederation. They were joined by others, some who were apparently their kin who had never gone down to Egypt, and some who may have been Canaanites disaffected from the centers of power. These disparate elements united in a confederation or league, whose primary principles of sole worship of Yahweh and mutual support were expressed in a social compact or covenant. The elements are called tribes, and they are associated with specific subregions in the land. While the number of twelve tribes is constant, both the names of the tribes and the territories with which they were associated were less so. The religious symbol of the confederation was a movable shrine, the ark of the covenant, which seems to have been based at different tribal centers at different times. The confederation was decentralized, with no overarching authority, and the tribes were relatively independent. In time of crisis, however, tribes were expected to come to the assistance of a beleaguered member, as in the very ancient poem in Judg 5, or to punish one of their own for breach of the compact, as in the account of the Benjamite war in Judg 19–21. In situations like these a volunteer militia was mustered.

This reconstruction takes into account a variety of biblical data that are embedded in a later historical work, the Deuteronomistic History (see “Introduction to the Historical Books,” p. 315). It also incorporates recent archaeological evidence, including both significant elements of cultural continuity between the Late Bronze Age and the Iron Age, and the proliferation of small rural settlements in the hill country both west and east of the Jordan. Not all of these settlements would have been Israelite, nor would tribal territory necessarily entail complete control. Several important urban centers remained outside the confederation, and Israel did not achieve total control of the Promised Land until the end of the eleventh century at the earliest.

At the beginning of the Iron Age (ca. 1200 BCE), shortly after the likely date for the Exodus, another group had arrived in Canaan. These were the Philistines, one component of the “Sea Peoples” well documented in Egyptian sources and in the archaeological record. Of Aegean origin, they had repeatedly failed in their attempts to invade Egypt, and one or more of these Sea Peoples, including the Philistines, settled in Canaan. According to the biblical account, they formed a pentapolis in the five cities of Gaza, Ashkelon, Ashdod, Gath, and Ekron, and the four of these cities that have been excavated (Gaza is the exception) show a remarkably homogenous material culture at this time.

The broad outline of the biblical account, in Judg 13–16 (the Samson stories) and in 1 and 2 Samuel (the stories of Samuel, Saul, and David), and the archaeological record are in considerable agreement. The Philistines had a superior technology, especially in metallurgy (see 1 Sam 13.20) and military hardware, and a professional standing army. By the mid-eleventh century they were poised to expand their territory to the north and east, and their presence is mentioned at important centers beyond Philistia proper, including Beth-shan in the Jordan Valley, and at military outposts in the heart of Judah, the dominant southern tribe, and in the north as well. The Philistines and the Israelites were thus on a collision course, both vying for control of the same region, and Israel's survival was at stake.

THE UNITED MONARCHY (CA. 1020–928 BCE)

The emergence of Israel as a nation-state is part of a larger pattern of the development of regional geopolitical and ethnic entities throughout the region, such as those of the Edomites, Moabites, and Ammonites in Transjordan, the Arameans in Damascus and other centers in central and northern Syria, and the Phoenicians in Tyre. For this development there is both archaeological and scattered written evidence. In the case of Israel, the major source is the Bible itself, especially the narrative of the Deuteronomistic Historians in 1 and 2 Samuel and 1 Kings 1–11. Judging from these sources, at least in part because of the Philistine threat, toward the end of the eleventh century Israel profoundly changed its form of government from a loose confederation of tribes to a monarchy, according to the terminology of the biblical writers. The first ruler, Saul, seems to have been more a military chief than a full-fledged king. And despite initial successes, he was unable to check the Philistine advance and died in a battle with them deep in Israel's territory in the Jezreel Valley. He was succeeded by a former commander in his army, David, who moved swiftly to contain the Philistines within their original territory and to unite Israel around himself and a newly chosen capital, Jerusalem.

Biblical historians describe additional military successes, which enabled David, and his son and successor Solomon, to subject kingdoms adjacent to Israel to vassal status, including the Edomites, the Moabites, and the Ammonites in Transjordan, and the Arameans in Damascus. Whether the extent of the territory controlled by David and Solomon is as large as biblical sources suggest is questionable. Clearly the biblical historians have magnified the period of the United Monarchy, the reigns of David and Solomon, viewing them in many respects as an ideal age, made possible by divine grant. Underlying the sometimes hyperbolic biblical accounts, however, is authentic historical memory of increasing centralized control and concomitant administrative complexity, a picture indirectly confirmed by the archaeological record. When textual and archaeological data are added to the synchronisms between the Israelite monarchy and those of its neighbors, beginning in the tenth century, there is little doubt that the outlines of the biblical narrative are essentially correct.

The most important of these synchronisms comes just after the death of Solomon. The Egyptian pharaoh Shishak (Sheshonq I) undertook a campaign in Western Asia in 925, a date based on established Egyptian chronology. Mentioned in 1 Kings 14.25–26 (cf. 2 Chr 12.2–9), this campaign is further documented in Egyptian sources and is confirmed by destruction layers at key cities in Israel. This synchronism is the basis for the chronology of the first three kings of Israel, Saul (ca. 1025–1005), David (1005–965), and Solomon (968–928, allowing for a coregency with David at the beginning of his reign).

To be sure, the biblical account of the reigns of these three kings, found in 1 and 2 Samuel and 1 Kings 1–11, is shaped by theological concerns and also displays a pervading interest in the characters of the narrative—the tragically inadequate Saul, the heroic David, the ambitious but flawed Solomon—and in the intrigues of the royal court. But it is also significantly different from narratives about earlier periods in Israel's history. Divine intervention is minimal, with most events taking place largely on the human plane. Moreover, a careful reading of the biblical text discloses archival and other details that can be correlated with the archaeological record and are consistent with the framework of events presupposed by the narrative. Thus, the skepticism of some modern historians, who argue that the biblical accounts of the United Monarchy are fictional retroversions from a later time, seems unwarranted.

David also seems to have begun the process of transforming his chieftdom into a dynastic monarchy, which, consistent with other Near Eastern models, described itself as divinely chosen. With the establishment of the monarchy came social and religious innovation. The older structures of the decentralized premonarchic confederation were now co-opted by royal institutions. The ark of the covenant was enshrined in the Temple in Jerusalem built by Solomon, providing in effect divine sanction for the monarchy. Priests became royal appointees, and there was a growing movement toward centralization of worship in the capital. Yet this centralized administration formed a kind of overlay, a veneer, on the social systems of the nation as a whole. Individuals still identified themselves as members of a family, clan, and tribe, and disputes between them were usually settled at the local level. Apart from the requirement of paying taxes and providing personnel for royal projects and for the army, life in the villages probably proceeded much as it had for centuries.

The establishment of the monarchy, however, had entailed the formation of an elite, wealthy class. Life in the capital of Jerusalem and, after the split of the kingdom into two, in the northern capital of Samaria as well, was characterized by conspicuous consumption. This is evident in the accounts of Solomon's court (1 Kings 4.22–28; 10.14–22), and in the description of the Temple and royal palace complex he constructed (1 Kings 6–7). That the extravagances documented in these accounts are not entirely an exaggeration is evident from archaeological data at Samaria and at royal cities such as Megiddo, Hazor, Gezer, and Dan. With the concentration of political power in the hands of a ruling aristocracy came abuse. One of the constants of the biblical traditions is opposition to the exploitation of the poorer classes. This opposition was frequently expressed in prophetic rebukes of the aristocracy, as in the legendary traditions concerning Elijah (2 Kings 20), and in the books of the prophets themselves. While their own relationship to the centers of power was not always antagonistic, prophets such as Amos, Isaiah, and Micah in the eighth century and Jeremiah in the late seventh to early sixth centuries were harsh in their denunciation of social injustice. In a sense they were conservatives, even reactionaries, insisting that the older premonarchic tradition of covenant was still binding, a tradition that commanded not only exclusive worship of Yahweh but also fair treatment of every Israelite.

THE DIVIDED MONARCHY (CA. 928 TO THE LATE SEVENTH CENTURY BCE)

The union of the northern and southern tribes had been fragile, even during the United Monarchy, and it disintegrated at Solomon's death. The reason implied in 1 Kings 12 is the northerners' anger at the cost of the extravagances of the capital, and this must have been part of the motivation. Solomon's son and successor Rehoboam was unable to gain the allegiance of the ten northern tribes, who seceded and formed a separate kingdom. This inaugurates the period of the Divided Monarchy, the two kingdoms of Israel in the north and Judah in the south. The dynasty that David had established remained in power in Judah for nearly four centuries, while Israel was ruled by a succession of royal families, many of whose rulers came to power in military coups. The parts were less than their sum had been, and the two kingdoms had mixed relations, sometimes friendly, sometimes hostile. Neither was able to control effectively the regions that bordered them, and the Davidic empire, such as it was, ceased to exist.

Changes on the larger international scene would increasingly affect these two kingdoms. Pressure from a revived Egypt is already evident in the afore-mentioned campaign of Shishak to the north in 925. Meanwhile, in northern Mesopotamia, the kingdom of Assyria had consolidated its control over Babylon in the south and adjacent regions to the north and east, and by the ninth century was poised to expand into the Levant. At this point the fairly complete Assyrian annals enable the construction of a reliable chronology and provide numerous synchronisms with biblical texts. Beginning with Ahab, king of Israel in the mid-ninth century, many of the rulers of both Israel and Judah are mentioned in Assyrian sources, an indication of the growing Assyrian interest in the region and a coincidence of ominous significance.

The Assyrians were establishing an empire, a process that reached its zenith with the Assyrian king Esarhadon's subjugation of Egypt in 671. They accomplished this by virtue of a technologically sophisticated army, which in relatively rapid advance overwhelmed the smaller kingdoms to their west, usually incorporating their territories into the empire as provinces and deporting the elite of their populations to other regions. By the late eighth century this subjugation was virtually complete. The Syrian kingdoms had been taken, including that of the Arameans in Damascus in 732. In 722 Samaria fell, its ruling class was exiled to Assyria, and the Northern Kingdom of Israel became an Assyrian province. Judah's territory was curtailed and, in part because of the remote location of Jerusalem, was allowed to exist in vassal status. Toward the end of the eighth century King Hezekiah attempted to reassert Judean independence, but this was ruthlessly quashed by the Assyrian king Sennacherib in a campaign (701) which is well documented in both biblical and Assyrian sources and archaeologically. Jerusalem avoided destruction only by payment of a heavy tribute, and the Davidic dynasty survived.

Beginning with Amos and Hosea in the mid-eighth century, the prophets, and the later authors of the Deuteronomistic History (Joshua–2 Kings) interpreted these events as a deserved punishment inflicted by God on his rebellious people. For them, the repeated experiences of attack, siege, and exile were ultimately caused not by the inexorable progress of the Assyrian armies but by divine agency, imposing the fulfillment of the curses attached to the covenant made by God with Israel on Mount Sinai.

THE END OF THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH (LATE SEVENTH TO EARLY SIXTH CENTURIES BCE)

By the late seventh century the Assyrian Empire was overextended and thus unable to prevent first independence and eventually overthrow by a resurgent Babylonia to its south. The Babylonians captured the Assyrian capital of Nineveh in 612, and in effect took over the Assyrian Empire. At first, Egypt and Judah attempted to take advantage of the transfer of power by reasserting their independence. This was the time of the reign of the Judean king Josiah (640–609), whom biblical sources compare to David and whose accomplishments are magnified like those of his illustrious predecessor. While it seems likely that Judah reestablished control over some of the territory to the north and west that had been under direct Assyrian rule, its autonomy, such as it was, was short-lived. After Josiah's death in battle at Megiddo in 609, in a failed attempt to prevent the Egyptians from moving north to reinforce the tottering Assyrians, Judah was again reduced to the status of a vassal, first to Egypt, and then, by the end of the seventh century, to Babylon. Caught between two greater powers, the Judean kings Jehoiakim and Zedekiah successively allied themselves with Egypt, which proved to be the weaker partner. Under Nebuchadrezzar (also called Nebuchadnezzar) II, the Babylonians laid siege to Jerusalem in 597 and 586, in the second instance destroying the city, burning down the Temple, and ending the Davidic dynasty.

Despite the extravagant propaganda of the royal establishment, neither the Davidic dynasty nor its capital city were impregnable. Jerusalem was destroyed, its dynastic Temple burned, and its population decimated by death and exile. Autonomous control of the Promised Land became only a memory. And despite partial restoration later in the sixth century, exile in Babylon forever transformed the religion of Judah: Judaism. From this point on, a significant proportion of Jews would be living outside the Promised Land, without king, Temple, or priesthood.

Michael D. Coogan

CULTURAL CONTEXTS

THE PERSIAN AND HELLENISTIC PERIODS

THE PERSIAN PERIOD (539–333 BCE)

The Babylonian exile and the period of Persian domination that followed was a time of great transformation for Judean institutions, religious practices, and culture, but it was equally a time in which the fundamental continuity with preexilic traditions was reaffirmed and secured. When Nebuchadrezzar put down the rebellion of Judah in 586 BCE, he exiled to Babylonia a portion of the population, including many of the ruling class and the skilled artisans. Some, however, remained in Judah, where a subsistence economy was soon reestablished. Although the system of regular sacrifices at the Temple was disrupted, the ruined Temple remained a focus for religious observances. The book of Lamentations may preserve liturgical poems used on days commemorating the destruction of Jerusalem and its Temple. Little is known about the circumstances of those who went into exile, although it appears that the exiles were settled in many local communities in Babylonia, where they were able to oversee their own internal and cultural affairs under the leadership of Jewish elders and prophets (see Ezek; Isa 40–55).

Recently published documents from southern Babylonia preserve business and legal documents from a number of Jewish families during the period (572–477 BCE) and include references to a village called Al-Yahudu (“Judahville”), evidently a site where most of the residents were Jewish. Though most of the families attested in these archival documents were of modest means, some, like the families of Ahiqam son of Rapa-Yama and Ahiqar son of Rimut had significant property and business interests. These documents complement the previously known Murashu archive (ca. 450–400) which include some documentation on economically modest Jewish families from the area around Nippur. Most likely the most affluent Jews would have been descendants of the Judean royal court, which was settled in Babylon, as documents from the Weidner archives attest.

The conquest of Babylon by the Persian king Cyrus the Great in 539 BCE brought significant changes. In keeping with his policy of respecting the various deities worshiped throughout the empire, a decree by Cyrus in 538 (see Ezra 1.1–4; 6.1–5) authorized the rebuilding of the Temple in Jerusalem and the return of the Temple vessels captured by Nebuchadnezzar. In addition, Cyrus allowed any of the exiles who wished to return to Judah to do so. Within the exilic community in Babylon the anonymous prophet known as “Second Isaiah” (Isa 40–55) strongly supported Cyrus and urged the exiles to return to Judah. Although the historical sources are few and not always easy to interpret, it appears that only a small minority of the exiles and their descendants returned to Judah, most choosing to remain in Babylonia. This latter group became the nucleus of a large and highly significant Jewish Diaspora community (Jews of “the dispersion,” that is, living outside the Promised Land), which strongly influenced the development of Judaism and Jewish culture during the following centuries.

Despite the decree of Cyrus, the Temple in Jerusalem was not rebuilt until 520–515 BCE. The reasons for the delay were various. Persian control over the western territories may actually have been tentative until after the Persians conquered Egypt in 525. The economy of Yehud (the name by which the Persian province of Judah was known) was weak, and there appears to have been friction between the population that had remained in the land and the small but powerful group who returned from exile with the authorization and financial backing of the Persian king. Conflicts with the neighboring territories of Samaria to the north and Geshur and Ammon in Transjordan also complicated the situation. Within the Bible the prophetic books of Haggai and Zechariah and portions of Ezra 1–6 refer to this period, but these sources have to be read and interpreted critically, for they are neither consistent with one another nor easy to understand on their own terms. At least during the early part of Persian rule the governors of Judah appear to have been prominent Jews from the Diaspora community, one of whom, Zerubbabel, was a member of the Davidic royal family. The province of Yehud itself was very small, consisting of Jerusalem and the territory surrounding it within a radius of about 15–20 mi (24–32 km).

Once the Temple was rebuilt, it became the nucleus of the restored community, and consequently a focus of conflict (Isa 56–66; Mal). The high priestly family, which had also returned from the Diaspora, became very powerful, and at least on occasion was in conflict with the governor appointed by the Persian king. Although the details are often not clear, there appears to have been continuing conflict during the fifth century between those Jews whose ancestors had been in exile and those whose ancestors had remained in the land. Those who returned from the Diaspora styled themselves the “children of the exile” and referred rather contemptuously to the rest as “people of the land,” as though their very status as Jews was in question. In fact, the question of the limits of the community was one of the most contentious issues of the period, reflected both in the controversy over marriages between Jewish men and ethnically foreign women (Ezra 10; Neh 13) and also in conflicts within the Jewish community over who had the right to claim the traditional identity as descendants of “Abraham” and “Israel” (see Isa 63:16 and more generally “Third Isaiah,” Isa 56–66). Although the conflicts between various contending groups in early Persian period Yehud are largely cast in religious terms, there is no question that they were also in part socioeconomic (see Neh 5). All of these conflicts and efforts toward redefinition of the community, however, took place within the reality of Persian imperial control. Thus it is not by accident that the two most prominent figures involved in various reforms of mid-fifth-century Yehud, Ezra and Nehemiah, were Diaspora Jews of high standing, carrying out tasks that had been specifically authorized by the Persian kings.

Because this was a period of self-conscious reconstruction, it was also a time of immense literary activity, as traditional materials were collected, revised, and edited, and new works composed. Although portions of the Pentateuch may have existed in various forms during the time of the monarchy, it was probably reworked during the Persian period into something close to its final form. Although a history of Israel and Judah known as the Deuteronomistic History (Deut through 2 Kings) had been composed during the latter years of the monarchy and updated during the exile, a new version of that history, 1–2 Chronicles, was prepared during the Persian period (ca. 350 BCE). It clearly reflects the concerns of the postexilic community, focusing almost exclusively on the history of Judah and giving particular emphasis to the institution of the Temple. The books of Ezra and Nehemiah interpret events from the decree of Cyrus in 538 until the late fifth century.

In addition to the prophetic books composed at this time (Isa 56–66, Hag, Zech, Mal, and perhaps Joel), the texts of older prophets were also edited and reinterpreted. Psalmody had been an important element of worship at the First Temple but appears to have taken on an even more significant role in the Second Temple. Although the expansion and revision of the book of Psalms may have continued until well into the Hellenistic or even Roman period, an important shaping of the psalter, perhaps including its division into five “books,” was part of Persian-period activity. Wisdom writing, too, flourished during this time. The book of Job, parts of the book of Proverbs, and perhaps Ecclesiastes were likely composed then.

THE HELLENISTIC PERIOD (333–363 BCE)

The westward expansion of the Persian Empire into the area of Asia Minor had brought it into conflict with Greece, since many of the cities of Asia Minor that came under Persian control had been founded and populated by Greeks. Twice the Persians had even invaded the Greek mainland but were defeated on both occasions. Eventually, Philip of Macedon developed a plan to free the Greek cities of Asia Minor from Persian domination. Although he died before he could undertake the campaign, it was taken up by his son Alexander the Great in 334 BCE. Alexander, however, did not stop with the accomplishment of that initial goal. In 333 he continued down the Phoenician coast, subduing any city that resisted, conquered Egypt, then turned to the Persian heartland, defeating Darius III, the last Persian emperor, in 331. Alexander continued his conquest into the eastern reaches of the Persian Empire before returning in 324 to Babylon, which he apparently intended to establish as the capital of the empire he now controlled. He died in 323 before he could successfully organize his enormous territory. After Alexander's death, his generals fought for control of portions of the empire. By 301 an agreement gave Egypt to Ptolemy and Mesopotamia and Syria-Palestine to Seleucus. Ptolemy, however, occupied Palestine and southern Syria. Through a series of five wars extending over more than a hundred years, the Ptolemaic kings managed to hold onto their Palestinian territory, finally losing it to the Seleucids in 198 BCE.

Jerusalem had surrendered to Alexander in 333 and was relatively undisturbed by the events of his conquest. Samaria, too, surrendered but rebelled in 332 and was severely punished, its inhabitants killed or sold into slavery, and the city refounded as a Macedonian military colony. Documents belonging to a group of Samaritans who fled and were later tracked down and killed by Alexander's troops have been excavated from the Wadi Daliyeh in the Jordan Valley. In contrast to the relatively settled conditions following Alexander's conquest, however, the dispute between the Ptolemies and the Seleucids over control of Palestine had serious consequences for Jerusalem and Judea. Not only did the wars sometimes affect Judean territory, but the nation's leaders had to make difficult choices concerning which power to support, a factor that influenced internal Judean politics during the third century BCE.

Although the high priest was the primary representative of the Judeans, the Ptolemaic system of government and taxation had significant effects on the power structure of the country. The Ptolemies considered their territories primarily as a source of revenue. Rather than collecting funds directly, they employed "tax farmers," often local persons who bought the right to collect taxes for a specified area. Their profit was the difference between the amount they raised and the amount they had pledged to the government. Some of these positions were quite lucrative. Moreover, the Ptolemies also engaged prominent landowners to keep the peace as the heads of locally organized military villages. The Jewish historian Josephus preserves a long account of the Tobiad family, which served the Ptolemaic government in both capacities. From his lively narrative one has a sense not only of the power and wealth such positions could afford but also of the dangers and conflict they often entailed.

Culturally, the most significant effect of Ptolemaic rule was the establishment of a large Jewish Diaspora community in Egypt, centered in the new city of Alexandria, founded by Alexander the Great. Jews had often migrated to Egypt during times of economic or political trouble (see, e.g., Jer 42–44). In the fifth century a Jewish military colony in the service of the Persian army was established at Elephantine (near modern Aswan). They had their own temple, though they remained in correspondence with Jerusalem concerning various religious matters, including the proper celebration of Passover and assistance in securing Persian permission for the rebuilding of the Elephantine temple after it was destroyed by local Egyptians. The various Aramaic documents found there (letters, contracts, marriage documents, records of legal disputes, etc.) provide an important glimpse into the daily life of this Jewish community in Egypt. Among the papyri was a copy of the book of Ahikar, a legendary story about an official in the Assyrian court at the time of Sennacherib and Esarhaddon (late eighth to early seventh century). Although the story was not Jewish in origin, it became popular among the Jews. The book of Tobit in the Apocrypha makes reference to Ahikar, even calling him Tobit's nephew (Tob 1.21–22).

The Hellenistic-era Egyptian Diaspora, however, was much larger and more influential than the previous small communities of Jews living in Egypt. Its origins are not clear, but during the initial Ptolemaic conquest of Palestine, Ptolemy I apparently captured Jerusalem and took many prisoners back to Egypt, where they settled. Later many other Jews migrated there, presumably for economic reasons. The community continued to grow, both in numbers and in prosperity, until in the Roman period the Jewish population numbered in the hundreds of thousands, including many wealthy and prominent families.

By the middle of the third century BCE the largely Greek-speaking Jewish community in Egypt had translated the books of the Torah (Genesis–Deuteronomy) into Greek, and over the next century or so, the other books of the Hebrew Bible were also translated. A legendary account of this project is contained in the Letter of Aristeas. According to that narrative, the impetus for the project came from the king himself, Ptolemy II Philadelphus (285–246 BCE), who wished to have a copy for the library of Alexandria. Seventy-two Jewish translators were brought to Egypt from Jerusalem for the task; hence the translation came to be known as the Septuagint, from the Greek word for “seventy.” Scholars largely reject this account as unhistorical and maintain that the translation was undertaken for the religious needs of a Jewish community that no longer understood Hebrew. (See the essays “The Canons of the Bible” and “Textual Criticism,” the section on Hebrew Bible: Texts and Versions, p. 1845, for more information about the Septuagint.)

In addition to the translation of the scriptures, the Jewish Diaspora in Egypt produced a rich and varied literature in Greek. One should not assume, however, that every Jewish writing in Greek originated in Alexandria, for during the Hellenistic period Greek became the most important language in the Near East. Educated Jews in Palestine and in the eastern Diaspora were nearly as likely to speak Greek as their counterparts in Egypt. Nevertheless, Alexandria remained unparalleled in the richness of its intellectual culture.

Throughout the Hellenistic world the increasing contact between different ethnic groups led to a new self-consciousness within communities about their own historical traditions and how these traditions related to those of other peoples. Thus historiographical writing, from the scholarly to the popular, became an important type of literary activity. In the late third century BCE an Alexandrian Jew named Demetrius investigated the chronologies of the biblical tradition, attempting to explain apparent contradictions and logical inconsistencies. A more entertaining work is Eupolemus's Concerning the Kings in Judea. A friend of Judas Maccabeus, Eupolemus retold the biblical narrative with many embellishments and legendary details in an attempt to glorify Israel's traditions and accomplishments. In Eupolemus's history Moses appears as a culture-bringer, the inventor of the alphabet, which the Phoenicians and the Greeks later borrowed. Eupolemus particularly emphasizes the power and influence of the Israelite kingdom under David and Solomon, as well as the splendor of the Solomonic Temple. Not only was the Temple decorated with gifts from the kings of Tyre and Egypt, but Solomon reciprocated, sending a golden pillar to the temple of Zeus in Tyre.

The tendency to make connections between one's own traditions and those of other ethnic groups and to claim priority in the arts of civilization is reflected in Asatir, a highly legendary history written in the second century BCE by an anonymous Samaritan. He identifies Enoch with the Greek Titan hero Atlas and claims that Abraham was the inventor of astrology, which he taught to the Egyptians when he sojourned there. A similar tendency is evident in the work of Artapanus. In his history Moses becomes the inventor of the technologies basic to civilization. Moreover, this Moses serves as a general in the Egyptian army, organizes Egyptian religion, and comes to be treated virtually as a god by the Egyptians, who identify him with Hermes (the Greek equivalent of the Egyptian god Thoth). The interest of Egyptian Jews in the biblical figure of Joseph is reflected in the romance Joseph and Asenath, which tells the story of Joseph's marriage to the Egyptian noblewoman Asenath (see Gen 41.45). She is depicted as a model convert to Judaism, and the story depicts some of the complications of Jewish-Gentile relations in Hellenistic Egypt.

Jewish poetic works composed in Greek also reflect a blending of cultural traditions. The Hellenistic genre of poetry praising cities and countries is represented in the work of Theodotus and Philo the Epic Poet, who wrote poems about Shechem and Jerusalem, respectively. Even more ambitious was the work of Ezekiel the Tragedian, whose play The Exodus retold the account of Ex 1–15 in a style influenced by the Greek dramatists Aeschylus and Euripides.

Greek philosophy, too, left its imprint on Hellenistic Jewish culture. Already in the second century BCE an Alexandrian Jew named Aristobulus produced a philosophical commentary on the Torah in which he claimed that the law of Moses anticipated many of the fundamental tenets of Greek philosophy and that the Greek philosophers Pythagoras, Socrates, and Plato derived their ideas from the Jewish law. Written toward the end of the Hellenistic period, the Wisdom of Solomon continues the biblical tradition of wisdom books like Proverbs but incorporates many elements of Greek rhetoric, philosophy, and literary style.

Less is known about the Jews of the eastern Diaspora who remained under Seleucid control than about the Jews of Egypt and Palestine, but it appears that peoples of various ethnic groups had access to economic and political advancement within the Seleucid Empire. Several writings from this time—Tobit, Dan 1–6, and Esther—suggest something of the outlook of Jews in the eastern Diaspora. Written originally in Hebrew or Aramaic and later enlarged when they were translated into Greek, these books are works of fiction, edifying entertainments that tell the stories of Jews who achieved high status in foreign courts, were threatened by jealous rivals, and yet succeeded in securing personal power and the good will of the king. Though the stories are all set in the pre-Hellenistic period (Tobit in the Assyrian Empire, Daniel in the Babylonian exile, and Esther in the Persian court), they were probably written (or in the case of Daniel revised and updated) during the Seleucid period. These stories are ideologically complex, exhibiting forms of resistance against the claims of imperial culture and the danger it might represent for Jews, but also envisioning ways that Jewish life could flourish in the Diaspora.

The eastern Diaspora was also the conduit for important religious developments that arose from the contact between Judaism and the religions of Babylon and Persia. This influence is most clearly seen in the development of apocalyptic literature. Parts of the book of 1 Enoch composed in the third century BCE reflect astronomical lore and traditions about antediluvian sages that derive from Babylonian sources. Although it is more difficult to trace the path of influence in its earliest stages, the dualistic religious beliefs of Persian Zoroastrianism almost certainly contributed to the development of Jewish apocalyptic thought and to some of the ideas of the sectarians at Qumran.

The eventual triumph of the Seleucid kingdom over the Ptolemies in the fifth Syrian war (198 BCE) obviously had a greater significance for the Jews of Judea than for those of Egypt. The Seleucid ruler Antiochus III treated the Judeans generously in appreciation for the support he received from the pro-Seleucid faction, granting an allowance for the Temple and various tax concessions, as well as confirming the Judeans' right to live "according to the laws of their country." Although relations began well, the way the Seleucid Empire governed its territories set the stage for a terrible conflict. Unlike the Ptolemaic system of centralized government administered with the cooperation of local leaders, the Seleucid regime was more decentralized. It derived some unity, however, from a network of Greek cities established throughout the empire. These were not necessarily ethnically Greek but were cities that had received a charter to organize as a "polis," the Greek form of city government. Cultural prestige and economic advantages often led the leadership of Near Eastern cities to request such a charter.

The events leading up to the conflict between Judea and the Seleucid king Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 BCE) are complex and not fully understood. In part they involved a struggle for succession to the high priesthood and the attempts of various contenders to secure the support of the king by paying him large sums of money. The first of the contenders, Jason, also paid to have Jerusalem established as a Greek "polis," Antioch at Jerusalem. Neither of these acts in itself seems to have aroused much opposition in Jerusalem. The conflict was not a cultural conflict between Judaism and Hellenism, for Palestinian Jews had already incorporated significant elements of Hellenistic culture, which they considered quite compatible with their religious identity.

The crisis was sparked by the attempt by another contender, Menelaus, to buy the office of high priest. When he promised the king more than he could pay, he attempted to raise the money by taking golden vessels from the Temple. At this, a riot broke out in Jerusalem. Subsequent fighting between the forces of Jason and Menelaus convinced Antiochus that Judea was in revolt, and he retook the city and plundered the Temple, in either 169 or 168. Sometime later there were further disturbances, and Antiochus sent Syrian troops, which remained garrisoned in Jerusalem. Whether the status of Jerusalem at this point was a "polis" or a military colony is uncertain, but in either case in 167 the Temple was reorganized to accommodate the religious needs of the Syrian troops. The Temple was dedicated to Zeus Olympios, the Greek name for the Syrian god Baal Shamem, and an altar established for sacrifice to him. Though Menelaus continued to preside as high priest, most Jews considered these actions to have profaned the Temple. In addition, the traditional practice of Judaism was suppressed by Antiochus, perhaps with the cooperation of Menelaus. Since religious persecution was virtually unknown in antiquity, it is difficult to know how Antiochus understood this repression and what he hoped to accomplish by it. Its actual result was to ignite the resistance known as the Maccabean revolt.

The Hasmoneans, Mattathias and his sons Judas Maccabeus, Jonathan, Simon, John, and Eleazar, were the leaders of the revolt. Although Judas managed to retake control of the Temple in 164 (its rededication being the occasion for the institution of the festival of Hanukkah), it was not until 142 that the last of the Seleucid army was expelled and actual independence was secured by Simon. From then until the Roman conquest of Judea in 63 BCE the small kingdom was ruled by the Hasmonean family, which in addition to being kings also assumed the office of high priest.

Religious and cultural life in Judea during the Seleucid and Hasmonean periods was rich and varied, with a remarkable quantity of literature produced in Hebrew, Aramaic, and to some extent in Greek. Sirach (Ecclesiasticus), Jesus Ben Sira's book of wisdom teachings, was probably composed in Hebrew about 180 BCE. Though largely traditional, it embodies several innovations: Ben Sira's identification of wisdom with the law (Torah) of Moses, his praise of the contemporary high priest Simon II, and his own explicit claim to authorship. Ben Sira may have disapproved of apocalyptic speculation, but the crisis under Antiochus IV produced an upsurge in apocalyptic writings, not only Dan 7–12, but also 1 Enoch 83–90 and The Testament of Moses. After the establishment of the Hasmonean monarchy, a supporter of the dynasty composed an account of the war in Hebrew (1 Maccabees), modeling it after the earlier books of Kings and Chronicles. An Egyptian Jewish writer, Jason of Cyrene, also wrote a history of the war in Greek (2 Maccabees), which was strongly influenced by forms of Hellenistic history writing.

Our knowledge of the literature of this time has been greatly increased by the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls at Qumran. Although this library was the property of a sectarian religious group related to the Essenes, it contained many Hebrew and Aramaic texts that were not sectarian compositions. Several of these scrolls contain non-canonical psalms, blessings, and other liturgical material. There are also many examples of what is called “the rewritten Bible,” fairly free retellings of parts of the biblical story, embellished with new narrative episodes, prayers, and other elements (e.g., Jubilees, The Genesis Apocryphon, The Apocryphon of Joshua). Some texts elaborate on the apocalyptic elements of the books of Ezekiel and Daniel or place apocalyptic pronouncements in the mouths of other biblical figures, such as Levi, Qahat (Kohath), and Amram. Several texts, often having to do with matters of religious law, purport to be discourses of Moses, most remarkably, the Temple Scroll, which apparently takes the form of an address by God to Moses. Although it incorporates material from the books of Exodus through Deuteronomy, it also contains much new material, including detailed instructions for building the Temple.

These documents and others pertaining to the Qumran sect itself help to clarify issues of religious controversy that shaped the period of Hasmonean rule. The Temple and the Torah were central institutions for Judaism, which made them focal points for conflict. The Qumran scrolls show that conflict over the correct calendar (i.e., solar or solar-lunar) for the conduct of Temple sacrifices was one of several issues dividing the Qumran Essenes from their rivals, the Pharisees. Though the Hasmoneans were not always on good terms with the Pharisees, they adopted the lunar calendar favored by them. Many other writings from Qumran also elaborate their understanding of disputed issues such as purity, marriage, and sabbath observance, concerning which they were at odds with the Pharisees. Although the Qumran community did not compose apocalypses (i.e., reports of revelatory visions), they were strongly influenced by apocalyptic ideas and considered themselves to be living in the last times, just before God would intervene to restore proper order to the world. They supported their ideas in part by writing “pesharim,” types of commentaries on biblical texts, which they read as referring to themselves and their opponents. Their understanding of the ancient texts as only actualized in their own time anticipates NT exegesis of the Jewish scriptures in many ways.

In general, the Hellenistic period presents a picture of Judaism that is extraordinarily diverse. Not only did Jews live in a vast range of lands from Egypt to Parthia, they also creatively adapted many elements from the varied Hellenistic cultures of these lands. Nevertheless, important symbols and institutions, including the Temple in Jerusalem, the scriptures, and common religious practices based in the Torah, provided a sense of unity and common identity.

Carol A. Newsom

CULTURAL CONTEXTS

THE ROMAN PERIOD

The Roman conquest of Judea in 63 BCE was part of a centuries-long expansion of the power of Rome. The destruction of Carthage in North Africa in 146 BCE concluded the Punic Wars and secured the western Mediterranean, and the destruction of Corinth in the same year demonstrated Rome’s control of Greece. In the next century, a series of conflicts with the successors of Alexander the Great in Asia and Egypt brought Roman rule to the entire eastern Mediterranean. The events that led to the replacement of the Roman republic by autocratic rule culminated with the installation of Julius Caesar’s nephew Octavian (later Augustus) as the first emperor in 27

BCE, and included the conquest of Egypt. The Mediterranean was now, as it has aptly been called, “a Roman lake.”

Within the Roman Empire, especially in the east, client states were allowed considerable autonomy as long as their rulers maintained order and paid tribute to Rome. In Judea, Herod the Great, king of Judea from 37 to 4 BCE, succeeded on both counts, and with Roman sanction his control eventually extended to all of the region west of the Jordan and over much of Transjordan. His successors were not so adept, and direct Roman rule of Judea itself began in 6 CE. Thus began an uneasy détente between a series of Roman governors and the leaders of the Jewish community, based in the Temple in Jerusalem. This broke down during the First Jewish Revolt (66–73 CE), prompting the Roman destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE. A brief resurgence of Jewish nationalism in the Second Jewish Revolt (132–135 CE) was easily crushed, and Jerusalem became Aelia Capitolina, a fully Hellenized city from which Jews were banned.

This is the historical setting for the life of Jesus and the development of earliest Christianity, one of several “Judaisms” that coexisted in Palestine before 70 CE. For most of them the Temple was the primary place of worship and the locus of authority in religious and intracommunity issues. The priesthood in the Temple was hereditary, but from the time of Herod on the high priest was appointed by a ruler or governor. The high priest was head of a council, called the Sanhedrin, which had jurisdiction in religious and, to a limited extent, in civic matters. Other groups that comprised Judaism, with boundaries not always sharply drawn, included the Sadducees, members of the priesthood whose social status was aristocratic and whose views were conservative. The Pharisees were a movement concerned with observance of the Torah and hence with its interpretation, often through local houses of assembly; these “synagogues,” however, did not replace the Temple as the place of sacrifice and pilgrimage. The Pharisees were forerunners of the rabbinic Judaism that developed after the Temple’s destruction in 70. Outside of these groups, but still part of the broad spectrum of Judaism, were the Essenes and allied members of the “community” which professed to follow the new or true covenant. The rules governing these communities were found among the Dead Sea Scrolls. Its founding leadership had seceded from the Temple-based priesthood during the early Hasmonean period (mid-first century BCE). Often involved in tense interaction with first-century Judeans, the Samaritans possessed their own version of the Torah and opposed sacrificial worship at the Jerusalem Temple. They remain a tiny minority within Israel today.

WITHIN THE ROMAN EMPIRE

Readers encounter two different cultural spaces within the New Testament: the village economy of agriculture and fishing in the Galilee, and the mobile economy of merchants and tradesmen in the urban centers of the empire. The first, the village economy, forms the context of Jesus’s ministry and of the itinerant disciples who formulated the collections of sayings, stories, and miracles that underlie the Gospels. The second, the merchant economy, constitutes the world of Paul’s missions as well as that of countless unknown disciples like those responsible for bringing the gospel message to Rome around 41 CE. This larger, urban world is that of the epistles and the book of Acts. It is also evident in the expansions and reformulations of Mark and “Q” that are found in Matthew and Luke. Both the village agriculturists and the traveling merchants view from below a third cultural space: that of the wealthy, educated elite who are responsible for most of the architectural, artistic, literary, legal, philosophical, and religious remains that represent the Roman world and its influence within Western history and culture.

The predominance of this third, elite world in its cultural influence creates a problem for historians. We must be cautious in using the productions of an elite minority to describe the religious or social world of ordinary people in ancient societies. Anthropologists, for instance, make a distinction between the high tradition of sacred texts, temple rites, and the learned commentary upon them that centers upon the great urban cultural milieu, and the humbler, smaller traditions of religious belief, story, and practice that villagers hand on to one another. The story of the young Jesus remaining in the Temple to debate the teachers (Lk 2.41–52) exemplifies this distinction. For the Galilean peasants, religious devotion is focused on, and expressed in, the act of pilgrimage to Jerusalem for Passover. For the religious elite, it consists rather of learned interpretation of the sacred texts.

Thousands of papyri found in the dry climate of Egypt have yielded new insights into the lives of ordinary people in ancient times. Scholars also study nonelite forms of storytelling, popular belief, and everyday life; these aspects of experience are reflected in novels, in expansions of the biblical text in the Targums (Aramaic translations and paraphrases of the Hebrew Bible), in Jewish and Christian apocryphal writings, and within the New Testament itself, as well as in the remains of material culture recovered by archaeologists.

Roman rule constituted the overarching political reality for both the village agricultural society in the Gospels and the urban context of Acts and the epistles. Its most immediate impact within Palestine was the accession of the Idumean Herod as king. Rome, not the Jewish populace, established the terms of Herodian rule. Herod’s massive building projects—including the city of Caesarea, his own mausoleum at Herodion, and the Temple complex in Jerusalem—followed Greek and Roman models. Further consequences of Herod’s rule included the severing of ties between tenant farmers and landholders who were no longer local patrons (see Mk 12.1–9). Pressures on the tax system to meet Roman demands and to finance Herod’s building projects must have been considerable; this, and the possibilities for corruption and extortion inherent in the system, resulted in the cultural disdain reflected in the phrase “tax collector and sinner” (Lk 15.1–2; Mt 18.17 uses the alternative, equally dismissive, “tax collector and Gentile”). The auxiliary forces who represented the immediate face of Roman power were composed of troops from surrounding areas with inherited ethnic hatreds for the population they policed. Soldiers might extort goods and services at random from the local populace (Mt 5.41). However, legionary centurions who retired in a region where they had served might also be valuable local patrons (Lk 7.1–10). Physicians attached to army units could also serve the populace on the side (Mk 5.26).

Most of Galilee seems to have been a prosperous region of small landholders, who produced wine or olive oil, and grazed herds of sheep and goats. Families in the villages where Jesus preached were largely self-sufficient. Craftsmen, such as Jesus himself, may have worked in the cities that were being built in the region, like Tiberias and Sepphoris. After harsh reprisals against some towns for the surprise massacre of Roman troops commanded by the experienced legate Cestius in 66 CE, Galilee was quickly pacified. The rebellion against Rome, which Judean zealots ignited in 66 CE, had no traction in Galilee. Further evidence for the general prosperity of the region emerges when one turns to the occupation of Jesus’s core disciples, Peter, James, and John (Mk 1.16–20). The fishing industry around the Sea of Galilee was a flourishing one, as the archaeological remains of extensive harbor installations indicate. Fishing involved families or partners who owned the boats working with hired hands. Fish was salted, dried, smoked, or pickled, and packed in jars for export. Thus Jesus and his disciples were neither naïve isolated pastoralists nor poor peasants, but were engaged in economic enterprises crucial to Galilee’s place in the larger world.

For Jerusalem, a city whose chief economic asset was its Temple, the crowds of pilgrims at major feasts and the massive new complex of buildings were both an economic boon and a source of civic pride. The major cities in the eastern Mediterranean, such as Antioch, Ephesus, Philippi, Corinth, and Thessalonica, also enjoyed increased prosperity as a consequence of Roman rule and the large number of travelers on land and sea. Without such routine travel, the Christian mission could not have taken place. The expansion of Christianity was also furthered by the existence of Jewish communities in those cities, which provided an initial network (e.g., see Acts 13.5; 14.1). Many of the peoples incorporated into the Roman Empire, Jews and non-Jews alike, would have shared positive sentiments toward its authority (see Rom 13.1–7; 1 Pet 2.13–17).

On the other hand, civic discord, rioting, and localized rebellion against Roman rule remained real possibilities wherever a native population was not fully assimilated. Alexandria in Egypt had a large Jewish population that included highly educated, cultured, and wealthy individuals like the philosopher and exegete Philo of Alexandria (d. ca. 50 CE). Yet non-Jewish residents rioted in 41 CE when the Jewish elite sought the same citizenship rights as the citizen descendants of the Greek founders. Despite the appeals of a delegation of prominent Jewish Alexandrians, the emperor Claudius refused to grant their request, and threatened severe punishment if further civil discord occurred. Claudius also expelled members of Rome’s Jewish community for “rioting at the name of Chrestus,” presumably local discord occasioned by Christian missionaries (see Acts 18.1–2). Nero, in 65, executed some members of the new sect of undesirables, the Christians—including, according to tradition, Peter and Paul—as scapegoats for a fire that burned for nine days engulfing two thirds of the city and killing hundreds. He became the focus of anti-Roman sentiment, the demonic persecutor of faithful Christians in later generations (see Rev 13.1–18).

Despite the counsel of moderate voices and the pro-Roman policies of Herod Agrippa, the ruler of Galilee and northern Transjordan, zealot hostilities initiated by a faction from Jerusalem in 66 CE brought the region into full-scale revolt against Rome; by August of 70, Titus led Roman troops in burning and destroying the Temple. Christians living in Jerusalem appear to have fled the city prior to its fall. Jews living in the Diaspora did not support the Judean rebellion; this did not keep the Romans from penalizing all Jews after the defeat. The Romans forced Jews who once paid a tax to support the Temple (see Mt 17.24–27) to pay instead an increased tax to the temple of Jupiter Capitolinus in Rome.

THE TYPICAL ROMAN CITY

A brief tour of Caesarea Maritima, the residence of the Roman governor of Judea (Acts 8.40; 9.30; 10.1,24; 11.11; 12.19–23; 18.22; 21.8; 23.23; 25.1–13), reveals the outline of an ancient city from the perspective of the rich. It was originally a small military settlement dating from the mid-third century BCE; Augustus gave it to Herod, who built a magnificent city of some 8,000 acres and a harbor to rival that of Alexandria. Two breakwaters created a sheltered harbor of 40 acres. An area with a temple, on a raised mound, dedicated to Rome and Augustus, faced the harbor at the south end of the forum that runs along the harborside. To the south of the city, a theater faced the sea, although the structure that has been unearthed is a later, rebuilt one. Among the discoveries there is a stone with an inscription referring to Pontius Pilate as prefect. There was also a large amphitheater similar to the Colosseum and a large racecourse (hippodrome).

An aqueduct supplied the city with water from springs on Mount Carmel, and an elaborate sewer system under the city drained away waste. Walkways were decorated with mosaics, and promenades were lined with columns. Herod spared no expense on his showcase; builders used imported marbles from Italy and Egypt, and pink granite from Aswan. There were warehouses facing the harbor to store the goods that passed through the city from extensive maritime trade, which reached as far as south Asia. The residents of Palestine did not have to journey to Alexandria, Corinth, or Rome to see the world's riches on display for a wealthy elite.

Capernaum on the northern shore of the Sea of Galilee was the base for Jesus's preaching activities around Galilee. It lay on the road that connected Caesarea and Ptolemais (Acco) on the coast with Damascus in Syria. Even if they never visited the new city of Caesarea, the traffic along the highway between the coast and Damascus would have alerted Jesus and his contemporaries to the cultural realities of Greco-Roman cities. Two other city foundations within Galilee itself, Sepphoris and Tiberias, contributed to the growth of urbanization. Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee and Perea from 4 BCE to 39 CE, resided at Sepphoris, a mere 4 mi (7 km) from Nazareth, until he moved to the newly built Tiberias on the lake in 19–20 CE. The Gk term tehton used for Joseph and his sons (Mk 6.3; Mt 13.55) is usually translated "carpenter," but there is no reason to assume that Jesus and his family were restricted to the carpenter's shop of a village. They are just as likely to have been employed in the building that occurred in Sepphoris and Tiberias. Jesus's view of the rich could have been shaped by such experiences, and his followers may have included individuals connected to the Herodian court (see Lk 8.3).

STATUS AND SOCIAL CLASS IN THE CITY

The artisans, manual laborers, and merchants who lived in a typical Roman city had little time for the pleasures of the city's main streets. Long days in cramped and often dark shops would have been more typical of Paul's life as a tentmaker, for instance (Acts 18.3; 2 Cor 6.5; 11.27). This trade involved creating the awnings, made of a rough, thick fabric like sailcloth, which provided cover from the sun in theaters and the forum, and in front of the booths from which goods were sold. When crowds thronged the city for a festival, such as the biennial Isthmian games outside Corinth in honor of Poseidon (see Dio Chrysostom, Discourses 8.9), there would have been no shortage of work for tentmakers.

The members of the wealthy elite and the educated scribes, Pharisees, and philosophers who were attached to them despised such lowly occupations, as well as those who collected the taxes. The tensions between rich and poor that were evident in Corinth (1 Cor 11.17–34) show how difficult it could be to cross social divisions of class and status. Those in whose homes the community assembled would have thought it their right to provide a feast for the others who were from their own group; the rest—artisans who had to work from dawn to dusk, as well as slave members of the community—should be glad for the meager rations provided for them. Similarly, the letter of James (2.1–13) excoriates Christians for showing deference to a rich man, giving him a comfortable seat and asking the poor to squat on the floor in the assembly. Although Paul's letters lack the sharp attacks on wealth found in the teaching of Jesus and in the letter of James, Paul does challenge the privileges of social superiority to one's fellows when they surface in the Christian community.

Although most Christians did not belong to the local civic elite (1 Cor 1.26–30), a few individuals associated with the Corinthian church could claim such status. Acts 18.8 refers to Crispus (1 Cor 1.14) as archisynagogos, "head of the synagogue," a title that he may have been accorded as a benefactor, perhaps by contributing funds for a synagogue building. Women can appear as patronesses and archisynagogai as well. Paul recommends Phoebe, a deaconess from the Corinthian port city Cenchrea (Rom 16.1–2). Such recommendations were a common letter-type in the ancient world, in which patronage relationships were essential to success. Gaius (1 Cor 1.14) was wealthy enough to host all the Christians in Corinth at once (Rom 16.23).

Paul also conveys greetings from a certain Erastus, who is oikonomos ("city treasurer") of Corinth (Rom 16.23), the only convert who is known to have held a civic office. A pavement in Corinth from the area between the north market and the theater bears an inscription stating that Erastus paved the area at his own expense in return for the office of called in Latin aedile (one of the four magistrates who governed the city, and particularly the public officers in charge of the streets). Since the name is an unusual one (no other instances are known), scholars think it possible that it was the same person mentioned by Paul. The term that Paul uses is not the Greek equivalent for aedile, so it may represent a lesser position in the municipal government that was an intermediate step on the way to becoming a magistrate. In any case Erastus appears to be a wealthy freedman engaged in the extensive rebuilding of Corinth during this period.

Since Corinth had been refounded as a Roman colony under Julius Caesar less than a century before, and therefore had no long-entrenched ruling class, the opportunities offered for civic advancement may have encouraged competition. In other cities, the ranks of citizens—those enrolled who could hold various public offices—were strictly limited to a particular group of aristocratic families. Other residents, no matter how wealthy or influential, were excluded. Jews who sought to be included on the citizen rolls of Alexandria were rebuffed. Since Roman citizens and the Greek citizens of Alexandria were exempt from poll taxes levied by the Roman state, this status carried some economic advantage. Most Jews, who were laborers and artisans, would not have been eligible for enrollment in any case. Whether Jewish families succeeded in joining the citizen elite elsewhere in the Diaspora is less clear. Luke has Paul claim to be a citizen of Tarsus (Acts 21.39), but this may be mistaken or imprecise.

LITERACY AND EDUCATION

Scholars remain divided over how to assess the extent of literacy in the Greco-Roman period. Portraits showing girls holding the stylus and wax tablet of the student suggest that among the elite some level of education extended to women, but on the evidence of documentary papyri, far fewer women than men were able to sign their names, and women who were able to write often pointed out that fact explicitly. The cities and larger villages of Egypt had teachers who drilled children in the rudiments of reading and writing Greek as well as the study of classic texts. Further education would require sending each young person, accompanied by a family slave, off to Alexandria in search of a suitable tutor.

Even among people who could read, the difficulty of deciphering texts in which all the letters were run together (the standard way in which ancient texts are written) often made it preferable to listen to a slave who was trained to read such texts aloud. We can deduce which texts were most in demand by studying the literary papyri. Texts of Homer are by far the most frequently found, with considerable numbers of texts by Demosthenes, Euripides, and Hesiod as well. Technical manuals on such subjects as medicine and astrology also show up in papyri fragments. Among the papyri that have been discovered are some that were orders to and from a book dealer in Oxyrhynchus, about 100 mi (160 km) south-southwest of modern Cairo. Outgoing orders seek dialogues of Plato and works of Homer, Menander, Euripides, and Aristophanes. The dealer acknowledges receipt of treatises on such edifying subjects as “On Training,” “On Marriage,” “On Freedom from Pain,” “On the Uses of Parents,” “On the Uses of Domestic Slaves,” and Book 3 of a work by Poseidonius, “On Persuasion” (see P. Oxy.

1153; 2192). Apparently this dealer’s clientele read for self-improvement and practical purposes as much as for entertainment and philosophical enlightenment.

The requirements of reading Torah may have made basic schooling even more necessary for Jewish boys, for whom it would replace Homer as the primary text. Assimilated Jews in cities like Tarsus and Alexandria, however, saw to it that their sons received instruction in the classics as well. Philo defends the practice of sending Jewish students on to the more advanced instruction in arithmetic, geometry, music, and philosophy at the equivalent of a secondary school, the gymnasium (De spec. leg. 2.229–30). Educational centers like Alexandria and Tarsus had numerous schools of rhetoric to further a young man’s ability to take his place in public affairs by training him to speak fluently and write persuasively. Although Paul insists that eloquence (“wisdom”) is not needed to communicate the truth of the gospel (1 Cor 1.17) and disclaims any use of such methods (1 Cor 2.4; 2 Cor 11.6), both his opponents (2 Cor 10.10) and contemporary scholars notice a high degree of rhetorical art in his letters. Even his refusal to engage in the sort of rhetorical discourse that would please his audience exhibits familiarity with such arts (see the “fool’s speech,” 2 Cor 11.1–12.13).

It is more difficult to assess the kind of education received by boys growing up in the Galilean towns and villages. In an oral society, persons can be highly skilled and even have extensive cultural knowledge, such as Jesus’s knowledge of scripture, without being able to read or write. Luke 4.16 presumes that Jesus was literate, though Luke may be speaking from the perspective of an urban class that assumes literate habits as a normal part of education. The Jewish historian Josephus writing in the 90s CE makes no such assumption. Weekly Torah study could be accomplished orally: “He [Moses] appointed the Law to be most excellent and a necessary form of instruction, ordaining that it be heard not once or twice or several times, but that every week men should quit their other occupations and assemble to listen to the Law and obtain a thorough and accurate knowledge of it” (Ag. Ap. 2.175).

The first-century CE synagogue building at Gamala in the Golan lacks the elaborate religious features of later synagogues like that at Capernaum. It consists of a central nave created by two rows of columns and four levels of stone benches set in steps along the walls. Without the ritual bath attached to the complex, there would be nothing to distinguish it from an ordinary assembly hall. There is no evidence of a Torah shrine built into the walls, of a fixed elevated podium from which Torah was read, or of a seat of honor near the center; presumably Torah reading and instruction took place in the central area. The architectural space of the synagogue could serve a variety of community functions, from teaching and worship to legal proceedings and social gathering.

Another form of education required by Jesus and his disciples involved skills specific to their individual trades. Measuring, counting, and recording skills necessary to building or running a fishing business could have been taught on an apprentice basis. Tax collectors had to keep records of persons and amounts. Officials in the local Jewish community also had to collect the annual half-shekel paid to the Temple by all Jewish males (Ex 30.11–16; Mt 17.24–27). Such practical skills must have been taught, but little evidence of the process survives. Though not considered “education” by the rhetorically trained elite of the Greco-Roman cities or by the scribes learned in Jewish Torah, such skills would have distinguished Jesus and his disciples from others in their villages.

RELIGION, ASTROLOGY, AND MAGIC

When Herod the Great built Caesarea Maritima, he placed the temple to Rome and Augustus in a prominent place. The city was dedicated to the emperor; its civic life would have included festive sacrifices in the ruler’s honor. Herod’s renovations to the Jerusalem Temple and his expansions of its surroundings were planned to enhance the prestige of the city. Other cities also had famous shrines and festivals that drew visitors from abroad. Acts 19.21–40 tells a story of a riot at Ephesus that occurred when those who sold silver models of its famous temple to the goddess Artemis (Diana) claimed that the effectiveness of Paul’s preaching had cut into their business.

Christianity did not deliver the death blow to the established civic worship that Acts seems to suggest. Most of its readers lived in cities, where they could easily witness the ongoing enthusiasm for sacrifices and festivals. What individual residents actually believed about the gods was not an issue; their participation, not their internal assent, was the key, and that participation (or lack of it) was observed by the authorities. To join in sacrifices honoring the Roman emperor, for example, demonstrated that the city and its populace were loyal subjects. Jews refused to participate, and this refusal often brought on them accusations of “hatred of humanity.” At Alexandria some argued that Jews could never be admitted to the citizen rolls because they did not worship the city’s gods. Nevertheless, through long-tolerated practice, Jews were not often persecuted for refusing to participate in civic rituals. When Christians who were not of Jewish origin began to withdraw from such public activities, however, it caused comment, suspicion, and even persecution. A story like that of Paul’s deeds in Ephesus, leading some to abandon the worship of Artemis, would have highlighted the superiority of Christ to one of Asia Minor’s most famous religious shrines and might increase Christian resolve to remain separate. Not all Christians would choose persecution, however. Some clearly followed the lead of educated pagans, who often did not believe in the real existence of the gods, or in their myths. They would join public religious activities as required by their social status or civic office, as a social bond rather than as a religious profession. When faced with Christians who obstinately refused to participate, magistrates had no qualms about sentencing them to exile or death.

Astrologers, diviners, and magicians could be visited in the marketplace. Though such activities were frowned upon by those higher in the social scale, the large number of horoscopes, amulets, and magic spells recovered shows that these methods of making decisions, predicting the future, and bringing good luck (or guarding against bad) continued to be popular. Astrologers to the upper classes justified their practices with a philosophical veneer based on Stoic physical doctrines explaining the relations between earthly and heavenly bodies by means of an all-pervading “rational spirit.” Christian insistence that the glorified and exalted Christ is above all the demonic powers and planetary forces (see Col 2.8–23; Eph 1.15–2.2; 6.12) did little to curb popular enthusiasm for these beliefs and practices. Biblical texts show up in Christian magical amulets. Jesus’s exorcisms led to accusations that his powers were a consequence of an alliance with the leader of the demonic world (Mk 3.22–30), and Acts describes conflicts between Christian missionaries and local magicians (8.4–25; 13.4–12).

PHILOSOPHY AS HEALING THE SOUL

Unlike the monotheistic faith of Jews and Christians, which placed a high premium on hearing, interpreting, and acting on divine revelation preserved in sacred texts, Greco-Roman religions did not produce texts, legal and ethical codes, or theological doctrines. Those who sought teaching about the divine and its relationship to the observable cosmos, or moral guidance and advice about how to live a good life, turned to philosophy. Formal study of the philosophical systems that emerged from the schools of classical and Hellenistic Athens—especially Platonism, Stoicism, and Epicureanism—could be pursued only by the elite, who had the leisure time to devote to them. Luke’s tale of Paul’s visit to Athens (Acts 17.16–31) shows its first-century reputation as a destination for intellectuals, not the powerful center of commerce and art that it had been.

More ordinary citizens learned what they knew of philosophy from anthologies of moralistic tales, treat-tises on how to cope with various problems in life, public discourses offered by itinerant philosophical preachers, and the like. The philosopher-teacher saw himself as a physician for the soul. Under his guidance, people might be converted from the mindless, destructive pursuit of the passions, from fears about a future they could not control, even from superstitious belief in the gods. Some treatises, like Plutarch's "Advice on Marriage" (Mor. 12.138–46) even recommend that the young husband share his knowledge with his wife. Such knowledge will protect her against the passion for luxuries, foolish behavior, and talk common among women. If she knows something of Plato, Xenophon, and astronomy, she will not be taken in by the common practices of magic or witchcraft. Such treatises also presume that in the properly ordered household the husband governs the life of his wife, his children, and his slaves in accordance with a reason that has been schooled by philosophical instruction. Similar kinds of assumptions appear in sections of the New Testament often referred to as "household codes" (Col 3.18–4.1; Eph 5.21–6.9; 1 Pet 2.18–3.7). They also inform the descriptions of requirements for leadership (1 Tim 3.1–11), including those that exclude women from teaching or supervising men (1 Tim 2.9–15; 1 Cor 14.34–36).

As a possible analogue for itinerant Christian preachers, scholars point to a movement of rough-spoken, antiestablishment street preachers called Cynics, from the Greek word for dog, originally a derogatory name that referred to their unrefined public behavior. Claiming as their inspiration Socrates, the impoverished stone mason who went about Athens challenging all its citizens, representatives of this movement could be found in the public marketplaces. They rejected the comforts that might be offered by wealthy patrons and lived on as little as possible. They were known for sharp sayings intended to wound an opponent, not persuasive speeches to soothe one into agreement. If the harsh medicine worked, the hearer might convert to a philosophical way of life. If not, he might become angry, even murderously so, as had Socrates's opponents. Some scholars point to this movement as comparable to the mission of Jesus and his disciples, as depicted in the Gospels. Others have proposed that Paul's description of himself as the solicitous nurse or the father to his fledgling converts (1 Thess 2.1–12) is analogous to the Cynics' relationship to their followers. Although these cultural models may not have dictated the content of early Christian preaching, they provide a context for understanding what missionaries like Paul were doing in the cities that they visited, and how they would have appeared to their first hearers.

PHEME PERKINS

TIMELINE

DATE	PERIOD	EGYPT
Ca. 3300–2000 BCE 3300–3100	EARLY BRONZE AGE Early Bronze I	Earliest forms of writing
3100–2700 2700–2300	Early Bronze II Early Bronze III	Political unification; Early Dynastic period Old Kingdom; Dynasties 3–5
2300–2000	Early Bronze IV	First Intermediate Period
Ca. 2000–1550 BCE 2000–1650	MIDDLE BRONZE AGE Middle Bronze I–II	Middle Kingdom; Dynasties 11–12
1650–1550	Middle Bronze III	Second Intermediate/ Hyksos Period
Ca. 1550–1200 BCE	LATE BRONZE AGE	New Kingdom; Dynasties 18–19: Thutmose III (1479–1425), Akenhaten (1352–1336), Seti I (1294–1279), Rameses II (1279–1213), Merneptah (1213–1203); Sea Peoples (groups including Philistines) invasions begin
Ca. 1200–586 BCE Ca. 1200–1025 Ca. 1025–586 Ca. 1025–928	IRON AGE Iron I Iron II Iron IIA	Rameses III (1184–1153) ¹
Ca. 928–722	Iron IIB	Shishak I invades Palestine (925)

1. For a more complete list of rulers, see “Chronological Table of Rulers,” pp. 1914–16.

SYRIA-PALESTINE	MESOPOTAMIA, ASIA MINOR
	Earliest forms of writing; Full urbanization; Sumerian culture develops
In Egyptian sphere Flourishing city-states	High point of Sumerian culture Sargon of Akkad; Naram-Sin of Akkad; Gudea of Lagash
Decline/abandonment of city-states	Third Dynasty of Ur
Revival of urbanism; Invention of alphabet	Amorite kingdoms: Shamshi-Adad of Assyria (ca. 1813–1781); Hammurapi of Babylon (ca. 1792–1750); Rise of Hittites
In Egyptian sphere; Rise of Mitanni in north; Ugarit flourishes;
Exodus of the Hebrews from Egypt;	Hittites challenge Egypt for control of Syria;
Collapse of city-states	Hittite empire collapses; Trojan War
Israel emerges in Canaan; Philistines settle on SW coast; Small city-states develop in Phoenicia, Syria, Transjordan	Resurgence of Assyria: Tiglath-pileser I (1114–1076)
United Monarchy in Israel: Saul (1025–1005); David (1005–965); Solomon (968–928)
Divided Monarchy:
JUDAH:	ISRAEL:
Rehoboam (928–911)	Jeroboam I (928–907)
	Omri (882–871); Capital at Samaria
	Ahab (873–852)
Jehoshaphat (867–846)	Prophet Elijah (mid-ninth century)
	Prophet Elisha (mid- to late ninth century)
Athaliah (842–836)	Jehu (842–814)
Jehoash (836–798)	Jehoash (800–788)
	Jeroboam II (788–747)
	Prophet Amos (mid-eighth century)
	Prophet Hosea (mid-eighth century)
Ahaz (743/735–727/715)	Hoshea (732–722)
	Rise of Neo-Assyrian Empire Shalmaneser III (858–824); Battle of Qarqar (853)
	Adad-nirari III (811–783)
	Tiglath-pileser III (745–727); Assyrian conquest of the Levant Shalmaneser V (727–722) Samaria captured (722)

TIMELINE

DATE	PERIOD	EGYPT
Ca. 722–586	Iron IIC	Egypt conquered by Assyria (671) Psammetichus I (664–610) Neco II (610–595)
Ca. 586–539	NEO-BABYLONIAN
		GREECE AND ROME
539–333	PERSIAN	Greeks repel Persian invasions Peloponnesian War (431–404)
333–63	HELLENISTIC	Alexander the Great (336–323); Defeats Persians at Issus (332); Occupies the Levant and Egypt Rome gains control over Greece (ca. 188–146); Sack of Carthage and Corinth (146)
63 BCE–330 CE	ROMAN	Julius Caesar named dictator (49); assassinated (44) Octavian (Augustus) defeats Antony at Actium (31); (Emperor 27 BCE–14 CE) Tiberius (14–37 CE) Gaius (Caligula) (37–41) Claudius (41–54) Nero (54–68) Vespasian (69–79) Titus (79–81) Domitian (81–96) Nerva (96–98) Trajan (98–117) Hadrian (117–138)

SYRIA-PALESTINE	MESOPOTAMIA
JUDAH: Prophet Isaiah (late eighth to early seventh centuries) Prophet Micah (late eighth century) Hezekiah (727/715–698/687) Manasseh (698/687–642) Josiah (639–609) Prophet Zephaniah (late seventh century) Prophet Jeremiah (late seventh to early sixth centuries) Jehoahaz (609) Jehoiakim (608–598) Jehoiachin (597) Prophet Ezekiel (early sixth century) Zedekiah (597–586); Capture of Jerusalem (586)	Sargon II (722–705) Sennacherib (705–681); Attack on Judah and seige of Jerusalem (701) Esar-haddon (681–669) Ashurbanipal (669–627) Rise of Babylon Assyrian capital of Nineveh captured (612) Nebuchadrezzar II (604–562) of Babylon Nabonidus (556–539)
EASTERN AND MEDITERRANEAN
Some exiles return from Babylon (538) Second Temple built (520–515) Prophet Haggai (520); Prophet Zechariah (520–518) Nehemiah governor of Judah (ca. 445–430) Mission of Ezra the scribe (mid-fifth [or early fourth] century)	Cyrus II (the Great) (559–530); Capture of Babylon Cambyses (530–522); Capture of Egypt (525) Darius I (522–486) Xerxes I (486–465) Artaxerxes I (465–424) Artaxerxes II (405–359)
Seleucus I (312/311–281) controls Syria and Mesopotamia Ptolemy I (323–282) controls Egypt, Palestine, Phoenicia Antiochus III (223–187) gains control of southern Syria, Phoenicia, and Judea from Ptolemy IV (202–198) Ben Sira (Sirach) (early second century) Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164) Revolt of the Maccabees (167–164)
HASMONEAN RULE OF JUDEA (165–37): John Hyrcanus (135–104); Alexander Janneus (103–76); Salome Alexandra (76–67)
Pompey conquers the Levant (66–62); Enters Jerusalem (63) Herod the Great king of Judea (37–4); Rebuilds Second Temple (Herod) Antipas (4 BCE–39 CE) Life of Jesus of Nazareth (ca. 4 BCE–30 CE) Pontius Pilate governor of Judea (26–36) (Herod) Agrippa I (39–44) Missionary activity of Paul (mid-first century) (Herod) Agrippa II (53–93) First Jewish Revolt in Judea against Rome (66–73); Jerusalem is captured (70) Jewish revolts in Egypt, Libya, Cyprus (115–118) Second Jewish Revolt in Judea against Rome (132–135)

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF RULERS

DATE	EGYPT	ASSYRIA	BABYLONIA
1300 BCE	DYNASTY 19 (1295–1186): Seti I (1294–1279) Rameses II (1279–1213) Merneptah (1213–1203)
1200	DYNASTY 20 (1186–1069)	Tiglath-pileser I (1114–1076)
	DYNASTY 21 (1069–945)
1000	DYNASTIES 22–24 (945–715): Shoshenq I (Shishak) (945–924)
		Shalmaneser III (858–824)
		Shamshi-Adad V (824–811)
	DYNASTY 25 (780–656):
800		Adad-nirari III (811–783)
		Shalmaneser IV (783–773)
		Ashur-dan III (773–755)
		Ashur-nirari V (755–745)
		Tiglath-pileser III (Pul) (745–727)	Marduk-apal-iddina II
		Shalmaneser V (727–722)	(Merodach-baladan)
		Sargon II (722–705)	(721–710, 703)
700		Sennacherib (705–681)
	Taharqa (Tirhakah) (690–664)	Esar-haddon (681–669)
		Ashurbanipal (669–627)
		Ashur-etil-ilani
	DYNASTY 26 (664–525):	Sin-shum-lishir } (627–612)	Nabo-polassar (625–605)
		Sin-shar-ishkun }	Nebuchadrezzar II
	Psammetichus I (664–610)	Ashur-uballit II (612–609)	(Nebuchadnezzar) (605–562)
	Neco II (610–595)		Amel-Marduk (Evil-merodach) (562–560)
	Psammetichus II (595–589)		Neriglissar (560–556)
	Apries (Hophra) (589–570)		Labashi-Marduk (556)
	Amasis II (570–526)		Nabonidus (556–539)
	Psammetichus III (526–525)		Belshazzar (coregent 553–543)
400
325 BCE

Note: Names in boldface occur in the Bible. Overlapping dates indicate coregencies. Date ranges are reigns, not life spans.
 1. The data are inconsistent for the dates of the reigns of Ahaz, Hezekiah, and Manasseh.

PERSIA	ISRAEL
	UNITED MONARCHY: Saul (1025–1005); David (1005–965); Solomon (Yedidiah) (968–928)
	DIVIDED MONARCHY: JUDAH: ISRAEL:
	Rehoboam (928–911)
	Jeroboam I (928–907)
	Abijam (Abijah) (911–908)
	Nadab (907–906)
	Asa (908–867)
	Baasha (906–883)
	Jehoshaphat (870–846)
	Elah (883–882); Zimri (882) Omri (882–871) Ahab (873–852)
	Jehoram (Joram) (851–843)
	Ahaziah (852–851)
	Ahaziah (Jehoahaz) (843–842)
	Jehoram (Joram) (851–842)
	Athaliah (842–836)
	Jehu (842–814)
	Jehoash (Joash) (836–798)
	Jehoahaz (817–800)
	Amaziah (798–769)
	Jehoash (Joash) (800–784)
	Azariah (Uzziah) (785–733)
	Jeroboam II (788–747)
	Zechariah (747); Shallum (747)
	Menahem (747–737)
	Jotham (759–743)
	Pekahiah (737–735)
	Ahaz (743/735–727/715) ¹
	Pekah (735–732)
	Hoshea (732–722)
	Hezekiah (727/715–698/687) ¹
	Manasseh (698/687–642) ¹
	Amon (641–640)
	Josiah (640–609)
	Jehoahaz (Shallum) (609)
	Jehoiakim (Eliakim) (608–598)
	Jehoiachin (Jeconiah, etc.) (597)
	Zedekiah (Mattaniah) (597–586)
Cyrus II (559–530)
Cambyses (530–522)
Darius I (522–486)
Xerxes I (Ahasuerus) (486–465)
Artaxerxes I (465–424)
Darius II (423–405)
Artaxerxes II (405–359)
Artaxerxes III (359–338)
Artaxerxes IV (338–336)
Darius III (336–330)

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF RULERS

DATE	EGYPT	SYRIA
		HELLENISTIC PERIOD
		Alexander (the Great) (336–323)
300 BCE	Ptolemy I Soter (305–282) Ptolemy II Philadelphus (285–246) Ptolemy III Euergetes (246–221) Ptolemy IV Philopator (221–204) Ptolemy V Epiphanes (204–180); Cleopatra I (180–176) Ptolemy VI Philometor (180–145); Cleopatra II (175–116) Ptolemy VII Neos Philopator (145) Ptolemy VIII Euergetes II Physcon (170–116) Cleopatra III (116–101) Ptolemy IX Soter II (116–107 and 88–80)	Seleucus I Nicator (305–281) Antiochus I Soter (281–261) Antiochus II Theos (261–246) Seleucus II Callinicus (246–225) Seleucus III Soter Ceraunos (225–223) Antiochus III (the Great) (223–187) Seleucus IV Philopator (187–175) Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164) Antiochus V Eupator (164–162) Demetrius I Soter (162–150) Alexander Epiphanes (Balas) (150–145) Demetrius II Nicator (145–141 and 129–125) Antiochus VI Epiphanes (145–142) Trypho (142–138) Antiochus VII Sidetes (138–129) Cleopatra Thea (126–121) Antiochus VIII Grypus (125–121 and 121–96) Seleucus V (125) Antiochus IX Cyzicenus (115–95)
100 BCE	Ptolemy X Alexander I (107–88) Cleopatra Berenice (101–88) Ptolemy XI Alexander II (80) Ptolemy XII Auletes (80–59 and 55–51)	Seleucus VI (95) Antiochus X Eusebes (95–83) Antiochus XI Philadelphus (95) Demetrius III Eukairos (95–88) Philip I Epiphanes Philadelphus (95–84) Antiochus XII Dionysus Epiphanes (87–84) Philip II (67–66) Antiochus XIII Asiaticus (69–68 and 65–64)
50 BCE	Cleopatra VII (51–30) Ptolemy XIII (51–47) Ptolemy XIV (47–44)
		ROMAN EMPIRE
		ROMAN EMPERORS: Octavian (Augustus) (27 BCE–14 CE)
25 CE		Tiberius (14–37)
50 CE		Gaius Caligula (37–41) Claudius (41–54) Nero (54–68) Galba (68–69); Otho (69); Vitellius (69) Vespasian (69–79) Titus (79–81)
100 CE		Domitian (81–96) Nerva (96–98) Trajan (98–117) Hadrian (117–138)

PALESTINE

HASMONEAN RULERS

[Mattathias d. 166]

Judas Maccabeus, son of Mattathias (165–160)

Jonathan, son of Mattathias (160–142)

Simon, son of Mattathias (142–135)

John Hyrcanus I, son of Simon (135–104)

Judah Aristobulus I, son of John Hyrcanus (104–103)

Alexander Jannaeus, son of John Hyrcanus (103–76)

Salome Alexandra, wife of Alexander Jannaeus (76–67)

Aristobulus II, son of Alexander Jannaeus and

Salome Alexandra (67–63)

Hyrcanus II, son of Alexander Jannaeus and

Salome Alexandra (63–40)

Mattathias Antigonus, son of Aristobulus II (40–37)

HERODIAN DYNASTY

Herod the Great, king of the Jews (37–4)

Herod Archelaus, son of Herod the Great, ethnarch of Judea, Samaria, Idumea (4 BCE–6 CE)

Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great, tetrarch of Galilee and Perea (4 BCE–39 CE)

Herod Philip, son of Herod the Great, tetrarch of Batanea, Trachonitis, Auranitis (4 BCE–34 CE)

Herod Agrippa I, grandson of Herod the Great, king of Batanea, Trachonitis, Auranitis (37–44) and of Judea, Galilee, and Perea (41–44)

Herod Agrippa II, son of Herod Agrippa I, king of Chalcis (50–53), king of Batanea, Trachonitis, Auranitis, Galilee, Perea (53–ca. 93)

ROMAN GOVERNORS OF JUDEA

Coponius (6–8 CE)

M. Ambivius (9–12)

Annius Rufus (12–15)

Valerius Gratus (15–26)

Pontius Pilate (26–36)

Marcellus (36–37)

Marullus (37–41)²

Cuspius Fadus (44–46)

Tiberius Julius Alexander (46–48)

Ventidius Cumanus (48–52)

M. Antonius Felix (52–60?)

Porcius Festus (60?–62)

Clodius Albinus (62–64)

Gessius Florus (64–66)

2. In 41 Judea was made part of the kingdom of Herod Agrippa I, grandson of Herod the Great (see Herodian Dynasty, above). At his death in 44 it became a province again.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

The modern equivalents for biblical measures and weights are presented in the following tables.

HEBREW WEIGHTS

HEBREW	NRSV	EQUIVALENCE	U.S. AVOIRDUPOIS	METRIC UNITS
kikkar	talent	60 minas	75.558 pounds	34.3 kilograms
maneh	mina	50 shekels	20.148 ounces	571.2 grams
sheqel	shekel	2 bekas	176.29 grains	11.42 grams
pim (or payim)	pim	.667 shekel	117.52 grains	7.61 grams
beqa'	beka, half a shekel	10 gerahs	88.14 grains	5.71 grams
gerah	gerah		8.81 grains	.57 gram

The practice of weighing unmarked ingots of metal used in commercial transactions prior to the invention of money explains that the names of the units of weight were used later as indications of value, and as names for monetary standards. There is, however, no direct relation between the shekel-weight and the weight of a shekel piece.

WEIGHTS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

GREEK	NRSV	EQUIVALENCE	U.S. AVOIRDUPOIS	METRIC UNITS
talenton	talent	(Hebrew) talent	75.558 pounds	34.3 kilograms
mna	pound	(Hebrew) mina	20.148 ounces	571.2 grams
litra	pound	(Latin) libra	0.719 pound	326.4 grams

HEBREW MEASURES OF LENGTH

HEBREW	NRSV	EQUIVALENCE	U.S. MEASURES	METRIC UNITS
'ammaz̄h	cubit	2 spans	17.49 inches	.443 meter
zeret	span	3 handbreadths	8.745 inches	.221 meter
topah, tepah	handbreadth	4 fingers	2.915 inches	.074 meter
'etsba'	finger		0.728 inch	.019 meter

The cubit described in Ezekiel 40.5; 43.13 is equal to seven (not six) handbreadths, namely 20.405 inches.

MEASURES OF LENGTH IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

GREEK	NRSV	U.S. MEASURES	METRIC UNITS
pechus	cubit	about 1.5 feet	.456 meter
orguia	fathom	about 72.44 inches	1.839 meters
stadion	stadia, or the equivalent in miles	about 606 feet	184.7 meters
milion	mile	about 4,854 feet	1.482 kilometers

HEBREW MEASURES OF CAPACITY: LIQUID MEASURES

HEBREW	NRSV	EQUIVALENCE	U.S. MEASURES	METRIC UNITS
kor	measure, cor	10 baths	60.738 gallons	230 liters
bat	bath	6 hins	6.073 gallons	23 liters
hin	hin	3 kabs	1.012 gallons	3.829 liters
qab	kab	4 logs	1.4349 quarts	1.276 liters
log	log		0.674 pint	.32 liter

HEBREW MEASURES OF CAPACITY: DRY MEASURES

HEBREW	NRSV	EQUIVALENCE	U.S. MEASURES	METRIC UNITS
homer	homer	2 lethechs	6.524 bushels	229.7 liters
kor	measure, cor	2 lethechs	6.524 bushels	229.7 liters
letek	lethech, measure	5 ephahs	3.262 bushels	114.8 liters
'epah	ephah, measure	3 seahs	20.878 quarts	22.9 liters
se'ah	measure	3.33 omers	6.959 quarts	7.7 liters
'omer	omer	1.8 kabs	2.087 quarts	2.3 liters
'issaron	tenth part (of ephah)
qab	kab		1.159 quarts	1.3 liters

MEASURES OF CAPACITY IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

GREEK	NRSV	EQUIVALENCE	U.S. MEASURES	METRIC UNITS
batos	measure	(Hebrew) bat	6.073 gallons	23 liters
koros	measure	(Hebrew) kor	60.738 gallons or 6.524 bushels	230 liters
saton	measure	(Hebrew) se'ah	6.959 dry quarts	7.71 liters
metretes	measure		10.3 gallons	39 liters
choinix	quart		0.98 dry quart	1.079 liters
modios	bushel	(Latin) modius	7.68 dry quarts	8.458 liters
xestes	pot	(Latin) sextarius	0.96 dry pint, or 1.12 fluid pints	.53 liter

TIME

The Bible has no systematic presentation of the measurements of time that its writers used. The evidence that it presents is thus incomplete, and, not surprisingly, inconsistent, in part because it was written over many centuries and represents several different cultures.

THE DAY

The Hebrew word for day (“yom”) can mean either a full day (in our system, twenty-four hours), or the daytime as opposed to the night (“laylah”). Parts of the day are also named, including dawn, morning, noon or midday, and afternoon; and likewise for night—evening and midnight; but we find no early evidence that the day was divided into regular parts (but see Judg 7:19; Jn 11:9). In the New Testament, day and night each had twelve hours (see Jn 11:9), which were numbered: see, e.g., Mt 20:3–6, where NRSV converts a series intended to mark out an entire day to our system (“nine o’clock,” etc.). . Given seasonal variations in daylight, hours did not have a standard length in this system. For most purposes the generic categories of dawn (Mk 6.48), morning (Mk 11.20), midday (or “sixth hour,” Mk 15.33; Jn 4.6), afternoon (“ninth,” Mk 15.34), or evening (Mk 4.35) suffice as temporal designations.

In most texts, a day begins at sunrise and ends the following sunrise; hence the phrase “day and night.” Only late in the biblical period was a day calculated from evening to evening, as is the sabbath in Jewish tradition (see Neh 13:19); hence the phrase “night and day” (e.g., 1 Kings 8.29; Lk 2.37).

THE WEEK

The origins of the seven-day week are unknown, but it is firmly entrenched in biblical tradition, as the sabbath observance on the seventh day of the week shows. In the Bible the first six days of the week are called by their ordinal number but have no name; the seventh day is also called the sabbath.

THE MONTHS

As in English and many other languages, the two biblical Hebrew words for “month” are related to words having to do with the moon. The most frequently occurring word, “odesh,” comes from the root meaning “new”; a month thus began when the new moon appeared, and a religious festival celebrated its appearance (see Num 28.11–15). Less frequent is “yera,” from the word for “moon” (“yarea”). The Greek word for “month,” “meis,” also means “crescent moon.” In both Babylonian and Greek sources, a month begins with the first evening sighting of a lunar crescent in the west. A month therefore was a lunar month of twenty-nine or thirty days. In different periods, different names were used for individual months; moreover, the texts themselves do not give the names of all months. In earlier periods, Canaanite names were used; four of these occur in the biblical text. Beginning in the sixth century BCE, Babylonian names were used, and continue to be used in Judaism today. In many periods the months were numbered as well as named, but here too there is some variation, depending on when the new year was celebrated. In the Hellenistic period, Greek names began to be used; two Egyptian names are also attested, both found only in the books of Maccabees and in nonbiblical sources. The table below gives the various names of the months used in the Bible and their corresponding English equivalents; names in parentheses are not found in the Bible but are those used in Judaism.

NUMERICAL	CANAANITE	ISRAELITE/JEWISH ¹	GREEK	EGYPTIAN	JULIAN/ROMAN ²	MAJOR FESTIVALS
First month	Abib	Nisan	Xanthicus		March/April	Passover/Unleavened Bread (Pesah)
Second month	Ziv	(Iyyar)			April/May
Third month		Sivan		Pachon (?)	May/June	Weeks (Pentecost) (Shavuot)
Fourth month		(Tammuz)			June/July
Fifth month		(Av)			July ³ /August ⁴
Sixth month		Elul			August/September
Seventh month	Ethanim	(Tishri)		Epeiph	September/October	Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) Booths (Tabernacles) (Sukkot)
Eighth month	Bul	(Marheshvan)			October/November
Ninth month		Chislev	Dioscorinthius (?)		November/December	Dedication (Hanukkah)
Tenth month ⁵		Tebeth			December/January
Eleventh month		Shebat			January/February
Twelfth month		Adar	Dystrus		February/Match	Purim

THE YEAR

A year usually consisted of twelve months. The twelve lunar months comprise fewer days than a solar year, so if a particular month is to occur at about the same time every solar year, then some adjustment needs to be made, either by lengthening some months, as in most modern calendars, or by adding an extra, intercalary month every few years, although this practice is not attested in the Bible. The year is roughly divided into the two seasons of summer and winter reflecting the agricultural cycle.

For most of the biblical period a new year began in the spring. The spring passover festival was celebrated in the first month (Ex 12.2), the day of atonement in the fall was celebrated in the seventh month (Lev 23:32), and the ninth month was in winter (Jer 36.22). A fall new year is implied in some sources, both biblical and nonbiblical. The later Jewish fall new year festival, Rosh Hashanah, is not mentioned in the Bible (but see its basis in Lev 23:24). A similar variation is found in English and other languages, in which the name of the twelfth month, December, literally means “the tenth month,” recalling an older system in which the new year was in the spring rather than January 1.

¹ Derived from Babylonian names. Names in parentheses do not occur in the Bible.

² While the Canaanite, Babylonian, and Israelite/Jewish calendars are based on the cycle of lunar months, the reform of the Roman calendar under Julius Caesar, which took effect on 1 January 45 BCE, introduced a solar calendar of 365¼ days (divided into 30 or 31 days, with a short month of February with 28 or 29 days), guaranteeing that the months would remain correlated with the seasons. As a result its months do not correlate with months in the Babylonian/Judean calendar.

³ Originally Quintilis (“fifth”), this month was renamed Julius for Julius Caesar.

⁴ Originally Sextilis (“sixth”), this month was renamed “Augustus” by the emperor Augustus in 8 BCE.

⁵ January is the first month of the Roman year. Previously the first month had been March, which explains the names September (seventh), October (eighth), November (ninth), and December (tenth).

While astronomical and agricultural cycles provided divisions within a year and its seasons (Gen 1.14-19), locating events within a succession of years was more problematic. Systems of dating which attach events to “regal years,” the year in the reign of a king (Isa 6.1; 7.1), or to individuals who held important offices (Lk 2.1-2; 3.1-2), or to major events often require additional information to suggest a date in a modern calendar. Without the global calendar and time-grid to which we were accustomed, both time and calendar were local. Correlating one civic calendar with another could be difficult if not impossible. Within the Greek world, Timaeus of Tauromenium (fourth to third century BCE) produced a chronology that lined up Olympic victors, priestesses of Hera from Argos, kings of Sparta, and Athenian archons. Olympiads provided a grid for some Hellenistic historians. Varro (ca. 43 BCE) provided Romans with what would be considered the “date” for the city’s founding in the Olympiad system, “the third year of the sixth Olympiad” (i.e. ca. 754/3 BCE). We do not find efforts to make such chronological correlations between their past and that of others in the Bible. But in the fourth century CE, Eusebius of Caesarea and Jerome undertook the grand project of synchronizing Greek and Roman history with that of the Egyptians, the Medes, and the biblical kingdoms of Judah and Israel. Using an Olympiad numbering system, Jerome’s tables give the date of Abraham’s birth as ca. 2016 BCE.

LONGER TIME-SPANS

In biblical Hebrew, spatial metaphors are used for the past and the future. The past is “qedem,” literally that which is in front of one and therefore known, and the future is “a arit” (or “a aron”), literally that which is behind one and therefore unknown.

As in English, “a generation” is the period from a person’s birth to the birth of their first child; in biblical times this was roughly twenty years. However, the Roman equivalent, “saeculum,” could range from “generation” as the longest individual life-span within a community to a period that approximates our “century.” A heavenly sign such as the comet which appeared following the death of Julius Caesar in 44 BCE might be read as signaling the transition between one “saeculum” and the next. Similarly the heavenly portent of angels announces that a new age is inaugurated with the birth of Jesus in Luke 2.13-15. Much longer periods of time are expressed by phrases such as “a thousand years,” “a thousand generations,” and “forever.”

Michael D. Coogan and Pheme Perkins

PARALLEL TEXTS

Alongside the widespread evidence of alternative traditions in the Bible, in which two or more authors or traditions deal with the same general subjects (e.g., the two accounts of creation in Gen 1–3; the Gospel of John as compared with the first three Gospels), throughout the Bible there are also literary relationships between one book or part of a book and another. Sometimes the authors or editors of one book simply reproduced their sources verbatim; sometimes they were retouched. Often called “synoptic passages,” because when viewed together their common elements can be seen, these texts are important in understanding the specific purposes and themes of a writer by analyzing what was included, added, omitted, revised, and rearranged. There follows a listing of the larger synoptic passages throughout the Bible. These texts have a demonstrable literary relationship with each other, either direct, where a source can be identified, or indirect, where a source that no longer survives but must be presumed is quoted at length and verbatim, or with only minor modifications in one or more places.

HEBREW BIBLE

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES		SUBJECT MATTER
EXODUS	Ex 20.2–17	Deut 5.6–21	Ten Commandments
JOSHUA	Josh 21.1–39	1 Chr 6.54–81	Levitical cities
2 SAMUEL	2 Sam 22	Ps 18	Thanksgiving hymn
1 CHRONICLES	1 Chr 1.1–4	Gen 5	Descendants of Adam
	1 Chr 1.5–23	Gen 10.1–32	Descendants of Noah
	1 Chr 1.24–27	Gen 11.10–32	Descendants of Shem
	1 Chr 1.28–33	Gen 25.1–6,12–18	Descendants of Ishmael and Keturah
	1 Chr 1.34–54	Gen 36.1–43	Descendants of Esau
	1 Chr 3.1–9	2 Sam 3.2–5; 5.5,13–16	Sons of David
	1 Chr 6.54–81	Josh 21.1–39	Levitical cities
	1 Chr 10	1 Sam 31	Death of Saul
	1 Chr 11.1–9	2 Sam 5.1–10	David's early reign
	1 Chr 11.10–47	2 Sam 23.8–39	David's heroes
	1 Chr 13.5–14	2 Sam 6.1–11	David retrieves the ark
	1 Chr 14.1–17	2 Sam 5.11–25	David's reign in Jerusalem
	1 Chr 15.25–16.3	2 Sam 6.12–19	David brings the ark to Jerusalem
	1 Chr 16.8–36	Ps 105.1–15; 96.1–13;	Thanksgiving hymn
	1 Chr 17–21	2 Sam 7; 8; 10; 11.1;	David's reign in Jerusalem
		12.26,30–31; 21.18–22;
		24
2 CHRONICLES	2 Chr 1.3–13	1 Kings 3.4–15	Solomon's prayer for wisdom
	2 Chr 1.14–17	1 Kings 10.26–29	Solomon's wealth
	2 Chr 2.1–18	1 Kings 5.1–18	Preparations for building Temple
	2 Chr 3.1–4	1 Kings 6.1–3	Temple dimensions
	2 Chr 4.1–5.1	1 Kings 7.23–26,39–51	Temple metalwork
	2 Chr 5.2–7.10	1 Kings 8	Dedication of the Temple
	2 Chr 7.11–9.29	1 Kings 9–10	Solomon's reign
	2 Chr 9.29–31	1 Kings 11.41–42	Solomon's death
	2 Chr 10.1–11.4	1 Kings 12.1–24	Rehoboam's accession
	2 Chr 12.2–16	1 Kings 14.25–31	Shishak's invasion
	2 Chr 15.16–17.1	1 Kings 15.17–24	Asa's reign
	2 Chr 18.2–34;	1 Kings 22	Jehoshaphat's reign
	20.31–21.1
2 CHRONICLES	2 Chr 21.2–10	2 Kings 8.16–22	Jehoram's reign
	2 Chr 22.2–6	2 Kings 8.25–29	Ahaziah's reign
	2 Chr 22.10–23.21	2 Kings 11	Athaliah's reign

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES		SUBJECT MATTER
	2 Chr 24.1–14 2 Chr 25.1–4,17–28; 26.1–2 2 Chr 26.3–4,21–23 2 Chr 27.1–9 2 Chr 28.1–4,26–27 2 Chr 29.1–2; 32.1, 9–12,15 2 Chr 33.1–9,18–20 2 Chr 33.21–25 2 Chr 34.1–2,8–31; 35.20 2 Chr 36.1–4 2 Chr 36.5,6,8	2 Kings 12.1–14 2 Kings 14.1–22 2 Kings 15.1–7 2 Kings 15.32–38 2 Kings 16.1–4,19–20 2 Kings 18.1–3,13,17–22, 29–30 2 Kings 21.1–9,17–18 2 Kings 21.19–26 2 Kings 22.1–23,3,29	Jehoash's reign Amaziah's reign Uzziah's reign Jotham's reign Ahaz's reign Hezekiah's reign Manasseh's reign Amon's reign Josiah's reign Jehoahaz's reign Jehoiakim's reign
EZRA	2 Chr 36.9 2 Chr 36.11–12 2 Chr 36.22–23 Ezra 1.1–2 Ezra 2.1–70	2 Kings 24.8 2 Kings 24.18–19 Ezra 1.1–2 2 Chr 36.22–23 Neh 7.7–69	Jehoiakin's reign Zedekiah's reign Decree of Cyrus Decree of Cyrus List of returning exiles
PSALMS	Ps 14 Ps 18	Ps 53 2 Sam 22	Lament Thanksgiving hymn
ISAIAH	Isa 2.2–4 Isa 15–16 Isa 36–39	Mic 4.1–3 Jer 48.29–38	Oracle of future age Oracle against Moab
JEREMIAH	Jer 39.1–10 Jer 48.29–38 Jer 49.9–10,14–16 Jer 52	2 Kings 18.13–20.19 2 Kings 25.1–12 Isa 16.6–10; 15.2–7; 16.11–12 Ob 5–6,1–4 2 Kings 24.18–25.30	Events in Hezekiah's reign The fall of Jerusalem Oracle against Moab Oracle against Edom The fall of Jerusalem
OBADIAH	Ob 1–6	Jer 49.14–16,9–10	Oracle against Edom
MICAH	Mic 4.1–3	Isa 2.2–4	Oracle of future age

APOCRYPHA

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES		SUBJECT MATTER
1 ESDRAS	1 Esd 1.1–55	2 Chr 35.1–36.21	Last days of Judah
	1 Esd 2.1–15	Ezra 1.1–11	Cyrus's decree
	1 Esd 2.16–30	Ezra 4.7–24	Opposition to rebuilding Temple
	1 Esd 5.7–46	Ezra 2.1–70; Neh 7.7–69	List of returning exiles
	1 Esd 5.47–73	Ezra 3.1–4.5	Rebuilding Temple
	1 Esd 6.1–7.15	Ezra 4.24–6.22	Completion of Temple
	1 Esd 8.1–9.55	Ezra 7.1–10.44; Neh 7.73–8.12	Ezra's mission

PARALLEL TEXTS

NEW TESTAMENT

A majority of scholars think that the Gospel of Mark was independently used as a source by Matthew and Luke.

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES		SUBJECT MATTER
Mk 1.2–8	Mt 3.1–6,11–12	Lk 3.1–6,16	John the Baptist
Mk 1.9–11	Mt 3.13–17	Lk 3.21–22	Baptism of Jesus
Mk 1.12–13	Mt 4.1–2,11	Lk 4.1–2,13	Temptation of Jesus
Mk 1.16–20	Mt 4.18–22	(Lk 5.1–11)	Call of disciples
Mk 1.21–38	(Mt 7.28–29; 8.14–17)	Lk 4.31–43	Teaching and healing by Jesus
Mk 1.40–45	Mt 8.1–4	Lk 5.12–16	Healing of a leper
Mk 2.1–22	Mt 9.1–17	Lk 5.17–39	Events in Jesus’ ministry
Mk 2.23–3.30	Mt 12.1–37; 10.1–4	Lk 6.1–19; 11.14–23; 12.10; 6.43–45	Events in Jesus’ ministry
Mk 3.31–4.25	Mt 12.46–50; 13.1–13, 18–23	Lk 8.4–21	Sayings of Jesus
Mk 4.30–34	Mt 13.31–32,34–35	Lk 13.18–19	Sayings of Jesus
Mk 4.35–41	Mt 8.23–27	Lk 8.22–35	Stilling the storm
Mk 5.1–43	Mt 8.28–34; 9.18–26	Lk 8.26–56	Healings by Jesus
Mk 6.1–6	Mt 13.51–52		Rejection in Nazareth
Mk 6.7–14	Mt 10.1,9–11; 14.1–2	Lk 9.1–9	Events in Jesus’ ministry
Mk 6.17–29	Mt 14.3–12		Death of John the Baptist
Mk 6.30–44	Mt 14.13–21	Lk 9.10–17	Feeding of five thousand
Mk 6.45–8.10	Mt 14.22–15.39		Events in Jesus’ ministry
Mk 8.11–21	Mt 16.1–12	(Lk 11.29; 12.1)	Sayings of Jesus
Mk 8.27–9.48	Mt 16.13–17.23; 18.1–9	Lk 9.18–50; 17.1–2	Events in Jesus’ ministry
Mk 12.28–31	Mt 22.34–40	Lk 10.25–38	Sayings of Jesus
Mk 10.1–12	Mt 19.1–12		On marriage
Mk 10.13–52	Mt 19.13–30; 20.17–34	Lk 18.15–43; 22.24–27	Sayings of Jesus
Mk 11.1–12.37	Mt 21.1–27,33–46; 22.15–46	Lk 19.28–38,45–48; 20.1–44; (10.25–28)	Jesus in Jerusalem
Mk 12.41–44		Lk 21.1–4	The poor widow
Mk 13.1–32	Mt 24.1–36	Lk 21.5–33	Sayings of Jesus about the end
Mk 14.1–15.47	Mt 26.1–27.2; 27.11–61	Lk 22.1–34,39–71; 23.1–5,18–55	Passion of Jesus
Mk 16.1–8	Mt 28.1–10	Lk 24.1–11	The empty tomb

A majority of scholars think that Matthew and Luke used a source that has not survived (known as “Q”).

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES	SUBJECT MATTER
Mt 3.7–10,12	Lk 3.7–9,17	John the Baptist’s preaching
Mt 4.3–10	Lk 3.3–12	Temptation of Jesus
Mt 5.3–12	Lk 6.20–23	Beatitudes
Mt 5.13–16	Lk 14.34–35; 11.33	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 5.21–26	Lk 12.57–59	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 5.38–48	Lk 6.27–36	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 6.9–15	Lk 11.2–4	Lord’s Prayer
Mt 6.19–7.27	Lk 12.33–36; 16.13; 12.22–31; 6.37–38, 41–42; 11.9–13; 6.31; 13.23–24; 6.43–49	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 8.5–15	Lk 7.1–10	Healing of a centurion’s servant
Mt 8.18–22	Lk 9.57–60	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 10.26–39	Lk 12.2–9,51–53; 14.26–27	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 11.2–19	Lk 7.18–35	On John the Baptist

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES	SUBJECT MATTER
Mt 11.20–27	Lk 10.13–15, 21–22	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 12.38–45	Lk 11.29–32; 11.24–26	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 13.16–17	Lk 10.23–24	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 13.33	Lk 13.20–21	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 18.10–14	Lk 15.3–7	Sayings of Jesus
Mt 22.1–4	Lk 14.16–22	Parable of the marriage feast
Mt 23.37–39	Lk 13.34–35	Lament over Jerusalem
Mt 24.37–51	Lk 17.26–35; 12.39–46	Sayings of Jesus about the end
Mt 25.14–30	Lk 19.12–27	Parable of the talents

PARALLEL TEXTS FROM THE GOSPEL OF JOHN

Although the Gospel of John has the same general outline of Jesus' life as the Synoptic Gospels, only a few of the same sayings of Jesus found in the Synoptics occur in John, and the chronology and details of events in his life often differ. Important parallels are:

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES			SUBJECT MATTER
Jn 1.19–34	Mt 3.1–17	Mk 1.1–11	Lk 3.1–22	John the Baptist
Jn 1.26–27	Mt 3.11	Mk 1.7–8	Lk 3.16	Saying, Baptist's relation to Jesus
Jn 1.30–33	Mt 3.16	Mk 1.10	Lk 3.22	Spirit descends on Jesus
Jn 1.35–42	Mt 4.18–20	Mk 1.16–18	Lk 5.1–11	Andrew & Simon Peter become disciples
Jn 1.42	Mt 16.18			Jesus nicknames Simon
Jn 2.12	Mt 4.13	Mk 1:21	Lk 4.31	Ministry begins in Capernaum
Jn 2.13–25	Mt 21.12–17	Mk 11.15–19	Lk 19.45–46	Jesus cleansing the Temple
Jn 4.4–6			Lk 9.52–53	Jesus moves into Samaria
Jn 4.35–36	Mt 9.36–38		Lk 10.2	Saying, harvest workers needed
Jn 4.43–45	Mt 13.57	Mk 6.4	Lk 4.24	Saying, prophet rejected in his hometown
Jn 4.46–53	Mt 8.5–13		Lk 7.1–19	Healing at Capernaum
Jn 5.1–18	Mt 9.1–8	Mk 2.1–12	Lk 5.17–26	Healing paralytic, forgiving sins
Jn 6.1–13	Mt 14.13–21	Mk 6.30–34	Lk 9.10–17	Multiplication of bread
Jn 6.15–21	Mt 14.22–33	Mk 6.45–52		Walking on water
Jn 6.30–31	Mt 16.1–4	Mk 8.11–13		Demand for a sign
Jn 6.52–58	Mt 26.26–29	Mk 14.22–26	Lk 22.15–20	Eating Jesus' body/blood
Jn 6.60–71	Mt 16.13–21	Mk 8.27–32	Lk 9.18–22	Peter's confession, passion prediction
Jn 9.1–7	Mt 20.29–34	Mk 10.46–52	Lk 18.35–42	Sight for the blind
Jn 10.1–5, 11–13	Mt 18.12–14		Lk 15.4–6	A good shepherd
Jn 11.17–44			Lk 7.11–17	Restores life to the dead
Jn 11.4–53	Mt 26.1–5	Mk 14.1–2	Lk 22.1–2	Conspiracy against Jesus
Jn 11.55–57			Lk 22.3–6	Authorities seek an informer
Jn 12.1–8	Mt 26.6–13	Mk 14.3–9	Lk 7.36–50	A woman anoints Jesus
Jn 12.12–19	Mt 21.1–9	Mk 11.1–10	Lk 19.28–38	Entry into Jerusalem
Jn 12.25–26	Mt 10.38–39	Mk 8.35	Lk 9.24	Saying, losing one's life to save it
Jn 12.27–32	Mt 26.36–41	Mk 14.32–36	Lk 22.41–46	Jesus prays accepting death
Jn 12.37–40	Mt 13.10–17	Mk 4.10–12	Lk 8.9–10	Unbelief predicted in Isa
Jn 12.44	Mt 10.40	Mk 9.41		Saying, to receive a disciple is receiving Jesus
Jn 13.12–17	Lk 22.24–27			Lesson on humility

PARALLEL TEXTS

	SYNOPTIC PASSAGES			SUBJECT MATTER
Jn 13.16	Mt 10.24-25		Lk 6.40	Saying, no disciple greater than the master
Jn 13.17	Mt 24.46		Lk 11.28	Beatitude
Jn 13.20	Mt 10.40			Saying, to receive a disciple is to receive Jesus
Jn 13.21-30	Mt 26.20-25	Mk 14.17-21	Lk 22.14,21-23	Judas identified as traitor
Jn 13.38	Mt 26.3	Mk 14.29-31	Lk 22.31-34	Peter's denial predicted
Jn 14.2-3	Lk 22.30			Disciples to be in the Father's house
Jn 14.12-14	Mt 7.7-8; 18.19; 21.22	Mk 11.24	Lk 11.9-10	Confidence in prayer
Jn 14.31	Mt 26.39	Mk 14.25	Lk 22.42	Jesus' will is the Father's
Jn 15.1-6	Mt 26.29	Mk 14.25		Vine image
Jn 15.13	Mt 20.28	Mk 10.45		Jesus gives his life for others
Jn 15.18-16.4a	Mt 10.17-25	Mk 13.9-13	Lk 21.12-17	Discipleship in a hostile world
Jn 15.26	Mt 10.20	Mk 13.11	Lk 21.12-13	Spirit speaks in disciple witnesses
Jn 16.2	Mt 10.17	Mk 13.9	Lk 21.12; 6.22	Disciples punished in synagogues
Jn 16.2	Mt 24.9	Mk 13.12	Lk 21.16	Disciples put to death
Jn 16.24	Mt 7.7		Lk 11.9	Saying, prayer in Jesus' name
Jn 17.1	Mt 26.39	Mk 14.36	Lk 22.42	Jesus prays to the Father
Jn 17.15	Mt 6.13			Prayer, kept safe from the evil one
Jn 18.2-12	Mt 26.47-56	Mk 14.43-52	Lk 22.47-53	Jesus arrested
Jn 18.13-27	Mt. 26.57-59, 69-75	Mk 14.53-55, 66-72	Lk 22.54-62	Jesus before the high priest
Jn 18.28-19.16	Mt 27.1-2, 11-32	Mk 15.2-21	Lk 23.2-5, 18-25	Jesus before Pilate
Jn 19.17-30	Mt 27.33-50	Mk 15.22-37	Lk 23.3-49	The crucifixion
Jn 19.38-42	Mt 27.57-60	Mk 15.42-46	Lk 23.50-56	The burial of Jesus
Jn 20.1-20.2-10	Mt 28.1-8	Mk 16.1-8	Lk 24.1-11	Women find the tomb empty
			Lk 24.24	Male disciples confirm the women's report
Jn 20.11-18	Mt 28.9-10			Women encounter the risen Jesus
Jn 20.19-23			Lk 24.36-49	Risen Jesus appears to the disciples at the evening meal
Jn 20.22			Lk 24.49; Acts 2.2-4	Disciples receive the Spirit
Jn 20.23	Mt 18.18			Disciples to forgive sin
Jn 20.30-31			Lk 1.1-4	Purpose for writing
Jn 21.1-14	Mt 28.16-20	[Mk 16.7]		Risen Jesus in Galilee
Jn 21.1-14, 15-19	[Mt 16.17-19]		Lk 5.1-11	Miraculous catch, Peter's calling

CHAPTER/VERSE DIFFERENCES

Chapter/verse differences between standard English numbering and Hebrew text numbering used in NJPS. Books are listed in the order they appear.

ENGLISH	HEBREW	ENGLISH	HEBREW	ENGLISH	HEBREW
Gen 31.55	Gen 32.1	Neh 10.1–39	Neh 10.2–40	Ps 30.1–12	Ps 30.2–13
Gen 32.1–32	Gen 32.2–33	Job 41.1–8	Job 40.25–32	Ps 31. title	Ps 31.1
Ex 8.1–4	Ex 7.26–29	Job 41.9–24	Job 41.1–26	Ps 31.1–24	Ps 31.2–25
Ex 8.5–32	Ex 8.1–28	Ps 3. title	Ps 3.1	Ps 32. title	Ps 32.1a
Ex 22.1	Ex 21.37	Ps 3.1–8	Ps 3.2–9	Ps 34. title	Ps 34.1
Ex 22.2–31	Ex 22.1–30	Ps 4. title	Ps 4.1	Ps 34.1–22	Ps 34.2–23
Lev 6.1–7	Lev 5.20–26	Ps 4.1–8	Ps 4.2–9	Ps 35. title	Ps 35.1 (1st word)
Lev 6.8–30	Lev 6.1–23	Ps 5. title	Ps 5.1	Ps 36. title	Ps 36.1
Num 16.36–50	Num 17.1–15	Ps 5.1–12	Ps 5.2–13	Ps 36.1–12	Ps 36.2–13
Num 17.1–13	Num 17.16–28	Ps 6. title	Ps 6.1	Ps 37. title	Ps 37.1 (1st word)
Num 26.1a	Num 25.19	Ps 6.1–10	Ps 6.2–11	Ps 38. title	Ps 38.1
Num 29.40	Num 30.1	Ps 7. title	Ps 7.1	Ps 38.1–22	Ps 38.2–23
Num 30.1–16	Num 30.2–17	Ps 7.1–17	Ps 7.2–18	Ps 39. title	Ps 39.1
Deut 12.32	Deut 13.1	Ps 8. title	Ps 8.1	Ps 39.1–13	Ps 39.2–14
Deut 13.1–18	Deut 13.2–19	Ps 8.1–9	Ps 8.2–10	Ps 40. title	Ps 40.1
Deut 22.30	Deut 23.1	Ps 9. title	Ps 9.1	Ps 40.1–17	Ps 40.2–18
Deut 23.1–25	Deut 23.2–26	Ps 9.1–20	Ps 9.2–21	Ps 41. title	Ps 41.1
Deut 29.1	Deut 28.69	Ps 11. title	Ps 11.1a	Ps 41.1–13	Ps 41.2–14
Deut 29.2–29	Deut 29.1–28	Ps 12. title	Ps 12.1	Ps 42. title	Ps 42.1
1 Sam 20.42b	1 Sam 21.1	Ps 12.1–8	Ps 12.2–9	Ps 42.1–11	Ps 42.2–12
1 Sam 21.1–15	1 Sam 21.2–16	Ps 13. title	Ps 13.1	Ps 44. title	Ps 44.1
1 Sam 23.29	1 Sam 24.1	Ps 13.1–5	Ps 13.2–6a	Ps 44.1–26	Ps 44.2–27
1 Sam 24.1–22	1 Sam 24.2–23	Ps 13.6	Ps 13.6b	Ps 45. title	Ps 45.1
2 Sam 18.33	2 Sam 19.1	Ps 14. title	Ps 14.1a	Ps 45.1–17	Ps 45.2–18
2 Sam 19.1–43	2 Sam 19.2–44	Ps 15. title	Ps 15.1a	Ps 46. title	Ps 46.1
1 Kings 4.21–34	1 Kings 5.1–14	Ps 16. title	Ps 16.1a	Ps 46.1–11	Ps 46.2–12
1 Kings 5.1–18	1 Kings 5.15–32	Ps 17. title	Ps 17.1a	Ps 47. title	Ps 47.1
1 Kings 18.33b	1 Kings 18.34a	Ps 18. title	Ps 18.1–2a	Ps 47.1–9	Ps 47.2–10
1 Kings 20.2b	1 Kings 20.3a	Ps 18.1–50	Ps 18.2b–51	Ps 48. title	Ps 48.1
1 Kings 22.22a	1 Kings 22.21b	Ps 19. title	Ps 19.1	Ps 48.1–14	Ps 48.2–15
1 Kings 22.43b	1 Kings 22.44	Ps 19.1–14	Ps 19.2–15	Ps 49. title	Ps 49.1
1 Kings 22.44–53	1 Kings 22.45–54	Ps 20. title	Ps 20.1	Ps 49.1–20	Ps 49.2–21
2 Kings 11.21	2 Kings 12.1	Ps 20.1–9	Ps 20.2–10	Ps 50. title	Ps 50.1a
2 Kings 12.1–21	2 Kings 12.2–22	Ps 21. Title	Ps 21.1	Ps 51. title	Ps 51.1–2
1 Chr 6.1–15	1 Chr 5.27–41	Ps 21.1–13	Ps 21.2–14	Ps 51.1–19	Ps 51.3–21
1 Chr 6.16–81	1 Chr 6.1–66	Ps 22. title	Ps 22.1	Ps 52. title	Ps 52.1–2
1 Chr 12.4	1 Chr 12.4–5	Ps 22.1–31	Ps 22.2–32	Ps 52.1–9	Ps 52.3–11
1 Chr 12.5–40	1 Chr 12.6–41	Ps 23. title	Ps 23.1a	Ps 53. title	Ps 53.1

CHAPTER/VERSE DIFFERENCES

ENGLISH	HEBREW	ENGLISH	HEBREW	ENGLISH	HEBREW
2 Chr 2.1	2 Chr 1.18	Ps 24. title	Ps 24.1a	Ps 53.1–6	Ps 53.2–7
2 Chr 2.2–18	2 Chr 2.1–17	Ps 25. title	Ps 25.1a	Ps 54. title	Ps 54.1–2
2 Chr 14.1	2 Chr 13.23	Ps 26. title	Ps 26.1a	Ps 54.1–7	Ps 54.3–9
2 Chr 14.2–15	2 Chr 14.1–14	Ps 27. title	Ps 27.1a	Ps 55. title	Ps 55.1
Neh. 4.1–6	Neh 3.33–38	Ps 28. title	Ps 28.1a	Ps 55.1–23	Ps 55.2–24
Neh 4.7–23	Neh 4.1–17	Ps 29. title	Ps 29.1a	Ps 56. title	Ps 56.1
Neh 9.38	Neh 10.1	Ps 30. title	Ps 30.1	Ps 56.1–13	Ps 56.2–14
Ps. 57. title	Ps. 57.1	Ps. 85.1–13	Ps. 85.2–14	Ps. 133. title	Ps. 133.1a
Ps. 57.1–11	Ps. 57.2–12	Ps. 86. title	Ps. 86.1a	Ps. 133.1	Ps. 133.1b
Ps. 58. title	Ps. 58.1	Ps. 86.1	Ps. 86.1b	Ps. 134. title	Ps. 134.1a
Ps. 58.1–11	Ps. 58.2–12	Ps. 87. title	Ps. 87.1a	Ps. 134.1	Ps. 134.1b
Ps. 59. title	Ps. 59.1	Ps. 87.1	Ps. 87.1b	Ps. 138. title	Ps. 138.1a
Ps. 59.1–17	Ps. 59.2–18	Ps. 88. title	Ps. 88.1	Ps. 138.1	Ps. 138.1b
Ps. 60. title	Ps. 60.1–2	Ps. 88.1–18	Ps. 88.2–19	Ps. 139. title	Ps. 139.1a
Ps. 60.1–12	Ps. 60.3–14	Ps. 89. title	Ps. 89.1	Ps. 139.1	Ps. 139.1b
Ps. 61. title	Ps. 61.1	Ps. 89.1–52	Ps. 89.2–53	Ps. 140. title	Ps. 140.1
Ps. 61.1–8	Ps. 61.2–9	Ps. 90. title	Ps. 90.1a	Ps. 140.1–13	Ps. 140.2–14
Ps. 62. title	Ps. 62.1	Ps. 90.1	Ps. 90.1b	Ps. 141. title	Ps. 141.1a
Ps. 62.1–12	Ps. 62.2–13	Ps. 92. title	Ps. 92.1	Ps. 141.1	Ps. 141.1b
Ps. 63. title	Ps. 63.1	Ps. 92.1–15	Ps. 92.2–16	Ps. 142. title	Ps. 142.1
Ps. 63.1–11	Ps. 63.2–12	Ps. 98. title	Ps. 98.1 (1st word)	Ps. 142.1–7	Ps. 142.2–8
Ps. 64. title	Ps. 64.1	Ps. 100. title	Ps. 100.1a	Ps. 143. title	Ps. 143.1a
Ps. 64.1–10	Ps. 64.2–11	Ps. 100.1	Ps. 100.1b	Ps. 143.1	Ps. 143.1b
Ps. 65. title	Ps. 65.1	Ps. 101. title	Ps. 101.1a	Ps. 144. title	Ps. 144.1 (1st word)
Ps. 65.1–13	Ps. 65.2–14	Ps. 101.1	Ps. 101.1b	Ps. 145. title	Ps. 145.1a
Ps. 66. title	Ps. 66.1a	Ps. 102. title	Ps. 102.1	Ps. 145.1	Ps. 145.1b
Ps. 66.1	Ps. 66.1b	Ps. 102.1–28	Ps. 102.2–29	Eccl. 5.1	Eccl. 4.17
Ps. 67. title	Ps. 67.1	Ps. 103. title	Ps. 103.1 (1st word)	Eccl. 5.2–20	Eccl. 5.1–19
Ps. 67.1–7	Ps. 67.2–8	Ps. 108. title	Ps. 108.1	Song 6.13	Song 7.1
Ps. 68. title	Ps. 68.1	Ps. 108.1–13	Ps. 108.2–14	Song 7.1–13	Song 7.2–14
Ps. 68.1–35	Ps. 68.2–36	Ps. 109. title	Ps. 109.1a	Isa. 9.1	Isa. 8.23
Ps. 69. title	Ps. 69.1	Ps. 109.1	Ps. 109.1b	Isa. 9.2–21	Isa. 9.1–20
Ps. 69.1–36	Ps. 69.2–37	Ps. 110. title	Ps. 110.1a	Isa. 63.19	Isa. 63.19a
Ps. 70. title	Ps. 70.1	Ps. 110.1	Ps. 110.1b	Isa. 64.1	Isa. 63.19b
Ps. 70.1–5	Ps. 70.2–6	Ps. 120. title	Ps. 120.1a	Isa. 64.2–12	Isa. 64.1–11
Ps. 72. title	Ps. 72.1 (1st word)	Ps. 120.1	Ps. 120.1b	Jer. 9.1	Jer. 8.23
Ps. 73. title	Ps. 73.1a	Ps. 121. title	Ps. 121.1a	Jer. 9.2–26	Jer. 9.1–25
Ps. 73.1	Ps. 73.1b	Ps. 121.1	Ps. 121.1b	Ezek. 20.45–49	Ezek. 21.1–5
Ps. 74. title	Ps. 74.1a	Ps. 122. title	Ps. 122.1a	Ezek. 21.1–32	Ezek. 21.6–37
Ps. 74.1	Ps. 74.1b	Ps. 122.1	Ps. 122.1b	Dan. 4.1–3	Dan. 3.31–33
Ps. 75. Title	Ps. 75.1	Ps. 123. title	Ps. 123.1a	Dan. 4.4–37	Dan. 4.1–34
Ps. 75.1–10	Ps. 75.2–11	Ps. 123.1	Ps. 123.1b	Dan. 5.31	Dan. 6.1
Ps. 76. Title	Ps. 76.1	Ps. 124. title	Ps. 124.1a	Dan. 6.1–28	Dan. 6.2–29

ENGLISH	HEBREW	ENGLISH	HEBREW	ENGLISH	HEBREW
Ps. 77. Title	Ps. 77.1	Ps. 124.1	Ps. 124.1b	Hos. 1.10–11	Hos. 2.1–2
Ps. 77.1–20	Ps. 77.2–21	Ps. 125. title	Ps. 125.1a	Hos. 2.1–23	Hos. 2.3–25
Ps. 78. Title	Ps. 78.1a	Ps. 125.1	Ps. 125.1b	Hos. 11.12	Hos. 12.1
Ps. 78.1	Ps. 78.1b	Ps. 126. title	Ps. 126.1a	Hos. 12.1–14	Hos. 12.2–15
Ps. 79. Title	Ps. 79.1a	Ps. 126.1	Ps. 126.1b	Hos. 13.16	Hos. 14.1
Ps. 79.1	Ps. 79.1b	Ps. 127. title	Ps. 127.1a	Hos. 14.1–9	Hos. 14.2–10
Ps. 80. title	Ps. 80.1	Ps. 127.1	Ps. 127.1b	Joel 2.28–32	Joel 3.1–5
Ps. 80.1–19	Ps. 80.2–20	Ps. 128. title	Ps. 128.1a	Joel 3.1–21	Joel 4.1–21
Ps. 81. title	Ps. 81.1	Ps. 128.1	Ps. 128.1b	Jon. 1.17	Jon. 2.1
Ps. 81.1–16	Ps. 81.2–17	Ps. 129. title	Ps. 129.1a	Jon. 2.1–10	Jon. 2.2–11
Ps. 82. title	Ps. 82.1a	Ps. 129.1	Ps. 129.1b	Mic. 5.1	Mic. 4.14
Ps. 82.1	Ps. 82.1b	Ps. 130. title	Ps. 130.1a	Mic. 5.2–15	Mic. 5.1–14
Ps. 83. title	Ps. 83.1	Ps. 130.1	Ps. 130.1b	Nah. 1.15	Nah. 2.1
Ps. 83.1–18	Ps. 83.2–19	Ps. 131. title	Ps. 131.1a	Nah. 2.1–13	Nah. 2.2–14
Ps. 84. title	Ps. 84.1	Ps. 131.1	Ps. 131.1b	Zech. 1.18–21	Zech. 2.1–4
Ps. 84.1–12	Ps. 84.2–13	Ps. 132. title	Ps. 132.1a	Zech. 2.1–13	Zech. 2.5–17
Ps. 85. title	Ps. 85.1	Ps. 132.1	Ps. 132.1b	Mal. 4.1–6	Mal. 3.19–24

TRANSLATIONS OF ANCIENT TEXTS

INTRODUCTORY

Evans, Craig A. Ancient Texts for New Testament Studies: A Guide to the Background Literature. Peabody, Mass. Hendrickson, 2005.

Sparks, Kenton L. Ancient Texts for the Study of the Hebrew Bible: A Guide to the Background Literature. Peabody, Mass. Hendrickson, 2005.

ANCIENT NEAR EASTERN

Chavalas, Mark W., ed. The Ancient Near East: Historical Sources in Translation. Oxford: Blackwell, 2006.

Hallo, William W., and K. Lawson Younger, eds. The Context of Scripture. Vol. 1, Canonical Compositions from the Biblical World. Vol. 2, Monumental Inscriptions from the Biblical World. Vol. 3, Archival Documents from the Biblical World. Leiden: E. J. Brill, 1997; 1999; 2003.

Lewis, Theodore I., ed. Writings from the Ancient World. A series produced by the Society of Biblical Literature (Atlanta, Ga.), with each volume devoted to a particular genre and language.

Pritchard, James B., ed. Ancient Near Eastern Texts Relating to the Old Testament. Princeton, N.J.: Princeton University Press, 3d ed., 1969.

EARLY JEWISH

General

Bartlett, John R. Jews in the Hellenistic World: Josephus, Aristea, the Sibylline Oracles, Eupolemus. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1985.

Maccoby, Hyam. Early Rabbinic Writings. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1988.

Septuagint

Pietersma, Albert, and Benjamin G. Wright, eds. A New English Translation of the Septuagint and the Other Greek Translations Traditionally Included under That Title. New York: Oxford University Press, 2007.

Dead Sea Scrolls

Abegg, Martin, Jr.; Peter Flint; and Eugene Ulrich, eds. The Dead Sea Scrolls Bible: The Oldest Known Bible. San Francisco: HarperSanFrancisco, 1999.

García Martínez, Florentino, ed. The Dead Sea Scrolls Study Edition. 2 vols. Grand Rapids, Mich.: Eerdmans, 2000.

Vermes, Geza. The Complete Dead Sea Scrolls in English. Rev. ed. New York: Penguin, 2004.

Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha

Charles, R. H., ed. The Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha of the Old Testament. 2 vols. Oxford: Clarendon, 1913.

Charlesworth, James H., ed. The Old Testament Pseudepigrapha. 2 vols. New York: Doubleday, 1983; 1985.

Josephus

Mason, Steve, ed. Flavius Josephus: Translation and Commentary. Leiden: E. J. Brill, 2000– .

Whiston, William, trans. The Works of Josephus Complete and Unabridged. 1736. New updated edition, Peabody, Mass.: Hendrickson, 1987.

Williamson, G. A., trans. Josephus: The Jewish War. New York: Penguin, 1984.

Loeb Classical Library

Philo of Alexandria

Williamson, Ronald. Jews in the Hellenistic World: Philo. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1989.

Yonge, C. D., trans. The Works of Philo. 1854. New updated edition, Peabody, Mass.: Hendrickson, 1993.

Loeb Classical Library

INTRODUCTORY

Evans, Craig A. Ancient Texts for New Testament Studies: A Guide to the Background Literature. Peabody, Mass. Hendrickson, 2005.

Sparks, Kenton L. Ancient Texts for the Study of the Hebrew Bible: A Guide to the Background Literature. Peabody, Mass. Hendrickson, 2005.

ANCIENT NEAR EASTERN

Chavalas, Mark W., ed. The Ancient Near East: Historical Sources in Translation. Oxford: Blackwell, 2006.

Hallo, William W., and K. Lawson Younger, eds. The Context of Scripture. Vol. 1, Canonical Compositions from the Biblical World. Vol. 2, Monumental Inscriptions from the Biblical World. Vol. 3, Archival Documents from the Biblical World. Leiden: E. J. Brill, 1997; 1999; 2003.

Lewis, Theodore I., ed. Writings from the Ancient World. A series produced by the Society of Biblical Literature (Atlanta, Ga.), with each volume devoted to a particular genre and language.

Pritchard, James B., ed. Ancient Near Eastern Texts Relating to the Old Testament. Princeton, N.J.: Princeton University Press, 3d ed., 1969.

EARLY JEWISH*General*

- Bartlett, John R. Jews in the Hellenistic World: Josephus, Aristaeus, the Sibylline Oracles, Eupolemus. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1985.
- Maccoby, Hyam. Early Rabbinic Writings. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1988.

Septuagint

- Pietersma, Albert, and Benjamin G. Wright, eds. A New English Translation of the Septuagint and the Other Greek Translations Traditionally Included under That Title. New York: Oxford University Press, 2007.

Dead Sea Scrolls

- Abegg, Martin, Jr.; Peter Flint; and Eugene Ulrich, eds. The Dead Sea Scrolls Bible: The Oldest Known Bible. San Francisco: HarperSanFrancisco, 1999.
- García Martínez, Florentino, ed. The Dead Sea Scrolls Study Edition. 2 vols. Grand Rapids, Mich.: Eerdmans, 2000.
- Vermes, Geza. The Complete Dead Sea Scrolls in English. Rev. ed. New York: Penguin, 2004.

Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha

- Charles, R. H., ed. The Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha of the Old Testament. 2 vols. Oxford: Clarendon, 1913.
- Charlesworth, James H., ed. The Old Testament Pseudepigrapha. 2 vols. New York: Doubleday, 1983; 1985.

Josephus

- Mason, Steve, ed. Flavius Josephus: Translation and Commentary. Leiden: E. J. Brill, 2000– .
- Whiston, William, trans. The Works of Josephus Complete and Unabridged. 1736. New updated edition, Peabody, Mass.: Hendrickson, 1987.
- Williamson, G. A., trans. Josephus: The Jewish War. New York: Penguin, 1984.
- Loeb Classical Library

Philo of Alexandria

- Williamson, Ronald. Jews in the Hellenistic World: Philo. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1989.
- Yonge, C. D., trans. The Works of Philo. 1854. New updated edition, Peabody, Mass.: Hendrickson, 1993.
- Loeb Classical Library

Mishnah

- Danby, Herbert. The Mishnah. Oxford: Clarendon, 1933.
- Neusner, Jacob. The Mishnah: A New Translation. New Haven: Yale University Press, 1988.

Talmud

- Epstein, I. The Babylonian Talmud. 30 vols. London: Soncino, 1935–48.
- Steinsaltz, Adin. The Talmud. New York: Random House, 1989–99.

EARLY CHRISTIAN*General*

- Barrett, C. K. The New Testament Background: Writings from Ancient Greece and the Roman Empire That Illuminate Christian Origins. Rev. ed. San Francisco: HarperCollins, 1987.
- Cartlidge, David R., and David L. Dungan, eds. Documents for the Study of the Gospels. Rev. ed. Minneapolis: Fortress, 1994.
- Elliott, J. K. The Apocryphal New Testament: A Collection of Apocryphal Christian Literature in an English Translation. Rev. ed. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1999.
- Richardson, Cyril D., ed. Early Christian Fathers. New York: Macmillan, 1970.
- Staniforth, Maxwell, trans. Early Christian Writings. New York: Penguin, 1987.

Nag Hammadi

- Barnstone, Willis, and Marvin Meyer, eds. The Gnostic Bible. Boston: Shambhala, 2003.
- Layton, Bentley. The Gnostic Scriptures: A New Translation. Garden City, N.Y.: Doubleday, 1987.
- Robinson, J. M., ed. The Nag Hammadi Library in English. 4th rev. ed. Leiden: E. J. Brill, 1996.

ANCIENT TRANSLATIONS OF THE BIBLE*Greek*

- Brenton, Lancelot C. L. The Septuagint with Apocrypha: Greek and English. 1851. Reprint, Peabody, Mass.: Hendrickson, 1986.

Aramaic

- McNamara, Martin, et al. The Aramaic Bible: The Targums. Collegeville, Minn.: Liturgical, 1987– .

CLASSICAL SOURCES

- Beard, Mary; John North; and Simon Price. Religions of Rome. Vol. 2: A Sourcebook. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1998.
- Translations of the writings of most Greek and Roman authors are available in the Loeb Classical Library.

GLOSSARY

A

Aaron the first high priest, brother of Moses and Levi (Ex 4.14); he is inaugurated in Ex chs 28–29. Although it is unclear how, or whether, Aaron was supposed to be the progenitor of later priests, he is regarded as the prototype. See Levite, Zadokite

Abaddon (Heb “place of destruction”), the realm of the dead (Job 26.6; Prov 15.11; Ps 88.10–12; Rev 9.11)

Abba (Aram. “father”), the word Jesus (Mk 14.36) and the early church (Rom 8.15) used to address God accession the act of taking one’s place as a ruler acropolis (Gk “height of the city”) the fortified upper area of a Greek city; “the Acropolis” refers to this area in Athens

acrostic a literary device in which the first letter of each line of poetry occurs according to a predetermined pattern. In the poetry of the Hebrew Bible all acrostics are alphabetical: the individual lines of a poem (or occasionally small groups of lines) begin with the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet in order. (This would be equivalent to the first line of an English poem beginning with A, the second with B, etc.) The acrostic form, besides giving the esthetic pleasure of a pattern, may have been intended to make memorization easier. It may also have been intended as a way of expressing completeness: in Lamentations, for instance, the acrostic format of the individual chs might have been used to express the completeness of the outpouring of grief. The following poems in the Bible are acrostics: Pss. 9–10, 25, 34, 37, 111, 112, 119, 145; Prov. 31.10–31; Lam 1, 2, 3, 4 (ch 5 is not an acrostic, but preserves part of the form by having 22 lines, the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet); Nah 1.2–8 (or 9) (incomplete). In the Hebrew text of Sirach, 51.13–30 is acrostic.

Adar the twelfth month (February–March) in the Jewish year. In order to bring the lunar calendar into alignment with the solar year, a leap year, in which there are two months of Adar, occurs seven times during each nineteen-year cycle of years (see Calendar)

Adonai (Heb “my Lord”) a divine title and the word generally substituted for YHWH when the Bible is read aloud

Ahikar an ancient Near Eastern story of a prime minister to the king of Assyria, who is betrayed by an ungrateful nephew but ultimately vindicated. It is alluded to in Tob 1.21–22.

Akedah (Heb “binding”) the story of the binding of Isaac (Gen 22)

Akkadian the language of Assyria and Babylonia. Akkadian is a Semitic language related to Hebrew, and is written in cuneiform, wedge-shaped writing.

alien see resident alien allegory an extended comparison, which directly describes one reality while indirectly describing something entirely different. An allegory as a narrative uses action, setting, and characters to point symbolically to something else.

alleluia a Greek and Latin form of a Hebrew phrase that means “Praise the LORD.” See hallelujah.

Amarna Letters diplomatic correspondence from the reigns of the Egyptian pharaohs Amenophis III and Akhenaten, written in Akkadian cuneiform, that provide information about Canaan in the fourteenth century BCE

Ammon, Ammonites, the territory and its inhabitants east of the Jordan River

Amorites according to the Bible, one of the native nations of Canaan. Amorites are attested in other ancient Near Eastern documents from the third millennium BCE and onward as residents of Syria who migrated to Mesopotamia and other areas. Their language was related to Hebrew.

amphictyony a social organization in ancient Greece in which groups were united around a central sanctuary and serviced this sanctuary on a rotating basis. Some scholars think that a similar system existed in Israel in premonarchic times.

anachronism an element in a story that is out of place because it did not exist at the time in which the story is set. Anachronisms can be valuable clues to when a narrative was written.

Anat a Canaanite goddess often depicted as a warrior anathema (Gk “devoted [to evil],” “accursed”) a solemn pronouncement by a recognized religious authority banning or condemning a person, thing, or idea as false or evil

aniconic (Gk “not representational”) worship without the use of statues or images; also a symbolic or suggestive presentation of a divine being, rather than a literal or realistic rendition anoint touch or rub with oil. Anointing was a sign that a person or thing was dedicated to God. See also messiah.

anthropomorphic (Gk “in human form”) the description or representation of a divine being in the form of a human person

- antichrist the apocalyptic figure presented as opposing God, battling the heavenly angels serving God, or fighting against God's anointed ruler
- antithesis the contrast of ideas through closely contrasted words
- antithetic parallelism two parallel lines related to one another by opposition or contrast
- aphorism a short, memorable saying
- apocalypse (Gr. apokalypsis, "removal of the veil, revelation") a literary genre in which an angel or other heavenly being communicates to a human being the divine plan for history, especially the end of time
- apocalyptic having the character of an apocalypse
- Apocrypha (Gk "hidden things") a group of about twenty mostly Jewish works, many of which were included in the Septuagint, but which are not included in the Jewish or Protestant canons of the Bible. Most of these works are canonical for Roman Catholics; a few more are canonical for Orthodox Christians. See deuterocanon.
- apodictic law law stated absolutely, as in the Decalogue's "you shall not," rather than casuistically, "if a person . . ." See casuistic law.
- apologia (Gk "explanation") a defense of one's actions or beliefs, usually in a formal speech or written document
- apostasy abandoning a set of beliefs, or the position of having abandoned them
- apostle (Gk "one who is sent"), a delegate or representative. In the New Testament, an apostle was one who had known Jesus and could witness to the resurrection (Acts 1.21–2), or a preacher of the gospel who had been called by God (1 Cor 12.28; Rom 16.7).
- apostrophe (Gk "turn from") a direct address to someone or something not present
- apotropaic (Gk "turn away from") an action intended to ward off evil
- Aramaic a Semitic language used widely in the Near East during the Persian period, though it developed earlier. It became the ordinary language of Jews, and was used by Jesus. An Aramaic translation of the Hebrew Bible is called a Targum.
- Aramaism the use in another language of a word or grammatical form derived from Aramaic.
- Arameans a Semitic people living in Syria from the second millennium BCE onward. Damascus was a principal city of the Arameans.
- aretalogy (Gk "words about virtue") praise of virtues, either of a hero or of oneself
- ark of the covenant the chest in the tabernacle or Temple that contained the text or tablets of the covenant, and that served as part of the throne of the LORD
- Armageddon the traditional site of the final battle between good and evil (Rev 16.6), possibly derived from Megiddo, a strategically located site where many battles occurred
- ascension going up, particularly to a divine realm but also literally climbing a hill (as to Jerusalem)
- asceticism (Gk "training") deliberate self-denial or self-punishment for religious purpose
- Asherah (pl. Asherim) Canaanite goddess, wife or consort of El; her sacred symbol, a pole or tree, was the object of prophetic condemnation.
- Assyria a Mesopotamian world power in the second and first millennia BCE. Its capital cities included Ashur and Nineveh. The Assyrian empire conquered the Northern Kingdom of Israel in 722 BCE and exiled its people. The Assyrians were well-known for their massive building projects, and for their cruelty in war.
- Astarte the Canaanite goddess of love and fertility
- atbash a form of code in Hebrew in which the last letter of the alphabet is substituted for the first, the next-to-last for the second, and so on: alep becomes taw, bet becomes shin, gimel becomes resh, etc. (In English, A would become Z, B would become Y, etc.) In Jer 25.26; 51.41, Babylon (b-b-l) is written Sheshach (sh-sh-k).
- atonement expiation for sin, or reparation for an injury committed against another
- Atrahasis hero of the Mesopotamian epic named for him, who survives the god Enlil's efforts to destroy humankind by a flood. See also Gilgamesh.
- B
- Baal ("master," "lord," "husband") the chief god of Canaanite religion, a storm god
- Babylonia a Mesopotamian world power. It often competed against Assyria, which it conquered in 612 BCE. Its major city was Babylon (Akkadian "gate of the gods"). Its main god became Marduk. Babylonia destroyed Jerusalem in 586, and was conquered by the Persian king Cyrus the Great in 539.
- Babylonian exile the forced relocation of some of the population of Judah, especially the elite, after the conquest by Babylonia in the early sixth century BCE. The exile ended with the permitted return to the land under Cyrus in 538 BCE.
- Babylonian Talmud see Talmud
- ban (Heb herem) the dedication or sacrifice of war booty (including people) to the deity
- baptism ritual purification by immersion in water, used by Christians as an initiation into the community
- BCE Before the Common Era, equivalent to BC

Beelzebul (also Baalzebul, Baalzebub, Beelzebub) the ruler of the demons (Mt 12.24–27). It is based on the Hebrew Baalzebul, “Baal the exalted,” a title of the Phoenician god at Ekron (2 Kings 1.2–18), changed probably as a derogatory name into Baalzebub, “lord of flies.”

Behemoth a mythical beast in Job 40.15–24 who represents violent forces in the world

Bel (Akkadian “master,” cognate to Baal) title of Marduk

belomancy a method of divination by choosing or tossing down arrows on which names of potential victims are inscribed berit (Heb “treaty, contract, covenant”) a term that may be used of a legal agreement between two individuals, groups, or nations, or between God and Israel (see covenant)

bicolon unit of Hebrew poetry composed of two cola, or lines (sometimes called a dístich)

Binding (of Isaac) see Akedah

Book of the Covenant see Covenant Collection

booths, festival of (Heb Sukkot) the autumn harvest festival, also called the festival of ingathering), so named because the harvesters lived in the fields in makeshift tents or booths, also called tabernacles

bullā a clay seal with the impression of a signet ring or other symbol of authority

C

Cairo Geniza the storeroom (see geniza) of a synagogue in Old Cairo in which were discovered many thousands of fragments of texts, including a portion of the book of Sirach (Ecclesiasticus) in Hebrew

Cambyses son of Cyrus and king of Persia 529–522 BCE. He conquered Egypt in 525

Canaan in Mesopotamian and Egyptian documents and in some biblical texts, a name for the region in the southern Levant part of which became biblical Israel, whose inhabitants are called Canaanites. Also a grandson of Noah.

canon (Gk “measuring rod”) the rule by which something is determined to belong or not to a category. Christian tradition uses the word for the official list of the books that make up the Bible.

canonical criticism the interpretation of a biblical text based upon its final form, rather than viewing it as an assemblage of preexisting units casuistic law (also called “case law”) the form of law dealing with the treatment of specific cases. It is frequently in the form of “if/when . . . then” formulae. Most ancient Near Eastern law collections are formulated this way.

catchword, catchphrase a representative or repeated word or group of words that stands for an argument or point of view; that word or phrase picked up and used in a subsequent or related text

Catholic Epistles (also “Epistles General”) the New Testament letters, from James to 3 John, identified not by their recipients but by their authors and therefore presumed to be addressed to the universal (“catholic” means “entire”) church

CE Common Era, equivalent to AD

centurion in the Roman army, an officer commanding a century, a maximum of a hundred soldiers; there were sixty centuries in a legion ceramic typology dating different levels of an archaeological site by classifying the pieces of pottery found in them according to the approximate eras in which they were made

Chaldean(s) a collective name for the tribes that were dominant in Babylon from the late sixth century BCE; Chaldea is frequently associated with the area of southern Mesopotamia chaos complete lack of order. In ancient Near Eastern mythology, chaos was sometimes personified as divine beings who had to be conquered by other gods in order to establish an orderly, habitable universe.

charismatic (Gr. “gifted, graced”) characterized by the ability to influence or lead others; personally magnetic; talented chattel possessions or persons owned by someone else and therefore at that person’s complete disposal

Chemosh the chief god of Moab cherubim (sing. “cherub”) mythical, composite creatures with body parts from various animals; they often had wings and human heads. They were commonly guardians of temples and palaces in the ancient Near East.

chiasm, chiasmus (from Gr. chi, the letter that resembles an X) inverting the second pair of terms in a parallel structure, so that the corresponding terms, if laid out in a square, would form an X. The resultant pattern is abba, abcba, abccba, etc.

Christ (Gk “anointed”), the translation of Heb mashiah, “messiah.” In the New Testament and in general usage, Christ always refers to Jesus of Nazareth.

christology the theological doctrines concerning the nature of Christ chronicle an account of events in the order in which they occurred

Chronicler the name for the unknown author of the books of Chronicles; sometimes also applied to the author of Ezra and Nehemiah church (see also house church) the community of believers in a particular area; the later use of “church” to mean a building where people worship does not occur in the New Testament church fathers see patristic writers

circumcision the removal of the foreskin of the penis

Cisjordan Latin for “this side of Jordan,” that is, the region west of the Jordan river citadel a stronghold or fortress, whether standing alone or serving as the inner fortification of a city clan a social unit, composed of several families considered to be descended from a common ancestor; several clans constituted a tribe climax (Gk “ladder”), a series of clauses in which each succeeding clause repeats the important term from the previous clause, each clause in turn making a more important point codex a manuscript of separate pages, bound along one edge. Modern books are a development of the codex.

colon (pl. cola) a single line of poetry (also known as a stich) colophon (Gk “summit,” by extension “finishing touch”) a notice, usually found at the end of an ancient text, giving information about details such as authorship concordance a word index to a given text, listing each occurrence of a given word along with its context concubine a woman who is the sexual partner of a man, and is legally recognized as such, but who does not have the full status of a wife corvée forced labor for the state cosmology an account of the origins of the cosmos cosmopolis (Gk “world city”) a major metropolis, usually the main city of an empire, to which peoples from different countries or ethnic groups came or in which they resided cosmos (Gk “order, regularity”) the created world of order, stability, relative permanence; the opposite of chaos

Council of Trent the twenty-ninth ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church (1545–1563), held after the Protestant Reformation had begun. Among other decisions, it defined the books that are included in the Catholic canon of Scripture.

covenant (Heb berit) a contract or treaty. Some covenants have specific conditions or treaty stipulations, while others are covenants of grant; often used of the relationship between God and Israel

Covenant Code another term for Covenant Collection

Covenant Collection an ancient set of laws (Ex 20.19–23.33), which details the terms of the covenant between God and Israel cult prostitute one available for sexual intercourse with worshipers at the temple of a god cult rituals and religious practices at a place of worship. The cult of the Jerusalem Temple means the religious practices carried out there, with no judgment about their value.

Cynics (Gk “dogs, doglike ones”) a nickname for a Greek philosophical movement of the fourth century BCE aimed at achieving happiness by lessening desires, and therefore needing less; it also taught contempt (or at least disregard) for social conventions and consequent lack of shame about meeting one’s physical needs (hence the nickname, since dogs were popularly supposed to have no shame)

Cyrus Cylinder an Akkadian inscription describing the conquest of Babylon by Cyrus

Cyrus king of Persia (559–530 BCE). He defeated Media in 550 and conquered most of the ancient Near East, including Babylonia, allowing the Jewish exiles in Babylonia to return to Judah in 538

D

D according to the Documentary Hypothesis, the Deuteronomic source, which covers almost the entire book of Deuteronomy

Davidic dynasty the direct descendents of King David, who ruled in Jerusalem from the tenth to the early sixth centuries BCE

Davidic having to do with the monarchic dynasty founded by David that ruled over Israel and, after the division of the kingdom, the southern part (Judah) until the Babylonian conquest and exile of the sixth century BCE; also the movement to restore that monarchy or to reproduce the self-rule that it represented

Day of Atonement, Heb Yom Kippur, the tenth day of the seventh month in the fall, a day of fasting and repentance

Day of the Lord the time mentioned in many prophetic books when God will appear as a warrior, sometimes fighting against Israel, sometimes against Israel’s enemies

Dead Sea Scrolls a group of manuscripts found beginning in 1947 in caves near the Dead Sea, at Wadi Qumran. The scrolls were probably the library of an Essene settlement that flourished at the site from the second century BCE until it was destroyed by the Romans in 68 CE. The library included Hebrew manuscripts of biblical books older than those previously known, and other scrolls regulating the life of the community that shed light on the variety of Jewish belief and practice in the Roman period.

Decalogue (Gk “ten words”) a traditional name for the list of ten commandments in Ex 20.1–17, Deut 5.6–21

defective spelling the form of a word in the Hebrew text that is missing one or more optional vowel letters defilement a state of ritual impurity caused by contact with a corpse or other impure object. Priestly literature in the Torah is especially concerned with defilement and removing defilement.

demon, demonic (Gk “spirit”) a being of the spiritual realm, or a quality of that realm, particularly one opposed or hostile to human beings deuterocanon, deuterocanonical (Gk “second canon”), those books or portions of books not included in the Jewish or Protestant canons but accepted as canonical by some Christian churches (Roman Catholic and Orthodox) because they were included in the Septuagint. The NRSV places notices within the Apocryphal/ Deuterocanonical Books explaining which ones are accepted by which groups.

Deutero-Isaiah see Second Isaiah

Deuteronomistic History the account in the books of Deuteronomy, Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings that presents the history of Israel in the promised land, interpreting it a partial failure to keep the covenant faithfully, and the consequences of that failure. These books show significant theological and linguistic similarities, suggesting that they have a common editor or editors.

Deuteronomistic pertaining to the editor(s) of the history comprised in the books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings, as prefaced by the book of Deuteronomy. The term is also applied to the style of these books, reflecting concern for such matters as obedience to the laws given in Deuteronomy, centralized worship in Jerusalem, and support for the Davidic dynasty.

Deutero-Pauline (Gk “secondary [letters] of Paul”) the writings (Ephesians, Colossians, 1 and 2 Timothy, Titus, and sometimes Hebrews) traditionally attributed to Paul but which many modern scholars now classify as written by others, perhaps some of them disciples of Paul devil a spiritual being opposed to God or to the angels of God diaspora (Gk “dispersal”) the scattering of Jews from the promised land Israel, and hence any Jews living outside Israel. Also dispersion.

diatribe an argument against a position, or one critical of a person or group. Diatribe often includes an imagined dialogue between opposing viewpoints.

Didache (Gk “teaching”) an early Christian writing, dating from around 150 CE but including earlier materials. It consists of moral exhortation, a manual of church order, and guidance for community life. It is valuable for providing insight into the concerns of early Christian communities, and contains material similar to that in the Pastoral Epistles.

dietary laws see kosher diptych two leaves joined with a hinge; a form of ancient notebook in which leaves, wax-covered on the inner surface, could be inscribed with notes.

disciple a follower, an adherent of a particular teaching dispersion see diaspora

divination the effort to learn about the present or the future, by consulting mediums, interpreting omens, and the like divine warrior God in the role of leader of the heavenly armies, usually seen as fighting for Israel. See also holy war.

Documentary Hypothesis a theory about the formation of the first five books of the Bible, Genesis through Deuteronomy. The hypothesis holds that there are four traditions underlying these books, naming them after a chief characteristic of each: “J” or the “Yahwist” (“J” from the German spelling “Jahveh”) uses the divine name “YHWH” (the LORD) consistently and contains much of the oldest material; “E” or the “Elohist” uses the divine name “Elohim” (God) fairly consistently and contains traditions from the Northern Kingdom of Israel; “P” or the “Priestly” writer is concerned largely with legal codes and matters of religious practice; and “D” or the “Deuteronomist” represents the traditions gathered mostly in Deuteronomy.

doxology (Gk “word of glory”) a prayer of praise to God, or one glorifying God dualism the religious or philosophical view that reality consists of two basic elements, often seen as “good” and “evil” dynasty a ruling family; when a leader dies, the next leader is always chosen from among the family members

E

E according to the Documentary Hypothesis, the Elohist source, which in Genesis refers to God as elohim. It is general though to have originated in the Northern Kingdom of Israel.

Edom, Edomites the territory and people to the southeast and south of Judah, first attested in late second-millennium BCE texts. Edom is identified in Genesis 36 with Esau, Jacob’s brother. The enmity between these brothers and between Judah and Edom mirror each other. Edom was later called Idumea.

EI a Canaanite deity popular in the second millennium BCE. In the texts from Ugarit, he is a significant deity, but is often depicted as old and is largely supplanted by Baal.

elect, election those whom God has chosen (Matt 24.22,24; Rom 8.33) or the process of God’s having

- chosen a group (Rom 9.11); these terms do not imply the later (Calvinist) teaching of predestination
- Elephantine Papyri Aramaic documents, mostly from the fifth century BCE, found on the island of Elephantine, near Syene (modern Aswan) in Egypt. The papyri show that among those who inhabited the colony on Elephantine were Jews who kept up religious observances, such as Passover, and had their own temple.
- elohim the Hebrew word usually translated “God,” though its plural form is sometimes also translated “gods.” It is originally a common noun (a god), though it is often used as a proper noun for the God of Israel, even though it is a plural form.
- Elohist the presumed author of the E source according to the Documentary Hypothesis
- encomium a formal speech praising someone, as in a funeral oration
- Enuma Elish a Babylonian text in which the god Marduk becomes king of the gods after creating the cosmos from the body of the goddess of the deep, Tiamat, whom Marduk defeated
- ephod (1) the linen apron worn by priests in the Temple; (2) a device used to divine the will of God. The second kind of ephod was carried in priestly garments, which may explain why the same word can be used for both.
- Ephraim son of Joseph, for whom the most important tribe of the Northern Kingdom is named
- Epicureans a Greek philosophical school, founded by Epicurus (341–270 BCE), who taught that human beings naturally seek pleasure, and that the best way to achieve this pursuit was in moderation, since moderation permits the longest possible life of pleasure-seeking
- Epiphanes a title, “[God] made manifest,” adopted by Antiochus IV, the ruler of the part of the Greek empire that included Judea during the second century BCE. He was the king who forced pagan worship to occur in the Jerusalem Temple, thus provoking the revolt of the Maccabees.
- epiphany (Gk “appearing”) the manifestation or visual presence of a divine being
- epiphany (Gk “manifestation, appearance”) usually the appearance of a god or divine being in a form that can be seen by human beings
- episcopacy, episcopate (Gk “overseer”) a form of church governance in which one authority is responsible for the Christians in a particular geographical area
- epistle a letter, sometimes intended for public reading and therefore written according to a particular literary form
- Epistles General see Catholic Epistles
- epistolary prescript a standard salutation or opening phrase at the beginning of a letter
- epithet a word or phrase that characterizes a person or thing, and that can often be used by itself to refer to the person
- eponymous (Gk “regarding the name”) person for whom something is named; Judas Maccabeus is the eponymous main character of the books of 1 and 2 Maccabees
- eschatological, eschatology (Gr. eschata, “last things”) a concern with the end time, or the end of the world as we know it, whether that involves a new historical era radically discontinuous from this one, or an entirely new cosmos after the destruction of the current one
- eschaton (Gk “final thing”) the end of a period or era; the final stage of history
- Essenes a communal society in Judaism from the second century BCE to the first century CE whose members lived apart in communities that were similar in some respects to later monastic groups. It is generally agreed that the Dead Sea Scrolls were collected and preserved by an Essene community.
- ethics, ethical (Gk “custom”) rules of behavior or moral standards expected in a particular place or among a particular group; behavior conforming to those rules or standards
- etiology (Gr. aition, “cause”) an explanation for a name, an event, a custom or ritual, or a natural phenomenon. An etiological story is one that posits a particular cause (not necessarily correctly) for something.
- etymology (Gk “study of origins”) the study of the derivation of words from their root meanings
- Eucharist a ritual or service of thanksgiving, centering on the sharing of bread and wine, based on the final meal Jesus shared with his followers before his trial and crucifixion; also called Communion, the Lord’s Supper, and the Mass.
- eunuch a castrated male, sometimes a guard for a ruler’s concubines and sometimes an official in a court or government
- euphemism the substitution of an inoffensive word for one that is too explicit or impolite
- evangelist (from Gk euangelion, “good news”) the author of a gospel
- exegesis (Gk “lead into”) the explanation or interpretation of the meaning of a written text
- exhortation urging a particular course of action or behavior by argument or advice
- exile the forced removal of a people from its land, and the community in which they lived in the foreign land. The Israelites of the Northern Kingdom were exiled by the Assyrians in the late eighth century BCE, and the Judeans were exiled by the Babylonians in the early sixth century. Specifically, “the Exile” is the period from 586 to 538 BCE, when much of the population of Judah was deported from Judah to Babylon. See Babylonian Exile.

F

- fable an illustrative story in which animals or plants have speaking parts.
- Fertile Crescent the agriculturally fertile areas of the Near East and Mesopotamia, forming an arc through the modern countries of Israel, Palestine, Jordan, Lebanon, Syria, and Iraq
- festival scrolls the five short books that are read on five holy days in the Jewish calendar: Song of Songs on Passover, Ruth on the festival of weeks, Lamentations on 9 Ab (the date of the Temple’s destruction), Ecclesiastes on the festival of booths, and Esther on Purim
- First Temple the Temple in Jerusalem built by King Solomon in the tenth century BCE and destroyed by the Babylonians in 586 BCE
- form criticism the interpretation of a text with particular attention to its genre and structure and to the original setting (Sitz im Leben) out of which it arose
- Former Prophets the name in the Hebrew Bible for the first part of the longer section called “the Prophets.” The Former Prophets are the books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings.
- forty in biblical usage, a conventional number for a lengthy or completed time period: forty years of wandering in the wilderness (Num 14.33–34), forty years of kingship for David (1Kings 2.11), and Solomon (1 Kings 11.42), forty days of fasting for Moses (Ex 34.28) or Jesus (Mt 4.2 and parallels)

G

- Galilee the northernmost geographical area of Israel
- Gehenna originally the valley of (the son of) Hinnom, a place outside of Jerusalem where children were burnt as sacrificial offerings. Its associations with burning and evil developed into the image of a place of fiery punishment.
- gematria (Heb gimatriya, likely from Gk geometria) a procedure for interpreting a word or phrase by its numerical value. Hebrew letters may represent numbers (alef = 1; bet = 2, etc.), and the letters of a word or phrase are added up and equated with other words having the same total.
- genealogy a list or history of the ancestors of an individual or group
- geniza a storeroom in a synagogue used for keeping old books and objects, especially those too sacred to be discarded. See also Cairo Geniza.

- genre a form of literature with particular characteristics
 - gentile a non-Jew
 - Gilgamesh the Mesopotamian epic, whose hero, Gilgamesh, travels the world in search of immortality. Among the characters he encounters is Utnapishtim, whose tale of the flood has parallels with the biblical account of Noah.
 - glean to gather or collect, usually by hand, grain that is left behind by reapers
 - glossolalia the phenomenon of ecstatic speech, or “speaking in tongues” that characterized some early Christian worship (1 Cor 12.10,28,30); it occurs in some Pentecostal Christian worship in the present day. The report of the speeches on the Feast of Weeks (Pentecost) in Acts 2.4–11 maintains that the languages spoken were human languages that could be understood by those in attendance; the reports in the letters reflect not a known, spoken language but a transitory occurrence during worship when one or more worshipers would break into speech (perhaps regarded as the speech of heavenly beings) that neither they nor their hearers could understand.
 - Gnosticism (from Gk gnosis, “knowledge”) a philosophy that regards spirit and matter as opposites. According to Gnostic teaching, human beings are spirits trapped or imprisoned in matter; the material world is an illusion or the work of an inferior, even demonic, divine being; and the purpose of life is to learn how to free oneself from material things (including the body) and attain eternal life in the spiritual realm. This is accomplished by learning specialized or secret knowledge about the nature of reality; it is from this emphasis on knowledge that gnosticism gets its name.
 - Greek Bible a general term for the variety of ancient translations of the Hebrew Bible into Greek in antiquity, including the Septuagint and the translations of Aquila, Symmachus, and Theodotion
- H
- H see Holiness Collection
 - Hades the Greek name for the underworld, to which the disembodied souls of the dead went; it was similar to Sheol (see)
 - hallelujah a Hebrew acclamation, “Praise Yah!” It is frequent in the Psalms.
 - Hammurabi (or Hammurapi) king of Babylon in the eighteenth century BCE, responsible for the formulation of a legal collection (the Code [or Laws] of Hammurabi) that is one of the earliest collections of case law
 - Hanukkah see Hasmonean revolt

- haruspex a practitioner of divination who examines inner organs of chickens for guidance
- Hasmonean Revolt the uprising led by the family of Mattathias Heshmon against the Seleucid ruler Antiochus IV Epiphanes beginning in 166 BCE, particularly by Mattathias's son Judah (or Judas) Maccabeus ("the hammer"), which succeeded in liberating Jerusalem and the surrounding territory from Seleucid rule in 164. When the Temple, which had been desecrated by Antiochus, was retaken by the Jews it was re-dedicated, an event commemorated in the festival of Hanukkah ("dedication").
- Hasmonean the dynasty descended from the Maccabee brothers. It ruled Judea from 135 to 36 BCE; the last Hasmonean was overthrown by Herod the Great - Hebrew Bible a term used to refer to what Christians call the (Protestant) Old Testament. Though the two terms refer to the same body of writings, the order of books in the Hebrew Bible (that is, the Jewish Bible) differs from that found in the Old Testament.
- Hellenism the spread of Greek culture, politics, and language around the Mediterranean in the period after the conquests of Alexander the Great (d. 323 BCE)
- Hellenistic Greek-speaking or influenced by Greek culture after the time of Alexander
- Hellenize bring under the influence of Greek language and culture
- hepatoscopy the practice of divination by examining animal livers for guidance
- herem see ban
- hermeneutics (Gk "interpretation") the theory and practice of interpretation
- Herodian followers and members of the court of Herod the Great and his sons (late first century BCE to late first century CE)
- Hexapla the compendium of six Bible versions (in columns: 1. Hebrew, 2. Hebrew transliterated into Greek, 3. Greek [Aquila], 4. Greek [Symmachus], 5. Septuagint, 6. Greek [Theodotion]) compiled by the early Christian scholar Origen (d. 254). The original was lost, but quotations from and translations of it have survived.
- Hexateuch (Gr. "six scrolls") a scholarly grouping of the first six books in the Bible, Genesis through Joshua. See Pentateuch, Tetrateuch
- high places shrines, usually on a hill or a raised platform, where worship, especially sacrifices, took place
- higher criticism the effort to distinguish among the sources of biblical documents, and to trace them back to their origins; distinguished from "lower criticism" or textual criticism, which is concerned with establishing the most accurate text in its final form. See Documentary Hypothesis; synoptic problem.
- historical-critical method interpreting a text by trying to understand its original setting and audience, and what it would have meant when it was originally written or spoken. This method uses the tools of historical research to understand the conditions of the past, and critical tools to understand the traditions and developments that lie behind the surface of the text. It is also a general term that includes such methods as form criticism and redaction criticism.
- Holiness Code, Collection, School, Source the ritual and ethical laws in Lev 17–26, named from the repeated exhortation to the Israelites to be holy, or the purported authors or collectors of the material in those chapters. "Collection" is preferred in the annotations herein. "Code" implies a definitive, legal corpus, whereas "Collection" acknowledges the coherence of the chapters without implying a particular purpose in bringing the materials together. "Source" posits a particular document that is reproduced in the chapters, a document produced by a "School" that aimed at inculcating holiness among the people. The authors of this group of laws (sometimes called the Holiness School) were affiliated with the Priestly school and also wrote small sections dispersed throughout the first four books of the Bible; the entire work is often abbreviated H.
- holocaust a sacrifice entirely consumed by fire, a whole burnt offering
- holy war battles conducted under divine guidance in which the LORD fought for Israel in the role of divine warrior
- homily a sermon
- Horeb possibly another name for Sinai (see), primarily though not exclusively in Deuteronomy (e.g., Deut 1.2; Ex 3.1)
- hortatory characteristic of writing or speech that aims at changing the behavior of the hearers or inspiring them to a particular course of action
- hosanna a Hebrew word, meaning "Save!" that was used as a cry of acclamation
- house church a descriptive term (not used in the NT itself) for a worship gathering of early Christians in a home rather than a separate building such as a synagogue
- household rules the codes of behavior and hierarchy that governed domestic relations in the Roman world, particularly a patriarchal authority system, the subordination of women, children, and slaves, and the rights and responsibilities of various parties in a familial relationship; see Eph 6.1–9; Titus 2.1–10

Hyksos rulers in Egypt of Semitic origin in the mid-second millennium BCE hyperbole exaggeration for effect

hypostatization speaking of an abstract quality as if it were an object or a living being. See also personification.

hyssop a shrub related to mint. It was used as a medicine and, because of its leafy branches, for ritual sprinkling of water or blood.

I

idolatry the worship of anything other than what the worshiper defines as the true God

Idumea later name for Edom, a kingdom located south of Judah, between the Dead Sea and the Mediterranean

Ignatius, Letters of early Christian writings of instruction. The author, Ignatius, bishop of Antioch in the late first century CE, wrote them (seven are known to have survived) on his way to martyrdom in Rome. They are largely concerned with overcoming divisions in local churches, combating false teaching, and conducting one's life properly.

imprecation a curse or other prayer for harm to another; the opposite of blessing impurity a ritual state which prevented an individual from participating in religious rituals (see defilement) incarnation (Latin, "enfleshment") the belief that a divine being has become human in some form inclusio the use of the same word or phrase at the end of a passage as appeared at the beginning, thus rounding off or completing it. Also called inclusion, frame, and envelope structure.

incubation the practice of sleeping in a particular place, or in contact with particular things (animal skins, the ground) in order to induce dreams that might provide divine guidance inspiration the belief that the words uttered by a human being are really the words of a divine being. In the ancient world, prophets and oracles were thought to be inspired. In Christian tradition, the notion of inspiration was eventually applied to the whole Bible.

intercalation adding a day or month to a calendar to compensate for the inexact fit between the solar year and the daily or lunar cycle. In the Jewish calendar, an extra month (a repetition of Adar) is intercalated in seven years of the nineteen-year cycle.

interpolation an insertion of material into a previously existent text irony (adj., ironic) a characteristic of literature in which the reader or listener knows more than the characters about the situation in the story. By extension, an ironic aspect of a story, situation, or fact is one that from the outside looks very different than it does from the inside. Irony thus becomes a rhetorical technique in which the author's literal meaning differs from the author's intended meaning.

Ishtar Mesopotamian goddess of fertility and war

Isis Egyptian goddess, wife of Osiris, the god of vegetation and hence of regeneration

Israel the name for both the union of twelve tribal groups, of which David and Solomon were kings, and for the northern section of this kingdom, which split off after the death of Solomon and began a separate political existence under Jeroboam (1 Kings 12). See Northern Kingdom, Southern Kingdom.

J

J (from Jahvist, German for Yahwist) according to the Documentary Hypothesis, the document or source that uses the divine name (see YHWH). J is usually understood to be the earliest source, and to have been written in Judah. It frequently depicts God in very anthropomorphic terms.

Jerome (ca. 345–420) Christian theologian and translator. He translated the Bible into Latin, in the case of the Old Testament directly from the Hebrew. His version became known as the Vulgate ("common") because it was commonly used in Western Christianity. With the Protestant Reformation, its authority was questioned, but was reaffirmed by the Roman Catholic Church at the Council of Trent.

Johannine characteristic of, or having to do with, the NT literature associated with the Gospel of John and 1, 2, 3 John; sometimes (though not in more recent scholarship) also applied to the book of Revelation

Joseph and Aseneth (also spelled Asenath) a Jewish novel written in Greek in the first century BCE or the first century CE about Joseph's life in Egypt; his marriage to Asenath, the daughter of an Egyptian priest (see Gen 41.45); her conversion to faith in Joseph's God; and their triumph over a plot to kill them.

Josephus a Jewish historian who lived from ca. 37 CE to ca. 100 CE. Four of his works, all written in Greek, have survived: The Jewish War, an account of the rebellion against Rome in 66–70 CE, with background information starting at ca. 200 BCE; The Antiquities of the Jews, a complete history from the creation up to the point where The Jewish War begins; Against Apion, a defense of Judaism; and an autobiography, the Life.

jubilee (Heb yovel, perhaps "ram" from the sounding of the ram's horn to mark the beginning of the observance) the year of release for slaves and return of ancestral lands to their original owners (or descendants of the owners), to occur every fifty years (after seven sabbaths of years). It is a cornerstone of Priestly ideology, but it is uncertain if it was ever practiced.

Jubilees, book of a retelling, attributed to Moses, of much of Genesis and Exodus and representing itself as a hidden revelation from the Angel of the Presence. It was most likely written in the second century BCE in Judea. The book gets its name from its concern with cycles of time. Jubilees was apparently considered authoritative by the Qumran community.

Judah, Yehud, Judea, Judean when the kingdom of Israel was divided, after the death of Solomon (1 Kings 12.1–20), the southern portion (Southern Kingdom) took the name of its major tribe, Judah (Heb Yehudah). That proper noun became “Yehud” during the Persian period (536–333 BCE), “Ioudaia” during Greek rule (333–67), and “Judaea” or Judea under the Romans. The geographical territory had also been diminished, until by the time of the Romans it consisted of the area around Jerusalem, south of Samaria, west of Perea and the Dead Sea, and north of Idumea (though administratively “Judea and Samaria” could also be referred to as “Judea” simply). The inhabitants of the territory were Judeans (just as the inhabitants of the northern area west of the Sea of Galilee were Galileans). The terms “Judaism” and “Jew” are derived from this name.

jussive a verb form in the third person expressing a command justification translation of the underlying Gk term “making righteous,” expressing the restoration of one’s proper relationship to the moral realm or to God (see Rom 5.1–21)

K

kere see qere.

ketib (“what is written”; also ktiv) the biblical text in its written form, in contrast, in certain cases, to the way it is to be read aloud (qere)

Ketubim (also Kethubim, Ketuvim) The Writings, the third division of the Hebrew Bible kosher (Heb “fit” or “proper”) a general term used in postbiblical texts for dietary laws; usually applied to food, but also to other ritual objects and practices.

L

lament a poem of grief or mourning (see also qinah)

Last Supper the name for the meal that Jesus shared with his closest followers on the night before his crucifixion (Mt 26.20–29 and parallels)

Latter Prophets the canonical division of Nevi'im that includes the books of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the Twelve Minor Prophets law the usual English translation of Hebrew torah, which more generally means “teaching, instruction.” Torah is also the name for the first five books of the Hebrew Bible, Genesis through Deuteronomy.

laying on hands a gesture of healing, blessing, or setting something or someone apart for religious purposes lectionary a list of readings of scripture passages for sabbaths and holy days (in Judaism) or Sundays and holy days (in Christianity). Christian lectionaries also sometimes include readings for weekdays. Lectionaries are partly designed to read certain portions of the Bible—for instance, the Torah, in Jewish lectionaries, or the first three Gospels, in many Christian lectionaries—completely through, in order, over a lectionary cycle of a year or several years. In addition, in Christian lectionaries important seasons (for instance, Christmas or Easter) have their own specific readings outside the continuous readings. In the synagogue, the Torah reading is followed by what is called a Haftarah reading (haphtarah is Hebrew for “conclusion, completion”) from one of the prophets; in addition, the festival scrolls are read on five holy days.

legate an official representative legend a popular story, sometimes exaggerated or romanticized, about a holy or important person or place.

Levant (Lat “rising”) the east as the direction of the rising sun; more usually, the lands at the eastern end of the Mediterranean

Leviathan a monster of the sea in Canaanite mythology, who is defeated by Baal. It is sometimes identified with the crocodile (Job 41.1) and represents the forces of watery chaos which must be overcome at creation (Ps 74.1–17) and that will be finally defeated at the end of time (Isa 27.1). In the book of Revelation, the dragon, the enemy of God, is identified with the sea (17.1,3), and in the new creation there is no more sea (21.1).

levirate marriage (from Latin levir, “husband’s brother”) the provision that if a man died without an heir to carry on his name, his brother would marry the widow and the first son she bore would be regarded as the dead brother’s heir

Levites the priests of Israel were deemed to be descendants of Levi, therefore members of the tribe of Levi, or Levites (sometimes levites). There is little evidence for this tribe, but the religious authorities in early Israel claimed descent from Aaron (see), the first high priest. Perhaps during the reform of Josiah, however, the levites were demoted to Temple assistants, probably when their local shrines were suppressed, and the Jerusalem priesthood, claiming descent from Zadok (see Zadokites) gained greater power and wealth.

lex talionis (Latin “law [of retribution] in kind”) punishment fitting the crime; see talion lingua franca a common tongue or shared language that enables people with different native languages to converse, carry on commercial relationships, etc. In the Persian period Aramaic replaced Akkadian as a lingua franca around the Near East; during the Hellenistic period Greek did the same for the lands surrounding the eastern Mediterranean.

litany (Gk “entreaty”) a prayer form consisting of a series of petitions or supplications, often following each with a repeated congregational response littoral a region along the shore of a large body of water liturgical characteristic of an order for worship, either directions for action (rituals) or texts for speaking (rites)

liturgy the form or ritual for communal, public worship

Lord’s Supper a term (used in the NT only at 1 Cor 11.20) for the commemoration or re-enactment of Jesus’ last meal with his followers (see Last Supper)

lot(s) any method of choosing something by random chance, as by tossing a marked stone (similar to flipping a coin) or choosing an arrow or a stick from a group of similar objects. “Casting lots” was used to select candidates for a position (Acts 1.15–26), to determine who had transgressed a vow or law (1 Sam 14.41–42), or in other ways to determine the divine will, since it was assumed that an event that was random from the human perspective could be determined by divine direction.

lower criticism or textual criticism, as distinguished from higher criticism

LXX the roman numeral 70, the standard abbreviation for the Septuagint

M

Maat Egyptian goddess of reason and order; her name literally means “truth”

Major Prophets a convenient title for the three longest prophetic books, Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel (in Christian Bibles, also Daniel); in contrast to Minor Prophets (see) makarism (Gk “happy, blessed”) a statement of blessing or an attribution of happiness to one who follows the exhortation of the speaker; the Beatitudes (Mt 5.3–11) are makarisms, perhaps following the form of many Psalms such as Ps 1.1, “Happy are those who do not follow the advice of the wicked. . . .”

malediction curse; opposite of benediction, “blessing” manumission release from servitude

Marduk chief god of Babylon; according to Enuma Elish, he formed the cosmos from the corpse of Tiamat, goddess of the deep martyr (Gk “witness”) a person who demonstrates loyalty by remaining faithful to his or her religion even when being threatened with death or being killed martyrology (Gk “list of witnesses [to their faith]”) an account of the martyrdoms of various individuals, or an official list of those accounted as martyrs, that is, who were killed because of their religious beliefs

Masorah (Heb “tradition”) the system of markings (vowel signs, marginal notes, cantillation and accent marks, etc.) that were added to the consonantal Hebrew text by scribal scholars (Masoretes) in the early Middle Ages

Masorete a scholar of the scribal schools that in the early Middle Ages established the basic Hebrew text for the Bible, fixed its accepted pronunciation, and ensured its accurate copying and transmission by a system of markings (Masorah)

Masoretic Text the text of the Hebrew Bible, established by Jewish scholars (Masoretes). The text consists of the Hebrew consonants, vowel signs, accent markings, and other notes. Texts derived from this effort date from circa 900 to 1000 CE. The Masoretic Text is the only complete form of the Hebrew Bible that has survived, though individual manuscripts of books are among the Dead Sea Scrolls.

matrilineal tracing descent through female ancestors; see patrilineal matzah unleavened bread, associated with Passover, but also used with certain sacrifices.

Megillot Heb “scrolls,” in Jewish tradition the five festival scrolls, the books of Song of Solomon (read at Passover), Ruth (on Shavuot [Weeks/Pentecost]), Lamentations (on Tisha B’Ab, commemorating the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BCE and 70 CE), Ecclesiastes (on Sukkot [Tabernacles]), and Esther (on Purim)

merism a figure of speech in which opposing terms, e.g., “good and bad,” are combined to convey the idea of including both terms and everything in between Merneptah Stele an Egyptian inscribed stone that includes the first mention of Israel outside the Bible. It celebrates victories of Pharaoh Merneptah (ca. 1200 BCE) in Canaan.

Merodach a Hebrew version of Marduk, chief god of Babylon

Mesha Stele (also called the Moabite Stone) a monument dating from about 830 BCE with engraved text celebrating the reign of King Mesha of Moab (2 Kings 3.4–5). Besides an account of the dealings of Mesha with the descendants of Omri, king of the Northern Kingdom of Israel, the text mentions the god of Moab, Chemosh, and the favor that Chemosh has shown to Mesha in contrast to his predecessors in allowing Mesha to reclaim territory from Israel. It also contains a reference to the herem or ban.

Mesopotamia (Gk “between the rivers”) the area between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers messiah (Heb mashiah, “anointed [one]”) a title for a king or other servant or agent of God (priest, prophet, or even the non-Israelite Cyrus in Isa. 45.1). In the Hebrew Bible, mashiah never refers to the future ideal king. Later the term came to be used of the expected savior of the Jewish people, and was taken over by Christians to refer to Jesus, whom they believed to be the messiah (Gk christos, “anointed”). See also Christ.

messianic having to do with the messiah or with the era that the messiah was inaugurating

Messianic Secret conventional term for Jesus’ commands, primarily in Mark (1.44; 3.12; 8.30 and elsewhere), not to proclaim his status or deeds publicly metaphor a direct comparison between two things

metonymy a figure of speech in which a word is used in place of another word to which it is closely related: “The coastlands have seen and are afraid” (Isa 41.5) means “the inhabitants of the coasts, foreigners.”

mezuzah (Heb “doorpost”) a parchment on which are written the paragraphs of the Shema

midrash, midrashic (Heb derash “inquire”) interpretation that finds meanings in a text that are other than, or go beyond, the “plain sense” (see peshat)

Milcom the principal god of the Ammonites; also called Molech

Minor Prophets the twelve shorter prophetic books from Hosea to Malachi, seen as a collection; also known as the Book of the Twelve

Mishnah (Heb “oral instruction,” from shannah “repeat”) the compilation of oral law and rabbinic commentary, edited ca. 200 CE, that is the basis of the Talmud

Moab, Moabites the territory and its inhabitants east of the Dead Sea

Moabite Stone see Mesha Stele

Molech a Canaanite god whose worship according to the biblical writers included child sacrifice

Mosaic having to do with Moses or with the teaching that Moses is purported to have proclaimed in the Torah (Pentateuch)

Mot the Canaanite god of death motif an image or character type that recurs throughout a literary work mystery in the New Testament, a divine truth that is kept hidden or secret by God until the right moment for it to be revealed mystery religion any one of various religious groups in the Greek and Roman empires which practiced secret rites of initiation. Mystery religions taught that the real meaning of life could not be learned without divine guidance and that such guidance was available in their secret teachings and practices. These secret rites were themselves known as “mysteries,” and had the sense of a revelation from the divine realm that is similar to some of the New Testament uses of “mystery.”

mysticism the effort to be in direct contact with a divine realm, as opposed to the view that the divine must always be mediated—by subordinate beings such as angels or by a human being, a sacred text, or some other bridge narrative a connected, orderly account of an incident, or a longer account including many incidents. Narratives can be historical, fictional, legendary, mythical, or a combination of types.

N

Nebi'im see Nevi'im

necromancy (Gk “divination [by means of] the dead”) the effort to determine the unknown or the future by consulting those who are dead, as in Saul’s questioning of the dead Samuel through the medium of Endor (1 Sam 28.3–25). If teraphim (see) are images of ancestors, then divination by their means would be a form of necromancy.

Negeb, Negev the region south of the central hill country of Israel

Nevi'im (also Nebi'im) the Prophets, the second division of the Hebrew Bible, subdivided into the Former Prophets and the Latter Prophets

new moon the beginning of any month in the Jewish calendar

Northern Kingdom the political assembly of tribal groups that split off from the kingdom of Israel after Solomon’s death. This newly formed kingdom was itself called Israel, and in some texts also Ephraim, after its largest tribe.

novel a fictional work in prose. Ancient novels were often romances.

O

obelisk a four-sided stone shaft, usually tapered and topped with a pyramid, characteristic of ancient Egypt

Old Latin the Latin translation of the Bible based on the Greek text, the Septuagint. The Old Latin version was replaced by the Vulgate, the Latin translation by Jerome.

oracle (usually translates Heb masa', literally “burden”) a statement uttered by a prophet or other sacred person, purporting to be the words of a deity

oracular having the qualities of an oracle or sacred speech

Oral Torah a synonym for the Mishnah and Talmud. According to traditional rabbinic belief, the Oral Law was given to Moses on Mount Sinai along with the written law, the Torah. It was committed to writing by the rabbis in the first millennium CE.

ordination a formal ceremony and process by which certain members of the community are set apart for religious service, for instance as priests oxymoron (Gk “clever-foolish”) combining two terms that appear contradictory.

P

P according to the Documentary Hypothesis, the Priestly source in the Pentateuch, comprised of both narratives and laws. It is concerned, among other things, with laws and regulations, ritual practices, the proper conduct of the Temple worship, holiness and purity, and genealogies.

Palestine a name first used by the fifth-century BCE historian Herodotus and adopted by the Romans in the designation Provincia Syria Palaestina (“Syro-Pal-estinian Province”), which replaced Provincia Judaea (“Judean Province”) after 135 CE. The word is derived from the term translated “Philistine,” and the Latin spelling of “Philistine,” and the Roman designation was probably intended as a derogation of Jewish claims to the territory.

pantheon (Gk “all gods”) the complete community of divine beings worshiped or honored in a particular culture papyrus (pl. papyri) the paper made from reeds that grow along the Nile and other rivers in the Near East; the reeds were split, soaked, laid side-by-side in one layer with another layer, also side-by-side, at right angles, and then pounded together until the matted fibers had meshed into a flat, somewhat flexible sheet. Papyri were one of the writing surfaces (others being clay and animal skins) in use in antiquity. Early Gk manuscripts of the NT are on papyri, and many significant texts—such as P46, an important textual source of Paul’s letters that also includes the Letter to the Hebrews—are in this form.

parable a statement or story that uses figurative or imaginative language to evoke a reality that lies beyond the literal level of the story or statement. A parable makes its point by analogy, or the comparison of a known fact, situation, or experience with one that is less familiar.

parallelism a characteristic feature of biblical Hebrew poetry in which the second line of a unit in some way echoes the meaning or grammatical structure of the first line. This can take the form of a repetition of the meaning, or of a statement of opposites, or of a further statement that serves to extend or modify the first line in some way.

parenesis moral exhortation parousia (Gk “coming”) the second coming of Christ; the expected return of the messiah at the end of the age or the end of the world

Paschal pertaining to the Passover (ultimately from Gk pascha, derived from Heb pesah)

Passover (Heb pesah) the festival that commemorates the Exodus of the Israelites from Egypt

Pastoral Epistles or Pastoral Letters a term used for three letters attributed to Paul, 1 and 2 Timothy and Titus patriarchs the ancestors of Israel: Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob patriarchy the social and cultural arrangements and conventions in which the father of a family, older males, or males generally, exercise authority over females, children, slaves, and those younger; characteristic of Israelite and Roman social practice patrilineal tracing one’s descent through male ancestors; see also matrilineal patristic writers theologians of the early Christian centuries, including Clement, Irenaeus, Origen, and Jerome

patronym, patronymic (Gk “father’s name”) the designation of a person or group by the name of their father or ancestor

Pauline characteristic of the thought or writings of Paul; those letters generally accepted to be by Paul: Romans, 1 and 2 Corinthians, Galatians, Philippians, 1 and 2 Thessalonians, and Philemon penitential psalms Psalms 6, 32, 38, 51, 102, 130, and 143, used in Christian services of repentance from the earliest times

Pentapolis the five cities of the Philistines: Ashdod, Ashkelon, Ekron, Gath, Gaza

Pentateuch (Gk “five scrolls”) the first five books of the Bible, Genesis through Deuteronomy; the Torah

Pentecost see weeks, festival of periphrasis, periphrastic the use of more words than necessary to express a thought

Persian period the era from 539 to 333 BCE, from Cyrus until Alexander personification representing an idea, a value, or other abstract thought as a person.

Pesah see passover

peshat (Heb “simple”) the “plain sense” or “contextual sense” of a text, often contrasted with derash, the homiletical meaning

peshet (pl. pesharim; “interpretation”) a type of commentary on the Bible in the Dead Sea Scrolls in which the biblical text is understood to be fulfilled in the interpreter’s time

Peshitta (Syriac, “simple”) the name of the Syriac translation of the Bible (called “simple” because it was a plain translation from Hebrew, not a translation with textual apparatus like the Syrohexapla). The Peshitta contains books of the Bible translated by Jews for Jewish worshipers who spoke Syriac, but it was taken over and completed (including a New Testament) by Syriac-speaking Christians.

Pharisees a Jewish sect in the first century CE, according to Josephus and the New Testament. The Pharisees were concerned to extend Jewish practice into all areas of life, and followed the tradition of interpretation (Oral Torah) associated with the schools of Hillel and Shammai. They were opponents of the more conservative Sadducees, who did not accept their traditions of oral law.

Philistines a group of the Sea Peoples, who invaded and settled in on the southeastern coast of the Mediterranean in the late second millennium BCE, having been repulsed in an invasion of Egypt (ca. 1190 BCE). The five major Philistine cities (the Pentapolis) were Ashkelon, Ashdod, Ekron, Gath, and Gaza.

Philo a Hellenistic Jewish philosopher and interpreter of scripture, who lived in Alexandria, Egypt, from about 20 BCE to 50 CE. He wrote works in philosophy, scriptural interpretation, and history. In Philo’s view, the best insights of Greek philosophy could be found in the Bible by means of allegorical interpretation. He influenced Jewish writers like the author of the Wisdom of Solomon and Christian theologians such as Clement, Origen, and Ambrose.

Phoenicia(n) (Gk “red-purple”) the territory occupied by a Semitic group along the eastern Mediterranean coast, in an area roughly where modern Lebanon now is. The Phoenicians were seagoing and engaged in trade across a wide area; their main cities in biblical times, Tyre and Sidon, are prominent on the coast. They manufactured cloth dyed purple using a mollusk that grew along the shore (these “Tyrian purple” robes were worn by kings). The Phoenicians were also responsible for the spread westward across the Mediterranean of a form of alphabetical writing, from which all later alphabets, including Hebrew and Greek, were derived.

phylacteries (Gk phylakterion, “amulet,” from phulax, “guard”) small black leather boxes containing biblical passages (Ex 13.1–10, 13.11–16; Deut 6.4–9, 11.13–21), worn during prayer on the head and on the left arm. Also called “tefillin.”

Platonism a philosophy derived from the teaching of Plato, saying that there is a profound difference, even an opposition, between the realm of matter and the realm of spirit, and that the world of sense experience is essentially an illusion, deriving what reality it has from a correspondence with a true, ultimately real world of Forms pogrom an officially encouraged, organized massacre of a minority group polemic, polemical (Gk polemos, “war”) an argument or debate in the form of an attack on one’s opponent or on the opposing position. Polemical speech is characterized by verbal attacks, exaggerated language, and sometimes violent imagery

Polycarp, Letter of an early second-century CE Christian letter of instruction, written by Polycarp, bishop of Smyrna, and addressed to the church of Philippi potsherd a broken piece of pottery. Examination of such pieces allows archaeologists to date the different levels of a site according to the type of pottery represented at a given level.

prescript (epistolary) see epistolary prescript priest, high priest in the Hebrew Bible, the priest (Heb kohen) was the official set apart to preside at the worship in the Temple, particularly to offer sacrifices of various kinds. In the NT the term “priest” (primarily hiereus) is applied only to the Jewish priesthood of the Temple (archieus, “high priest,” “chief priest,” e.g. Mt 2.4); a pagan priest (Acts 14.13); Melchizedek (e.g., Heb 7.1); Jesus Christ (Heb 10.21); or the whole of the Christian people (“priesthood,” 1 Pet 2.5; “priests,” Rev 1.6). The Gk term presbyteros, from which the English word “priest” is derived, means “elder” and is so translated in the NRSV (e.g., Jas 5.14; 2 John 1.1).

primogeniture the social tradition by which the eldest son inherits a father’s title or the bulk of the father’s property

proem a short introduction or preface to a literary text

Promised Land a conventional term for the Land of Israel, as it was promised to Abraham and to the descendants of Abraham (“this land that I have promised,” Ex 32.13)

prophecy, prophesy the name for a prophetic utterance is “prophecy” (pronounced prah-feh-see, rhyming with “fee”); the activity of a prophet is to “prophesy” (pronounced prah-feh-sye, rhyming with “high”) prophet (Gk prophetes, “speak out” or “speak forth”) the Septuagint translation of nabi (“one who is called”), the standard Heb term for prophet. Synonyms include “seer,” “man of God,” and “visionary.”

prophetic lawsuit (Heb rib) a literary form in the prophets and elsewhere in which the people are accused of breaking their covenant with God

Prophets, The, Heb Nevi'im, the second division of the Hebrew Bible

proselyte (Gk “come toward”) one who has adopted a religion or belief system, often after leaving a previous religion; a convert protreptic (Gk “turn toward, turn forward to”) speech promoting a particular view; exhortation, persuasion pseudepigrapha (Gk “writings with false attributions of authorship”) a diverse group of Jewish or Christian religious writings attributed to notable biblical persons that are not included in the books of the Hebrew Bible, the New Testament, or the Apocrypha. These writings date from about 250 BCE to 200 CE, and some of them are quoted from or alluded to in the Bible.

pseudonymous written or published under a false name. Pseudonymous writing in antiquity is often attributed to someone much better known than the actual writer, in order to give the text the benefit of the presumed authority of the famous person.

Ptolemies the rulers of Egypt and its surrounding areas after the breakup of the Greek empire of Alexander the Great, following his death in 323

Purim the festival that commemorates the delivery of the Jews in Persia from destruction, as recounted in the book of Esther

Q

Q see synoptic problem

qeri (“what is read”) in the Masoretic text, a word as it should be pronounced, in contrast to what is written (ketib) in the main text qinah meter a metrical pattern consisting of a line with three stresses followed by a line with two stresses; it is primarily used in psalms of lament or complaint, and in the book of Lamentations.

Qumran community the settlement near Wadi Qumran at the Dead Sea, most likely composed of Essenes. The Qumran group was a sectarian Jewish community that kept its own practices in opposition to the established community in Jerusalem and Judea;

the library of this group was discovered beginning in 1947 and is known as the Dead Sea Scrolls.

R

rabbi (Aram. “teacher”) a Jewish religious leader who studies the Torah and its associated commentaries, particularly the Talmud, and offers his own teaching based on that study rapture the doctrine, based on an interpretation of 1 Thess 4.13–18, that when Jesus Christ returns in the parousia (see) those Christians who have not yet died will be “caught up” along with Christ and those who, having died, are raised from the dead. In its context, the passage is intended not as a literal description of events at the return of Christ, but as a reassurance that both those still living and those already dead would be reunited with Christ.

reader-response criticism analyzing a text by looking at the relationship between the text and its reader, including the clues within the text that guide the reader in drawing meaning from it redaction criticism the study of how already existing textual units—narratives of incidents, laws, proverbs, or other isolatable pieces that can be disentangled by source criticism—were combined into larger texts by the activities of editors, called “redactors” redactor an editor who works with already existing units to combine them into larger wholes resident alien a foreigner with legal rights living in Israel or an Israelite residing in the territory of another tribe revelation (Latin “remove the veil,” translating Greek apokalypsis) belief or insight granted to a human being by a deity or heavenly being rhetoric (Gk rhetor, “speaker, orator”) the art or study of persuasive speech or writing

Rift Valley a major cleft or depression that extends from southeastern Turkey to East Africa, and at the point of the Dead Sea is the lowest place on the land mass of Earth

Ritual Decalogue a term for the commandments in Ex 34.10–28, in some cases paralleling those of the Decalogue (Ex 20.1–17) but mostly dealing with matters of worship or other religious observance, such as the offering of firstborn livestock or the observance of festivals

Roman Period the period of Roman rule in Judea, beginning in 63 BCE romance a popular storytelling technique in the ancient Mediterranean world that recounted the situation of young lovers and how they overcome obstacles to their marriage. In early Christianity the form was modified to tell the stories of early converts and martyrs and the obstacles to their faith.

Rule of the Community one of the Dead Sea scrolls (1QS) that sets out the arrangements under which the community functioned and those that they held up as an ideal: holding property in common; eating, blessing, and advising one another in unity; preparing for the end time; and training new members of the community in their responsibilities.

S

sackcloth rough cloth, often made from animal hair. A garment made of sackcloth is uncomfortable and is worn to indicate penitence or grief.

Sadducees a Jewish sect in the first century CE, according to Josephus and the New Testament. They held to a strict application of Torah and to maintaining Temple worship according to its mandate. They were opposed to the Pharisees in not accepting the traditions of oral law, and they were also opposed to the political activists who wished to rebel against Roman rule, fearing that any rebellion would bring an end to the limited autonomy under which they could maintain Temple worship.

saga popular narrative account of prehistory or events of the distant past. Sagas often involve stories of the ancestors of a group or the founders of a country.

saint(s) (Lat “holy one[s]”) in the NT, the term for all Christians (2 Cor 1.1), or for what all Christians are “called” to be (Rom 1.7, 1 Cor 1.2)

Samaritan Pentateuch a Hebrew text of the first five books of the Bible used by the Samaritans. This text differs from the Masoretic Text at many points. Some of these disagreements reflect Samaritan beliefs, but others are supported by the Dead Sea Scrolls and reflect an alternate textual tradition.

Samaritans the descendants of the population of Samaria (the capital of the Northern Kingdom of Israel) after the Assyrian invasion of that kingdom and the deportation of its inhabitants in 722 BCE. The Samaritans regard themselves as descended from the Jewish remnant after the deportation, but the returning exiles from the Southern Kingdom of Judah (after the Babylonian exile in the early sixth century) did not regard them as Jews, seeing them rather as descendants of foreigners who had been settled there after the Jewish population had been removed. Therefore, beginning with Ezra and Nehemiah, the leadership forbade intermarriage between Samaritans and Jews. The Samaritans maintained worship (with a temple on Mount Gerizim) and the Pentateuch (but not the rest of the Bible), although their calendar is not the same as the Jewish calendar.

Sanhedrin (ultimately from Gk synedria from syn- and hedra, “with seat,” i.e., “council”) the religious court, whose membership was drawn from the Jewish ruling classes, that held ruling authority over the territory of Palestine under the Roman empire. The Sanhedrin was responsible for census-taking and taxation as well as for acting as a court that would decide cases on its own and also, after preliminary determination, send cases on to the Roman governors. “Sanhedrin” is also the title of a tractate of the Mishnah dealing with law courts in general.

Satan (Heb “adversary, accuser”) the Satan (a title, not a name) in Job 1.6–12, 2.1–7 is a member of the divine council who serves as a prosecutor or tester of God’s faithful (see also Zech 3.1). In the Gospels Satan serves as the chief tempter and head of the demonic realm (Mt 4.1–11; 12.26); in the book of Revelation Satan is identified with the serpent, the dragon, and the devil (12.9; 20.2).

school of prophets term for the followers of a prophet, who preserved the prophet’s words and, it is presumed, applied them to new situations as they arose scribe in general, one who could write, especially official documents, and take down dictation for letters, legal proceedings, etc. In the New Testament, a scribe was a lawyer, one who was expert in the requirements and meaning of Jewish law, especially the Torah.

scroll a long strip of parchment (treated leather) or papyrus (reeds split, moistened, and pressed together), on which a text was written in columns. The scroll was read by unrolling one side while rolling up the other, to expose successive columns of text. Besides the literal meaning, scrolls stand for the message or teaching of God that a prophet has internalized and will then deliver to the intended hearers. Jeremiah (15.16) eats the words of God, and following him Ezekiel (3.3) eats a scroll. The message of God in the book of Revelation (5.1ff.) is expressed in stages as the seals on a scroll are broken open.

Sea Peoples remnants of the Mycenaean or Aegean civilizations, which collapsed toward the end of the second millennium BCE. Some of these people sailed eastward on the Mediterranean and attacked those living along the coast; they were repulsed from Egypt and settled in southwest Canaan. The biblical Philistines are among the Sea Peoples.

Second Coming the return of a glorified Christ to Earth in judgment and redemption. See parousia.

Second Isaiah, also Deutero-Isaiah, the general term for chs 40–55 of the book of Isaiah. These chs are primarily concerned with the events leading up to the decree of the Persian king Cyrus in 538 BCE permitting the exiles to return to Judah from Babylon and rebuild Jerusalem and the Temple. See also Third Isaiah.

Second Temple the Temple constructed beginning ca. 515 BCE by the returning exiles, and continued and expanded over the course of time, until its destruction by the Romans in 70 CE

sect a religious grouping that emphasizes strict adherence to particular teachings and excludes those who do not conform seder (Heb “order”) the ritual meal and recitation of Passover. Also, the major divisions of the Mishnah (pl. sedarim).

Seleucids the rulers of Syria and its surrounding areas after the breakup of the Greek empire of Alexander the Great, following his death, The Seleucid ruler Antiochus IV “Epiphanes” desecrated the Temple in 167 BCE, leading to the Maccabean revolt and the rededication of the Temple in 164 BCE, an event commemorated in the festival of Hanukkah.

Septuagint the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Scriptures. The Septuagint was translated over a lengthy period beginning probably in the third century BCE. Traditionally there were 72 translators, a number that was rounded off to 70 and, in Roman numerals, used as the abbreviation for this translation (LXX). The Septuagint was prepared for the use of Jews who lived in the Diaspora whose main language was Greek. It is important for several reasons: it translated a version of the Hebrew text that is older than the Masoretic text; it contains additional works, grouped in NRSV as the Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical Books, most of which were originally written in Greek; and it was the Old Testament of early Christians.

Shavuot see festival of weeks

Shema the first word, used as a title, of the exhortation “Hear, O Israel, the LORD is our God, the LORD alone” (Deut. 6.4), also the name of perhaps the most important and best-known prayer in Judaism, comprised of Deut. 6.4–9; 11.13–21; and Num. 15.37–41.

Sheol the underworld or abode of the dead

Shephelah the foothills leading to the central hill country of the land of Israel

shofar, also shophar the ram’s horn for ceremonial use. In ancient Israel it was sounded to announce the anointing of a king or as a summons to war or to sound an alarm; today, in the synagogue, it is sounded on the High Holy Days.

signet ring a ring bearing a personal seal, used to make an indentation in clay as a sign of authenticity of authorship simile a comparison, using “like” or “as” rather than, as in metaphor, linking two things directly

Sinai properly, the name of a peninsula bounded on the north by the Mediterranean Sea, on the east by the Gulf of Aqaba, and on the west by the Gulf of Suez. Traditionally the mountain of Sinai, purportedly the location where Moses received the Decalogue, is on this peninsula, but no mountain has been definitively identified as the biblical Sinai. See also Horeb.

Sitz im Leben (German, “setting in life”) in form criticism, the original context in which a specific genre or form was used sorites a philosophical argument in the form of linked propositions. The second part of each proposition forms the first part of the next, and the series therefore becomes an extended chain of reasoning source criticism the effort to discover the sources or documents behind a text and to explore how the sources were combined into larger units. See Documentary Hypothesis.

Southern Kingdom see Judah, Yehud, etc.

step parallelism a form of poetic parallelism (see) in which successive lines do not repeat or reverse the structure of the preceding line, but build on it like a set of steps: “O send out your light and your truth; / let them lead me; / let them bring me to your holy hill/and to your dwelling. / Then I will go to the altar of God, / to God my exceeding joy; / and I will praise you with the harp, / O God, my God.” (Ps 43.3–4)

Stoics Greek philosophers in the Hellenistic and Roman periods, who taught that emotions should be strictly controlled by reason

Sukkot see booths, festival of Sumer a civilization that ruled southern Mesopotamia from the late fourth millennium to the early second millennium BCE. The Sumerians developed cuneiform writing, which involved using a wedge-shaped reed to press marks into wet clay; the clay was then baked.

superscription a heading or descriptive title before the actual beginning of a text; many of the Psalms have a superscription giving a purported setting for the Psalm (e.g. Ps 3) or instructions on how it is to be performed (Ps 4).

suzerain the lord or ruler to whom loyalty is due in a covenant relationship

Symmachus a second-century CE translator of the Bible into Greek, whose translation was included in Origen’s Hexapla (a compendium of six Bible versions) synagogue (Gk “coming together with”) an assembly; a congregation. For Jews who were too distant from the Temple to worship at it, and for all Jews after the final destruction of the Temple by the Romans in 70 CE, the synagogue became the only form of worship. Services consisted of prayer, song, and study of the sacred text.

syncretism the incorporation into one religion of practices and teachings derived from another, or the effort to combine two different religious traditions into a third, composite religion synecdoche (Gk “understand with”) a figure of speech using a part of something to stand for the whole: in “Do not keep needy eyes waiting” (Sir 4.1) “needy eyes” stands for the whole needy person synonymous parallelism a type of parallelism where the second line or colon of a bicolon echoes the meaning of the first in different terms.

Synoptic Gospels Matthew, Mark, and Luke. “Synoptic” means “view together,” and is applied to these writings because they, unlike John, can be readily compared.

synoptic problem the observation that in many passages Matthew and Luke repeat with only minor changes what Mark says, yet in other passages they do not follow Mark, or include stories or sayings that Mark does not have, yet match each other very closely. According to the most widely held theory, Matthew and Luke relied on Mark and on another document (now lost) that contained mostly sayings of Jesus; this second document is referred to as “Q” (from the German word “Quelle,” meaning “source”). In addition, Matthew and Luke each had their own sources.

Syriac an eastern form of Aramaic that was the language of some Jews and of some eastern Christian communities in the early centuries of the Common Era. It is the language of the Peshitta.

Syrohexaspla (or Syriac hexapla) a Syriac translation of the Septuagint text that provides textual evidence about the nature of the Septuagint. Although the Hexapla was translated in the seventh century CE, it is based upon a Septuagint text dating from as early as the third century CE.

T

tabernacle the portable sanctuary used by the Israelites during their wanderings in the wilderness tabernacles, feast of see booths, festival of tablet a slab, typically of clay, with a smoothed surface that can be inscribed with a text talion (Latin talio, “in kind” from talis, “like,” “such like”) a punishment that is of the same kind as the crime: exacting an equivalent penalty, such as an equal economic loss for theft, or death for murder, or “an eye for an eye.” Talion is well attested in Mesopotamian law, and in some biblical legal collections.

Talmud (Heb “teaching”) the title of the two great collections of rabbinic teaching, the Jerusalem Talmud (also called the Palestinian Talmud or the Talmud of the Land of Israel) and the Babylonian Talmud. The Talmuds were compiled beginning after 200 CE. They consist of comments on, and extensions of, the Mishnah in order to apply Jewish teaching to everyday life, but they also include information on a wide range of topics. The two centers of rabbinic study (the land of Israel and Babylonia) were in contact with each other and the commentary therefore reflected a common effort; later, especially with the completion of the Talmud in Israel (ca. 400 CE), the Babylonian effort continued to refine and extend the applications, and it was the Talmud developed in Babylonia (completion after 500 CE) that was distributed worldwide, under the auspices of the academies that continued to work in Babylon until the beginning of the second millennium CE.

Tanakh an acronym formed from the beginning letters of the three divisions of the Hebrew Bible: Torah, Nevi'im, Ketubim Targum translation of the Hebrew Bible into Aramaic.

The Targums are important for textual criticism of the Hebrew text, since they provide evidence about it at a stage earlier than that of the Masoretic text.

tel (Heb), tell (Arabic) a mound formed by repeated construction, occupation, and destruction of buildings on a particular site

Temple the central place of worship for Israelite religion in Jerusalem, referring either to the First Temple or the Second Temple

teraphim a term (generally translated “household gods”) for certain cultic objects in early Israel; their nature and function is unclear, and their size seems to be varied (in Gen 31.34 Rachel can conceal Laban's household gods by sitting on them; in 1 Sam 19.13, the “idol” is large enough to look like someone is in a bed). They may have been images of one's ancestors. One use to which they were put may have been divination (Ezek 21.21), but how this was done is not explained.

testament (Lat “testamentum,” for Gk diatheke) a final disposition of one's personal property, but used in LXX to translate Heb berith, “covenant,” and therefore applied to the “new covenant” or “new testament” as inaugurated by Jesus (recalling Jeremiah's promise of a “new covenant” in 31.31–34); testament therefore came to mean the collection of writings (the Hebrew Scriptures or the Christian Scriptures) that presented the covenant of God with the people of God

Tetragrammaton (Gk “four letters”) the divine name, YHWH

Tetrateuch the first four books of the Bible, Genesis through Numbers, regarded by some scholars as an edited collection to which Deuteronomy was then attached. See Pentateuch textual criticism the effort to establish, by scholarly assessment of manuscript copies and other sources, an accurate version of a text; also called “lower criticism”

theodicy the theological effort to justify the goodness of God in the face of suffering

Theodotion (ca. second century CE) a translator of the Hebrew Bible into Greek and reviser of the Septuagint

theophany (Gk “appearance of god”) the temporary appearance or manifestation of a divine being in a form that can be apprehended by the human senses

Third Isaiah, also Trito-Isaiah, the scholarly term for chs 56–66 of the book of Isaiah, which are primarily concerned with the life of the returned exiles in the province of Yehud (the Persian name for Judah) after 538 BCE. Some scholars doubt the separate existence of Third Isaiah; others maintain that it is not the product of one author, but a collection of diverse oracles by different members of a “school of Isaiah” collected during the Persian period. See also Second Isaiah.

Thomas, Gospel of an early collection of sayings attributed to Jesus. It contains no miracle stories and no account of Jesus’ deeds, his birth, his death, or the resurrection. Some of the sayings resemble those in the canonical Gospels, but others reflect Gnosticism.

thresh to beat gathered stalks of grain in order to separate the grain from the stems and husks. A threshing floor, a flat area used for threshing grain, was often built on a hilltop to catch the breeze necessary for winnowing.

threshing floor see thresh

Tiamat goddess of the deep and mother of the Babylonian pantheon; she is sometimes portrayed as a dragon.

tithe the conventional religious due (traditionally 10 percent) of certain material goods, such as herbs (Deut 14.22; Mt 23.23); other produce, like fruit or livestock, required the donation of “first fruits” or the young that opened the womb (the firstborn kid or calf) to God (Ex 13.12)

Torah (Heb “teaching, instruction”) the first division of the Hebrew Bible, consisting of Genesis through Deuteronomy. The word (and hence the title) is sometimes translated “law,” but this translation is misleading since the five books contain much more than law codes and regulations.

tradition criticism the investigation of the development of a text from its earliest stages (oral or original source documents) to the latest (canonical) stage

Transfiguration, the conventional title for narrative (Mk 9.2–8; Mt 17.1–8; Lk 9.28–36) in which Jesus, accompanied by Peter, James, and John, ascends a mountain and appears to the disciples in dazzling white, like a vindicated martyr, in the company of Moses and Elijah (founder and renewer of Israel)

Transjordan (“across Jordan”) the region east of the Jordan River transmission history an account, usually inferred, of how a text came down to the present from its originator. Steps in transmission history can include oral transmission, redaction, manuscript copying, and scribal emendation.

Trito-Isaiah see Third Isaiah

trope (Gk “turn [away]”) use of a word or phrase in a sense differing from its usual or literal meaning, as in a figure of speech; “a stitch in time” is not about sewing, but about the advantages of timely or early action

Twelve, Book of the the Minor Prophets

Twelve, the conventional designation for Jesus’ closest followers (Mk 3.14–16 and parallels; Mk 10.32) typology (Gk typos, the raised design on a seal for imprinting in wax, then by extension a pattern or model) understanding persons or events, especially in the New Testament, by referring them to earlier biblical precursors

U

Ugarit city on the Mediterranean coast (Ras-Shamra in present-day Syria), source of an important collection of Canaanite myths and other texts from the second half of the second millennium BCE in a language called Ugaritic, which was related to Hebrew

Ugaritic an ancient Semitic language closely related to Hebrew, which was used at the city of Ugarit on the coast of the Mediterranean in Syria in the second millennium BCE. Many Ugaritic texts have connections in style and content with the Bible.

unleavened bread (Heb matzah, pl. matzot) bread made without yeast; also the festival of unleavened bread associated with passover.

Urim and Thummim a method of divination used to discover God’s response to “yes” or “no” questions

V

vassal the underlord in a covenant relationship, who is granted power and control over people in a particular area in return for loyalty to the suzerain

Vassal Treaty of Esarhaddon an Assyrian treaty document from the reign of the Assyrian king Esarhaddon (681–669 BCE), with parallels to parts of Deuteronomy

Vulgate see Jerome

W

wadi (Arabic) a stream bed or valley that is dry for part of the year; an arroyo or gulch weeks, festival of (Heb Shavuot; “Pentecost,” Gk for “fiftieth” [day]) the spring harvest, occurring according to Priestly texts fifty days (seven full weeks) after Passover winnow to separate grain from its husks (called chaff) after it has been threshed. The threshed grain is placed in a wide, flat basket and tossed repeatedly into the air, allowing a breeze to blow away the lighter chaff while the grain drops back down into the basket.

wisdom literature Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes in the Hebrew Bible, Sirach and Wisdom in the Apocrypha, and some Psalms. Wisdom literature is concerned with insight, instruction, meditation of the meaning of life, and moral exhortation. It does not generally concern itself with key events in Israel’s history, such as the Exodus; central teachings, such as the covenant; or focal institutions, such as the Davidic monarchy, prophecy, or the Temple.

Writings the third division of the Hebrew Bible

Y

Yahweh see YHWH

Yahwistic characteristic of the religion of the worship of YHWH or of the teachings, Temple practices, etc., in the Pentateuch

Yehud designation of the province of Judah during Persian times; see Judah

YHWH (sometimes also YHVH) the name of God, which in Jewish tradition is conventionally unpronounced; modern scholars use the conventional pronunciation “Yahweh.” The name is represented in the Masoretic text by the Hebrew letters yod-he-vav-he and the vowels for the title Adonai, “my Lord.” In most English translations, following an ancient substitution, YHWH is represented by the word Lord written in capital and small capital letters. The original vocalization and meaning of the name YHWH is uncertain, though it is connected to the verb h-y-h, “be” or “become,” most likely in a causative sense, “he who causes to be.”

Yom Kippur see Day of Atonement

Z

Zadokites priests purportedly descended from Zadok, one of David’s chief priests and the only chief priest under Solomon, who anointed Solomon king (1 Kings 1). Zadok was descended from Aaron (1 Chr 6). Ezekiel’s vision of the restored Temple explicitly maintains that Zadokites will be the priests, differentiated from Levites (Ezek 48.11). The Qumran community wanted to restore the Zadokite priesthood; Zadok may also be the source of the name Sadducees, those who supported the religio-political elite centered on the Jerusalem Temple under the Roman occupation. See also Aaron.

Zealot a member of a Jewish revolutionary movement during the Roman occupation of Palestine in the first century CE ziggurat a temple-tower in ancient Mesopotamia. Ziggurats are presumed to represent a mount, on the top of which the earthly and divine realms merged.

Zion the name of the fortified hill within Jerusalem and thus, by extension, an alternative name for Jerusalem itself, especially in biblical poetry

Zion theology a name for the view that God’s ultimate plan for Israel is restoration of the monarchy under a Davidic king who rules from Jerusalem

INDEX TO THE STUDY MATERIALS

The index is to the introductions, annotations, and essays, not to the biblical text. It therefore refers not to biblical citations but to page numbers.

A

- Aaron, 88, 106, 192; see also priesthood
anointing of, 126
appointment of, 90–91 blessings from, 158
death of, 222
descendants of, 146, 153
genealogy of, 91
God and, 217
golden calf and, 131
in holy of holies, 169–70
Moses and, 208, 210, 869
plagues and, 91–92
priesthood of, 216–18
sin of, 221–22
sons' illicit ritual, 155, 157–58
staff of, 217
- Aaronide priests, 279–80, 594, 611, 616;
see also priests
- Abel, 17–18, 1494, 1793
- Abiathar, 410, 440–41, 465–66, 495–96, 499, 604, 606, 1071
- Abigail, 443–44
- Abijam (Abijah), 524, 641–42
- Abimelech, 39–41, 47, 376–79
- Abiram, 215
- Abishag, 495, 499
- Abishai, 482
- Abner, 454, 456–59, 490, 498
- abomination, 916, 1266, 1268, 1272, 1365
- Abraham, 8, 1018–19, 1862; see also Sarah Abimelech and, 39–41
Akedah and, 41–42, 1867
ancestors of, 26–27
authorship about, 27
blessing of, 48–49, 60, 66, 77
circumcision of, 10, 34, 1620
correspondences about, 39 covenant of, 32–34, 80, 90, 297–98, 1034, 1045
death of, 45
descendants of, 9, 63, 586
faith of, 1762, 1862
family burial plot of, 42–43
Hagar and, 33–34
Holy Spirit and, 1693
hospitality of, 35, 37
inheritance of, 1685
Isaac compared with, 47, 1864
Jesus and, 1385, 1537
Lot and, 30–31
meaning of name, 34
Moses compared to, 36
obedience of, 1684
Paul and, 10, 29
promises to, 9–10, 27, 29, 34, 74–75, 1048–49, 1620, 1627, 1679–80
as prophet, 39, 869
righteousness of, 32, 36, 1619–20
Shem and, 403
Sodom and Gomorrah and, 36–37
Stephen on, 1569–70
testing of, 41–42
- Abram, 34, 586, 603
- Abравanel, Don Isaac, 1868
- Absalom, 56, 470–72
return of, 473–74
revolt of, 474–81
- abundance, 1555, 1672
- accusation, 980, 1073
against Paul, 1667–68, 1670–71, 1676
- Achan, 331–33, 335
- Achish, 446–47, 448
- Achsah, 345
- acrostics
in Lamentations, 1147, 1163, 1168–69
in Nahum, 1336
in Proverbs, 943–44
in psalms, 789, 801–2, 808–9, 811, 876, 880–81, 899
- Acts of Paul and Thecla*, 1727
- Acts of the Apostles, 1557–1609
authorship of, 1557
date of, 1557–58
literary history of, 1558
Luke and, 1467, 1557, 1713
title of, 1557
Titus and, 1741
“we” passages in, 1557, 1559, 1588–89, 1596–98, 1606, 1609
- Adam, 1704, 1875
adamah and, 14
Christ compared to, 1621–22, 1862
descendants of, 16, 18–19, 1659–60
genealogy of, 585
Noah and, 403
- admonitions, 913, 1359, 1643
- Adonijah, 495–99
- adoptionist Christology, 1563, 1693
- adult circumcision, 58–59
- adultery, 108–9, 112, 765, 909; see also sexual offenses
as capital offense, 287, 914 divorce and, 1391
idolatry as, 1811
of Israel, 1771
of Jerusalem, 1177
perils of, 914–15
thoughts and, 1391 unfaithful wife allegory, 1194–96, 1275–79
universalization of, 260–61
- advocate, 1545–47, 1791
- African Americans, 1887–88
- Against Heresies* (Irenaeus), 1870
- age
of human beings, 18–19, 909, 954, 1066 wisdom related to, 767
- agricultural festivals, 116–17, 1278
- agriculture, 958, 1903 cycles of, 22
rituals for, 1291
- Agur, 941–42
- Ahab, 527, 529–31, 533–35, 543, 989, 1896
death of, 536–38
- Ahasuerus (Xerxes I), 681, 727, 1266
Haman and, 715–16, 720, 722–25
Vashti and, 717–18
- Ahaz, 539, 563–64, 658–59
in Isaiah, 989–91, 1002, 1026, 1030
- Ahaziah, 538, 540–41, 551–53
death of, 554, 651–52
- Ahijah, 518, 522–23
- Ahimaaz, 480
- Ahimelech, 438, 440
- Ahithophel, 476–79
- Ai, 333–34
- Akedah, 41–42, 1864, 1867
- Alexander the Great, 1254 divisions after, 1265, 1270
Greek and, 1850
- Alexandria, Egypt, 1870–71
- Alexandrian canon, 1838
- Alexandrian tradition, 1847
- aliens, 100
census of, 627
danger of, 1158–59
land for, 1245
resident, 251, 268, 277, 289
in Temple of Solomon, 1239
- allegories, 1687, 1870–71 in biblical interpretation, 961, 1862 fable of eagles, 1197–98 of Philo of Alexandria, 1866, 1869 of the pot, 1208–9
of the sisters, 1206–8
of unfaithful wife, 1194–96, 1275–79
- alliances, 644, 655, 989, 1001 adultery compared with, 1195 with Egypt, 1006–7, 1021, 1027, 1289–90, 1897
futility of, 1288

- marriage, 646
 trust compared to, 1019–21, 1031, 1073, 1206–7 vineyard compared to, 1005 almsgiving, 1392, 1603 altar(s), 117, 122–23 for ark of the covenant, 127–28, 138, 193 atonement and, 1238–39 of burnt offerings, 146
 consecration of, 1238
 for divination, 564
 of gods, 372–73
 of incense, 127–28
 rebuilding of, 679–80
 for sacrifice, 294, 410, 1234–35
 sanctuary at, 1101
 of Saul, 425
 Transjordan, 354–55
 as witness, 354–55
 Alter, Robert, 1882–83
 Amalek, 107
 Amalekites, 212, 292, 362, 449
 Haman and, 720
 herem against, 428–29
 Saul and, 454–55
 Amasa, 481–84
 Amaziah (king), 560–61, 655–56
 Amaziah (priest), 1299, 1310–11
 ambidextrous, 393
 Amen, 197–98
 American Bible Society, 1855–56
 American Standard Version, 1854
 Ammon, 252–54, 465, 611–12
 oracle against, 1149–50, 1302
 Ammonites, 381–82, 421, 1138, 1205, 1895
 David against, 466–67, 470
 prohibition against, 688
 Saul against, 422–23
 Amnon, 471–73
 Amon (king), 574, 668
 Amon (sun god), 1145–46
 Amorites, 221, 223–24, 336–37, 363, 485, 1303
 Amos, 1296–97
 Amos, Book of, 1299–1313 anachronisms, 1893
 Anakim, 340, 343
 Anakites, 211, 362
 Ananias, 1567, 1600, 1601 ancestors, 219, 293
 of Abraham, 26–27
 of David, 66, 73, 78
 God of, 251
 present related to, 259
 return of, 1358
 ancient Near East, 971–72
 ancient Near East and Israel beginnings of, 1891–92
 Divided Monarchy in, 1896–97
 early Israel history in Canaan, 1894–95
 Exodus historicity and, 1893–94
 Genesis historicity and, 1892–93
 Kingdom of Judah end in, 1897 to mid-first millennium BCE, 1891–97 prophecy in, 971–72
 United Monarchy in, 1895–96
 Andrew of St. Victor, 1873 angel of God, divine presence as, 103 angels, 86, 330, 363, 383–84, 540, 571, 739, 810, 1418; see also cherubim
 in Acts, 1560, 1577, 1580
 at Akedah, 1864
 authenticity of, 1680
 Balaam and, 226
 of churches, 1808–9
 in Daniel, 1264
 of death, 1029
 in divine court, 768–69 dragon against, 1820–21 in fire, 1256
 flight of, 1268
 Gabriel, 1156–57, 1266, 1269–70, 1469
 giant from, 1653
 God as, 33, 40
 as gods, 104
 Jesus compared to, 1751
 John the Baptist and, 1469
 on judgment, 1823
 Lot and, 37–38
 meal for, 372
 Michael, 1266, 1269, 1273, 1801–2, 1820 misfortunes and, 491, 768–69, 859 in prison, 1568
 punishment and, 739–40
 Revelations to John and, 1807, 1832 sacred tree and, 371 stairway of Jacob and, 50–51 at tomb, 1464, 1516, 1553 waters and, 1824
 of wisdom, 474
 worship of, 1710–11
 anger, 921, 932, 1336; see also wrath of Nebuchadnezzar, 1255
 righteousness and, 1769
 Anglican Bible, 1841 animal corpses, 160–61 animals, 775–77, 1079; see also beasts blood from, 171, 427 creation of, 12, 14
 in mythology, 1220
 plagues of, 94
 sacrifice of, 20–21, 125–26, 178, 219, 276, 414, 1232
 symbolism of, 1088
 unclean, 20–21, 100, 160, 920, 1440, 1486, 1577 wild, 1225, 1350–51
 Anna, 1473
 Annas II, 1455, 1474, 1550 annunciation, 1469–70, 1472
 Anointed, the, 869; see also Messiah anointing, 408, 819
 of Aaron, 126
 of David, 430, 488
 of Jehu, 553
 of Jesus, 1459, 1464, 1483–84, 1542
 of priests, 153, 156
 of Saul, 418–21, 442
 of Solomon, 496–97
 anthropology, 1880, 1885–86, 1903 anthropomorphic God, 5 antichrist, 1723, 1790, 1797
 false teaching and, 1798
 Antioch, 1383, 1579–82, 1584–85, 1871
 Antiochus III, 1270–71, 1901
 Antiochus IV Epiphanes, 1263–65, 1901 abomination and, 1266, 1268, 1272
 against Egypt, 1271–72
 Second Temple desecration by, 1249, 1268 antitheses, 1391–92 anxiety, 1495–96
 Apocalypse. See Revelation to John Apocalypse of Zephaniah, 1347
 apocalyptic imagery, 1420
 in 2 Thessalonians, 1721–23
 in Daniel, 1229–32, 1249–50, 1263–70
 Gog of Magog as, 1229–32
 in Isaiah, 1011–15
 in Mark, 1432, 1438
 apocalypticism, 1177
 apocalyptic prophetic books, 974–75
 Apocrypha, 1250; see also canon(s) Greek of, 1851
 textual criticism of, 1846–47
 Apollo, 1594, 1637–39, 1660, 1744
 as servant, 1642–43
 apostasy, 115, 273, 866–67, 1073; see also Maccabees, First in Bethel, 1147–48 apostle(s), 1480, 1584, 1717; see also disciples body of, 1668
 false, 1663, 1675
 last mention of, 1588 legitimacy of, 1649–50
 Matthew in, 1561
 meaning of term, 1680
 Paul as, 1561, 1664, 1674, 1679, 1681–83
 persecution of, 1580
 as servants, 1642
 women as, 1635–36
 apostolic council, 1559, 1869, 1874 apostolic decree, 1558, 1586 appendix, 258
 in 2 Samuel, 485
 in Isaiah, 1001
 in Joshua, 357
 Aquila, 1592, 1739
 Aquinas, Thomas, 1873
 Arabia, 1008
 Arab tribes, 1151–52
 Aram, 533–34
 Aramaic, 296, 569, 681, 1027, 1249, 1561
 Hebrew Bible in, 1846, 1849–50, 1863–64
 writing in, 1849–50

- Arameans, 55, 466–67, 546–49, 1130, 1895
 archaeology, 1879
 Canaan conquest in, 319, 322
 Jericho and, 527
 of return, 678
Aristeas, Letter of, 1851, 1900
 Ark Narrative, 411–15, 462–65 ark of the covenant, 107, 497 altars for, 127–28, 138, 193 basin of, 138
 cloud and, 142, 510–11 courtyard for, 122–23, 138
 David and, 604, 606–7
 Davidic dynasty and, 890–91
 dedication of, 155–56
 dimensions of, 119
 God within, 135, 141–42
 incense altar for, 127–28
 to Jerusalem, 462–63
 materials for, 119, 135–36, 139
 Philistines and, 412–14, 848
 purification of, 168–70 purpose of, 118–19, 140–41 records of, 139
 sabbath and, 135
 structure of, 120–22, 136
 table in, 120–21, 137
 in Temple of Solomon, 507, 630, 670, 1028, 1076, 1167
 aromatics, 963
 arrests
 of disciples, 1565–66, 1568, 1599
 of Jeremiah, 1083, 1125, 1132–34
 of Jesus, 1424–25, 1458–61, 1511, 1513, 1549–50 arrogance, 1001, 1185–86; see also pride of Moab, 1146–47
 trust and, 825
 art, visual, 1871–72
 Artaxerxes, 681–82, 684
 Ezra and, 686
 Nehemiah and, 693, 695
 artisans, 129
 Asa, 524–25, 642–45, 1138–39
 Asaph, 823–24 ascension of Elijah, 541–42
 asceticism, 1730
 Asher, 311, 349, 596
 Asherah, 133, 264, 364, 530, 567, 573, 1101, 1280
 Asia Minor, 1588, 1664–65 assassination, 719–20, 1282–83 assembly, 347, 621, 638–39 for communal consensus, 691–92
 Assyria, 680–81
 Assyrians, 318–19, 523, 527, 564–70, 707, 1896–97; see also Judith, Book of; Sennacherib
 defeat of, 1331
 deportations by, 984
 Deuteronomy and, 248
 Egypt compared to, 1219–20
 Hezekiah and, 567–72
 in Isaiah, 977–78, 994–97, 1001, 1005, 1007–9, 1015–17, 1026–29, 1031
 Nahum and, 1335, 1337–40
 Assyrian stele, 556
 Astarte, 516, 1084 astrologers, 1907
 astrology, 1907
 Astruc, Jean, 1876–77
 Athanasius, 1841, 1843
 Athanasius of Alexandria, 315, 1783, 1801
 Athens, 1591–92 atonement, 146, 152; see also Day of Atonement; sacrifice altar and, 1238–39
 golden calf and, 131
 for unsolved murder, 284 attention, 932
 Augustine, 1791, 1870–71
 Augustus, 1379, 1386 authenticity, 1680, 1715 authority, 690–91, 955, 959, 1811
 of Jesus, 1391, 1437, 1454, 1508, 1530, 1536–37 LXX as, 1841
 over waters, 1819
 of Paul, 1673, 1680–81
 submission to, 1632, 1743
 avenger, 244–45, 473–74
 Azariah (prophet), 643–44
 Azariah (Uzziah), 561–62, 656–57, 1276
 Azazel, 169
B
 Baal, 102, 311, 364, 456, 527, 557
 Elijah against, 528–32, 540–41, 555 shrines of, 1278
 as Yahweh, 462
 Baal-peor, 229–30, 237
 Baasha, 523, 554, 644
 babbler, 1591
 Babel, tower of, 6, 9, 25–26, 36, 1865
 Babylon, 1113–14, 1897 assaults on, 1153–56
 destruction of, 1157–59
 gods of, 1042–44
 judgment against, 1154
 oracle on, 998–99, 1152, 1159
 peace for, 1118–19
 Rome as, 1775, 1781, 1823
 vengeance against, 1157–58
 Babylonia, 18–19, 1342
 Babylonian exile, 301, 493–94, 512, 872–73, 1069, 1106, 1123, 1136, 1140, 1159–60, 1175 continuity from, 598
 Daniel and, 1250
 evidence of, 1897–98 (see also Ezekiel, Book of) Genesis and, 8
 Isaiah and, 572–73, 972, 977, 1037
 Israel as, 1189–90
 of Judah, 672–74
 king's court in, 1250–51
 Kings on, 580–81
 Pentateuch redaction during, 6 prophets in, 1118–19
 return from, 675–76
 sovereignty of, 1116–19
 Babylonian Talmud, 405, 1866
 Balaam, story of, 225–28, 1802–3, 1810
 Balak, 225–27
 ban, law of the, 263 banquet, 800, 1013
 baptism; see also John the Baptist bride and, 1698 into Christ, 1685–86 circumcision related to, 1710 of dead, 1659
 of eunuchs, 1574
 Holy Spirit related to, 1561–64
 of Jesus, 1388, 1433, 1475
 power of, 1743
 of repentance, 1474
 Barabbas, 1426, 1462, 1514
 Barak, 367–69
 Bar Kokhba, 229
 Barnabas, 1567, 1576, 1579–80, 1588 barrenness, 27, 383–84, 545, 1052 of Elizabeth, 1469 of Hannah, 406–8
 Barth, Karl, 1613
 Baruch, 1069–70, 1131, 1143
 Jeremiah and, 1139
 Barzillai, 482–83, 498
 Bathsheba, 64–65, 453, 499
 David and, 467–68, 477–78, 496–97, 602, 612
 Bayle, Pierre, 1875 beards, 467
 beasts
 in Daniel, 1263–64
 in Revelation, 1817, 1821–23, 1825–26, 1828–29 beatitudes, 910, 1390, 1481 beauty, 907, 962
 Bede, Venerable, 1872
 Bedouins, 1884
 Beelzebul, 1493
 Beer-sheba, 41, 74, 1891
 Behemoth (“animal”), 777–78
 Bel and the Dragon, 1157–58, 1341 belief, 1529, 1545
 in Christ, 1614
 hospitality related to, 1799–1800 in Jesus, 1538
 of Pharisees, 1586, 1704 about souls, 1658
 speaking in tongues and, 1657 water related to, 1535 believers, 1608, 1724
 Beloved Disciple, 1519–20, 1544–45, 1552–53, 1555
 Belshazzar
 God and, 1262–63
 handwriting on wall of, 1259–61

- lions' pit of, 1261–62
- ben Amoz, Isaiah. See Isaiah
- benediction; see also blessing(s)
- Ben-Hadad, 549, 551, 645
- Benjamin, 60, 70–71
- descendants of, 595–97
- meaning of name, 367
- slavery and, 72
- Benjamin (tribe), 348, 577, 1317
- war with, 391, 393–96
- Bereshit* (in the beginning), 7
- Bethel, 50–51, 54, 60, 333–34, 394, 566
- Amos and, 1299, 1305
- apostasy in, 1147–48
- Bethlehem; see also Ruth
- ideal king from, 1325
- Jesus from, 1386
- betrayal, 827; see also Judas
- betrothal, 1472
- Bezalel, 136
- Bible; see also Hebrew Bible; New Testament; Torah
- Dead Sea Scrolls and, 1838
- geography of, 1889–91
- biblical interpretation; see also Christian premodern Bible interpretation; Jewish premodern bible interpretation
- allegories in, 961, 1862
- nineteenth to mid-twentieth centuries, 1876–82
- by Paul, 1862–63
- biblical poetry, 730–32
- biblical study methods, contemporary
- cultural hermeneutics in, 1886–89
- literary approaches in, 1882–84
- postcritical interpretation in, 1888–89
- reader-response criticism in, 1883–84
- rhetorical criticism in, 1882
- social-scientific criticism in, 1884–86
- structuralism in, 1883
- Bildad, 742–43, 752, 755, 760
- biographies, 1379–80, 1383–84
- birds, 12, 852, 859, 887, 1081, 1361
- doves, 21–22, 843, 967, 1283
- eagles, 1178, 1197–98, 1817
- birthright, 47, 49–50
- of Joseph, 590–91
- bishops, qualifications for, 1729
- black, as color, 1814
- blasphemers, 180–81, 665–66, 769, 1728
- Jesus as, 1396, 1461, 1479, 1530
- blasphemy, 1495, 1585
- blessing(s)
- from Aaron, 158
- of Abraham, 48–49, 60, 66, 77
- to church, 1693
- curse and, 1756, 1771
- deathbed, 48–50
- to disciples, 1548–49
- of earth, 1012–13
- of fertility, 22, 1109
- for forgiveness, 866–67
- for Jacob, 48–49, 60
- from Jacob, 77–78
- of Moses, 158, 303, 309–11
- from Paul, 1664–65, 1690
- peace as, 642–45, 653
- priestly, 199, 806, 835
- in psalms, 816, 841, 858, 872, 891–92
- of rains, 925, 1287
- of suffering, 740, 1736
- blind man, 1859–60
- blindness, 297, 548–49, 1368
- healing of, 1414, 1416, 1447, 1453, 1506
- as metaphor for religious insensitivity, 1018–19, 1025–26, 1036–37
- of Paul, 1605
- blood, 829; see also menstruation
- from animals, 171, 427
- in consecration, 126
- consumption of, 171
- of covenant, 1460
- as first plague in Egypt, 92
- in food, 1533
- of Lamb, 1816
- Passover and, 98
- purification from, 219
- in sacrifices, 146, 149
- water as, 92
- wine related to, 1823–24
- blood offerings, 793
- boasting, 1621, 1645, 1650, 1664, 1673–75
- Boaz, 397–98, 400–403
- body, 1709
- of apostle, 1668
- church as, of Christ, 1645
- of Moses, 1802
- society as, 1654–55
- types of, 1659
- body language, 913, 926
- boils, as sixth plague in Egypt, 94
- Book of Comfort, 1114, 1120–24, 1127–28
- Book of Consolation, 1070
- book of law, 574, 576, 645, 669, 705
- book of life, 1273, 1822, 1830
- Book of the Consolation of Israel. See Second Isaiah
- Book of the Covenant. See Covenant Collection
- Book of the Teaching, 302–3
- Book of the Twelve, 1275, 1299, 1315
- Book of Wisdom. See Wisdom of Solomon
- Books of Solomon, 905
- booths, festival of, 117, 179–80, 1857; see also Succoth
- in postexilic Jerusalem, 235, 704–5
- boundaries, 286, 924
- national, 1244–45
- of Promised Land, 241, 243–44
- Bow, Song of the, 455
- bowing, 720
- bread, 420
- from heaven, 1532
- of idleness, 944
- of the Presence, 121, 510, 1436
- ritual, 180
- breast, 968
- breastpiece, 124–25
- breath, of God, 959
- bribes, 723, 926
- bride capture, 395–96
- bridegroom, 1397, 1422, 1479–80, 1527
- brides
- baptism and, 1698
- Jerusalem as, 1830
- bridewealth, 115, 287–88, 435
- Broad Wall, 697
- bronze serpent, 223
- brothers, 13, 1708, 1746; see also Abel
- disciples as, 1428
- of Joseph, 62–64, 69–73, 76–80
- builder
- Lord as, 1061
- Paul as, 1642
- building
- creation as, 773–74
- of Temple of Solomon, 504–7
- of universe, 867–68
- burials, 42–43
- of Jacob, 79–80, 1570
- of Jesus, 1428, 1463–64, 1516, 1542, 1553
- of Joshua, 357
- burning bush, 86
- burnt offerings, 145, 152, 1332
- altar of, 146
- grain offering and, 147
- business, 1213–14
- friends related to, 1706, 1736–46
- justice in, 919
- of marriage, 911
- trades, 620, 634, 1904–5, 1907
- Byzantine text, 1847
- C
- Caesar Augustus (Octavian), 1472
- Caesarea, 1601–3
- Caesarea Maritima, 1905, 1907
- Caesarea Philippi, 1408, 1447
- Caiaphas, 1423, 1455, 1461, 1541, 1550
- Cain, 588, 1793
- Abel and, 17–18
- Cajetan, Cardinal, 1875
- Caleb, 210–11, 339, 343–45, 350, 1754
- descendants of, 587–88
- against Hebron, 362
- Calebites, 443
- calendar, 1902
- festivals, 178–80, 276–77
- Passover and, 97
- calf, golden, 130–31, 866
- Calvin, John, 1874–75
- Calvinist Bible, 1841
- Canaan, 688, 868, 1892, 1894–95
- conquest of, 3, 319, 322, 324–25
- entry preparation for, 224

- gods of, 516, 577, 1126
 for Jacob, 30
 in Joshua, 3, 324–25
 Judah against, 360, 362–63 mythology of, 1000–1001 nations of, 33 northern campaign for, 339–40 scouts, 209–11, 251–52
 Shem and, 30–31
 slavery in, 346–47
 southern campaign in, 335–37
 war against, 213
- Canaan (Noah's son), 24–25
 Canaanite woman, 1407
 cannibalism, 210, 549, 1168, 1183 canon(s), 7, 81, 971, 1856, 1888 in Eastern Orthodox Church, 1841 of LXX, 1840–41
 of New Testament, 1837, 1841–43
 of Old Testament, 1837–40
 in Roman Catholic Church, 1839, 1841
- Canticles. See Song of Solomon
- Capernaum, 1389, 1905 ministry in, 1396–97, 1433–34 synagogue in, 1477
- capital offenses, 1866 adultery as, 287, 914
- Cardenal, Ernesto, 1886
- Carmel, 1153
- cedar trees, 504–5, 508, 637, 983, 1032–33, 1060, 1219–20, 1344
- celibacy, 1646–48
- censers, 215–16
- census, 128, 710
 of aliens, 627
 of David, 490–91, 619
 of Levites, 190, 193–95, 232
 in Numbers, 189–91
 of second generation, 230–31
- centurion
 healing of, 1395
 slave of, 1482
- ceremonies, 32; see also dedication(s);
 rituals
 ear-piercing, 1857
 at Shechem, in Deuteronomy, 293–95
- Cerinthus, 1790
- Chaldea. See Babylon
- chaos, 1216
 city of, 1011–12
 conquest of, 856–57, 860
 cosmic, 821
 creation and, 1025, 1033
 in Judges, 360
 from north, 1230 of war, 1078
- chariots, 542, 1236 visions of, 1178–79, 1186, 1188, 1362
- charisma, 1780
- Chemosh, 224, 382, 544
- cherubim, 412, 462, 487, 507, 1178
 fall of, 1215–16
 on tabernacle, 120–22, 202
- chiastic inclusio, 296
- chiefdom, 1885
- chief priest, 1161, 1384; see also high priests
- childbirth, 1014, 1036, 1066–67, 1719 disciples related to, 1548 distress of, 999, 1120
 end-time and, 1420 impurity rules on, 161–62 pains of, 1095–96
 salvation through, 1729
- children, 549, 1171–72 babies, 501–2
 death and, 84, 736–37, 752
 of Eber, 25
 of exile, 1047, 1327 fathers and, 37, 1698
 of God, 1686, 1793
 of Hosea, 1276–77
 hunger of, 1167
 of intermarriage, 690, 692
 Jesus and, 1412, 1450–51, 1489, 1505
 promise about, 1098
 in Revelation, 1820–21
 sacrifice of, 116, 172, 272, 871, 1056, 1085, 1202, 1231
 sons, 888–89
 twins, 65–66
 unfaithfulness of, 1076
 weaning of, 890, 990
- chosen, 264, 621, 1304, 1458, 1617
- Christ; see also Jesus Adam compared to, 1621–22, 1862 as advocate, 1791 baptism into, 1685–86
 belief in, 1614
 children of God through, 1686 church as body of, 1645 doubt about Second Coming of, 1783–84, 1786–87
 early Christian church compared to, 1776
 faith in, 1707–8, 1761
 false teaching and Second Coming of, 1785–87
 Gentiles in, 1683
 God as, 1743
 identification with, 1683–84
 Isaac compared to, 42
 Israel and, 1629–30
 knowledge of, 1704–5
 life in, 1622–23
 as Lord, 1701
 love of, 1626
 meaning of, 1639
 Moses and, 1629
 as mystery, 1709
 Paul in, 1663–64, 1702
 as rock, 1651
 sacrifice of, 1760
 self-emptying of, 1703
 sharing in, 1671
- sin and, 1669, 1680
 spirit of, 1679–80, 1779
 supremacy of, 1709 symbols of, 1808–9
 testimony of, 1807, 1833
 wisdom from, 1707
- Christian apologetics, 1869
- Christian community, 1567; see also early Christian church
 elders in, 1580, 1585
 life in, 1564
 prayer of, 1566
 women in, 1589
- Christianity
 canon of, 971
 Daniel and, 975
 Dead Sea Scrolls and, 1881
 Genesis related to, 10
 Judaism compared to, 1869
 postcritical interpretation in, 1889
 prophecies about, 1609
 for Romans, 1559
 Rome and, 1593
 Torah and, 1861
 wealth and, 1905
- Christian polemic, 1862–63
- Christian practice, 1861–62
- Christian premodern Bible interpretation, 1868–76
- Christians, 1579 disputes among, 1869–70
 Israel compared to, 1776
 Jewish, 1584, 1741–42
- Christmas, 1791
- Christological reading, 1860–61, 1868–69
- Chronicler's History, 583–85
- Chronicles, Books of, 495, 584–674
 creative historiography in, 1859
 Kings compared to, 642
 Passover lamb in, 1858 similarities of, to Ezra-Nehemiah, 317, 583, 675
 title of, 583
- Chrysostom, John, 1871
- churches, 1408, 1567; see also early Christian church
 angels of, 1808–9
 blessing to, 1693
 as body of Christ, 1645 divisions within, 1639–40
 expansion of, 1558
 God and, 1559–60, 1639
 Judaism and, 1559
 righteousness within, 1698 unity within, 1694–95, 1704–5 universality of, 1597, 1692
- Cicero, 1640
- circumcision, 88, 435; see also uncircumcised
 of Abraham, 10, 34, 1620 adult, 58–59
 of aliens, 100
 baptism related to, 1710

- conversion and, 1646–47
 covenant of, 34, 329–30
 everlasting, 34
 in foreign nations, 1221 fruit related to, 174
 of Gentiles, 1578–79
 of heart, 301, 1571
 of Jesus, 1473
 lack of, 385
 law of, 3, 1610–11, 1672, 1674
 Paul's view of, 1688, 1704 in Pentateuch, 3
 purification of, 161–62
 servant related to, 1634
 of slaves, 100
- Cisjordanian tribes, 322, 343, 354
- cities, 484, 1000, 1400 of chaos, 1011–12
 of David, 605
 gates of, 908, 944
 herem of the, 338–39
 Levitical, 244, 258, 281–82, 350, 352, 594
 as mothers, 1153 on mounds, 1121
 in Roman period, 1905
 of Solomon, 514
 as women, 1043
- cities of refuge (Levitical cities), 244, 258, 281–82, 350, 352, 594
- citizens, 1695, 1705
- citizenship, 1590, 1904
 as Greeks, 1906–7
- class, 701, 1888, 1904–6
- Claudius, 1611, 1613, 1904
- Clement, First, 1749
- Clement of Alexandria, 1520, 1870, 1871–72
- Cleopatra, 1271
- cloth, 164, 174
- clothing, 16, 429
 of David, 607
 healing from, 1443
 sackcloth, 1819
 symbolism related to, 442, 467, 1668, 1711 tassels on, 214
- cloud(s), 985, 987, 1005, 1170
 ark of the covenant and, 142, 510–11
 pillar of, 102, 132
 on wilderness wandering, 204
- codex, 1380, 1842, 1844, 1847
- collection for Jerusalem, 1660–61, 1663–64, 1671–73
- colonialism, 1887
- colors black, 1814
 pale green, 1814
 red, 1814
- Colossians, Letter of Paul to, 1707–13
- comfort, 1339
- command to love, 1777, 1790, 1871
 for singers, 1359
- commandments, 3; see also Decalogue; Ten Commandments
 Jesus on, 1456
 love, 1418, 1792, 1798
 against murder, 111–13
 of sabbath, 112, 1102
 social and religious, 115
- commemoration, 108
- commemorative rituals, 97
- commentary, 1863
- commission, 693, 695 of Ezekiel, 1179–80
- commissioning
 of disciples, 1429
 in new covenant, 1666–67 of Titus, 1741–44
 of the twelve, 1398, 1487
- communal confession, 705
- communal consensus, 689–92
- communal feasts, 148
- communal identity, 97
- communal laments, 782, 797–98, 818–19, 830–31, 842–43, 845, 848–53, 860–61, 878, 889, 894, 1063–65
- communal pledge, 707–8, 712, 714
- communal prayer, 705–6
- communal punishment, 1198–99
- communal responsibility, 1091–92
- communal sharing, 1651–54, 1724
 in table-fellowship, 1683
- community, 702–3, 1342, 1777; see also Christian community; early Christian community desire and, 1771
 exhortation for, 1772–73
 fasting by, 721
 holiness in, 1791
 impurity of, 1355
 Jesus on, 1410
 Johannine, 1520
 law for, 304
 purification of, 711
 purity of, 1670 shepherds for, 1367 taxes of, 699
 in Temple, 817
 truth for, 301
 voice of, 1173
- companions, 896–97; see also friends
- compassion, 1323
 of God, 1468
 of Jesus, 1397–98
 for suffering, 858, 1122
- complaints, 1074
 of Jeremiah, 1092–93, 1098–99, 1101–6
 non-priestly, 205–6 petition and, 1342–43
 in wilderness wandering, 205
- conception, 745
- concubine, 377, 392, 457, 483
- confession, 151, 1059, 1494–95
 communal, 705
 forgiveness and, 870–72
 of Peter, 1408, 1488
 suffering and, 896
- confidence, 790, 812, 1668
 danger and, 897
 in God, 860–61, 886
 self-, 1079–80
- conflict in Corinth, 1638
 Jeremiah in, 1114–31
 over holiness, 215–16
 with Transjordan, 353–54
- conjugal rights, 1646
- conquest, 263–64
 of Canaan, 3, 319, 322, 324–25
 of chaos, 856–57, 860
 of Jerusalem, 978
 love as, 965–66
 preparation for, 324
- conscience, 1728
- consecration; see also dedication(s) of altar, 1238
 blood in, 126
 firstborn, 100–101, 1332
 of priests, 125–26, 144, 155–56
 of Samuel, 406–7
- consolation, 778–79, 1070
- conspicuous consumption, 1308–9
- consultation, 1201 prophets and, 1193
 with spirit, 447–48
- contamination; see also impurity from corpses, 159, 219, 221, 1187–88, 1231–32, 1355, 1369 of surface affliction, 162, 166
- contemporary biblical study methods.
See biblical study methods, contemporary
- Contradictions* (Marcion), 1733
- conversion, 1887 circumcision and, 1646–47
 of Cornelius, 1559, 1576–78
 of foreigners, 1055 of Greeks, 1590–92 of Naaman, 547
 of Paul, 1575, 1605
 of Romans, 1589
- Coptic Christianity, 1848
- Corinth, 1905–6 conflicts in, 1638
 Paul's mission to, 1592–93, 1596, 1637–38 prostitutes in, 1645 sexual offenses in, 1644–46
 Titus in, 1741
 as urban center, 1637
- Corinthians, First Letter of Paul to, 1637–61
- Corinthians, Second Letter of Paul to, 1663–77
- Cornelius, conversion of, 1559, 1576–78
- cornerstone, 774, 880, 1417, 1695
- coronation, 1362, 1551

- corpses animal, 160–61
 contamination from, 159, 219, 221, 1187–88, 1231–32, 1355, 1369 from execution, 285 corruption, 1447
 of judges, 1328, 1505
 of law, 1307
 of leaders, 1328–29 cosmic chaos, 821
 cosmic tree, 1198, 1219
 cosmology, in creation story, 257, 1345;
see also creation
 Council of Chalcedon, 1869
 Council of Constantinople, 1869
 Council of Nicaea, 1869 Council of Trent, 1874 courage endurance and, 811–13
 Court History, 453
 Court Narrative, 453 court tales; see also Daniel, Book of Covenant Collection, 5, 1857 covenant loyalty, 264 covenant mediator, 111, 130–31, 134, 1097 covenant renewal psalm, 823–24, 850–51, 856–58
 covenants, 22, 24, 55, 652–53, 1364, 1874;
see also ark of the covenant;
 promise(s)
 of Abraham, 32–34, 80, 90, 297–98, 1034, 1045
 blood of, 1460
 of circumcision, 34, 329–30
 between David and Jonathan, 437–38
 deliverance and, 795–96
 of Hezekiah, 660 with Israel, 109–18, 1373–74 of Jehoiada, 557 of land and progeny, 184, 355–56
 of Levites, 1373
 of marriage, 1194, 1374
 with Moses, 90, 1092
 in Mount Sinai, 105
 of Noah, 34
 observance of, 1055–56
 of peace, 230
 priests related to, 1757
 prophet against, 650 ratification of, 299–301 reciprocity of, 293
 renewal of, 226, 266, 335, 356, 576–77, 644, 670, 1052–53, 1124, 1177
 of sabbath, 129, 1055
 sabbatical year, 304
 of salt, 147, 218
 substantiation of, 1054–55, 1354–55
 time of, 1667
 about unfaithfulness, 1202–3 violations of, 332–33, 1091–92, 1097, 1272, 1275, 1285–88
 Coverdale, Miles, 1853–54 cows, 414 creation, 4, 760
 as building, 773–74
 chaos and, 1025, 1033 elements of, 999 of Eve, 14–15
 in Genesis, 11–15
 of light, 11–12
 mythology about, 1892
 renewal of, 1830–31
 sabbath and, 3, 13
 victory and, 834
 Wisdom and, 916
 creative historiography, 1859, 1867
 in Jewish premodern bible interpretation, 1865–66
 creative philology, 1859, 1866
 Crete, 1741–42 crimes, 939–40 criminals, 1515
 Crispus, 1592, 1640, 1905 crocodiles, 1216
 cross, 1399, 1462, 1514–15; see also crucifixation; Jesus message about, 1640
 cross-cultural comparisons, 1884–85 crowns, 723, 920, 1828
 honor and, 1717
 of righteousness, 1738
 crucible, 926
 crucifixion, 1641
 in John, 1552–53
 in Luke, 1515–16
 in Mark, 1462–63
 in Matthew, 1384, 1427
 cubits, 255, 367
 cultural anthropology, 1886
 cultural contexts
 ancient Near East and Israel, 1891–97 beginnings in, 1891–92
 Canaan in, 1894–95
 Divided Monarchy in, 1896–97
 Exodus historicity and, 1893–94
 Genesis historicity and, 1892–93
 Hellenistic period in, 1899–1902
 Kingdom of Judah end and, 1897
 Persian period in, 1897–99
 Roman period in, 1902–8 cultural hermeneutics, 1886–89
 culture
 cross-cultural comparisons, 1884–85
 Greco-Roman, 1764
 translations and, 1852–53 curse(s), 114, 389, 446, 700, 1101, 1368
 in Amos, 1310–11
 blessing and, 1756, 1771
 as consequence of disobedience, 296–97
 deathbed, 48
 of enemies, 874–75
 gods related to, 296–97
 indictment and, 1372–73 against Jerusalem, 1332–33
 Job and, 736, 738
 of law, 1684–85
 oath of, 197
 against parents, 930, 941–42 of victim, 941
 Cush (Ethiopia), 1003–5 cycles, 22
 Cynics, 1908
 Cyprus, 1581
 Cyrus the Great, 583, 978, 999–1000, 1037, 1353
 decree of return by, 673–74, 677, 683–84, 696, 702, 1898
 Lord and, 1034–35, 1040–42, 1044, 1156
D
 D (source of Pentateuch), 4 Deuteronomic law collection and,
 5–6
 Dagon, 413, 599
 Damascus, 1003–4, 1301, 1605
 oracle against, 1151
 Paul in, 1575–76
 Damascus Covenant, 1865
 Dan, tribe of, 78–79, 311, 350, 370 migration of, 389–90 dance, 530, 968
 of women, 105, 382, 396 danger, 834
 of aliens, 1158–59
 confidence and, 897
 of fire, 1642 patriarchs and, 29, 33, 38–39
 Daniel
 apocalyptic imagery in, 1229–32, 1249–50, 1263–70
 doxology in, 1252, 1256
 handwriting on the wall in, 1259–61
 Jeremiah and, 1156–57
 in lions' pit, 1261–62
 Nebuchadnezzar in, 1250, 1253–60
 Daniel, Book of, 1249–73, 1901
 Christianity and, 975
 Dante, 1872
 Darius I, 675, 680, 682–84, 1353 darkness, 762, 915, 1526, 1785; see also apocalyptic imagery beauty of, 962
 at death of Jesus, 1463 light compared to, 759, 774, 912, 958, 1522
 as ninth plague in Egypt, 96 in theophany, 1293–96 Dathan, 215
 dating, 5–8, 10, 188, 1879 daughter(s), 699, 708
 Jerusalem as, 1330, 1347, 1352
 virgin, 286–87, 382
 war of, 395–96
 of Zelophehad, 214, 231–32, 245–46, 346
 Daughter Zion, 981, 985, 1043
 David, 405–6, 1895–96

- Absalom and, 56, 470–81
 against Ammonites, 466–67, 470
 ancestors of, 66, 73, 78
 anointing of, 430, 488
 ark of the covenant and, 604, 606–7
 Bathsheba and, 467–68, 477–78, 496–97, 602, 612 called son of Jesse, 438–39, 443
 census of, 490–91, 619
 cities of, 605 clothing of, 607 consolidation by, 600, 602–4
 death of, 497–98, 623
 flight of, 56, 78, 438–41, 475–76
 genealogy of, 403, 588–89
 Goliath and, 318, 431–32, 434, 444 heroes of, 489–90
 Hezekiah compared to, 663–64
 Jerusalem related to, 270–71, 345, 434, 453, 460, 481–83, 600, 605
 Jesus and, 1385, 1861
 Jonathan and, 437–38, 485
 Judah compared to, 64–65
 last words of, 488–89, 498 leaders from, 615–23, 630
 love of, 434–35
 marriages of, 432, 435, 455, 457–58, 469–70
 Philistines and, 440–41, 446–49, 458, 460, 462, 465, 486, 610–13
 prayer of, 610, 622–23
 priests of, 616–17
 promises to, 488, 511, 555–56, 609
 as prophet, 1874
 psalms and, 607–8, 733, 894–900, 1509, 1561
 Psalms and, 607–8, 617, 733, 1509, 1561
 punishment and, 469–70, 613–14
 repentance of, 612–13
 Ruth related to, 397, 403
 Saul and, 425, 430–38, 440–49, 454
 singers of, 617–18
 Son of, 1397, 1402, 1453
 sons of, 469
 succession of, 78, 495–98, 615, 621–22
 Temple of Solomon and, 504, 506, 511, 614–15, 617–19, 621–22
- Davidic dynasty, 463–65, 557, 580, 582, 697, 796, 1225
 in Amos, 1313
 ark of the covenant and, 890–91
 in Chronicles, 609
 faithfulness to, 856–57
 in Hosea, 1279
 Israel as, 902–3, 1054
 Jesus in, 1456, 1470, 1475, 1488
 among kings, 360, 784
 love of, 856
 Messiah from, 1563
 in Micah, 1325
 oracle on, 994–95, 1107–8
 restoration of, 997
 in Samuel, 498–500, 518
- trees and, 996
 victory for, 875–76
 in Zechariah, Book of, 1368–69
 Zerubbabel in, 1353, 1356, 1360–62
- Davidic psalms, 894–900
 Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur), 168, 235, 594 high priest on, 1758–59
- Day of the Lord, 1458
 in Amos, 1300, 1308
 in Ezekiel, 1184, 1191, 1217, 1220, 1224–25
 in Haggai, 1356
 in Isaiah, 974, 978, 983, 999, 1024, 1063, 1066–67
 in Joel, 1293, 1296
 in Lamentations, 1165, 1168
 in Luke, 1468
 in Malachi, 1375–76
 in Matthew, 1400
 in Obadiah, 1316–17
 in 2 Thessalonians, 1721–22
 in Zechariah, Book of, 1368–70
 in Zephaniah, 1347–49, 1351
- Day of the Son of Man, 1504 day of wrath, 919, 1349; see also wrath deacons, 1635 choice of, 1569 qualifications for, 1729–30
 women as, 1730
- dead, 1163
 baptism of, 1659
 burning of, 1309
 Jesus's return and, 1716, 1718–19 raising of the, 546, 1441, 1442, 1482–83, 1540–41, 1596 resurrection of the, 1273
- Dead Sea, 1890–91
 Dead Sea Scrolls, 308, 371, 1860, 1881, 1902
 Aramaic in, 1849
 Bible and, 1838
 Christianity and, 1881
 Ecclesiastes in, 945
 Hebrew Bible in, 1845–46
 Isaiah in, 979
 prophets in, 1860
 Samuel in, 421 sin in, 1623
 the Way and, 1575
- deafness, 1018–19, 1025–26, 1036–37, 1471 death, 447–48
 angel of, 1029
 celebration of, 1735 children and, 84, 736–37, 752 equality of, 949 exile as, 1169
 fear of, 1752
 of firstborn, as tenth plague in Egypt, 88, 99–101
 homicide, 244–45
 infanticide, 84
 innocence and, 751
 of Israel, 1085–86, 1088–89
- of kings, 611
 love compared to, 969
 as punishment, 154–55 recovery from, 805
 renewal from, 1668
 retribution and, 771
 of righteous, 1056, 1273
 righteousness and, 769–70
 as sacrifice, 1704
 sin and, 1769
 sleep as, 1540
 suffering and, 740–41
 suicide, 479, 526–27, 599
 wealth and, 822
 wisdom and, 952–53
- deathbed blessing, 48–50
 death penalty, 1255
 Deborah, 367–68
 Deborah, Song of, 359, 369–71 debts, 700, 759, 932; see also loans; poor; wealth of conjugal rights, 1646 remission of, 275
 sin as, 1393
 slavery and, 699, 1857
- Decalogue, 106, 111, 133–34, 256–57, 1865; see also Ten Commandments numbering of, 260
 in psalms, 823
 repetition of, 259–61
 revelation of, 259
 supplement to, 299
- deconstruction, 1884
 dedication(s), 185–86
 of ark of the covenant, 155–56
 to Levites, 202–3 offerings of, 199–200
 of Second Temple, 684–85, 703
 of Temple, 283
 of Temple of Solomon, 510–13, 631–34
- Delilah, 385, 387–88 deliverance, 837–39, 1262
 covenant and, 795–96
 from enemies, 787, 795, 799–800, 809–10, 833
 exhortation for, 1752
 of Judah, 1013–14
 of poor, 816
 praise for, 805
 from sin, 1623–24
 from violence, 826–27
- Demetrius, 1900 democracy, 691 demolition, 1331
 demoniacs, 1390
 demons, 640, 1402, 1534; see also devil; Satan healing from, 1409–10, 1433–34, 1477–78, 1485–86
 seventy and, 1491
 deportation, 984, 1027; see also exile; Judean deportation

- Derrida, Jacques, 1884 descendants (toledot), 9, 300 desire, 949–50, 952; see also Song of Solomon community and, 1771 despair, 751–52, 1086, 1094, 1174
 hope and, 1169–70
 destiny, 1066, 1692 identity and, 1448 destruction, 1097–98
 of Babylon, 1157–59
 of enemies, 1166
 of gods, 570
 of Jerusalem, 539, 894, 1071, 1159, 1175–76, 1316, 1329, 1426–27
 prophecies of, 990–91
 from salt, 1147
 seals of, 1814
 of Second Temple, 1457–58, 1510, 1749
 of Temple of Solomon, 842–43, 848–49, 1064, 1160, 1163, 1167
- Deuterocanonical, meaning of term, 1874; see also Apocrypha
- Deuteronomistic Law Collection, 1857
- Deuteronomistic Historian (Deuteronomist), 33, 359, 405, 418, 423–24, 574, 1897
 Amos and, 1303
 debt related to, 1857
- Deuteronomistic History, 1880, 1894, 1898
 Deuteronomy and, 248
 Ezra and, 689
 Jeremiah and, 1069, 1112, 1117–18, 1141, 1159–61
 Joshua and, 304, 319, 321
 Judges and, 359
 Kings and, 318–19, 493–94, 512–13, 520–21, 552
 prophetic books in, 972
 Samuel and, 316–17, 405, 463
- Deuteronomy, Book of, 43, 493 conclusion of, 303
 date of, 247
 Exodus and, 1857–58
 historical context of, 247–48 interpretation and, 249–50, 1857–58
 Jeremiah and, 1083–84, 1091, 1102, 1126, 1128, 1137
 Jesus related to, 1389
 Josiah and, 247
 Lamentations and, 1164
 as law, 250
 layers of tradition in, 248–49 legal corpus of, 248
 literary history of, 248–49
 name of, 247
 Numbers and, 187
- Deutero-Zechariah, 1357
- devil; see also Satan
 Jesus and, 1388–89, 1476
- devoted thing. See herem
- devotion, 400, 766, 1072, 1128; see also love
- Dialogue with Trypho the Jew* (Martyr), 1869
- Diaspora, 512, 1535; see also Esther, Book of in Egypt, 1899–1900
 in Hellenistic period, 1899–1900
 in Persian period, 1898
 Seleucids and, 1901
- Diaspora narratives, 582
- diet, 171
- dietary laws, 719, 1864
 instructions on, 159–60, 274, 1435, 1445
- Dina, 52
- Dinah, 58–59
- Diodore of Tarsus, 1871
- Diogenes, 1348–49
- Dionysius, 1805
- Diotrephes, 1799–1800
- disasters, 736
- disciple(s), 1433
 arrest of, 1565–66, 1568, 1599
 Beloved, 1519–20, 1544–45, 1552–53, 1555
 blessing to, 1548–49
 as brothers, 1428
 childbirth related to, 1548 commissioning of, 1429 criticism of, 1447 doubt of, 1429
 healing from, 1441
 instruction to, 1447–50
 Jesus' parting from, 1545–49
 love of, 1545–46
 persecution of, 1510, 1575
 resurrection and, 1517–18, 1554
 selection of, 1480 washing feet of, 1544 into world, 1548–49, 1554
- discipleship, 1468 costs of, 1499–1500 nature of, 1512
 requirements for, 1490
- discipline, 920, 930 financial support and, 1650 for salvation, 1498
- discrimination, 1716
- disease, 105, 787, 816 of animals, as fifth plague in Egypt, 94
 sin and, 813
 skin, 196, 657, 737
 unfaithfulness related to, 645
- disgrace; see also shame
- dismemberment, 392, 422, 430
- disobedience, 221–22
 consequences of, 296–97
- disorientation, 1176
- disputation, 1371
 against Levites, 1372–73
- disputes, 927–28
 among Christians, 1869–70
- Divided Monarchy, 1896–97
- divination, 124, 139, 225, 1154; see also dreams; lots; Urim and Thummim altar for, 564
 in ancient Near East, 971–72 arrows for, 559
 in Daniel, 1251
 dreams and, 447
 from ephod, 426, 440–41, 449 idolatry and, 429
 Jonah and, 1321
 by Nebuchadnezzar, 1204
 prohibitions against, 174
 prophecy compared to, 280
- divine abandonment, 149
- divine actions, 893, 989
- divine beings, 12–13, 1110–11; see also angels with human beings, 19
- divine court, 768–69
- divine favor, 819
- divine intervention, 337, 441, 1895 in coincidences, 719–20
 trust in, 791
- divine judge, 789–90, 797, 829, 833
- divine justice, 851, 1158
- divine presence, 786, 1032, 1666, 1832; see also pillars
 altar and, 117
 as angel of God, 103 enemies and, 785
 glory of, 1812–13
 interaction with, 1177–78
 Torah and, 704
- divine promises, 227, 501 divine wrath and, 650 nations and, 784–85
- divine speech, 1866
- divine throne, 1263–64
- divine warrior, 103, 309, 326, 462, 649, 1018, 1336
 vision of, 1345–46
- divine will, 1818
- divine wisdom, 1666
- divorce, 289–90; see also marriage adultery and, 1391
 Jesus' teaching on, 1391, 1412, 1450–51, 1646, 1861 remarriage after, 1502
- Documentary Hypothesis, 4, 1877
- dogs, 937
- donations, sacred, 177, 557–58
- donkeys, 419, 1414
- doubt
 of disciples, 1429
 about Second Coming of Christ, 1783–84, 1786–87
- dough, 213–14
- Douglas, Mary, 1885
- doves, 21–22, 843, 967, 1283
- doxologies, 1803
 in Amos, 1306–7
 in Daniel, 1252, 1256

- in 1 Peter, 1776
 - in Jeremiah, 1089–91
 - megadoxology, 781
 - in psalms, 841, 858, 872, 901–3
 - in Revelation, 1828
 - in Romans, 1636
 - dragons, 1823
 - angels against, 1820–21
 - Bel and the Dragon, 1157–58, 1341
 - sea-dragon, 1220
 - dreams, 374, 951, 1111, 1251; see also
 - divination
 - divination and, 447
 - Joseph and, 62, 66–67, 1386
 - of Nebuchadnezzar, 1253–58
 - of trees, 1257–58
 - drought, 528–29, 531, 1096, 1100–1101, 1295
 - drowning, 1322
 - drunkenness, 407, 443, 445, 1095
 - in Isaiah, 986–87
 - in Proverbs, 929, 933–34
 - Drusilla, 1603
 - dry bones, vision of, 1228–29
 - Duhm, Bernhard, 1877
 - dynasty, 993–94; see also Davidic dynasty
- E
- E (source of Pentateuch), 4–5, 38
 - eagles, 1178, 1197–98, 1817
 - early Christian church, 1869, 1904
 - Christ compared to, 1776
 - disharmony in, 1679–80, 1694–96, 1699, 1701–2, 1724
 - forgiveness in, 1795
 - lawsuits in, 1644–45
 - Lord’s Supper at, 1653–54
 - as new Israel, 1779
 - poor in, 1648
 - schism in, 1789–90
 - scripture in, 1860
 - as slave, 1779
 - social-scientific criticism of, 1885–86
 - suffering in, 1775–76
 - women in, 1652–53, 1657
 - early Christian community
 - elders in, 1731
 - life in, 1731
 - slaves in, 1731, 1745–46
 - ear-piercing ceremony, 1857
 - earth, 808
 - blessing of, 1012–13
 - as formless void, 11
 - horsemen on, 1358
 - of Israel, 547
 - life from, 12
 - punishment of, 1011–12
 - revenge from, 751
 - rulers of, 742
 - Sheol as, 104
 - as womb, 737
 - earthquake, 110, 486–87, 1300, 1815
 - Eastern Orthodox Church
 - canon in, 1841
 - Decalogue of, 111
 - east gate, 1239
 - Ebed-melech, 1133–34, 1136–37
 - Ebenezer, 416
 - Eber, 25
 - Ecclesiastes, Book of, 730, 945–59
 - economic hardship, 290; see also poor
 - ecstasy, 1808
 - Eden, garden of, 14
 - stones related to, 1215
 - Temple of Solomon compared to, 1236
 - wisdom in, 15–16
 - Edom, 61, 228, 543, 561, 1173, 1210
 - oracles against, 1150–51, 1225–26, 1297, 1302, 1315
 - vengeance on, 1063
 - war with, 221–22
 - Edomites, 288, 439–40, 517
 - education, 1850, 1906–7
 - Greco-Roman culture on, 1764
 - literacy, 1875
 - religious studies in, 1882
 - suffering as, 772–73
 - Torah in, 1906
 - Egypt, 29, 1870–71, 1878; see also Exodus; plagues
 - alliances with, 1006–7, 1021, 1027, 1289–90, 1897
 - Antiochus IV Epiphanes against, 1271–72
 - Assyria compared to, 1219–20
 - beginning of, 1891–92
 - Diaspora in, 1899–1900
 - doom of, 1216–17
 - gods of, 910
 - Isaiah on, 1005–7
 - Jacob to, 74–75
 - Jesus escape to, 1387
 - Judeans to, 1137, 1139–43
 - judgment on, 32
 - oracles against, 1140–41, 1144–46, 1216–22, 1297
 - pseudo-messiah from, 1599
 - return to, 581–82
 - in the underworld, 1221–22
 - water for, 1005–6
 - Egyptian love poetry, 961
 - Ehud, 366–67
 - Eichhorn, J. G., 1876
 - El, 306
 - Elam, 1152
 - Eldad, 207
 - elders, 87, 294, 402, 450, 1292
 - in Christian community, 1580, 1585
 - in early Christian community, 1731
 - of Gilead, 381
 - king and, 416, 455
 - plea of, 839–40
 - seventy, 207–8, 1490
 - tradition of, 1406–7, 1443, 1445
 - wickedness of, 1192–93
 - Eleazar, Aaron’s son, 195, 215, 219, 222, 233, 343, 357, 394, 1240
 - elect; see also chosen
 - freedom among, 1688–89
 - identity of, 1776–77
 - election, 1627
 - elemental spirits, 1686, 1710
 - elements, 999
 - elevation offering, 165
 - elevation ritual, 155
 - Elhanan, 318, 486, 612
 - Eli, 407–11, 413
 - Eliakim, 579
 - Eliashib, 696
 - Elihu, 735, 761–62, 767–78
 - Elijah, 539, 645, 1371, 1427, 1773, 1896; see also Elisha
 - Ahaziah and, 540–41
 - ascension of, 541–42
 - against Baal, 528–32, 540–41, 555
 - drought and, 528–29
 - Jesus compared to, 1388–89, 1409, 1440, 1448
 - John the Baptist compared to, 1400, 1432, 1482–83, 1523
 - Jonah compared to, 1320, 1323
 - letter of, 651
 - Naboth’s vineyard and, 535–36
 - in wilderness, 531–32
 - Elimelech, 397, 400–401
 - Eliphaz, 739–41, 750, 752, 755, 756–57
 - Elisha, 532–33, 539; see also Elijah
 - death of, 559–60
 - miracles of, 542–50, 559–60
 - Naaman and, 546–48
 - Shunammite woman and, 551
 - elite, 1903
 - Elizabeth, 1469
 - Holy Spirit in, 1470
 - Elkanah, 406–7
 - Elohistic Psalter, 781, 817, 825–26
 - Elyon, 306
 - emperors
 - household of, 1701, 1706
 - Paul’s appeal to, 1603–4
 - Satan related to, 1543
 - in vision, 1826
 - worship of, 1595, 1806, 1821–22, 1907
 - enchanters, 1251
 - endogamy, as theme of Tobit; see also marriage
 - end-time, 1272–73, 1457
 - childbirth and, 1420
 - in Ezekiel, 1228–29
 - parables of, 1422, 1439
 - Paul and, 1665
 - in 2 Thessalonians, 1721–23
 - truth of, 1737–38
 - endurance, 1768
 - courage and, 811–13
 - enemies, 764
 - curses of, 874–75
 - defeat by, 818–19

- deliverance from, 787, 795, 799–800, 809–10, 833
 deportation by, 1027
 destruction of, 1166
 divine presence and, 785
 fear of, 816
 friendship and, 753
 God as, 1094, 1166, 1281
 of hope, 855
 intruders as, 1801–3
 love of, 1481
 nations as, 829–30, 1292 pride of, 1168 protection from, 851–52
 punishment of, 839
 rescue from, 887
 silence and, 814
 Solomon and, 499–500
 trees and, 995
- English Bible
 of Coverdale, 1853–54 translation of, 1852–56 enjoyment, 949 life and, 952, 956
 of suffering, 934
- Enoch, 19, 842, 1803
 envy, 933, 951
- Epaphroditus, 1701, 1704, 1745
- ephemerality, 947
- Ephesians, Letter of Paul to, 1611, 1691–99
 historical context of, 1691–92 relation to Colossians, 1691
- Ephesus, 1805
 Paul in, 1594–96
 in Philippians, 1701
- ephod, 409–10, 439
 divination from, 426, 440–41, 449
 of Gideon, 376
 as priestly garment, 124
- Ephraim, 62–63, 76–77, 190, 231, 373
 descendants of, 596
 land of, 346–47
 Northern Kingdom as, 1122, 1280–81 prosperity of, 1289
 Syro-Ephraimite War, 977, 988–89, 991, 993–95, 1002–3
- Epicureans, 1908
- epilepsy, 1449
- Epimenides, 1742
- Epistle of Barnabas, 1869
- Epistles, 1612
 Pastoral, 1611, 1725
- equanimity, 811
- Erasmus, 1873
- Erastus, 1905–6
- Erigena, John Scotus, 1872
- Esau, 222, 1764
 descendants of, 60–61
 Jacob and, 47–51, 56–58, 77, 1150, 1225–26, 1316
- eschatology
 on false teaching, 1737
- on resurrection, 1532
- Essenes, 1695, 1881, 1902–3; see also Dead Sea Scrolls; John the Baptist
- Esther, Book of, 318, 716–27, 1851, 1901
 authorship of, 715
 God and, 716
- eternity, 856, 950
- ethics
 Genesis and, 10
 Paul on, 1689
- Ethiopia, 1003–5
- ethnography, 1879
- etiology, 413, 416, 420, 450
- euangelion. See gospel
- Eucharist, 1533, 1552, 1608
 Hebrews and, 1750
- eunuchs, 717–18, 1055, 1574
- Euphrates River, 612, 1889
- Eupolemus, 1900
- Eusebius, 1380, 1519, 1767, 1789, 1805
- Eutychus, 1596
- evangelists, 1379
- Eve
 creation of, 14–15
- everlasting
 circumcision as, 34
- evil, 1230, 1809 of companions, 896–97
 victory over, 1792
- Evil-merodach, 581, 1161
- excommunication, 214
- execution, 485
 corpses from, 285 of enemy leaders, 375
 of Jesus, 1462–63
 of kings, 334
- exhortation
 for community, 1772–73
 for deliverance, 1752
 against shame, 1761, 1764 to worship, 1754–55
- exiles, 184, 258, 298, 563, 565, 567–68, 668, 871, 1806; see also Babylonian exile; Tobit, Book of
- children of, 1047, 1327
 as death, 1169
 land for, 1317
 priests related to, 673
 sabbath in, 673
 as Sheol, 987
 of Transjordan tribes, 592
- Exodus (from Egypt), 240, 242, 315, 877–78, 1038; see also plagues lack of food in, 105–6, 206 route of, 101–2
 undoing of, 298–99
- Exodus, Book of, 81–142
 authorship of, 81
 canonical status and location, 81
 Deuteronomy and, 1857–58
 historical context, 81–82
 interpretation, 83
 literary history, 82
- name of, 81
 structure, 82
- Exodus historicity, 1893–94
- exorcism, Jesus and, 1439–40, 1445–46, 1450
- extortion, 1672
- eyes, 913–14, 968, 1361, 1393, 1494, 1813; see also blindness
- Ezekiel, 280, 735, 1369
 call of, 1176, 1178
 commission of, 1179–80
 in Daniel, 1269, 1272
 Day of the Lord in, 1184, 1191, 1217, 1220, 1224–25 end-time in, 1228–29
 Jeremiah compared to, 1124 throne-chariot vision of, 1178–79
 as Zadokite, 1175
- Ezekiel, Book of, 1175–1246
- Ezra (prophet), 6, 675–76, 685, 711, 1357
 Artaxerxes and, 686
 canon and, 1837
 memoirs of, 676, 686
 prayer of, 689–90
- Ezra, Book of, 675–92, 888, 1850
- Ezra-Nehemiah, 318, 1371
 Chronicles, Books of, similarities to, 317, 583, 675
 date of, 675
 intermarriage and, 676
 Jeremiah and, 674

F

- faith, 1463
 of Abraham, 1762, 1862
 in Acts, 1583–84
 in Christ, 1707–8, 1761
 of Eleazar, 1240 of friends, 1255
 in God, 1761–62
 healing related to, 1435
 of Jesus, 1763
 law or, 1683
 of Moses, 1762
 obedience and, 1708
 righteousness and, 1619, 1628–29 sea-crossing stories and, 1439
 suffering and, 1780
 test of, 364
 in Thessalonians, 1721–22
 truth of, 1795
 work and, 1770
- faithfulness, 104, 706, 807, 898, 1034
 in 1 Timothy, 1728
 in contrast to faithlessness, 331, 642–43 to Davidic dynasty, 856–57
 fertility and, 1280
 as first fruit, 1285–86
 of God, 828–29, 1129, 1627, 1664
 love and, 828
 piety and, 990
 promise of, 830

- of Solomon, 634, 636
- as trust, 786, 1343
- false accusers, 804
- false apostles, 1663, 1675
- false friends, 937
- false prophets, 281, 1097, 1111, 1140
 - hope from, 1191–92
- false revelation, 647
- false teachers, 1859
- false teaching, 1679–80, 1689
 - antichrist and, 1798
 - about messiah, 1790
 - Second Coming of Christ and, 1785–87
 - truth compared to, 1727–28, 1730, 1732–33, 1737, 1786
 - victory over, 1792–93
- family, 1885
 - of Jeremiah, 1084
 - of Jesus, 1403, 1485, 1561, 1801
- family burial plot, 42–43
- famine, 398, 528, 549–50, 1093, 1168, 1814
 - in Acts, 1579–80
- fasting, 415, 687, 1057
 - by community, 721
 - controversy about, 1435
 - by Daniel, 1267, 1269
 - debate about, 1479–80
 - Purim and, 721
 - in ritual, 1363–64
 - visions and, 1267
- fate, 950
 - of wickedness, 749–50, 752, 754–56, 761, 771–72
- father(s)
 - children and, 37, 1698
 - God as, 1625
 - instruction from, 905–17
 - Jesus and, 1452
 - kings as, 889
 - paternity, 914
- fear, 448
 - of Daniel, 1269
 - of death, 1752
 - of enemies, 816
 - of God, 55, 748–49, 1375
 - of power, 1440
- feasting, 604, 717–18, 966; see also Purim, feast of
 - marriage and, 1496
- feeding
 - of five thousand, 1406, 1442–43, 1487–88, 1531
 - miraculous, 1407, 1446
- Felix, Antonius, 1602–3
- female captives, 284–85
- female images, of God, 887, 890
- feminine sexuality, 715
- feminism, 10
- feminist biblical hermeneutics, 1887–88
- fertile crescent, 1889–90
- fertility, 833, 854
 - blessing of, 22, 1109
- consecration of firstborn and, 100
- covenant and, 264
- faithfulness and, 1280
- of Israel, 228
- of land, 182
- peace and, 899
- righteousness and, 1011
- rituals for, 1065
- sexual innuendo and, 1056
- sulfur and, 1829
- water for, 820, 888
- festival(s); see also Hanukkah, festival of; Passover, festival of; Sukkot, festival of
 - agricultural, 116–17, 1278
 - of booths, 117, 179–80, 235, 704–5, 1857
 - calendar, 178–80, 276–77
 - condemned, 1284–85
 - justice compared to, 1308
 - regulations for, 1242
 - sabbath and, 178
 - unfaithfulness and, 1281
- festival scrolls (Megillot), 945, 961
- Festus, Porcius, 1603–4
- Fifth Ezra. See Ezra, Fifth
- fig trees, 1300, 1414, 1416, 1454, 1497
- finances, 619
 - discipline and, 1650
 - for Levites, 712
 - for Temple of Solomon, restoration, 669, 679, 683–84
- fire, 383, 671, 1812
 - angels in, 1256
 - danger of, 1642
 - God and, 540, 614, 633, 985, 1068, 1310
 - pillars of, 102, 1063–64
 - unharmful by, 1255–56
- firstborn, 88, 1709; see also Jesus
 - consecration of, 100–101, 1332
 - death of, as tenth plague in Egypt, 88, 99–101
 - Exodus and, 242
 - of levirate marriage, 291
 - Levites as substitutes for, 193, 244
 - priests related to, 218
 - redemption of, 194
- First Esdras. See Esdras, First
- first fruits, 193
 - faithfulness as, 1285–86
- First Jewish Revolt, 1805, 1881, 1903
- First Letter of Paul to the Corinthians. See Corinthians, First Letter of Paul to
- First Letter of Paul to the Thessalonians. See Thessalonians, First Letter of Paul to
- First Maccabees. See Maccabees, First (Book of)
- fish; see also Jonah
- fishing, 1904
- flattery, 939
- flies, as fourth plague in Egypt, 93
- flogging, 291, 1551, 1568, 1600
- flood, 20, 24, 1319, 1878
 - promise after, 22
 - as re-creation, 21
- folly, 917; see also fools
 - wisdom and, 956–57
- food, 298, 546, 569, 756, 1280, 1651; see also dietary laws
 - blood in, 1533
 - for Daniel, 1251
 - idols and, 1648–49, 1810
 - lack of, in Exodus, 105–6, 206
 - locusts as, 1388
 - ritual offense with, 427
 - specialization and, 1891–92
 - speech as, 921
 - in wilderness, 850–51
- food offerings, 145
- foolishness, 1640
 - in 2 Corinthians, 1674–75
- fool(s), 936
 - parables of, 1495
 - speech of, 1674–75
- foot-washing, in John, 1544
- forbearance, 1099
- forced labor, 283; see also slavery
- foreigners, 100, 341, 1060
 - conversion of, 1055
 - Levites as, 1239
 - separation from, 712
 - vengeance against, 902–3
 - wrongdoing with, 983
- foreign invasion, 297–98, 307, 1077
- foreign nations, 1195, 1249–50
 - circumcision in, 1221
 - impurity of, 1182
- forgiveness, 150, 214, 801–2, 1411
 - blessings for, 866–67
 - confession and, 870–72
 - controversy about, 1434–35
 - in early Christian church, 1795
 - healing related to, 1479
 - inspiration of, 824–25
 - metaphors of, 853
 - of Paul, 1663, 1665–66
 - repentance and, 301
 - of sin, 807, 813–14, 1479
- form criticism, 1878–79
- Former Prophets, 493, 971
- Foucault, Michel, 1884
- foundations, 1394–95
- foundation stone, 1016, 1360
- Fourth Ezra. See Ezra, Fourth
- Fourth Gospel. See John, Gospel According to
- Fourth Maccabees. See Maccabees, Fourth (Book of)
- Fox, Everett, 1855
- fragrance, 964–66, 1290
- frankincense, 147
- fratricide, 377
- Frazer, James G., 1880
- freedom, 743–44; see also manumission
 - among elect, 1688–89

- of slaves, 275–76, 1647, 1866–67
 - in Spirit, 1667
 - free will, 665
 - freewill offerings, 177–78
 - friends, 937–38
 - business related to, 1706, 1736–46
 - faith of, 1255
 - Galatians as, 1686
 - God related to, 1761
 - lovers as, 967
 - friendship, 747–48, 751
 - enemies and, 753
 - frogs, as second plague in Egypt, 92
 - fruit, 1311
 - circumcision related to, 174
 - futility, 948
- G
- Gabriel, 1156–57, 1266, 1269–70, 1469
 - Gad, 238–40, 310–11, 591, 1149
 - Gaius, 1640, 1799–1800
 - Gaius Caligula, 1421
 - Galatians, Letter of Paul to, 1679–90, 1862
 - Galilean ministry, 1476–77
 - beginning of, 1389–90
 - Galilee, 1460, 1568, 1890, 1904
 - Galileo Galilei, 1875
 - Gallio, L. Junius, 1593, 1637
 - Gamaliel, 1568
 - gangs, 907
 - garden, 967
 - garden of Eden, 14–16, 1215, 1236
 - gatehouses, 1233–34
 - gatekeepers, 618, 701–2, 1062
 - gates, 419, 696, 917, 1246, 1339, 1831
 - city, 908, 944
 - east, 1239
 - of Temple, 1233
 - Gedaliah, 581, 1073, 1136–38, 1140
 - Gehazi, 544–45, 547–48
 - gematria, 1822
 - gemstones, 124
 - gender, 1887–88
 - literacy and, 1906
 - gender boundaries, 286
 - genealogies, 598
 - of Aaron, 91
 - of Abraham, 9
 - of Adam, 585
 - in Chronicles, 584
 - of David, 403, 588–89
 - in Genesis, 9–10
 - of Ishmael, 586
 - of Jesus, 1385, 1475
 - of Josiah, 589
 - of Judah, 231, 587–88
 - of Levites, 192, 710
 - of Noah, 9, 585
 - of Perez, 403
 - of priests, 710–11
 - in Ruth, 397–98, 403
 - of Shem, 586–87
 - of Solomon, 588–89
 - of Zephaniah, 1347
 - generations (toledot), 9, 300
 - generosity, 920, 1672–73
 - Genesis, Book of, 3–80
 - authorship of, 7
 - canon and, 7
 - Chronicles and, 583
 - contradictions in, 8
 - creation in, 11–15
 - dating of, 7–8
 - feminism and, 10
 - genealogy in, 9–10
 - historicity of, 8, 10, 1892–93
 - interpretation of, 9–11
 - Islam related to, 10
 - as literature, 11
 - matriarchs in, 8
 - meaning of word, 7
 - Moses and, 7
 - parallel stories in, 11
 - structure and contents of, 8–9
 - Geneva Bible, 1854
 - Gentiles, 1452
 - in Christ, 1683
 - circumcision of, 1578–79
 - citizens as, 1695
 - God on, 1576
 - inclusion of, in Christian community, 1585–86
 - as nations, 1457
 - offering of, 1634–35
 - Paul as apostle to the, 1679, 1681–83
 - geography, 322–23
 - of Bible, 1889–91
 - geopolitics, 974
 - German Bible, 1841
 - Gershonites, 195, 199, 592, 594
 - Geshur, 342
 - Gethsemane, 1424–25, 1549
 - giants, 253, 255
 - Anakites as, 211, 362
 - from angels, 1653
 - Nephilim as, 19
 - Gibeah, 391–93
 - Gibeon
 - music in, 608–9
 - pilgrimage to, 625
 - Gibeonites, 335–36, 485, 1894
 - Gideon, 371–77
 - Gilead, 380, 381, 591, 1087, 1301
 - Gilgal, 339, 1305
 - rituals and, 329–30, 1286
 - Gilgamesh, epic of, 20–22, 956
 - gleaning, 400–401
 - glory, 132, 413, 785, 788, 878, 1179, 1522
 - departure of, 1188
 - of divine presence, 1812–13
 - in Israel, 1229
 - participation in, 1621
 - suffering and, 1625
 - time related to, 1626
 - glory, divine, 106, 118; see also divine presence; theophanies
 - gnats, as third plague in Egypt, 93
 - Gnostics, 1733, 1790, 1842, 1870
 - goad, 1605
 - goat-demons, 640
 - goats, 169–70, 965, 1265
 - God, 5, 16, 32, 103, 133, 842, 1326, 1576, 1692, 1864; see also Lord
 - Aaron and, 217
 - accusation from, 980
 - of ancestors, 251
 - as angel, 33, 40
 - within ark of the covenant, 135, 141–42
 - Balaam with, 225–28
 - Belshazzar and, 1262–63
 - breath of, 959
 - children of, 1686, 1793
 - as Christ, 1743
 - church and, 1559–60, 1639
 - compassion of, 1468
 - confidence in, 860–61, 886
 - devotion to, 1072
 - as enemy, 1094, 1166, 1281
 - Esther and, 716
 - experience of, 895, 1184
 - face of, 57, 1127
 - face to face with, 132
 - faithfulness of, 828–29, 1129, 1627, 1664
 - faith in, 1761–62
 - as father, 1625
 - fear of, 55, 748–49, 1375
 - fire and, 540, 614, 633, 985, 1068, 1310
 - friends related to, 1761
 - gods compared to, 878, 1035
 - house of, 982, 1668
 - idols compared to, 1089–90
 - images of, 13, 256–57, 887, 890
 - Israel as child of, 1287–88
 - Israel of, 1690
 - jealous, 111
 - judgment of, 979, 981
 - justice of, 1618
 - as king, 309, 801, 821, 861, 863, 899–900
 - knowledge of, 89, 895, 1281, 1795–96
 - law related to, 256–57
 - lawsuit against, 744–45, 747, 758, 765, 778, 1093
 - longing for, 832–33
 - love and, 878–79, 1372, 1677
 - loyalty to, 261–62, 268–69, 272–73, 793, 801
 - marriage with, 1052
 - monotheism, 258, 308, 412, 487, 1869
 - names of, 4, 86–87, 132, 181, 298, 736, 805, 826, 1201, 1227, 1812, 1877
 - obedience to, 1753–54, 1765
 - over nations, 998, 1024
 - power of, 743, 760, 892, 895, 955, 1042–44, 1156, 1641, 1676–77, 1692
 - praise of, 1262–63

- punishment from, 15–17, 215–16, 429, 1086–87, 1170, 1174, 1181–83
- righteousness of, 1614–16, 1619
- Satan and, 1867
- separation from, 757–58, 787, 790, 842–43, 855, 1184
- servants of, 853–54, 887, 898
- as shepherd, 800–801, 861, 1169, 1224–25, 1539
- signs and wonders and, 1446–47
- with Solomon, 513–14, 517, 626
- Son of, 1406, 1427, 1436, 1514
- sovereignty of, 925, 980, 1250, 1365–66
- spirit of, 384–85, 996, 1179, 1257, 1355
- in Temple, 811, 1365
- in Temple of Solomon, 633–34, 1166, 1237
- testing of, 373–74
- Torah as, 881
- trust in, 791–92, 800–801, 818–19, 832, 890, 1756
- victory and, 433, 835–37, 863
- as woman, 306
- word of, 901, 1180–81
- wrath of, 130–31, 650, 1627–28, 1632, 1717, 1815
- gods, 301, 364, 446, 829, 894, 902
- altars of, 372–73
- angels as, 104
- of Babylon, 1042–44
- of Canaan, 516, 577, 1126
- commitment against, 1076–77
- curses related to, 296–97
- destruction of, 570
- of Egypt, 910
- God compared to, 878, 1035
- in heaven, 255
- household, 54
- knowledge about, 1649–50
- local manifestations of, 59–60
- names of, 1250–51
- non-, 306–7
- prostitution and, 171
- punishment related to, 304–5
- storm, 167, 795, 801, 805
- in war, 413, 462
- Gog of Magog oracles, 1229–32, 1830
- gold, 238, 1812
- golden calf, 130–31, 866
- Golden Rule, 1394
- Goliath, 318, 431–32, 434, 444, 486, 612
- Gomer, 1275–79
- Gomorrah, Sodom and, 30, 36–37, 307, 981, 1306, 1350
- good news, 1432; see also gospel
- Good News Bible, 1855–56
- Good Samaritan, 1491–92
- Good Shepherd, 1872
- Goshen, 73, 339
- gospel (euangelion)
- language of, 1380, 1849
- literary genre of, 1379–80
- meaning of term, 1379
- Q and, 1380–81
- of salvation, 1615
- to Samaria, 1572
- sources of, 1380–81
- Synoptic, 1380–81, 1519, 1541, 1877–78
- Thessalonian's response to, 1716–17
- Gospel of Thomas*, 1380–81, 1881
- Gottwald, Norman, 1885
- governors, 700
- grace, 1622
- in 2 Corinthians, 1671
- heart related to, 819
- in Hebrews, 1750
- grain harvests, 371, 399–401
- grain offering, 146–47, 153, 213
- for purification offering, 151
- gratitude, 1750, 1752, 1756, 1764
- graves, 697; see also tombs
- Greco-Roman biographies, 1379
- Greco-Roman culture, 1764
- Greco-Roman world, 1611–12
- Greece, 1365
- greed, warning against, 1495
- Greek, 1849, 1900; see also Old Greek
- Alexander the Great and, 1850
- of Apocrypha, 1851
- Hebrew Bible and, 1846, 1851
- Greek Bible, 1840–41, 1846
- Greek philosophy, 1900–1901
- Greeks, 1535
- citizenship as, 1906–7
- conversion of, 1590–92
- Jesus and, 1542
- green, pale, as color, 1814
- Gregory of Nazianzus, 1843
- grief; see also mourning
- of Naomi, 399
- Grosseteste, Robert, 1873
- guilt offering, 151, 196, 414, 923
- guilty, 1187–88; see also punishment
- Gunkel, Hermann, 1878–79
- Gutenberg, Johannes, 1873–74
- H
- H. See Holiness Collection; Holiness Source
- Habakkuk, 1864–65
- Habakkuk, Book of, 1341–46
- Hades, 1400; see also Sheol
- haftarah*, 971
- Hagar, 33–34, 40, 1687
- “Haggadah,” 262–63
- Haggai, 1364, 1373
- on Second Temple, 682
- Zechariah (prophet) and, 1357
- Haggai, Book of, 1353–56
- haggler, 929–30
- hail, 337
- as seventh plague in Egypt, 94–95
- hair, 474, 479–80, 968, 1182, 1593
- styles for, 1652–53
- halakhah*. See law(s)
- Ham, 24–25
- descendants of, 585
- Haman, 718, 726
- Ahasuerus and, 715–16, 720, 722–25
- Amalekites and, 720
- Hananiah, 1116–18
- hand; see also laying on of hands
- right, 845, 1694
- withered, 521
- handwriting on the wall, in Daniel, 1259–61
- Hannah, 406–7, 1470–71
- Hannah, Song of, 407–8
- Hanukkah, festival of, 1539
- Haran, 27
- hardened heart, 88, 95–96, 340, 1064, 1363
- Jesus on, 1443, 1450–51
- harvest festival. See Pentecost; Shavuot
- harvests, 936
- gleaning, 400–401
- grain, 371, 399–401
- on sabbath, 1401, 1436
- Hasmoneans, 1901–2; see also Mac-cabees
- haste, 940
- hatred, 1372
- Hazeael, 551, 558
- Hazor, 1151–52
- healing, 572, 866
- of blindness, 1414, 1416, 1447, 1453, 1506
- of centurion, 1395
- from clothing, 1443
- from demons, 1409–10, 1433–34, 1477–78, 1485–86
- from disciples, 1441
- of epilepsy, 1449
- faith related to, 1435
- forgiveness related to, 1479
- of hemorrhage, 1397, 1440, 1486–87
- of leprosy, 1395, 1434, 1478–79, 1504
- by Peter, 1564
- on sabbath, 1401, 1436, 1477–78, 1480, 1497–98, 1529–30, 1537
- silence about, 1441
- of Simon's mother-in-law, 1434, 1477
- hearing, 964, 970, 1091–92, 1132
- hearts, 793, 803, 966, 1101, 1227, 1294, 1482, 1852; see also hardened heart
- circumcision of, 301, 1571
- foreskin of, 1077, 1089
- grace related to, 819
- mind and, 953
- tablet of, 910
- heaven, 565–66
- bread from, 1532
- gods in, 255
- kingdom of, 1388
- loyalty and, 822
- queen of, 1141–43
- tabernacle related to, 1757–58
- heavenly beings, 789
- heavenly book, 300

- heavenly lights, 12
- Hebrew, 1855, 1874
- alphabet of, 789, 808
 - as spoken language, 1849
 - writing in, 1845, 1849, 1876
- Hebrew Bible, 1738, 1881; see also Pentateuch; Torah
- ancient versions of, 1846
 - in Aramaic, 1846, 1849–50, 1863–64
 - in Dead Sea Scrolls, 1845–46
 - Greek and, 1846, 1851
 - interpretation of itself, 1856–59
 - language of, 1846, 1848–51
 - social-scientific criticism of, 1885
 - textual criticism of, 1845–46
- Hebrews, 424, 426–27, 1703
- Eucharist and, 1750
 - grace in, 1750
- Hebrews, Letter to the, 1749–66
- Hebron, 344, 362, 475, 518
- Hell. See Hades
- Hellenism, 1431, 1569, 1579
- Ecclesiastes and, 945
- Hellenistic period, 1899–1902
- hemorrhages, healing of, 1395, 1440, 1486–87
- Henry VIII, 1853–54
- herem (devoted thing), 323, 362; see also dedication(s); holy war
- Achan and, 332–33
 - at Ai, 333–34
 - against Amalekites, 428–29
 - of the cities, 338–39
 - in Jericho, 330–31
- heresy, 1871; see also apostasy
- hermeneutics, cultural, 1886–89
- Herod Agrippa, 1442, 1561, 1580–81, 1904
- Herod Agrippa I, 1580
- Herod Agrippa II, 1604–5
- Herod Antipas, 1387, 1487, 1498, 1514, 1581, 1805
- Herod the Great, 1386, 1457, 1474, 1526, 1602, 1890, 1903–4
- heroes, 489–90
- Heth, 25
- Hexateuch, 3, 318, 321, 1880
- Hezekiah, 568–69, 574, 665, 697, 1897
- David compared to, 663–64
 - Ecclesiastes and, 946
 - in Isaiah, 570–73, 1007, 1010, 1030–31
 - prayer of, 570–71, 666
 - Proverbs and, 935–41
 - recovery of, 1030–31
 - reforms of, 567, 659–64, 1026
 - Solomon compared to, 666
- high places, 495, 500, 524–25, 1183; see also shrine
- in Amos, 1310
 - of Jeroboam, 640
 - Jerusalem as, 1325
 - in Micah, 1325–26
 - priests of, 577, 607
- high priesthood, 1898; see also priesthood
- Hasmoneans and, 1901–2
- high priests, 558, 1161, 1175
- Antiochus IV and, 1268
 - on Day of Atonement, 1758–59
 - homicide and, 245
 - impurity of, 1360
 - intermarriage of, 691–92
 - Jesus as, 1756–57, 1759
 - sin of, 149
- Hiram of Tyre, 504–5, 508–9, 514, 626–27
- historical books, 315–57, 1806
- Esther, 318
 - Ezra, 318
 - historicity and, 318–19
 - historiography and, 315–16
 - Kings as, 493
 - organization of, 316–17
 - Ruth, 318
- historical context
- of Deuteronomy, 247–48
 - of Ephesians, 1691–92
 - of Exodus, Book of, 81–82
- historical-critical method, 1385, 1876, 1888
- historical fiction, 716
- historical review, 250–51
- historical revisionism, 317
- historical study, 1882
- historical superscriptions, 1864
- historicity, 1879, 1894
- of Genesis, 8, 10, 1892–93
 - historical books and, 318–19
 - of Joshua, 317
- historiographical literature, 1900
- historiography, 494–95
- history, 1894–95
- literary, 82, 248–49, 1558
 - primeval, 11–13
 - prophetic books and, 972
- Hittites, 42, 363
- Hobbes, Thomas, 1875
- holiness, 175, 1232
- in community, 1791
 - conflict over, 215–16
 - of God's children, 1793
 - gradations of, 1234–35
 - of human beings, 1631
 - impurity and, 196
 - of Israelites, 173–74
 - of Jerusalem, 1370
 - obligations of, 273–74
 - separateness as, 160, 688
 - spirit of, 1615
 - in world, 1777
- Holiness Collection (Holiness Code) (H), 6, 143–44, 170–85
- Holiness School (HS), 1175–77, 1184
- Holiness source (H), 143, 149
- Holocaust (Shoah), 1055, 1347
- holy city, 709, 711
- holy items, 159, 195; see also sacred vessels
- holy kiss, 1661, 1677, 1720
- holy of holies, 120–21, 168, 507, 701, 988, 1028, 1060–61
- Aaron in, 169–70
 - in Ezekiel, 1235
 - Jesus and, 1427, 1463
- holy place. See sanctuary
- Holy Spirit, 1492, 1554, 1560
- Abraham and, 1693
 - baptism of, 1561–64
 - blasphemy of, 1495
 - in Elizabeth, 1470
 - human beings and, 1624
 - Paul and, 1594–95
 - speaking in tongues as, 1578
 - Spirit of Jesus as, 1588
- holy war, 282–83, 288, 605, 641, 725, 999, 1365–66; see also dedication(s); herem
- plague tradition as, 1370
 - triumph in, 648
- holy water, 197
- homicide, 244–45; see also murder
- unintentional, 281–82
- homosexuality, 10, 172
- Paul against, 1616
- honesty, 1333, 1501, 1508–9
- honey, 147, 427, 912
- honor, 763, 1886
- of Boaz, 400–402
 - of body, 1655
 - crown and, 1717
 - of human beings, 788–89
 - of Mordecai, 722–23
 - punishment and, 848–49
 - for restoration, 1227–28
- hope
- despair and, 1169–70
 - enemy of, 855
 - from false prophets, 1191–92
 - judgment and, 1325, 1333–34
 - oracles of, 1328
 - suffering and, 1779
 - of survival, 1114
 - Temple and, 803–4
 - trust and, 896
- Horeb, Mount. See Mount Sinai/Horeb
- Horites, 61
- horns, 1358–59
- horsemen, 1358
- horses, 339–40, 465, 516, 1096, 1362
- Hosea, Book of, 1275–90, 1897
- Hoshea, 565, 1282
- hospitality, 545, 1088, 1796
- of Abraham, 35, 37
 - belief related to, 1799–1800
 - for missionaries, 1744
- household gods, 54
- households
- codes, 1908
 - of emperor, 1701, 1706
 - patriarchy in, 1708
 - relationships in, 1707, 1712
 - of Stephanas, 1637

- House of Israel, 142 house(s), 957–58
 of God, 982, 1668
 of the Lord, 677
 Second Temple and, 1353–54 surface afflictions in, 166
- HS. See Holiness School
- hubris, national, 1150
- Hugo of St. Cher, 1873
- Huldah, 576, 669–71
- human beings, 748–50, 1179 age of, 18–19, 909, 954, 1066
 creation of, 13
 divine beings with, 19
 fate of, 950
 holiness of, 1631
 Holy Spirit and, 1624
 honor of, 788–89 judgment of, 1616–17
 power and, 808, 1033–34
 scattering of, 26 spreading of, 13 surface affliction on, 162–64
 wickedness of, 20
- human sacrifice, 41–42, 563, 573; see also children
- humility of Ezra, 687
 parable on, 1499 of Paul, 1673–74
- humor
 in Jonah, 1320
- hunger, 1182; see also famine
 of children, 1167
- husbands, 1697–98, 1712, 1778
- Hushai, 476–79
- hymns, 854
 psalms as (See Psalms)
 for sabbath, 859–960
- hypocrites, 1392, 1418, 1497, 1689
- I
- ibn Ezra, Abraham, 4, 1868
- ideal age, in Micah, 1329–30
- identity, 299–300, 721, 1809, 1898
 communal, 97
 destiny and, 1448 of elect, 1776–77
 of Jesus, 1520, 1522
- idolatry, 256–57, 376, 389, 520, 1039, 1571
 as adultery, 1811
 condemnation of, 1004, 1085, 1087
 divination and, 429
 in Ezekiel, 1183–84, 1186–87
 meat and, 1648–49, 1652
 of nations, 983, 1042–43
 of priests, 1348
 as promiscuity, 1073–74
 as prophecy, 1369
 punishment for, 1284 warning against, 1651–52
- idols food and, 1648–49, 1810
 God compared to, 1089–90 images, 1872
 female, of God, 887, 890
 of God, 13, 256–57, 887, 890
 in Second Temple, 1421
- Immanuel, 990–92
- impurity, 438
 of community, 1355
 dross as, 935
 of foreign nation, 1182 of high priests, 1360
 holiness and, 196
 of menstruation, 161, 167–68
 ritual, 577–78, 712
 of salt, 1500
 of sanctuaries, 1177, 1183
- impurity rules, 153–54, 159 on childbirth, 161–62 sexual discharges, 167–68
 sin and, 150–51
 surface afflictions, 162–66
- inadvertent sin, 149
- incense altar, 127–28
- incense offerings, 157–58
- incest, 288, 291, 471–72
 Ham and, 24
 of Lot, 38
- indictment, 1453–54
 curses and, 1372–73
 against Israel, 1279
 against priests, 1279–80
- indigenous peoples, 1887
- individual responsibility, 928
- infanticide, 84
- ingathering, festival of. see booths, festival of; Sukkot, festival of
- inheritance, 133, 280, 420, 954, 1173
 of Abraham, 1685
 intermarriage and, 689–90
 of Promised Land, 230–32, 238–40
 in Ruth, 402
 of salvation, 1751
 of women, 3, 214, 231–32, 245–46, 346, 1076
- injustice, 832 against innocence, 768, 1104 to poor, 928, 984, 1080–81
 promise related to, 1129
- inner sanctuary. See holy of holies
- innocence, 743–44, 753–54, 838
 death and, 751
 injustice against, 768, 1104
 oath of, 761, 787–88
- inspiration of forgiveness, 824–25
- instructional psalms, 784, 797, 811–12, 822, 825, 846–48, 876–77
- Instruction of Amenemope*, 906, 932
- instructions, 1373 on dietary laws, 159–60, 274, 1435, 1445 to disciples, 1447–50
 from fathers, 905–17
 as light, 914
 for purification offerings, 153–54
 for sacrifice, 145
- integrity, 268
 of judicial system, 282
- intentional sin, 149, 168–70
- interest on loans, 699–700
- intermarriage, 133–34, 229–30, 237, 288, 1373
 children of, 690, 692
 Ezra–Nehemiah and, 676
 of high priests, 691–92
 inheritance and, 689–90
 of Joseph, 69
 with Moabites, 590
 in postexilic Judah, 688–92, 713
- intertribal marriage, 246
- intimidation, 698–99
- intruders, 1801–3
- Irenaeus, 1557, 1692, 1789–90, 1842, 1870
- Iron Age, 1894–95
- irrigation, 930, 1889, 1891
- Isaac, 43
 Abraham compared with, 47, 1864
 blessing of, 48–49
 Christ compared to, 42
 death of, 60
 descendants of, 46–47
 Ishmael and, 40, 1867
 Jesus compared to, 42
 name of, 36
 sacrifice of, 41–42
- bar Isaac, Solomon (Rashi), 1867
- Isaiah, 657
 Ahaz in, 989–91, 1002, 1026, 1030
 Babylonian exile and, 572–73, 927, 977, 1037
 Ezekiel compared to, 1176
 Hezekiah and, 570–73, 1007, 1010, 1030–31
 Jesus and, 1860–61
 oracles in, 980, 993–94, 998–99, 1877 outline of, 978–79
 woes in, 986, 994, 1004–5, 1015–20, 1022–23
- Isaiah, Book of, 977–1068, 1877; see also Second Isaiah; Third Isaiah
- Iscairiot, 1437
- Ishbaal, 453, 456–59, 479
- Ishmael, son of Abraham, 1687
 descendants of, 45–46, 376
 genealogy of, 586
 Isaac and, 40, 1867
- Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, 1138
- Islam, 10
- Israel, 105–7, 260, 639, 1877, 1893; see also
 ancient Near East and Israel;
 Northern Kingdom; sabbath
 adultery of, 1771
 as Babylonian exile, 1189–90
 Christ and, 1629–30
 Christians compared to, 1776
 covenant with, 109–18, 1373–74

ISRAELITES—JERUSALEM FAMILIES GENEALOGIES

- as Davidic dynasty, 902–3, 1054
- death of, 1085–86, 1088–89
- earth of, 547
- expansion of, 1317
- fertility of, 228
- founding of, 849–50
- glory in, 1229
- of God, 1690
- as God's child, 1287–88
- Gomer compared to, 1276
- House of, 142
- indictment against, 1279
- Jacob as, 57, 83, 1034
- Jesus compared to, 1387
- Judah separate from, 422, 456–57
- judgment on, 985–87, 1309
- kingship, beginnings of, in, 423–29
- lawsuit against, 1288–89, 1332–33
- new, 1437, 1779
- oracles against, 1303–4, 1311–13
- redeemer of, 1036–38, 1154
- rejection from, 1630
- restoration of, 1046, 1124–25
- salvation of, 1631
- sanctity of, 1177
- as servant, 1045–46, 1051
- unfaithfulness of, 1072, 1195
- unification of, 997, 1277
- unity of, 997, 1277
- unity of Judah and, 997, 1277
- as vine, 1286, 1546
- wealth of, 1305
- Israelites
 - holiness of, 173–74
 - love for, 1627
 - offerings for, 149–50
 - slavery related to, 83–84, 183
- Issachar, 349
 - descendants of, 595
- J
- J (source of Pentateuch)
 - anthropomorphic God in, 5
 - Covenant Collection and, 5
 - dating of, 5, 10
 - matriarchs and, 38
- Jaazaniah, 1187
- Jacob (Israel), 9, 586
 - angels' stairway and, 50–51
 - blessing for, 48–49, 60
 - blessing from, 77–78
 - burial of, 79–80, 1570
 - Canaan for, 30
 - chiasm related to, 46
 - children of, 52
 - death of, 76–79
 - departure of, 54
 - descendants of, 46, 60, 63, 83, 587
 - to Egypt, 74–75
 - Esau and, 47–51, 56–58, 77, 1150, 1225–26, 1316
 - flocks of, 53
 - as Israel, 57, 83, 1034
 - Laban and, 53–56
 - marriage of, 52
 - name of, 57
 - with Pharaoh, 75
 - Jacob's well, 1528
 - Jahaziel, 649
 - James, 1413–14, 1580
 - as Jerusalem church leader, 1585, 1767
 - James, Letter of, 1767–73
 - Luther and, 1767–68
 - Japheth, 25
 - Jason, 1901
 - jealousy, 111, 306, 938, 1261
 - of Saul, 434
 - Jebusites, 327
 - Jehoahaz, 578–79, 672, 1070, 1108
 - Jehoash, 557–60
 - Jehoiachin (Jeconiah), 415, 494, 539, 582, 654, 672, 1161
 - reign of, 673–74, 1070, 1095, 1109, 1112
 - Jehoiada, 557, 653
 - Jehoiakim, 579–80, 1070, 1095, 1108–9, 1130
 - against scroll, 1131–32
 - Jehonadab, 555
 - Jehoram, 540–41, 551–52, 646, 650–51
 - Jehoshaphat, 538, 645–50, 1296–97
 - Jehosheba, 556, 652
 - Jehu, 552–56
 - dynasty of, 993–94
 - Jephthah, 380–83
 - Jeremiah, 493, 671, 673, 1051, 1408
 - arrests of, 1083, 1125, 1132–34
 - call of, 1071
 - complaints of, 1092–93, 1098–99, 1101–6
 - in conflict, 1114–31
 - Daniel and, 1156–57
 - Deuteronomistic History and, 1069, 1112, 1117–18, 1141, 1159–61
 - Deuteronomy and, 1083–84, 1091, 1102, 1126, 1128, 1137
 - doxologies in, 1089–91
 - family of, 1084
 - persona of, 1070
 - Jeremiah, Book of, 1069–1161
 - Ezra-Nehemiah and, 674
 - fall of Jerusalem and, 1173
 - Habakkuk compared to, 1341
 - Jonah compared to, 1320
 - Lamentations and, 1163
 - Micah in, 1115–16, 1325
 - on restoration, 677
 - sign-acts of, 1099–1100, 1102, 1105, 1141
- Jericho, 356
 - archaeology and, 527
 - herem in, 330–31
 - Rahab and, 326–27, 331, 333
- Jeroboam, 62, 77, 80, 495, 517–18, 520, 523, 639; see also Jonah
 - death of, 642
 - high places of, 640
 - Hosea and, 1275
 - prophet and, 521–22, 525–26
- Jeroboam II, 561, 1276
- Jerome, 583, 1870
 - on LXX, 1841
 - Vulgate from, 1848
- Jerubbaal, 373
- Jerusalem, 31, 54, 263, 270, 280, 327, 336–37, 379, 392, 1351, 1890
 - adultery of, 1177
 - ark of the covenant to, 462–63
 - as bride, 1830
 - as city of David, 270–71
 - collection for, 1660–61, 1663–64, 1671–73
 - conquest/destruction of, 978
 - curse against, 1332–33
 - as daughter, 1330, 1347, 1352
 - David related to, 270–71, 345, 434, 453, 460, 481–83, 600, 605
 - destruction of, 539, 894, 1071, 1159, 1175–76, 1316, 1329, 1426–27
 - failure to conquer, 345
 - fall of, 1135–37, 1136, 1209–10
 - foundation stone of, 1016
 - as high place, 1325
 - holiness of, 1370
 - Jesus' entry into, 1414, 1453, 1507, 1542
 - Judah against, 362
 - judgment against, 1351
 - Lamentations and, 1163–66
 - Luke on, 1560
 - measurement of, 1359, 1831
 - new, 1053, 1606, 1612, 1628, 1630–31
 - oracles on, 980
 - Paul in, 1598–1601, 1613, 1681–82
 - peace for, 886–87
 - as personification as woman, 1049–50, 1164
 - promises to, 1352
 - rape of, 1165
 - rebuilding of, under Nehemiah, 1124, 1127
 - rebuilding walls of, 693, 695–701
 - repopulation of, 709–10
 - restoration of, 697, 900, 985, 1196–97, 1329
 - in Revelation, 1819
 - salvation in, 1352
 - siege of, 567–72, 580, 1008–9, 1026–29, 1134, 1171–72, 1181–82, 1208–9
 - suffering of, 980–81
 - as throne, 1076
 - unfaithfulness of, 1164–65
 - water for, 990, 1009
 - women and, 697, 963, 967, 984–85, 1049–50
 - Zion as, 54, 1164
- The Jerusalem Bible, 1855
- Jerusalem church, 1585, 1767
- Jerusalem families' genealogies, 598

- Jerusalem Temple, 119, 1020, 1857; see also Temple, Second; Temple of Solomon
- Jesus in, 1453–54, 1473–74, 1508, 1524, 1526, 1534
- Jeshua (Joshua)
- as leader of the returnees, 678–79
 - in Zechariah, Book of, 1359–61
- Jeshurun, 1039
- Jesse, 587
- Jesus, 229, 1432, 1588; see also Christ; healing
- Abraham and, 1385, 1537
 - angels compared to, 1751
 - annunciation of birth of, 1472
 - anointing of, 1459, 1464, 1483–84, 1542
 - arrest of, 1424–25, 1458–61, 1511, 1513, 1549–50
 - authority of, 1391, 1437, 1454, 1508, 1530, 1536–37
 - baptism of, 1388, 1433, 1475
 - belief in, 1538
 - from Bethlehem, 1386
 - birth of, 1386, 1472
 - as blasphemer, 1396, 1461, 1479, 1530
 - burial of, 1428, 1463–64, 1516, 1542, 1553
 - children and, 1412, 1450–51, 1489, 1505
 - circumcision of, 1473
 - on commandments, 1456
 - on community, 1410
 - compassion of, 1397–98
 - before council, 1425–26, 1513, 1550
 - crucifixion of, 1384, 1427, 1462–63, 1515–16, 1552–53
 - in Daniel, 1264
 - David and, 1385, 1861
 - in Davidic dynasty, 1456, 1470, 1475, 1488
 - death and resurrection of, 1409–10, 1413, 1488–89, 1506, 1534–35, 1536, 1539, 1663–64, 1783, 1813
 - death of, 1427, 1515–16, 1536
 - defense of, 1534–37
 - devil and, 1388–89, 1476
 - Elijah compared to, 1388–89, 1409, 1440, 1448
 - escape to Egypt, 1387
 - execution of, 1462–63
 - Exodus and, 83
 - exorcism and, 1439–40, 1445–46, 1450
 - faith of, 1763
 - family of, 1403, 1485, 1561, 1801
 - genealogy of, 1385, 1475
 - on hardened heart, 1443, 1450–51
 - as high priest, 1756–57, 1759
 - holy of holies and, 1427, 1463
 - home of, 1437
 - identity of, 1520, 1522
 - Isaac compared to, 42
 - Isaiah and, 1860–61
 - Israel compared to, 1387
 - Jerusalem entry of, 1414, 1453, 1507, 1542
- in Jerusalem Temple, 1453–54, 1473–74, 1508, 1524, 1526, 1534
- John the Baptist and, 1468, 1483, 1522–23, 1527
- as judge, 1572
 - judgment and, 1450
 - as Lamb, 1813–14, 1816, 1822–23, 1828–29, 1832
 - on law, 1390–91, 1443–44, 1491, 1860
 - as Lord, 1453, 1472
 - Moses compared to, 1390, 1409, 1488–89, 1522, 1531, 1533, 1753, 1861
 - in Nazareth, 1476–77
 - parting from disciples, 1545–49
 - Passover festival of, 1423–24, 1459–60, 1520–21, 1531, 1551
 - before Pilate, 1425–27, 1462, 1514, 1550–51
 - prayer of, 1460
 - psalms and, 1861
 - as rabbi, 1424
 - Rabbinic Judaism and, 1384–85
 - rejection of, 1405, 1489–90
 - return of, 1716, 1718–19, 1721–23
 - sacrifice and, 1862
 - Samaritans and, 1489–92, 1527–29
 - as servant, 1051
 - on slavery, 1536–37
 - as Son of David, 1397
 - teaching on divorce from, 1391, 1412, 1450–51, 1646, 1861
 - titles for, 1478, 1832
 - tomb of, 1464, 1516, 1553
 - transfiguration of, 1409, 1448–49, 1488–89
 - trial of, 1417–18, 1455–56, 1461–62
 - wealth and, 1451–52
 - in wilderness, 1433–34
 - women and, 1385, 1407, 1464, 1484, 1527–29, 1635–36
- Jethro, 108, 1858
- jewelry, 97
- Jewish Bible, 971; see also Hebrew Bible; Jewish premodern bible interpretation; Pentateuch; Torah
- Jewish Christians, 1584, 1741–42
- Jewish Diaspora. See Diaspora
- Jewish premodern bible interpretation
- creative historiography in, 1865–66
 - medieval commentators in, 1867–68
 - Pesharim and, 1864–65
 - rabbinic interpretation in, 1866–67
 - translation as interpretation in, 1863–64
- Jewish Publication Society, 1855
- Jewish scriptures interpretation.
- See* Jewish premodern bible interpretation; New Testament Jewish scriptures interpretation
- Jewish War, 1457–58
- Jews; see also Song of the Three Jews
- definition of, 1617–18
 - king of the, 1463, 1515
- Paul and, 1715
 - Rome expulsion of, 1592, 1613
- Jezebel, 527, 530–31, 535–36, 554–55, 1811
- Joab, 445, 480–81, 490, 495–96, 499, 600
- Joash, 539, 557–59, 653–55
- Job, Book of, 732, 735–79
- Jochebed, 90–91
- Joel, 1562–63
- Joel, Book of, 1291–97
- Johanan, 1139–40
- Johannine community, 1520
- Johannine school, 1519
- John, 1413–14, 1519–20
- arrest of, 1565–66
- John, First Letter of, 1789–96
- John, Gospel According to, 1381–82, 1519–55, 1789–90
- authorship of, 1519
 - “the Jews” and, 1521
- John, Second Letter of, 1798
- author of, as “the Elder,” 1797
- John, Third Letter of, 1800
- author of, as “the Elder,” 1799
- John Mark, 1431, 1588
- John Paul II, 1848
- John the Baptist, 1371, 1433, 1583
- annunciation of birth of, 1469–70
 - birth of, 1469
 - death of, 1405, 1442
 - Elijah compared to, 1400, 1432, 1482–83, 1523
 - Jesus and, 1468, 1483, 1522–23, 1527
 - messengers from, 1399–1400
 - preaching of, 1388
 - on repentance, 1474
 - in wilderness, 1432
- Jonah, 1408
- in Kings, 561
 - Nahum compared to, 1335
 - sign of, 1493
 - Sodom and, 1319–20
- Jonah, Book of, 1319–23
- Jonathan (grandson of Moses), 390–91
- Jonathan (Saul’s son), 424–26, 434, 485
- covenant with David and, 437–38
- Jordan River, 243, 542, 1890
- crossing of, in Joshua, 327–29
- Joseph (father of Jesus), 1473–74
- Mary and, 1386
- Joseph (son of Jacob), 364
- birthright of, 590–91
 - brothers of, 62–64, 69–73, 76–80
 - dreams and, 62, 66–67, 1386
 - intermarriage of, 69
 - reality and, 11
 - in slavery, 63–64
 - story of, 62–80
- Joseph (tribe), 294, 310, 343, 346–47; see also Ephraim; Manasseh
- Joseph of Arimathea, 1463–64, 1543
- Josephus, 1865–66, 1893
- on canon, 1838
- Joshua, 80, 107, 207–8, 210–11, 359, 1754

JOSHUA (HIGH PRIEST)—KING(S)

- Achan compared to, 331–33, 335
 Canaan in, 3, 324–25
 death and burial of, 357
 Deuteronomistic History and, 304, 319, 321
 land for, 350
 as parallel to Moses, 323–24, 330, 334 transfer of leadership to, 233, 302–3, 311–12
- Joshua (high priest). See Jeshua
- Joshua, Book of, 321–57, 364, 1880, 1894
 authorship of, 321
 Deuteronomistic History and, 304, 319, 321
 geographical plan of, 322–23
 historicity of, 317
 interpretation of, 322–23
 Jordan River crossing in, 327–29 land division in, 341–42, 345–53
 Passover, festival of, in, 329–30 repetition in, 327, 329, 333
 structure of, 321–22
- Josiah, 493, 521, 1897
 death of, 576, 578
 genealogy of, 589
 Habakkuk and, 1342
 in Jeremiah, 1070, 1083, 1108, 1116, 1131–32
 Passover and, 578, 670–71
 reforms of, 247, 539, 574, 578, 668–71, 1141
- Jotham, 377–78, 561–63, 657–58, 989
- joy, 789, 864, 1470
 in Philippians, 1701
- Jubilees*, 1865–66
- jubilee year, 181–82, 1061; see also sabbatical year
 slavery and, 1866–67
- Judah (Jacob's son), 60, 62, 70–73, 200
 David compared to, 64–65
 descendants of, 589–90
 genealogy of, 231, 587–88
 Tamar and, 65, 587
- Judah (kingdom), 539, 1896–97; see also Southern Kingdom; Temple, Second Babylonian exile of, 672–74
 Benjamin in, 597
 covenant and, 1091
 deliverance of, 1013–14
 end of, 578–82
 Israel separate from, 422, 456–57
 judgment against, 985–87
 last kings of, 672–73
 lions of, 1017–18, 1200 as name of Southern Kingdom, 494–95, 502, 518 among nations, 1112–14
 oracle against, 1303
 priests to, 640
 unfaithfulness of, 1075
 unity of Israel and, 997, 1277
 vine as, 1200–1201
- Judah (tribe), 296, 310, 343–45 against Canaan, 360, 362–63 leadership of, 393
- Judahite Monarchy, 584
- Judahites, 709
- Judaism, 1805; see also Diaspora; rabbinic Judaism Christianity compared to, 1869
 church and, 1559
 Genesis related to, 9–10
 law and, 1680
 of Paul, 1598–99
 postcritical interpretation in, 1888–89
- Judas, 1459–60, 1511
 death of, 1426, 1561
- Judas Maccabeus, 805
- Judas the Galilean, 1568
- Jude, Letter of, 1801–3 2 Peter and, 1783, 1786, 1802
- Judea
 to Egypt, 1137, 1139–43
 speech against, 1326
- Judean deportation, 1175
 in Jeremiah, 1069, 1106, 1123, 1136, 1140, 1159–60
 in Lamentations, 1168–69
- judges; see also Samuel corruption of, 1328, 1505
 days of, 359–60
 divine, 789–90, 797, 829, 833
 Ehud, 366–67
 Jesus as, 1572
 minor, 380
 Othniel, 366
- Judges, Book of, 359–96, 360, 1894
 Deuteronomistic History and, 359
- judgment, 473–74, 1266
 angels on, 1823 against Babylon, 1154
 on Egypt, 32
 final, 1830
 of God, 979, 981
 hope and, 1325, 1333–34
 of human beings, 1616–17
 inevitability of, 1192–93 on Israel, 985–87, 1309
 against Jerusalem, 1351
 Jesus and, 1450
 against Judah, 985–87
 on justice, 1059
 in law, 1771–72
 love related to, 1794
 on Moab, 1148
 on nations, 1349–50, 1423
 preparation for, 1824
 against pride, 1214–15 promise and, 1189
 righteousness and, 1258
 in silence, 1816
 sin and, 1112–13
 smelting, 1205–6
 Temple of Solomon related to, 1067
- for unfaithfulness, 1279 judgment oracles, 1079 judicial system, 278–79, 282, 648
 Julius Caesar, 1592 justice, 268, 822; see also injustice; righteousness benefit of, 770–71 in business, 919 distortion of, 935
 divine, 851, 1158
 Elihu on, 769–72
 festivals compared to, 1308
 of God, 1618
 Job and, 735
 judgment on, 1059
 of kings, 840–41
 as power, 778
 as purification, 887–88
 restoration of, 779
 retributive, 307–8 social, 1768–69, 1896
 of suffering, 814–15
 of victory, 844
 violence and, 1342–43
 in world, 863–64

K

- kabbalists, 1874
- Kadesh-barnea* (Mount Sinai), 250
- Kedar, 1151–52
- "Ketubim" (Writings), 583, 1855
- Keturah, 586
- Ketuvim, 1838
- Kimchi, David (Radak), 1868, 1874
- kingdom, 1412; see also Northern Kingdom; Southern Kingdom
 of God, 1431, 1448, 1493
 of heaven, 1388
 in parables, 1438–39
- King James Version, 1854
- Kings, Books of, 493–582, 642, 1159–61
 Deuteronomistic History and, 318–19, 493–94, 512–13, 520–21, 552
- king(s), 1325; see also Ecclesiastes, Book of; monarchy Davidic dynasty among, 360, 784
 death of, 611
 defeat of, 340–41
 descendants of, 442–43
 Divided Monarchy, 1896–97
 elders and, 416, 455
 execution of, 334
 as fathers, 889
 God as, 309, 801, 821, 861, 863, 899–900
 gullibility of, 1261 ideal, from Bethlehem, 1325 of the Jews, 1463, 1515
 justice of, 840–41
 last, of Judah, 672–73
 law of, 279
 lions and, 928, 1338
 love of, 962–63

- as priests, 463
 promises of, 864–65
 in Proverbs, 923
 request for, 1289 request from, 898–99
 rescue of, 794–96 righteous of, 1021–22
 in Sheol, 1001
 as shepherds, 464, 491, 848, 1224 survey of, 1108–9
 tithe to, 274
 trees and, 1000, 1029
 victory of, 797–98
 in vision, 1826
 wedding of, 819–20
 wisdom of, 1110
 king's court, in Babylonian exile, 1250–51 kingship beginnings of, in Israel, 423–29 (see also king(s))
 of Solomon, 634, 636–37
King's Pool, 696
 kiss, 766, 785, 935
 holy, 1661, 1677, 1720
 kitchens, sacrificial, 1243 knowledge of Christ, 1704–5
 of God, 89, 895, 1281, 1795–96
 about gods, 1649–50
 love and, 1648–49
 of name, 1828
 as sexual intimacy, 1278
 sociology of, 1886
 Kohathites, 194–95, 592, 594
 Korahites, 817
 psalms from, 781
 Korah's rebellion, 215–16
- L
- Laban, 53–56
 labor, 950–51; see also trades
 Lachish, 567–68
 Lamb, Jesus as, 1813–14, 1816, 1822–23, 1828–29, 1832 lamb, Passover, 671, 1858
 Lamech, 18
 lamentation, 1172
 Lamentations, 1147, 1163–74, 1897
 Jerusalem and, 1163–66
 laments, 1163; see also psalms
 in Isaiah, 1058–59
 in Jeremiah, 1091–94, 1098
 in Micah, 1326, 1333
 lampstands, 121, 202, 1360, 1808 land, 3 for aliens, 1245
 covenants of, 184
 division of, in Joshua, 341–42, 345–53 of Ephraim, 346–47
 for exiles, 1317
 fertility of, 182
 idealized distribution of, 1241, 1244–46 for Joshua, 350
 laws for life in, 213–14 ownership of, 1223
 for priests, 1245–46
 for princes, 1241, 1243
 progeny and, covenants of, 184, 355–56
 promise of, 868–70, 873–74
 property as, 114–15
 redemption of, 1125, 1133
 sabbath for, 181–82
 Transjordan distribution of, 238–40, 342–43 land barons, 1327
 land division, 341–42, 345–53 land ideology, 323 landscape, poetic, 961 Langton, Stephen, 1872–73 languages, 1562; see also Greek; Hebrew body, 913, 926
 of Gospels, 1380, 1849 of Hebrew Bible, 1846, 1848–51 male-centered, 144
 of New Testament, 1851
 tower of Babel and, 26
 Laodicea, 1713
 Last Supper, 1511–12, 1517
 Lord's Supper as, 1424, 1653–54
 Latin, 1846, 1851
 Latin America, 1886–87
 Latin New Testament (Vulgate), 1848, 1870 Latter Prophets, 493, 971–72; see also Isaiah, Book of laughter, of Sarah, 35–36
 lawless one, 1723
 law of retaliation (lex talionis), 114–16, 1392
 Lawrence, D. H., 1807 law(s), 324; see also dietary laws; impurity rules about approach to sanctuary, 217–18 about ban, 263
 book of, 574, 576, 645, 669, 705
 case, 112–14
 of circumcision, 3, 1610–11, 1672, 1674
 collections of, in Pentateuch, 3
 for community, 304
 corruption of, 1307
 curse of, 1684–85
 Deuteronomy as, 250
 in Exodus, 315
 faith or, 1683
 as genre, 3
 God related to, 256–57
 grandeur of, 880–81 of inheritance, 3
 Jesus on, 1390–1401, 1443–44, 1491, 1860
 Judaism and, 1680
 judgment in, 1771–72
 of king, 279
 legal corpus, 248, 270 on lending, 289
 for life in land, 213–14
 local, 278
 love and, 880–81, 1632, 1688–89
 about marriage, 286–90
 of Moses, 323, 1685, 1865
 of nazirite, 198–99
 Noachide, 22, 24
 oral, 4
 Paul on, 1571–72
 Pentateuch as, 669
 priestly, 98
 prophets and, 1502
 protection, 196
 of public officials, 278
 Purim and, 720–21, 724, 726
 about sabbath, 214, 1866 of sacrifice, 3
 sin and, 1623
 about slavery, 5, 1857 social harmony and, 289–90 survival related to book of, 705 Ten Commandments as, 3 of title, 269
 Torah as, 3, 9–10, 686, 929
 wickedness and, 784
 about witnesses, 278–79 about women, 284–85 written, 4
 Laws of Hammurabi, 256
 lawsuits, 1073–74, 1171
 in early Christian church, 1644–45
 against God, 744–45, 747, 758, 765, 778, 1093
 against Israel, 1288–89, 1332–33 laying on of hands, 202, 233, 311–13, 1569
 in 1 Timothy, 1730–31
 Lazarus, raising of, 1540–41
 laziness, 913, 932 leaders, 375, 1086, 1585, 1719, 1767; see also Zerubbabel
 corruption of, 1328–29
 from David, 615–23, 630
 in military, 619
 Pastoral Epistles and, 1725
 as shepherds, 1597
 collections of, in Pentateuch, 3 leadership; see also king(s)
 of Judah, 393
 transfer of, to Joshua, 233, 302–3, 311–12
 Leah, 52
 least, 1400
 Lebanon, 1103, 1367 cedars of, 983, 1032–33, 1060, 1344
 lectionaries, 1844 leech, 942
 legitimacy of apostles, 1649–50
 of worship, 353–54
 Lemuel, 942–43
 leprosy, 162, 546–47, 550
 healing of, 1395, 1434, 1478–79, 1504

- of Miriam, 208, 210, 548
Letter of Aristeas, 1851, 1900 Letter of Jeremiah. See Jeremiah, Letter of letters; see also Epistles
 of Elijah, 651
 in Greco-Roman world, 1611–12
 by scribes, 1612
 Letters/Epistles of the New Testament, 1611–12
 Levant, 1889–90, 1892
 Levi, 58–59, 78, 1479
 descendants of, 592
 Levi (tribe), 310
 Leviathan, 744, 777–78, 1014
 levirate marriage, 65, 231, 291 firstborn of, 291
 resurrection and, 1455–56, 1509
 in Ruth, 398, 401–3
 Levites, 131, 182, 191, 280, 292, 687
 Aaron as, 90
 as assistants to priests, 280
 census of, 190, 193–95, 232
 in Chronicles, 661
 covenants of, 1373
 dedication to, 202–3
 disputation against, 1372–73
 duties and dues of, 202, 267, 670 finances for, 712
 as firstborn substitutes, 193, 244 as foreigners, 1239
 as gatekeepers, 618
 genealogies of, 192, 710
 as priests, 279–80, 294, 663–64
 return of, 677–78
 sacrifices and, 1239–40 separation of, 191, 202, 244
 singers of, 592
 Levitical cities (cities of refuge), 244, 258, 281–82, 350, 352, 594
 levitical priesthood, 279–80, 294 Leviticus, Book of, 143–86, 1852 authorship and date, 143 contents and structure, 143–44
 interpretation, 144–45
 name and canon location, 143
 Numbers and, 187
 lex talionis (law of retaliation), 114–16, 1392 liberation, of poor, 1886–87 liberation theology, 1886–87 life
 book of, 1273, 1822, 1830
 in Christ, 1622–23
 in Christian community, 1564
 in early Christian community, 1731
 from earth, 12 enjoyment and, 952, 956 laws for, in land, 213–14 law with, 880–81
 new and old, 1696–97
 old and new, 1694, 1711
 in Spirit, 1624–25
 tree of, 910, 1832
Life of Moses (Philo), 1379 light, 803
 creation of, 11–12
 darkness compared to, 759, 774, 912, 958, 1522
 instruction as, 914
 lightening, 95, 530, 772
 lilies, 965, 967, 1495–96
 Lilith, 1025
 Lindbeck, George, 1889
 lions, 385, 522, 535, 987, 1021, 1077 Assyrian king as, 1338
 of Judah, 1017–18, 1200
 kings and, 928, 1338
 pit of, 1261–62 roar of, 1288
 shepherds and, 1340
 literacy, 1875
 gender and, 1906
 in Roman period, 1906–7
 literary history, 82, 248–49, 1558
 literature Genesis as, 11
 historiographical, 1900
 non-priestly, 188
 Priestly, 188–89
 rabbinic, 1838, 1864–65
 wisdom, 729
 liturgy, 680, 1872 loans, 289, 913, 939; see also debt interest on, 699–700 local law, 278
 locusts, 1339, 1375
 in Amos, 1309–10
 as eighth plague in Egypt, 95–96
 as food, 1388
 in Joel, 1291–95
 in Revelation, 1817
 Logos (Word), 1522, 1791
 loincloth story, 1094–95
 Lombard, Peter, 1873
 London Polyglot, 1876
 longevity, 909, 954, 1066
 Lord, 669; see also Day of the Lord as builder, 1061
 Christ as, 1701
 Cyrus the Great and, 1034–35, 1040–42, 1044, 1156
 house of the, 677
 Jesus as, 1453, 1472
 praise the, 901–3
 silence of, 1065
 Lord's Prayer, 1393, 1492
 Lord's Supper, 1424 at early Christian church, 1653–54 lost sheep, 1411
 Lot, 30–31, 253, 398
 lots, 1469, 1561; see also divination;
 Purim, feast of; Urim and Thummim casting of, 332–33
 Saul related to, 421
 love, 268, 386, 388, 455, 1760, 1765
 Beloved Disciple, 1519–20, 1544–45, 1552–53, 1555
 of Christ, 1626
 commandment, 1418, 1792, 1798 command to, 1777, 1790, 1871 as conquest, 965–66
 of David, 434–35
 of Davidic dynasty, 856
 death compared to, 969
 of disciples, 1545–46
 of enemies, 1481
 faithfulness and, 828
 fellowship meal and, 1803
 as forever, 893
 God and, 878–79, 1372, 1677
 for Israelites, 1627
 judgment related to, 1794
 of kings, 962–63
 knowledge and, 1648–49
 law and, 880–81, 1632, 1688–89 loyalty as, 260, 262, 302, 437, 481, 794 mutual, 1765, 1797–98 of neighbor, 1392, 1456
 obedience and, 1688
 praise of, 1655–56
 prayer for, 1695–96
 salvation related to, 1794–95
 types of, 1638
 wine like, 962
 love poetry, 961–70 lovers, 962–63, 967; see also Song of Solomon
 Lowth, Robert, 1876, 1882 loyalty, 326, 447, 741 covenant, 264
 to God, 261–62, 268–69, 272–73, 793, 801 heaven and, 822
 love as, 260, 262, 302, 437, 481, 794
 of Peter, 1555
 of Ruth, 399–402
 Luke
 Acts and, 1557, 1713
 on Jerusalem, 1560
 Paul and, 1557–59
 as physician, 1467
 Luke, Gospel According to, 1380–81, 1467–1518
 Acts and, 1467, 1557, 1713
 Luther, Martin, 715, 1874
 James and, 1767–68
 Lutheran Bibles, 1749
 LXX. See Septuagint
- M
 Maccabean revolt, 1249, 1457–58
 Macedonia, 1086, 1665, 1701 madness, 439, 553
 Magi (wise men), 1386–87
 magicians, 1907
 in Egypt, 92–93, 1738
 Magnus, Albertus, 1873
 Maher-shalal-hash-baz, 991–92

- Maimonides, 1868
- Malachi, 1357
- Malachi, Book of, 1371–76
- male-centered language, 144
- male prostitutes, 524, 577
- Malta, 1608
- Mamre, 30
- Manasseh, 76–77, 80, 190, 231, 240, 370, 587, 596; see also Zelophehad's daughters
 land for, 238, 240, 346–47
- Manasseh (king), 317, 574, 667, 1098
 oracles of, 573
 prophecies about, 668
- Manasseh (tribe), 324
- Manasseh, Prayer of, 668
- manna, 105–6, 205–6
- Manoah, 384
- manumission, 181, 275–76, 1129, 1645
 for Onesimus, 1745–47
 sacred, 1645
- Marcion, 1733, 1869–70
 canon and, 1842
- Marduk, 1158, 1250
- marginalized, 277
- Mark, 1781
 apocalyptic imagery in, 1432, 1438
 crucifixion in, 1462–63
 Luke and, 1467
- Mark, Gospel According to, 1379–81, 1431–65
- marriages, 285, 640, 717–18, 912, 1528;
 see also intermarriage; levirate marriage alliance, 646
 betrothal, 1472
 business of, 911
 covenant of, 1194, 1374
 of David, 432, 435, 455, 457–58, 469–70
 feasting and, 1496
 with God, 1052
 harem in, 460
 husbands, 1697–98, 1712, 1778
 intertribal, 246
 of Jacob, 52
 of Joseph and Mary, 1386
 laws about, 286–90
 Paul and, 1674
 rape and, 58
 remarriage, 1450–51, 1502
 restoration of, 1279
 second, 1075
 of Solomon, 500, 516–17, 713, 964, 1142
 symbolism of, 1527
 of virgins, 1647
- Martha, 1492, 1540–41
- Martyr, Justin, 1869
 on gospels, 1379–80
- martyrdom souls of, 1814–15 of Stephen, 1569, 1572
 vengeance for, 1829
- Mary, 1492, 1524, 1540, 1552
 annunciation and, 1470
 Joseph and, 1386
- Mary Magdalene, 1428, 1484
 resurrection and, 1553–54
- Mary of Bethany, 1542
- Masada, 1891
- maskilim (wise ones), 1249–50, 1272
- Masoretic Text (MT), 1069–70, 1119, 1143–44
 textual criticism of, 1845–46
- Master. See Christ; Jesus
- matriarchs
 danger and, 29, 33, 38–39
 in Genesis, 8
 Ruth as, 402
- matrilineal descent, 1588
- Matthew, 1561
- Matthew, Gospel According to, 1379–81, 1383–1429
 date of, 1383
 form and structure of, 1383–84
 interpretation of, 1384–85, 1861
 Luke and, 1467
- Matthew's Bible, 1853–54
- meat, 915, 917, 1394
 idolatry and, 1648–49, 1652
- Medad, 207
- Media, 1007, 1254; see also Cyrus
- medieval commentators, 1867–68
- megadoxology, 781
- Megillot (festival scrolls), 945, 961
- bar Meir, Samuel (Rashbam), 1867
- Melancthon, 1613
- Melchizedek, 31–32, 876
- Memphis, 1141, 1218
- Menahem, 562–63
- Mendenhall, George, 1885
- Menelaus, 1901
- menopause, 36
- menstruation, 55, 175, 985, 1165
 impurity of, 161, 167–68
 purification after, 368
- Mephibosheth, 437, 443, 453, 459, 466, 476, 482, 485
- Merarites, 195–96, 199, 592, 594
- mercenaries, 655–56
- mercy, 212, 442, 721, 1020, 1287, 1664
 Jonah and, 1323
 to poor, 876
 punishment and, 807
- mercy seat, 120, 169, 202
- Merodach-baladan, 1031
- Mesopotamia, 1878, 1889, 1891–92
- Mesopotamian Atrahasis epic, 9
- Mesopotamian love poetry, 961
- messengers, 922, 1050, 1106, 1337; see also spies from John the Baptist, 1399–1400
 prophets as, 1354, 1374
- messenger speech, 971–72
- Messiah (Anointed); see also Jesus from Davidic dynasty, 1563 of deed, 1395
 false teaching about, 1790
 Isaiah and, 979
 John the Baptist on, 1475
 predictions of, 1565 prophecies and, 1860
 pseudo-messiah, 1599
 Son of David as, 1402
 tradition about, 1534
- messianic poem, in Micah, 1330–31
- metals, 1185, 1253, 1374, 1772
- Meunites, 648
- mezuzah, 262
- Micah, 389–90
 in Jeremiah, 1115–16, 1325
- Micah, Book of, 1325–34
- Micaiah, 536–38
- Michael, 1266, 1269, 1273, 1801–2, 1820
- Michaelis, J. D., 1876
- Middle Ages, Christian premodern interpretation in, 1872–73
- Midian, 237–38
- Midianites, 64, 85, 371, 374–75, 852
- Midrashim, 1866–68
- midwives, 84
- mikveh (ritual bath), 168
- military, 797–98, 1071–72, 1904 leaders in, 619
 sexual abstinence of, 288, 468
 of Solomon, 634
- ministry
 in Capernaum, 1396–97, 1433–34
 Galilean, 1389–90, 1476–77
 of Paul, 1581–85, 1588
- Minor Prophets, 1275
- miracles, 1431; see also feeding; healing of Elisha, 542–50, 559–60
 Ephesus and, 1595
 Paul and, 1684
- Miriam, 1332
 leprosy of, 208, 210, 548 against Moses, 208, 210
 as prophet, 105
 as sister of Moses, 84
 Song of, 103–5
- Mishnah, 1866
- misogyny, in Ecclesiasticus, 954–55
- missionaries, 1869
 hospitality for, 1744
- missions, 1558; see also Corinth consequences of, 1399
 in Matthew, 1398
 of the seventy, 1490–91
- mixed marriage. See intermarriage
- Mizpah, 415
- Moab, 187, 224–26, 228–29, 465 downfall of, 1002–3, 1013
 judgment on, 1148
 oracle against, 1146–49, 1302
 war against, 543–44
- Moabite Mesha Stele, 1002
- Moabites
 intermarriage with, 590
 prohibition against, 688

- Moabite Stone, 543
- Moabite women, 229–30; see also Ruth, Book of
- Molech/Moloch (Canaanite deity), 516, 577, 1126
- monarchical period, 188–89, 416, 418
- monarchy, 317; see also king(s); United Monarchy
- Divided, 1896–97
- Judahite, 584
- money, 557–58, 793, 1367, 1509, 1564
- wisdom and, 953–54
- moneychangers, 1416, 1454, 1524, 1526
- monogamy, 912–13
- monotheism, 258, 308, 412, 487, 1869
- monsters, 1817–18; see also beasts; dragons
- moon, 328, 337, 437
- new moon sacrifices, 234–35
- moral action, 1085
- moral duties, 285–86
- morality, 791
- Mordecai, 718–21
- honor of, 722–23
- power of, 724–25, 727
- mosaic, 1872
- Moses, 324, 330, 518–19, 1376, 1858, 1875, 1900; see also Torah
- Aaron and, 208, 210, 869
- Abraham compared to, 36
- in Acts, 1570–71, 1586
- ark of the covenant and, 141
- blessings of, 158, 303, 309–11
- body of, 1802
- call of, 85–87
- as central character of Pentateuch, 3
- Christ and, 1629
- as covenant mediator, 111, 130–31, 134, 1097
- covenant with, 90, 1092
- in Dead Sea Scrolls, 1902
- death of, 302–13
- as Deuteronomy author, 302–3
- early life of, 84–85
- Elijah compared to, 532
- as Exodus author, 81
- face of, 1862–63
- faith of, 1762
- Genesis and, 7
- historical review from, 250–51
- in Hosea, 1288–89
- as intercessor, 210–11
- Jesus compared to, 1390, 1409, 1488–89, 1522, 1531, 1533, 1753, 1861
- Jonah compared to, 1320
- Jonathan and, 390–91
- Joshua as parallel to, 323–24, 330, 334
- law of, 323, 1685, 1865
- as mediator, 261
- Miriam and Aaron against, 208, 210
- on Mount Sinai, 4, 109, 267
- Paul compared to, 1666–67
- Pharaoh and, 89
- plagues and, 91–97
- as prophet, 86, 206, 280–81, 309, 312–13
- return of, to Egypt, 88
- Samuel compared to, 423
- as servant, 1051
- seventy elders and, 207–8
- signs from, 87–88
- sin of, 221–22
- Song of, 303, 305–8
- staff of, 107
- in tabernacle, 202
- theophanies with, 82, 86–88, 109, 117
- trust in, 110
- mother-in-law's healing, 1434
- mothers
- cities as, 1153
- wisdom of, 942–43
- mountains, 1183, 1345, 1454
- oracle on, 1226–27
- Mount Carmel, 530, 543, 1145, 1312, 1890
- Mount Gerizim, 377–78
- Mount Hermon, 1890
- Mount Nebo, 311–12
- Mount of Olives, 1420, 1453, 1460, 1511–13
- Mount Sinai/Horeb, 4, 86, 309, 532, 630, 706, 1865
- covenant in, 105
- departure from, 205
- Hagar as, 1687
- as Kadesh-barnea, 250
- second ascent on, 267
- theophany at, 109
- Mount Zion, 605, 820–21, 1352, 1822
- mourning, 284–85, 412, 765, 1087
- priests in, 1292–93
- professionals for, 1108
- by prophets, 1209–10
- public, 1164
- signs of, 458–59, 472, 476, 536, 569, 721, 1028, 1083, 1100, 1123
- MT. See Masoretic Text
- Muilenberg, James, 1882
- Muratorian Canon*, 1767, 1783, 1842
- murder, 17–18, 444
- atonement for, 284
- avenger for, 244, 473–74
- commandment against, 111–13
- of concubine, 392
- fratricide, 377
- of priests, 439–40
- prohibition against, 22, 24
- music, 420, 431, 544, 894, 959; see also singers
- in Gibeon, 608–9
- in Habakkuk, 1344–46
- musical instruments, 606–7, 1255
- tambourine, 105
- mustard seed, 1404, 1498
- mutual love, 1765, 1797–98
- mysteries, 1438, 1641, 1660
- Christ as, 1709
- in Daniel, 1252
- in Ephesians, 1693
- revelation of, 1695
- mythology, 1215–16, 1585, 1820–21, 1881; see also monsters
- animals in, 1220
- of Canaan, 1000–1001
- about creation, 1892
- ritual and, 1880

N

- Naaman, 546–48
- Nabateans, 1675
- Nabonidus, 1315
- Naboth, 535–36
- Nachmanides (Moses bar Nachman), 1868
- Nadab, 525
- Nag Hammadi texts, 1881
- Nahum, Book of, 1335–40
- nakedness, 1007, 1339
- euphemism for genitals, 438
- punishment of, 1344
- shame of, 1165
- name(s), 719, 1066, 1566, 1893
- in book of life, 1822
- knowledge of, 1828
- above names, 1701
- Naomi, 398–403
- Naphtali, 311, 349, 368, 596
- Nathan, 469, 496, 609, 610
- Nathaniel, 1524
- national assembly, 621
- at Shechem, 638–39
- national boundaries, 1244–45
- national hubris, 1150
- nationalism, 1560
- nations, 835; see also foreigners; foreign nations
- call to, 864
- of Canaan, 33
- divine promise and, 784–85
- as enemies, 829–30, 1292
- Gentiles as, 1457
- God over, 998, 1024
- gods and, 446
- idolatry of, 983, 1042–43
- Judah among, 1112–14
- judgment on, 1349–50, 1423
- oracles against, 1113–14, 1143–59, 1210–22, 1335, 1337–40, 1364–65
- pilgrimage of, 844
- priests of, 1061
- punishment of, 1296
- restoration of, 1060–61
- salvation of, 1351
- speech against, 1300–1301
- worship by, 879
- nation-state, 1895
- nature
- in Proverbs, 729–30
- theophany and, 257
- Nazarenes, 1602

- Nazareth, 1476–77
- Nazirites, 406–7, 1303–4, 1593
- vow of, 198–99, 384
- Nebuchadnezzar (Nebuchadrezzar) (king), 579, 673, 677, 1069, 1106, 1130, 1897
- anger of, 1255
- Arab tribes and, 1151–52
- in Daniel, 1250, 1253–60
- dream of, 1253–58
- oracles on, 1144, 1217–18
- as servant, 1113
- sword of, 1204–5
- against Tyre, 1211
- Neco, 671, 1146
- necromancy, 599, 992
- Negeb, 1891
- Nehemiah, 675–76; see also Ezra–Nehemiah
- Artaxerxes and, 693, 695
- memoirs of, 693, 712
- plots against, 700–701
- prayer of, 693, 695
- as rebuilders of Jerusalem's walls, 693, 695–701
- Nehemiah, Book of, 317–18, 693–714, 1856–57
- neighbors
- love of, 1392, 1456
- moral duties toward, 285–86
- in postexilic Judah, 679–83
- Nephilim, 19
- Nero, 1431, 1821, 1904
- Nevi'im (Prophets), 1838
- new covenant, 1666–67
- New Criticism, 1883, 1888
- The New English Bible, 1855
- new Israel, 1437
- early Christian church as, 1779
- new Jerusalem, 1053, 1606, 1612, 1628, 1630–31
- new moon, 437
- new moon sacrifices, 234–35
- New Revised Standard Version (NRSV), 208, 377, 1856
- canon in, 1841
- Habakkuk and, 1342
- Leviticus and, 144
- Nahum and, 1338
- translation of, 1848, 1853
- New Testament
- canon of, 1837, 1841–43
- Christian premodern Bible interpretation, 1868–76
- language of, 1851
- redaction criticism of, 1880
- scripture in, 1859–60
- source criticism of, 1877–78
- textual criticism of, 1847–48
- Vulgate as, 1848, 1870
- New Testament Jewish scriptures interpretation, 1859–63
- Nicholas of Lyra, 1873
- Nicodemus and Jesus, 1526, 1528, 1535, 1543, 1553
- Nile River, 1889
- nineteenth to mid-twentieth centuries
- bible interpretation, 1876–82
- ancient world recovery and, 1878
- anthropology and, 1880
- archaeology and, 1879
- Dead Sea Scrolls and, 1881
- ethnography and, 1879
- form criticism in, 1878–79
- historical-critical method in, 1876
- Nag Hammadi texts in, 1881
- redaction criticism and, 1880
- sociology and, 1879–80
- source criticism in, 1876–78
- text discoveries between world wars, 1880–81
- Nineveh, 1350, 1402
- Jonah and, 1321–23
- Nahum and, 1335, 1337–40
- Noachide laws, 22, 24
- Noadiah, 701
- Noah, 1786–87
- Adam and, 403
- covenant of, 34
- descendants of, 24–25
- genealogy of, 9, 585
- name of, 19
- sacrifice of, 22
- non-gods, 306–7
- non-priestly complaints, 205–6
- non-priestly literature, 188
- nonsacrificial slaughter, 171
- northern campaigns, 335, 339–40
- Northern Kingdom, 46, 56, 62, 363, 495, 517, 523–24, 527, 846, 1275; see also Hosea, Book of; Israel; Samaria
- alliance of, 1206
- Ephraim as, 1122, 1280–81
- fall of, 523
- prophecy of fall of, 523
- proposal for, 638–39
- return of, 677
- salvation of, 1366
- Noth, Martin, 1880, 1884
- NRSV. See New Revised Standard Version
- Numbers, 189–91
- Numbers, Book of, 187–246
- authorship, dating, contents, 188
- name and contents, 187–88
- numbers, symbolic
- forty, 1560
- forty-two, 543
- four, 1815
- gematria, 1822
- large, use of, 641
- seven, 234–35, 263, 330–31, 533, 859, 870–71, 881, 934, 1268, 1569, 1806, 1809, 1811–13, 1815–16, 1818–20, 1822, 1826, 1831
- seventy, 554
- ten, 851
- twelve, 352, 363, 1437, 1480, 1831
- numerical Proverbs, 941–42
- Nympha, 1712, 1713
- O
- oath(s), 260, 436, 447, 496
- about Absalom, 473
- of curse, 197
- of innocence, 761, 787–88
- Obadiah, 529–30
- Obadiah, Book of, 1315–18
- Obed, 402–3
- obedience, 634, 815, 861, 1128, 1615
- of Abraham, 1684
- consequences of, 184, 295–96
- faith and, 1708
- to God, 1753–54, 1765
- inducements for, 183
- love and, 1688
- for prosperity, 268
- of Rehoboam, 639
- as submission, 1741–42
- suffering and, 1048
- obligations
- of holiness, 273–74
- to poor, 838–41, 923, 1035, 1058
- offering(s)
- of dedication, 199–200
- of Gentiles, 1634–35
- grain, 146–47, 151, 153, 213
- guilt, 151, 196, 414, 923
- for Israelites, 149–50
- ordination, 155–57
- from princes, 1242–43
- reparation, 145–52, 154, 165
- sin, 126, 150–51, 684–85, 1624, 1669
- thanksgiving, 148
- verbal, 838
- voluntary, 119
- weights and measures for, 1241
- well-being, 145, 148, 173, 915
- OG. See Old Greek
- Oholah, 1206
- Oholibah, 1206–8
- oil, 891, 1361
- olive trees, 1360–61
- Omri, 319, 522, 526–27, 534
- Onan, 65
- Onesimus, 1745–47
- Ophrah, 372
- opponents, 750–51
- oppression, 950–51; see also persecution
- trust and, 827–28
- oracle(s), 420, 576, 850, 941
- against Ammon, 1149–50, 1302
- on Babylon, 998–99, 1152, 1159
- Balaam and, 226–28
- against Damascus, 1151
- on Davidic dynasty, 994–95, 1107–8
- against Edom, 1150–51, 1225–26, 1297, 1302, 1315
- against Egypt, 1140–41, 1144–46, 1216–22, 1297

- against Eli, 410
 Gog of Magog, 1229–32, 1890
 of hope, 1328
 in Isaiah, 980, 993–94, 998–99, 1877
 against Israel, 1303–4, 1311–13
 of Jeremiah, 1070
 on Jerusalem, 980
 against Judah, 1303
 judgment, 1079
 of Manasseh (king), 573 against Moab, 1146–49, 1210 on mountains, 1226–27
 against nations, 1113–14, 1143–59, 1210–22, 1335, 1337–40, 1364–65 on Nebuchadnezzar, 1144, 1217–18 against Philistines, 1146, 1210–11, 1302 of restoration, 1127–28, 1313, 1363–64
 Solomon and, 501
 against Tyre, 1211–14
 woe, 986, 994, 1004–5, 1015–20, 1022–23
 of Zechariah, Book of, 1357–64 oral communication, 1611, 1720
 Torah and, 1906–7
 oral tradition, Gospels and, 1381 order, 718, 957, 1677
 world, 776–77, 1011
 ordination offering, 155–57
 Origen, 1749, 1783, 1801, 1807
 allegories of, 1870–71
 on canon, 1843
 on LXX, 1841
 original sin, 824
 Othniel, 345, 362, 366
 oven analogy, 1282–83
 overwhelm, 967–68
 ownership, 831, 924, 1223; see also land ox yoke, 1116–18
 Oxyrhynchus Papyri, 1878, 1881
- P
- P (Priestly source), 8, 18
 divine abandonment in, 149 of flood, 21
 Israel's beginnings from, 9
 P (source of Pentateuch)
 dating of, 5
 Holiness Collection and, 6
 Paine, Thomas, 1875 pains, 1095–96; see also suffering palace, 821
 of Solomon, 508, 515–16
 palanquin, 965
 Paleo-Hebrew, 1849
 Palestine, 1850; see also Canaan; Israel; Judah
 Palestinian canon, 1838
 pantheon, 257
 Papias, 1380, 1789, 1797
 papyrus, 1878, 1881 parable(s), 1405, 1437, 1480, 1539 of dishonest manager, 1501
 of end-time, 1422, 1439
 of Good Samaritan, 1491–92 on great dinner, 1499 of growth, 1404 on humility, 1499 kingdom in, 1438–39
 of lost sheep, 1411, 1500 of mustard seed, 1498 of Pharisee, 1505
 of prodigal son, 1500–1501 of rich fool, 1495
 of rich man, 1502
 of sower, 1403, 1438, 1484–85 of ten pounds, 1506–7
 unforgiving servant, 1411 of unfruitful fig tree, 1497 of unjust judge, 1505 of vineyard, 1416–17, 1508 of weeds, 1404
 of wicked tenants, 1455 of yeast, 1498
 paradise, 1515, 1675
 parallelism, 11, 323–24, 330 in poetry, 731–32 parents crimes against, 939–40 curses against, 930, 941–42
 Pashur, 1105, 1131
 passion, 749, 1384; see also crucifixion; Jesus
 of Jesus, 1381
 prediction of, 1447–50, 1452
 Passover, festival of, 178, 234, 276–77
 deferment of, 203
 Hezekiah and, 661–63
 of Jesus, 1423–24, 1459–60, 1520–21, 1531, 1551
 in Joshua, 329–30
 Josiah and, 578, 670–71
 meaning of word, 98
 as night of vigil, 99
 origins of, 97–99
 Purim and, 720–21
 by returnees, 685
 Passover lamb, 671, 1858
 Pastoral Epistles, 1611, 1725
 paternity, 914
 patience, 741 patriarchy, 974, 1887
 in households, 1708
 patrons, 1643, 1718
 Paul (Saul of Tarsus), 1673–74, 1906; see also Corinthians, First Letter of Paul to; Corinthians, Second Letter of Paul to; Romans, Letter of Paul to
 1 Peter and, 1775
 2 Peter and, 1783, 1787
 Abraham and, 10, 29
 accusation against, 1667–68, 1670–71, 1676 before Agrippa II, 1604–5
 as apostle, 1561, 1664, 1674, 1679
 as apostle to the Gentiles, 1679, 1681–83 appeal to emperor by, 1603–4
 arrest of, 1599
 in Athens, 1591–92
 authority of, 1673, 1680–81
 against Barnabas, 1588 biblical interpretation by, 1862–63 blessing from, 1664–65, 1690
 in Caesarea, 1601–3
 in Christ, 1663–64, 1702
 conversion of, 1575, 1605
 Corinth mission of, 1592–93, 1596, 1637–38
 in Cyprus, 1581
 in Damascus, 1575–76
 death of, 1704, 1721, 1738
 defense of, 1599–1601, 1739
 in Ephesus, 1594–96
 epistles of, 1611–12
 on ethics, 1689
 “farewell” address of, 1597 before Felix, 1602–3 forgiveness of, 1663, 1665–66
 in Greece, 1596
 Holy Spirit and, 1594–95
 in Jerusalem, 1598–1601, 1613, 1681–82
 Jews and, 1715
 journey to Rome of, 1603–9 Judaism of, 1598–99
 on law, 1571–72
 Luke and, 1467, 1557–59
 ministry of, 1581–85, 1588 miracles and, 1684
 Moses compared to, 1666–67
 motivation of, 1716
 Pastoral Epistles and, 1725
 Peter compared to, 1584–85, 1586, 1683
 as prisoner, 1609
 Roman citizenship of, 1590
 before Sanhedrin, 1601
 Satan and, 1717
 shipwreck of, 1606–7
 synagogues and, 1559
 thanksgiving by, 1614, 1639 view of circumcision, 1688, 1704
 visions of, 1600
 on women, 1729
 peace, 726
 for Babylon, 1118–19
 as blessing, 642–45, 653
 covenant of, 230
 fertility and, 899
 for Jerusalem, 886–87
 prophecies of, 1320
 surrender for, 969–70
 peasant societies, 1885
 Pekah, 994
 Pekahiah, 563, 994, 1282
 penitential psalms, 824–25, 866–967 Pentateuch, 38, 703, 1837
 authorship of, 4
 as book of the law of the Lord, 669 compilation and redaction of, 5–6, 248–49

- composite nature of, 3
 contradictions in, 4–5
 covenant in, 3
 dating of, 6
 Deuteronomy in, 248–49 as divine word, 4 genre of, 3
 Joshua and, 321
 in Kings, 560
 legal collections in, 3
 meaning of term, 3
 modern source theories of, 4–6
 Moses as central character of, 3 promise of the land in, 3 reinterpretation of, 690–91
 Ruth and, 398, 402
 as Torah, 3
 unifying theme of, 3
 Pentecost, 234, 277, 292, 1561–62; see also Shavuot
 Peregrinus, 1859
 Perez, 402–3 perfection, 1752
 persecution, 1398–99
 in 1 Thessalonians, 1716–17
 of apostles, 1580
 of disciples, 1510, 1575
 discrimination as, 1716 of prophets, 1763
 sharing in, 1547
 as suffering, 1722
 Persia, 1254, 1270
 slaves of, 707
 taxes to, 699
 Persian Empire, 999–1000
 Persian period, 1897–99
 Pesharim, 1864–65, 1902
 peshat, 1867
Pesikta de Rab Kahana, 945 pestilence, 307, 490
 Peter (Simon), 1389–90, 1433, 1434, 1477
 arrest of, 1565–66
 Beloved Disciple and, 1555 confession of, 1408, 1488
 death of, 1783–85
 defense of, 1578–79
 denial of Jesus by, 1461–62, 1512, 1513, 1550
 epistles of, 1611
 healing by, 1564
 in Lydda and Joppa, 1576
 mother-in-law's healing, 1434, 1477
 name of, 1785
 Paul compared to, 1584–85, 1586, 1683
 as rock, 1408
 sermons of, 1562–65
 as shepherd, 1555
 as transfiguration witness, 1785
 Peter, First Letter of, 1775–81
 Peter, Second Letter of, 1783–87 petition, 1342–43
 Pharaoh(s), 518–19, 1220–21, 1893–95 hardened heart of, 1363
 Jacob with, 75
 Moses and, 89
 Neco, 671, 1146
 Pharisees, 1384, 1435, 1479, 1903; see also scribe(s) belief of, 1586, 1704 blind man and, 1859–60 denunciation of, 1418–19 parable of, 1505
 Paul as, 1601
 Sadducees and, 1408, 1526, 1601
 sayings against, 1494
 Simon, 1483–84
 Philemon, Letter of Paul to, 1745–47
 Philip, 1574, 1598
 Philippi, 1589, 1701
 Philippians, Letter of Paul to, 1701–6
 Philistines (Philistia), 101, 254, 342, 380, 1895 abomination of, 1365
 ark of the covenant and, 412–14, 848
 attacks by, 605
 David and, 440–41, 446–49, 458, 460, 462, 465, 486, 610–13
 defeat of, 1017
 oracles against, 1146, 1210–11, 1302
 Samson and, 383–88
 Saul's war with, 424–28
 Philo of Alexandria, 1379, 1637
 allegories of, 1866, 1869
 philosophy; see also Stoic philosophers Greek, 1900–1901
 in Roman period, 1907–8
 Phineas, grandson of Aaron, 394
 Phinehas, 230, 237
 Phoebe, 1635, 1905
 Phoenicians, 504–5, 1890, 1895 phoenix, 763 phylacteries, 100, 262, 1419, 1822 physicians, 1467
 piety, 1305
 faithfulness and, 990
 manifestation of, 1743
 Pilate, Pontius, 1474, 1497
 Jesus before, 1425–27, 1462, 1514, 1550–51 pilgrimage, 1533 to Gibeon, 625
 of nations, 844
 pilgrimage hymns, 886–87 pillars, 117, 133, 193–94, 508–9, 524, 1812 of cloud, 102, 132
 in Ezekiel, 1211–12, 1235
 of fire, 102, 1063–64
 of smoke and fire, 1063–64
 plagues, 66–67, 869–70, 1306, 1345
 blood as first, 92
 boils as sixth, 94 darkness as ninth, 96 death of firstborn as tenth, 88, 99–101
 disease of animals as fifth, 94 flies as fourth, 93 frogs as second, 92
 gnats as third, 93
 hail as seventh, 94–95 locusts as eighth, 95–96
 ten, 91–101
 plague tradition, 1370
 Plato, 1453, 1658, 1758, 1906 pledges, 236; see also oath(s); vows
 communal, 707–8, 712, 714
 plowing, 1287 plunder, 263, 364, 659, 725, 1107; see also herem from Temple of Solomon, 580, 610 Plutarch, 1908 poems, 223–24, 369 cup of wrath, 1207–8 messianic, in Micah, 1330–31
 in Numbers, 188
 on wisdom, 762–63
 poetical books, 729–33, 972 poetry, 77–79, 1881, 1900; see also acrostics biblical, 730–32
 in Jeremiah, 1069
 Lamentations and, 1163
 love, 961–70
 parallelism in, 731–32 of psalms, 782
 song of Hannah as, 407–8
 Song of Solomon as, 961–62
 Song of the Bow, 455 pollution, 1186–87 pomegranates, 1160
 poor, 408, 758–59, 763–64, 792, 875, 1683
 Amos and, 1300, 1303
 deliverance of, 816
 in early Christian church, 1648 injustice to, 928, 984, 1080–81 liberation of, 1886–87 mercy to, 876
 obligations to, 838–41, 923, 1035, 1058 poor against, 938–39
 rights of, 940
 tithe to, 292–93
 portion, 897 possessions; see also land sharing of, 1567
 postcolonial criticism, 974 postcolonial hermeneutics, 1887 postcritical interpretation, 1888–89
 Postel, Guillaume, 1874 postexilic community, Torah and,
 1898–99
 postexilic Jerusalem, 704–5, 1857
 postexilic Judah, 598
 intermarriage in, 688–92, 713 neighbors in, 679–83
 postexilic period community in, 1112
 postexilic psalms, 865–66, 872–73, 888, 892 postmodernism, 1884, 1889 postures, 1181

- Potiphar, 64, 66
 potter, metaphor of, 1102–4 poverty, 116, 182, 289, 853–54; see also poor
 in Proverbs, 918
 power, 939
 of baptism, 1743
 fear of, 1440
 of God, 743, 760, 892, 895, 955, 1042–44, 1156, 1641, 1676–77, 1692
 human beings and, 808, 1033–34
 justice as, 778
 of Mordecai, 724–25, 727
 over water, 1485 recognition of, 1452 servant and, 1452 visibility of, 845
 wisdom and, 931, 1252–53
 praise, 808, 835, 876
 for deliverance, 805
 of God, 1262–63
 the Lord, 901–3
 of love, 1655–56
 promises of, 792
 for righteousness, 876 for victory, 879–80 prayers, 1262, 1566 acceptable forms of, 1283, 1279 of Christian community, 1566
 communal, 705–6
 of Daniel, 1267–68
 of David, 610, 622–23
 of Ezra, 689–90
 of Hezekiah, 570–71, 666
 of Jesus, 1460
 of Jonah, 1322–23
 Lord's Prayer, 1393, 1492
 for love, 1695–96 of Manasseh, 668
 of Nehemiah, 693, 695 place of, 1589
 for priests, 1294
 sacrifice or, 1057
 in Solomon, 631–33, 643, 648
 in Temple of Solomon, 511–13
 for thanksgiving, 1691–94 for wisdom, 1708
 preaching, of John the Baptist, 1388 predestination, 1692 predictions, 651 of Caiaphas, 1541
 of intruders, 1802–3
 of Messiah, 1565
 of passion, 1447–50, 1452 pride, 265, 657, 1095
 condemnation of, 1316
 of enemies, 1168
 judgment against, 1214–15
 wealth and, 1343
 priesthood; see also high priesthood
 of Aaron, 216–18
 levitical, 279–80, 294
 priestly blessing, 199, 806, 835
 priestly complaints, 205 priestly families, women of, 153 priestly law violations, 98
 Priestly literature, 188–89
 Priestly vesture. See P priestly vestments, 123–25, 139, 152–53, 155–56
 priests, 292, 389, 415, 709, 1068, 1128, 1896;
 see also Aaron; Azariah (Uzziah);
 Azariah, Prayer of; sacrifice
 Aaronide, 279–80, 594, 611, 616
 anointing of, 153, 156
 compensation for, 127, 177, 218 consecration of, 125–26, 144, 155–56
 covenant related to, 1757
 of David, 616–17
 disputation against, 1372–73
 exile related to, 673 Ezra as, 685
 failure of, 1072
 firstborn related to, 218 first sacrifices by, 157–58
 genealogies of, 710–11
 of high places, 577, 607
 idolatry of, 1348
 indictment against, 1279–80
 to Judah, 640
 kings as, 463
 land for, 1245–46
 Levites as, 279–80, 294, 663–64
 in mourning, 1292–93 murder of, 439–40
 of nations, 1061
 nazirites related to, 198
 non-Levites as, 466 offering consumption by, 153, 159
 prayer for, 1294
 prophets and, 1081, 1105
 purification of, 714 restrictions of, 158, 176–77 in return, 678–79
 sacristy chambers of, 1236–37
 separation of, 189
 as spies, 476, 478
 surface afflictions and, 162–63, 166 primeval history, 11–13 princes, 1109, 1239
 land for, 1241, 1243
 offerings from, 1242–43
 Priscilla (Prisca), 1592, 1635, 1739 prison, 1568
 prisoners, 991, 1568, 1609 escape of, 1580, 1589–90
 female captives, 284–85
 prophecies against, 658–59
 Satan as, 1829
 privy, 367
 prodigal son, 1500–1501
 prohibitions, 175, 211
 against Ammonites, 688
 against divination, 174
 in Jeremiah, 1099–1100, 1104
 against murder, 22, 24
 Promised Land boundaries of, 241, 243–44 entry into, 293–95
 inheritance of, 230–32, 238–40 promise(s), 435, 1226, 1670; see also covenant
 to Abraham, 9–10, 27, 29, 34, 74–75, 1048–49, 1620, 1627, 1679–80 admonitions and, 1359
 about children, 1098 to David, 488, 511, 555–56, 609 eternity of, 856 of faithfulness, 830
 after flood, 22
 injustice related to, 1129
 to Jerusalem, 1352
 judgment and, 1189
 of kings, 864–65
 of land, 3, 868–70, 873–74
 of praise, 792 of protection, 859 property restitution of, 114–15 prophecies, 207, 434; see also Revelation to John absence of, 1312
 in ancient Near East, 971–72
 Balaam and, 225–28
 ban on, 1084
 call to, 1304
 about Christianity, 1609
 of David, 488
 of destruction, 990–91
 divination compared to, 280 of Enoch, 1803 frenzy of, 436 of Huldah, 576
 idolatry as, 1369
 madness related to, 439 about Manasseh (king), 668 against mercenaries, 655–56 Messiah and, 1860
 music related to, 617 of Northern Kingdom fall, 523
 of peace, 1320
 against prisoners, 658–59 reconciliation of, 1858–59 regulation of, 272
 of restoration, 1222–23
 social-scientific criticism of, 1885 speaking in tongues compared to, 1656–57
 suffering for, 1461
 sword, 1203–5
 visions as, 1336
 writing of, 1120, 1159
 prophetic books
 apocalyptic, 974–75
 canonical placement of, 971 dates of, 972–73
 genre of, 973
 introduction to, 971–75 style of, 974

- theology of, 974
 Prophetic Books, 729
 Prophets (Nevi'im), 1838 prophet(s), 623, 637, 642, 701, 1598, 1874, 1896 Abraham as, 39, 869
 Ahijah, 518, 522–23
 in Babylonian exile, 1118–19
 in Chronicles, 584
 condemnation of, 1110
 consultation and, 1193 against covenant, 650
 David as, 1874
 in Dead Sea Scrolls, 1860
 false revelation of, 647 Jeroboam and, 521–22, 525–26
 law and, 1502
 as messengers, 1354, 1374
 Micaiah, 536–38
 Miriam as, 105
 Moses as, 86, 206, 280–81, 309, 312–13 mourning by, 1209–10 neglect of, 1074
 persecution of, 1763
 priests and, 1081, 1105
 protection of, 1115
 as sentinels, 1180–81, 1222–23, 1285
 as servants, 1304 singers as, 649
 terms for, 972
 tombs of, 1494
 Wisdom as, 908
The Prophets (Nevi'im), 1855
 proselytes, 1562, 1569, 1582 prosperity; see also wealth of Ephraim, 1289
 obedience for, 268
 peril of, 265–66
 prostitutes, 65, 133, 501–2, 1280; see also whore
 in Corinth, 1645
 male, 524
 Nineveh as, 1338–39
 Samson and, 387
 Tyre as, 1010
 prostitution, 1195
 gods and, 171
 restrictions on, 289
 protection, 196, 211, 213, 1765
 from enemies, 851–52
 promises of, 859
 of prophets, 1115
 within Temple, 825 of water, 991
 of wisdom, 909
 Protestantism
 canon in, 1839, 1841
 women in, 1887
 Proverbs, 420
 in Ecclesiastes, 946
 Hezekiah and, 935–41
 of Solomon, 733, 905–7, 918–32, 935–41
 wealth in, 918, 921–23, 927, 931–33
 Proverbs, Book of, 729–31, 905–44 male-centered perspective of, 905–6
 Psalm 1, 730
 Psalm 6.2, 731
 Psalm 23, 730–31
 Psalm 78, 315–16
 Psalm 106, 316
 Psalm 121, 732
 Psalm 151, 1851
 psalms, 485–89, 729, 781–903, 1509, 1518, 1879, 1899 acrostics in, 789, 801–2, 808–9, 811, 876, 880–81, 899 of ascent, 885–92
 blessings in, 816, 841, 858, 872, 891–92
 communal laments, 782, 797–98, 818–19, 830–31, 842–43, 845, 848–53, 860–61, 878, 889, 894, 1063–65 covenant renewal, 823–24, 850–51, 856–58
 David and, 607–8, 617, 733, 894–900, 1509, 1561
 decatalogue in, 823
 doxologies in, 841, 858, 872, 901–3 enthronement, 821, 860, 863–64 genres of, 782–83
 historical superscriptions in, 1864
 hymns, 782, 788–89, 808, 860–64, 876–79, 892–93 individual laments, 782, 785–87, 791–94, 799–804, 806–7, 809–10, 813–16, 826–29, 833, 837–39, 837–40, 853–55, 865–67, 890 instructional, 784, 797, 811–12, 822, 825, 846–48, 876–77
 Jesus and, 1861
 penitential, 824–25, 866–67
 petitionary, 782, 786–92, 794, 799–800, 835, 858, 873–75, 880–81, 885–87, 896–99
 pilgrimage hymns, 886–87
 postexilic, 865–66, 872–73, 888, 892
 royal, 794–95, 840–41, 864–65, 875–76, 890–91
 thanksgiving, 783, 794–95, 798, 805–7, 809, 815–16, 833–37, 843–44, 859–60, 872–73, 878–80, 887, 893–95 of trust, 791–92, 800–801, 803–4, 811, 825–26, 832, 859 vindictive, 783–84
 Zion hymns, 820–24, 844, 852–54, 886–88, 891
 Psalter, 783, 858, 877
 pseudepigrapha, 1840
 pseudepigraphy, 248
 pseudo-messiah, 1599
 Ptolemies, 1270–71
 Ptolemy II Philadelphus, 1900
 Ptolemy VI Philometor, 1271 public officials, 278 punishment, 212, 491
 angels and, 739–40
 beginning after, 846
 communal, 1198–99
 David and, 469–70, 613–14
 death as, 154–55
 of earth, 1011–12
 of enemies, 839
 from God, 16–17, 215–16, 429, 1086–87, 1170, 1174, 1181–83
 gods related to, 304–5
 of guilty, 1187–88
 honor and, 848–49
 for idolatry, 1284
 of intruders, 1802
 in Lamentations, 1163–64
 measure for measure in, 266 mercy and, 807
 of nakedness, 1344
 of nations, 1296
 of Nebuchadnezzar, 1258–59
 for repentance, 1282
 vicarious, 259–60
 of wickedness, 792, 843–44
 of women, 16
 purification of ark of the covenant, 168–70
 from blood, 219
 of circumcision, 161–62
 of community, 711
 for covenant ceremony, 110 of intentional sin, 168–70
 justice as, 887–88
 after menstruation, 368
 of priests, 714
 after surface affliction, 164–65 water and, 202
 of Zion, 982–83
 purification offerings instructions for, 153–54
 sin and, 148–51
 Purim, feast of, 719, 723; see also Esther,
 Book of Esther and, 715–16
 law and, 720–21, 724, 726
 origins of, 715–16, 724–26
 purity, of community, 1670 purity laws, 196
 Purvey, John, 1853
Q
 Q (Quelle), 1380–81, 1767, 1877–78
 Qohelet. See Ecclesiastes, Book of quails, manna and, 105–6 queen; see also Esther
 in Daniel, 1260
 of heaven, 1141–43
 of Sheba, 515, 572
 Quelle. See Q
 Qumran, 1361, 1838, 1840, 1865, 1891, 1902
 Habakkuk in, 1341

RABBI—REVELATIONS

- Melchizedek and, 31
 Nahum in, 1336
 Proverbs at, 906
 psalms and, 783
- R
- rabbi, 1419
 Jesus as, 1424
- rabbinic interpretation, 1866–67
- rabbinic Judaism
 canon and, 1837–38
 Jesus and, 1384–85
- rabbinic literature, 1838
 Pesharim compared to, 1864–65
- Rabshakeh, 568–69, 1026–28
- Rachel, 27, 52, 60, 62–63, 71–72, 1387
 descendants of, 1123
- von Rad, Gerhard, 1880
- Radak (David Kimchi), 1868, 1874
- Rahab, 326–27, 331, 333, 1049, 1773, 1894
- rains, 269, 296, 772–75, 804, 1295; see also drought
 blessing of, 925, 1287
- Rameses II, 1893
- Ramoth-gilead, 536–38, 646
- ransom, 237, 428, 822, 931
- rape, 287, 1050; see also Susanna of Dinah, 58–59
 of Jerusalem, 1165
 Lot and, 37
 marriage and, 58
 of Tamar, 471–72
- Rashbam (Samuel bar Meir), 1867
- Rashi (Solomon bar Isaac), 1867, 1873
- rationalism, 4
- reader-response criticism, 1883–84
- realism, 1120
- reality, 11, 961, 1213
- Rebekah, 27, 63, 1150
- rebellion, 285
 Korah's, 215–16
 pattern of, 1201–3
- recapitulation, 1692
- Rechabites, 1128, 1130
- reclamation, 1317
- reconciliation, 1669, 1693, 1708
 of prophecies, 1858–59
- reconstruction, 1331
- records, 139, 682
- re-creation, 21
- red, as color, 1814
- redeemer, 933
 of Israel, 1036–38, 1154
- redemption, 402 of firstborn, 194
 of land, 1125, 1133
 sin and, 1625–26
 of slaves, 700
- Red Sea, 242
 location of, 102
- Reformation
 Christian premodern interpretation in, 1874–75
- reforms
 of Hezekiah, 567, 659–64, 1026
 by Jehoshaphat, 645, 647–48
 of Josiah, 247, 539, 574, 578, 668–71, 1141
- refuge, 806
 Levitical cities as, 244, 258, 281–82, 350, 352, 594
- regulations for festivals, 1242 of prophecy, 272
 for worship, 112, 117
- Rehoboam, 518–20, 523–24, 638–40, 1896
- relationships
 in households, 1707, 1712
 time and, 1647–48
- religion, 1907
- religious studies, 1882
- remarriage, 1450–51, 1502
- remembrance, 698, 701, 947, 949, 1173 commemoration as, 108
- remnant, 571, 1354
- Renaissance, Christian premodern interpretation in, 1873–74
- renewal, 1668
 covenant renewal psalm, 823–24, 850–51, 856–58
 of covenants, 226, 335, 356, 576–77, 644, 670, 1052–53, 1124, 1177
- reparation offerings, 145–52, 154, 165
- repatriation, 1228–29
- repentance, 380–81, 576, 668, 746, 939, 1400 baptism of, 1474
 call to, 1349
 in Chronicles, 584–85, 659
 of David, 612–13
 forgiveness and, 301
 impossibility of, 989
 John the Baptist on, 1474
 of Ninevites, 1322–23 plea for, 1306–7
 punishment for, 1282
 restoration for, 185, 640–41, 1057, 1075, 1290
- repentance psalms, 824–25
- reputation, 401, 953
- rescue; see also redemption; salvation
 from enemies, 887
 of king, 794–96
 from slander, 885–86
- resident aliens, 251, 268, 277, 289
- responsibility
 communal, 1091–92
 individual, 928
- restoration, 1110, 1334
 of Davidic dynasty, 997
 of Egypt, 1006
 honor for, 1227–28
 of Israel, 1046, 1124–25
 Jeremiah on, 677
 of Jerusalem, 697, 900, 985, 1196–97, 1329
- of justice, 779
- of marriage, 1279
- of nation, 1060–61
- oracles of, 1127–28, 1313, 1363–64
- prophecies of, 1222–23
- realism and, 1120
- for repentance, 185, 640–41, 1057, 1075, 1290
- of Temple of Solomon, 1232–36
- Temple of Solomon finances for, 669, 679, 683–84
- trust and, 1449
- words of, 1278–79
- of Zion, 865–66, 1011, 1031–33, 1046–51, 1063
- resurrection, 1228, 1755; see also Jesus
 in Acts, 1583, 1591
 in Corinthians, 1638
 of the dead, 1273
 disciples and, 1517–18, 1554 eschatology on, 1532
 levirate marriage and, 1455–56, 1509 Mary Magdalene and, 1553–54 proof of, 1658–60
 Sadducees and, 1601 salvation and, 1560, 1621, 1772–73
 witnesses to, 1658
- retribution, 665, 756, 769, 1171, 1317
 death and, 771
- retributive justice, 307–8
- return, 88, 1024, 1099; see also Cyrus the Great
 of Absalom, 473–74
 of ancestors, 1358
 archaeology of, 678 from Babylonian exile, 675–76
 to Egypt, 581–82
 of Jesus, 1716, 1718–19, 1721–23
 of Levites, 677–78
 of Northern Kingdom, 677
 priests in, 678–79
 three stages of, 684 tithes and, 1374–75
 to Zion, 1025–26
- returnees, 688, 854, 888, 1121 list of, 677–79, 687, 702–3
 Passover, festival of, by, 685
 Zerubbabel as leader of, 678–79, 683, 696, 1353–54, 1356, 1363
- Reuben, 60, 62, 78, 200, 238–40, 310
 descendants of, 590–91
 son of, 344
- Reuchlin, Johannes, 1874
- Revelation, 1519, 1851
 epistles of, 1611–12
 Jerusalem in, 1819
 lawless one in, 1723
- revelations, 647, 739 of Decalogue, 259
 of mystery, 1695
 of Paul, 1681
 of salvation, 1776
 of Samuel, 411

- self-, 915–17, 1820
of Son, 1751
of wrath, 1616–17
- Revelation to John, 1805–33
angels and, 1807, 1832
as apocalyptic writing, 1806–7 seven in, 1809, 1811–13, 1815–16, 1818–20, 1822, 1826, 1831
- revenge, 751, 930, 936
- reverence, 907, 1080, 1852
- Revised English Bible, 1855
- Revised Standard Version (RSV), 1856
- The Revised Standard Version Catholic Edition, 1855
- Revised Version of the New Testament (RVNT), 1854–55
- revisionism, historical, 317
- revolts; see also Maccabean revolt; rebellion
of Absalom, 474–81
First Jewish, 1805, 1881, 1903
Second Jewish, 1903
- rhetorical criticism, 1882
- rhythm, 732
- Riblah, 1136
- rich fool, parable of, 1495
- rich man, parable of, 1502
- riddle, 385–86, 762
- Rift Valley, 1890
- righteous, the, 812–13; see also righteousness
death of, 1056, 1273
lack of, 1079
salvation of, 1785
suffering of, 1449
- righteousness, 746, 763, 1093, 1196, 1417, 1670
of Abraham, 32, 36, 1619–20
anger and, 1769 within church, 1698
crown of, 1738
death and, 769–70
declaration of, 802
faith and, 1619, 1628–29
fertility and, 1011
generation of, 1199–1200
of God, 1614–16, 1619
judgment and, 1258
of kings, 1021–22
praise for, 876
sin and, 1618–19
suffering and, 1023
trees and, 860
way of, 1394
wickedness compared to, 918, 938, 1054, 1066, 1068, 1342
wisdom and, 809
works of, 1743
of worshipers, 793
- right hand, 845, 1694
- risks, 957–58
- ritual bath (mikveh), 168
- Ritual Decalogue, 133
- ritual impurity, 577–78, 712
- ritual lamps, 180
- ritual offense, 427
- ritual performance, 152
- ritual purity, 144, 1081
- rituals, 323, 427, 1885
Aaron sons' illicit, 155, 157–58 for agriculture, 1291 bread, 180
in Colossians, 1707–8 commemorative, 97 elevation, 155
fasting in, 1363–64
for fertility, 1065
Gilgal and, 329–30, 1286 mythology and, 1880 treaties and, 1016
- rock, 1316
breaking of, 897
Christ as, 1651
God as, 861
Peter as, 1408
water from, 107
- Rogers, John, 1853–54
- Roman Catholic Church
canon in, 1839, 1841
Decalogue of, 111
The Revised Standard Version Catholic Edition, 1855
- Roman citizenship, 1590
- Roman Empire, 1778, 1902–4; see also Greco-Roman biographies
- Roman period
astrology in, 1907 cities in, 1905
in cultural contexts, 1902–8 literacy and education in, 1906–7 magic in, 1907 philosophy in, 1907–8 religion in, 1907
Roman empire in, 1903–4
urban status and social class, 1905–6
- Romans
Christianity for, 1559
conversion of, 1589
- Romans, Letter of Paul to, 1613–36
- Rome
as Babylon, 1775, 1781, 1823
Christianity and, 1593
fall of, 1826–28
Jews' expulsion from, 1592, 1613
Paul to, 1603–9
slavery in, 1827
as whore, 1826
- roofs, 1126
- Rosetta Stone, 1878
- Rosh Hashanah, 179, 234–35
- royal estates, 620, 656
- royal orders, 718
- royal psalms, 794–95, 840–41, 875–76, 890–91
- RSV. See Revised Standard Version
- ruse, 335–36
- Ruth, 397, 403
- Ruth, Book of, 288, 360, 397–403
authorship of, 397
historical books, 318
- RVNT. See Revised Version of the New Testament
- S
- sabbath, 260, 708, 1865
ark of the covenant and, 135
bread of the Presence and, 121 commandment of, 112, 1102 complete rest on, 170
covenant of, 129, 1055
creation and, 3, 13
in exile, 673
festivals and, 178
harvests on, 1401, 1436 healing on, 1401, 1436, 1477–78, 1480, 1497–98, 1529–30, 1537 hymn for, 859–960 journey on, 1560 for land, 181–82
laws about, 214, 1866
manna and, 106–7
observance of, 1058
violation of, 713, 1201–2
- sabbatical year, 181–82, 304; see also jubilee year
- sackcloth, 1819
- sacred donations, 177, 557–58
- sacred manumission, 1645
- sacred river, 1243–44
- sacred trees, 29, 59–60, 371–72
- sacred vessels, 388, 1259–60, 1355, 1901
return of, 677
in Revelation, 1824–25
- sacrifice, 3, 708, 1907; see also priests; Temple of Solomon altar for, 294, 410, 1234–35
of animals, 20–21, 125–26, 178, 219, 276, 414, 1232
blood in, 146, 149
of children, 116, 172, 272, 871, 1056, 1085, 1202, 1231
of Christ, 1760
death as, 1704
after flood, 22
human, 41–42, 544, 563, 573
instructions for, 145
of Isaac, 41–42
Jesus and, 1862
Levites and, 1239–40
in Leviticus, 144
moral action and, 1085 of nazirites, 198–99
new moon, 234–35
Paul's death as, 1704 prayer or, 1057 secular, 271–72
slaughter related to, 170–71 times for, 233–35
- sacrificial kitchens, 1243

- sacrificial slaughter, 171 sacristy chambers, 1236–37
 Sadducees, 1384, 1455–56, 1509
 Pharisees and, 1408, 1526, 1601
 saints, 1718, 1823
 salt, 379, 641, 1390
 covenant of, 147, 218
 destruction from, 1147
 impurity of, 1500
 salvation, 85, 802–3, 1354, 1471 adversity after, 815–16 through childbirth, 1729 discipline for, 1498 gospel of, 1615
 inheritance of, 1751
 of Israel, 1631
 in Jerusalem, 1352
 love related to, 1794–95
 of nations, 1351
 of Northern Kingdom, 1366
 resurrection and, 1560, 1621, 1772–73
 revelation of, 1776
 of righteous, 1785
 suffering and, 1861
 time for, 1632–33
 wealth and, 1505–6
 Samaria, 522, 533, 565–66, 1890, 1896; see also Northern Kingdom Assyria in, 680–81
 comparison with, 1196 competition and, 698
 as enemy, 1304–5
 fall of, 539, 567, 1329
 God against, 1326
 gospel to, 1572
 Nehemiah against, 696
 siege of, 549–50
 Samaritans, 713, 1398, 1903
 Jesus and, 1489–92, 1527–29
 Samaritan woman, 1527–29
 Samson, 369, 383–88
 Samuel, 359, 384
 birth and consecration of, 406–7
 call of, 411
 David and, 430
 Davidic dynasty in, 498–500, 518
 in Dead Sea Scrolls, 421
 death of, 443
 Deuteronomistic History and, 316–17, 405, 463
 as intercessor, 415
 Josiah compared to, 671
 as judge, 415–16, 418
 Moses compared to, 423
 as prophet, 418
 revelation of, 411
 roles of, 415
 Samuel, Books of, 318, 405–51, 453–92 sanctify, 430, 1622–23 sanctity, 1177
 sanctuary (holy place), 104–5, 184, 667–68; see also holy of holies; Temple of Solomon at altars, 1101
 in Babylonian exile, 1190
 God in, 842
 impurity of, 1177, 1183
 laws about approach to, 217–18
 Levites and, 191
 local, 577
 measurement of, 1819
 in Temple of Solomon, 1084, 1203
 wilderness camp and, 189
 Sanhedrin, 1425–26, 1550, 1903
 in Acts, 1565–66
 Paul before, 1601
 Sarah (Sarai), 11, 27, 63, 1052, 1687 as Abraham's sister, 29, 33, 39
 danger and, 29, 33
 laughter of, 35–36
 name of, 34
 Sarai. See Sarah
 Sargon II, 1007
 Satan, 1409, 1437, 1491, 1666, 1867; see also devil; snakes
 as Beelzebul, 1493
 emperor related to, 1543
 God and, 1867
 Job and, 736
 Paul and, 1717
 as prisoner, 1829
 throne of, 1810
 Saul, 334, 372, 407, 416, 434, 1895
 Amalekites and, 454–55
 against Ammonites, 422–23
 anointing of, 418–21, 442
 David and, 425, 430–38, 440–49, 454
 death of, 449–50, 454, 599–600
 heirs' execution, 485 kingship of, 423–29
 name of, 407, 418, 420
 sin of, 424–25, 428–29
 unfaithfulness of, 604
 Vashti compared to, 718 war with Philistines and, 424–28
 Saul of Tarsus. See Paul de Saussure, Ferdinand, 1883
 saviors, 707, 1568
 Sa'adya, 1868
 scapegoat, 169–70
 scepter, 229, 888
 scoffers, 908, 922
 scouts, 209–11, 251–52, 326–27
 scribe(s), 1086, 1249, 1384, 1405, 1418, 1433, 1479, 1535; see also Eleazar; Pharisees
 Jesus and, 1456
 letters by, 1612
 scriptures. See Bible; New Testament; Septuagint; Torah in Christian polemic, 1862–63
 Christian practice and, 1861–62
 Christological reading of, 1860–61
 in early Christian church, 1860
 scrolls, 1842, 1844; see also Dead Sea Scrolls festival, 945, 961 flying, 1361
 Jehoiakim against, 1131–32 in synagogues, 1476–77
 scroll tradition, 1131–32 sea, 877–78, 916; see also Dead Sea Scrolls; Red Sea
 Song of the, 103–5, 997 wilderness of, 1007 sea-crossing story, 1439, 1443, 1447
 sea-dragon, 1220
 seals, 1814–16, 1818, 1832
 Sea of Reeds (yam suf), 102; see also Red Sea Sea Peoples, 1895 seclusion, 1180
 Second Coming of Christ, 1732, 1736, 1743 doubt about, 1783–84, 1786–87
 false teaching and, 1785–87
 Second Esdras. See Esdras, Second Second Isaiah, 973, 977, 1026, 1031–53, 1146, 1862, 1898; see also Isaiah Second Jewish Revolt, 1903
 Second Maccabees. See Maccabees, Second (Book of) Second Temple. See Temple, Second Second Temple Judaism, 1805
 Second Temple period
 of Ruth, 397
 Second Zechariah, 974–75 secular sacrifice, 271–72 security, 927
 Seleucids, 1270–71
 Diaspora and, 1901
 self-abasement, 1710–11 self-confidence, 1079–80 self-emptying, 1703 self-revelation, 915–17, 1820 seminal emission, 167
 Seneca, 1727
 Sennacherib, 318, 571, 659, 665
 in Isaiah, 1008, 1010, 1026, 1028–29, 1031
 senses, 779
 sentinels, 1062, 1082
 in Daniel, 1285
 prophets as, 1180–81, 1222–23, 1285
 separation, 753
 from foreigners, 712
 from God, 757–58, 787, 790, 842–43, 855, 1184
 of Levites, 191, 202, 244
 Sepphoris, 1905
 Septuagint (LXX), 135, 308, 316, 1753, 1860, 1900; see also Bible; Greek Bible; Old Greek; Wisdom of Solomon as authority, 1841
 Books of Solomon in, 905
 canon of, 1840–41
 Ecclesiastes in, 945
 Egypt in, 1221
 Esther in, 715

- Hebrews and, 1749
 James in, 1767
 Kings in, 493
 Leviticus in, 143
 literal translation of, 1863–64
 MT compared to, 1069, 1143–44 psalms in, 781
 Stephen and, 1569
 virgin and, 990
- seraphs, 988
- Sermon on the Mount, 1390–95
- sermons, 1562–65
 Temple, 1083–84, 1105, 1115–16
- serpents, 223; see also dragons
- servants, 547, 877, 1633 Apollos as, 1642–43
 apostles as, 1642
 circumcision related to, 1634
 of God, 853–54, 887, 898
 Israel as, 1045–46, 1051
 Moses as, 1051
 Nebuchadnezzar as, 1113
 power and, 1452
 prophets as, 1304
 suffering of, 1051–52, 1565, 1708, 1778
 unforgiving, 1411
- servant songs, 1035–36, 1045–46, 1048, 1051
- Seth, 18
- Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries,
 Christian premodern interpretation in, 1875–76
- seventy elders, 207–8, 1490
- sexual abstinence, 438–39 of military, 288, 468
 of virgins, 1814
- sexual discharges, 167–68
- sexual innuendo, 385–86, 388, 912, 915, 917, 942
 fertility and, 1056
 in Jeremiah, 1056, 1105
- sexual intercourse, 15, 407, 1718; see also adultery consensual, 287
 premarital, 115
 seminal emission in, 167
 in Song of Solomon, 962, 966, 969
- sexual intimacy knowledge as, 1278
- sexuality, 1888
 celibacy, 1646–48
 feminine, 715
 homosexuality, 10, 172, 1616
 monogamy in, 912–13
- sexual offenses, 24, 65, 1096, 1697, 1711;
 see also incest; rape
 in Corinth, 1644–46
 homosexuality as, 172
- shame, 810, 816, 839, 862, 894, 1103, 1174, 1886 exhortation against, 1761, 1764
 of nakedness, 1165
 of prisoners, 991
 suffering and, 1736
- Shamgar, 367
- Shaphan, 1116
- sharing; see also communal sharing
 in Christ, 1671
 in persecution, 1547
 of possessions, 1567
- Shavuot, 116; see also Pentecost
 Ruth and, 397
- Sheba, 483–84
- Shechem, 58–59, 78, 270, 356, 518, 1282
- Abimelech and, 377–79
 ceremonies at, in Deuteronomy, 293–95
 covenant renewal at, 335
 national assembly at, 638–39
- sheep, lost, 1411
- shekel, 128
- Shem, 25
 Abraham and, 403
 Canaan and, 30–31
 descendants of, 26–27, 29
 genealogy of, 586–87
- Shema, 262
- Sheol, 64, 307, 408, 742, 768, 787
 as earth, 104
 exile as, 987
 king in, 1001
 silence of, 878
- Shephelah, 1890
- shepherds, 948, 1872
 for community, 1367
 God as, 800–801, 861, 1169, 1224–25, 1539
 Jesus and, 1472
 kings as, 464, 491, 848, 1224
 leaders as, 1597
 lions and, 1340
 lost sheep of, 1411
 lovers as, 962–63
 Peter as, 1555
 predators and, 1305
- Sheshbazzar, 675, 680, 683, 1109
- shibboleth, 383
- shields, 1007
- Shiloh, 391, 396, 406–9, 848 assembly of, 347
- Shimei, 482, 496, 498, 500
- shipwreck, of Paul, 1606–7
- Shoah (Holocaust), 1055, 1347
- short story. See Ruth, Book of; Susanna
- shrines, 117, 388, 419; see also high places of Baal, 1278
 in Ephesus, 1595
- Sidonians, 380, 389–90, 1216
- siege
 of Jerusalem, 567–72, 580, 1008–9, 1026–29, 1134, 1171–72, 1181–82, 1208–9 against Nineveh, 1337–38
 of Samaria, 549–50
- sign-acts, 1099–1100, 1102, 1105, 1141
- signet, 65, 68
- signet ring, 1356
- signs, 571, 1077, 1465, 1526, 1529; see also end-time
 of Jonah, 1493
 from Moses, 87–88
 of mourning, 458–59, 472, 476, 536, 569, 721, 1028, 1083, 1100, 1123
- signs and wonders, 1446–47, 1567
- signs source, 1519–20
- Silas, 1586–90
- silence, 532, 1036
 enemies and, 814
 about healing, 1441
 Jesus and, 1488
 judgment in, 1816
 of Lord, 1065 of Sheol, 878
 as virtue, 927
 wisdom of, 919
- Silvanus, 1665, 1716, 1775
- silver, 274, 1045, 1125
- Simeon, 58–59, 70, 78, 360, 362, 644, 1473
 descendants of, 590
- Simeon (tribe), 348–49
- Simeon Peter. See Peter
- Simon, Richard, 1875
- Simon of Cyrene, 1552
- Simon the Pharisee, 1483–84
- simony, 1574
- sin
 of Aaron, 221–22
 at Baal-peor, 229–30 of Cain, 17–18
 census as, 490
 Christ and, 1680, 1689
 in Dead Sea Scrolls, 1623
 death and, 1769
 as debts, 1393
 deliverance from, 1623–24
 disease and, 813
 forgiveness of, 807, 813–14, 1479
 of golden calf, 130–31 impurity rules and, 150–51 intentional, 149, 168–70 of Job, 737–38
 judgment and, 1112–13
 law and, 1623
 of Moses, 221–22
 of omission, 756–57, 1772 original, 824
 purification offerings and, 148–51 redemption and, 1625–26
 righteousness and, 1618–19
 of Saul, 424–25, 428–29
 suffering related to, 742–43, 745–46, 767, 984
 temptation to, 1410
 as yeast, 1644
- Sinai, Mount. See Mount Sinai/Horeb
- singers, 711–12, 819, 964, 1088 command for, 1359
 of David, 617–18
 of Levites, 592
 as prophets, 649

- sinners, 949, 1174, 1435
- sin offerings, 126, 150–51, 1624
- Christ as, 1669
- in Second Temple, 684–85
- Sirach, Wisdom of Jesus Son of, 906, 1838, 1847, 1851, 1902
- Sisera, 368–71
- sisters, 29, 33, 39, 84, 1206–8
- skin diseases, 196, 657, 737; see also surface affliction
- slander, 941
- rescue from, 885–86
- slaughter, 170–71
- slavery, 182, 299, 1311; see also Exodus
- Benjamin and, 72
- in Canaan, 346–47
- debt and, 699, 1857
- Israelites related to, 83–84, 183
- Jesus on, 1536–37
- Joseph in, 63–64
- jubilee year and, 1866–67
- law about, 5, 1857
- manumission, 181, 275–76, 1129, 1645, 1745–47
- in Rome, 1827
- slaves, 484, 544, 1129, 1712
- of centurion, 1482
- circumcision of, 100
- early Christian church as, 1779
- in early Christian community, 1731, 1745–46
- ear-piercing ceremony for, 1857
- escaped, 288
- freedom of, 275–76, 1647, 1866–67
- in Genesis, 10
- Onesimus as, 1745–47
- of Persia, 707
- redemption of, 700
- rights of, 113, 766, 1778
- for Temple of Solomon, 505
- trust in, 1422
- wives compared to, 1698
- sleep, 1018
- as death, 1540
- sling, 433–34, 444
- smell, 964–66, 1295
- smelting judgment, 1205–6
- smoke, 146, 964–65, 985, 1020
- Smyrna, 1809
- snakes, 567, 1465, 1608; see also dragons; serpents
- symbolism of, 15–16, 1145
- social anthropologists, 1885
- social class, 1905–6
- social harmony, 289–90
- social justice, 1768–69, 1896
- social-scientific criticism, 1884–86
- society, 1885
- as body, 1654–55
- sociology, 1879–80
- Socrates, 1566, 1591, 1752, 1908
- Sodom, 391–92, 1172, 1196
- Gomorrah and, 30, 36–37, 307, 981, 1306, 1350
- Jonah and, 1319–20
- solar eclipse, 1311
- Solomon, 460, 470, 905, 1895–96
- anointing of, 496–97
- becoming king, 495–97, 622–23, 625
- in Chronicles, 622–23
- Ecclesiastes and, 945–47
- elimination of enemies by, 499–500
- ending reign of, 516–18
- enemies and, 499–500
- faithfulness of, 634, 636
- genealogy of, 588–89
- God with, 513–14, 517, 626
- Hezekiah compared to, 666
- idealized presentation of, 625, 637
- kingdom organization by, 502, 504
- kinship of, 634, 636–37
- marriages of, 500, 516–17, 713, 964, 1142
- Nathan on, 609
- oracles and, 501
- palace of, 508, 515–16
- prayer of, petitions in, 631–33, 643, 648
- Proverbs of, 733, 905–6, 918–32, 935–41
- in Song of Solomon, 961
- Temple of (See Temple of Solomon)
- throne of, 636–37
- wealth of, 515–16, 636–37
- wisdom of, 500–502, 504, 626, 916 (see also Wisdom of Solomon)
- Song of Deborah, 359, 369–71
- Song of Hannah, 407–8
- Song of Miriam, 103–5
- Song of Moses, 303, 305–8
- Song of Solomon, 730–31, 733, 961–70, 1840
- as poetry, 961–62
- Targum on, 1864
- Song of the Bow, 455
- Song of the Sea, 103–5, 997
- songs
- servant, 1035–36, 1045–46, 1048, 1051
- about vineyard, 986
- Son of David, 1453
- Jesus as, 1397
- as Messiah, 1402
- Son of God, 1406, 1427, 1436, 1514
- Son of Man (Jesus), 1396, 1399, 1421, 1435, 1448, 1479, 1504, 1510, 1524, 1808
- sons, 888–89
- sorceresses, 1192
- soul; see also immortality
- belief about, 1658
- of martyrdom, 1814–15
- source criticism, 1876–78
- southern campaign, 335–37
- Southern Kingdom, 494, 846; see also Judah
- in Chronicles, 584
- Isaiah and, 977, 980
- sovereignty
- of Babylonian exile, 1116–19
- of God, 925, 980, 1250, 1365–66
- in Zion, 982, 1024, 1031
- sower parable of, 1403, 1438, 1484–85
- speaking in tongues, 1578, 1654–55
- prophecies compared to, 1656–57
- speech, 925–26, 1023, 1071, 1180
- divine, 1866
- flattery and, 939
- as food, 921
- of fools, 1674–75
- against Judea, 1326
- messenger, 971–72
- against nations, 1300–1301
- wisdom from, 1770
- speechlessness, 1181, 1209–10, 1223
- in Luke, 1469, 1471, 1498
- spies, 69–70, 251–52, 871; see also scouts
- priests as, 476, 478
- in wilderness wandering, 209–11
- Spinoza, Benedict (Baruch), 4, 1868, 1875
- Spirit, 1473; see also Holy Spirit
- flesh and, 1673, 1684
- freedom in, 1667
- of God, 1518, 1654
- of Jesus, 1588
- life in, 1624–25
- spirit(s), 603, 925, 1481
- of Christ, 1679–80, 1779
- consultation with, 447–48
- ecstasy of, 1808
- elemental, 1686, 1710
- of God, 384–85, 996, 1179, 1257, 1355
- of holiness, 1615
- seven, 1807
- testing of, 1794
- as wind, 1362
- sports, 1705
- staff, 107, 217
- stars, 229, 251, 744, 1044
- wise men and, 1386
- starvation, 298
- steadfastness, 1723, 1738
- Stephanas, 1660–61
- Stephen, 1569–70, 1572
- stereotypes, 716
- Sternberg, Meir, 1882–83
- Stoic philosophers, 1670, 1672–73, 1908
- in Philippians, 1705–6
- Stoics, 1591–92
- stones, 480; see also rock
- cornerstone, 774, 880, 1417, 1695
- Eden related to, 1215
- foundation, 1016, 1360
- gemstones, 124
- Moabite, 543
- Rosetta, 1878
- twelve-stone memorial, 328
- stoning, 273, 1208, 1585
- storm god, battles of, against Sea, 167, 795, 801, 805, 867

- storms, 110, 804, 860, 862, 1111, 1321 calming of, 1396
 strange woman, 912, 914–15, 933, 937 strength, 830, 852–53 structuralism, 1883
 submission to authorities, 1632, 1743 obedience as, 1741–42
 Succession Narrative, 453
 Succoth. See Sukkot, festival of Succoth, meaning of term, 58
 Suetonius, 1613
 suffering, 265, 889, 1457–58; see also Job, Book of
 blessing of, 740, 1736
 compassion for, 858, 1122
 confession and, 896
 death and, 740–41
 in early Christian church, 1775–76
 as education, 772–73 enjoyment of, 934
 faith and, 1780
 glory and, 1625
 hope and, 1779
 of Jerusalem, 980–81
 of Job, 737–38
 justice of, 814–15
 in Lamentations, 1163–64
 model of, 1735
 obedience and, 1048
 persecution as, 1722 for prophecies, 1461
 of righteous, 1449
 righteousness and, 1023
 salvation and, 1861
 of servants, 1051–52, 1565, 1708, 1778 shame and, 1736
 sin related to, 742–43, 745–46, 767, 984
 trust and, 1346
 suicide, 479, 526–27, 599
 Sukkot, festival of, 117, 513, 997, 1370, 1533, 1866
 Torah reading on, 1856–57
 water and, 602, 1039
 Sumerian laments, 1163
 sun, 797
 Amon (sun god) and, 1145–46
 worship of, 1187
 superscription, in letters, 1612 surface afflictions, 162–63
 on cloth, 164
 in houses, 166
 purification after, 164–65 surrender, 969–70
 surveyor, 1359 survival, 1099 book of law related to, 705 hope of, 1114
 sword, 470
 of Nebuchadrezzar, 1204–5 sword prophecies, 1203–5 symbolic numbers. See numbers, symbolic symbolism, 1176, 1807
 of animals, 1088
 of Christ, 1808–9
 clothing related to, 442, 467, 1668, 1711 of marriage, 1527
 of snake, 15–16, 1145
 of trees, 1290
 of wind, 1497
 synagogues, 1397–98, 1809, 1907
 in Capernaum, 1477
 expulsion from, 1521, 1538
 scrolls in, 1476–77
 syncretism, religious, 566, 574, 680–81, 1141–43
 Synod of Laodicea, 1843
 Synoptic Gospels, 1380–81, 1541
 John and, 1519
 source criticism of, 1877–78
 Syria, 1151, 1681, 1892
 Syriac, 1846, 1848
 Syro-Ephraimite War, Isaiah and, 977, 988–89, 991, 993–95, 1002–3
- T
- tabernacle, 188, 199; see also ark of the covenant; sanctuary in battle, 327–29
 at Bethel, 394
 cherubim on, 120–22, 202 construction of, 3
 furnishings of, 119
 heaven related to, 1757–58
 lampstand for, 123, 136
 Moses in, 202
 tent over, 121–22
 in wilderness wandering, 206
 Tabernacles, festival of. See Sukkot, festival of table, in ark of the covenant, 120–21, 137
 table-fellowship, 1683
 Tabor, 375
 Tacitus, 1472
 Tahpanhes, Egypt, 1140–43
 Tamar, 65, 402, 471–72, 587
 tambourine, 105
 Tammuz, 1187
Tanakh, A New Translation of the Holy Scriptures According to the Traditional Hebrew Text, 1855
 Targum Onqelos, 1863–64
 Targums, 1849, 1863–64
 Tarshish, 637
 Tatian, 1870
 Taverner, Richard, 1853–54 tax collectors, 1392, 1435, 1479, 1505, 1506 taxes, 686, 1417–18, 1508–9, 1904; see also tithes
 of community, 699
 Jesus on, 1455
 to Persia, 699
 temple, 708, 1410
 teachers, 917, 947, 1859; see also false teaching
- Temple
 access to, 786–87, 831–33 cleansing of, 1508
 community in, 817
 dedication of, 283
 fig tree and, 1414, 1416
 gates of, 1233
 God in, 811, 1365
 hope and, 803–4
 protection within, 825
 Temple, Second, 682, 1903
 construction of, 669, 680–84, 1066
 dedication of, 684–85, 703
 desecration of, by Antiochus IV, 1249, 1268
 destruction of, 1457–58, 1510, 1749
 first public Torah reading in, 703–4 houses and, 1353–54 images in, 1421 maintenance of, 686
 Paul in, 1599
 Peter in, 1564
 rebuilding of, 1357, 1364, 1898
 rebuilt by Herod the Great, 1420, 1453, 1457, 1526, 1539–40
 rededication of, 711–12, 1355–56, 1360–61
 sin offering in, 684–85 tax for, 708
 Temple of Solomon, 464, 500, 626, 1354, 1893, 1896, 1900
 aliens in, 1239
 ark of the covenant and, 507, 630, 670, 1028, 1076, 1167 building of, 504–7
 David and, 504, 506, 511, 614–15, 617–19, 621–22
 dedication of, 510–13, 631–34
 description of, 505–7, 627–29
 destruction of, 842–43, 848–49, 1064, 1160, 1163, 1167
 Eden compared to, 1236 furnishings of, 508–10, 561, 581, 629–30, 672
 God in, 633–34, 1166, 1237
 judgment related to, 1067
 ordinances for, 1239–40 plunder and, 580, 610 pollution in, 1186–87
 prayers in, 511–13
 rebuilding of, under Cyrus, 675, 679–80, 1353
 renovation of, 653–54, 660 restoration finances for, 669, 679, 683–84
 restoration of, 1232–39
 sanctuary in, 1084, 1203
 worship in, 615–16, 653, 661, 1238–39
 Temple sermons, 1083–84, 1105, 1115–16 temple tax, 708, 1410 temptations, 1502, 1768
 of Jesus, 1388–89, 1476
 to sin, 1410

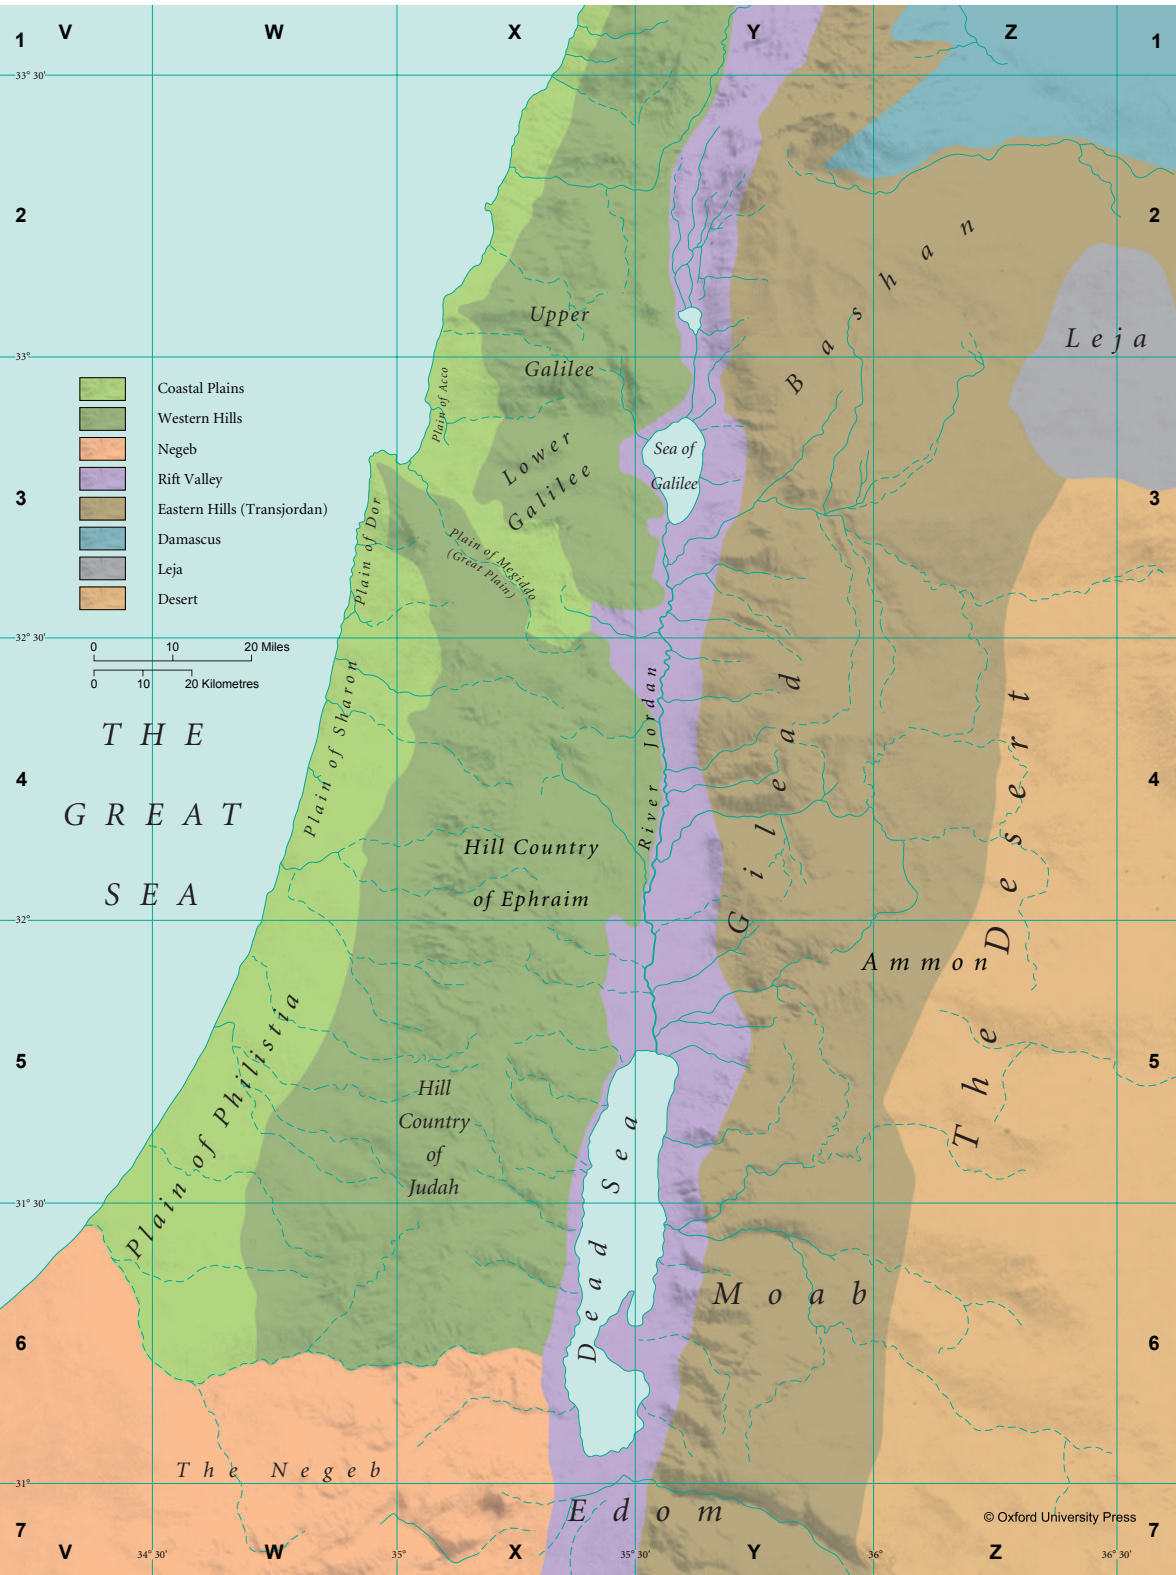

TEN COMMANDMENTS—TRUST

- Ten Commandments, 3, 118; see also Decalogue form of, 110–11
 tent of meeting, 129, 132, 138, 145 Terah, 26–27
 teraphim, 1366
 Tertius, 1636
 Tertullian, 1749, 1801, 1870
 Tertullus, 1602
 testimony, 1807, 1833
 testing of Israel in the wilderness, 105–7 Tetrarch, 321
 textual criticism, 1843–44
 of Apocrypha, 1846–47
 of MT, 1845–46
 thanksgiving, 794–95, 992–93, 1013, 1030;
 see also psalms
 by Paul, 1614, 1639
 prayer for, 1691–94
 in Thessalonians, 1721–23
 thanksgiving offering, 154 Thebes, 1339
 theft, 799, 1032, 1074, 1811
 theodicy, 1374–75
 Theodore of Mopsuestia, 1871
 Theodotion, 1847
 theology liberation, 1886–87
 of prophetic books, 974
 theophanies, 1068, 1374, 1528 covenant ratification and, 117–18 darkness in, 1293–95
 with Moses, 82, 86–88, 109, 117
 at Mount Sinai/Horeb, 109 nature and, 257
 as storm and earthquake, 110
 wind and, 1561
 Theophilus, 1469, 1560, 1602
 Thessalonians, First Letter of Paul to, 1611, 1715–20
 Thessalonians, Second Letter of Paul
 to, 1611, 1721–24
 Thessalonica, 1590, 1706, 1715
 Third Isaiah, 977, 1053–68; see also Isaiah Third Maccabees. See Maccabees, Third (Book of)
 Thirteen Attributes of God, 133
 Thomas, 1554
 Thomas, The Gospel of, 1881
 Three Jews, Song of the. See Song of the Three Jews threshing, 1301
 threshing floors, 440, 491 threshold, 1242–43, 1312 throne, 515–16
 divine, 1263–64
 Jerusalem as, 1076
 of Satan, 1810
 of Solomon, 636–37
 throne-chariot vision, 1178–79, 1186, 1188
 Thummim. See Urim and Thummim thunder, 415–16, 487, 850, 1090
 Tiberias, 1905
 Tiglath-pileser III, 659, 991, 994, 1275, 1299
 Tigris River, 1338, 1889 time, 1787, 1820; see also end-time
 of covenant, 1667
 glory related to, 1626 relationships and, 1647–48
 for sacrifice, 233–35
 for salvation, 1632–33
 of wrath, 858
 Timothy, 1588, 1615, 1643, 1660, 1704, 1766
 Pastoral Epistles and, 1725
 Paul and, 1663–64, 1715, 1716, 1725, 1727, 1735
 Timothy, First Letter of Paul to, 1588, 1727–33
 Timothy, Second Letter of Paul to, 1498, 1735–39
 tithes, 186, 218, 275, 664
 to kings, 274
 to poor, 292–93
 return and, 1374–75
 Titus, 1588, 1663, 1681–82, 1741
 Pastoral Epistles and, 1725
 Titus, Letter of Paul to, 1741–44
 Tobia, 712
 Tobit, Book of, 1851, 1901
 toledot (generations, descendants), 9, 300
 tombs
 angel at, 1464, 1516, 1553
 of Jesus, 1464, 1516, 1553
 of prophets, 1494
 whitewashing of, 1419–20
 women at, 1516, 1553–54 Torah (torah), 4; see also Bible; Penta-teuch
 Christianity and, 1861
 divine presence and, 704
 in education, 1906
 as God, 881
 as law, 3, 9–10, 686, 929
 oral communication and, 1906–7 postexilic community and, 1898–99
 women and, 704
The Torah, The Five Books of Moses, 1855 Torah reading first public, 703–4 on Sukkot, 1856–57
 torture. See martyrdom Tower of Babel. See Babel trades, 620, 634, 1904–5, 1907
 tradition
 in 1 Timothy, 1727
 Alexandrian, 1847
 of Deuteronomy, 248–49, 303
 of elders, 1406–7, 1443, 1445
 about Messiah, 1534
 oral, 1381
 plague, 1370
 scroll, 1131–32
 wilderness, 846–47
 transfiguration, 1409, 1448–49, 1488–89;
 see also Jesus; theophanies transgression, 13, 1179–80
 Transjordan, 79, 104, 223–24, 1891
 altar of, 354–55
 circuit around, 252–53
 conflict with, 353–54
 land distribution in, 238–40, 342–43 Transjordan tribes, 255, 353–54, 591–92 translations, 1844–45, 1863–64 colloquialism and, 1853 culture and, 1852–53 of English Bible, 1852–56 equivalence in, 1852 of NRSV, 1848, 1853 principles of, 1852–53 treason, 1115
 treasure, 908 treaties, 269–70, 336, 356, 485, 534 Deuteronomy and, 248
 ritual and, 1016
 VTE, 272, 295–97, 300
 tree(s), 14, 378, 544, 784, 1054, 1074, 1233, 1630
 Asherah and, 1280
 cedar, 504–5, 508, 637, 983, 1032–33, 1060, 1219–20, 1344
 cosmic, 1198, 1219
 Davidic dynasty and, 996
 dream of, 1257–58
 enemies and, 995
 fig, 1300, 1414, 1416, 1454, 1497
 kings and, 1000, 1029
 of life, 910, 1832
 olive, 1360–61
 righteousness and, 860
 sacred, 29, 59–60, 371–72
 symbolism of, 1290
 Zion and, 982
 trial
 of Jesus, 1417–18, 1455–56, 1461–62
 tribes, 344, 1894
 Arab, 1151–52
 Cisjordanian, 322, 343, 354 division of, 294–95
 leaders of, 199–200
 Transjordan, 255, 353–54, 591–92
 tribute, 909
 tricksters, 52, 402
 Trinitarian controversy, 1869 trumpets, 110, 1816–20
 of Gideon, 374
 signal, 204
 trust, 110, 785, 929
 alliances compared to, 1019–20, 1031, 1073, 1206–7
 arrogance and, 825
 in divine intervention, 791
 faithfulness as, 786, 1343
 in God, 791–92, 800–801, 818–19, 832, 890, 1756
 hope and, 896
 oppression and, 827–28
 psalms of, 791–92, 800–801, 803–4, 811, 825–26, 832, 859

- restoration and, 1449
 in slaves, 1422
 suffering and, 1346
 wickedness and, 841–42
- truth, 921, 941, 1320 change as, 959
 for community, 301
 of end-time, 1737–38
 of faith, 1795
 false teaching compared to, 1727–28, 1730, 1732–33, 1737, 1786
 search for, 948
- twelve, commissioning of the, 1398, 1487
 twelve-stone memorial, 328
 twins, 65–66
 Tychicus, 1699
 Tyndale, William, 1853–54 typology, 323, 1862, 1871–72
 Tyre, 1010, 1211–14, 1217
 Hiram of, 504–5, 508–9, 514, 626–27
- U
- uncertainty, 957
 uncircumcised, 599, 1215
 as derogatory term, 426, 450, 455 in heart, 1571
 underworld, 1221–22, 1231
 unfaithfulness, 597–99, 647
 of children, 1076
 covenant about, 1202–3 disease related to, 645
 festivals and, 1281
 of Israel, 1072, 1195
 of Jerusalem, 1164–65
 of Judah, 1075
 judgment for, 1279
 of Rehoboam, 640–41
 of Saul, 604
 as wilderness, 1277
 of Zedekiah, 1197–98
 unfaithful wife allegory, 1194–96
 Gomer and, 1275–79
 unintentional homicide, 281–82
 United Monarchy, 584, 615, 625, 636, 642, 652, 662
 in ancient Near East and Israel, 1895–96
 as model, 670
 Poetical Books from, 733 unity
 within church, 1694–95, 1704–5 of Israel and Judah, 997, 1277 universality of church, 1597, 1692 universe, 867–68
 Uriah, 1116, 1132
 Urim and Thummim, 310, 427–28, 679
 Uzziah. See Azariah
- V
- Valla, Lorenzo, 1873 valley, 1008–9, 1890
 Valley Gate, 696
 vanity, 946–49, 952–53, 955–56, 958 variants, 1844
 Vashti, 717–18
 vassals, 668
 Vassal Treaty of Esarhaddon (VTE), 272, 295–97, 300 vault, 1312
 vegetarianism, 171
 veiling, 1652–53, 1667
 vengeance, 244–45, 473–74, 974, 1336
 against Babylon, 1157–58
 on Edom, 1063
 against foreigners, 902–3 for martyrdom, 1829 verbal offering, 838 vessels, 1117
 sacred, 388, 677, 1259–60, 1355, 1824–25, 1901
 vicarious punishment, 259–60 victories, 821–22
 creation and, 834
 for Davidic dynasty, 875–76
 of God, 433, 835–37, 863
 justice of, 844
 of kings, 797–98
 over evil, 1792
 over false teaching, 1792–93
 praise for, 879–80
 vindication, 804, 1815 vindictive psalms, 783–84 vine
 Israel as, 1286, 1546
 as Judah, 1200–1201
 wild vine metaphor, 1193–94
 vineyard, 987
 alliances compared to, 1005 keeper of, 962, 970, 1015 of Naboth, 535–36
 parables of, 1416–17, 1508
 song about, 986 violations
 of covenants, 332–33, 1091–92, 1097, 1272, 1275, 1285–88 priestly law, 98
 of sabbath, 713, 1201–2 violence; see also rape
 deliverance from, 826–27
 justice and, 1342–43
 Lamech and, 18
 women and, 1888
 virgin daughter, 286–87, 382 virgins, 990, 1164–65, 1292, 1470 as captives, 237
 LXX and, 990
 marriage of, 1647
 sexual abstinence of, 1814 virtues, 1784
 silence as, 927
 visions, 965; see also Ezekiel of Amos, 1309–13
 of chariots, 1178–79, 1186, 1188, 1362
 of Cornelius, 1577–78
 of divine warrior, 1345–46 of dry bones, 1228–29
 fasting and, 1267
 of Isaiah, 980, 988–89
 of Jeremiah, 1071
 of Obadiah, 1316–18
 of Paul, 1600
 as prophecy, 1336
 valley of, 1008–9
 of whore, 1825–26
 writing of, 1263
 in Zechariah, Book of, 1204–5, 1357
 Voltaire, 1875
 vows, 185–86, 289, 475, 831, 879, 930 bride capture and, 395–96 of Jephthah, 382
 Nazirites, 198–99, 384
 by women, 236
 VTE. See Vassal Treaty of Esarhaddon
 Vulgate (Latin New Testament), 1848, 1870
- W
- warrior, 943; see also divine warrior water, 345, 489, 509, 741, 799, 1087; see also rains angels over, 1824 authority over, 1819 belief related to, 1535
 as blood, 92
 for Egypt, 1005–6
 for fertility, 820, 888
 holy, 197
 irrigation, 930, 1889, 1891
 for Jerusalem, 990, 1009
 Jesus as, 1528
 lack of, in Exodus, 107
 power over, 1485
 protection of, 991
 purification and, 202 from rock, 107
 Sukkot and, 602, 1039
 walking on, 1406, 1532
 Way, the, 1575, 1603; see also Dead Sea
 Scrolls
 wealth, 699–700, 1031, 1501, 1653, 1896
 bridewealth, 115, 287–88, 435
 Christianity and, 1905
 conspicuous consumption, 1308–9 coronation and, 1362
 death and, 822
 of Haman, 724
 of Hezekiah, 666
 of Israel, 1305
 Jesus and, 1451–52
 pride and, 1343
 in Proverbs, 918, 921–23, 927, 931–33
 salvation and, 1505–6
 security of, 927
 of Solomon, 515–16, 636–37
 weapons, 425, 445, 480, 860, 1673, 1699
 sword, 470, 1204–5
 Weber, Max, 1884–85
 weddings, 1435–36

- of kings, 819–20
 wine at, 1524
- weeds, parable of, 1404
- Weeks, festival of. See Shavuot
- well, as meeting place, 43, 85
- well-being offerings, 145, 148, 173, 915
- Wellhausen, Julius, 1877
- “we” passages, 1557, 1559, 1588–89, 1596–98, 1606, 1609
- white, significance of, 1810, 1814
- whitewashing, 1419–20
- whore, 981, 1078–79
 vision of, 1825–26
- whoredom, 553–54
- wickedness, 788, 811
 of elders, 1192–93 fate of, 749–50, 752, 754–56, 761, 771–72
 of human beings, 20
 law and, 784
 punishment of, 792, 843–44
 righteousness compared to, 918, 938, 1054, 1066, 1068, 1342
 trust and, 841–42
- widow(s), 290–91, 924, 981, 1098, 1456, 1505
 in early Christian community, 1731 gift of, 1457, 1509
 son of, 528–29, 1482–83
- wife, allegory of unfaithful, 1194–96, 1275–79
- wild animals, 1225, 1350–51
- wilderness, 344, 1038
 Elijah in, 531–32
 food in, 850–51
 as honeymoon, 1278
 Jesus in, 1433–34
 John the Baptist in, 1432 of sea, 1007 testing of Israel in, 105–7 unfaithfulness as, 1277
- wilderness camp, 189 arrangement of, 191 protection laws for, 196
 purity laws for, 196
- wilderness traditions, 846–47
- wilderness wandering, 250–55, 1032 cloud on, 204 complaints in, 205 departure in, 205–6
 organization of, 205
 spies in, 209–11
 summary of, 240, 242–43
 tabernacle in, 206
- wild vine metaphor, 1193–94
- wind, 11, 96, 208, 773, 966, 997, 1155 dry bones and, 1228
 east, 1214
 power over, 1485
 shipwreck and, 1606–8 spirit as, 1362
 symbolism of, 1497
 theophanies and, 1561
- wine, 717, 1366; see also drunkenness blood related to, 1823–24 love like, 962
 at weddings, 1524
- wine presses, 371
- winnow, 929, 1388
- wisdom, 906, 908, 1667
 age related to, 767
 angel of, 474
 beauty of, 907
 benefits of, 909–10 from Christ, 1707
 death and, 952–53
 in Eden, 15–16
 folly and, 956–57 invitation of, 917
 of kings, 1110
 in Lamentations, 1169–70
 money and, 953–54 of mothers, 942–43
 origins of, 1771
 Paul on, 1640–41
 poems on, 762–63
 power and, 931, 1252–53
 prayer for, 1708
 protection of, 909
 righteousness and, 809
 self-revelation of, 915–17 of silence, 919
 of Solomon, 500–502, 504, 626, 916
 from speech, 1770
 sun as, 797 as wife of youth, 912
 as women, 912
- Wisdom
 creation and, 916
 as prophet, 908
- wisdom books, 729–33
- wisdom literature, 729; see also Sirach, Wisdom of Jesus Son of; Tobit, Book of
- Wisdom of Jesus Son of Sirach. See Sirach, Wisdom of Jesus Son of
- wise men (Magi), 1386–87
- wise ones (maskilim), 1249–50, 1272
- witnesses, 282, 754, 758, 1565, 1785 altar as, 354–55
 double, 1397, 1461, 1536, 1676 laws concerning, 278–79 to resurrection, 1658
 in Revelation, 1819
 in textual criticism, 1844
- wives, 84
 allegory of unfaithful wife, 1194–96, 1275–79 slaves compared to, 1698
- woes, 1400, 1481
 in Amos, 1308
 in Isaiah, 986, 994, 1004–5, 1015–20, 1022–23
- woman
 Canaanite, 1407
 God as, 306
- Jerusalem as personification as, 1049–50, 1164
- Samaritan, 1527–29
- Zion as personification as, 1047, 1052–53, 1060, 1120–22, 1330
- woman in basket, 1361
- woman of substance, 920, 922, 934, 943–44
- women, 278, 345, 370–71, 484, 562; see also adultery; barrenness; daughters; menstruation; widows; wives as apostles, 1635–36
 Canaanite, 1407
 in Christian community, 1589
 cities as, 1043
 at crucifixion, 1552
 dance of, 105, 382, 396
 as deacons, 1730
 demeanor of, 1729, 1737–38
 dissension between, 1705
 in early Christian church, 1652–53, 1657
 Elisha and, 551
 female captives, 284–85
 feminist biblical hermeneutics, 1887–88
 God as, 306
 hair of, 1652–53
 inheritance of, 3, 214, 231–32, 245–46, 346, 1076
 Jerusalem and, 697, 961, 963, 967, 984–85, 1049–50
 Jesus and, 1385, 1407, 1464, 1484, 1527–29, 1635–36
 Job and, 737
 laws about, 284–85
 Moabite, 229–30
 of priestly families, 153
 Proverbs related to, 906
 punishment of, 16
 in Revelation, 1820–21
 Samaritan, 1527–29
 sexual discharges of, 167–68
 sisters, 29, 33, 39, 84, 1206–8 subordination of, 1697–98, 1712
 at tomb, 1516, 1553–54
 Torah and, 704
 veiling of, 1652–53, 1667
 violence and, 1888
 vows by, 236
 as warrior, 943
 whores, 981, 1078–79, 1825–26
 wisdom as, 912
 Zion personification as, 1047, 1052–53, 1060, 1120–22, 1330
- Word (Logos), 1522, 1791
- words, 4, 951
 action and, 1769
 David’s last, 488–89, 498
 of God, 901, 1180–81
 play in, 1326–27
 of restoration, 1278–79

- work
 of apostles, 1717
 faith and, 1770
 refusal to, 1721, 1724
 of righteousness, 1743
 world order, 776–77, 1011 world(s), 1011, 1777, 1878 disciples into, 1548–49, 1554
 God to, 1692
 Greco-Roman, 1611–12
 holiness in, 1777
 justice in, 863–64
 underworld, 1221–22, 1231
 worldview, 909, 918, 946 worship of angels, 1710–11
 centralization of, 270–72, 630, 633 of emperors, 1595, 1806, 1821–22, 1907 exhortation to, 1754–55
 legitimacy of, 353–54
 by nations, 879
 purification of, 270–72
 regulations for, 112, 117
 of sun, 1187
 in Temple of Solomon, 615–16, 653, 661, 1238–39
 worshipers, 793 wrath, 855, 1114, 1344, 1349 day of, 919, 1349
 of God, 650, 1627–28, 1632, 1717, 1815 poem on, 1207–8
 revelation of, 1616–17
 time of, 858
 writing, 108, 1535, 1892
 apocalyptic, 1806–7
 in Aramaic, 1849–50
 in Hebrew, 1845, 1849, 1876 of official records, 682
 of prophecies, 1120, 1159
 of vision, 1263
 on wall, 1259–61
 Writings (“Ketubim”), 583, 1855
 Wycliffe, John, 1853
- X
 Xerxes I. See Ahasuerus
- Y
 Yahweh (YHYH), 462, 1267, 1472, 1894 yam suf (Sea of Reeds), 102; see also Red Sea yeast parable of, 1498
 sin as, 1644
 Yehud. See Judah
 YHWH. See Yahweh
 yoke, 1116–18, 1337
 Yom Kippur. See Day of Atonement; Jonah, Book of
- Z
 Zacchaeus, 1506
 Zadok, 410, 592, 604, 606, 608
 Zadokites, 1175, 1186, 1235, 1240
 Zealots, 1480
 Zebul, 378–79
 Zebulun, 349
 Zechariah (king), 562
 Zechariah (priest), 1469, 1471, 1473
 Zechariah (prophet), 654–56, 1420
 on Second Temple, 682
 visions in, 1204–5, 1357
 Zechariah, Book of, 1204–5, 1357–71
 Deutero-Zechariah, 1357
 Zechariah, Second, 974–75
 Zedekiah, 580, 658, 673, 1070, 1106–7, 1159 capture of, 1190–91
 death of, 1128
 Jeremiah and, 1117, 1133–34
 unfaithfulness of, 1197–98
 Zelophehad’s daughters, 214, 231–32, 245–46, 346
 Zephaniah, Book of, 1341, 1347–52
 Zerubbabel, 589, 1898
 Davidic dynasty in, 1353, 1356, 1360–62
 as leader of returnees, 678–79, 683, 696, 1353–54, 1356, 1363
 Zimri, 526–27
 Zion, 460, 821–22
 Daughter, 981, 985, 1043
 Jerusalem as, 54, 1164
 lamentation over, 1172
 new world order in, 1011
 as personification as woman, 1047, 1052–53, 1060, 1120–22, 1330
 purification of, 982–83
 restoration of, 865–66, 1011, 1031–33, 1046–51, 1063
 return to, 1025–26
 sovereignty in, 982, 1024, 1031
 Zion hymns, 820–24, 844, 852–54, 886–88, 891
 Zipporah, 208, 229
 Zophar, 745–46, 754–55, 759, 760–61

Acco			Beersheba
Temp.	Rain	in.	Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	13.56	17.8	7.0	Jan	12.25	5.0
Feb	14.57	11.4	4.8	Feb	12.54	4.1
Mar	16.60	4.4	1.8	Mar	12.54	1.6
Apr	16.64	3.3	1.3	Apr	15.84	1.3
May	21.73	0.3	0.3	May	21.73	0.3
Jun	23.74	-	-	Jun	24.79	-
Jul	26.79	-	-	Jul	26.79	-
Aug	26.79	-	-	Aug	26.79	-
Sep	25.77	0.3	0.1	Sep	24.79	-
Oct	22.73	3.1	1.2	Oct	22.73	0.5
Nov	19.67	8.6	3.4	Nov	18.69	2.6
Dec	15.59	16.3	6.4	Dec	13.59	5.2
Annual	20.68	65.7	25.8	Annual	18.67	22.4

Beth-shan			Damascus
Temp.	Rain	in.	Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	13.56	8.4	3.3	Jan	7.44	4.3
Feb	14.58	5.4	2.3	Feb	9.48	5.3
Mar	17.63	3.3	1.3	Mar	12.54	1.0
Apr	19.67	1.3	0.7	Apr	15.64	1.3
May	24.76	0.1	0.1	May	21.70	0.5
Jun	26.84	-	-	Jun	24.76	-
Jul	28.84	-	-	Jul	28.83	-
Aug	26.86	-	-	Aug	24.76	1.8
Sep	26.78	1.8	0.7	Sep	21.70	1.0
Oct	22.76	2.8	1.1	Oct	19.67	4.1
Nov	19.59	7.8	2.8	Nov	14.49	4.1
Dec	15.59	16.3	6.4	Dec	11.49	1.6
Annual	20.72	31.3	12.3	Annual	18.64	23.4

Gaza			Hebron
Temp.	Rain	in.	Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	13.56	8.4	3.7	Jan	14.58	6.8
Feb	14.57	8.6	2.6	Feb	-	11.4
Mar	16.60	3.4	1.4	Mar	-	6.8
Apr	18.64	1.8	0.7	Apr	-	3.8
May	21.70	0.3	0.1	May	-	0.5
Jun	24.79	-	-	Jun	-	-
Jul	26.78	-	-	Jul	-	-
Aug	26.78	-	-	Aug	-	-
Sep	25.77	-	-	Sep	-	0.3
Oct	22.73	1.8	0.7	Oct	-	1.0
Nov	19.67	5.6	2.2	Nov	-	5.3
Dec	15.60	9.3	3.9	Dec	-	11.7
Annual	20.68	38.9	15.3	Annual	-	54.9

Jenin			Jericho
Temp.	Rain	in.	Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	13.54	13.7	5.4	Jan	15.59	3.8
Feb	15.59	10.2	4.0	Feb	16.60	3.2
Mar	14.58	4.8	1.8	Mar	17.63	1.8
Apr	16.60	2.8	1.1	Apr	21.73	0.3
May	23.73	0.3	0.1	May	27.81	0.3
Jun	26.78	-	-	Jun	26.78	-
Jul	26.80	-	-	Jul	26.80	-
Aug	26.80	-	-	Aug	26.80	-
Sep	25.77	-	-	Sep	25.77	-
Oct	23.74	2.0	0.8	Oct	22.80	0.3
Nov	19.67	4.8	1.8	Nov	17.63	5.6
Dec	14.57	10.7	4.2	Dec	11.62	3.8
Annual	20.68	48.9	19.2	Annual	18.64	31.4

Jerusalem
Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	9.48	15.8
Feb	9.48	13.7
Mar	12.54	7.4
Apr	16.60	3.6
May	21.70	0.3
Jun	23.74	-
Jul	23.74	-
Aug	22.72	-
Sep	22.72	0.3
Oct	22.72	0.3
Nov	17.63	5.6
Dec	11.62	11.7
Annual	17.63	58.9

Jezzein
Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	7.45	24.1
Feb	7.45	19.2
Mar	11.51	28.1
Apr	15.59	16.5
May	19.66	10.4
Jun	22.71	0.5
Jul	22.72	-
Aug	22.72	-
Sep	22.72	-
Oct	18.65	0.3
Nov	15.67	3.8
Dec	9.48	15.5
Annual	16.60	158.8

Lydda
Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	9.48	14.2
Feb	-	10.7
Mar	-	4.8
Apr	-	2.3
May	-	0.3
Jun	-	-
Jul	-	-
Aug	-	-
Sep	-	0.3
Oct	-	2.0
Nov	-	6.1
Dec	-	10.4
Annual	-	50.8

Netanya
Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	13.56	12.7
Feb	13.56	10.7
Mar	14.58	3.8
Apr	17.63	3.6
May	21.89	-
Jun	23.73	-
Jul	26.77	-
Aug	26.78	-
Sep	24.79	0.3
Oct	22.73	2.0
Nov	19.66	6.1
Dec	14.58	10.4
Annual	18.67	47.2

Safed
Temp.	Rain	in.
Jan	7.45	18.8
Feb	8.48	15.7
Mar	11.51	8.5
Apr	14.57	4.3
May	20.96	2.0
Jun	23.74	-
Jul	23.74	-
Aug	22.71	-
Sep	22.71	-
Oct	19.67	2.0
Nov	15.59	6.9
Dec	9.48	15.5
Annual	16.61	74.2

Route reflected in the story of Abraham

0 100 200 Miles
0 100 200 Kilometres

GAD, etc.
EDOM, etc.

Tribes of Israel said to have settled in Transjordan
Kingdoms said to have been encountered by the Israelites at the time of the settlement

Cities mentioned in Numbers and Deuteronomy, but not in Genesis Possible location of the cities of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zebioim, and Zoar in the Valley of Siddim

A S I A M I N O R

Cyprus

T H E G R E A T S E A

Western Desert

River Nile

G O S H E N

Wilderness of Sin

S I N A I

Arabian Desert

Gulf of Aqaba

M I D D I A N

Red Sea

- Possible route reflected in the Exodus story
- - - Possible alternative routes
- ⋯⋯⋯ Line of border fortresses

ASHER, etc. Tribes of Israel
● Cities of refuge
■ Philistine Cities

0 5 10 15 Miles
0 5 10 15 Kilometres

THE GREAT SEA

The Negeb

Sea of the Arabah
(The Salt Sea)

Approximate line of principal trade routes

0 100 200 Miles

0 100 200 Kilometres

--- Approximate extent of Assyrian domination in the latter part of the 8th century. (Later, under Esarhaddon (680-669), Assyria conquered Egypt.)

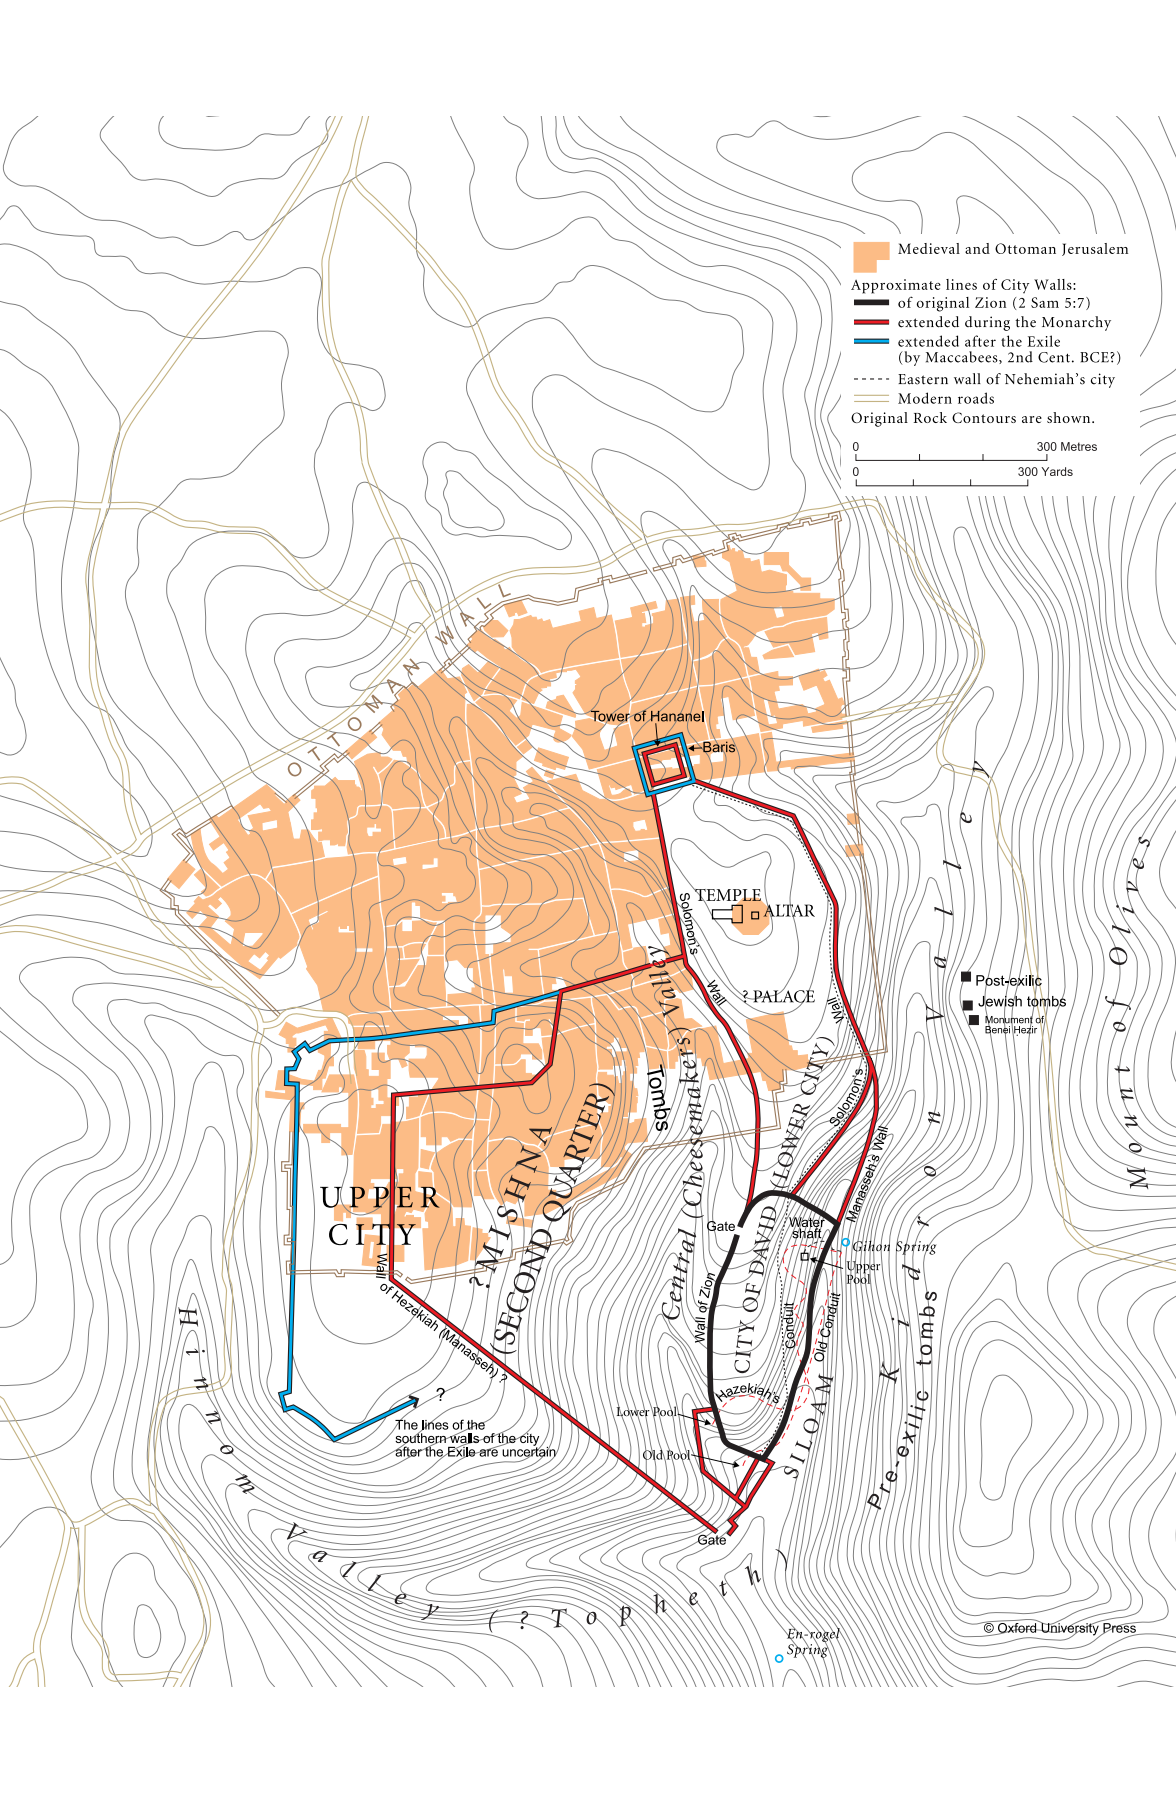

--- Approximate greatest extent of Babylonian domination.
 (The Halys river marked the border of the Median and Lydian Empires after the Battle of the Eclipse in 585 B.C.)

© Oxford University Press

Medieval and Ottoman Jerusalem

Approximate lines of City Walls:
— of original Zion (2 Sam 5:7)
— extended during the Monarchy
— extended after the Exile (by Maccabees, 2nd Cent. BCE?)
- - - Eastern wall of Nehemiah's city
— Modern roads

Original Rock Contours are shown.

Tower of Hananel
← Baris

TEMPLE
ALTAR

Palace

UPPER CITY

MISHNA
(SECOND QUARTER)

CITY OF DAVID (LOWER CITY)

Water shaft
Gihon Spring
Upper Pool

Lower Pool
Old Pool

SILOAM
Old Conduit

Hinnom Valley (? Topheth)

Mount of Olives
Kidron Valley
Pre-exilic tombs

Post-exilic
Jewish tombs
Monument of Ben-Hai

The lines of the southern walls of the city after the Exile are uncertain

- - - - - Political boundaries CE 6-34
 ● Places mentioned in the New Testament
 ▲ Cities of the Decapolis
 ▲ Cities of the Decapolis mentioned in the New Testament ■ Fortresses

0 5 10 Miles
 0 5 10 Kilometres

MEDITERRANEAN SEA

INDUMEA

TETRARCHY

PHOENICIA
 SYRIA
 GALILEE
 SAMARIA JUDAEA
 PERSIA
 ARABIA
 Nabataean Kingdom

(under Roman administration)
 Decapolis

Asphaltitis (Dead Sea)

INDUMEA

PHILIP

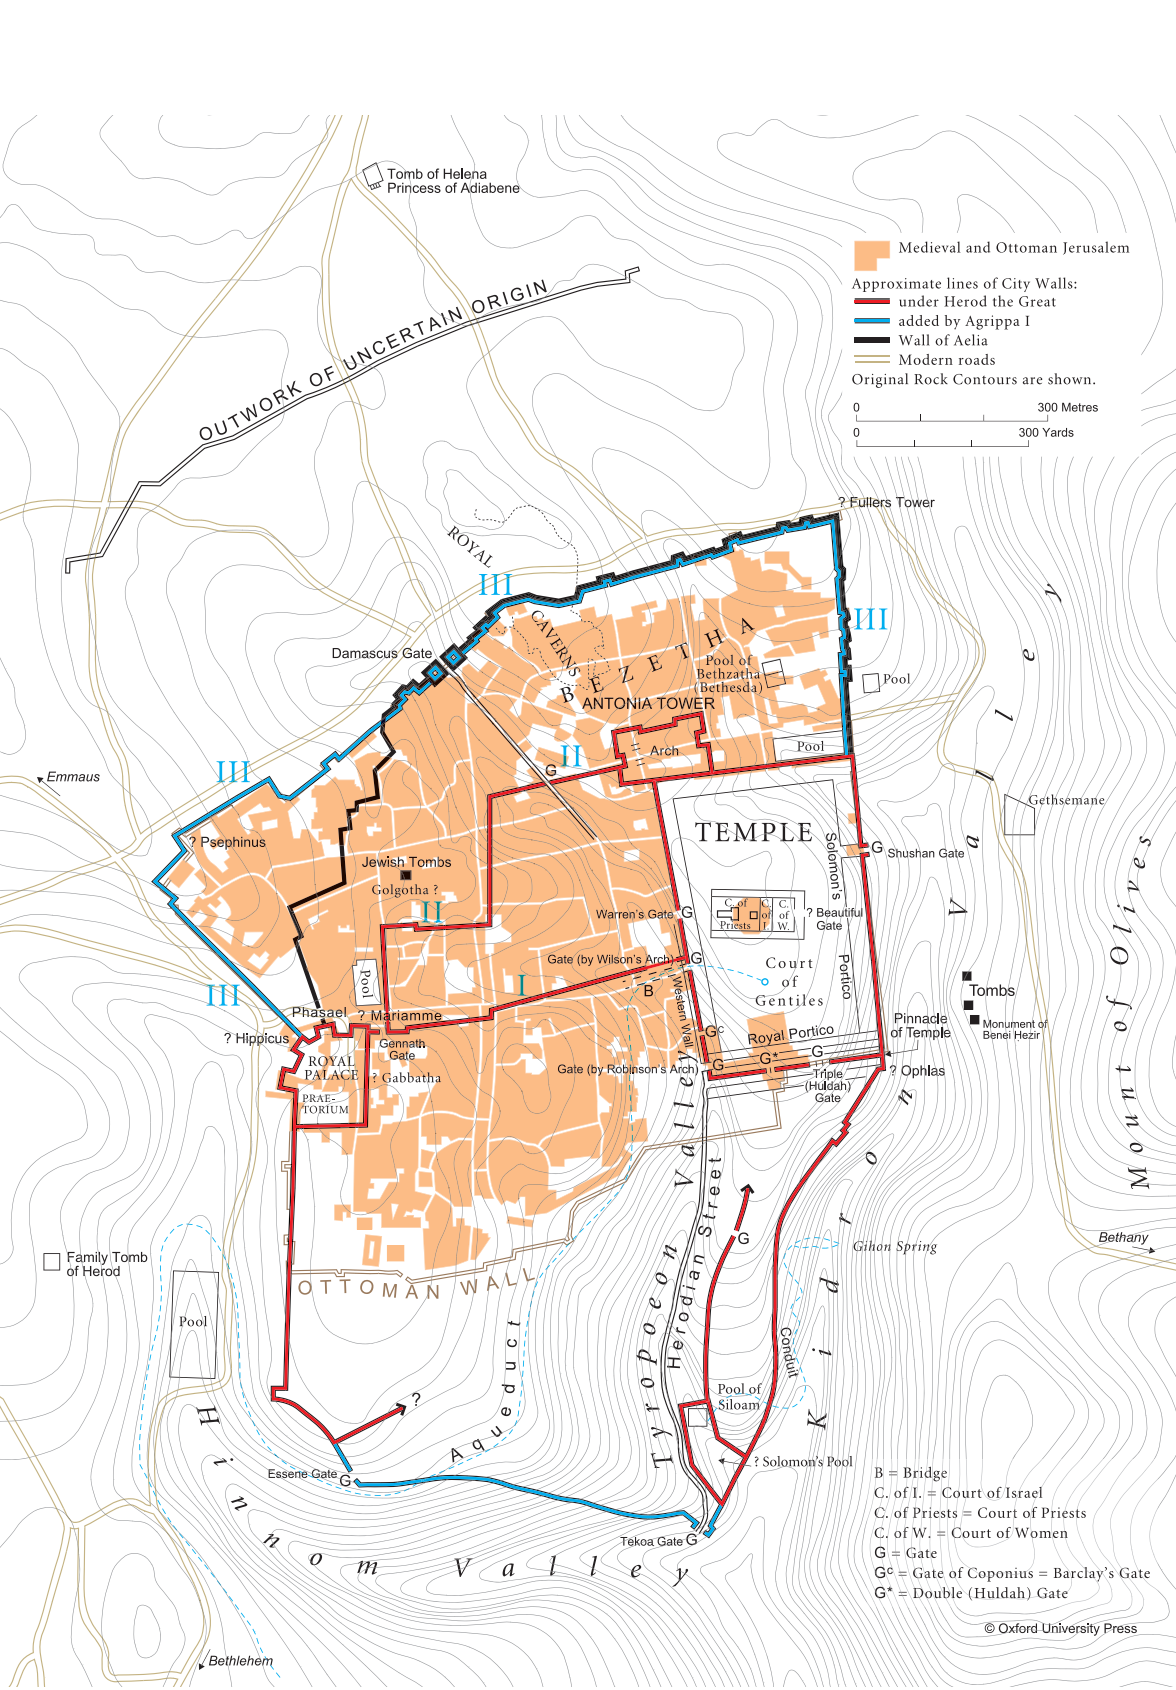

PHILIP

PHILIP

PHILIP

INDUMEA

Tomb of Helena
Princess of Adiabene

OUTWORK OF UNCERTAIN ORIGIN

Medieval and Ottoman Jerusalem

Approximate lines of City Walls:
 under Herod the Great added by Agrippa I Wall of Aelia
 Modern roads
 Original Rock Contours are shown.

0 300 Metres
 0 300 Yards

? Fullers Tower

ROYAL CAVERNS

BEZETHA
ANTONIA TOWER

Damascus Gate

Pool of Bethesda (Bethesda)

Pool

Arch

Pool

Emmas

? Psephinus

Jewish Tombs
Golgotha?

TEMPLE

C. of Priests
C. of W.

? Beautiful Gate

Gethsemane

Warren's Gate

Court of Gentiles

Solomon's Gate

Tombs
Monument of Beni Hezir

Gate (by Wilson's Arch)

Royal Portico

Portico

Pinnacle of Temple

Phasael
? Hippicus

? Marianne
Gennath Gate
? Gabbatha

ROYAL PALACE
PRAE-TORTUM

Gate (by Robinson's Arch)

Triple (Huldah) Gate

Gate

? Ophlas

Family Tomb of Herod

Pool

OTTOMAN WALL

Aqueduct

Tyropoeon Valley
Herodian Street

Pool of Siloam

Gihon Spring

? Solomon's Pool

Bethany

Bethlehem

Tekoa Gate

Western Wall

Mount of Olives

- - - - - Boundaries of Provinces of Roman Empire CE 65
 ASIA, etc. Roman Provinces
 ★ 'Seven Churches' of Asia (Rev. 1-3)
 - - - - - Selected Roman routes

0 50 100 Miles
 0 50 100 Kilometres

T. = Tell (mound, city site)
 Kh. = Khirbet (ruin)

T. Tell (Arabic), Tel (Hebrew): mound; city site
 Kh. Khirbet (Arabic): ruin
 W. Wadi: watercourse
 Biblical names, when known, are given first and Arabic names are then bracketed.
 Hebrew names, when given, follow the Arabic name.

